16 1 <In the seventeenth year of Pekah son of Remaliah> began Ahaz son of Jotham king of Judah to reign. 2 <Twenty years old> was Ahaz when he began to reign, and <sixteen years> reigned he in Jerusalem. And he did not' that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh his God, like David his father; 3 but walked in the way of the kings of Israel,—|moreover also| he made ‖his son‖ pass through the fire, according to the abominable practices of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel; 4 and he offered sacrifice and burned incense in the high places, and on the hills,—and under every green tree. 5 ‖Then‖ came up Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, unto Jerusalem, to make war,—and they laid siege against Ahaz, but could not overcome 'him]. 6 <At that time> Rezin king of Syria recovered Elath, to Syria,[a] and wholly cleared out the Jews from Eloth,[b]—and ‖the Syrians‖[c] entered Elath, and have dwelt there, unto this day. 7 So Ahaz sent messengers unto Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, saying,

<Thy servant and thy son> I am',—
Come up and save me, out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Israel, who are rising up against me.

8 And Ahaz took the silver and the gold that was found in the house[d] of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king,—and sent them to the king of Assyria, |as a bribe.| 9 So the king of Assyria hearkened unto him, and the king of Assyria came up unto Damascus, and seized it, and carried away the people thereof captive[e] to Kir,—and put ‖Rezin‖ to death.

10 So then King Ahaz went to meet Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, in Damascus, and saw the[f] altar which was in Damascus,—and King Ahaz sent unto Urijah the priest, a likeness of the altar, and a model thereof, according to all the workmanship thereof; 11 and Urijah the priest built an altar,—<according to all that King Ahaz sent from Damascus> ‖so‖ did Urijah the priest make it, by the time King Ahaz came from Damascus. 12 And <when the king came from Damascus> then the king saw the altar,—so the king drew near unto the altar, and caused [offerings] to ascend thereupon. 13 And he made perfume with his ascending-sacrifice, and with his meal-offering, and poured out his drink-offering,—and dashed the blood of the peace-offerings which he had upon the altar. 14 And <the altar of bronze which was before Yahweh> he brought away from the forefront of the house, from between the altar and the house of Yahweh,—and put it at the side of the altar northward. 15 And King Ahaz commanded Urijah the priest, saying—

<Upon the great altar> make thou perfume with the ascending-sacrifice of the morning, and with the meal-offering of the evening, and with the ascending-sacrifice of the king and with his meal-offering, and with the ascending-sacrifice of all the people of the land, and their meal-offering and their drink-offering, and <all the blood of the ascending-offering, and all the blood of the [peace] offering> ‖thereupon‖ shalt thou dash,—but ‖the altar of bronze‖ shall be for me to inquire [into].

16 So Urijah the priest did according to all that King Ahaz commanded. 17 And King Ahaz cut off the side walls of the stands, and took away from off them the laver, and <the sea> took he down from off the oxen of bronze, which were under it,—and set it on a pavement of stones. 18 Also <the covered walk for the Sabbath, which they had built in the house, and the outer entrance for the king> he changed[a] in the house of Yahweh,—because of the king of Assyria.

19 Now <the rest of the story of Ahaz, what[b] he did> is |it| not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 20 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and |Hezekiah[c] his son| reigned |in his stead|.

§ 23. Hoshea reigns over Israel, and becomes tributory to Shalmaneser king of Assyria, who besieges Samaria and carries Israel into Captivity.

17 1 <In the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah> began Hoshea son of Elah to reign in Samaria, over Israel, [and he reigned] nine years. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—|only| not like the kings of Israel who were before him. 3 ‖Against him‖ came up Shalmaneser king of Assyria,—and Hoshea became his servant, and rendered him a present. 4 Then found the king of Assyria, in Hoshea, a conspiracy, in that he had sent messengers unto So[a] king of Egypt, and had not brought up a present to the king of Assyria, as [he had done] year by year,—therefore the king of Assyria shut him up, and bound him in prison. 5 And the king of Assyria came up throughout all the land,—yea he came up to Samaria and besieged it three years. 6 <In the ninth year of Hoshea> did the king of Assyria capture Samaria, and carried Israel away captive to Assyria,—and settled them in Halah,[b] and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and the mountains[c] of Media.

7 And thus it came to pass that Israel sinned against Yahweh their God, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt,—yea they did reverence to other gods; 8 and walked in the statutes of the nations, whom Yahweh had dispossessed from before the sons of Israel,—and [in the statutes] of the kings of Israel, |which they had made|. 9 And the sons of Israel did |secretly| things which were not right, against Yahweh their God,—and built for themselves high places in all their cities, from the watchmen's tower to the fortified city. 10 And they set up for themselves pillars and Sacred Stems,[d] upon every high hill, and under every green tree; 11 and burned incense there, in all the high places, like the nations whom Yahweh drave out from before them,—and did things that were wicked, so as to provoke Yahweh to anger; 12 and they served the manufactured gods,[e] as to which Yahweh had said to them,

Ye shall not do this thing.

13 And Yahweh testified against Israel and against Judah, through[f] all his prophets—every one who had a vision,[g] saying—

Turn ye from your wicked ways,
And keep my commandments, my statutes,[h]
According to all the law' which I commanded your fathers;
And which I sent unto you' through[f] my servants the prophets.

14 Howbeit they hearkened not,—but stiffened their neck, like the neck of their fathers, who trusted not in Yahweh their God; 15 but rejected his statutes, and his covenant, which he solemnised with their fathers, and his testimonies wherewith he testified against them, — and followed vanity,[i] and became vain, and followed the nations that were round about them, as to whom Yahweh charged them', so that they should not do like them. 16 But they forsook all the commandments of Yahweh their God, and made for themselves something molten—two calves, and made a Sacred Stem,[a] and bowed themselves down to all the army of the heavens, and served Baal; 17 and made their sons and their daughters pass through the fire, and used divinations and enchantments, and sold the mselves to do the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking him to wrath. 18 So Yahweh shewed himself exceeding angry with Israel, and removed them from his presence,—there was none left, save the tribe of Judah |alone|. 19 ‖Even Judah‖ kept not the commandments of Yahweh their God, — but walked in the statutes of Israel, |which they had made|. 20 So Yahweh rejected all the seed of Israel, and humiliated them, and delivered them into the hand of spoilers,—until he had cast them out from his presence; 21 for he rent Israel away from the house of David, and they made Jeroboam son of Nebat, king,—and Jeroboam thrust away Israel from following Yahweh, and caused them to commit a great sin. 22 And the sons of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he had committed, — they turned not away therefrom; 23 until that Yahweh removed Israel from his presence, according as he spake through[b] all his servants the prophets,—and so Israel was driven away from off their own soil, to Assyria, until this day.

24 And the king of Assyria brought [men] from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Avvah, and from Hamath, and [from] Sepharvaim,[c] and caused them to dwell in the cities of Samaria, instead of the sons of Israel,—so they took possession of Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof. 25 And so it was, that <when they first dwelt there> they revered not Yahweh,—therefore Yahweh sent among them lions, which were slaying them. 26 Therefore spake they unto the king of Assyria, saying,

‖The nations whom thou hast removed and settled in the cities of Samaria‖ know not the custom of the God of the land,—and he hath sent among them lions, and lo! they are slaying them, because they know not the custom of the God of the land.

27 So the king of Assyria commanded, saying—

Carry thither, one of the priests, whom ye brought away captive from thence, that they may go, and dwell there,—and teach them the custom of the God of the land.

28 Then came one of the priests whom they had carried away captive from Samaria, and dwelt in Bethel, — and he began teaching them' how they should do reverence unto Yahweh. 29 Howbeit the nations severally were making their own gods, —and did put them in the houses of the high places, which |the Samaritans| had made, ‖each several nation‖

in their cities wherein |they| were dwelling.
30 So then ‖the men of Babylon‖ made Succothbenoth,[a] and ‖the men of Cuth‖ made Nergal, and ‖the men of Hamath‖ made Ashima:
31 and ‖the Avvites‖ made Nibhaz and Tartak, and ‖the Sepharvites‖ did consume their sons in the fire, to Adrammelech and Anammelech gods of Sepharvaim. 32 Thus became they reverers of Yahweh,—and yet made for themselves, from the whole compass of them, priests of high places, who became offerers for them in the house of the high places. 33 <Yahweh> were they revering,—and yet <their own gods> were they serving, according to the custom of the nations' from whence they had brought them away captive. 34 ‖Unto this day‖ are they offering according to the former customs,—they are not revering Yahweh, neither are they offering after their own statutes, or their own custom, nor yet after the law and the commandment which Yahweh commanded the sons of Jacob,
Whose name he made to be Israel:
35 With ‖whom‖ Yahweh solemnised a covenant, and commanded them, saying—Ye shall not revere other gods,— nor bow down to them,
nor serve them,
nor sacrifice to them;
36 But <Yahweh—
Who brought you up out of the land of Egypt, with great might, and with arm outstretched> ‖Him‖ shall ye revere,—and
‖To him‖ shall ye bow down, and
‖To him‖ shall ye sacrifice;
37 And <the statutes and the regulations, and the law and the commandment, which he wrote for you> shall ye surely observe to do, |continually|,[b]—
So shall ye not revere other gods;
38 But <the covenant which I have solemnised with you> shall ye not forget,—
‖So shall ye not revere other gods‖;
39 But <Yahweh your God> shall ye revere,—
Then will ‖he‖ deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.
40 Howbeit they hearkened not,—but <according to their own former custom> were they offering.
41 Thus were these nations doing reverence unto Yahweh, and yet <unto their own carved images>[c] were they rendering service, —yea <their sons and their son's sons> ‖as the fathers offered‖ so are ‖they‖ offering until this day.

§ 26. Hezekiah reigns over Judah: the Invasion of Sennacherib: Hezekiah's Sickness and Recovery: Visitors and Presents from Babylon: Isaiah's Denunciation.

18 1 And it came to pass <in the third year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel> that Hezekiah[a] son of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.
2 <Twenty-five years old> was he when he began to reign, and <twenty-nine years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ‖his mother's name‖ was Abi,[b] daughter of Zachariah. 3 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,— according to all that |David his father| did.
4 ‖He‖ removed the high places, and brake in pieces the pillars, and cut down the Sacred Stem,—[c] and beat in pieces the serpent of bronze that |Moses| had made, because <until those days> had the sons of Israel been burning incense[d] thereunto, so he called it Nehush-tan.[e] 5 <In Yahweh, God of Israel> did he trust,—so that ‖after him‖ was none like him, among all the kings of Judah, nor that were before him; 6 and he did cleave unto Yahweh, he turned not[f] away from following him,—but kept his commandments, which |Yahweh| commanded |Moses|. 7 So Yahweh was with him, <whithersoever he went forth> he prospered,—and he rebelled against the king of Assyria, and served him not.
8 ‖He‖ smote the Philistines, as far as Gazah, and her boundaries,—from the watchmen's tower even to the fortified city.
9 And it came to pass <in the fourth year of King Hezekiah—‖the same‖ was the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel> that Shalmaneser king of Assyria came up against Samaria, and laid siege against it;
10 and he[g] captured it at the end of three years, <in the sixth year of Hezekiah,—‖the same‖ is the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel> was Samaria captured. 11 So the king of Assyria drave away Israel to Assyria,—and settled them in Halah,[h] and in Habor, by the river of Gozan, and the mountains[i] of Media: 12 because they hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh their God, but transgressed his covenant, all that Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded,
—they neither hearkened nor performed.
13 And <in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah> came up Sennacherib king of Assyria against all the fortified cities of Judah, and took them. 14 Then sent Hezekiah king of Judah unto the king of Assyria, to Lachish, saying—
I have sinned,
Return from me,
<What thou shalt lay upon me> I will bear.
So the king of Assyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah, three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold. 15 And Hezekiah delivered up all the silver that was found in the house of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king. 16 <At that time> Hezekiah cut off the doors of the temple of Yahweh, and the columns, which Hezekiah king of Judah had overlaid,—and gave them unto the king of Assyria.

17 And the king of Assyria sent Tartan and Rab-saris and Rab-shakeh, from Lachish unto King Hezekiah, with a heavy force to Jerusalem, —so they came up and drew near to Jerusalem, and took their stand[a] by the upper channel of the pool, which is in the highway of the fuller's field. 18 Then called they for the king, and there went out unto them Eliakim son of Hilkiah,[b] who was over the household,—and Shebnah, the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder. 19 And Rab-shakeh said unto them—

Pray you, say unto Hezekiah,—

‖Thus‖ saith the great king, the king of Assyria,

What trust is this' wherewith thou dost trust?

20 Thou hast said—they are only words of the lips!—

Counsel and might [have I] for the war.

‖Now‖ in whom' dost thou trust, that thou hast rebelled against me?

21 ‖Now‖ lo! thou dost trust thyself on the support of this bruised cane, ‖on Egypt‖, whereon <if a man lean> it will enter his hand and lay it open,—‖so‖ is Pharaoh king of Egypt, to all who trust upon him.

22 But <if ye should say unto me,

‖In Yahweh our God‖ do we trust>

Then is that' not he' whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah hath removed, and said unto Judah, and unto Jerusalem—

<Before this altar> shall ye bow down, |in Jerusalem|?

23 ‖Now‖ therefore, pledge thyself, I pray thee, with my lord, the king of Assyria,—

That I supply thee with two thousand horses,

If thou, on thy part, be able to set riders upon them.

24 How then wilt thou turn back the face of one pasha of the least of my lord's servants?

Or hast thou, on thy part, trusted to Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?

25 ‖Now‖[c] is it ‖without Yahweh‖ that I have come up against this place, to destroy it?

‖Yahweh himself‖ said unto me,

Go thou up against this land, and destroy it.

26 Then said Eliakim son of Hilkiah, and Shebnah, and Joah, unto Rab-shakeh:

Speak, we pray thee, unto thy servants in the |Syrian| language, for ‖we‖ can |understand| it,[a]—

And do not speak with us in |the Jews'| language, in the ears of the people who are upon the wall.

27 But Rab-shakeh said unto them—

Is it ‖concerning thy lord, and concerning thee‖ that my lord hath sent me to speak these things?

Is it not concerning the men who are tarrying upon the wall, that they may eat their own dung and drink their own water[b] with you?

28 So then Rab-shakeh took his stand, and cried out with a loud voice, in |the Jews'| language,—and spake, and said,

Hear ye the message[c] of the great king, the king of Assyria:—

29 ‖Thus‖ saith the king:

Let not Hezekiah deceive you,[d] for he shall not be able to deliver you out of his[e] hand;

30 Neither let Hezekiah cause you to trust in Yahweh, saying,

|Yahweh| will ‖certainly deliver‖ us,—this city, therefore, shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Assyria.

31 Do not hearken unto Hezekiah,—for ‖thus‖ saith the king of Assyria,

Deal with me thankfully,[f] and come out unto me,

Then shall ye eat—

Every one of his own vine,

And every one of his own fig-tree,

And drink every one the waters of his own cistern;

32 Until I come and take you, into a land like your own land—

A land of corn and new wine,

A land of bread and vineyards,

A land of oil olive and honey,

So shall ye live, and not die,—

But do not hearken unto Hezekiah,

For he would persuade you, saying,

‖Yahweh‖ will deliver us!

33 Have |the gods of the nations| ‖at all delivered‖ any one of them, his country, out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

34 Where' are the gods of Hamath, and Arpad?

Where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivvah?

Yea, did they deliver Samaria' out of my hand?

35 Who are they, among all the gods of the countries, that have delivered their country, out of my hand,—

That |Yahweh| should deliver |Jerusalem| out of my hand?

36 But the people held their peace, and answered him not a word,—for <the command of the king> it was, saying—
Ye must not answer him.

37 Then came in Eliakim son of Hilkiah who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah, with rent clothes,—and they told him the words of Rab-shakeh.

19 1 And it came to pass <when King Hezekiah heard> that he rent his clothes,—and covered himself with sackcloth, and entered the house of Yahweh; 2 and sent Eliakim who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth,—unto Isaiah[a] the prophet, son of Amoz; 3 and they said unto him—
‖Thus‖ saith Hezekiah,
<A day of trouble, and rebuke, and reviling> is this day,—
For children are come to the birth, and ‖strength‖ is there none' to bring forth!
4 It may be that Yahweh thy God will hear' all[b] the words of Rab-shakeh, whom the king of Assyria his lord hath sent, to reproach a Living God, and will rebuke the words, which Yahweh thy God hath heard,— Wherefore lift thou up a prayer, for the remnant that remaineth.

5 So the servants of King Hezekiah came unto Isaiah. 6 And Isaiah said unto them,
‖Thus‖ shall ye |say| unto your lord,—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Be not thou afraid, because of the words which thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled |me|:
7 Behold me! about to let go against him |a blast|,[c] and <when he heareth the report> then will he return to his own country,—and I will cause him to fall by the sword, in his own land.
8 So Rab-shakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah,—for he had heard that he had broken up from Lachish.
9 And when he heard say of Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, saying,
Lo! he hath come forth to fight with thee,—then he again' sent messengers unto Hezekiah, saying—
10 ‖Thus‖ shall ye |speak| unto Hezekiah king of Judah, saying—
Let not thy God in whom thou' art trusting beguile thee, saying,— Jerusalem shall not be given over, into the hand of the king of Assyria.
11 Lo! ‖thou thyself‖ hast heard, what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands, in devoting them to destruction,—and shalt ‖thou‖ be delivered?
12 Did the gods of the nations |deliver them| whom my fathers destroyed, Gozan, and Haran,—and Rezeph, and the sons of Eden, who were in Telassar?
13 Where are the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim,—of Hena, and Ivvah?
14 And <when Hezekiah had received the letter at the hand of the messengers, and had read it> then went he up to the house of Yahweh, and Hezekiah spread it out before Yahweh. 15 And Hezekiah prayed before Yahweh, and said,
O Yahweh, God of Israel, inhabiting the cherubim,
‖Thou thyself‖ art GOD, |alone|, for all the kingdoms of the earth,—
‖Thou‖ didst make' the heavens and the earth.
16 Bow down, O Yahweh, thine ear, and hear,
Open, O Yahweh, thine eyes, and see,—
Yea hear thou the words[a] of Sennacherib, who hath sent——To reproach a Living God!
17 ‖Of a truth‖ O Yahweh,—the kings of Assyria have devoted to destruction' the nations and their lands;[b] 18 and have put their gods in the fire,—for <no-gods> were |they|, but the work of the hands of men—wood and stone, and so they destroyed them.
19 ‖Now‖ therefore, O Yahweh our God, save us, we pray thee, out of his hand,
That all the kingdoms of the earth may know,
That ‖thou, Yahweh‖ art God, |alone|!
20 Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent unto Hezekiah, saying,—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
<What thou hast prayed unto me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria> I have heard. 21 ‖This‖ is the word that Yahweh hath spoken concerning him,—
The virgin daughter of Zion |laugheth thee to scorn, mocketh thee|,
The daughter of Jerusalem ‖after thee‖ |doth wag her head|.
22 ‖Whom‖ hast thou reproached, and insulted?
And ‖against whom‖ hast thou lifted high thy voice?
Yea thou hast proudly raised thine eyes, ‖against the Holy One of Israel‖.
23 ‖Through thy messengers‖ thou hast reproached My Lord,[c] and hast said—

Take root downward,
And bear fruit upward;
31 For <out of Jerusalem> shall go forth a remnant,
And that which hath escaped—|out of Mount Zion|,—
||The jealousy of Yahweh of hosts||[e] will perform this.

32 Therefore—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh, concerning the king of Assyria,
He shall not enter this city,
Nor shoot there an arrow,—
Nor attack it with shield,
Nor cast up against it a mound;
33 <By the way that he cometh in>
||By the same|| shall he return,—
And ||into this city|| shall he not enter,
Declareth Yahweh!
34 Thus will I throw a covering over this city, to save it,—
For mine own sake,
And for the sake of David my servant.

35 And it came to pass <during that night> that the messenger of Yahweh went forth, and smote, in the camp of the Assyrians, a hundred and eighty-five thousand. And <when men arose early in the morning> lo! they were all |dead bodies|! 36 So Sennacherib king of Assyria brake up, and went his way, and returned,—and remained in Nineveh. 37 And it came to pass <as he was bowing down in the house of Nisroch his god> that ||Adrammelech[a] and Sharezer [his sons]||[b] smote him with the sword, howbeit ||they|| escaped into the land of Ararat,—and |Esarhaddon his son| reigned |in his stead|.

20 1 <In those days> was Hezekiah sick, unto death,—and Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, came unto him, and said unto him—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh,
Set in order thy house, for ||about to die|| thou |art|, and shalt not recover.
2 Then he[c] turned his face unto the wall,—and prayed unto Yahweh, saying:
3 I beseech thee, O Yahweh, remember, I pray thee, how I have walked[d] before thee, in truth, and with a whole heart, and <that which is good in thine eyes> have I done!
And Hezekiah wept aloud.[e]
4 And it came to pass that Isaiah <had not gone out into the middle court>[f] when the word of Yahweh came unto him, saying:
5 Return, and thou shalt say unto Hezekiah the leader of my people—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh,
God of David thy father,
I have heard thy prayer,
I have seen thy tears,—
Behold me! about to heal thee,

<On the third day> shalt thou go up unto the house of Yahweh;
6 And I will add unto thy days, fifteen years,
And <out of the hand of the king of Assyria> will I deliver thee, and this city,—
And will throw a covering over this city,
For my own sake,
And for the sake of David my servant.
7 And Isaiah said—
Take ye a cake of figs.
So they took and laid it upon the boil, and he recovered. 8 Now Hezekiah had said unto Isaiah,
What sign is there, that Yahweh will heal me,—and that I shall go up on the third day, to the house of Yahweh?
9 And Isaiah said—
‖This' unto thee‖ is the sign from Yahweh, that Yahweh will do the thing which he hath spoken,—
The shadow hath gone forward ten steps, shall it return ten steps?
10 And Hezekiah[a] said—
It is |a light thing| for the shadow, to decline
ten steps,—
Nay, but let the shadow go back' ten steps.
11 And Isaiah the prophet cried unto Yahweh,— and he caused the shadow on the steps by which it had gone down on the steps of Ahaz to go back, ten steps.

12 <At that time> Berodach[b]-baladan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present, unto Hezekiah,—for he had heard' that Hezekiah had been sick. 13 And Hezekiah hearkened unto them,[c] and shewed them all[d] his house of precious things—the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and his[e] armoury, and all that was found among his treasures,—there was |nothing| that Hezekiah shewed them not, in his house or in all his dominion. 14 Then came Isaiah the prophet unto King Hezekiah,—and said unto him—
What said these men, and from whence came they unto thee?
And Hezekiah said,
<From a land far off> came they[f]—from Babylon.
15 And he said—
What have they seen in thy house?
Then said Hezekiah—
<All that is in my house> have they seen, there was |nothing| that I shewed them not, among my treasures.
16 Then said Isaiah unto Hezekiah,—
Hear thou the word of Yahweh:
17 Lo! days' are coming, when all that is in thine house, and that thy fathers have treasured up, unto this day, shall be carried into Babylon,—nothing shall be left, saith Yahweh; 18 and <of thy sons who shall issue from thee, whom thou shalt beget> shall they[a] take away,— and they shall become eunuchs, in the palace of the king of Babylon.
19 And Hezekiah said unto Isaiah—
|Good| is the word of Yahweh, which thou hast spoken.
And he said—
Is it not, that <peace and stability> there shall be in my days?
20 Now <the rest of the story of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made a pool and an aqueduct, and brought water into the city> are ‖they‖ not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 21 So
Hezekiah slept with his fathers,—and |Manasseh his son| reigned |in his stead|.

§ 27. Manasseh's wicked Reign over Judah: Judgments threatened.

21 1 <Twelve years old> was Manasseh when he began to reign, and <fifty-five years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and the name of his mother was Hephzibah. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—after the abominable practices of the nations, whom Yahweh had dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. 3 He again' built the high places, which Hezekiah his father had destroyed,—and reared altars to Baal, and made a Sacred Stem,[b] as did Ahab, king of Israel, and bowed down to all the army of the heavens, and served them.
4 And he used to build altars in the house of Yahweh, — concerning which Yahweh had said,—
‖In Jerusalem‖ will I put my Name.
5 And he built altars to all the army of the heavens,—in the two courts of the house of Yahweh; 6 and caused his son to pass through the fire, and practised hidden arts and used divination, and dealt with[c] a familiar spirit and wizards,[d]—he exceeded in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking [him][e] to anger; 7 and he set the image[f] of the Sacred Stem which he had made,—in the house, of which Yahweh had said unto David, and unto Solomon his son,
<In this house, and in Jerusalem which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel> will I put my Name, unto times age-abiding;

8 and I will not again' let the foot of Israel wander away from the soil which I gave unto their fathers,
Only' if they take heed to do according to all that I have commanded them, even to the extent of all the law which |my servant
Moses| commanded them.
9 But they hearkened not,—and Manasseh led them astray to do the thing that was wicked, more than the nations which Yahweh destroyed from before the sons of Israel. 10 Yahweh therefore spake through[a] his servants the prophets, saying—11 <Because Manasseh king of Judah hath made[b] these abominations—hath done that which is wicked, more than all which the Amorites did who were before him, and and hath caused |even Judah| to sin with his manufactured gods>[c] 12 ||therefore||—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
Behold me! bringing in calamity upon Jerusalem and Judah,—that <whosoever heareth thereof> ||both his ears|| will tingle;
13 And I will stretch over Jerusalem, the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab,—
And will wipe out Jerusalem, as one wipeth out a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down;
14 And will abandon the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies,—and they shall become a prey and a plunder, to all their enemies:
15 Because they have done the thing that is wicked in mine eyes, and have become such as to provoke me to anger,—from the day when their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even until this day.
16 |Moreover also| <innocent blood> did Manasseh shed in great abundance, till he had filled Jerusalem, from one end to the other,[d] besides his committing the sins which he caused |Judah| to commit, in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh.
17 Now <the rest of the story of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sin that he committed>
are ||they|| not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 18 And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own house, in the garden of Uzza,—and |Amôn his son| reigned |in his
stead|.

§ 28. Amôn's short but wicked Reign.

19 <Twenty-two years old> was Amôn when he began to reign, and <two years> reigned
he in Jerusalem,—and ||his mother's name|| was Meshullemeth daughter of Haruz, of Jotbah. 20 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—as did Manasseh his father; 21 yea he walked in all the way wherein |his father| had walked,—and served the manufactured gods[a] that |his father| had served, and bowed down to them; 22 and forsook' Yahweh the God of his fathers,—and walked not in the way of Yahweh. 23 And the servants of Amôn |conspired against him|, — and slew the king in his own house. 24 Then the people of the land smote all who had conspired against King
Amôn,—and the people of the land made
|Josiah[b] his son| king |in his stead|.
25 Now <the rest of the story of Amôn, what[c]
he did> is |it| not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 26 And he was buried[d] in his grave, in the garden of Uzza,—and |Josiah[b] his son| reigned |in his
stead|.

§ 29. Josiah's good Reign, during which the Book of the Law is found. The King's reforming Zeal postpones but cannot avert the Coming Visitation. Josiah is slain at Megiddo by Pharaoh-necoh King of Egypt.

22 1 <Eight years old> was Josiah[b] when he began to reign, and <thirty-one years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ||his mother's name|| was Jedidah daughter of Adaiah,[e] of Bozkath. 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in all the way of David his father, and turned not aside, to the right hand or to the left.
3 And it came to pass <in the eighteenth year of King Josiah>[b] that the king sent Shaphan son of Azaliah[f] son of Meshullam, the scribe, to the house of Yahweh, saying—4 Go up unto Hilkiah, the high priest, that he pour out[g] the silver that hath been brought into the house of Yahweh,—which the keepers of the entrance-hall have gathered from the people, 5 that they may give it into the hand[h] of the doers of the work, who have oversight' of the house of Yahweh, that they may give it to the doers of the work, who are in the house of Yahweh, to repair the breaches of the house;
6 to the carpenters, and to the builders, and to the masons,—and to buy timber, and hewn stones, for repairing the house.[i] 7 Howbeit there used to be no reckoning made with them, as to the silver that was given into their hand,—because <with faithfulness> were they' dealing.
8 Then said Hilkiah the high priest, unto Shaphan the scribe—

<The book of the law> have I found in the house of Yahweh.
So Hilkiah delivered the book unto Shaphan, and he read it.
9 Then came Shaphan the scribe unto the king, and brought the king word again,—and said—
Thy servants have poured out the silver that was found in the house, and have delivered it unto the hand of the doers of the work, who have oversight of the house of Yahweh.
10 Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying—
<A book> hath Hilkiah[a] the priest delivered unto me.
And Shaphan read it before the king.
11 And it came to pass <when the king heard the words of the book of the law> that he rent his clothes. 12 And the king commanded Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam son of Shaphan, and Achbor son of Micaiah,[b] and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah the king's servant, saying:
13 Go ye—enquire of Yahweh, for me and for the people, and for all Judah,[c] concerning the words of this book which hath been found,—for ‖great‖ is the wrath of Yahweh, in that it' hath fired up against us, because our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according to all which is written concerning us.
14 So Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asaiah, went unto Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tikvah, son of Harhas[d] keeper of the vestments, she' having her dwelling in Jerusalem, in the new city,—and they spake unto her. 15 And she said unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
Say ye unto the man who hath sent you unto me:
16 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Behold me! about to bring calamity upon[e] this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof,—‖all the words of the book, which |the king of Judah| hath read‖: 17 Because they have forsaken me, and burned incense unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger, with all the workmanship of their hands; and so my wrath shall fire up against this place, and shall not be quenched:
18 But <unto the king of Judah, who hath sent you to enquire of Yahweh> ‖thus‖ shall ye say unto him,—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
‖As touching the words which thou hast heard‖:
19 <Because |tender| was thy heart, and thou didst humble thyself before Yahweh when thou heardest what I had spoken against this place and against the inhabitants thereof—that they should become a desolation and a curse, and didst rend thy clothes, and weep before me> |therefore also| ‖I‖ have hearkened—
Declareth Yahweh.
20 ‖For this cause‖ behold me! about to gather thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered unto thy graves, in peace, and so thine eyes shall not look upon all the misfortune' which I' am about to bring upon this place.
And they brought the king word again.

23 1 Then the king sent,—and there were gathered[a] unto him, all the elders of Judah, and Jerusalem; 2 and the king went up to the house of Yahweh, and all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests, and the prophets,[b] and all the people, both small and great,—and he read in their ears, all the words of the book of the covenant, which had been found in the house of Yahweh. 3 And the king took his stand by the pillar, and solemnised a covenant before Yahweh—to follow Yahweh, and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all [their] heart and with all [their] soul, to confirm the words of this covenant, written in this book. And all the people took their stand in the covenant.
4 Then the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, and the priests of the second order, and the keepers of the entrance-hall, to bring forth, out of the temple of Yahweh, all the vessels that had been made for Baal and for the Sacred Stem,[c] and for all the army of the heavens,—and he burned them up outside Jerusalem, in the fields of Kidron, and carried the ashes of them to Bethel; 5 and he put down the idol-priests, whom the kings of Judah had appointed, so that incense might be burned in the high places, in the cities of Judah, and round about Jerusalem,—them also that burned incense to Baal, to the sun, and to the moon, and to the constellations,[d] and to all the army of the heavens; 6 and he brought forth the Sacred Stem[e] out of the house of Yahweh outside Jerusalem, into the Kidron ravine, and burned it in the Kidron ravine, and crushed it to powder,—and cast the powder upon the graves of the sons of the people;[e] 7 and he brake down the houses of the male devotees, which were in the house of Yahweh,—where the women did weave[f] houses to the Sacred Stem;[e] 8 and he brought in all the priests out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where |the priests| had burned incense, from Geba unto Beer-sheba,—and brake down

the high places of the gates, that were at the entrance of the gate of Joshua, the governor of the city, which were on one's left hand, in the gate of the city; 9 |howbeit| the priests of the high places came not up unto the altar of Yahweh, in Jerusalem, save only that they did eat unleavened bread in the midst of their brethren; 10 and he defiled Topheth, which was in the valley of the son[a] of Hinnom,—so that no man might cause his son or his daughter to pass through the fire unto Molech; 11 and he did away with the horses, which the kings of Judah had devoted to the sun, at the entrance of the house of Yahweh, near the chamber of Nathan-melech the courtier,[b] which was in the suburbs,—also <the chariots of the sun> burned he with fire; 12 and <the altars which were on the roof of the upper chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made, also the altars which Manasseh' had made, in the two courts of the house of Yahweh> did the king break down,—and hurried away[c] from thence, and cast out the powder of them into the Kidron ravine;[d] 13 and <the high places that were before Jerusalem, which were on the right hand of the mount of destruction, which Solomon king of Israel had built unto Ashtoreth — the abomination of the Zidonians, and unto Chemosh—the abomination of the Moabites, and unto Milcom[e]—the disgusting thing of the sons of Ammon>

did the king defile; 14 and he brake in pieces the pillars, and cut down the Sacred Stems,[f]—and filled their place with human bones: 15 |moreover also| <the altar that was in Bethel, the high place which Jeroboam son of Nebat made, wherewith he caused |Israel| to sin,—even that altar, and the high place> brake he down,—and burned the high place, crushing it to powder, and burned a Sacred Stem.[g] 16 And <when Josiah turned, and saw the graves which were there, in the mount> he sent and took the bones out of the graves, and burned upon the altar, and defiled it,—according to the word of Yahweh, which the man of God' proclaimed, who proclaimed these things. 17 Then said he—

What is yonder erection, which I' do see?

And the men of the city said unto him—

The grave of the man of God, who came in out of Judah, and proclaimed these things, which thou hast done, concerning the altar of Bethel.

18 And he said—

Let him rest, let ‖no man‖ disturb his bones.

So they let his bones rest,[a] with the bones of the prophet who came in out of Samaria.

19 ‖Moreover also‖ <all the houses of the high places which were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made, so as to provoke Yahweh[b] to anger> did Josiah remove,—and he did to them according to all the doings which he had done in Bethel; 20 and he sacrificed all the priests of the high places, who were there, by[c] the altars, and burned human bones thereupon,—and returned to Jerusalem.

21 Then did the king command all the people, saying,

Keep ye a passover unto Yahweh, your God,—such as is written in this book of the covenant.[d]

22 Surely there had not been held such a passover as this, from the days of the Judges who judged Israel,—nor all the days of the kings of Israel, and the kings of Judah; 23 save only <in the eighteenth year of King Josiah> when this passover was held unto Yahweh, in Jerusalem.

24 |Moreover also| <them who had familiar spirits,[e] and the wizards, and the household gods,[f] and the manufactured gods,[g] and the abominations which were to be seen in the land of Judah, and{ in Jerusalem> did Josiah consume,—that he might confirm the words of the law which were written in the book that Hilkiah the priest had found in the house of Yahweh.

25 And <like him> was no king |before him|, who turned unto Yahweh with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses,—neither <after him> arose one |like him|.

26 |Howbeit| Yahweh turned not away from the glow of his great anger, wherewith his anger glowed against Judah —because of all the provocations wherewith |Manasseh| had provoked him. 27 So Yahweh said:

<Even Judah> will I remove from my presence, as I have removed Israel,—and will reject this city, which I had chosen, even Jerusalem, and the house' as to which I had said,

|My Name| shall be |there|.

28 Now <the rest of the story of Josiah, and all that he did> are |they| not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 29 <In his days> came up Pharaoh-necoh king of Egypt, against the king of Assyria, unto the river Euphrates,—and <when King Josiah went against him> he slew him at Megiddo, as soon as he saw him. 30 And his servants conveyed him in a chariot, dead, from Megiddo, and brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own sepulchre,—and the people of the land took Jehoahaz, son

30. Josiah succeeded by Jehoahaz (son), Jehoiakim (son), Jehoiachin (grandson), and Zedekiah (son).

<Twenty-three years old> was Jehoahaz when he began to reign, and <three months> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ‖his mother's name‖ was Hamutal[a] daughter of Jeremiah[b] of Libnah. 32 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that his |fathers| had done. 33 And Pharaoh-necoh put him in bonds at Riblah, in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign[c] in Jerusalem,—and he laid a fine upon the land, a hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold. 34 And Pharaoh-necoh made Eliakim son of Josiah king, instead of Josiah his father, and turned his name to Jehoiakim,—, and <Jehoahaz> took he away, so he entered Egypt, and died there. 35 And <the silver and the gold> did Jehoiakim give unto Pharaoh, howbeit he assessed the land, that he might give the silver at the bidding of Pharaoh, —‖every man, according to his assessment‖ exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land, that he might give it to Pharaoh-necoh. 36 <Twenty-five years old> was Jehoiakim when he began to reign, and <eleven years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ‖his mother's name‖ was Zebudah[d] daughter of Pedaiah,[e] of Rumah. 37 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that ‖his fathers‖ had done.

24 1 <In his days> came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon,—and Jehoiakim became his servant three years, then turned he and rebelled against him. 2 And Yahweh sent against him troops of Chaldeans, and troops of Syrians, and troops of Moabites, and troops of the sons of Ammon, yea he sent them against Judah, to destroy him,—‖according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake through[f] his servants the prophets‖. 3 |Surely| it was <because of the anger[g] of Yahweh> that this came upon Judah, to remove them from his presence,—for the sins of Manasseh, ‖according to all[a] that he had done‖: 4 |moreover also| ‖for the innocent blood that he had shed, so that he had filled Jerusalem with innocent blood,—which Yahweh was not willing to pardon‖.

5 Now <the rest of the story of Jehoiakim, and all that he did> are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 6 So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers,—and |Jehoiachin his son| reigned |in his stead|.

7 And the king of Egypt came no more again' out of his land,—for the king of Babylon had taken—from the ravine of Egypt, unto the river Euphrates, ‖all that had belonged to the king of Egypt‖.

8 <Eighteen years old> was Jehoiachin when he began to reign, and <three months> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ‖his mother's name‖ was Nehushta daughter of Elnathan, of Jerusalem. 9 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that |his father| had done.

10 <At that time> came up the servants of Nebuchadnezzar[b] king of Babylon, unto Jerusalem,—and the city came into the siege. 11 And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came against the city, and his servants were about to besiege it. 12 Then came out Jehoiachin king of Judah, unto the king of Babylon, ‖he and his mother, and his servants, and his generals, and his courtiers,[c]—and the king of Babylon took him, in the eighth year of his reign. 13 And he carried forth from thence, all the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king,—and he cut off all the fittings of gold, which Solomon king of Israel had made in the temple of Yahweh, ‖according to all that |Yahweh| had spoken‖. 14 And he carried away all Jerusalem, and all the generals, and all the mighty men of valour, ten thousand becoming captives, and all the artificers and the smiths,—none remained save the poorest of the people of the land. 15 And he carried away captive Jehoiachin, to Babylon,—and <the king's mother, and the king's wives, and his courtiers, and the nobles of the land> took he away captive, from Jerusalem to Babylon. 16 And <all the men of might—seven thousand, and artificers and smiths—a thousand, all who were valiant and ready to make war> the king of Babylon brought them captive to Babylon. 17 And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah,[d] his relative, king in his stead,—and changed his name to Zedekiah.

18 <Twenty-one years old> was Zedekiah when he began to reign, and <eleven years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ‖his mother's name‖ was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah of § 31. The final Siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon: How the Temple was despoiled, the Nobles slain, and the common People driven into Egypt through fear of the Chaldeans. Jehoiachin in Babylon finds favour.

25 1 And it came to pass <in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month> that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came—‖he and all his force‖ against Jerusalem, and encamped against it,—and they built against it a siege wall, round about. 2 And the city came into the siege,—until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. 3 <On the ninth of the month, when the famine had become severe in the city,—and there had come to be no bread for the people of the land> 4 then was the city broken up, and all the men of war [fled] by night[a] by way of the gate between the two walls, which is by the garden of the king, the Chaldeans being near the city round about,—and he went the way of the Waste Plain; 5 and the force of the Chaldeans |pursued| the king, and overtook him in the Waste Plains of Jericho,—and ‖all his force‖ was scattered from him. 6 So they seized the king, and brought him up unto the king of Babylon, at Riblah,—and they[b] pronounced upon him sentence of judgment. 7 And <the sons of Zedekiah> they slew before his eyes,—and <the eyes of Zedekiah> put they out, and then bound him with fetters of bronze, and brought him into Babylon.

8 And <in the fifth month, on the seventh of the month, ‖the same‖ was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon> came Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, servant of the king of Babylon, to Jerusalem; 9 and burned the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—yea <all the houses of Jerusalem, even every great man's house> burned he with fire. 10 And <the walls of Jerusalem round about> did all the force of the Chaldeans who were with the chief of the royal executioners |break down|. 11 And <the residue of the people who were left in the city, and the disheartened who fell away unto the king of Babylon, and the residue of the multitude> did Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, carry away captive. 12 But <of the poorest of the land> did the chief of the royal executioners |leave| for vine-dressers and for husbandmen.[a]

13 And <the pillars of bronze that were in the house of Yahweh, and the stands, and the sea of bronze which was in the house of Yahweh> the Chaldeans brake in pieces, and they carried away the bronze of them to Babylon; 14 and <the caldrons, and the shovels, and the snuffers, and the spoons, even all the utensils of bronze wherewith ministration used to be made> did they take away; 15 and <the sprinkling pans and the dashing bowls which were of gold, in gold, and which were of silver, in silver> did |the chief of the royal executioners| take away. 16 <As for the two pillars the one sea and the stands which Solomon' made for the house of Yahweh> ‖without weight‖ was the bronze of all these things.[b] 17 <Eighteen cubits> was the height of each' pillar, and ‖the capital thereupon was of bronze, and ‖the height of the capital‖ was three cubits, and <the lattice-work and pomegranates upon the capital round about> ‖the whole‖ was of bronze; and ‖like these‖ had the second pillar, upon the lattice-work.

18 And the chief of the royal executioners took Seraiah the head' priest, and Zephaniah[c] the second' priest,—and the three keepers of the entrance hall; 19 and <out of the city> took he one courtier who himself was set over the men of war, and five men of them who were wont to see the face of the king, who were found in the city, and the scribe—general of the army, who used to muster the people of the land,—and sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the city; 20 and Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, |took them'|,—and brought them unto the king of Babylon, at Riblah; 21 and the king of Babylon smote them and slew them in Riblah, in the land of Hamath,—and thus Judah disappeared from off their own soil.

23 And <when all the generals of the forces, ‖they and the[e] men‖ heard' that the king of Babylon had given oversight unto Gedaliah> then came they in unto Gedaliah, at Mizpah,—even Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and Johanan son of Kareah, and Seraiah son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah[f] son of a Maacathite ‖they and their men‖. 24 And Gedaliah sware unto them, and to their men, and said to them, the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you.

25 And it came to pass <in the seventh month> that Ishmael son of Nethaniah[a] son of Elishama, of the seed royal, |came|, and ten men with him, and smote Gedaliah, that he died,—‖and the Jews and the Chaldeans who were with him at Mizpah‖. 26 Then arose all the people, both small and great, and the generals of the forces, and came into Egypt,—for they were afraid of the Chaldeans.

27 And it came to pass <in the thirty-seventh year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month,—that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, did lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, out of prison;[a] 28 and he spake with him kind words,—and set his throne above the throne of the kings who were with him in Babylon; 29 and changed his prison garments,—and he did eat bread continually before him, all the days of his life. 30 And <as his allowance> ‖a continual portion‖ was given him, from the king, the provision of a day upon its own day,—‖all the days of his life‖.

‖these‖ were the sons[a] of Etam, Jezreel and Ishma, and Idbash,—and ‖the name of their sister‖ was Hazzelelponi; [4] and Penuel the father of Gedor, and Ezer the father of Hushah. ‖These‖ are the sons of Hur, the firstborn of Ephrathah, the father of Bethlehem. [5] And ‖Ashhur the father of Tekoa‖ had two wives, — Helah and Naarah. [6] And Naarah bare him Ahuzzam and Hepher, and Temeni, and Haahashtari. ‖These‖ were the sons of Naarah. [7] And ‖the sons of Helah‖ were Zereth, Izhar,[b] and Ethnan. [8] And ‖Koz‖ begat Anub, and Zobebah,—and the families of Aharhel, the son of Harum.

[9] Now it came to pass that Jabez was more honourable than his brethren,—but ‖his mother‖ had called his name Jabez, [="he causes pain"] saying,

Because I bare him with pain.

[10] So then Jabez called on the God of Israel, saying,

Oh that thou wouldst ‖indeed bless| me, and enlarge my boundary,
And that thy hand might be with me,—
And that thou wouldst work [to deliver me] from evil,
That it be not my pain.

And God brought about that which he asked.

[11] And ‖Chelub the brother of Shuhah‖ begat Mehir, ‖the same‖ was the father of Eshton. [13] And ‖the sons of Kenaz‖ were Othniel, and Seraiah,—and ‖the sons[c] of Othniel‖ Hathath. [14] And ‖Meonothai‖ begat Ophrah,—and ‖Seraiah‖ begat Joab, the father of Ge-harashim,[d] for they were |craftsmen|. [15] And ‖the sons of Caleb son of Jephunneh‖ were Iru, Elah, and Naam,—and the sons[e] of Elah and[e] Kenaz. [16] And ‖the sons of Jehallelel‖ Ziph and Ziphah, Tiria, and Asarel. [17] And ‖the sons[f] of Ezrah‖ Jether and Mered, and Epher and Jalon. And ‖these‖ are the sons of Bithia, daughter of Pharaoh, whom Mered took,—and she conceived and bare Miriam and Shammai, and Ishbah, the father of Eshtemoa.[g] [18] And ‖his wife, the Jewess‖ bare Jered the father of Gedor, and Heber the father of Soco, and Jekuthiel, the father of Zanoah. [19] And ‖the sons of the wife of Hodiah, the sister of Naham‖ were the father of Keilah, the Garmite,—and Eshtemoa, the Maacathite. [20] And ‖the sons of Shimon‖ Amnon, and Rinnah, Ben-hanan and Tilon. And ‖the sons of Ishi‖ Zoheth, and Ben-zoheth.

[21] ‖The sons of Shelah, the son of Judah‖ Er, the father of Lecah, and Laadah, the father of Mareshah,—and the families of the house of them that wrought fine linen,[a] of the house of Ashbea; [22] and Jokim, and the men of Cozeba, and Joash, and Saraph who ruled for Moab, and Jashubi-lehem,—but ‖the records‖ are ancient. [23] ‖They‖ were the potters and the inhabitants of Netaim,[b] and Gederah,[c]—|with the king in his work| dwelt they there.

§ 4. The Tribe of Simeon (II.).

[24] ‖The sons of Simeon‖ Nemuel, and Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, Shaul: [25] Shallum his son, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son. [26] And ‖the sons of Mishma‖ Hammuel his son, Zaccur his son, Shimei his son. [27] And ‖Shimei‖ had sixteen sons, and six daughters, but ‖his brethren‖ had not many children,—nor did ‖any of their family‖ multiply so much as the sons of Judah. [28] And they dwelt in Beer-sheba, and Moladah, and Hazar-shual; [29] and in Bilhah, and in Ezem, and in Tolad; [30] and in Bethuel, and in Hormah, and in Ziklag; [31] and in Beth-marcaboth, and in Hazar-susim, and in Beth-biri, and in Shaaraim. ‖These‖ were their cities unto the reign of David.[d] [32] And ‖their villages‖ were Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Ashan,—five cities; [33] and all their villages that were round about these cities, as far as Baal. ‖These‖ were their habitations, and they had their own genealogical register.[e] [34] And Meshobab, and Jamlech, and Joshah, the son of Amaziah; [35] and Joel, —and Jehu, the son of Joshibiah, the son of Seraiah, the son of Asiel: [36] and Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeshohaiah, and Asaiah, and Adiel, and Jesimiel, and Benaiah: [37] and Ziza, son of Shiphi, son of Allon, son of Jedaiah, son of Shimri, son of Shemaiah. [38] |These| <introduced by their names> were leading men in their families. And |their ancestral house| brake forth exceedingly; [39] so they went to the entering in of Gerar,[f] unto the east of the valley,—to seek pasture for their flocks; [40] and they found pasture, fat and good, and |the land| was broad on both hands, and quiet, and secure, — for <of Ham> were the dwellers there aforetime. [41] But these written by name came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and smote their tents, and the Meunim[g] who were found there, and devoted them, until this day, and dwelt in their stead,—for there was pasture for their flocks |there|. § 5. The Tribe of Reuben (III.).

5 1 <And the sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel> for ‖he‖ was the firstborn, but <because he defiled the couch of his father> his birthright was given to the sons of Joseph son of Israel,—and he is not to be enrolled in the place of firstborn,[a] 2 for ‖Judah‖ prevailed over his brethren, so that ‖even the prince‖ is from him,—although ‖the birthright‖ pertaineth to Joseph 3 <the sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel> Hanoch and Pallu, Hezron and Carmi. 4 ‖The sons of Joel‖ Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son; 5 Micah his son, Reaiah his son, Baal his son; 6 Beerah his son, whom Tilgath[b]-pilneser king of Assyria carried away captive, —‖he‖ was a leader to the Reubenites; 7 and his brethren, by his families, in the genealogical registering, by their generations,—the chief Jeiel, and Zechariah; 8 and Bela, the son of Azaz,[c] the son of Shema, the son of Joel,—|he| dwelt in Aroer, even as far as Nebo, and Baal-meon; 9 and <eastward> dwelt he as far as the entering in of the desert, from the river Euphrates,—because ‖their cattle‖ were multiplied in the land of Gilead; 10 and <in the days of Saul> they made war with the Hagrites, who fell by their hand,—so they dwelt in their tents, over all the face of the land east of Gilead.

11 And ‖the sons of Gad‖ <over against them> dwelt in the land of Bashan as far as Salecah:
12 Joel the chief, and Shapham the second,—and Janai and Shaphat, in Bashan; 13 and their brethren of their ancestral house, Michael and Meshullam and Sheba and Jorai and Jacan and Zia and Eber, d seven. 14 |These| were the sons of Abihail, son of Huri, son of Jaroah, son of Gilead, son of Michael, son of Jehishai, son of Jahdo, son of Buz, 15 Ahi son of Abdiel, son of Guni, chief of their ancestral house; 16 and they dwelt in Gilead—in Bashan, and in her villages, —and in all the pasture-lands of Sharon, up to their outgoings. 17 ‖All of them‖ were genealogically registered in the days of Jotham king of Judah, —and in the days of Jeroboam king of Israel.

§ 7. Reuben, Gad and Half Tribe of Manasseh (V.) make War; fall into Idolatry and are transported to Assyria.

18 ‖The sons of Reuben and Gad, and half tribe of Manasseh, of the sons of valour, men bearing shield and sword and bending the bow, and instructed in war‖ were forty-four thousand and seven hundred and sixty, ready to go forth in the host. 19 So they made war with the Hagrites,—and Jetur and Naphish, and Nodab; 20 and were helped against them, and the Hagrites and all that were with them were delivered into their hand,—for <unto God> made they outcry, in the war, and he suffered himself to be entreated by them, because they put their trust in him; 21 and they captured their cattle— ‖their camels‖ fifty thousand, and ‖flocks‖ two hundred and fifty thousand, and ‖asses‖ two thousand,—and ‖persons[a] of men‖ a hundred thousand; 22 for ‖many slain‖ fell, for <of God> was the war,—and they dwelt in their stead, until the captivity.

23 And ‖the sons of the half tribe of Manasseh‖ dwelt in the land,—<from Bashan, as far as to Baal-hermon and Senir and Mount Hermon> ‖they‖ were multiplied. 24 And ‖these‖ were the heads of their ancestral house, —Epher[b] and Ishi and Eliel and Azriel and Jeremiah and Hodaviah and Jahdiel, men who were heroes of valour, men of renown, chiefs to their ancestral house.

25 But they dealt unfaithfully with the God of their fathers,—and went unchastely after the gods of the peoples of the land, whom God destroyed from before them; 26 so the God of Israel stirred up the spirit of Pul king of Assyria, and the spirit of Tilgath[c]-pilneser king of Assyria, and he took them away captive, even the Reubenites and the Gadites and the half tribe of Manasseh,—and brought them in unto Halah, and Habor, and Hara, and to the river of Gozan, unto this day.

§ 8. The Tribe of Levi (VI.).

6 1 ‖The sons of Levi‖ Gershon,[d] Kohath, and Merari. 2 And ‖the sons of Kohath‖ Amram, Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel. 3 And ‖the children of Amram‖ Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam,—and ‖the sons of Aaron‖ Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. 4 ‖Eleazar‖ begat Phinehas, ‖Phinehas‖[e] begat Abishua; 5 and ‖Abishua‖ begat Bukki, and ‖Bukki‖ begat Uzzi; 6 and ‖Uzzi‖ begat Zerahiah, and ‖Zerahiah‖ begat Meraioth; 7 ‖Meraioth‖ begat Amariah, and ‖Amariah‖ begat Ahitub; 8 and ‖Ahitub‖ begat Zadok, and ‖Zadok‖ begat Ahimaaz; 9 and ‖Ahimaaz‖ begat Azariah, and ‖Azariah‖ begat Johanan, 10 and ‖Johanan‖ begat Azariah,—‖he‖ it was who ministered as priest, in the house which Solomon built in Jerusalem; 11 and Azariah begat Amariah,— and ‖Amariah‖ begat Ahitub; 12 and ‖Ahitub‖ second‖ Abiah. 29 ‖The sons of Merari‖ Mahli,—Libni his son, Shimei his son, Uzzah his son; 30 Shimea his son, Haggiah his son, Asaiah his son.

31 And ‖these‖ are they whom David caused to stand, as the servants of song,[e] in the house of Yahweh, when he had given rest unto the ark;
32 so they became attendants before the habitation of the tent of meeting, with song,[f] until Solomon built the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem,—and they took their st»nd according to their prescribed manner[g] over their work.

33 Yea ‖these‖ are they who stood, with their sons. <Of the sons of the Kohathites>

Zephaniah,—37 son of Tahath, son of Assir, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah;—38 son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, son of Israel.[k] 39 And ‖his brother Asaph who stood on his right hand‖ Asaph son of Berechiah, son of Shimea,—40 son of Michael, son of Baaseiah,[a] son of Malchijah,—41 son of Ethni, son of Zerah, son of Adaiah;—42 son of Ethan, son of Zimmah, son of Shimei,— 43 son of Jahath, son of Gershom, son of Levi.[b] 44 And ‖the sons[c] of Merari, their brethren, on the left hand‖ Ethan son of and upon the altar of incense, according to all the service of the holy of holies,—even for putting a propitiatory-covering over Israel, according to all that ‖Moses, the servant of Phinehas his son, Abishua his son,—51 Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son,— 52 Meraioth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son,—53 Zadok his son, Ahimaaz his son. 54 And ‖these‖ are their dwelling-places, according to their encampments, in their boundary,—pertaining to the sons of Aaron, of the families of the Kohathites, for ‖theirs‖ was the lot:[f] 55 so they gave them Hebron, in the land of Judah, and the pasture lands thereof, round about it; 56 but <the field-land of the city, and the villages thereof> gave they to Caleb son of Jephunneh. 57 And <to the sons of Aaron> gave they, the cities[g] of refuge'—Hebron, and Libnah, with her pasture lands,—and Jattir and Eshtemoa, with her pasture lands; 58 and Hilen[h] with her pasture lands, Debir, with her pasture lands; 59 and Ashan, with her pasture lands, and Bethshemesh, with her pasture lands; 60 and <out of the tribe of Benjamin> Geba, with her pasture lands, and Allemeth, with her pasture lands,—and Anathoth, with her pasture lands;— ‖all their cities‖ were thirteen cities, throughout their families. 61 And <unto the rest of the sons of Kohath—of the families of the tribe of Ephraim and of the tribe of Dan, and of the half-tribe of Manasseh>[i] by lot' ten cities. 62 And <to the sons of Gershom, by their families—out of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan> thirteen cities. 63 And <unto sons of Merari, by their families—out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun> by lot' twelve cities.

64 So then the sons of Israel gave, to the Levites, —the cities and the pasture lands thereof;
65 yea they gave, by lot <out of the tribe of the sons of Judah, and out of the tribe of the sons of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin> these cities which are mentioned by name. 66 But <as for some of the families of the sons of Kohath> they had the cities of their lot,[a] out of the tribe of Ephraim; 67 and they gave unto them the cities of refuge—Shechem and her pasture lands, in the hill country of Ephraim,—and Gezer, with her pasture lands; 68 and Jokmeam, with her pasture lands, and Beth-horon, with her pasture lands; 69 and Aijalon, with her pasture lands, and Gath-rimmon, with her pasture lands; 70 and <out of the half-tribe of Manasseh> Aner, with her pasture lands, and Bileam, with her pasture lands,—for the rest of the family[b] of the sons of Kohath. 71 <Unto the sons of Gershom—out of the family of the half tribe of Manasseh> Golan in Bashan, with her pasture lands,—and Ashtaroth, with her pasture lands. 72 And <out of the tribe of Issachar> Kedesh,[c] with her pasture lands,—Daberath, with her pasture lands; 73 and Ramoth, with her pasture lands, and Anem,[d] with her pasture lands. 74 And <out of the tribe of Asher> Mashal, with her pasture lands,—and Abdon, with her pasture lands; 75 and Hukok, with her pasture lands,—and Rehob, with her pasture lands. 76 And <out of the tribe of Naphtali> Kedesh in Galilee, with her pasture lands, and Hammon, with her pasture lands,—and Kiryathaim, with her pasture lands. 77 <Unto the rest of the sons of Merari—out of the tribe of Zebulun> Rimmono, with her pasture lands,—Tabor, with her pasture lands. 78 And <beyond the Jordan at Jericho, on the east of the Jordan—out of the tribe of Reuben> Bezer in the wilderness, with her pasture lands,—and Jahzah, with her pasture lands; 79 and Kedemoth, with her pasture lands, and Mephaath, with her pasture lands. 80 And <out of the tribe of Gad> Ramoth in Gilead, with her pasture lands,—and Mahanaim, with her pasture lands; 81 and Heshbon, with her pasture lands, and Jazer, with her pasture lands.

§ 9. The Tribe of Issachar (VII.).

7 1 And <to the sons of Issachar> belonged, Tola and Puah, Jashib[e] and Shimron, four. 2 And ‖the sons of Tola‖ were Uzzi and Rephaiah and Jeriel and Jahmai and Ibsam and Shemuel, chiefs of their ancestral house, pertaining to Tola, heroes of valour, in their generations,—their number, in the days of David, twenty-two thousand and six hundred. 3 And ‖the sons[b] of Uzzi‖ Izrahiah, —and ‖the sons of Izrahiah‖ Michael and Obadiah and Joel, Isshiah—five, ‖chiefs‖ all of them; 4 and <with them by their generations, pertaining to their ancestral house> were bands of a host for war, thirty-six thousand,—for they had many wives and sons; 5 and ‖their brethren, of all the families of Issachar, heroes of great valour‖ were eighty-seven thousand, when they had |all| registered themselves.

§ 10. The Tribe of Benjamin (VIII.).

6 <Benjamin> Bela and Becher and Jediael, three. 7 And ‖the sons of Bela‖ Ezbon and Uzzi and Uzziel and Jerimoth and Iri, five, chiefs of the ancestral house, heroes of great valour,—who <when they had registered themselves> were twenty-two thousand and thirty-four. 8 And ‖the sons of Becher‖ Zemirah and Joash and Eliezer and Elioenai and Omri, and Jeremoth and Abijah, and Anathoth, and Alemeth. ‖All these‖ were sons of Becher. 9 And <when they had registered themselves by their generations, the chiefs of their ancestral house> ‖the heroes of valour‖ were twenty thousand and two hundred. 10 And ‖the sons[a] of Jediael‖ Bilhan,—and ‖the sons of Bilhan‖ Jeish[b] and Benjamin and Ehud and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tarshish, and Ahishahah. 11 ‖All these—sons of Jediael, by ancestral chiefs, heroes of great valour‖ were seventeen thousand and two hundred, ready to go forth as a host to war:—12 Shuppim also and Huppim, sons of Ir, Hushim sons of Aher.

§ 11. The Tribe of Naphtali (IX.).

13 ‖The sons of Naphtali‖ Jahziel and Guni, and Jezer and Shallum, sons of Bilhah.

§ 12. The Tribe of Manasseh (X.).

14 ‖The sons of Manasseh‖ Asriel, whom [his wife] bare,—‖his concubine, the Syrian‖[c] bare Machir the father of Gilead; 15 and ‖Machir‖ took a wife pertaining to Huppim and Shuppim, and ‖the name of his sister‖ was Maacah, and ‖the name of the second‖ Zelophehad, —and ‖Zelophehad‖ had |daughters|. 16 So then Maacah, wife of Machir, bare a son, and called his name Peresh, and ‖the name of his brother‖ was Sheresh,—and ‖his sons‖ were Ulam and Rakem; 17 and ‖the sons[d] of Ulam‖ Bedan. ‖These‖ were the sons of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh. 18 And ‖his sister, Hammolecheth‖ bare Ishhod,[e] and Abiezer, § 13. The Tribe of Ephraim (XI.).

20 And ‖the sons of Ephraim‖ Shuthelah,—and Bered his son, and Tahath his son, and Eleadah his son, and Tahath his son; 21 and Zabad his son and Shuthelah his son, and Ezer and Elead, —but the men of Gath who had been born in the land slew' them, because they had come down to take away their cattle. 22 And Ephraim their father mourned many days,— and his brethren came to comfort him. 23 And he went in unto his wife, and she conceived, and bare a son,—and he called his name Beriah, because <in misfortune> was she in his house. 24 And ‖his daughter‖ was Sheerah, who built Beth-horon the nether and the upper, —and Uzzen-sheerah. 25 And Rephah his son, and Resheph, and Telah his son, and Tahan his son,—26 Ladan his son, Ammihud his son, Elishama his son,—27 Non his son, Joshua[a] his son. 28 And ‖their possessions, and their dwellings‖ were Bethel, and the villages thereof; and <eastward> Naaran, and <westward> Gezer, and the villages thereof, and Shechem, and the villages thereof,—as far as Aiyah,[b] and the villages thereof;—29 and <on the sides of the sons of Manasseh> Beth-shean and the villages thereof Taanach and the villages thereof, Megiddo and the villages thereof, Dor and the villages thereof. <In these> dwelt the sons of Joseph, son of Israel.

§ 14. The Tribe of Asher (XII.).

30 ‖The sons of Asher‖ Imnah, and Ishvah, and Ishvi and Beriah, — and Serah their sister. 31 And ‖the sons of Beriah‖ Heber, and Malchiel,—‖the same‖ was the father of Birzaith. 32 And ‖Heber‖ begat Japhlet, and Shomer, and Hotham,—and ‖Shua‖ their sister. 33 And ‖the sons of Japhlet‖ Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashvath. ‖These‖ were the sons of Japhlet. 34 And ‖the sons of Shemer‖ Ahi, and Rohgah, Jahbah,[c] and Aram. 35 And ‖the sons[d] of Helem, his brother‖ Zophah, and Imna, and Shelesh and Amal. 36 ‖The sons of Zophah‖ Suah and Harnepher, and Shual and Beri, and Imrah,—37 Bezer and Hod, and Shamma and Shilshah, and Ithran and Beera. 38 And ‖the sons of Jether‖ Jephunneh, and Pispa, and Ara. 39 And ‖the sons of Ulla‖ Arah, and Hanniel, and Rizia. 40 ‖All these‖ were sons of Asher, chiefs of the ancestral house, choice men, heroes of great valour, chiefs of the leaders,—and <when they registered themselves, in host, for war> ‖the number of the men‖ was twenty-six thousand.

8 1 And ‖Benjamin‖ begat Bela his firstborn,— Ashbel, the second, and Aharah the third, 2 — Nohah, the fourth, and Rapha, the fifth. 3 And Bela had sons—Addar, and Gera, and Abihud, — 4 and Abishua, and Naaman, and Ahoah, — 5 and Gera, and Shephuphan, and Huram. 6 And ‖these‖ are the sons of Ehud,—‖these‖ are[a] the ancestral chiefs to the inhabitants of Geba, but they were carried away captive, unto Manahath; 7 and <as for Naaman and Ahijah and Gera> ‖the same‖ carried them captive, — and he begat Uzza and Ahihud. 8 And ‖Shaharaim‖ begat children in the field of Moab, after he had sent away Hushim and Baara his wives. 9 Then begat he, of Hodesh his wife,— Jobab, and Zibia, and Mesha, and Malcam; 10 and Jeuz, and Sachia, and Mirmah, — ‖these‖ were his sons, ancestral chiefs. 11 And <of Hushim> he begat Abitub, and Elpaal. 12 And ‖the sons of Elpaal‖ Eber, and Misham, and Shemed,[b]—‖he‖ built Ono, and Lod, and the villages thereof. 13 And <as for Beriah and Shema> ‖they‖ were ancestral chiefs to the inhabitants of Aijalôn,—‖they‖ put to flight the inhabitants of Gath; 14 and Ahio, Shashak, and Jeremoth,—15 and Zebadiah, and Arad, and Eder,—16 and Michael, and Ishpah, and Joha, sons of Beriah,—17 and Zebadiah, and Meshullam, and Hizki, and Heber,—18 and Ishmerai,[c] and Izliah, and Jobab, sons of Elpaal,—19 and Jakim, and Zichri, and Zabdi—20 and Elienai, and Zillethai, and Eliel,—21 and Adaiah, and Beraiah, and Shimrath, sons of Shimei,—22 and Ishpan, and Eber,[d] and Eliel,— 23 and Abdon, and Zichri, and Hanan,—24 and Hananiah, and Elam, and Anthothijah,—25 and Iphdeiah, and Penuel,[e] sons of Shashak,—26 and Shamsherai, and Shehariah, and Athaliah,—27 and Jaareshiah, and Elijah, and Zichri, sons of Jeroham: 28 ‖these‖ were ancestral chiefs to their generations, chief men, —‖these‖ dwelt in Jerusalem. 29 And <in Gibeon> dwelt the father of Gibeon [Jeiel], ‖the name of whose wife‖ was Maacah, — 30 and his firstborn son, Abdon, and Zur and Kish, and Baal and Ner[f] and Nadab, — 31 and Gedor, and Ahio, and

9 1 And ‖all Israel‖ registered themselves, and lo! they are written, in the Book of the Kings of Israel,—and ‖Judah‖ was carried away captive to Babylon, for their faithlessness.
2 Now ‖the first inhabitants, who were in their possessions, in their cities‖ were Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the Nethinim.
3 And <in Jerusalem> there dwelt, of the sons of Judah, and of the sons of Benjamin, —and of the sons of Ephraim, and Manasseh:
4 Uthai son of Ammihud, son of Omri, son of Imri, son of Bani, of the[e] sons of Perez, son of Judah. 5 And <of the Shilonites>[f] Asaiah the firstborn, and his sons. 6 And <of the sons of Zerah> Jeuel,—and their brethren, six hundred and ninety. 7 And <of the sons of Benjamin> Sallu, son of Meshullam, son of Hodaviah, son of Hassenuah; 8 and Ibneiah, son of Jeroham, and Elah, son of Uzzi, son of Michri,—and Meshullam, son of Shephatiah, son of Reuel, son of Ibnijah;[g] 9 and their brethren, by their generations, nine hundred and fifty-six,—‖all these men‖ were ancestral chiefs, to their ancestral house.
10 And <of the priests> Jedaiah, and Jehoiarib, and Jachin, — 11 and Azariah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, chief ruler of the house of God; 12 and Adaiah, son of Jeroham, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, — and Maasai son of Adiel, son of Jahzerah, son of Meshullam, son of Meshillemith, son of Immer; 13 and their brethren, chief men of their ancestral house, a thousand and seven hundred and sixty,—able men, for the business of the service of the house of God.
14 And <of the Levites> Shemaiah, son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari; 15 and Bakbakkar, Heresh, and Galal,—and Mattaniah, son of Mica, son of Zichri, son of Asaph; 16 and Obadiah, son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun,—and Berechiah son of Asa,[a] son of Elkanah, who dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites. 17 And ‖the keepers of the gates‖ were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman,—and their brethren—Shallum the chief; 18 and <hitherto> they were in the gate of the king, eastward,—‖the same‖ were the keepers of the gate, for the camps of the sons of Levi. 19 And ‖Shallum son of Kore, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah and his brethren of his ancestral house—the Korahites‖ were over the business of the service, watchers at the vestibule[b] of the tent, —and ‖their fathers‖ had been over the camp of Yahweh, watchers at the entrance. 20 And ‖Phinehas son of Eleazar‖ was |chief ruler| over them aforetime, ‖Yahweh‖ being with him. 21 ‖Zechariah son of Meshelemiah‖[c] was door-keeper at the entrance of the tent of meeting. 22 ‖All those who were chosen for door-keepers in the vestibule‖ were two hundred and twelve,—‖the same‖ <in their villages> had registered themselves,[d] <the same> did David and Samuel the seer establish in their trust. 23 So ‖they and their sons‖ were over the gates of the house of Yahweh, of the house of the tent, by watches. 24 <Towards the four winds> were the keepers of the gates,—eastward, westward, northward, and southward. 25 And ‖their brethren in[e] their villages‖ had to come in, every seven days, from time to time, along with these. 26 For <in trust> were four mighty men of the keepers of the gates,[f] ‖the same‖ were Levites, —and they were over the chambers, and over the treasuries of the house of God. 27 And <round about the house of God> used they to lodge,—for <upon them> was the charge, and they were over the setting open, morning by morning. 28 And ‖some from among them‖ were over the utensils of the service,—for <by number> used they to bring them in, and <by number> used they to take them forth. 29 And ‖some from among them‖ were appointed over the utensils, yea over all the vessels of the holy place,—and over the fine meal, and the wine,

35 And <in Gibeon> dwelt the father of Gibeon, Jeiel,[c]—‖the name of whose wife‖[d] was Maacah: 36 and ‖his firstborn son‖ Abdon, —and Zur, and Kish, and Baal and Ner, and Nadab; 37 and Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth. 38 And ‖Mikloth‖ begat Shimeam,—and ‖they also‖ <over against their brethren> did dwell in Jerusalem, along with their brethren. 39 And ‖Ner‖ begat Kish, and ‖Kish‖ begat Saul,—and ‖Saul‖ begat Jonathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal;[e] 40 and ‖the son of Jonathan‖ was Merib-baal,[e]—and ‖Merib-baal‖[f] begat Micah; 41 and ‖the sons of Micah‖ were Pithon, and Melech, and Tahrea [and Ahaz];[g] 42 and ‖Ahaz‖ begat Jarah, and ‖Jarah‖ begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri, —and Zimri‖ begat Moza; 43 and ‖Moza‖ begat Binea, — and Raphaiah his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son; 44 and ‖Azel‖ had six sons, and these are their names — Azrikam, [his firstborn],[h] and Ishmael, and Sheariah and Obadiah, and Hanan, [and Asah].[i] ‖These‖ were the sons of Azel.

10 1 Now ‖the Philistines‖ fought against Israel,—and the men of Israel fled' from before the Philistines, and the wounded fell in Mount Gilboa. 2 And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons,—and the Philistines smote Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua, sons of Saul. 3 And the battle |went sore| against Saul, and the archers discovered him with the bow,—and he was terrified because of the archers. 4 Therefore said Saul unto his armour-bearer,

Draw out thy sword and thrust me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come and abuse[a] me,

But his armour-bearer would not, for he feared greatly,—so then Saul took the sword, and fell upon it. 5 And <when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead> then ‖he also‖ fell upon the sword, and died. 6 So Saul died, and his three sons, and ‖all his house‖ |together| died.

7 And <when all the men of Israel that were in the vale saw, that they had fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead> then forsook they their cities, and fled, and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

8 And it came to pass, on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain,—that they found Saul, and his sons, lying prostrate in Mount Gilboa. 9 So they stript him, and took his head, and his armour,—and sent throughout the land of the Philistines round about, to publish it to their idols, and to the people. 10 And they put his armour, in the house of their gods,[b]—but <his skull> fastened they up, in the house of Dagon.

11 And <when all Jabesh-Gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul> 12 then rose up all the men of valour, and took away the corpse of Saul, and the corpses of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh,—and buried their bodies under the terebinth, in Jabesh, and fasted seven days.

13 Thus died Saul, for his unfaithfulness wherewith he dealt unfaithfully against Yahweh, over the word of Yahweh, which he kept not,—and |also| in asking by necromancy when he desired to enquire; 14 and enquired not of Yahweh, wherefore he slew him,—and turned round the kingdom unto David, son of Jesse.

11 1 Then did all Israel gather themselves together to David, unto Hebron, saying,—

Lo! <thy bone and thy flesh> are we'.

2 Moreover also <in time past' even when Saul was king> ‖thou‖ wast he that led out and brought in Israel,—and Yahweh thy God said unto thee,

‖Thou‖ shalt shepherd my people Israel,
Yea ‖thou‖ shalt be chief ruler, over my people Israel.

3 Thus came all the elders of Israel unto the king, to Hebron, and David solemnised to them a covenant in Hebron, before Yahweh,—and they anointed David to be king over Israel, according to the word of Yahweh, through[c] Samuel.

4 Then went David and all Israel to Jerusalem,

‖the same‖ was Jebus, — where were the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land. 5 And the inhabitants of Jebus said unto David,

Thou shalt not come in hither,—

But David captured the citadel of Zion, ‖the same‖ is the city of David. 6 And David said,

‖Whosoever smiteth the Jebusites, first,‖ shall become a chief, and a ruler,—

So then Joab son of Zeruiah |went up first|, and became a chief. 7 And David dwelt in the citadel,—<for this cause> did they call it, The City of David. 8 And he built the city round about, from Millo even as far as the circuit,—but ‖Joab‖ suffered the remainder of the city to live. 9 Thus did David wax greater and yet greater,—and ‖Yahweh of hosts‖ was with him.

10 Now ‖these‖ are the chiefs of the heroes, that pertained to David, who held strongly with him in his kingdom,[a] with all Israel, to make him king,—according to the word of Yahweh, concerning Israel. 11 And ‖this‖ is the number of the heroes who pertained to David, — Jashobeam son of a Hachmonite, chief of the thirty, ‖the same‖ brandished his spear over three hundred—slain at one time. 12 And <after him> was Eleazar son of Dodai,[b] the Ahohite,— ‖he‖ was among the three heroes; 13 ‖he‖ was with David in Pas-dammim,[c] where ‖the Philistines‖ were gathered together to battle, and there was a field-plot full of barley,—and ‖the people‖ fled, from before the Philistines; 14 so they took their stand in the midst of the plot and rescued it, and smote the Philistines,—and Yahweh wrought[d] a great victory. 15 And three of the thirty chiefs went down upon the rock, unto David, into the cave of Adullam,— |a host of Philistines| being encamped in the vale of Rephaim. 16 Now ‖David‖ then' was in the stronghold,—and ‖a garrison of Philistines‖ then' was in Bethlehem. 17 And David longed, and said—

Who will give me to drink of the water, out of the well of Bethlehem, that is within the gate?

18 And the three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was within the gate, and bare it, and brought it in unto David,— yet would not David drink it, but poured it out unto Yahweh; 19 and said—

Far be it from me, of my God, that I should do this!

For <with their lives>[a] have they brought it!

So he would not drink it. ‖These things‖ did the three heroes. 20 And ‖Abishai brother of Joab—he‖ was the chief of three, ‖he‖ having brandished his spear against three hundred—who were slain,—and so ‖he‖[b] had a name among three. 21 <Of the three in the second rank> was he honourable, therefore became he their captain,—though <unto the [first] three> did he not attain. 22 ‖Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, son of a man of valour, hero of many a deed, from Kabziel—he‖ smote the two [sons] of Ariel of Moab, ‖he‖ also went down and smote a lion in the midst of a pit, in time of snow; 23 ‖he‖ also smote an Egyptian, a man of [great] stature, five cubits, and <in the hand of the Egyptian> was a spear like a weaver's beam, so he went down unto him with a staff,—and wrested the spear out of the hand of the Egyptian, and slew him with his spear. 24 <These things> did Benaiah son of Jehoiada, so ‖he‖ had a name among three heroes. 25 <Among the thirty> lo! |honourable| was he, but <unto the [first] three> did he not attain,—howbeit David set him over his council.[c]

26 Now ‖the heroes of the forces‖ were,—Asahel, brother of Joab, Elhanan, son of Dodo, of Bethlehem; 27 Shammoth, the Harorite, Helez the Paltite;[d] 28 Ira, son of Ikkesh, the Tekoite, Abiezer, the Anathothite; 29 Sibbecai, the Hushathite, Ilai, the Ahohite; 30 Maharai, the Netophathite, Heled, son of Baanah, the Netophathite; 31 Ithai, son of Ribai, of Gibeah, of the sons of Benjamin,—Benaiah, the Pirathonite; 32 Hurai, of the torrents of Gaash, Abiel the Arbathite; 33 Azmaveth, the Baharumite, Eliahba, the Shaalbonite; 34 the sons of Hashem, the Gizonite, Jonathan, son of Shageh, the Hararite; 35 Ahiam, son of Sacar, the Hararite, Eliphal, son of Ur; 36 Hepher, the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite; 37 Hezro, the Carmelite, Naarai, son of Ezbai; 38 Joel, brother of Nathan, Mibhar son of Hagri; 39 Zelek, the Ammonite,—Naharai, the Berothite, the armour-bearer of Joab son of Zeruiah; 40 Ira, the Ithrite, Gareb, the Ithrite; 41 Uriah, the Hittite, Zabad son of Ahlai; 42 Adina, son of Shiza, the Reubenite, a chief of the Reubenites and over the thirty;[e] 43 Hanan, son of Maacah, and Joshaphat, the Mithnite; 44 Uzzia, the Ashterathite,—Shama, and Jeiel,[f] sons of Hotham, the Aroerite; 45 Jediael, son of Shimri, and Joha, his brother, the Tizite; 46 Eliel, the Mahavite, and Jeribai and Joshaviah, sons of Elnaam,—and Ithmah the Moabite; 47 Eliel, and Obed, and Jaasiel, of Zobah.[g]

12 1 Now ‖these‖ are they who came unto David, to Ziklag, he yet' being shut up, because of Saul son of Kish,—and ‖they‖ were among the heroes, helpers in the war; 2 armed with the bow, using right hand or left with stones, and with arrows in the bow,—of the brethren of Saul, out of Benjamin: 3 ‖The chief‖ Ahiezer, and Joash, sons of Shemaah the Gibeathite, and Jeziel and Pelet, sons of Azmaveth,—and Beracah, and Jehu the Anathothite; 4 and Ishmaiah[a] the Gibeonite, a hero among the thirty, and over the thirty,—and Jeremiah and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Jozabad, the Gederathite; 5 Eluzai and Jerimoth and Bealiah and Shemariah,[b] and Shephatiah,[c] the Haruphite;[d] 6 Elkanah and Isshiah,[e] and Azarel, and Joezer and Jashobeam, the Korahites; 7 and Joelah and Zebadiah, sons of Jeroham, of Gedor.[f]

8 And <of the Gadites> there separated themselves unto David, to the stronghold towards the desert, heroes of valour, men of war, for battle, men that could handle shield and spear,[g]—and <faces of lions> were their faces, and <like gazelles upon the mountains> were they, for swiftness: 9 Ezer, the chief, Obadiah, the second,—Eliab, the third; 10 Mashmannah,[h] the fourth, Jeremiah, the fifth; 11 Attai, the sixth, Eliel the seventh; 12 Johanan, the eighth, Elzabad, the ninth; 13 Jeremiah, the tenth, Machbannai, the eleventh. 14 ‖These‖ were of the sons of Gad, chiefs of the host,—one to a hundred, the least, and ‖the greatest‖ to a thousand.

15 ‖These‖ are they who passed over the Jordan, in the first month, when ‖it‖ was full, over all its banks,—and they put to flight all them of the vales, to the east and to the west.

16 And there came, of the sons of Benjamin, and Judah, as far as the stronghold, unto David.

17 And David went forth to meet them, and responded, and said to them,

<If |peaceably| ye are come unto me, to help me> I shall have towards you, a heart for unity,—but <if to betray me to mine adversaries, there being no violence in my hands> may the God of our fachers see' and rebuke!

18 Then ‖the spirit‖ clothed[i] Amasai,[k] chief of the thirty,

‖Thine‖ O David,
Yea ‖with thee‖ O son of Jesse!
Prosperity, prosperity to thee,
And prosperity to thy helpers,
For thy God' |hath helped thee|:

So David accepted them, and set them among the chiefs of the band.

19 And <of Manasseh> there fell away unto David, when he came with the Philistines against Saul to battle, but they helped them not,—for the lords of the Philistines advisedly' sent him away, saying,

<At the price of[a] our heads> he might fall away to his master, Saul.

20 <When he went into Ziklag> there fell away unto him, of Manasseh, Adnah and Jozabad, and Jediael and Michael and Jozabad, and Elihu and Zillethai,—chiefs of the thousands that pertained to Manasseh; 21 and ‖they‖ helped with David, against the [marauding] band,[b] for <heroes of valour> were they all,—and they became captains in the host; 22 for <from day to day> there came unto David, to help him,—until it was a great camp, like a camp of God.[c]

§ 21. Warriors out of Various Tribes who came to Hebron to make David King over All Israel.

23 And ‖these‖ are the numbers of the chiefs armed for war, they came unto David, to Hebron,—to turn round the kingdom of Saul unto him, according to the bidding of Yahweh: 24 |Sons of Judah, bearers of shield and spear| six thousand and eight hundred, armed for war. 25 <Of sons of Simeon, heroes of valour for the war> seven thousand, and one hundred. 26 <Of the sons of Levi> four thousand, and six hundred. 27 And ‖Jehoiada‖ was chief ruler for Aaron,—and |with him| three thousand and seven hundred; 28 and Zadok, a young man, a hero of valour,—and the house of his father, captains twenty and two. 29 And <of the sons of Benjamin, brethren of Saul> three thousand,—and <hitherto> ‖the greater part of them‖ had been keeping the charge of the house of Saul. 30 And <of the sons of Ephraim> twenty thousand, and eight hundred, —heroes of valour, men of renown, to their ancestral house. 31 And <of the half tribe of Manasseh> eighteen thousand, who were distinguished by name, coming in to make David king. 32 And <of the sons of Issachar, such as were of good understanding of the times, to know what Israel' |should do|> ‖their chiefs‖ were two hundred, and ‖all their brethren‖ were at their bidding. 33 <Of Zebulun—such as were ready to go forth in host, expert for battle with all weapons of war> fifty thousand,—and for setting in array>[d] not of two minds![e] 34 And <of Naphtali> a thousand captains,—and <with them, with shield and spear> thirty-seven thousand. 35 And

13 1 And David consulted with the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even with every chief ruler.
2 And David said to all the convocation of Israel,
<If |unto you| it seemeth to be good, and from Yahweh our God> we will urgently' send unto our brethren who remain in all the lands of Israel, and <with them> the priests and the Levites in their pasture-land cities,—that they may gather together unto us; 3 and let us bring round the ark of our God, unto us,—
For they sought it not, in the days of Saul. 4 Then said all the convocation, that it should be done thus,—for right' was the thing, in the eyes of all the people. 5 So David convoked all Israel, from Shihor of Egypt, even unto the entering in of Hamath,—to bring the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim. 6 And David went up and all Israel to Baalah, unto Kiriath-jearim, which pertaineth to Judah,—to bring up from thence, the ark of God—Yahweh who inhabiteth the cherubim, on which is called the Name. 7 And they carried the ark of God, upon a new waggon, out of the house of Aminadab,
—and |Uzza and Ahio| were driving the waggon.
8 And ||David and all Israel|| were dancing for joy before God, with all boldness,[b] and with songs and with lyres, and with harps[c] and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.
9 And <when they came as far as the threshing-floor of Chidon> Uzza thrust forth his hand to seize the ark, for the oxen were restive. 10 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Uzza, and he smote him, because he thrust forth his hand unto the ark, —and he died there, before God.

11 And it was a sadness[a] unto David, that Yahweh had broken in with a breach against Uzza,—and he called that place Perez-uzza,[b] [as it is called] unto this day. 12 And David was afraid of God, on that day, saying,—
How can I bring unto me, the ark of God?
13 So David removed not the ark unto him, into the city of David,—but took it aside into the house of Obed-edom, the Gittite. 14 And the ark of God remained with the household of Obed-edom, in his house, three months,—and Yahweh blessed the household of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

14 1 And Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers unto David, and timber of cedars, with masons and artificers,[c] to build for him a house. 2 So David perceived, that Yahweh |had confirmed him| as king over Israel,—that his kingship[d] was exalted,[e] for the sake of his people Israel.
3 And David took more wives, in Jerusalem,—and David begat more sons and daughters. 4 Now ||these|| are the names of them who were born, whom he had in Jerusalem,—Shammua and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon; 5 and Ibhar and Elishua, and Elpelet; 6 and Nogah and Nepheg, and Japhia; 7 and Elishama and Beeliada,[f] and Eliphelet.
8 And <when the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel> all the Philistines came up to seek to secure David,—and David, hearing, went out against them. 9 Now ||the Philistines|| had come and spread themselves out, in the vale of Rephaim. 10 Then David asked of God, saying,
Shall I go up against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliver them into my hand?
And Yahweh said to him,
Go up, and I will deliver them into thy hand.
11 So they came up in[g] Baal-perazim, and David smote them there, and David said,
God hath broken forth against mine enemies by my hand, like the breaking forth of waters,—
<For this cause> called they the name of that place, Baal-perazim. 12 And they left their gods there,—and David gave the word, and they were burned up in fire. 13 And the Philistines yet again' spread themselves out in the vale.[h] 14 So David |asked again| of God, and God said to him,
Thou shalt not go up after them,—get thee round, away from them, so shalt thou come in upon them, over against the mulberry-trees;[i] 15 and it shall be, <when thou hearest a sound of marching in the 16 So David did' as God commanded him,—and they smote the host of the Philistines, from Gibeon even unto Gezer.

17 And the name of David went forth, throughout all the lands,—and ‖Yahweh‖ put the dread of him upon all the nations.

§ 24. The Ark brought to Jerusalem.

15 1 And he made him houses, in the city of David,—and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent. 2 ‖Then‖ said David,

None must carry the ark of God, save the Levites, — for <of them> did Yahweh make choice, to bear the ark of Yahweh,[a] and to attend it, unto times age-abiding.

3 So David convoked all Israel, unto Jerusalem, —to bring up the ark of Yahweh, unto the place thereof, which he had prepared for it.

4 And David gathered together the sons of Aaron, and the Levites: 5 <Of the sons of Kohath> Uriel the chief, and his brethren, one hundred and twenty; 6 <of the sons of Merari> Asaiah the chief, and his brethren, two hundred and twenty; 7 <of the sons of Gershom> Joel the chief, and his brethren, one hundred and thirty; 8 <of the sons of Elizaphan> Shemaiah the chief, and his brethren, two hundred; 9 <of the sons of Hebron> Eliel the chief, and his brethren, eighty; 10 <of the son of Uzziel> Amminadab the chief, and his brethren, a hundred and twelve. 11 Then called David, for Zadok and for Abiathar, the priests,—and for the Levites, for Uriel, Asaiah and Joel, Shemaiah and Eliel, and Amminadab; 12 and said unto them.

Hallow yourselves, ‖ye and your brethren‖, so shall ye bring up the ark of Yahweh—God of Israel, into [the place] I have prepared for it.

13 <Because, at the first' ‖ye‖ did not [bring it]> Yahweh our God brake forth against us, because we sought him not in the appointed way.[b]

14 So the priests and the Levites hallowed themselves,—to bring up the ark of Yahweh, God of Israel. 15 And the sons of the Levites bare the ark of God, just as Moses commanded, according to the word of Yahweh, —on their shoulder, with the staves upon them. 16 And David spake to the chiefs of the Levites, to station their brethren the singers, with instruments of song,[c] harps[d] and lyres, and cymbals,—sounding aloud at the lifting up of the voice, for joy.

17 So the Levites caused to stand, Heman son of Joel, and <of his brethren> Asaph, son of Berechiah,—and <of the sons of Merari their brethren> Ethan, son of Kushaiah; 18 and <with them> their brethren of the second degree, — Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah,[a] and Eliphelehu, and Mickneiah,[b] and Obed-edom and Jeiel, the door-keepers.[c] 19 And ‖the singers, Heman, Asaph and Ethan‖ <with cymbals of bronze> were to sound aloud; 20 and Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaseiah and Benaiah, — with harps[d] over the trebles; 21 and Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel and Azaziah,[e]—with lyres over the bass, to take the lead. 22 And ‖Chenaniah[f] the leader of the Levites, in the service‖[g] used to give instructions[h] in the service,[g] because skilful' was he. 23 And ‖Berechiah and Elkanah‖ were door-keepers to the ark. 24 And ‖Shebaniah,[i] and Joshaphat, and Nethanel, and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer, the priests‖ were blowing with the trumpets, before the ark of God,—and ‖Obed-edom and Jehiah‖ were door-keepers, to the ark. 25 Thus, it was ‖David and the elders of Israel, and the rulers of thousands‖, who were going, to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, out of the house of Obed-edom, with joy.

26 And so it was that <when God helped the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh> they sacrificed seven bullocks and seven rams. 27 Now ‖David‖ was wrapped about with a robe of byssus,[k] with all the Levites who were bearing the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah[f] the leader of the service[g] rendered by the singers,—but <upon David> was an ephod of white linen.

28 So ‖all Israel‖ were bringing up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, with shouting, and with sound of the horn, and with trumpets, and with cymbals,—sounding aloud, with harps,[l] and lyres.

29 And so it was that <when the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came in as far as the city of David,—and Michal daughter of Saul looked forth through the window, and saw King David, dancing and playing> that she despised him in her heart.

So they brought in the ark of God, and placed it in the midst of the tent which David had pitched for it,—and they brought near ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings before God. 2 And <when David had made an end of offering the ascending-sacrifices and the peace-offerings> he blessed the people in the name of Yahweh. 3 And he apportioned to every one of Israel, both man and woman,—to every one a loaf of bread, and a sweet drink,[a] and a raisin cake.

4 And he placed before the ark of Yahweh certain of the Levites as attendants,—and to celebrate,[b] and to give thanks and render praise, unto Yahweh God of Israel: 5 Asaph the chief, and second to him Zechariah,—Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, with instruments of harps,[c] and with lyres, and Asaph with cymbals sounding aloud: 6 and Benaiah and Jahaziel the priests, — with trumpets continually, before the ark of the covenant of God.

7 <On that day> ‖then‖ David gave [these songs] in chief, to give thanks unto Yahweh,—through[d] Asaph and his brethren:—

8 Give ye thanks to Yahweh,[e] Call upon his name,
Make known among the peoples his doings;
9 Sing ye to him, Make music unto him,
Speak ye of all his wonders.
10 Boast yourselves in his holy' name,
Joyful be the heart of them who are seeking Yahweh.
11 Search out Yahweh and his power,
Seek diligently his face at all times.
12 Remember his wonders which he hath done,
His splendid deeds and the just decisions[f] of his mouth.
13 O ye seed of Israel his servant,
Sons of Jacob—his chosen ones:
14 ‖Yahweh himself‖ is our God,
<Through all the land> are his just decisions.
15 Remember ye[g] to times age-abiding his covenant,
The word he hath commanded to a thousand generations;
16 Which he solemnised with Abraham,
And his oath to Isaac;
17 And confirmed it,
Unto Jacob for a statute,
Unto Israel as a covenant age-abiding:
18 Saying, <To thee> will I give the land of Canaan,
As your inherited portion:

19 While as yet ye[a] were men who could be counted,
A very few and sojourners therein:
20 And they wandered from nation to nation,
And from one kingdom to another people:
21 He suffered no man to oppress them,
And reproved—for their sakes—kings!
22 Ye may not touch mine Anointed ones,
And <to my Prophets> may ye do no wrong.

23 Sing to Yahweh all the earth,[b]
Tell the tidings from day to day of his salvation:
24 Recount Among the nations, his glory,
Among all the peoples his wonders.
25 For great' is Yahweh and worthy to be mightily' praised,
And to be revered' is he' above all gods;
26 For ‖all the gods of the peoples‖ are things of nought,[c]
But ‖Yahweh‖ made |the heavens|.
27 ‖Praise and majesty‖ are before him,
‖Strength and joy‖ are in his dwelling-place.
28 Give to Yahweh ye families of the peoples,
Give to Yahweh glory and strength:
29 Give to Yahweh the glory of his name,—
Bring ye a present and enter before him,
Bow down to Yahweh in the adornment of holiness:[d]
30 Tremble at his presence all the earth,
But the world |shall be established|, it shall not be shaken.
31 Let the heavens rejoice and the earth exult,
Let them say among the nations,
‖Yahweh‖ hath become king!
32 Let the sea roar and the fulness thereof,
Let the field leap for joy and all that is therein:
33 ‖Then‖ shall shout in triumph the trees of the forest,—
Before Yahweh, for he is coming to judge the earth.

34 Give ye thanks unto Yahweh,
For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.[e]
35 And say ye,
Save us, O God of our salvation,
And gather us and deliver us from among the nations,—
That we may give thanks unto thy holy name,
That we may triumph aloud in thy praise.
36 Blessed be Yahweh God of Israel,
From one age even to another age.

Then said all the people,
Amen,
And gave praise to Yahweh.[f]

3 But so it was that <in that night> the word of God came unto Nathan,[g] saying:
4 Go and say unto David my servant,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
‖Thou‖[h] shalt not build me a house, to dwell in; 5 seeing that I have not dwelt in a house, since the day that I brought up Israel,[i] until this day,—but have been from tent to tent, and without a habitation.
6 <Wheresoever I have wandered with all Israel> spake I ever ‖a word‖ with one of the judges of Israel, whom I charged to shepherd my people, saying,— Wherefore' have ye not built me a house of cedars?
7 ‖Now‖ therefore, ‖thus‖ shalt thou say unto my servant David,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
‖I |myself‖ took thee from the pasture, from after the flock,—to become leader' over my people Israel; 8 and was with thee whithersoever thou didst go, and have cut off all thine enemies, from before thee,—and will make thee a name,[a] like the name of the great ones, who are in the earth; 9 and will appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, and they shall inhabit their place, and be unsettled no more,—neither shall the sons of perversity again' wear them out,[b] as at the first; 10 even from the days when I put judges' in charge over my people Israel, and have subdued all thine enemies,—that I might make thee great,[c] yea  will Yahweh' build for thee.
11 And it shall be that <when thy days are fulfilled, to sleep[d] with thy fathers> then will I raise up thy seed after thee, who shall be of thy sons,—and I will establish his kingdom. 12 ‖He‖ shall build me a house,—and I will establish his throne unto times age-abiding.
13 ‖I‖ will become his' father,
And ‖he‖ shall become my' son,—
And[e] <my lovingkindness> will I not cause to depart from him,—as I caused it to depart from him who was before thee; 14 but I will cause him to remain over my house and over my kingdom, unto times age-abiding,—and ‖his throne‖ shall be established, unto times age-abiding.
15 <According to all these words, and according to all this vision> ‖so‖ spake Nathan unto David.

16 Then entered King David, and tarried[f] before Yahweh,—and said,
Who am ‖I‖, O Yahweh God, and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto; 17 and hast made this seem little in thine eyes, O God, in that thou hast spoken concerning the house of thy servant, for a great while to come? Thus wilt thou provide for me, according to the rank[g] of manhood, and hast exalted me,[e] O Yahweh God!
18 What |yet further| can David say unto thee, [thus] to honour thy servant,—seeing that ‖thou thyself‖ knowest |thine own servant|?

19 O Yahweh, <for the sake of thy servant,[a] and according to thine own heart> hast thou done all this great thing,—making known all the great things.

20 O Yahweh, there is none' like unto thee, yea there is no God besides thee, according to all[b] that we have heard with our ears.

21 Who then is like thy people Israel, a nation alone'[c] in the earth,—whom God went to redeem, to be his own people, to make for thyself a name for great and fearful things, to drive out |nations| from before thy people, whom thou didst redeem out of Egypt; 22 and didst appoint thy people Israel for thyself as a people, unto times age-abiding,—‖thou thyself‖ also, O Yahweh, becoming their' God?

23 ‖Now‖ therefore, O Yahweh <the word which thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house> be it steadfast unto times age-abiding,—and do as thou hast spoken: 24 yea let it be steadfast, and so let thy Name be magnified unto times age-abiding, saying, seeing that ‖the house of David thy servant‖ is established before thee.

‖Yahweh of hosts, the God of Israel‖ is a God to Israel!

25 For ‖thou, O my God‖ hast unveiled the ear of thy servant, that thou wilt build for him' a house,— <for this cause> hath thy servant found [it in his heart] to pray before thee.

26 ‖Now‖ therefore, O Yahweh, ‖thou‖ art God,—therefore hast thou spoken concerning thy servant' this goodness.

27 ‖Now‖ therefore, let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may be unto times age-abiding before thee,—for ‖thou O Yahweh‖ hast blessed, and it is to be blessed unto times age-abiding.

18 1 And it came to pass <after this> that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them,—and took Gath and her villages, out of the hand of the Philistines. 2 And he smote Moab,—and the Moabites became servants to David, bearers of a present. 3 And David smote Hadarezer[d] king of Zobah, towards Hamath,—as he went to establish his hold of the river Euphrates. 4 And David captured from him a thousand chariots, and seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen,—and David destroyed all the chariots, saving that he reserved from them a hundred chariots. 5 And <when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadarezer[d] king of Zobah> David smote of the Syrians, twenty-two thousand men. 6 And David put [garrisons][a] in Syria of Damascus, and so it was that the Syrians became |David's| servants, bearers of a present, —so Yahweh gave victory to David, whithersoever he went. 7 And David took the shields of gold, that were upon the servants of Hadarezer,[b]—and brought them to Jerusalem; 8 also <from Tibhath and from Cûn, cities of Hadarezer>[b] David took very much bronze, —<therewith> did Solomon make the sea of bronze, and the pillars, and the vessels of bronze. 9 And <when Tou, king of Hamath, heard that David had smitten all the force of Hadarezer king of Zobah> 10 he sent Hadoram his son unto King David, to ask after his welfare, and to bless him, because he had made war against Hadarezer and had smitten him, for |a man making wars against Tou| had been Hadarezer,—and [he had with him] all manner of vessels of gold and silver and bronze; 11 <them also> did King David hallow unto Yahweh, with the silver and the gold, that he bare away from all the nations,—from Edom, and from Moab, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the Philistines, and from Amalek. 12 Moreover ‖Abishai, son of Zeruiah‖ smote Edom, in the Valley of Salt,—eighteen thousand; 13 and set |in Edom| garrisons, and all Edom became servants unto David,—and Yahweh gave David the victory, whithersoever he went.

14 So David reigned over all Israel,—and he was executing justice and righteousness for all his people; 15 and ‖Joab, son of Zeruiah‖ was over the army,—and ‖Jehoshaphat, son of Elihud‖ was recorder;[c] 16 and ‖Zadok, son of Ahitub, and Abimelech[d] son of Abiathar ‖were priests,—and ‖Shavsha‖ was scribe; 17 and ‖Benaiah, son of Jehoiada‖ was over the Cherethites, and the[e] Pelethites,—and ‖the sons of David‖ were first, in attendance on[f] the king.

§ 29. The Sons of Ammon insult David, as a consequence they and their allies, the Syrians, are defeated and themselves subjugated.

19 1 And it came to pass |after this| that Nahash king of the sons of Ammon died,—and Hanun[g] his son reigned in his stead. 2 Then said David—

I will shew lovingkindness unto Hanun, son of Nahash,—for his father' shewed unto me' lovingkindness.

So David sent messengers to console him concerning his father,—and the servants of David came into the land of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun, to console him. 3 Then said the rulers of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun,

Doth David honour thy father in thine eyes, that he hath sent to thee comforters?[a]
Is it not |for the sake of exploring and overthrowing, and spying out the land| that his servants have come to thee?[a]

4 So Hanun took the servants of David, and shaved them, and cut off their upper garments in the middle, as far as their parts of shame,—and let them go. 5 And people went and told David, concerning the men, so he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed,—and the king said—

Tarry at Jericho, until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 And <when the sons of Ammon saw, that they had made themselves odious with David> Hanun and the sons of Ammon sent a thousand talents of silver, to hire for themselves—out of Mesopotamia, and out of Aram-maacah, and out of Zobah—chariots, and horsemen. 7 So they hired for themselves thirty-two thousand chariots, and the king of Maacah, and his people, who came and pitched before Medeba,—and the sons of Ammon gathered themselves together out of their cities, and entered into the war.

8 Now <when David heard> he sent Joab and all the army of heroes. 9 And the sons of Ammon came out, and set in array for the battle, at the opening of the city,—whereas ‖the kings who had come‖ were by themselves, in the field. 10 So <when Joab saw that the battle confronted him,[b] before and behind,—he chose out of all the choice in Israel, and set in array to meet the Syrians; 11 and <the rest of the people> delivered he into the hand of Abishai his brother,—and they set in array, to meet the sons of Ammon. 12 And he said—

<If ‖too strong for me‖ be the Syrians> then shalt thou come to my' help,—but <if ‖the sons of Ammon‖ be too strong for thee> then will I help thee'. 13 Be strong, and let us put forth our strength, for the sake of our people, and for the sake of the cities of our God,—and let ‖Yahweh‖ do |what is good in his own eyes|.

14 Then did Joab, and all the people who were with him, draw near before the Syrians unto the battle,—and they fled from before him. 15 And <when ‖the sons of Ammon‖ saw that the Syrians had fled> then fled ‖they also‖ from before Abishai his brother, and entered the city,—and Joab came to Jerusalem.

16 And when the Syrians saw that they had been defeated before Israel, then sent they messengers, and brought out the Syrians who were Beyond the River,—with Shophach captain of the army of Hadarezer,[a] before them. 17 And it was told David, and he gathered together all Israel, and crossed the Jordan, and came unto them, and set in array against them,—and <when David had set in array against the Syrians for battle> they fought with him. 18 And the Syrians fled from before Israel, and David slew of the Syrians [the men of] seven thousand chariots, and forty thousand footmen,—and <Shophach captain of the army> he put to death. 19 And <when the servants of Hadarezer[a] saw that they were defeated before Israel> they made peace with David and served him,—neither would the Syrians help the sons of Ammon any more.

20 1 And it came to pass <at the time of the turn of the year, at the time of the going forth of kings> that Joab led forth the force of the army, and laid waste the land of the sons of Ammon, and came and besieged Rabbah, but ‖David‖ was tarrying in Jerusalem,—and Joab smote Rabbah, and overthrew it. 2 And David took the crown of their king[b] from off his head, and found it weighed a talent of gold, and <therein> were precious stones, and it was [set] on the head of David,—and <the spoil of the city> brought he forth, in great abundance; 3 and <the people that were therein> brought he forth, and cut with the saw and with threshing sledges of iron and with axes, <thus also> used David to do unto all the cities of the sons of Ammon,—and David and all the people returned to Jerusalem.

4 And it came to pass <after this> that there was yet again' a battle in Gezer, with the Philistines,—‖then‖ Sibbecai the Hushathite smote Sippai of the children of the giants, and they were subdued.

5 And there again' came to be a battle with the Philistines,—and Elhanan son of Jair[c] smote Lahmi, brother of Goliath the Gittite, ‖the staff of whose spear‖ was like a weaver's beam.

6 And there again' came to be war with Gath,—where was a man of great stature, ‖whose fingers and toes‖ <six on each hand and foot> were four and twenty, and ‖he also‖ had been born unto the giant. 7 But <when he reproached Israel> Jonathan, son of Shimea brother of David, smote him. 8 ‖These‖ were born unto the giant in Gath,—but they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

§ 31. The Numbering of the People protested against, persisted in, and punished; the Place of Accepted Sacrifice to be the Site of the Temple.

21 1 Then the accuser[a] stood up, against Israel,— and moved David, to number Israel. 2 And David said unto Joab and unto the rulers of the people,
Go, number Israel, from Beer-sheba even unto Dan,—and bring [the report] unto me, that I may know the number of them.
3 Then said Joab,
May Yahweh add unto his people, as many as they are, a hundred times, but are they not, my lord O king, all of them my lord's, as servants? wherefore' should my lord seek this? wherefore' should it become guilt to Israel?
4 But ‖the word of the king‖ prevailed against Joab,—and Joab departed, and went to and fro throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem. 5 And Joab delivered the sum of the number of the people, unto David,—and all Israel was found to be a thousand thousand and a hundred thousand men, who drew sword, and Judah, four hundred and seventy thousand men, who drew sword. 6 But <Levi and Benjamin> counted he not among them,—for detestable' was the word of the king unto Joab.
7 And it was displeasing in the eyes of God, concerning this thing,—therefore smote he Israel.
8 And David said unto God,
I have sinned greatly, in that I have done this thing,—but ‖now‖ I beseech thee, take away the iniquity of thy servant, for I have shown myself very foolish.
9 Then spake Yahweh unto Gad, the seer of David, saying:
10 Go—and thou shalt speak unto David, saying,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
<Three things> do I' offer thee,—choose thee one from among them, that I may do it unto thee.
11 So Gad came unto David,—and said to him,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
12 Choose thee:—
Whether <for three years> [there be] famine,
Or <for three months> that thou flee[b] before thine adversaries, while the sword of thine enemies overtaketh thee.
Or <for three days> the sword of Yahweh, and pestilence be in the land, with ‖the messenger of Yahweh‖ laying waste throughout all the boundary of Israel,—
‖Now‖ therefore see, what |answer| I shall return unto him that sent me.
13 And David said unto Gad,
I am in a great strait,—
Oh let me fall, I pray thee, into the hand of Yahweh, for abounding' are his compassions, |exceedingly|, but <into the hand of man> let me not fall.
14 So Yahweh laid pestilence, upon Israel,—and there fell, of Israel, seventy thousand men.
15 And God sent a messenger to Jerusalem, to lay it waste,[a] but <as he was laying it waste> Yahweh looked, and relented concerning the calamity, and said unto the messenger who was laying waste,
Enough! ‖now‖ stay thy hand.
And ‖the messenger of Yahweh‖ was standing by the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. 16 And <when David lifted up his eyes, and saw the messenger of Yahweh, standing, between the earth and the heavens,[b] and his sword drawn, in his hand, stretched out over Jerusalem> then fell David and the elders, clothed in sackcloth, upon their faces. 17 And David said unto God,
Was it not ‖I‖ who gave word to number the people? Yea ‖I‖ it was' who sinned and did the great wrong, what then had ‖these sheep‖ done?
O Yahweh, my God, let thy hand, I beseech thee, be against me, and against the house of my father, but not against ‖thy people‖ that they should be plagued!
18 And ‖the messenger of Yahweh‖ commanded Gad, to say unto David,—that David should go up, to rear an altar unto Yahweh, in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. 19 So David went up, according to[c] the word of Gad, which he spake in the name of Yahweh.
20 And Ornan turned, and saw the messenger, but ‖his four sons with him‖ were hiding themselves,—now ‖Ornan‖ had been threshing wheat. 21 Then came David unto Ornan, —and Ornan looked, and saw David, and went forth out of the threshing-floor, and bowed himself unto David, with his face to the ground. 22 And David said unto Ornan
Grant me the place of the threshing-floor, that I may build thereon an altar, unto Yahweh, —<for silver in full> shalt thou grant it me, that the plague may be stayed from off the people.
23 And Ornan said unto David,
Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do what is good in his own eyes,—see! I have given the oxen for ascending-sacrifices, and <the threshing implements for wood, and the wheat for a meal-offering,—the whole> have I given.
24 Then said King David to Ornan, Nay! but I will ‖surely buy‖ it for silver in full,—for I will not take that which is thine for Yahweh, nor offer an ascending-sacrifice that hath cost me nothing.
25 So David gave to Ornan, for the place,— shekels of gold, by weight, six hundred.

[a] Or: "adversary;" frequently seems = one who tempts and betrays, and then accuses. Heb.: śāṭān.

26 And David built there an altar unto Yahweh, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices, and peace-offerings,—and called unto Yahweh, and he responded to him, by fire, out of the heavens, upon the altar of ascending-sacrifice. 27 And Yahweh gave word to the messenger, and he put back his sword into its sheath.

28 <At that time, when David saw that Yahweh had answered him in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite> then he sacrificed there. 29 But ‖the habitation of Yahweh, which Moses made in the desert, and the altar of ascending-sacrifice‖ were <at that time> in the high place at Gibeon ;[a] 30 and David could not go before it, to seek God,—for he had been terrified, because of the sword of the messenger of Yahweh.

22 1 Then said David,
‖This‖ is the house of Yahweh God,—and ‖this‖ is the altar of ascending-sacrifice, for Israel.

§ 32. David's Preparations for Building the Temple; and his Charge to Solomon and the Rulers respecting it.

2 And David gave word, to gather together the sojourners, who were in the land of Israel,— and he set hewers to hew squared stones, for building the house of God; 3 and <iron in abundance, for nails for the doors of the gates, and for hooks> did David prepare,—and bronze in abundance, without weight; 4 and cedar-trees, even without number,—for the Zidonians and the Tyreans brought cedar-trees in abundance, unto David.

5 And David said,
‖Solomon my son‖ is young and tender, and ‖the house to be built‖ must be great and lofty and famous and beautiful, for all lands,[b]—oh let me then prepare for it.
So David prepared abundantly, before his death. 6 Then he called for Solomon his son,—and charged him, to build a house, for Yahweh, God of Israel. 7 And David said to Solomon his son,[c]— <As for me> it was ‖near my heart‖ to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God; 8 but the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying,
<Blood in abundance> hast thou shed,
And <great wars> hast thou made,— Thou shalt not build a house for my Name,
Because <much blood> hast thou shed upon the earth, before me.

9 Lo! ‖a son‖ born to thee,
‖He‖ shall be a man of rest,
And I will give him rest from all his enemies, round about,—
For <Solomon>[a] shall be his Name,
And <peace and quietness> will I bestow upon Israel, in his days;

10 ‖He‖ shall build a house for my Name,
And ‖he‖ shall be my' son,[b]
And ‖I‖ will be his' father,[c]— Therefore will I establish the throne of his kingdom[d] over Israel, unto times age-abiding.

11 ‖Now‖ my son, Yahweh be with thee,—so shalt thou be prosperous, and shalt build the house of Yahweh thy God, according as he hath spoken concerning thee.

12 Only' Yahweh give thee discretion and understanding, and give thee charge over Israel, —so that thou take heed unto the law of Yahweh thy God. 13 ‖Then‖ shalt thou prosper, if thou take heed to do the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh commanded Moses, concerning Israel,—be strong and bold, thou mayst not be in fear, nor be dismayed.

14 Lo! then <in my humiliation> have I prepared for the house of Yahweh, of gold a hundred thousand talents, and of silver a thousand thousand talents, and <as for bronze and iron> without' weight, for <an abundance> hath it become, — <timber also and stone> have I prepared, and <thereunto> thou canst add.

15 And <with thee, in abundance> are workmen, hewers and carvers of stone and wood,
—and every sort of wise man, in all manner of work: 16 for gold and for silver and for bronze and for iron, |without' number|.
Arise and do, And Yahweh be with
thee!

17 And David charged all the rulers of Israel, to help Solomon his son:—

18 Is not ‖Yahweh your God‖ with you? and hath he not given you rest on every side?
for he hath given into my hand, the inhabitants of the land, and subdued' is the land before Yahweh, and before his people.

19 ‖Now‖ apply your heart and your soul, to seek unto Yahweh your God,—and then arise ye and build the sanctuary of Yahweh Elohim, that ye may bring the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, and the holy vessels of God, into the house which hath been built for the Name of Yahweh.

§ 33. Solomon to be David's Successor. The Levites' Number, Families, and Duties.

23 1 Now ‖David‖ was old, and satisfied with days,—so he made Solomon his son king, over Israel; 2 and gathered together all the rulers of Israel, with the priests and the Levites. 3 Now the Levites were numbered, from thirty years

<Of these—to preside over the work of the house of Yahweh> were twenty-four thousand,
—and officers and judges, six thousand; [5] and four thousand‖ were doorkeepers,—and ‖four thousand‖ were offerers of praise unto Yahweh, with instruments.

Which [said David] I made for offering praise.
And David divided them into courses,—pertaining to the sons of Levi, to Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

<Of the Gershonites> Ladan and Shimei. [8] ‖The sons of Ladan‖ the chief Jehiel, and Zetham and Joel, three. [9] ‖The sons of Shimei‖ Shelomoth[a] and Haziel and Haran, three,—‖these‖ were the ancestral chiefs of Ladan. [10] And ‖the sons of Shimei‖ Jahath, Zina, and Jeush, and Beriah,—‖these‖ were the sons of Shimei, four. [11] And Jahath was chief, and Zizah the second,—but ‖Jeush and Beriah‖ had not many sons, so they became an ancestral house, by one reckoning.

[12] ‖The sons of Kohath‖ Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four. [13] ‖The sons of Amram‖ Aaron and Moses,—and Aaron was separated, to hallow the holy of holies, ‖he and his sons‖, unto times age-abiding, to make a perfume before Yahweh, to be in attendance upon him, and to bless in his name, unto times age-abiding; [14] and <as for Moses, the man of God> ‖his sons‖ were called unto the tribe of Levi. [15] ‖The sons of Moses‖ were Gershom, and Eliezer. [16] ‖The sons of Gershom‖ were Shebuel the chief; [17] and the sons of Eliezer were Rehabiah[b] the chief,—and Eliezer had no other sons, but ‖the sons of Rehabiah‖[b] were very many.[c] [18] ‖The sons of Izhar‖ Shelomith the chief. [19] ‖The sons of Hebron‖ Jeriah the chief, Amariah the second, Jehaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth. [20] ‖The sons of Uzziel‖ Micah the chief, and Isshiah the second.

[21] ‖The sons of Merari‖ were Mahli and Mushi. ‖The sons of Mahli‖ were Eleazar and Kish. [22] But Eleazar died, and had no sons, but daughters only,—and so the sons of Kish their brethren took them. [23] ‖The sons of Mushi‖ were Mahli and Eder and Jeremoth, three.

[24] ‖These‖ were the sons of Levi by their ancestral house, the ancestral chiefs of them who were counted in the number of their names, by their polls, doing the work, for the service[d] of the house of Yahweh,—from twenty years old, and upwards. [25] For, said David,

Yahweh the God of Israel hath given rest unto his people,—and hath taken up his habitation[e] in Jerusalem, unto times age-abiding; [26] moreover also' <as for the Levites> they have no need' to bear the habitation, nor any of its vessels in the laborious work thereof.

[27] For <by the last words of David> ‖the same‖ were the number of the sons of Levi,—from twenty years old, and upwards. [28] For ‖their duty‖[a] was—to be in attendance upon[b] the sons of Aaron, in the laborious work of the house of Yahweh, over the courts, and over the chambers, and over the purifying of everything holy,—and doing the laborious work of the house of God; [29] and for the bread set in array, and for the fine meal for the meal-offering, and for the unleavened cakes, even for that which is baked in a pan, for the moistened food,—even of every measure, and size; [30] and to stand, morning by morning, to give thanks and offer praise unto Yahweh,—and |likewise| at even; [31] and for all the offering of ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the set feasts,—by number, according to the manner prescribed for them[c] continually, before Yahweh;—[32] and they shall keep the charge of the tent of meeting, and the charge of the holy place, and the charge of the sons of Aaron, their brethren,—in the laborious work of the house of Yahweh.

24 1 Now ‖the sons of Aaron‖ had their courses,—
|the sons of Aaron|, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar; [2] but Nadab and Abihu |died| before their father, and <sons> had they none,—but Eleazar and Ithamar became priests; [3] and David apportioned to them courses, both to Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and to Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar,—by their appointed place, in their service. [4] But the sons of Eleazar were found to be more numerous, by the chiefs of their able men, than were the sons of Ithamar, so they divided them,—‖the sons of Eleazar‖ had chiefs, of the[d] ancestral house ‖sixteen‖, whereas ‖the sons of Ithamar‖ had of their ancestral house, ‖eight‖. [5] They divided them, therefore, by [casting] lots, these with those,—for there were princes of the sanctuary, and princes of God, from among the sons of Eleazar, and among[e] the sons of Ithamar. [6] And Shemaiah son of Nethanel the scribe from among the Levites, |wrote them down| before the king and the rulers and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech son of Abiathar, and the ancestral chiefs, pertaining to the priests and to the Levites,—‖one ancestral house‖ was taken for Eleazar, and ‖was equally taken‖ for Ithamar.[f]

[7] So then the first lot came forth for Jehoiarib, <for Jedaiah> the second; [8] <for Harim> the Levites, belonging to their ancestral house.

31 Moreover ‖they also‖ cast lots along with their brethren the sons of Aaron, before David the king and Zadok and Ahimelech, and the ancestral chiefs, pertaining to the priests and to the Levites,—the ancestral chief along with his younger' brethren.

§ 35. David and his Captains appoint Twenty-four Courses of Singers and Musicians, under Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman.

25 1 And David and the captains of the host[i] set apart for service, unto the sons of Asaph and Heman and Jeduthun, such as should prophesy,[k] with lyres, with harps,[l] and with cymbals.—and ‖the number of the workers, for their service‖ was: 2 <Of the sons of Asaph> Zaccur and Joseph and Nethaniah and Asarelah, the sons of Asaph,—under the direction of Asaph,[a] who prophesied under the direction of[b] the king. 3 <Of Jeduthun> ‖the sons of Jeduthun‖—Gedaliah, and Zeri, and Jeshaiah, Hashabiah,[c] and Mattithiah—six, under the direction of[d] their father Jeduthun, with the lyre, as he prophesied, in giving thanks and offering praise unto Yahweh. 4 <Of Heman> the sons of Heman — Bukkiah,[e]
Mattaniah[f] Uzziel, Shebuel, and Jeremoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, Mahazioth. 5 ‖All these‖ were sons of Heman, the seer of the king in the things of God, at the lifting of the horn. And God gave to Heman, fourteen sons and three daughters. 6 ‖All these‖ were under the direction of their father, in the singing of the house of Yahweh, with cymbals, harps[g] and lyres, for the service of the house of God,— Asaph and Jeduthun and Heman ‖under the direction of the king‖. 7 And ‖the number of them—with their brethren, who were instructed in singing unto Yahweh,—even all the skilful‖ was two hundred and eighty-eight. 8 So they cast lots for their charges, all alike, as the small so the great, the teacher with the learner.

9 And the first lot came forth for Asaph, to Joseph,—‖Gedaliah‖ the second, he' and his brethren and his sons, twelve. 10 ‖The third‖, Zaccur, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 11 ‖The fourth‖, to Izri, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 12 ‖The fifth‖, Nethaniah,[h] his sons and his brethren, twelve. 13 ‖The sixth‖, Bukkiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 14 ‖The seventh‖ Jesharelah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 15 ‖The eighth‖, Jeshaiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 16 ‖The ninth‖, Mattaniah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 17 ‖The tenth‖ Shimei, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 18 ‖The eleventh‖, Azarel, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 19 ‖The twelfth‖, to Hashabiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 20 ‖As the thirteenth‖, Shubael, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 21 ‖As the fourteenth‖, Mat-twelve. 22 ‖As the fifteenth, to Jeremoth‖, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 23 ‖As the sixteenth‖, to Hananiah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 24 ‖As the seventeenth‖, to Joshbekashah, his sons and his brethren, twelve. 25 ‖As the eighteenth‖ to Hanani,

his sons and his brethren, twelve. 26 ‖As

26 1 <To the courses of the door-keepers> pertained,— |of the Korahites| Meshelemiah[b] son of Kore, of the sons of Asaph;[c] 2 and ‖Meshelemiah‖ had sons,—Zechariah the firstborn, Jediael the second, Zebadiah[d] the third, Jathniel the fourth; 3 Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Eliehoenai the seventh. 4 And ‖Obed-edom‖ had sons,—Shemaiah the firstborn, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethanel the fifth; 5 Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peullethai, the eighth,—for God had blessed' him. 6 And <to Shemaiah his son> were born sons, who bare rule to their ancestral house,—for <heroes of valour>[e] were they. 7 ‖The sons of Shemaiah‖ were Othni and Rephael, and Obed, Elzabad, whose brethren were sons of valour,[f]—Elihu, and Semachiah.[g] 8 ‖All these‖ were of the sons of Obed-edom, they' and their sons and their brethren, able men in strength for the service,—‖sixty-two, pertaining to Obed-edom‖. 9 And ‖Meshelemiah‖ had sons, and brethren, sons of valour,[f] eighteen. 10 And ‖Hosah of the sons of Merari‖ had sons,—Shimri the chief, for though he was not the firstborn, yet his father |made him| chief. 11 Hilkiah' the second, Tebaliah' the third, Zechariah' the fourth,—‖all the sons and brethren of Hosah‖ were thirteen. 12 <To these> belonged the courses of door-keepers, <to the chiefs of the strong men> belonged charges, equally with their brethren,—to be in attendance in the house of Yahweh.

13 Yea they cast lots, as' the small so' the great, by their ancestral house, for every several gate. 14 And the lot eastward fell to Shelemiah. And <for[h] Zechariah his son, a discreet counseller> they cast lots, and his lot came out, northward. 15 <To Obed-edom> southward,—and <to his sons> the storehouse. 16 <To Shuppim[i] and to Hosah> westward, near the refuse-gate, in the causeway that goeth up,—one ward as well as another. 17 <Eastward—daily> were six,[k]—<northward—daily> four, <southward—daily> four, and <for the stores> two and two. 18 <For the precinct—westward> four, <at the causeway> two—by the precinct. 19 ‖These‖ were the courses of the door-keepers, of the sons of the Korahites, and of the sons of Merari.

20 And ‖the Levites, their brethren‖[a] were over the treasuries of the house of God, even to the treasuries of hallowed things. 21 ‖The sons of Ladan—the sons of the Gershonites belonging to Ladan — the ancestral chiefs belonging to Ladan the Gershonite‖ were Jehieli; 22 the sons of Jehieli‖ Zetham and Joel his brother who were over the treasuries of the house of Yahweh. 23 Then came certain of the Amramites, of the Izharites, of the Hebronites, of the Uzzielites. 24 And ‖Shebuel, son of Gershom, son of Moses‖ was chief ruler over the treasuries. 25 And ‖his brethren pertaining to Eliezer‖ were Rehabiah his son, and Jeshaiah his son, and Joram his son, and Zichri his son, and Shelomoth[b] his son. 26 ‖The same Shelomoth and his brethren‖ were over all the treasuries of the hallowed things, which David the king and the ancestral chiefs, with the captains of thousands and hundreds and the captains of the army |had hallowed|: 27 <out of the battles and out of the spoil> had they hallowed [them], — to strengthen [the provision] for the house o Yahweh. 28 And <all that Samuel the seer, and Saul son of Kish, and Abner son of Ner, and Joab son of Zeruiah> had hallowed, <whosoever had hallowed anything> it was under the direction[c] of Shelomoth,[d] and his brethren.

29 <Of the Izharites> ‖Chenaniah and his sons‖ were for the outward business over Israel, —as officers, and as judges.

30 <Of the Hebronites> ‖Hashabiah and his brethren, sons of valour,[e] one thousand seven hundred‖ had the oversight of Israel, across the Jordan westward,—for all the business of Yahweh, and for the service of the king.

31 <Of the Hebronites> |Jerijah|[f] was chief, [he was] of the Hebronites by his generations, by his fathers,—<in the fortieth year of the reign of David> were they sought out, and there were found among them heroes of valour, in Jazer of Gilead; 32 and ‖his brethren that were heroes of valour‖ were two thousand and seven hundred, ancestral chiefs,—so David the king gave them oversight, over the Reubenites and the Gadites and the half tribe of Manassites, in all the affairs of God, and the affairs of the king.

2 <Over the first course, for the first month> was Jashobeam, son of Zabdiel,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 3 <Of the sons of Perez> was the chief for all the rulers of the hosts, for the first month. 4 And <over the course for the second month> was Dodai an Ahohite, and <of his course> was Mikloth also a chief ruler,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 5 ‖The ruler of the third host, for the third month‖ was Benaiah, son of Jehoiada the priest—a chief,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 6 ‖The same Benaiah‖ was a hero of[a] thirty, and over the thirty,—and <over[b] his course> was Ammizabad his son. 7 <The fourth, for the fourth month> was Asahel, brother of Joab, and Zebadiah his son, after him,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 8 <Of the fifth, for the fifth month> ‖the ruler‖ was Shamhuth the Izrahite,[c]—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 9 <The sixth, for the sixth month> was Ira son of Ikkesh, the Tekoite,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 10 <The seventh, for the seventh month> was Helez the Pelonite, of the sons of Ephraim,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 11 <The eighth, for the eighth month> was Sibbecai the Hushathite, of the Zerahites,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 12 <The ninth, for the ninth month> was Abiezer the Anathothite, of the Benjamites,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 13 <The tenth, for the tenth month> was Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zerahites,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 14 <The eleventh, for the eleventh month> was Benaiah the Pirathonite, of the sons of Ephraim,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand. 15 <The twelfth, for the twelfth month> was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel,—and <in his course> were twenty-four thousand.

§ 38. The Rulers of the Twelve Tribes.

16 Furthermore <over the tribes of Israel> |the chief ruler of the Reubenites'| was Eliezer, son of Zichri. <Of the Simeonites> Shephatiah, son of Maacah. 17 <Of Levi> Hashabiah, son of Kemuel. <Of Aaron> Zadok. 18 <Of Judah> Elihu, one of the brethren of David. <Of Issachar> Omri, son of Michael. 19 <Of Zebulun> Ishmaiah, son of Obadiah. <Of Naphtali> Jeremoth, son of Azriel. 20 <Of the sons of Ephraim> Hoshea son of Azaziah. <Of the half tribe of Manasseh> Joel, son of Pedaiah.[a] 21 <Of the half of Manasseh, in Gilead> Iddo, son of Zechariah. <Of Benjamin> Jaasiel, son of Abner. 22 <Of Dan> Azarel, son of Jeroham. ‖These‖ were the rulers of the tribes of Israel. 23 But David took not the number of them, from twenty years old, and under,—because Yahweh had said, he would multiply Israel like the stars of the heavens. 24 ‖Joab son of Zeruiah‖ began to number, but finished not, when there arose, on this account, indignation against Israel, — neither did the number come up into the account of the chronicles of King David.

25 And <over the treasuries of the king> was Azmaveth, son of Adiel. And <over the treasuries in the fields, in the cities, in the villages and in the castles> was Jonathan, son of Uzziah; 26 And <over the workers of the field, for the tillage of the ground> was Ezri, son of Chelub. 27 And <over the vineyards> was Shimei, the Ramathite. And <over that which was in the vineyards, for the treasuries of wine> was Zabdi, the Shiphmite. 28 And <over the olive-trees and the sycamore-trees that were in the lowland> was Baal-hanan the Gederite. And <over the treasuries of oil> was Joash. 29 And <over the herds that pastured in Sharon> was Shitrai,[b] the Sharonite. And <over the herds in the vales> Shaphat, son of Adlai. 30 And <over the camels> was Obil, the Ishmaelite. And <over the asses> was Jehdeyahu the Meronothite. 31 And <over the flocks> was Jaziz, the Hagrite.[c] ‖All these‖ were rulers over the possessions that belonged to King David.

32 And ‖Jonathan the relative of David‖ was a counsellor, ‖a man of understanding and a scribe‖ was he. And ‖Jehiel son of Hachmoni‖ was with the sons of the king. 33 And ‖Ahitophel‖ was counsellor to the king. And ‖Hushai the Archite‖ was the companion of the king. 34 And <after Ahitophel> was Jehoiada son of Benaiah—and Abiathar. And ‖the captain of the king's army‖ was Joab.

§ 41. David's last Charge to his Chief Men and to Solomon: His Plans and Patterns for the Temple and its Furniture.

and the rulers of thousands and the rulers of hundreds, and the rulers over all the possessions and substance that belonged to the king and to his sons, with the courtiers and the heroes, even every hero of valour, unto Jerusalem.

2 Then David the king rose up on his feet, and said,

Hear me, my brethren and my people,—
<As for me> it was near my heart, to build a house of rest for the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, and for the footstool of our God, and I made ready to build. 3 But ‖God‖ said to me, Thou shalt not build a house for my Name, —for  thou art,' and <blood> hast thou shed.

4 Howbeit Yahweh, God of Israel, made choice of me, out of all of the house of my father, to become king over Israel unto times age-abiding, for <of Judah> had he made choice to be chief ruler, and <in the house of Judah> ‖the house of my father‖,—and <among the sons of my father> ‖with me‖ was he well-pleased, to make me king over all Israel; 5 and <from among all my sons>—for <many sons> hath Yahweh' given me,—he hath made choice of Solomon my son, to sit upon the throne of the kingdom of Yahweh, over Israel. 6 And he said unto me,
‖Solomon thy son—he‖ shall build my house, and my courts,—for I have made choice of him that he may be my' son, and that ‖I‖ may be his' father. 7 So will I establish his kingdom, unto times age-abiding,—if he be strong, to do my commandments and my regulations, as at this day.

8 ‖Now‖ therefore,
<in the eyes of all Israel—the convocation of Yahweh, and in the ears of our God>
Observe and seek all the commandments of Yahweh your God,—to the end that ye may possess the good land,—and suffer your sons after you to inherit it, unto times age-abiding.

9 ‖Thou‖, therefore, ‖Solomon my son‖
Know thou the God of thy father,
And serve him with a perfect heart and with a willing soul,
For <all hearts> doth Yahweh search,
And <every devised purpose> doth he understand,—
<If thou seek him>
He will be found of thee,
But <if thou forsake him>
He will cast thee off for ever.[a]

10 See! ‖now‖ that ‖Yahweh‖ hath made choice of thee, to build a house for a sanctuary—be strong and do!

11 Then gave David unto Solomon his son, the plan of the porch, and the recesses thereof, and the treasuries thereof, and the upper rooms thereof, and the inner chambers thereof, and the recess for the propitiatory; 12 and the plan of all which had come by the spirit to be with him, for the courts of the house of Yahweh, and for all the rooms round about,—for the treasuries of the house of God, and for the treasuries of hallowed things; 13 and for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh,—and for all the utensils of the service of the house of Yahweh: 14 <of gold, by weight> for the gold, for all manner of utensils for each several service,—for all manner of utensils of silver, by weight, for all manner of utensils for each several service; 15 and a weight, for the lamp-stands of gold, and their lamps of gold, by the weight of each several lampstand, and the lamps thereof,—and for the lamp-stands of silver by weight, for each lamp-stand and the lamps thereof, according to the service of each several lampstand. 16 And the gold [gave he] by weight for the tables for setting in array, for each several table, —and silver, for the tables of silver; 17 and the fleshhooks and the bowls and the cups, pure gold,—and for the goblets of gold, by weight for each several goblet, and for the goblets of silver, by weight for each several goblet; 18 and <for the altar of incense> refined gold, by weight,—and <for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubim> gold, for them that were spreading out, and covering the ark of the covenant of Yahweh:—— 19 the whole in writing,
From the hand of Yahweh upon me to give understanding,— all the works of the pattern.

20 Then said David, unto Solomon his son,
Be strong and bold, and act, thou mayest not fear nor be dismayed,—for ‖Yahweh, God, my God‖ will be with thee, he will not let thee go, neither will he forsake thee, until thou hast finished all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh. 21 And there are the courses of the priests and the Levites, for all the service of the house of God,—and <with thee, in all manner of work> is every willing, skilful man for any service, also the rulers and all the people, for all thine affairs.

§ 42. Offerings for Building the Temple made by David and his People.

29 1 Then said David the king unto all the convocation, ‖Solomon my son, ‖the one‖[a] of whom God hath made choice‖ is young and tender,—and ‖the work‖ is great, seeing that <not for man> is the palace, but for Yahweh Elohim. 2 And <with all my might> have I made preparation for the house of my God, the gold for the gold, and the silver for the silver, and the bronze for the bronze, the[a] iron for the iron, and the wood for the wood,—and beryl stones and settings, stones coloured and particoloured, and all manner of precious stones and stones of white marble, in abundance. 3 And yet further' <because of my delighting in the house of my God, having a treasure of mine own in gold and silver> I have given for the house of my God, above and beyond all that I have prepared for the holy house: 4 three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir,—and seven thousand talents of refined silver, for overlaying the walls of the recesses. 5 <Of gold' for the gold, and of silver' for the silver, and for all manner of work in the hand of artificers>,—Who then is ready to offer willingly, by filling his hand to-day, unto Yahweh?

6 Then offered they willingly—the ancestral rulers and the rulers of the tribes of Israel, and the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even to the rulers of the work of the king; 7 and gave for the service of the house of God, <of gold> five thousand talents and ten thousand drams,[b] and <of silver> ten thousand talents, and <of bronze> eighteen thousand talents, —and <of iron> one hundred thousand talents. 8 And ‖every one with whom were found precious stones‖ gave to the treasure of the house of Yahweh,—unto the hand[c] of Jehiel the Gershonite. 9 So the people rejoiced because they willingly offered, for <with a perfect heart> offered they willingly unto Yahweh,—moreover also' ‖David the king‖ rejoiced with great joy.

10 Therefore did David bless Yahweh in the eyes of all the convocation,—and David said,

Blessed' art thou, O Yahweh, the God of Israel our father, from age even unto age.[d]

11 ‖Thine‖ O Yahweh, are Greatness, and Might, and Beauty, and Victory, and Majesty, nay! ‖all in the heavens and in the earth‖,—‖thine‖ O Yahweh, is the kingdom, who art exalted' above all—as chief; 12 and ‖riches and honour‖ are from before thee, and ‖thou‖ art ruling over all, and <in thy hand> are power and might,—and <in thy hand> it is, to give greatness and strength unto any.

13 ‖Now‖ therefore, O our God, we' are giving thanks unto thee,—and offering praise, unto thy beautiful' Name.

14 And yet, who' am ‖I‖, and who' are my people, that we should be able' to offer willingly like this? for <from thee> is the whole, and <out of thine own hand> have we given unto thee; 15 for <sojourners> are we' before thee, and strangers, like all our fathers,—<like a shadow> are our days upon the earth, and there is no' hope. 16 O Yahweh our God, ‖all this abundance which we have prepared, to build thee a house for thy holy' Name‖ <out of thine own hand> it is, and <thine> is the whole. 17 But I know, O my God, that ‖thou‖ art proving the heart, and <with uprightness> wilt thou be pleased,—‖I‖ <in the uprightness of my heart> have willingly offered all these things, ‖now‖ therefore, <thy people who are found here> have I seen with joy, offering willingly unto thee.

18 O Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, our fathers, oh guard this age-abidingly, as the devised' purpose of the heart of thy people,—and establish thou their heart, unto thyself.

19 Also <unto Solomon my son> give thou an undivided heart, to keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy statutes,—to do the whole, and to build the palace for which I have prepared.

20 Then said David, unto all the convocation,

Bless, I beseech you, Yahweh your God.

So all the convocation blessed' Yahweh, the God of their fathers, and did bend their heads and bow themselves down unto Yahweh, and unto the king; 21 and sacrificed unto Yahweh sacrifices, and caused to go up ascending-offerings unto Yahweh, on the morrow of that day, a thousand bullocks, a thousand rams, a thousand young sheep, and the drink-offerings thereof,—and sacrifices in abundance, for all Israel. 22 And so they did eat and drink before Yahweh on that day, with great joy, —and they, the second time, made Solomon son of David king, and anointed him unto Yahweh to be chief ruler, and Zadok to be priest.

§ 44. Solomon's Accession to the Throne, and David's Death in Peace and Honour.

23 So Solomon took his seat upon the throne of Yahweh, as king, instead of David his father, and prospered,—and all Israel |hearkened unto him|. 24 And ‖all the rulers, and the heroes, yea moreover' all the sons of King David‖ gave a hand, under Solomon the king. 25 And Yahweh magnified Solomon, exceedingly, before the eyes of all Israel,—and gave unto him a royal majesty, that had not been on any king before him, over Israel.

26 Thus ‖David son of Jesse‖ reigned over all Israel; 27 and |the days that he reigned over Israel| were forty years,—<in Hebron reigned he seven years, and <in Jerusalem> reigned he, thirty-three. 28 And he died in a good old age, satisfied with days, riches and honour,—and Solomon his son reigned in his stead.

29 Now ‖the acts of David the king, first and last‖ behold them! written in the records of Samuel the seer, and in the records of Nathan the prophet, and in the records of Gad the seer: 30 with all his reign[a] and his might,—and the times which passed over him, and over Israel, and over all the kingdoms of the lands.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES.

§ 1. Solomon convokes an Assembly at Gibeon, where he sacrifices; and God promises him Wisdom, Wealth and Honour

1 1 And Solomon, son of David, strengthened himself over his kingdom,—and ‖Yahweh his God‖ was with him, and made him surpassingly great. 2 And Solomon gave word to all Israel—to the rulers of thousands, and hundreds, and to the judges, and to all the leaders of all Israel, ancestral chiefs; 3 and Solomon, and all the convocation with him, went to the high place that was in Gibeon,[a]—for <there> was the tent of meeting of God, which Moses the servant of Yahweh made in the desert. 4 Howbeit <the ark of God> had David brought up from Kiriath-jearim, into the place that David had prepared for it,—for he had pitched for it a tent, in Jerusalem. 5 Also ‖the altar of bronze that Bezalel son of Uri son of Hur had made‖ was there'[b] before the habitation of Yahweh,—so Solomon and the[c] convocation sought it. 6 And Solomon went up thither, unto the altar of bronze before[d] Yahweh, which belonged to the tent of meeting,—and caused to go up thereon a thousand ascending-sacrifices.

7 <During that night> God appeared unto Solomon,—and said unto him,

Ask what I shall give thee.

8 And Solomon said unto God,

‖Thou thyself‖ didst deal with David my father in great lovingkindness,—and hast made me king in his stead.

9 ‖Now‖ O Yahweh Elohim, let thy word with David my father be brought to pass,[e]—for ‖thou‖ hast made me king over a people, for multitude' like the dust of the earth.

10 ‖Now‖ <wisdom and knowledge> give thou unto me, that I may go out before this people, and may come in,—for who can judge this thy people, that is so great?[a]

11 And God said unto Solomon,

<Because this was near thy heart, and thou hast not asked riches, wealth, or honour, or the life[b] of them that hate thee, nor even <many days> hast thou asked,—but hast asked for thyself, wisdom and knowledge, that thou mayest judge my people, over whom I have made thee king> 12 ‖wisdom and knowledge‖ are granted unto thee,—moreover <riches and wealth and honour> will I give thee, such' as the kings who were before thee did not possess, neither shall they who come after thee possess the like.

13 And Solomon came from[c] the high place that was in Gibeon unto Jerusalem, from before the tent of meeting,—and reigned over Israel.

14 And Solomon gathered chariots and horsemen, and came to have a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen,—and he settled them in chariot cities, and with the king, in Jerusalem. 15 And the king made silver and gold in Jerusalem, like stones,—and <cedars> made he like the sycomores that are in the lowland, for abundance. 16 And the horses which Solomon had were ‖an export‖ out of Egypt,—and a ‖company of royal' merchants‖ used to fetch a drove, at a price; 17 and they built and brought forth out of Egypt a chariot, for six hundred [shekels] of silver, and a horse, for a hundred and fifty,—and ‖so‖ <for all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Syria> ‖by their means‖ brought they them forth.

2 1 Then Solomon gave word to build a house' for the Name of Yahweh, and a house' for his kingdom.
2 And Solomon numbered seventy thousand men to bear burdens, and eighty thousand men, to hew in the mountain, — and <to oversee them> three thousand six hundred.
3 And Solomon sent unto Huram king of Tyre,
saying,—
<As thou didst deal with David my father, and didst send him cedars to build him a house to dwell in> 4 lo! ‖I‖ am about to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God, to hallow unto him—to burn before him sweet incense, and for a continual setting in array,[a] and to offer ascending-sacrifices morning and evening, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the appointed feasts of Yahweh our God,— <age-abiding> is this [law] for Israel.
5 And ‖the house which I' am about to build‖ [must be] great, — for great' is our God, above all gods.
6 But who is able'[b] to build unto him a house?
for ‖the heavens, even the heaven of heavens‖ cannot contain him, —who then am ‖I‖, that I should build unto him a house, though only to burn incense[c] before him?
7 ‖Now‖ therefore, send me a wise man, to work in gold and in silver and in bronze and in iron, and in purple and crimson and blue, and skilful to execute gravings,— with the wise men who are with me,[d] in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom my father
David did provide.
8 And send me—timbers of cedar, cypress and sandal-wood[e] out of the Lebanon, for ‖I‖ know that ‖thy servants‖ are skilful, to cut the timbers of Lebanon,—and lo! my servants shall be with thy servants: 9 yea to prepare me timbers in abundance,—for ‖the house which I' am about to build‖
[must be] great and most wonderful.
10 And lo! <for the hewers that cut the timbers> have I given wheat as food[f] for thy servants, twenty thousand measures,[g] and barley, twenty thousand measures, and wine, twenty thousand baths,[h] and oil, twenty thousand baths.
11 Then answered Huram king of Tyre, in writing, which he sent unto Solomon,— <Because Yahweh hath loved his people> hath he set thee over them as king.
12 And Huram said,
Blessed' be Yahweh, God of Israel, who made the heavens and the earth, — who hath given, unto David the king, a wise son, skilled in prudence and understanding, who will build a house for Yahweh, and a house for his kingdom.
13 ‖Now‖ therefore, have I sent a wise man, skilled in understanding, pertaining to Huram my father: 14 son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, whose father was a man of Tyre, skilled to work in gold and in silver, in bronze, in iron, in stones and in timber, in purple, in blue and in fine white linen,[a] and in crimson, and to grave any manner of graving, and to devise any manner of device that may be given to him, with thy wise men, and the wise men of my lord David thy father.
15 ‖Now‖ therefore, <the wheat and the barley, the oil and the wine, whereof my lord hath spoken> let him send unto his servants;
16 and ‖we‖ will cut down timbers out of the Lebanon, according to all thy need, and will bring them unto thee in floats, upon the sea to Joppa,[b]—and ‖thou‖ shalt fetch them up to Jerusalem.
17 So Solomon numbered all the men that were sojourners, who were in the land of Israel, after the numbering, wherewith David his father had numbered them, — and they were found to be — a hundred and fifty-three thousand and six hundred. 18 And he made up from among them — seventy thousand, to bear burdens, and eighty thousand to hew in the mountain, — and three thousand and six hundred, as overseers, to keep the people at work.

§ 3. The Building and Furnishing of the Temple described.

3 1 Then began Solomon, to build the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem, in Mount Moriah, where he had appeared unto David his father,
—in the place which David had prepared,[c] in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.
2 And he began to build, in the second month, on the second,[d] in the fourth year of his reign.
3 And ‖these‖ are the things wherein Solomon was grounded' for the building of the house of God,—‖The length, by cubits, in the first measure‖ was sixty cubits, and ‖the breadth‖ twenty cubits. 4 And ‖the porch which was in front of the length‖ <in front of the breadth of the house> was twenty cubits,[e]
and |the height thereof| was a hundred and twenty,—and he overlaid it, within, with pure gold. 5 And <the greater house> covered he with cypress wood, and overlaid it with fine[a] gold,—and raised thereon palms, and wreathed garlands. 6 And he covered the house with precious stones, for beauty,—and ‖the gold‖ was gold of Parvaim. 7 And he covered the house, the beams, the entrance-hall, and the walls thereof and the doors thereof, with gold,—and he carved cherubim upon the walls. 8 And he made the most holy house,[b] ‖the length whereof‖ was, according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and ‖the breadth thereof‖ twenty cubits,—and he covered it with fine[a] gold, to [the number of] six hundred talents; 9 and ‖the weight of the nails‖ amounted to fifty shekels of gold,—and <the upper chambers> covered he with gold. 10 And he made, in the most holy house,[b] two cherubim, of carved work,—and covered them with gold. 11 And <as for the wings of the cherubim> ‖the length of them‖ was twenty cubits,—‖the one wing‖ by the cubit was five, reaching to the wall of the house,[b] and ‖the other wing‖ five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub; 12 and ‖the wing of the other cherub‖ was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house,[b]—and ‖the other wing‖ was five cubits, cleaving to the wing of the other cherub: 13 ‖the wings of these cherubim, outspread‖ were twenty cubits,—and ‖they themselves‖ were standing upon their feet, and ‖their faces‖ were inward. 14 And he made a vail, of blue and purple, and crimson and byssus cloth,—and raised thereon[c] cherubim. 15 And he made, for the front of the house, two pillars, thirty-five cubits in length,—and ‖the capital which was upon the top of each‖ was five cubits.

16 And he made wreathen chains in the shrine, and put them upon the top of the pillars,—and he made one hundred pomegranates, and put them in the chains. 17 And he reared up the pillars in front of the temple, ‖one‖ on the right, and ‖one‖ on the left,—and called the name of that on the right hand, Jachin, and the name of that on the left, Boaz.

4 1 And he made an altar of bronze, ‖twenty cubits‖ the length thereof, and ‖twenty cubits‖ the breadth thereof,—and ‖ten cubits‖ the height thereof. 2 And he made a molten sea,—‖ten—by the cubit‖ from the one brim thereof into the other brim thereof, it was round all about, and ‖five—by the cubit‖ was the height thereof, and ‖a line—of thirty by the cubit‖ did compass it round about. 3 And ‖the likeness of oxen‖[d] was under it round about on every side, encircling it, ‖ten in a cubit‖[e] going round the sea, on every side,—two rows of oxen,[d] made in the casting. 4 It was standing on twelve oxen, ‖three‖ looking toward the north, and ‖three‖ looking toward the west, and ‖three‖ looking toward the south, and ‖three‖ looking toward the east, ‖the sea‖ being upon them above,—and ‖all their hinder parts‖ inward. 5 And ‖the thickness thereof‖ was a hand-breadth, and ‖the brim thereof‖ was like the brim-work of a cup, with blossoms of lilies,—it could hold [many] baths, <three thousand> would it contain.

6 And he made ten lavers, and set five on the right hand—and five on the left, to bathe therein, <what is offered as an ascending-sacrifice> do they rinse therein, — but ‖the sea‖ was, that the priests should bathe therein.

7 And he made ten lampstands of gold according to the regulation thereof,—and set in the temple, ‖five‖ on the right hand, and ‖five‖ on the left.

8 And he made ten tables, and placed in the temple, ‖five‖ on the right hand, and ‖five‖ on the left,—and he made a hundred tossing bowls of gold.

9 And he made the court of the priests, and the large enclosure,—and doors to the enclosure, and <the doors thereof> overlaid he with bronze.

10 And <the sea> he set on the right side of the house, eastward over against the south.

11 And Huram made—the pans, and the shovels, and the tossing bowls,—and Huram finished doing the work, which he did for King Solomon, in the house of God:— 12 two pillars, and the bowls and the capitals on the top of the two pillars, and the two frames of checker work, to cover the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the top of the pillars; 13 and four hundred pomegranates, for the two frames,—‖two rows of pomegranates‖ for each frame, for covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the face of the pillars; 14 and <the stands> made he,—and <the lavers> made he upon the stands; 15 the one sea,—and the twelve oxen under it; 16 and <the pans and the shovels and the flesh-hooks,[a] and all the[b] vessels> made Huram his father[c] for King Solomon, for the house of Yahweh,—of burnished bronze. 17 <In the circuit of the Jordan> did the king cast them, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zeredah.

18 So Solomon made all these utensils, in great abundance,—for the weight of the bronze could not be searched out.

19 Yea Solomon made all the utensils which were for the house of God,—and the altar of gold, and the tables, whereon was the Presence-bread; 20 and the lamp-holders and their lamps, that they should burn according to the regulation before the shrine, of purified[d] gold; 21 and the blossom-work, and the lamps, and the tongs, of gold,—‖the same‖ was the purest gold;[a] 22 and the snuffers and the bowls and the spoons and the censers, of purified[b] gold,—and the entrance of the house, the inner doors[c] thereof for the holy of holies, and the doors[c] of the house of the temple, were of gold.

5 1 Thus was perfected all the work which Solomon[d] made for the house of Yahweh,—and Solomon brought in the hallowed things of David his father,[e] <the silver, and the gold, and all[f] the utensils> placed he in the treasuries of the house of God.

§ 4. The Ark brought into the Temple, and the Divine Glory displayed.

2 ‖Then‖ Solomon called together[g] the elders of Israel, and all the chiefs of the tribes, the ancestral leaders of the sons of Israel, unto Jerusalem, —to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh out of the city of David, ‖the same‖ is Zion. 3 And all the men of Israel came together unto the king, in the festival,—‖the same‖ was the seventh month. 4 And all the elders of Israel came in,—and the Levites bare the ark; 5 and they brought up the ark, and the tent of meeting, and all the holy utensils that were in the tent,—the priests the[h] Levites did bring them up. 6 And ‖King Solomon, and all the assembly of Israel who assembled themselves unto him, before the ark‖ were sacrificing sheep and oxen, which could not be told nor could they be counted for multitude. 7 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of Yahweh into the place thereof, into the shrine of the house, into the holy of holies,— into [the place] beneath the wings of the cherubim;— 8 for the cherubim were spreading forth two wings, over the place of the ark,—so that the cherubim formed a covering over the ark and over the staves thereof, from above.
9 And they drew out the staves, and the heads of the staves could be seen out of the ark, in front of the shrine, although they could not be seen on the outside,—and it came to pass that they have remained there—unto this day. 10 There was [nothing' in the ark] save only the two tables, which Moses placed [therein] in Horeb,
—when Yahweh made a covenant with the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of Egypt.

11 And it came to pass <when the priests [came forth] out of the holy place,—for ‖all the priests who were present‖ had hallowed themselves, they had no need' to observe the courses;
12 and ‖the Levites who were the singers, even all of them pertaining to Asaph, to Heman, to Jeduthun, and to their sons and to their brethren, arrayed in white linen, with cymbals and with harps[a] and lyres‖ stood eastward of the altar,—and ‖with them‖ priests to the number of a hundred-and-twenty, blowing with trumpets> 13 then came it to pass <when the trumpeters and the singers were ‖as one‖ to make one sound to be heard in offering praise and giving thanks unto Yahweh—yea when they did lift on high the voice, with the trumpets and with the cymbals and with the instruments of song,[b] yea in offering praise unto Yahweh—

For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness>

that ‖the house‖ was filled with the cloud of the glory[c] of Yahweh; 14 and the priests could not stand to minister, by reason of the cloud,— for ‖the glory of Yahweh‖ filled ‖the house of God‖.

§ 5. Solomon dedicates the Temple by an Introductory Speech, a Recitative Benediction, and an Intercessory Prayer.

6 1 ‖Then‖ said Solomon,— ‖Yahweh‖ said, that he would make his habitation in thick gloom;
2 But ‖I‖ have built a house as a home for
thee,—
A settled place for thee to abide in, for ages.
3 And the king turned about his face, and blessed all the convocation of Israel,—while ‖all the convocation of Israel‖ was standing; 4 and he said, Blessed' be Yahweh, God of Israel, who spake with his mouth, unto David my father,— and <with his hand>[d] hath fulfilled,
saying:
5 <From the day I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt> I made choice of no city, out of all the tribes of Israel, for building a house, where my Name might be,—neither made I choice of any man, to be chief ruler over my people Israel: 6 nevertheless I have made choice of Jerusalem, that my Name might be there,—and I have made choice of David, that he might be over my people Israel.
7 And so it came to pass, that it was near the heart of David my father,—to build a house, to the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel.
8 Then said Yahweh unto David my father,
<Because it was near thy heart to build a house for my Name> thou didst well that it was' near thy heart:
9 Only' ‖thou thyself‖ must not build the house,—but ‖thine own son, that proceedeth out of thy loins—he‖ shall build the house for my Name.
10 So then Yahweh hath established his word, which he spake,—and I have been raised up instead of David my father, and have taken my seat upon the throne of Israel, as spake Yahweh, and have built the house to the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel; 11 and have put there the ark,—wherein is the covenant of Yahweh,—which he solemnised with the sons of Israel.

12 Then stood he before the altar of Yahweh, in the presence of all the convocation of Israel, —and spread forth his hands; 13 for Solomon had made a platform[a] of bronze, and had set it in the midst of the enclosure, ‖five cubits‖ the length thereof, and ‖five cubits‖ the breadth thereof, and ‖three cubits‖ the height thereof,— and he stood thereon, and knelt upon his knees, in the presence of all the convocation of Israel, and spread forth his hands, heavenward; 14 and said,

O Yahweh! God of Israel,
<Not like unto thee> is there a god, in the heavens, or throughout the earth,—who keepest Covenant and Lovingkindness for thy servants who are walking before thee with all their heart: 15 who hast kept, for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him,—in that thou didst promise with thy mouth, and <with thy hand> hast fulfilled, as [it is] this day.

16 ‖Now‖ therefore, O Yahweh—God of Israel, keep thou, for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him, saying,

There shall not be cut off to thee a man, from before me, to sit[b] upon the throne of Israel,—|if only| thy sons take heed to their way, to walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me.

17 ‖Now‖ therefore, O Yahweh, God of Israel,— verified[c] be thy promise, which thou didst make unto thy servant David.

18 But ‖in very deed‖ will God' dwell with man' on the earth? Lo! ‖the heavens, even the heaven of heavens‖ cannot contain thee, how much less' this house which I have built! 19 Wilt thou then turn unto the prayer of thy servant and unto his supplication, O Yahweh my God,—to hearken unto the cry and unto the prayer, wherewith thy servant is praying before thee: 20 that thine eyes may be open toward this house, day and night, toward the place of which thou hast said thou wouldst set thy Name there,—to hearken unto the prayer which thy servant may pray towards this place: 21 wilt thou therefore hearken unto the supplications of thy servant, and thy people Israel, when they shall pray toward this place,—yea wilt ‖thou thyself‖ hear, out of thine own dwelling-place, out of the heavens, and <when thou hearest> then wilt thou forgive?

22 <If a man shall sin against his neighbour, and there shall be laid upon him an oath, to put him on oath,—and an oath shall come before thine altar in this house>
23 then wilt ‖thou thyself‖ hear out of the heavens, and act, and judge thy servants, bringing back unto the lawless, to set his way upon his own head,—and justifying the righteous, by giving to him, according to his righteousness?

24 Or <if thy people Israel be smitten before an enemy, because they have been sinning against thee,[a]—and they turn, and confess thy Name, and pray and make supplication before thee, in this house> 25 then wilt ‖thou thyself‖ hear out of the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel,—and bring them back unto the soil, which thou didst give to them and to their fathers?

26 <When the heavens are shut up and there is no rain, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they shall pray towards this place, and shall confess thy Name, |from[b] their sin| shall return, because thou hast been afflicting them> 27 then wilt ‖thou thyself‖ hear [out of] the heavens and forgive the sin of thy servants, and thy people Israel, that thou mayest direct them into the good[c] way, wherein they should walk,—and give rain upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people, for an inheritance?

28 <When there shall be ‖a famine‖ in the land, when there shall be ‖a pestilence‖—when there shall be ‖blasting or mildew, locust or caterpillar‖—when their enemy[d] shall besiege them in the land at their own gates— whatsoever plague or whatsoever sickness; —29 whatsoever prayer, whatsoever supplication, which any son of earth may have, or any of thy people Israel,—when any man shall come to know his plague, or his pain, and so he shall spread abroad his hands towards this house>——30 then wilt ‖thou thyself‖ hear out of the heavens, the settled place of thine abode, and forgive, and grant to every man according to his ways, whose heart thou wilt know,—for ‖thou thyself alone‖ knowest the heart of the sons of men: 31 to the end they may revere thee, to walk in thy ways, all the days which they' shall be living upon the face of the soil,—which thou gavest unto their fathers?

32 Moreover also <unto the stranger who is' not |of thy people Israel|, but he shall come in out of a far country—for the sake of thy great Name, and of thy strong hand, and of thine outstretched arm,—and so they shall come in and pray towards this house>

33 then wilt ‖thou thyself‖ hear out of the heavens, out of the settled place of thine abode, and do according to all for which the stranger' shall cry unto thee,—to the end that all the peoples of the earth may know thy Name, so as to revere thee like thy people Israel, and know that ‖thy Name‖ hath been given unto[a] this house, which I have built?

34 <When thy people shall go forth to war against their enemies, whithersoever thou mayest send them,—and shall pray unto thee in the direction of this city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name> 35 then wilt thou hear, out of the heavens, their prayer and their supplication,—and maintain their right'.[b]

36 <When they sin against thee—for there is no' son of earth who sinneth not—and thou shalt be angry with them, and deliver them up before an enemy,—who shall carry them away as their captives into a land—far away or near; 37 and they come back to their right mind,[c] in the land whither they have been taken captive,—and so turn and make supplication unto thee in the land of their captivity, saying,

We have sinned, we have done perversely, and been lawless;—

38 and so turn unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captive,—and shall pray in the direction of their own land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, and the city which thou hast chosen, and unto the house which I have built for thy Name> 39 then wilt thou hear out of the heavens—out of the settled place of thine abode—their prayer and their supplications, and maintain their cause,—and forgive thy people, that wherein they sinned against thee?

40 ‖Now‖ O my God, let—I beseech thee—thine eyes be open, and thine ears attent,—unto the prayer of this place.

41 ‖Now‖ therefore, arise! O Yahweh God, unto thy rest, ‖thou, and the ark of thy strength‖: ‖Thy priests‖ O Yahweh God, let them be clothed with salvation, and ‖thy men of lovingkindness‖ let them rejoice in prosperity.[d]

42 O Yahweh God! do not turn away thy face from thine Anointed One,—oh remember lovingkindness unto David thy servant.

§ 6. Divine Consecration of the Temple, followed by Sacrifices and a Festival.

7 Now <when Solomon had made an end of praying> ‖Fire‖ came down out of the heavens, and consumed the ascending-offering and the sacrifices,—and ‖the glory of Yahweh‖ filled the house; 2 so that the priests could not enter into the house of Yahweh,—because the glory' of Yahweh filled the house' of Yahweh; 3 and ‖all the sons of Israel‖ <seeing the descending of the fire and the glory of Yahweh upon the house> then knelt they down with their faces toward the ground, upon the pavement, and bowed themselves in prostration, and gave thanks unto Yahweh,

For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.

4 And ‖the king and all the people‖ were offering sacrifice before Yahweh.

5 And King Solomon offered a sacrifice—of oxen' twenty-two thousand, and of sheep' a hundred and twenty thousand,—and so the king and all the people |dedicated the house of God|;

6 while ‖the priests‖ |over their charges| were standing, ‖the Levites also‖ with the instruments for the songs of Yahweh,[a] which David the king had made, for giving thanks unto Yahweh,

For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness,

when David offered praise by their means,[b]—and ‖the priests‖ kept on blowing trumpets over against them, while ‖all Israel‖ were standing.

7 And Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of Yahweh, for he offered there the ascending-sacrifices, and the fat portions of the peace-offerings,—because ‖the altar of bronze which Solomon[c] had made‖ was not able to receive the ascending-sacrifice and the meal-offering and the fat portions.

8 And Solomon made a festival—at that time—for seven days, and all Israel with him, an exceeding great convocation,—from the entering in of Hamath, unto the ravine of Egypt. 9 And they made, on the eighth day, a closing feast,—because <the dedication of the altar> they had kept seven days and a festival seven days. 10 And <on the twenty-third of the seventh month> he sent the people away to their own homes,[d]—rejoicing and glad in heart, over the goodness[e] which Yahweh had performed unto David and unto Solomon, and unto Israel his people.

11 Thus Solomon finished the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—and <all that had come in upon the heart of Solomon, to do in the house of Yahweh and in his own house> he prosperously executed.

choice of this place for myself as a house of sacrifice:—

< If I shut up the heavens that there be no rain, or if I lay command on the locust to devour the land,— or if I send pestilence amongst my people: 14 if my people upon whom my Name is called shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways> then will ‖I myself‖ hear out of the heavens, and forgive their sin, and heal their land. 15 ‖Now‖ |mine eyes| shall be open, and |mine ears| attent,—to the prayer of this place. 16 ‖Now‖ therefore, have I chosen and hallowed this house, that my Name may be there, unto times age-abiding,—and mine eyes and my heart shall be there, all the days.

17 ‖Thou‖ therefore <if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father' walked, even to do according to all that I have commanded thee,—and |my statutes and regulations| thou wilt observe> 18 then will I establish the throne of thy kingdom,[a]—according as I covenanted to David thy father, saying—

There shall not fail thee a man, to rule[b] over Israel.

19 But <if ‖ye yourselves‖ shall turn away, and forsake my statutes and my commandments, which I have set before you,—and shall go and serve other gods, and bow down to them> 20 then will I root you out from off the soil, which I have given to you, and <this house, which I have hallowed for my Name> will I cast off from before my face, —and will appoint it for a by-word and a mockery, among all the peoples; 21 and <this house which hath been renowned> ‖all that pass by near it‖ shall be astonished,—and say,

Wherefore' hath Yahweh done |thus and thus| to this land, and to this house?

22 And men shall say,

<Because they forsook Yahweh the God of their fathers, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold of other gods, and bowed down to them, and served them> ‖for this cause‖ hath he brought upon them, all this calamity.

Solomon's Building Enterprises; his Tributaries and Officers; his Confirmation of the Appointments made by Moses and David as to the Worship; and his Maritime Commerce.

VIII. 1 it came to pass <at the end of twenty years wherein Solomon had built the house of Yahweh, and his own house> 2 that ‖the cities which Huram had given to Solomon‖ Solomon built them,—and caused |the sons of Israel| to dwell there.

3 Solomon went to Hamath-zobah,—and prevailed against it; 4 and he built Tadmor in the wilderness,—and all the store cities, which he built in Hamath; 5 and he built Beth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether,—fortified cities, with walls, doors and bars; 6 and Baalath, and all the store cities which pertained to Solomon, and all the chariot cities, and the cities of the horsemen,—and every delight of Solomon which he delighted to build in Jerusalem, and in the Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.

7 <As for all the people that were left of the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, who were' not |of Israel|;—8 of their sons who were left after them in the land, whom the sons of Israel' had not utterly destroyed> Solomon enrolled them as tributary—unto this day. 9 But <of the sons of Israel> were there none whom he delivered up as bondmen[a] unto his work,—for ‖they‖ were men of war, and his captains and his heroes,[b] and captains over his chariots, and his horsemen. 10 ‖These‖ moreover, were the chiefs of his officers whom King Solomon had, two hundred and fifty,—who wielded dominion over the people.

11 And <the daughter of Pharaoh> Solomon brought up, out of the city of David, unto the house which he had built for her,—for he said,

A wife of mine must not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, for holy' are those places whereinto the ark of Yahweh hath come.

12 ‖Then‖ Solomon offered up ascending-sacrifices, unto Yahweh,—upon the altar of Yahweh, which he had built before the porch: 13 even according to the duty of each a day upon [its own] day, offering up according to the commandment of Moses, for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the appointed feasts, three times in the year, – in the festival of unleavened cakes and in the festival of weeks, and in the festival of booths; 14 and he caused to stand, according to the regulation of David his father, the courses of the priests over their service and of the Levites over their charges, to offer praise and to minister before the priests, for the duty of each day upon its own day, and the gate-keepers in their courses, at every several gate,—for ‖such‖ was the commandment of David the man of God; 15 neither departed they from the commandment[c] of the king, concerning the priests and the Levites as to any duty, or as to the treasuries. 16 So all the work of Solomon was prepared, from[d] the day of founding the house of Yahweh, even as far as the finishing thereof,—complete' was the house of Yahweh.

Edom. 18 And Huram sent him—by the hand of his servants—ships, and servants skilled in the sea, and they came, with the servants of Solomon, towards Ophir, and took from thence, four hundred and fifty talents of gold,—and brought unto King Solomon.

§ 9. Visit of the Queen of Sheba.
(Cp. I K. x.)

9 1 And ‖the queen of Sheba‖ heard the report of Solomon, so she came to prove Solomon with abstruse questions, in Jerusalem, with a very great train, and camels bearing spices, and gold in abundance, and precious stones,—and <when she was come to Solomon> she spake with him, as to all that was near her heart. 2 And Solomon answered her all her questions,—and there was nothing hidden from Solomon, which he told her not. 3 And <when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon,—and the house which he had built; 4 and the food of his table, and the seats of his servants, and the standing of his attendants, with their apparel, and his cupbearers, and their apparel, and his ascent[a] whereby he used to ascend the house of Yahweh> then was there in her no more spirit.

5 And she said unto the king,
True' was the word, which I heard in my own land,—concerning thine affairs, and concerning thy wisdom.
6 Howbeit I believed not their words, until I had come and mine own eyes' had seen, when lo! there had not been told me, the half of the fulness of thy wisdom,—thou dost exceed the report which I heard.
7 How happy! are thy men, and how happy! are these thy servants,—who are standing before thee continually, and hearing thy wisdom.
8 Yahweh thy God be blessed, who hath delighted in thee, to set thee upon his throne as king' unto Yahweh thy God. <Because of the love of thy God unto Israel, to establish them unto times age-abiding> therefore hath he set thee over them, as king, to execute justice and righteousness.

9 And she gave unto the king, a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance and precious stones,—and there was none, like that' spice, which the queen of Sheba gave unto King Solomon.

10 Moreover also ‖the servants of Huram,[b] and the servants of Solomon, who brought gold from Ophir‖ brought sandal-wood and precious stones. 11 And the king made of the sandal-wood, stairs unto the house of Yahweh, and unto the house of the king, also lyres and harps,[c] for the singers,—and there were none seen like them before, in the land of Judah.

12 And ‖King Solomon‖ gave to the queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked, besides' [a return for] that which she had brought unto the king,—so she turned, and went away to her own land, ‖she, and her servants‖.

§ 10. A further Account of Solomon's Wealth and Fame closes the Chronicler's History of that Monarch.

13 Now ‖the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year‖ was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold; 14 besides' what came in from the subjugated, and what the travelling merchants were bringing in,—and ‖all the kings of Arabia and the pashas of the land‖ were bringing gold and silver, unto Solomon.

15 And King Solomon made two hundred shields of beaten gold, — ‖six hundred [shekels] of beaten gold‖ overlay one shield; 16 also three hundred bucklers of beaten gold,—‖three hundred [shekels] of gold‖ overlay one buckler,—and the king placed them in the house of the forest of Lebanon. 17 And the king made a great throne of ivory,—and overlaid it with pure gold; 18 and there were six steps to the throne, and a footstool in gold, <unto the throne> made fast, and supports, on this side and on that, unto the seat,[a]—and ‖two lions‖ standing by the supports; 19 and ‖twelve lions‖ standing there upon the six steps, on this side and on that,—there was never made the like, for any kingdom. 20 And ‖all the drinking vessels of King Solomon‖ were of gold, and ‖all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon‖ were of purified[b] gold,—there was no' silver, it was esteemed, in the days of Solomon, ‖as nothing‖. 21 For ‖the ships of the king‖ used to go to Tarshish, with the servants of Huram,—<once in three years> came in the ships of Tarshish, bearing gold and silver, ivory and apes, and peacocks.

22 And so King Solomon became greater than all the kings of the earth,—as to riches, and wisdom. 23 And ‖all the kings of the earth‖ were seeking the face of Solomon,—to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart; 24 and ‖they‖ were bringing in every man his present—utensils of silver, and utensils of gold, and mantles, armour, and spices, horses and mules,—the need of a year in a year.

25 And Solomon had four thousand stalls of horses, and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen,—and he settled them in the chariot cities, and with the king in Jerusalem. 26 And he ruled over all the kings, — from the river [Euphrates], even up to the land of the Philistines, yea up to the bounds of Egypt. 27 And the king made the silver in Jerusalem like the stones,—and <the cedar trees> made he like the sycomores which are in the lowland, for abundance. 28 And they used to bring horses out of Egypt unto Solomon, and out of all lands.

29 Now ‖the rest of the acts of Solomon, first and last‖ are they' not written in the records of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer, concerning Jeroboam son of Nebat? 30 And Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel, forty years. 31 And Solomon slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David his father,—and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

10 1 And Rehoboam went to Shechem,—for <to Shechem> had all Israel come, to make him king. 2 And it came to pass, <when Jeroboam son of Nebat, who was in Egypt—whither he had fled from the face of Solomon the king—heard' of it> then returned Jeroboam out of Egypt. 3 And they sent, and called him, so Jeroboam and all Israel came,—and spake unto Rehoboam, saying:

4 ‖Thy father‖ made our yoke oppressive,—
‖now‖ therefore, lighten thou somewhat the oppressive servitude of thy father and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, and we will serve thee.

5 And he said unto them,
<Yet three days> and then return unto me,— and the people departed. 6 Then King Rehoboam took counsel with the old men who had been standing before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying,—
How do ‖ye‖ counsel to return answer unto this people?

7 And they spake unto him saying,
<If thou wilt be kind to this people, and please them, and speak unto them kind words> then will they be thy' servants, all the days.

8 But he declined the counsel of the old men, which they gave him,—and took counsel with the young men who had grown up with him, who were standing before him. 9 And he said unto them,
What do ‖ye‖ counsel that we should return as answer, unto this people,—who have spoken unto me saying,
Lighten thou somewhat the yoke, which thy father put upon us?

10 Then spake with him the young men who had grown up with him, saying,
‖Thus‖ shalt thou speak unto the people who have spoken unto thee saying,
‖Thy father‖ made our yoke heavy,
‖Thou‖ therefore, lighten somewhat our yoke,—
‖Thus‖ shalt thou say unto them,
‖My little finger‖ is thicker than my father's loins;

11 ‖Now‖ therefore, ‖my father‖ laid upon you a heavy yoke,
But ‖I‖ will add to your yoke,—
‖My father‖ chastised you with whips,
But ‖I‖ with scorpions.[a]

12 So Jeroboam and all the people came unto Rehoboam, on the third day,—as the king spake, saying,
Return unto me on the third day.

13 And the king answered them harshly,—and King Rehoboam declined the counsel of the old men; 14 and spake unto them according to the counsel of the young men, saying,
‖My father‖ made[b] your yoke heavy,
But ‖I‖ will add thereunto,—
‖My father‖ chastised you with whips,
But ‖I‖ with scorpions.

15 So the king hearkened not unto the people,—for there had come to be a turn[c] from God, to the end Yahweh might establish his word which he had spoken by means of Ahijah the Shilonite, unto Jeroboam, son of Nebat. 16 And <when ‖all Israel‖ [saw][d] that the king hearkened not unto them> the people answered the king, saying—
What portion have |we| in David,
Or inheritance in the son of Jesse?
‖Every man‖ to your homes, O Israel!
|Now| see to thine own house, O David!
And all Israel departed to their homes.[e] 17 But <as for the sons of Israel who were dwelling in the cities of Judah> Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then King Rehoboam sent Hadoram, who was over the tribute, and the sons of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died. So ‖King Rehoboam‖ hasted to mount his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 Thus Israel rebelled against the house of David—unto this day.

11 1 And when Rehoboam had entered Jerusalem, he called together the house of Judah and Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand chosen men, warriors,—to fight against Israel, to bring back the kingdom to Rehoboam. 2 Then came the word of Yahweh, unto Shemaiah the man of God, saying:

3 Speak unto Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah,—and unto all Israel in Judah and in Benjamin, saying:

4 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Ye shall not go up neither shall ye fight against your brethren, return every man to his own house, for <from me> hath this thing been brought about.
So they hearkened unto the words of Yahweh, and turned back from going against Jeroboam.

5 And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem,—and built cities for defence, in Judah; 6 yea he built Bethlehem and Etam, and Tekoa; 7 and Beth-zur and Soco, and Adullam; 8 and Gath and Mareshah, and Ziph; 9 and Adoraim and Lachish, and Azekah; 10 and Zorah, and Aijalon and Hebron, which are in Judah and Benjamin,—as fortified cities. 11 And he strengthened the fortified places,—and put therein captains, and stores of food, and oil and wine; 12 and <in every several city> shields and spears, and made them exceedingly strong, —thus Judah and Benjamin remained his.

13 And ‖the priests and Levites that were in all Israel‖ took their stand with him, out of all their boundaries. 14 For the Levites left their pasture lands, and their possessions, and came to Judah, and to Jerusalem,—for Jeroboam and his sons cast them off, from ministering as priests unto Yahweh; 15 and appointed for himself priests for the high places, and for the demons [a] —and for the calves which he had made. 16 And <after them—[b] out of all the tribes of Israel> ‖such as were setting their heart to seek Yahweh God of Israel‖ came to Jerusalem, to sacrifice unto Yahweh, God of their fathers.

17 So they strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and emboldened Rehoboam son of Solomon, for three years,—for they walked in the way of David and Solomon, for three years.

18 And Rehoboam took him to wife, Mahalath, daughter[c] of Jerimoth, son of David,—and[d] Abihail, daughter of Eliab, son of Jesse; 19 and she bare him sons,—Jeush and Shamariah and Zaham. 20 And <after her> he took Maacah, daughter of Absolom,—and she bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

21 And Rehoboam loved Maacah daughter of Absolom, above all his wives and his concubines, for <eighteen wives> took he, and sixty concubines,—and begat twenty-eight sons, and sixty daughters. 22 So then Rehoboam appointed Abijah son of Maacah as head, to be chief ruler among[e] his brethren, —yea that he might make him king. 23 So he took heed, and dispersed all his sons[f] throughout all the lands of Judah and Benjamin, unto all the fortified cities, and gave them food in abundance,—and asked a multitude of wives.[g]

12 1 And it came to pass <when Rehoboam had established the kingdom, and had strengthened himself> he forsook the law of Yahweh, —and all Israel with him. 2 And so it came to pass <in the fifth year of King Rehoboam> that Shishak[h] king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem,—because they had dealt treacherously against Yahweh;—3 with twelve hundred chariots, and with sixty thousand horsemen,— and <without number> the people who came with him out of Egypt—Lybians, Sukkiim,[i] and Ethiopians. 4 And he captured the cities of defence which belonged to Judah,—and came, as far as Jerusalem.

5 And ‖Shemaiah the prophet‖ came unto Rehoboam, and the rulers of Judah, who had gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem because of Shishak,—and said unto them,

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,

‖Ye‖ have left |me|,

Therefore ‖I also‖ have left |you|, in the hands of Shishak.

6 Then the rulers of Israel[a] and the king humbled themselves,—and said, ‖Righteous‖ is Yahweh!

7 And <when Yahweh saw that they humbled themselves> the word of Yahweh came unto Shemaiah, saying—

They have humbled themselves, I will not destroy them,—but will grant them, in a little while, to escape, and my wrath shall not be poured out upon Jerusalem, by the hand of Shishak.

8 Nevertheless they shall become his' servants, that they may know my service,[b] and the service of the kingdoms of the countries.

9 So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, and took the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king <the whole> he took,—and he took the bucklers of gold, which Solomon had made. 10 And King Rehoboam made, instead of them, bucklers of bronze,—and committed them unto the hand of the captains of the runners, who kept guard at the entrance of the house of the king. 11 And so it was <whensoever the king came into the house of Yahweh> the runners came and bare them, and then returned them into the chamber of the runners. 12 But <when he humbled himself> then turned from him the anger of Yahweh, that he would not destroy, to make an end,—moreover also <in Judah> there were some good things.

13 So King Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem, and reigned,—because <forty-one years old> was Rehoboam when he began to reign, and <seventeen years> reigned he in Jerusalem, the city which Yahweh had chosen, to set his Name there—from among all the tribes of Israel, and ‖the name of his mother‖ was Naamah, the Ammonitess. 14 But he did evil,—in that he did not fix his heart to seek Yahweh.

15 Now <the story of Rehoboam, first and last> is it' not written in the story of Shemaiah the prophet and Iddo the seer, for enrolling,— also the wars of Rehoboam and Jeroboam, all the days? 16 And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David,—and Abijah his son reigned in his stead.

13 1 <In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam> began Abijah to reign over Judah: 2 <three years> reigned he in Jerusalem, and ‖the name of his mother‖ was Maacah[a] daughter of Uriel of Gibeah,—and there was ‖war‖ between Abijah and Jeroboam. 3 And Abijah began the war with a force of heroes of war, four hundred thousand chosen men,—and ‖Jeroboam‖ set in array against him to battle, with eight hundred thousand chosen men, heroes[b] of valour. 4 And Abijah stood up upon Mount Zemaraim, which is in the hill country of Ephraim,—and said

Hear me, O Jeroboam and all Israel!

5 Is it not yours' to know, that ‖Yahweh God of Israel‖ gave the kingdom to David, over Israel, unto times age-abiding,—‖to him and to his sons, by a covenant of salt‖?

6 Yet hath Jeroboam son of Nebat, servant of Solomon son of David, risen up, — and rebelled against his lord.[c] 7 And there are gathered unto[d] him vain men, sons of the Abandoned One,[e] who emboldened themselves against Rehoboam son of Solomon,—when ‖Rehoboam‖ was young and tender of heart, and had not strengthened himself to meet them.

8 ‖Now‖ therefore, ‖ye‖ are thinking to strengthen yourselves against the kingdom of Yahweh, in the hand of the sons of David,—and ‖ye‖ are a great multitude, and <with you> are calves of gold, which Jeroboam hath made you for gods.

9 Have ye not driven out the priests of Yahweh, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites,—and made for yourselves priests like the peoples of the countries? ‖Whosoever cometh to install himself[f] with a young bullock, and seven rams‖ then becometh he a priest unto the |no-gods|.

10 But <as for us> ‖Yahweh‖ is our God, and we have not forsaken him,—and ‖the priests who are waiting upon Yahweh‖ are sons of Aaron, with Levites in the work; 11 and they are making a perfume unto Yahweh, with ascending-sacrifices morning by morning, and evening by evening and an incense of sweet spices, and are putting in order bread upon the pure table, and the lampstand of gold with the lamps thereof, for lighting up evening by evening, for ‖observant‖ are we' of the charge of Yahweh our God,—whereas ‖ye‖ have forsaken him.

12 And lo! <with us as Head‖ is God himself, and his priests, and the trumpets of alarm, to sound an alarm against you,—O sons of Israel! do not fight against Yahweh God of your fathers, for ye shall not prosper.

13 But ‖Jeroboam‖ sent round an ambush, to come up from behind them,—so they were before Judah and ‖the ambush‖ did come up from behind them. 14 And <when Judah turned and lo! <as for them> the battle was before and behind> then made they outcry unto Yahweh,—and ‖the priests‖ kept on blowing with the trumpets. 15 Then the men of Judah gave a shout,—and it came to pass <when the men of Judah shouted> then ‖God himself‖ smote Jeroboam and all Israel, before Abijah and Judah. 16 And the sons of Israel fled from before Judah,—and God delivered them into their hand. 17 And Abijah and his people smote among them with a great smiting,—and there fell down slain, of Israel, five hundred thousand chosen men.

18 Thus were the sons of Israel subdued at that time,—and the sons of Judah prevailed, because they leaned upon Yahweh the God of their fathers.

19 And Abijah pursued after Jeroboam, and captured from him, cities, even Bethel, with the villages thereof, and Jeshanah, with the villages thereof,—and Ephron,[a] with the villages thereof; 20 neither was Jeroboam strong any more, in the days of Abijah,—and Yahweh smote him that he died.

21 And Abijah strengthened himself, and took him, fourteen wives,—and begat twenty-two sons, and sixteen daughters.

22 And <the rest of the story of Abijah, both his ways and his words>,— are written, in the commentary[b] of the prophet Iddo.

§ 13. The Reign of Asa, a good and victorious King, who, however, sins, and is punished before he dies.

14 1 So Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and Asa his son reigned in his stead,—<in his days> the land rested ten years.

2 And Asa did that which was good and that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh his God; 3 and took away the foreign altars, and the high places,—and brake in pieces the pillars, and cut in twain the Sacred Stems;[c] 4 and bade Judah seek Yahweh, God of their fathers,—and execute the law, and the commandment; 5 and removed from all the cities of Judah, the high places, and the sun-images, — and the kingdom became quiet before him. 6 And he built cities of defence, in Judah,—for the land had quiet, nor was there near him any war, in these years, because Yahweh had given him rest. 7 Therefore said he to Judah,

Let us build these cities, and let us surround them with walls and towers, doors and bars, while the land is yet before us, for we have sought Yahweh our God, we have sought him, and he hath given us rest on every side.
So they built, and prospered.
8 And it came to pass that ‖Asa‖ had a force bearing shield and spear, <out of Judah> three hundred thousand, and <out of Benjamin> such as bare a buckler and trode a bow, two hundred and eighty thousand,—‖all these‖ were heroes of valour.
9 Then came out against them Zerah the Ethiopian, with a force of a thousand thousand, and three hundred chariots,—and he came as far as Mareshah. 10 And Asa went out to meet him,—and they set in array for battle, in the valley of Zaphonah[a] at[b] Mareshah. 11 Then Asa cried out unto Yahweh his God, and said,
O Yahweh, it is |nothing with thee| to help whether with many or with such as have no strength.
Help us, O Yahweh our God, for <on thee> do we lean, and <in thy name> have we come against this multitude,—
O Yahweh! <our God> thou art', let not |weak man| have power against thee'.
12 So Yahweh smote the Ethiopians, before Asa, and before Judah,—and the Ethiopians fled. 13 And Asa and the people that were with him pursued as far as to Gerar, and the Ethiopians fell, so that there was no way for them to recover, for they were routed before Yahweh, and before his host,—and they carried away exceeding much spoil. 14 And they smote all the cities round about Gerar, for the dread of Yahweh was upon them,—and they plundered all the cities, for <great plunder> was there in them. 15 Moreover also <the tents of the cattle> they smote,—and carried off sheep in abundance, and camels, and returned to Jerusalem.

15 1 Now <as for Azariah son of Oded> there came upon him, the spirit of God. 2 So he went forth to meet Asa, and said unto him,
Hear me, O Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin,— ‖Yahweh‖ is with you, so long as ye are with him, and <if ye seek him> he will be found of you, but <if ye forsake him> he will forsake you.
3 Now <many days> had Israel' been,—without the faithful God, and without a teaching priest, and without the law;
4 But they turned, in their distress, unto Yahweh God of Israel,—and sought him, and he was found of them.
5 And <in those times> there had been no prosperity, to him that went out nor to him that came in,—for ‖great consternations‖ were upon all the inhabitants of the lands; 6 and they were beaten in pieces—nation against nation, and city against city,—for ‖God‖ discomfited them with all manner of distress.
7 ‖Ye‖ therefore, be strong, and let not your hands be slack,—for there is' a reward for your work!
8 And <when Asa heard these words and the prophecy of Oded the prophet>[a] he strengthened himself, and put away the abominations out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had captured out of the hill country of Ephraim,—and renewed the altar of Yahweh, that was before the porch of Yahweh. 9 And he gathered together all Judah and Benjamin, and the sojourners with them, out of Ephraim and out of Manasseh, and out of Simeon,—for they fell unto him out of Israel, in great numbers, because they saw that ‖Yahweh his God‖ was with him. 10 So they gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem, in the third month of the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa. 11 And they sacrificed unto Yahweh, on that day, out of the spoil they[b] had brought in,—oxen' seven hundred, and sheep' seven thousand.
12 And they entered into a covenant, to seek Yahweh, God of their fathers,—with all their heart, and with all their soul; 13 and ‖whosoever would not seek unto Yahweh God of Israel‖ should be put to death,—whether small or great, whether man or woman. 14 So they bound themselves by oath unto Yahweh, with a loud voice, and with shouting,—and with trumpets and with horns. 15 And all Judah rejoiced over the oath, for <with all their heart> had they sworn, and <with all their good will> had they sought him, and he was found of them,—and Yahweh gave them rest round about. 16 Moreover also' <as touching Maacah mother of Asa the king> he removed her from being queen, because she had made, unto the Sacred Stem,[c] a monstrous thing,—so Asa cut down her monstrous thing, and reduced it to dust, and burnt it up, in the Kidron ravine. 17 But ‖the high places‖ were not taken away out of Israel,—only ‖the heart of Asa‖ was perfect, all his days.
18 And he brought the hallowed things of his father and his own hallowed things, into the house of God,—silver and gold, and utensils.
19 And ‖war‖ was there none,—until the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Asa.

16 1 <In the thirty-sixth year of the reign of Asa> Baasha[d] king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah,—that he might let none come out or go in, unto Asa king of Judah.
2 So Asa brought forth silver and gold, out of the treasuries of the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—and sent unto Ben-hadad,[a] king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying:

3 [Let there be] a covenant, between me and thee, as between my father and thy father.—
Lo! I have sent thee silver and gold, go break thy covenant with Baasha[b] king of Israel, that he may go up from me.

4 And Ben-hadad hearkened unto King Asa, and sent the chieftains of the forces which he had, against the cities of Israel, and smote Ijon and Dan, and Abel-maim,—and all the storehouses of the cities of Naphtali.

5 And it came to pass <when Baasha heard it> he left off building Ramah,—and let his work cease. 6 And ‖Asa the king‖ took all Judah, and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timbers thereof, which Baasha had used in building, — and he built therewith, Geba and Mizpah.

7 And <at that time> came Hanani the seer, unto Asa the king of Judah,—and said unto him, <Because thou hast leaned upon the king of Syria, and hast not leaned upon Yahweh thy God> ‖for this cause‖ hath the force of the king of Syria escaped out of thy hand.

8 Were not ‖the Ethiopians and the Lybians‖ a huge host, with chariots and horsemen exceeding many? yet <because thou didst lean upon Yahweh> he delivered them into thy hand.

9 For <as touching Yahweh> <[seeing that] ‖his eyes‖ are ever running to and fro throughout all the earth, to shew himself strong with them who are perfect toward himself> thou hast made thyself foolish over this,—for <from henceforth> there shall be with thee—wars.

10 Then was Asa angry with the seer, and put him in the house of the stocks, for he was in a rage with him, over this,—and Asa oppressed some of the people, at that time.

11 But lo! <the story of Asa, first and last> |there it is| written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

12 And Asa became diseased—in the thirty-ninth year of his reign—in his feet, <exceedingly severe> was his disease, — yet <even in his disease> he sought not Yahweh, but unto physicians.

13 And Asa slept with his fathers,—yea he died in the forty-first year of his reign; 14 and they buried him in his own stately sepulchre, which he had hewn for himself in the city of David, and laid him on a couch which was full of sweet spices—yea of various kinds, made by the perfumer's art,—and they burned for him with an exceeding great burning.

17 1 And Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead, —and strengthened himself against Israel; 2 and put forces in all the fortified cities of Judah, —and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had captured.

3 And it came to pass, that ‖Yahweh‖ was with Jehoshaphat,—because he walked in the first ways of David his father, and sought not unto the Baalim; 4 for <unto the God of his father> he sought, and <in his commandments> he walked,—and not according to the doing of Israel. 5 Therefore did Yahweh establish the kingdom in his hand, and all Judah gave a present unto Jehoshaphat,—and he came to have riches and honour, in abundance. 6 And his heart was encouraged, in the ways of Yahweh,—and he |yet further| took away the high places and the Sacred Stems, out of Judah.

7 And <in the third year of his reign> he sent to his rulers, even to Ben-hail and to Obadiah and to Zechariah, and to Nethanel, and to Micaiah,[a]—that they were to teach throughout the cities of Judah; 8 and <with them> Levites, Shemaiah and Nethaniah and Zebadiah and Asahel and Shemiramoth[b] and Jehonathan, and Adonijah and Tobijah[c] and Tob-adonijah, Levites, — and <with them> Elishama and Jehoram, priests; 9 and they taught throughout Judah, and <with them> was the book of the law of Yahweh,—so they went round throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

10 And it came to pass, that ‖the dread of Yahweh‖ was upon all the kingdoms of the countries, that were round about Judah, —and they warred not against Jehoshaphat. 11 And <from among the Philistines> were they bringing in unto Jehoshaphat a present, and silver as tribute,—‖even the Arabians‖ were bringing in unto him flocks, seven thousand seven hundred rams, and seven thousand seven hundred he-goats. 12 And so it came to pass that ‖Jehoshaphat‖ went on waxing surpassingly great, — and he built, throughout Judah, fortresses and cities for store; 13 and <much business> had he, throughout the cities of Judah,—but ‖the men of war, the heroes of valour‖ were in Jerusalem. 14 And ‖these‖ are the numbers of them, by their ancestral house, — <To Judah> pertained rulers of thousands, Adnah the chief, and <with him> mighty men of valour, three hundred thousand; 15 and <under his direc-

16 and <under his direction> Amasiah son of Zichri, who willingly offered himself unto Yahweh, — and <with him> two hundred thousand heroes[b] of valour.
17 And <out of Benjamin> a hero of valour, Eliada,—and <with him>, armed with bow and buckler> two hundred thousand;
18 and <under his direction> Jehozabad, — and <with him> a hundred and eighty thousand, equipped for war.
19 ‖These‖ were they who were waiting upon the king, — besides those whom the king placed in the fortified cities, throughout all Judah.

18 1 And it came to pass <when Jehoshaphat had riches and honour, in abundance> that he contracted, by marriage, affinity with Ahab.
2 So he went down, at the end of some years, unto Ahab, to Samaria, Ahab therefore sacrificed for him, sheep and oxen, in abundance, also for the people whom he had with him,— and then persuaded him to go up against Ramoth-gilead.
3 For Ahab king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah,
Wilt thou go up with me to Ramoth-gilead?
And he said unto him—
<So' am I> even as thou, and <like thy people> are my people, and <with thee> in the war.
4 Then said Jehoshaphat, unto the king of Israel,—
Seek, I pray thee, some time to-day, the word of Yahweh.
5 So the king of Israel gathered together the prophets, four hundred men, and said unto them,
Shall we go up against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear?
And they said—
Go up, and may God deliver it into the hand of the king!
6 Then said Jehoshaphat,
Is there not' here a prophet of Yahweh |besides|,—that we may seek |from him|?
7 Then said the king of Israel unto Jehoshaphat—
There is yet' one man, by whom to seek Yahweh, but ‖I‖ hate him, for he is never' prophesying, concerning me, anything good' —but—all his days—evil, ‖the same‖ is Micaiah, son of Imla.
Then said Jehoshaphat,
Let not the king say |so|!
8 And the king of Israel called for a certain officer,—and said,
Haste, Micaiah[c] son of Imla!
9 Now ‖the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah‖ were sitting, each upon his throne, clothed in robes, and they were sitting in an open space, at the entrance of the gate of Samaria,—and ‖all the prophets‖ were prophesying before them.
10 Then did Zedekiah son of Chenaanah make him horns of iron,—and said—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
<With these> shalt thou push Syria, until they are consumed.
11 And ‖all the prophets‖ were prophesying |so|, saying,—
Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and prosper, and Yahweh will deliver [it] into the hand of the king.
12 And ‖the messenger who went to call Micaiah‖ spake unto him, saying,
Lo! ‖the words of the prophets‖ <with one mouth> are good' for the king,—be thy word then, I pray thee, like one of theirs, so wilt thou speak good.
13 Then said Micaiah,—
‖By the life of Yahweh‖
<whatsoever my God shall say> ‖that‖ must I speak.
14 Now, when he came unto the king, the king said unto him,
Micah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear?
And he said,
Go ye up and prosper, and may they be delivered into your hand.
15 Then the king said unto him,
<How many times> must ‖I‖ be putting thee on oath,—that thou speak unto me nothing' but the truth' in the name of Yahweh?
16 So he said,
I saw all Israel, scattered upon the mountains, like sheep that have no' shepherd,— and Yahweh said,
<No masters> have these! let them return every man unto his own house, in peace.
17 Then said the king of Israel, unto Jehoshaphat,—
Said I not unto thee,
He will not prophesy concerning me anything good, but evil?
18 Then said he,
‖Therefore‖ hear ye the word of Yahweh,—
I saw Yahweh, sitting upon his throne, and ‖all the host of the heavens‖ standing, on his right hand and his left.
19 Then said Yahweh,
Who will persuade Ahab king of Israel, that he may go up and fall in Ramoth-gilead?
And one spake, saying after this' manner, and another, saying after that' manner.
20 Then came there forth a spirit and stood before Yahweh, and said,
|I| will persuade him.
And Yahweh said unto him
Wherewith?
21 And he said,
I will go forth and become a spirit of falsehood, in the mouth of all his prophets.

And he said—
Thou mayest persuade, moreover also' thou shalt prevail, go forth, and do |so|.
22 ‖Now‖ therefore, lo! Yahweh hath suffered a spirit of falsehood to be put into the mouth of these[a] thy prophets,—but ‖Yahweh‖ hath spoken concerning thee—|evil|.
23 Then drew near Zedekiah son of Chenaanah, and smote Micaiah upon the cheek,—and said,
Which then is the way the spirit of Yahweh passed from me, to speak with thee?
24 Then said Micaiah,
Lo! thou shalt see,[b] on that day when thou shalt enter into a chamber within a chamber, to hide thyself.
25 Then said the king of Israel,
Take ye Micaiah,[c] and carry him back unto Amon ruler of the city, and unto Joash son of the king; 26 and ye shall say,
‖Thus‖ saith the king,
Put ye this one into the prison,—and feed him with the bread of oppression,[d] and with the water of oppression,[d] until I return in peace.
27 Then said Micaiah,
<If thou do ‖at all return‖ in peace>
Yahweh hath not spoken by me.
And he said,
Hear! ye peoples, all!

28 Then went up the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, against Ramoth-gilead. 29 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat,
[I am about] to disguise myself, and enter into the battle, but ‖thou‖ put on thy robes.
So the king of Israel disguised himself, and entered[e] into the battle. 30 Now ‖the king of Syria‖ had commanded the captains of chariots which he had, saying,
Ye shall not fight, with small [or][f] with great,—save with the king of Israel |alone|.
31 So it came to pass <when the chariot-captains saw Jehoshaphat> that ‖they‖ said,
<The king of Israel> it is'.
And they compassed him about, to fight,—but Jehoshaphat made outcry, and ‖Yahweh‖ helped him, yea God allured them away from him.
32 And so it came to pass <when the chariot-captains saw that it was not the king of Israel> that they turned back from pursuing him;
33 but ‖a certain man‖ drawing a bow in his innocence, smote the king of Israel between the shoulder-joints and the coat of mail,—wherefore he said to the charioteer,
Turn thy hand,[a] and convey me out of the host, for I am sore wounded.
34 But the battle increased on that day, and ‖the king of Israel‖ was propping himself up[b] in the chariot before the Syrians, until evening,—and died at the time of the going in of the sun.

19 1 And Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned unto his own house in peace, to Jerusalem.
2 And there came out to meet him, Jehu son of Hanani, the seer, who said unto King Jehoshaphat, <Unto the lawless> was it [right] to give help? and <on them who hate Yahweh> to bestow thy love?
<For this cause> therefore, is there wrath against thee, from before Yahweh; 3 howbeit' ‖good things‖ are found with thee,—for that thou hast consumed the Sacred Stems[c] out of the land, and hast fixed thy heart to seek God.
4 So Jehoshaphat dwelt in Jerusalem,—and he again' went forth among the people, from Beer-sheba as far as the hill country of Ephraim, and brought them back unto Yahweh, the God of their fathers. 5 And he stationed judges in the land, throughout all the fortified cities of Judah, city by city; 6 and said unto the judges,
See what ‖ye‖ are doing, inasmuch as <not for man> must ye judge, but for Yahweh, —who will be with you, in the word of justice.[d]
7 ‖Now‖ therefore, let the dread of Yahweh be upon you,—observe and do, for there is, with Yahweh our God, neither perversity nor respect of persons nor the taking of bribes.
8 And <even in Jerusalem> did Jehoshaphat station some of the Levites and the priests, and of the ancestral chiefs of Israel, to pronounce the just sentence of Yahweh, and to settle disputes,—when they returned to Jerusalem. 9 And he laid charge upon them, saying,— ‖Thus‖ shall ye act, in the fear of Yahweh, faithfully and with an undivided heart.
10 <Any[e] dispute that shall come in unto you from among your brethren who are dwelling in their cities, between blood and blood, between law and commandment and statutes and regulations> then shall ye warn them, that they may not become guilty against Yahweh, and so wrath come upon you and upon your brethren,—
‖Thus‖ shall ye act, and not incur guilt.
11 And lo! ‖Amariah the chief priest‖ is over you as to every matter of Yahweh, and ‖Zebadiah son of Ishmael the chief ruler

Be strong and act, and Yahweh be with the good!

20 1 And it came to pass <after this> that the sons of Moab and the sons of Ammon, and <with them> some of the Meunim,[a] came against Jehoshaphat, to battle. 2 And there came [some] and told Jehoshaphat, saying,
There is coming against thee, a great multitude from beyond the sea, from Syria,—and lo! they are in Hazazon-tamar, ‖the same‖ is Engedi.
3 And Jehoshaphat was afraid, and set his face to seek unto Yahweh,—and proclaimed a fast for all Judah. 4 And Judah gathered themselves together, to enquire of Yahweh,—even <out of all the cities of Judah> came they in, to seek Yahweh.
5 And Jehoshaphat stood, in the convocation of Judah and Jerusalem[b] in the house of Yahweh,—before the new court; 6 and said,
O Yahweh, God of our fathers, art not ‖thou‖ God in the heavens? and art ‖thou‖ not ruling throughout all the kingdoms of the nations? and <in thy hand> [are there not] strength and might? and is there any' who <against thee> can stand?

9 <If there come upon us calamity, the sword of judgment[c] or pestilence or famine> we will stand before this house, and before thee, for ‖thy Name‖ is in this house,—that we may make outcry unto thee out of our distress,[d] that thou mayest hear and save.
10 ‖Now‖ therefore, lo! <the sons of Ammon and Moab and Mount Seir, whom thou didst not suffer Israel to invade, when they came out of the land of Egypt,—but they turned away from them and destroyed them not> 11 yea lo! ‖they‖ are requiting us,—by coming to drive us out, from thy possession, which thou didst cause us to possess.
12 O our God, wilt thou not bring judgment upon them, seeing that there is in us no' strength, before this great multitude, that is coming against us,—‖we‖ therefore, know not what we shall do, but <unto thee> are our eyes.
13 And ‖all Judah‖ were standing before Yahweh, —also their little ones, their wives and their children.
14 Now <as for Jahaziel son of Zechariah son of Benaiah son of Jeiel son of Mattaniah a Levite, of the sons of Asaph> there came upon him' the spirit of Yahweh, in the midst of the convocation:[a] 15 and he said,
Give ye heed, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and King Jehoshaphat!
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh unto you.
<As for you> do not fear nor be dismayed, by reason of this great multitude, for |not yours| is the battle, but |God's|.
16 <To-morrow> go ye down against them, for lo! there they are coming up by the ascent of Ziz,—and ye shall find them at the end of the ravine, facing the wilderness of Jeruel.
17 It is not |for you| to fight in this matter,—take your station, stand still,[b] and see the salvation of Yahweh with you, O Judah and Jerusalem, do not fear, nor be dismayed, <to-morrow> go ye out to meet them, and ‖Yahweh‖ will be with you.
18 And Jehoshaphat bowed his head, with his face to the ground,—and ‖all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem‖ fell down before Yahweh, prostrating themselves unto Yahweh. 19 And Levites—of the sons of the Kohathites and of the sons of the Korahites, stood up to offer praise unto Yahweh, God of Israel, with an exceedingly loud voice.
20 So they rose early in the morning, and went out to the wilderness of Tekoa,—and <as they went out> Jehoshaphat stood and said,
Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem,
Trust ye in Yahweh your God, and ye shall be trusted,
Trust ye in his prophets, and ye shall prosper.
21 And <when he had given counsel unto the people> he appointed such as should sing[c] unto Yahweh, and offer praise with holy adorning,— <as they should be going forth before the armed men> that they should be saying,
O give thanks unto Yahweh,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
22 And <when they began to sing and to praise> Yahweh[d] had set liers-in-wait against the sons of Ammon, Moab and Mount Seir, who were coming against Judah, and they were smitten. 23 Then rose up the sons of Ammon and Moab against the inhabitants of Mount Seir, to devote and to destroy,— <and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir> they helped to cut off |every man his neighbour|.
24 So when ‖Judah‖ came near the watch-tower of the wilderness,—they turned towards the multitude, and lo! there they were, dead bodies fallen to the earth, with none' to escape.
25 And <when Jehoshaphat and his people came near to plunder the spoil of them> they found among them, in abundance, both riches and dead bodies[a] and precious jewels, and they stripped off[b] for themselves beyond what they could carry away,—and they were three days plundering the spoil for great' it was. 26 And <on the fourth day> they assembled themselves in the vale of Beracah,[c] for there' they blessed Yahweh,— <on this account> was the name of that place called The Vale of Beracah[c] —unto this day.

27 Then turned every man of Judah and Jerusalem with ‖Jehoshaphat‖ at their head, to go again to Jerusalem with joy,—for Yahweh had caused them to rejoice over their enemies. 28 So they came to Jerusalem, with harps[d] and with lyres and with trumpets, —unto the house of Yahweh.

29 And it came to pass that ‖the dread of God‖ was upon all the kingdoms of the countries,— when they heard that Yahweh had fought against the enemies of Israel. 30 So the kingdom of Jehoshaphat was quiet,—for his God |gave him rest| round about.

31 Thus Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah,— <thirty-five years old> was he when he began to reign and <twenty-five years> reigned he in Jerusalem, and the ‖name of his mother‖ was Azubah daughter of Shilhi. 32 And he walked in the way of his father Asa[e] and turned not from it,—doing that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh. 33 Howbeit ‖the high places‖ were not taken away,—for as yet' ‖the people‖ had not fixed their heart unto the God of their fathers.

34 But <the rest of the story of Jehoshaphat, first and last> lo! there it is written in the story of Jehu son of Hanani, which hath been added to the book of the Kings of Israel.

35 Yet <after this> did Jehoshaphat king of Judah join himself with Ahaziah king of Israel, —‖he‖ was lawless in his doings; 36 and he joined with him, to make ships to go unto Tarshish, —and they made ships in Ezion-geber. 37 Then prophesied Eliezer son of Dodavahu of Mareshah, against Jehoshaphat, saying,— > <Because thou hast joined thyself with Ahaziah> Yahweh hath broken in pieces thy works.

So the ships were wrecked, and were not able to go unto Tarshish.

§ 15. The Wicked Reign of Jehoram (Jehoshaphat's Son) calls forth a Warning Letter from the Prophet Elijah, which is fearfully fulfilled.

21 1 And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David,—and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead. 2 Now ‖he‖ had brethren sons of Jehoshaphat,—Azariah and Jehiel and Zechariah and Azariah, and Michael and Shephatiah,—‖all these‖ were sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel,[a] 3 and their father gave them large presents—of silver and of gold and of precious things, with cities of defence in Judah,—but <the kingdom> gave he unto Jehoram for ‖he‖ was the firstborn. 4 But <when Jehoram had arisen over the kingdom of his father> he strengthened himself, and slew all his brethren with the sword,—moreover also' some of the rulers of Israel.

5 <Thirty-two years old> was Jehoram when he began to reign,—and <eight years> reigned he in Jerusalem.

6 And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel like as did the house of Ahab, for <the daughter of Ahab> had he to wife,—so he wrought wickedness in the eyes of Yahweh. 7 Howbeit Yahweh was not willing to destroy the house of David, because of the covenant which he had solemnised unto David,—and as he had promised to give unto him a lamp and unto his sons all the days.

8 <In his days> revolted the Edomites, from under the hand of Judah,—and set over themselves a king. 9 So Jehoram passed over with his captains,[b] and all his chariots with him,— and it came to pass that he rose up by night, and smote the Edomites that were round about unto him and the chariot-captains.

10 So Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah — unto this day. ‖Then‖ must Libnah needs revolt at the same time from under his hand, — because he had forsaken Yahweh the God of his fathers. 11 ‖He too‖ made high places among the mountains[c] of Judah,—and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to be unchaste, and seduced Judah.

12 Then came there unto him a writing, from Elijah the prophet saying,—

> ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh God of David thy father,
> <Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Asa king of Judah; 13 but hast walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and hast caused Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to be unchaste, after the unchastities of the house of Ahab, —moreover also' <thine own brethren of the house of thy father who were better than thou> hast thou slain> 14 lo! ‖Yahweh‖ is about to plague with a great plague thy people,— and thy children and thy wives, and all thy possessions; 15 also ‖thyself‖ with sore diseases with a disease of thy bowels,— until thy bowels shall fall out by reason of the disease, in a year added to a year.[d]

16 And Yahweh stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines, and the Arabians, who were under the direction of[a] the Ethiopians; 17 and they came up against Judah, and forced their way into it, and carried off all the possessions that were found belonging to the house of the king, moreover also his sons and his wives,—so that there was left him never a son, save only Jehoahaz the youngest[b] of his sons. 18 And <after all this> Yahweh plagued him in his bowels with an incurable disease. 19 And it came to pass, <in a year beyond a year, even when the end of the days of two years had passed>[c] that his bowels fell out by reason of his disease, so that he died, of |malignant disease|, — and his people made him no burning, |like the burning of his fathers|. 20 <Thirty-two years old> was he when he began to reign, and <eight years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and went his way—unregretted,[d] and <though they buried him in the city of David> yet ‖not in the sepulchres of the kings‖.

§ 16. Jehoram's Son and Successor, Ahaziah, counselled by his own wicked mother Athaliah and by the house of Ahab, works wickedness, and is slain in Samaria by Jehu. His Mother usurps the Throne after (as she supposes) having slain all the Seed Royal; from whom, however, the boy Joash is secretly rescued.

22 1 And the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Ahaziah his youngest son king, in his stead, for <all the elder sons> had the band of men slain' who came in with the Arabians into the camp, — so Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned. 2 <Forty-two years old> was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and <one year> reigned he in Jerusalem, —and ‖the name of his mother‖ was Athaliah, daughter of Omri. 3 ‖He too‖ walked in the ways of the house of Ahab,—for ‖his mother‖, became his counsellor, to work lawlessness. 4 Wherefore he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, like the house of Ahab, —for ‖they‖ became his' counsellors, after the death of his father, to his destruction. 5 <Even in their counsel> he walked, and went with Jehoram son of Ahab king of Israel, to war against Hazael king of Syria, in Ramoth-gilead, —and the Syrians smote Joram. 6 And he returned to be healed in Jezreel, because of the wounds wherewith they smote him in Ramah, when he fought with Hazael, king of Syria, —and ‖Azariah son of Jehoram king of Judah‖ went down to see Jehoram son of Ahab in Jezreel, because |sick| was he! 7 But <from God> came the downfall of Azariah, through his coming to Joram,—and because <through his coming> he went out with Jehoram against Jehu son of Nimshi, whom Yahweh had anointed to cut off the house of Ahab. 8 And so it came to pass <when Jehu was executing judgment upon the house of Ahab,—and found the rulers of Judah and the sons of the brethren of Ahaziah ministering to Ahaziah> that he slew them. 9 And he sought Ahaziah, and they captured him, ‖he‖ having hid himself in Samaria, and they brought him unto Jehu, and he[a] put him to death, and they buried him, because, said they, he is ‖the son of Jehoshaphat‖, who sought Yahweh with all his heart,—and ‖no one of the house of Ahaziah‖ had ability for the kingdom.

10 But <when ‖Athaliah mother of Ahaziah‖ saw that her son was dead> she rose up and destroyed[b] all the seed royal of the house of Judah. 11 But Jehoshabeath,[c] daughter of the king, took Joash son of Ahaziah,[d] and stole him from among the sons of the king who were being slain, and put him and his nurse in a bedchamber, — so Jehoshabeath daughter of King Jehoram—wife of Jehoiada the priest, for ‖she‖ was the sister of Ahaziah—hid' him from the face of Athaliah so that she slew him not. 12 And it came to pass that he was with them, in the house of God, hidden six years,— while ‖Athaliah‖ was reigning over the land.

23 1 And <in the seventh year> Jehoiada strengthened himself, and took the rulers of hundreds—even Azariah son of Jeroham, and Ishmael son of Jehohanan, and Azariah son of Obed, and Maaseiah son of Adaiah[e] and Elishaphat son of Zichri — unto[f] himself, in covenant. 2 And they went round throughout Judah, and gathered together the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the ancestral chiefs of Israel,—and they came into Jerusalem. 3 And all the convocation solemnised a covenant in the house of God, with the king, —and he said to them,

Lo! the king's son must reign, as spake Yahweh concerning the sons of David.

4 ‖This‖ is the thing that ye shall do,—

<A third of you entering on the sabbath, both of the priests and of the Levites, as doorkeepers of the porch;[g] 5 and a third, being in the house of the king, and a third, at the foundation gate,—and all the people, being in the courts of the house of Yahweh> 6 then let no one enter the house of Yahweh, save only the priests, and they who are in attendance of the Levites, ‖they‖ may enter, for ‖holy‖ they are',—but ‖all the people‖ shall keep the watch of Yahweh.

7 So shall the Levites encompass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand, and ‖he that entereth into the house‖ shall be put to death.

Thus be ye with the king, when he cometh in and when he goeth out.

8 So the Levites and all Judah did' according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they took every man his men, who were coming in on the sabbath, with them who were going out on the sabbath,—for Jehoiada the priest dismissed not the courses. 9 And Jehoiada the priest gave unto the captains of hundreds, the spears and the bucklers and the shields, which belonged to King David,—which were in the house of God. 10 And he caused all the people to stand, even every man with his weapon in his hand, from the right corner of the house as far as the left corner of the house, by the altar and the house,—near the king round about.

11 Then brought they forth the king's son, and set upon him the crown and the testimony,[a] and made him' king,—and Jehoiada and his sons anointed' him, and said,

May the king live!

12 Now <when Athaliah heard the noise of the people who were running, and those who were praising the king,—then came she unto the people in the house of Yahweh; 13 and looked, and lo! ‖the king‖, standing by his pillar at the entrance, and the captains and the trumpets[b] by the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing, and blowing with trumpets, and the singers, with instruments of song,[c] and such as led the offering of praise>[d] then Athaliah rent her garments, and said,

Conspiracy! conspiracy!

14 Then Jehoiada the priest commanded[e] the captains of hundreds, officers of the force, and said unto them,

Take her forth within the ranks, and he that cometh in after her let him be slain with the sword,— for, said the priest,

Ye must not slay her in the house of Yahweh!

15 So they made way for her,[f] and she came into the entrance of the horse-gate of the house of the king,—and they slew her there.

16 And Jehoiada solemnised a covenant, between himself and all the people, and the king,—that they should become a people unto Yahweh. 17 Then all the people entered into the house of Baal and brake it down, and <his altars and his images> brake they in pieces,—and <Mattan the priest of Baal> they slew, before the altars. 18 And Jehoiada put the oversight of the house of Yahweh into the hand of the priests and[a] the Levites, whom David set by courses over the house of Yahweh, that they might offer[b] up the ascending-sacrifices of[c] Yahweh, as it is written in the law of Moses, with rejoicing and with song,—under the direction of David.[d] 19 And he caused gatekeepers to stand, at the gates of the house of Yahweh,—that no one who was unclean should, on any account, enter.

20 Then took he the captains of hundreds—and the nobles—and the rulers over the people—and all the people of the land, and brought down the king out of the house of Yahweh, and they entered, through the midst of the upper gate, into the house of the king,—and they seated the king, upon the throne of the kingdom. 21 And all the people of the land rejoiced, and ‖the city‖ was quiet, — when <Athaliah> they had slain with the sword.

24 1 <Seven years old> was Joash when he began to reign, and <forty years> reigned he, in Jerusalem,—and ‖the name of his mother‖ was Zibiah, of Beersheba. 2 And Joash did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh,—all the days of Jehoiada the priest. 3 And Jehoiada took for him two wives,—and he begat sons and daughters.

4 And it came to pass <after this> that it was near the heart of Joash to renew the house of Yahweh. 5 So he gathered together the priests and the Levites, and said unto them—

Go ye out unto the cities of Judah, and gather out of all Israel silver to repair the house of your God, year by year, and ‖ye‖ shall hasten the matter,— but the Levites hastened it not.

6 Then the king called for Jehoiada the chief, and said unto him,

Wherefore hast thou not required of the Levites, to bring in out of Judah and out of Jerusalem the tribute of Moses the servant of Yahweh, and of the convocation of Israel, —for the tent of testimony?

7 For <as for Athaliah the Lawless> ‖her sons‖ brake up the House of God,—moreover <all the hallowed things of the house of Yahweh> offered they unto the Baalim. 8 So the king bade [them], and they made a certain chest,—and set it in the gate of the house of Yahweh, outside. 9 And they made a proclamation, throughout Judah and Jerusalem, to bring in unto Yahweh the tribute of Moses the servant of God, laid upon Israel in the desert. 10 And all the rulers and all the people rejoiced,—and brought in and cast into the chest, until they had finished. 11 And it came to pass <what time the chest was brought into the office of the king by the hand of the Levites, and when they had seen that abundant' was the silver> that the scribe of the king came in, and the officer of the chief priest, and they emptied the chest, and bare it, and put it back in its place,—‖thus‖ they did, day by day, and collected silver, in abundance; 12 and the king and Jehoiada gave it unto such as were doing[a] the work of labouring upon the house of Yahweh, and they were hiring masons and carpenters, to renew the house of Yahweh,—moreover also, such as were fashioners of iron and bronze, to repair the house of Yahweh. 13 So the doers of the work wrought, and the work of restoration went forward, in their hand,—and they caused the house of God to stand forth according to its due proportions, and made it strong. 14 And <when they had finished> they brought in before the king and Jehoiada the rest of the silver, and he made it into utensils for the house of Yahweh, utensils of attendance, and bowls and spoons, even utensils of gold and silver. Then were they offering ascending-sacrifices in the house of Yahweh, continually, all the days of Jehoiada.

15 But Jehoiada waxed old and became satisfied with days, and died,—a hundred and thirty years old, when he died. 16 And they buried him in the city of David, with the kings,—because he had done good in Israel, both toward God and his house.

17 Now <after the death of Jehoiada> came the rulers of Judah, and bowed themselves down unto the king,—‖then‖ hearkened the king unto them. 18 And they forsook the house of Yahweh, God of their fathers, and served the Sacred Stems,[b] and the images,—so there was wrath against Judah and Jerusalem, for this their guilt. 19 And he sent among them prophets, to bring them back unto Yahweh,—and they testified against them, but they would not give ear.

20 And ‖the spirit of God‖ clothed Zechariah[c] son of Jehoiada the priest, and he took his stand above[d] the people, — and said unto them,

‖Thus‖ saith God,

Wherefore are ‖ye‖ transgressing the commandments[e] of Yahweh, so that ye cannot prosper, <because ye have forsaken Yahweh> therefore hath he forsaken you.

21 So they conspired against him, and stoned him with stones, by the commandment of the king,—in the court of the house of Yahweh. 22 Thus Joash the king |remembered not| the lovingkindness which Jehoiada his father had done for him, but slew his son,—and |as he died| he said,

Yahweh see' and require!

23 And it came to pass <when the year had gone round> that the force of Syria came up against him, and they entered Judah, and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the rulers of the people, from among the people,—and <all the spoil of them> sent they unto the king of Damascus. 24 <Although ‖with a comparatively few men‖ came the force of Syria> yet ‖Yahweh‖ delivered into their hand an exceeding large force,—because they had forsaken Yahweh, the God of their fathers,—and <upon Joash> executed they judgments. 25 And <when they| had departed from him, for they left him with sore diseases> his own servants conspired against him, for the blood of the son[a] of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him upon his bed, and he died,—and <though they buried him in the city of David> yet did they not bury him in the sepulchres of the kings. 26 Now ‖these‖ are they that conspired against him,—Zabad son of Shimeath the Ammonitess, and Jehozabad son of Shimrith the Moabitess.

27 But <as for his sons, and the greatness of the oracle on him, and the foundation of the house of God> lo! there they are written, in the commentary[b] of the Book of Kings, — and Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

§ 18. The Reign of Amaziah, not wholly good; a victorious War with Edom, a disastrous one with Israel; Amaziah dies in Lachish by conspiracy.

25 1 <Twenty-five years old> was Amaziah when he began to reign, and <twenty-nine years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ‖the name of his mother‖ was Jehoaddan, of Jerusalem. 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—only' not with a whole heart.

3 And it came to pass <when the kingdom was confirmed unto him>[c] that he slew his servants who had smitten the king his father; 4 but <their sons> he put not to death,—but as it is written in the law—in the book of Moses—how that Yahweh commanded, saying—

|Fathers| shall not die for |sons|, and
‖Sons‖ shall not die for |fathers|, but
Each man <for his own sin> shall die.

5 And Amaziah gathered Judah together, and appointed them by their ancestral houses, as rulers of thousands and as rulers of hundreds, for all Judah and Benjamin,—and he numbered them, from twenty years old and upwards, and found them three hundred thousand choice men, able to go forth to war, who could grasp spear and shield. 6 And he hired out of Israel, a hundred thousand heroes of valour, for a hundred talents of silver. 7 But ‖a man of God‖ came unto him, saying,

O king! let not the host of Israel' come with thee,—for Yahweh is not with Israel, [with] any of the sons of Ephraim.
8 But <if thou art going> do, be strong for the battle,—God will cause thee to fall before the enemy, for there is' strength in God, to help or to cause to fall.
9 And Amaziah said unto the man of God,
What then shall be done as to the hundred talents, which I have given to the company of Israel?
Then said the man of God,
Yahweh is able' to give thee much more than this.
10 So Amaziah separated them, [appointing] unto the company which had come unto him out of Ephraim, to depart unto their own place, —wherefore their anger was greatly kindled against Judah, so they returned to their own place, in a heat of anger.
11 And ‖Amaziah‖ took courage, and led forth his people, and went to the valley of salt,—and smote of the sons of Seir, ten thousand; 12 and the sons of Judah took captive ‖ten thousand alive‖, and brought to the top of the crag,—and cast them down from the top of the crag, and ‖all of them‖ were torn asunder.
13 But <as for the sons of the company which Amaziah sent back from going with him to the war> they spread themselves out against the cities of Judah, from Samaria, even unto Beth-hôrôn,—and smote of them three thousand, and took great plunder.
14 And so it was <after Amaziah came in from smiting the Edomites> that he brought in the gods of the sons of Seir, and set them up for himself, as gods,—and <before them> used he to bow himself down, and <unto them> used he to burn a perfume. 15 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh, against Amaziah,—and he sent unto him a prophet, and said unto him,
Wherefore' hast thou sought the gods of the people, which delivered not their own people out of thy hand?
16 And it came to pass <as he spake unto him> that he said to him,
To be <counsellor to the king> have we appointed thee? forbear thou, wherefore' should they smite thee?
So the prophet forbare, and said—
I know that God hath determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not hearkened unto my counsel.
17 Then Amaziah king of Judah took counsel, and sent unto Joash, son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu king of Israel, saying,— Come, let us look one another in the face!
18 And Joash king of Israel sent unto Amaziah king of Judah, saying,
‖A thistle that was in Lebanon‖ sent unto a cedar that was in Lebanon, saying,
Come! give thy daughter unto my son to wife,— but there passed by a beast of the field that was in Lebanon, and trampled down the thistle.
19 Thou hast said—
Lo! thou hast smitten the Edomites, and thy heart hath lifted thee up to display honour,— ‖Now‖ abide in thine own house, wherefore' shouldst thou engage in strife with Misfortune, and fall, ‖thou and Judah with thee‖?
20 But Amaziah hearkened not, because <from God> it was', to the end he might deliver them up into [their enemies'] hand,—because they had sought the gods of Edom. 21 So Joash king of Israel came up, and they looked one another in the face, ‖he, and Amaziah king of Judah‖,—in Beth-shemesh, which belongeth unto Judah. 22 Then was Judah defeated, before Israel,—and they fled every man to his own home;[a] 23 and ‖Amaziah king of Judah, son of Joash son of Jehoahaz‖ was taken by Joash king of Israel, in Beth-shemesh, —and he brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim as far as the corner-gate, four hundred cubits; 24 and <all the gold and the silver and all the utensils that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom, and the treasures of the house of the king, and hostages>[b] [he took],—and returned to Samaria.
25 And Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah lived, after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel,—fifteen years.
26 Now <the rest of the story of Amaziah, first and last> lo! it is written in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. 27 And <after the time that Amaziah turned away from following Yahweh> they made against him a conspiracy in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish,—but they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him there. 28 And they brought him on horses,—and buried him with his fathers, in the city of Judah.[c]

26 1 Then all the people of Judah took Uzziah, when ‖he‖ was sixteen years old,—and made him king, instead of his father Amaziah. 2 ‖He‖ built Eloth, and restored it to Judah,—after that the king slept with his fathers. 3 <Sixteen years old> was Uzziah, when he began to reign, and <fifty-two years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ‖the name of his mother‖ was Jechiliah,[d] of Jerusalem. 4 And he did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that Amaziah his father had done.

5 And it came to pass that he set himself to seek God, in the days of Zechariah, who gave understanding in the seeing[a] of God,—and <throughout the days of his seeking Yahweh>
God' |prospered him|. 6 So he went forth and made war against the Philistines, and brake down the wall of Gath, and the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod,—and built cities in Ashdod, and among the Philistines. 7 And God helped him against the Philistines and against the Arabians who dwelt in Gur-baal, and the Meunim. 8 And the Ammonites gave a present to Uzziah,—and his name went forth as far as the entering in of Egypt, for he shewed exceeding great strength.

9 And Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem, over the corner-gate, and over the valley-gate, and over the angle,—and he made them strong.
10 And he built towers in the desert,[b] and digged many wells, for <much cattle> had he, both in the lowland, and in the plain,—husbandmen and vinedressers, in the mountains and in the fruitful field, for  was
he. 11 And it came to pass that Uzziah had a force ready to make war, to go forth as a host in company, by the number of their reckoning, under the direction[c] of Jeiel[d] the scribe, and Maaseiah the officer,—under the direction[c] of Hananiah, from among the captains of the king. 12 ||The whole number of the ancestral chiefs pertaining to the heroes of valour|| was two thousand and six hundred;
13 and <under their direction>[c] was the force of a host, three hundred and seven thousand five hundred, ready to make war, with the strength of a force,—for helping the king against an enemy. 14 And Uzziah prepared for them, for all the host, bucklers and spears and helmets, and coats of mail, and bows,—and yea even sling-stones. 15 And he made in Jerusalem, inventions invented of the inventor, to be upon the towers and upon the turrets, for throwing with arrows, and with great stones, —so that his name went forth afar, for he was marvellously helped, until that he was strong.

16 But <when he became strong> uplifted' was his heart, unto ruin, for he acted unfaithfully against Yahweh his God,—and entered into the temple of Yahweh, to burn incense upon the altar of incense. 17 Then entered after him, Azariah the priest,—and with him eighty priests of Yahweh, sons of valour;[e] 18 and they took their stand against Uzziah
the king, and said unto him—

It is not <for thee> O Uzziah, to burn incense unto Yahweh, but <for the priests, the sons of Aaron, who are hallowed> to burn incense.

Go forth out of the sanctuary, for thou hast acted unfaithfully, and <not to thee, for an honour> [shall it be] from Yahweh Elohim.

19 Then was Uzziah wroth, and <in his hand> was a censer, to burn incense,—and <when he was wroth with the priests> ||a leprosy|| shot forth in his forehead, before the priests, in the house of Yahweh, from off the altar of incense. 20 <When Azariah the chief priest and all the priests turned towards him> lo! ||he|| was leprous, in his forehead,
so they hastened him from thence,—yea ||even
he himself|| hurried to go out, because Yahweh had smitten him. 21 And it came to pass that |Uzziah the king| was a leper until the day of his death, and dwelt in a house apart—a leper, for he was cut off from the house of Yahweh,—and ||Jotham his son|| over the house of the king, judging the people of the land.

22 Now <the rest of the story of Uzziah, first and last> hath Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, written.

23 And Uzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of burial that pertained unto the kings, for they said,

|A leper| he is'.

And Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

§ 20. Jotham's excellent and prosperous Reign.

27 1 <Twenty-five years old> was Jotham when he began to reign, and <sixteen years> reigned
he in Jerusalem,—and ||the name of his mother|| was Jerushah, daughter of Zadok. 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that Uzziah his father had done, only' he entered not into the temple of Yahweh, — though still' were the people' acting corruptly. 3 ||He|| built the upper gate of the house of Yahweh,— and <on the wall of Ophel> built he extensively. 4 <Cities also> built he, in the hill country of Judah,—and <in the thick woods>[a] built he fortresses and towers. 5 ||He|| also made war against the king of the sons of Ammon, and prevailed against them, and the sons of Ammon gave him, during that year, a hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand measures of wheat, and <of barley> ten thousand,—<this> did the sons of Ammon render him, both in the second year, and the third. 6 So Jotham strengthened himself, —for he fixed his ways before Yahweh his God.

7 But <the rest of the story of Jotham, and all his wars, and his ways> lo! there they are written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. 8 <Twenty-five years old> was he when he began to reign,—and <sixteen years> reigned he in Jerusalem. 9 And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him, in the city of David,—and Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

§ 21. The Reign of Ahaz—a wicked King; chastised by Syrians, Israelites, Edomites, and Philistines; and buried with dishonour. First Appeal to Assyria. Charming Incident at Samaria.

28 1 <Twenty years old> was Ahaz when he began to reign, and <sixteen years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—but he did not that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, like David his father; 2 but walked in the ways of the kings of Israel,—yea <even molten images> made he to the Baalim: 3 and ‖he‖ burned incense, in the valley of the son of Hinnom,—and burnt his sons, in the fire, according to the abominable ways of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. 4 And he sacrificed and burnt incense in the high places, and upon the hills,—and under every green tree. 5 Wherefore Yahweh his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria, who smote him, and carried away captive from him a large body of captives, and brought them into Damascus, —yea <even into the hand of the king of Israel>, was he delivered, who smote him with a great smiting. 6 And Pekah son of Remaliah slew, in Judah, a hundred and twenty thousand in one day, |all| sons of valour,—because they had forsaken Yahweh, God of their fathers. 7 And Zichri a hero of Ephraim, slew Maaseiah son of the king, and Azrikam, chief ruler of the house, —and Elkanah, that was next unto the king. 8 And the sons of Israel |carried away captive| from among their brethren two hundred thousand, wives, sons and daughters, moreover also' <of much spoil> did they plunder them, — and brought the spoil to Samaria.

9 But <in that place> was a prophet unto Yahweh, Oded' his name, so he went out to meet the host that was coming unto Samaria, and said unto them,

Lo! <in the wrath of Yahweh, God of your fathers, against Judah> hath he delivered them into your hand,—and ye have slain them in a rage, until <to the heavens> it hath reached.

10 |Now| therefore, ‖ye‖ are thinking to tread down ‖the children of Judah and Jerusalem‖ as servants and as handmaids for yourselves.

But is it not so—that ‖ye yourselves‖ are altogether guilty against Yahweh your God?

11 ‖Now‖ therefore, hearken unto me, and restore the captives whom ye have taken captive from among your brethren,—for ‖the glow of the anger of Yahweh‖ is over you.

12 Then rose up certain of the chiefs of the sons of Ephraim — Azariah son of Jehohanan, Berechiah son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah son of Shallum, and Amasa son of Hadlai,—against them who were coming in from the army; 13 and said unto them,

Ye shall not bring in the captives hither, for <with guilt against Yahweh already upon us> ‖ye‖ are thinking to add unto our sins, and unto our guilt,—for great' is the guilt we have, and fierce' is the anger over Israel.

14 So the armed men left' the captives, and the plunder, before the rulers, and all the convocation. 15 Then rose up the men who have been expressed by name—and took the captives, and <all who were naked among them> clothed they out of the spoil, and arrayed them and sandalled them, and gave them to eat and to drink, and anointed them, and conducted them with asses for every one that was exhausted,[a] and brought them to Jericho the city of palm-trees, near unto their brethren,—and then returned to Samaria.

16 <At that time> sent King Ahaz unto the kings of Assyria to help him. 17 For again' had |the Edomites| come and smitten Judah, and carried away captives; 18 and ‖the Philistines‖ had spread themselves out against the cities of the lowland and of the south, pertaining to Judah, and had captured Beth-shemesh and Aijalon and Gederoth, and Soco with its villages, and Timnah with its villages, and Gimzo, with its villages,—and dwelt there.

19 For Yahweh had brought Judah low, because of Ahaz king of Israel,[b]—for he had given the rein in Judah, and ‖been grievously unfaithful‖ with Yahweh. 20 And Tilgath-[c]pilneser king of Assyria |came against him|,—and distressed him, but strengthened him not.

21 For Ahaz took away a portion out of the house of Yahweh, and out of the house of the king, and the rulers,—and gave unto the king of Assyria, but he helped him not. 22 And <in the time of his distress> he yet further' acted unfaithfully with Yahweh,—‖he‖ King Ahaz!

23 For he sacrificed unto the gods of Damascus who had smitten him, and said,

<Because the gods of the kings of Syria are helping them> ‖unto them‖ will I sacrifice, that they may help me.

But ‖they‖ served to seduce him and all Israel. 24 And Ahaz gathered together the utensils of the house of God, and brake away the fittings of the house of God, and shut up the doors of the house of Yahweh,—and made for himself altars at every corner in Jerusalem; 25 and <in every several city of Judah> made he high places, for burning incense unto other gods, — and provoked Yahweh, God of his fathers.

26 But <the rest of his story, and all his ways, first and last> |there they are| written in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

27 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, in Jerusalem, but they brought him not into the sepulchres of the kings of Israel, — and Hezekiah his son reigned in his stead.

§ 22. The Reign of Hezekiah, who purifies and re-dedicates the Temple; celebrates a Great Passover; destroys Idolatrous Images; restores Temple Services; provides for Priests and Levites; is saved from Assyrian Invasion; falls sick and receives a wonderful Token; is uplifted with Pride, but humbles himself, and dies greatly honoured.

29 1 And ‖Hezekiah‖ began to reign when he was twenty-five years old, and <twenty-nine years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ‖the name of his mother‖ was Abijah, daughter of Zechariah. 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that ‖David his father‖ had done.

3 ‖He‖ <in the first year of his reign, in the first month> opened the doors of the house of Yahweh, and repaired them. 4 And he brought in the priests, and the Levites,—and gathered them together in the broadway on the east; 5 and said unto them,

Hear me, O Levites!

‖Now‖ hallow yourselves, and hallow the house of Yahweh, God of your fathers, and take forth the impure thing out of the holy place.

6 For our fathers have acted unfaithfully and done the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh our God, and have forsaken him,—and have turned round their faces from the habitation of Yahweh, and have offered their backs.

7 Moreover they have shut up the doors of the porch, and have quenched the lamps, and <incense> have they not burned,—and <ascending-sacrifice> have they not caused to go up in the holy place, unto the God of Israel.

8 Thus hath it come to pass, that ‖the wrath of Yahweh‖ hath been upon Judah and Jerusalem,—and he hath delivered them up as a terror and as an astonishment and as a hissing, even as ‖ye‖ can see with your own eyes.

9 And lo! our fathers have fallen by the sword, and ‖our sons and our daughters and our wives‖ are in captivity for this.

10 ‖Now‖ is it near my heart, to solemnise a covenant unto Yahweh, God of Israel,—that he may turn from him[a] the glow of his anger.

11 My sons! ‖now‖ do not be faulty,—for <of you> hath Yahweh made choice, to stand before him, and to wait upon him, and to be his' attendants and burners of incense.

12 Then arose the Levites—Mahath son of Amasai, and Joel son of Azariah, of the sons of the Kohathites, and <of the sons of Merari> Kish son of Abdi, and Azariah son of Jehallelel,—and <of the Gershonites> Joah son of Zimmah, and Eden son of Joah; 13 and <of the sons of Elizaphan> Shimri and Jeiel,[a]—and <of the sons of Asaph> Zechariah, and Mattaniah; 14 and <of the sons of Heman> Jehiel[b] and Shimei,—and <of the sons of Jeduthun> Shemaiah, and Uzziel; 15 and they gathered together their brethren, who hallowed themselves, and came in according to[c] the command of the king, in the things of Yahweh,—to purify the house of Yahweh.

16 So the priests entered into the inner part of the house of Yahweh, to make purification, and they brought out every unclean thing which they found in the temple of Yahweh, into the court of the house of Yahweh,—where the Levites received it, to carry it forth to the Kidron ravine outside. 17 And they began, on the first of the first month, to hallow,—and <on the eighth day of the month> they came to the porch of Yahweh, so they hallowed the house of Yahweh in eight days,—and <on the sixteenth day of the first month> they finished.

18 Then came they in unto Hezekiah the king, and said,

We have purified all the house of Yahweh,—the[d] altar of ascending-sacrifice, and all the utensils thereof, and the table for setting in array, and all the utensils thereof.

19 And <all the utensils which King Ahaz in his reign rejected when he acted unfaithfully> have we made ready and hallowed,—and ‖there they are‖ before the altar of Yahweh.

20 So Hezekiah the king rose up early, and gathered together the rulers of the city,—and went up to the house of Yahweh. 21 And they brought in seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven young sheep, and seven he-goats for bearing sin, for the kingdom and for the sanctuary and for Judah,—and he bade the sons of Aaron, the priests, cause them to ascend upon the altar of Yahweh. 22 So they slaughtered the bullocks, and the priests' received the blood', and dashed it against the altar,[e]—and they slaughtered the rams, and dashed the blood against the altar,[e] and slaughtered the young sheep, and dashed the blood against the altar.[e] 23 And they brought near the he-goats for bearing sin, before the king, and the convocation,—and they leaned their hands upon them; 24 and the priests slaughtered them, and sin-cleansed, with their blood, the altar, to put a propitiatory-covering over all Israel,—because <for all Israel> did the king appoint the ascending-sacrifice and the offering for bearing sin.

25 And he caused the Levites to stand in the house of Yahweh, with cymbals and with harps[a] and with lyres, by the commandment of David, and of Gad the seer of the king, and of Nathan the prophet,—for <by the hand of Yahweh> came the commandment by the hand of his prophets. 26 So the Levites took their stand, with the instruments of David, and the priests, with the trumpets. 27 And Hezekiah gave word, to cause the ascending-sacrifice to go up on the altar,—and <when the ascending-sacrifice began> the singing unto Yahweh[b] began, and the trumpets, even under the direction[c] of the instruments of David, king of Israel.

28 And ‖all the convocation‖[d] were bowing themselves in prostration, and ‖the song‖ was resounding and the trumpets were blowing,—|the whole| until the completing of the ascending-sacrifice. 29 And <when the offering was complete> the king knelt down and all who were present with him, and bowed themselves in prostration. 30 And Hezekiah the king and the rulers gave word to the Levites, to offer praise unto Yahweh, in the words of David, and of Asaph the seer,—so they offered praise right joyfully,[e] and bent their heads and bowed themselves in prostration. 31 Then responded Hezekiah and said—

‖Now‖ have ye consecrated yourselves[f] unto Yahweh.
Draw near, and bring in sacrifices and thank-offerings unto the house of Yahweh,—

So the convocation brought' sacrifices and thank-offerings, and ‖everyone of a willing heart‖ [brought] ascending-sacrifices. 32 And it came to pass that ‖the number of ascending-sacrifices which the convocation brought‖ was—seventy bullocks, and a hundred rams, and two hundred young sheep,—as an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, ‖all these‖.

33 But ‖the hallowed beasts‖ were six hundred bullocks, and three thousand sheep. 34 Only' ‖the priests‖ were too few, and were unable to flay all the ascending-sacrifices,—so their brethren the Levites strengthened' them, until the work was complete and until the priests had hallowed themselves, for ‖the Levites‖ were more upright in heart to hallow themselves, than the priests. 35 Moreover also' ‖the ascending-sacrifices‖ were in abundance, with the fat portions of the peace-offerings, and with the drink-offerings to every ascending-sacrifice,—thus was established' the service of the house of Yahweh. 36 And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, because God had established it for the people,—for <suddenly> had the thing come about.

30 1 Then sent Hezekiah unto all Israel and Judah, moreover also' <letters> wrote he unto Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come unto the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem,—to keep a passover' unto Yahweh, God of Israel. 2 Yea the king and his rulers and all the convocation in Jerusalem, had taken counsel,—to keep the passover in the second' month. 3 For they were unable to keep it at that time,—because ‖the priests‖ had not hallowed themselves in sufficient numbers, and ‖the people‖ had not gathered themselves unto Jerusalem. 4 And the thing was right, in the eyes of the king,—and in the eyes of all the convocation. 5 So they established a decree, to make proclamation[a] throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba even unto Dan, that they should come in to keep a passover unto Yahweh the God of Israel, in Jerusalem,—for <not for a long time> had they kept it as written.

6 The runners, therefore, went with letters from the hand of the king and his rulers, throughout all Israel and Judah, and[b] according to the commandment of the king, saying,—

Ye sons of Israel, return ye unto Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, and he will return unto the remnant,[c] that which is left to you, out of the hand of the kings of Assyria.

7 And be not ye like your fathers, or like your brethren, who acted unfaithfully with Yahweh, God of your fathers,—who therefore delivered them up for an astonishment, as ‖ye yourselves‖ can see.

8 ‖Now‖ do not stiffen your neck, like your fathers,—stretch forth[d] the hand unto Yahweh, and enter into his sanctuary which he hath hallowed unto times age-abiding, and serve Yahweh your God, that he may turn from you the glow of his anger.

9 For <by your returning unto Yahweh> ‖your brethren and your children‖ shall find compassion before their captors, so as to return unto this land.
For <gracious and compassionate> is Yahweh your God, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye will return unto him.

10 So the runners were passing from city to city throughout the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun,—but they were laughing them to scorn, and mocking them. 11 Howbeit ‖some, out of Asher and Manasseh and out of Zebulun‖ humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem. 12 Also <upon Judah> came the hand of God, to give them one heart,—to keep the commandment of the king and the rulers, as[e] the word of Yahweh.

13 And there gathered themselves unto Jerusalem much people, to keep the festival of unleavened

d removed the altars which were in Jerusan,—and <all the censers> removed they, and st them into the Kidron ravine.[a] 15 Then aughtered they the passover, on the fourteenth f the second month,—and ‖the priests and he Levites‖ were put to shame, and hallowed themselves, and brought in the ascending-sacrifices of the house of Yahweh. 16 And they stood in their place, according to their regulation, according to[b] the law of Moses the man of God,—‖the[c] priests‖ dashing the blood, [which they received] at the hand of the Levites. 17 For there were many in the convocation, who had not hallowed themselves,—but ‖the Levites‖ were over the slaughtering of the passover-lambs,[d] for every one who was [not pure], to hallow him unto Yahweh. 18 For ‖the multitude of the people‖
<many out of Ephraim and Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun> had not purified themselves, for they did eat the passover, otherwise than as was written,[e]—for Hezekiah prayed for them,
saying,

May Yahweh the Good, put a propitiatory-covering about 19 every one who hath prepared ‖his heart‖ to seek God, even Yahweh' God of his fathers,—though not according to the purification of the sanctuary!

20 And Yahweh hearkened unto Hezekiah, and healed the people.

21 And so the sons of Israel who were found in Jerusalem kept the festival of unleavened cakes seven days, with great rejoicing,—and the Levites and the priests [were offering praise unto Yahweh day by day], with loud instruments[f] unto Yahweh.

22 And Hezekiah spake unto the heart[g] of all the Levites who were giving good instruction respecting Yahweh,—and they did eat the appointed feast seven days, sacrificing the peace'- offerings, and offering praise unto Yahweh, God of their fathers.

23 Then all the convocation took counsel, to keep seven days more,—and they kept seven days, with rejoicing. 24 For ‖Hezekiah king of Judah‖ presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep, and ‖the rulers‖ presented to the convocation, a a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep,— and ‖priests in great numbers‖ hallowed' themselves. 25 So all the convocation of Judah, and the priests and the Levites, and all the convocation that came in out of Israel [rejoiced],—also the sojourners who were coming in out of the land of Israel, and the dwellers in Judah. 26 Thus was there great rejoicing, in Jerusalem,—for <since the days of Solomon son of David king of Israel> there had not been the like of this, in Jerusalem. 27 Then rose up the priests the[a] Levites, and blessed the people, and there was a hearkening unto their voice,—and their prayer entered into his holy dwelling-place, even into the heavens.[b]

31 1 Now <when all this was finished> all Israel who were present went forth unto the cities of Judah, and brake in pieces the pillars—and cut down the Sacred Stems[c]—and threw down the high places and the altars, out of all Judah and Benjamin—and throughout Ephraim and Manasseh, until they had made an end,—then all the sons of Israel returned every man to his own possession, unto their own cities.

2 And Hezekiah appointed the courses of the priests and the Levites, over their courses, every man according to the requirements of his service, both priests and Levites, for ascending-sacrifice and for peace-offerings,—to be in attendance and to give thanks and to offer praise, in the gates of the camps of Yahweh; 3 also the portion of the king out of his own substance, for the ascending-sacrifices,—[even] for the ascending-sacrifices of the morning and of the evening, and the ascending-sacrifices for the sabbaths, and for the new moons and for the appointed feasts,—as written in the law of Yahweh. 4 And he bade the people who were dwelling in Jerusalem give the portion of the priests and the Levites,—to the end they might persevere in the law of Yahweh. 5 And <as soon as the thing spread abroad> the sons of Israel caused to abound the firstfruit of corn, new wine, and oil, and honey, and all the increase of the field,— yea <the tithe of all—in abundance> brought they in. 6 And <as for the sons of Israel and Judah [who were dwelling in the cities of Judah> ‖even they‖  did bring in and pile up[d]—‖heaps, heaps‖. 7 <In the third month> began they the heaps, at the foundation,—and <in the seventh> they finished. 8 And Hezekiah and the rulers came, and saw the heaps,—and blessed Yahweh, and his people Israel.

9 Then applied Hezekiah unto the priests and the Levites, concerning the heaps. 10 And Azariah, the chief priest of the house of Zadok, spake unto him,—and said—

<From the time of beginning to bring in [the heave-offering] into the house of Yahweh —to eat and to be full> there hath still been left, even to this abundance.

11 Then Hezekiah gave word to prepare chambers in the house of Yahweh, and they prepared them; 12 and brought in the heave-offering and the tithe and the hallowed things faithfully,—and <over them as chief ruler> was Cononiah[a] the Levite, and Shimei his brother next; 13 and Jehiel and Azaziah and Nahath and Asahel and Jerimoth and Jozabad and Eliel and Ismachiah, and Mahath and Benaiah,—overseers under the direction of Cononiah and Shemei his brother, by the appointment of Hezekiah the king and Azariah the chief ruler of the house of God. 14 And ‖Kore son of Imnah the Levite the door-keeper on the east‖ was over the freewill offerings of God,—to give the heave-offering of Yahweh, and the most holy things. 15 And <under his direction> were Eden and Miniamin and Jeshua and Shemaiah, Amariah and Shecaniah, in the cities of the priests, in trust to give unto their brethren by courses, as the great so the small; 16 besides registering them[b] by males, from three years old and upward, unto every one that entered into the house of Yahweh, in the need of a day upon its day,—by their service, in their watches according to[c] their courses: 17 both the registering of the priests by their ancestral houses, and the Levites from twenty years old and upward,—in their watches, in[d] their courses; 18 even to the registering of all their little ones, their wives and their sons and their daughters, unto all the convocation,—for <in their trust> they hallowed themselves in holiness;[e] 19 also unto the sons of Aaron the priests[f] in the fields of the pasture land of their cities, in every several city, men who were expressed by name, —to give portions to every male among the priests, and to all registered among the Levites.

20 And Hezekiah did thus throughout all Judah,—and he did that which was good and right and faithful, before Yahweh his God. 21 And[g] <in all the work which he began in the service of the house of God—and in the law—and in the commandment, to seek unto his God> ‖with all his heart‖ he wrought and prospered.

32 1 <After these things done in faithfulness>[h] came Sennacherib king of Assyria, — and entered into Judah and encamped against the fortified cities, and thought to break into them for himself. 2 And <when Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib had come,—and that ‖his face‖ was—to war against Jerusalem> 3 he took counsel with his captains and his heroes, to stop the waters of the fountains, which were outside the city,—and they helped him. 4 And there were gathered together much people, so they stopped all the fountains and the torrent that flowed through the midst of the land, saying,—

Wherefore should the kings of Assyria come,
and find many waters?

5 And he took courage and built all the wall that was broken down and carried up thereon towers,[a] and <on the outside> another wall, and strengthened Millo, the city of David,—and made weapons[b] in abundance, and bucklers, 6 and set captains of war over the people,—and gathered them together unto him in the broadway of the gate of the city, and spake unto their heart,[c] saying,—

7 Be strong and bold, do not fear neither be dismayed, because of the king of Assyria, nor because of all the multitude that is with him,—for <with us> is One greater than with him: 8 <with him> is an arm of flesh, but <with us> is Yahweh our God, to help us, and to fight our battles.

And the people leaned upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

9 <After this> Sennacherib king of Assyria sent his servants towards Jerusalem, ‖himself‖ being near Lachish, and all his imperial might[d] with him,—unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that was in Jerusalem, saying:

10 ‖Thus‖ saith Sennacherib, king of Assyria,— <Upon what> are ‖ye‖ trusting, that ye are awaiting the siege in Jerusalem?

11 Is not ‖Hezekiah‖ persuading you, so as to deliver you up to die with hunger and with thirst, saying,— ‖Yahweh our God‖ will deliver us out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

12 Is it not ‖the same Hezekiah‖ who hath removed his high places, and his altars,—and hath given word to Judah and Jerusalem,
saying,
<Before one altar> shall ye bow yourselves down, and <thereupon> shall ye burn incense?

13 Will ye not take note what I have done, ‖I and my fathers‖, to all the peoples of the countries? Have the gods of the nations of the countries been ‖at all able‖ to deliver their country out of my hand?

14 Who <among all the gods of these nations whom my fathers devoted to destruction> hath ever been able to deliver his people out of my hand,—that your' god should be able to deliver you' out of my hand?

you nor persuade you thus, neither do ye believe him.

my hand, or out of the hand of my fathers,—how much less shall ‖your gods‖[a] deliver you' out of my hand?

16 And |yet more| spake his servants, against Yahweh God, —and against Hezekiah his servant. 17 <Letters> also wrote he, to scoff at Yahweh God of Israel, and to speak against him, saying,

<Like the gods of the nations of the countries, who delivered not their people out of my hand> ‖so‖ shall the god of Hezekiah not deliver his people out of my hand.

18 Then cried they out, with a loud voice, in the Jews' language, unto the people of Jerusalem who were upon the wall, to affright them, and to terrify them,—to the end they might capture the city. 19 And they spake against the God[b] of Jerusalem,—as against the gods of the peoples of the earth, the work[c] of the hands of men.

20 And Hezekiah the king and Isaiah[d] son of Amoz, the prophet, prayed' concerning this,—and made outcry unto the heavens. 21 So Yahweh sent a messenger, who cut off every hero of valour, and chief ruler and captain, in the camp of the king of Assyria,—and he returned with shame of face to his own land, and <when he entered the house of his god> then ‖the issue of his own body—there‖ caused him to fall by the sword.

22 Thus did Yahweh save Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of the hand of Sennacherib king of Assyria, and out of the hand of every one,[e]—and gave them rest[f] on every side.

23 And |many| were bringing in a present unto Yahweh, to Jerusalem, and precious things, unto Hezekiah king of Judah,—so that he was exalted in the eyes of all the nations, from thenceforth.

24 <In those days> was Hezekiah sick unto death,—and <when he prayed unto Yahweh> he was entreated of him[g] and  he gave him. 25 But <not according to the benefit done unto him> did Hezekiah make return, for uplifted' was his heart,—and so there came upon him, wrath, and upon Judah and Jerusalem. 26 Then Hezekiah humbled himself, for the uplifting of his heart, ‖he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem‖, —so that the wrath of Yahweh came not upon them, in the days of Hezekiah.

27 And it came to pass that ‖Hezekiah‖ had riches and honour in great abundance,—and ‖treasuries‖ made he for himself—for silver and for gold and for costly stones, and for spices and for precious things, and for all utensils to be coveted; 28 storehouses also, for the increase of corn, and new wine and oil,—and cribs[a] for every kind of beast, and cribs[a] for the flocks;[b] 29 and <cities> made he for himself, and possessions of flocks and herds, in abundance,—for God had given him exceeding great wealth. 30 And ‖the same Hezekiah‖ stopped up the upper spring of the waters of Gihon, and brought them straight down the west side of the city of David,—and Hezekiah prospered in all his work. 31 |Yet verily| <with regard to the ambassadors of the rulers of Babylon, who sent unto him to enquire concerning the wonderful token which came to pass in the land> God left' him,—to prove him, to take note of all that was in his heart.

32 But <the rest of the story of Hezekiah, and his lovingkindnesses> |there they are| written in the visions of Isaiah[c] son of Amoz, the prophet, in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

33 And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the ascent of the sepulchres of the sons of David, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him ‖honour‖ in his death,—and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

§ 23. Manasseh's wicked and debasing Reign: the King, degraded and carried to Babylon, humbles himself, and is pardoned: being brought back, he fortifies Jerusalem, and restores the Worship of Israel's God.

33 1 <Twelve years old> was Manasseh when he began to reign,—and <fifty-five years> reigned he in Jerusalem. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to the abominable ways of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. 3 And he again' built the high places, which Hezekiah his father had thrown down,—and set up altars to the Baalim, and made Sacred Stems, and bowed in prostration unto all the army of the heavens, and served them; 4 and built altars in the house of Yahweh, —as to which Yahweh had said,

<In Jerusalem> shall be my Name, unto times age-abiding.

5 Yea he built altars unto all the army of the heavens,—in the two courts of the house of Yahweh. 6 And ‖he‖ caused his sons to pass through the fire, in the valley of the son of Hinnom, and practised hidden arts and used divination, and practised sorcery, and appointed a necromancer, and a wizard,—he exceeded in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, to provoke him to anger; 7 and he set a resemblance-image which he had made,—in the house of God, as to which God had said unto David, and unto Solomon his son,

<In this house and in Jerusalem which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel> will I put my Name, unto times age-abiding.

8 So will I not again' remove the foot of Israel away from the soil which I appointed for their[a] fathers.
Only' they must observe to do all that I have commanded them, even all the law and the statutes and the regulations by the hand of Moses.
9 And so Manasseh led astray Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem,—to commit wickedness beyond the nations which Yahweh had destroyed from before the sons of Israel.
10 And Yahweh spake unto Manasseh and unto his people but they did not give ear. 11 So Yahweh brought in upon them the captains of the army that belonged to the king of Assyria, and they captured Manasseh with hooks,[b]—and bound him captive with a pair of bronze fetters, and took him away to Babylon. 12 But <in his distress> he appeased the face of Yahweh his God,— and humbled himself greatly, before the God of his fathers; 13 and <when he prayed unto him> then was he entreated of him and hearkened unto his supplication, and brought him back to Jerusalem unto his own kingdom, and so Manasseh came to know, that ‖Yahweh‖ is God.
14 And <after this> he built an outer wall to the city of David on the west of the Gihon in the ravine even to the entering in through the fish-gate and went round to Ophel, and carried it up very high,—and put captains of valour in all the fortified cities throughout Judah. 15 And he removed the gods of the foreigner and the image out of the house of Yahweh, and all the altars that he had built in the mountain of the house of Yahweh and in Jerusalem,—and he cast them forth outside the city. 16 And he built[c]
the altar of Yahweh, and sacrificed thereon peace'-offerings and thanksgiving sacrifices,— and gave word to Judah to serve Yahweh God of Israel. 17 Howbeit' still' were ‖the people‖ sacrificing in the high places,—only' unto Yahweh their God.
18 But <the rest of the story of Manasseh and his prayer unto his God, and the story of the seers who spake unto him in the name of Yahweh
God of Israel> |there they are| in the story of the kings of Israel: 19 <both his prayer and how [God] was entreated of him—and all his sin and his treacherous act, and the sites whereon he built high places and set up the Sacred Stems and the images,[d] before he humbled himself> ‖there they are‖ written in the story of the seers.[e] 20 And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the garden of[f] his own house,—and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

§ 24. Amon's brief but wicked Reign: ended by the Assassination of the King by his own Servants in his own House.

21 <Twenty-two years old> was Amon when he began to reign,—and <two years> reigned he in Jerusalem. 22 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, as Manasseh his father had done,—and <unto all the images[a] which Manasseh his father had made> Amon offered sacrifice and did serve them. 23 But he did not humble himself before Yahweh as Manasseh his father humbled himself, — for ‖he Amon‖ made guilt abound. 24 And his servants conspired against him, and put him to death in his own house. 25 But the people of the land smote all the conspirators against King
Amon,—and the people of the land made
Josiah his son king in his stead.

§ 25. Josiah's good Reign, during which the Book of the Law is found. The King's reforming Zeal postpones but cannot avert the Coming Visitation. Josiah is slain at Megiddo by Pharaoh-neco king of Egypt.

34 1 <Eight years old> was Josiah[b] when he began to reign,—and <thirty-one years> reigned he in Jerusalem. 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in the ways of David his father, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left. 3 And <in the eighth year of his reign ‖he‖ being yet' a boy> he began to seek unto the God of David his father,— and <in the twelfth year> he began to purify Judah and Jerusalem from the high places and the Sacred Stems and the carved images[a] and the molten images. 4 And they threw down before him, the altars of the Baalim and <the sun-pillars which were on high above them> he hewed down,—and <the Sacred Stems and the carved images[a] and the molten images> brake he in pieces and ground to dust, and tossed over the face of the graves of them who had been sacrificing unto them.
5 And <the bones of the priests> burned he upon their[c] altars,—and so purified Judah and Jerusalem: 6 also throughout the cities of Manasseh and Ephraim and Simeon even as far as Naphtali,—searched he their houses[d] round about. 7 And <when he had thrown down the altars and the Sacred Stems and <the images>[e] he had beaten to powder, and <the sun-pillars> he had hewn down throughout all the land of Israel>
then returned he to Jerusalem.

8 And <in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purified the land and the house> he sent Shaphan son of Azaliah[a] and Maaseiah[b] the ruler of the city and Joah son of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the house of Yahweh his God. 9 So they went in unto Hilkiah the high priest, and delivered the silver that had been brought into the house of God, which the Levites who kept the entrance-hall had collected from the hand of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and from all the remnant of Israel, and from all Judah and Benjamin, — and returned to[c] Jerusalem.

10 And the overseers in the house of Yahweh |delivered it into the hand of the doer[d] of the work|,—yea they delivered it to the doers of the work, because they were working in the house of Yahweh, in searching and repairing the house: 11 yea they delivered it to the artificers and to the builders, to buy carved stones and timbers for the joinings,—and to build up the houses[e] which the kings of Judah had destroyed. 12 Now ‖the men‖ were working faithfully in the work, and over them as overseers, were—Jahath and Obadiah, Levites, of the sons of Merari, and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to preside,—and Levites, all who had understanding in instruments of song; [f] 13 also[g] over the burden-bearers, and such as took the lead, for everyone who was[h] working in any manner of service,—and <of the Levites> were scribes and officers and doorkeepers.

14 Now <as they were taking out the silver which had been brought into the house of Yahweh> Hilkiah the priest found the Book of the Law of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses. 15 Then spake up Hilkiah, and said unto Shaphan the scribe,

<The Book of the Law> have I found, in the house of Yahweh,— and Hilkiah gave' the book unto Shaphan.

16 Then Shaphan took in the book unto the king, and returned yet further unto the king a message, saying,—

<All that was delivered into the hand of thy servants> they' are doing; 17 and they have poured out the silver, that was found in the house of Yahweh, and have delivered it into the hand of the overseers, and into the hand of the doers of the work.

18 Then Shaphan the scribe told' the king, saying,

<A book> hath Hilkiah the priest given to me.

And Shaphan |read therein| before the king.

19 And it came to pass <when the king heard' the words of the law> that he rent his clothes.

20 Then did the king command Hilkiah—and Ahikam son of Shaphan—and Abdon[a] son of Micah—and Shaphan the scribe—and Asaiah servant of the king, saying:

21 Go, enquire of Yahweh for me, and for the remnant in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book which hath been found,—for great' is the wrath of Yahweh, which hath been poured out upon us, because our fathers |kept not| the word[b] of Yahweh, to do according to all that is written in this book.

22 So Hilkiah and they whom the king had named[c] went into Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tokhath son of Hasrah keeper of the wardrobe, |she| having her dwelling in Jerusalem, in the new city,—and they spake unto her accordingly. 23 And she said unto them,

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh God of Israel,—

Say ye unto the man who hath sent you unto me:

24 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,

Behold me bringing in calamity upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof,—even all the curses that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah:

25 <Because they have forsaken me, and burned incense unto other gods, so as to provoke me to anger, with all the works[d] of their hands> therefore hath my wrath been poured out[e] upon this place, and shall not be quenched.

26 But <unto the king of Judah, who hath sent you to enquire of Yahweh> ‖thus‖ shall ye say unto him,—

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh God of Israel,

As touching the words which thou hast heard: 27 <Because tender' was thy heart, and thou didst humble thyself before God when thou heardest his[f] words against this place and against the inhabitants thereof, and didst humble thyself before me, and didst rend thy clothes and weep before me> therefore ‖I also‖ have heard,

Is the declaration of Yahweh.

28 Behold me! gathering thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered unto thy sepulchres in peace, and thine eyes shall not look upon all the calamity which ‖I‖ am bringing in upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof.

And they returned, unto the king, the message.

29 Then the king sent,—and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. 30 And the king went up to the house of Yahweh—and all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem—and the priests and the Levites, and all the people, from the great even unto the small,—and he read in their ears, all the words of the book of the covenant, which had been found in the house of Yahweh.

31 And the king stood in his place,[a] and solemnised the covenant before Yahweh, to walk after Yahweh, and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all his heart and with all his soul,—to perform the words of the covenant that are written in this book. 32 And he caused to take a stand, all that were present in Jerusalem, and Benjamin, —and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did' according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers. 33 And Josiah[b] removed all the abominations, out of all the lands which belonged to the sons of Israel, and caused all that were present in Jerusalem to serve, ‖yea to serve‖ Yahweh their God, —<all his days> turned they not aside from following Yahweh, God of their fathers.

35 1 And Josiah[b] kept, in Jerusalem, a passover unto Yahweh, — and they slaughtered the passover, on the fourteenth of the first month. 2 And he set the priests over their charges,—and encouraged them unto the service of the house of Yahweh; 3 and said to the Levites who gave instruction to all Israel as to the things which were hallowed unto Yahweh,

Put the holy ark in the house which Solomon son of David king of Israel did build, it is not yours as a burden on the shoulder,—

‖Now‖ serve ye Yahweh your God, and his people Israel; 4 and prepare yourselves by your ancestral houses, according to your courses, —by[c] the writing of David king of Israel, and by[d] what hath been written by Solomon his son; 5 and stand ye in the holy place, by the divisions[e] of the ancestral house, for your brethren, the sons of the people,[f] and the partitioning of an ancestral house, for the Levites.

6 So slaughter ye the passover,—and hallow yourselves, and prepare for your brethren, that they may do according to the word of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses.

7 And Josiah[b] presented to the sons of the people—<of flocks> young sheep and the young of the goats, the whole for the passover offerings, for all present, to the number of thirty thousand, and <of bullocks> three thousand,—‖these‖ out of the substance of the king. 8 And ‖his rulers‖ |willingly| <to the people and to the priests and to the Levites> presented,—‖Hilkiah and Zechariah and Jehiel, chief rulers of the house of God‖, <unto the priests> did give |for passover offerings| two thousand and six hundred, and |of bullocks| three hundred; 9 and ‖Conaniah, and Shemaiah and Nethanel his brethren, and Hashabiah and Jeiel and Jozabad, rulers of the Levites‖ presented to the Levites |for passover offerings| five thousand, and |of bullocks| five hundred.

10 Thus was the service prepared,—and the priests stood in their place, and the Levites in their courses, according to the commandment of the king. 11 So they slaughtered the passover, and the priests dashed [the blood received] at their hand, and the Levites were flaying [the offerings]. 12 Then they removed the ascending-sacrifice, that they might give them—by the divisions of each ancestral house—unto the sons of the people, to offer unto Yahweh, as it is written in the Book of Moses,—and <in like manner> with the bullocks. 13 And they cooked the passover with fire, according to the regulation,—but <the hallowed things> cooked they in cauldrons and in pots and in bowls, and then took quickly, unto all the sons of the people. 14 And <afterwards> prepared they for themselves and for the priests, because ‖the priests, the sons of Aaron‖ had been engaged in offering up the ascending-sacrifice and the fat pieces, until night,—‖the Levites‖ therefore prepared for themselves, and for the priests, the sons of Aaron. 15 ‖The singers also, the sons of Asaph‖ were in their place, according to the commandment of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the seer of the king, and ‖the doorkeepers‖ were at the several doors,—there was no need' for them' to remove from their service, for ‖their brethren the Levites‖ prepared for them.

16 Thus was all the service of Yahweh prepared on that day; to keep the passover, and to offer up the ascending-sacrifice, upon the altar of Yahweh,—according to the commandment of King Josiah.[a] 17 So the sons of Israel who were present kept the passover at that time,—and the festival of unleavened cakes, seven days. 18 And there had not been kept, a passover like it, in Israel, since the days of Samuel the prophet,—yea ‖none of the kings of Israel‖ had kept such a passover as was kept by Josiah and the priests and the Levites and all Judah and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 19 <In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah>[a] was kept this passover.[b]

20 <After all this—when Josiah[a] had prepared the house> Neco king of Egypt came up,[b]—to fight against Carchemish, by Euphrates,[b]—and Josiah[a] went forth against him. 21 But he sent unto him messengers, saying—

What have I to do with thee, O king of Judah? <not against thee> [have I come] this day, but against the house wherewith I have war, and ‖God‖ hath given word to speed me,—cease thou from [provoking] God who is with me, lest he destroy thee.

22 Howbeit Josiah[a] turned not his face from him, for <to fight against him> he had disguised himself, and he hearkened not unto the words of Neco, from the mouth of God,—so he came to fight in the valley of Megiddo. 23 And the archers shot at King Josiah,[a]—and the king said unto his servants,

Take me away, for I am sore wounded.

24 So his servants took him away out of the war-chariot, and conveyed him in a second chariot which she had, and carried him to Jerusalem, and he died, and was buried in the sepulchres of his fathers,—and ‖all Judah and Jerusalem‖ were mourning over Josiah. 25 And Jeremiah chanted a dirge over Josiah,[a] and all the singing men and singing women in their dirges have spoken concerning Josiah,[a] until this day, and they appointed them by statute for Israel,—and |there they are| written among the dirges.

26 But <the rest of the story of Josiah, and his lovingkindness,[c]—according to that which is written in the law of Yahweh: 27 even his story, first and last> |there it is| written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

§ 26. Josiah succeeded by Jehoahaz (son), Jehoiakim (son), Jehoiachin (grandson), and Zedekiah (grandson), whose Wickedness, with that of the People, brings on the Invasion of Nebuchadnezzar, the Destruction of the Temple, and the Carrying Away to Babylon. The Proclamation of Cyrus at length relieves the Gloom.

36 1 And the people of the land took Jehoahaz, son of Josiah,[a]—and made him king instead of his father, in Jerusalem. 2 <Twenty-three years old> was Joahaz when he began to reign,—and <three months> reigned he in Jerusalem.[a] 3 And the king of Egypt deposed him in Jerusalem,—and condemned the land, in a hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold. 4 And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim,—but Neco took ‖Joahaz his brother‖, and carried him to Egypt.[b]

5 <Twenty-five years old> was Jehoiakim when he began to reign, and <eleven years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh[c] his God. 6 <Against him> came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon,—and bound him in fetters of bronze, to carry him to Babylon. 7 And <some of the utensils of the house of Yahweh> did Nebuchadnezzar carry to Babylon,—and put them in his own temple in Babylon.

8 But <the rest of the story of Jehoiakim, and his abominations which he made, and that which was found upon[d] him> |there they are| written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah,[e]—and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead.

9 <Eight years old> was Jehoiachin when he began to reign, and <three months and ten days> reigned he in Jerusalem, and he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh; 10 and <when the year came round> King Nebuchadnezzar sent, and carried him to Babylon, with the precious utensils[f] of the house of Yahweh,—and made Zedekiah his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem.

11 <Twenty-one years old> was Zedekiah when he began to reign,—and <eleven years> reigned he in Jerusalem. 12 And he did the thing that

sume,—that he might confirm the words of the law which were written in the book which Hilkiah the priest had found in the house of Yahweh. < Like him > was none before him, who turned unto Yahweh with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses,—neither <after him > arose one like him. |Howbeit| Yahweh, turned not away from the glow of his great anger, wherewith the anger of Yahweh glowed against Judah,—because of all the provocations wherewith Manasseh had provoked him. So Yahweh said:

—Even Judah > will I remove from my presence, as I have removed Israel: and will reject the city, which I had chosen, even Jerusalem, and the house as to which I had said—

|My Name| shall be |there|.

"And the name of his mother was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that his fathers had done. And Pharaoh-neco put him in bonds at Diblath in the land of Hamath,—that he might not reign in Jerusalem."

"And he died there. And the silver and the gold gave he to Pharaoh. ‖Then‖ began the land to be taxed, to give the silver at the bidding of Pharaoh. And ‖every man, according to his assessment‖, exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land, to give unto Pharaoh-neco."

"According to all that his fathers had done. < In his days > came up Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, against the land, and he became his servant three years,—and then rebelled against him. And Yahweh sent against him the Chaldeans and bands of Syrians and bands of Moabites and the sons of Ammon and Samaritans, and they rebelled after this, according to the word of Yahweh by the hand of his servants the prophets. Surely the anger of Yahweh was against Judah to remove him from his presence for the sins of Manasseh in all that he had done; and for the innocent blood which Jehoiakim had shed, and had filled Jerusalem with innocent blood; yet was not Yahweh willing to destroy him"—G.n.

was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh his God,— he humbled not himself before Jeremiah the prophet, from the mouth of Yahweh. 13 Moreover also' <against King Nebuchadnezzar> he rebelled, who had made him swear by God,— and he stiffened his neck, and emboldened his heart, from turning' unto Yahweh, God of Israel. 14 Also ‖all the rulers of the priests and of the people‖ abounded in committing treachery,[a] according to all the abominable ways of the nations,—and polluted the house of Yahweh, which he had hallowed in Jerusalem. 15 And <though Yahweh God of their fathers sent' unto them through his messengers, zealously sending them,—because he had compassion upon his people and upon his habitation> 16 yet became they mockers of the messengers of God, and despisers of his words, and mimics of his prophets,—until the mounting up of the wrath of Yahweh against his people, until there was no healing. 17 So he brought up against them the king of the Chaldeans, who slew their young men with the sword, in the house of their sanctuary, and had no compassion upon young man or virgin, elder or ancient,— <all> delivered he into his hand. 18 And <all the utensils of the house of God, both great and small, and the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the king and of his rulers> ‖the whole‖ carried he to Babylon; 19 and they burned the house of God, and threw down the wall of Jerusalem,—and <all the palaces thereof> burned they with fire, and <all the precious vessels thereof> he destroyed;
20 and he exiled the remnant left from the sword, into Babylon,—where they became his and his sons, as servants, until the reign of the kingdom of Persia: 21 to fulfil the word of God, by the mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had paid off her sabbaths,[a]— <all the days of her lying desolate> she kept sabbath, to fulfil seventy years.

22 But <in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, to accomplish the word of God by the mouth of Jeremiah> Yahweh aroused the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, so that he made proclamation throughout all his kingdom, moreover also' in writing, saying:

23 ‖Thus‖ saith Cyrus king of Persia,
<All the kingdoms of the earth> hath Yahweh God of the heavens |given unto
me|, and ‖he himself‖ hath laid charge upon me, to build to him a house, in Jerusalem, which is in Judah.

§ 1. Edict of Cyrus encouraging Jews to return and build their Temple in Jerusalem.

1 1 <In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, to fulfil the word of Yahweh from the mouth of Jeremiah> Yahweh aroused the spirit of Cyrus, king of Persia, and he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, moreover also in writing, saying:

2 ‖Thus‖ saith Cyrus, king of Persia,
<All the kingdoms of the earth> hath Yahweh God of the heavens |given to me|,—and ‖he himself‖ hath laid charge upon me, to build for him a house, in Jerusalem, which is in Judah.

3 Who is there among you of all his people?
His God be with him,[a] and let him go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judah,—and build the house of Yahweh God of Israel,
(‖he‖ is God![b]) which is in Jerusalem;

4 And <whosoever is left, of all the places where he doth sojourn> let the men of his place uphold him, with silver and with gold, and with goods and with beasts,— along with a voluntary offering for the house of God, which is in Jerusalem.

5 Then arose the ancestral chiefs of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests, and the Levites,— even every one whose spirit God had aroused, to go up to build the house of Yahweh, which was in Jerusalem; 6 and ‖all they who were round about them‖ strengthened their hands, with utensils of silver, with gold, with goods and with beasts, and with precious things,—besides[a] any thing he had volunteered. 7 And ‖King Cyrus‖ brought forth the utensils of the house of Yahweh,— which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth from Jerusalem, and put in the house of his gods:—
8 yea Cyrus king of Persia brought them forth, by[a] the hand of Mithredath the treasurer,— and numbered them unto Sheshbazzar, a leader of Judah. 9 And ‖these‖ were the numbers of them,—|basins[b] of gold| thirty, |basins[b] of silver| a thousand, |knives|[c] twenty-nine;

10 |bowls of gold| thirty, |bowls of silver|, of a secondary sort| four hundred and ten,—|other utensils| a thousand. 11 ‖All the utensils, in gold and silver‖ were five thousand and four hundred,—<the whole> did Sheshbazzar bring up with the upbringing of the exile, out of Babylon unto Jerusalem.

§ 2. A Register of Exiles who responded to the Edict of Cyrus.

2 1 Now ‖these‖ are the sons of the province, who came up from among the captives of the exile, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon exiled to Babylon,—who came back unto Jerusalem and Judah,[d] every one unto his own city; 2 who came in with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, Baanah,—the number of the men of the people of Israel:—

3 |The sons of Parosh| two thousand one hundred and seventy-two;
4 |The sons of Shephatiah| three hundred and seventy-two;
5 |The sons of Arah| seven hundred and seventy-five;
6 |The sons of Pahath-moab, belonging to the sons of Jeshua, Joab| two thousand eight hundred and twelve;[e]
7 |The sons of Elam| a thousand two hundred and fifty-four;
8 |The sons of Zattu| nine hundred and forty-five;
9 |The sons of Zaccai| seven hundred and sixty;
10 |The sons of Bani| six hundred and forty-two;
11 |The sons of Bebai| six hundred and twenty-three;
12 |The sons of Azgad| a thousand two hundred and twenty-two;
13 |The sons of Adonikam| six hundred and sixty-six;
14 |The sons of Bigvai| two thousand and fifty-six;
15 |The sons of Adin| four hundred and fifty-four;
16 |The sons of Ater pertaining to Hezekiah| ninety-eight;
17 |The sons of Bezai| three hundred and twenty-three;
18 |The sons of Jorah| a hundred and twelve;
19 |The sons of Hashum| two hundred and twenty-three:
20 |The sons of Gibbar| ninety-five;
21 |The sons of Bethlehem| a hundred and twenty-three;
22 |The men of Netophah| fifty-six;
23 |The men of Anathoth| a hundred and twenty-eight;
24 |The sons of Azmaveth| forty-two;
25 |The sons of Kiriath-arim,[a] Chephirah and Beeroth| seven hundred and forty-three;
26 |The sons of Ramah and Geba| six hundred and twenty-one;
27 |The men of Michmas| a hundred and twenty-two:
28 |The men of Bethel and Ai| two hundred and twenty-three;
29 |The sons of Nebo| fifty-two;
30 |The sons of Magbish| a hundred and fifty-six;
31 |The sons of the other Elam| a thousand two hundred and fifty-four;
32 |The sons of Harim| three hundred and twenty;
33 |The sons of Lod, Hadid and Ono| seven hundred and twenty-five;
34 |The sons of Jericho| three hundred and forty-five;
35 |The sons of Senaah| three thousand and six hundred and thirty!

36 ‖The priests‖
|The sons of Jedaiah of the house of Jeshua| nine hundred and seventy-three;
37 |The sons of Immer| a thousand and fifty-two;
38 |The sons of Pashhur| a thousand two hundred and forty-seven;
39 |The sons of Harim| a thousand and seventeen.

40 ‖The Levites‖
|The sons of Jeshua, and[b] Kadmiel of the sons of Hodaviah|[c] seventy-four.

41 ‖The singers‖
|The sons of Asaph| a hundred and twenty-eight.

42 ‖The sons of the door-keepers‖
|The sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita, the sons of Shobai|,—<in all> a hundred and thirty-nine.

43 ‖The Nethinim‖[d]
The sons of Ziha, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbaoth; 44 the sons of Keros, the sons of Siaha, the sons of Padon; 45 the sons of Lebanah, the sons of Hagabah, the sons of Akkub; 46 the sons of Hagab, the sons of Shamlai,[e] the sons of Hanan; 47 the sons of Giddel, the sons of Gahar, the sons of Reaiah; 48 the sons of Rezin, the sons of Nekoda, the sons of Gazzam; 49 the

55 ‖The Sons of the Servants of Solomon‖[c]

The sons of Sotai, the sons of Hassophereth, the sons of Peruda; 56 the sons of Jaalah, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel; 57 the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth-hazzebaim, the sons of Ami. 58 ‖All the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon‖ were three hundred and ninety-two.

59 And ‖these‖ were they who came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, Immer; but they could not tell their ancestral house, nor their seed, whether <of Israel> they were': 60 the sons of Delaiah,[d] the sons of Tobiah,[e] the sons of Nekoda,—six hundred and fifty-two.

61 And ‖of the sons of the priests‖ the sons of Habaiah, the sons of Hakkoz,—the sons of Barzillai, who took of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was called after their name. 62 ‖These‖ sought their writing wherein they were registered,[f] but they were not found,—so they were desecrated out of the priesthood; 63 and the governor told them, that they must not eat of the most holy things,—until there should stand up a priest, with Lights and Perfections.[g]

64 ‖All the gathered host together‖[h] was forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty; 65 |besides, their men-servants and their maid-servants who were these|, seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven,—and there pertained to them |singing men and singing women|, two hundred: 66 |their horses| were seven hundred and thirty-six, — |their mules| two hundred and forty-five; 67 |their camels| four hundred and thirty-five,—|asses| six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

68 And ‖a portion of the ancestral chiefs‖ <when they came to the house of Yahweh which was in Jerusalem> offered voluntarily for the house of God, to set it up on its basis. 69 <According to their ability> gave they unto the treasury of the work, <of gold> sixty-one thousand drams,[i] and <of silver> five thousand manehs, — and <tunics for priests> one hundred.

70 So the priests and the Levites, and some of the people, and the singers and the door-keepers and the Nethinim, |took up their abode| in their cities,—and ‖all Israel‖ in their cities.

§ 3. The Altar restored and Foundation of Temple laid.

3 1 But <when the seventh month was come, and the sons of Israel were in cities>[a] then did the people gather themselves together as one man, unto Jerusalem.

2 Then arose—Jeshua son of Jozadak and his brethren the priests, and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and his brethren, and built the altar of the God of Israel,—to offer thereon ascending-sacrifices, as it was written in the law of Moses, the man of God. 3 So they settled the altar upon its stands, for ‖dread‖ was upon them,[b] because of the peoples of the countries,—therefore caused they to go up thereon, ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, ascending-sacrifices for the morning and for the evening. 4 And they kept the festival of booths, as it was written,—and the ascending-offering[c] of each day upon its own day, by number, according to regulation, the matter of a day upon its day; 5 and <afterwards> the continual ascending-sacrifice, and <on the new moons, and on all the appointed seasons of Yahweh> the hallowed things,—also for every one that volunteered a voluntary offering unto Yahweh. 6 <From the first day of the seventh month> began they to offer up ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh,—but ‖the temple of Yahweh‖ had not had its foundation laid. 7 And they gave silver, unto the masons and carpenters,—and food and drink and oil, unto them of Zidon and unto them of Tyre, to bring in cedar-trees out of the Lebanon, unto the sea of Joppa,[d] according to the grant[e] of Cyrus king of Persia unto them.

8 Now <in the second year of their coming in unto the house of God, to Jerusalem, in the second month> began Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak and the rest of their brethren—the priests and the Levites, and all that were come out of the captivity to Jerusalem, and stationed the Levites, of twenty years old and upwards, to preside over the work of the house of Yahweh.

9 So they took their station—even Jeshua, his sons and his brethren, Kadmiel and his sons, sons of Judah,[f] as one man to preside over the doers[g] of the work in the house of God, the sons of Henadad, their sons and their brethren, the Levites.

10 And <when the builders laid[a] the foundation of the temple of Yahweh> then the priests, enrobed, took their stand[b] with trumpets, and the Levites the sons of Asaph with cymbals, to offer praise unto Yahweh, after the instructions[c] of David king of Israel.

§ 4. Judah's Adversaries, requesting to join and being refused, weaken the People's Hands; and, later on, write to Artaxerxes, who returns a Prohibitive Edict.

4 1 Now <when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard'—that |the Sons of the Exile| were building the temple, unto Yahweh, God of Israel> 2 then drew they near unto Zerubbabel, and unto the ancestral chiefs, and said unto them,

Let us build with you, for <like you> we seek your God, - and <unto him> have ‖we‖ been sacrificing[e] since the days of Esar-haddon, king of Assyria, who brought us up hither.

3 But Zerubbabel and Jeshua and the rest of the ancestral chiefs of Israel, |said unto them|,

<It pertaineth not to you and to us [in common]> to build a house unto our God, —but ‖we ourselves together‖ will build unto Yahweh, God of Israel, even as King Cyrus, king of Persia, |hath commanded us|.

4 Then came it to pass, that |the people of the land| were weakening the hands of the people of Judah,—and troubling them in building;[f] 5 and hiring against them counsellors, to overturn their purpose,—all the days of Cyrus, king of Persia, even until the reign of Darius, king of Persia. 6 And <in the reign of Ahasuerus, in the beginning of his reign> wrote they an accusation,[a] against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem. 7 And <in the days of Artaxerxes> wrote Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of his associates,[b] unto Artaxerxes, king of Persia,—and ‖the writing of the letter‖ was written in Aramean, and was to be interpreted as Aramean.

8 ‖Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe‖ wrote a certain letter against Jerusalem,—to Artaxerxes the king, thus: 9 Then Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their associates,[b]—the Dinaites and the Apharsathchites, the Tarpelites, the Apharsites, the Archevites, the Babylonians, the Shushanchites, the Dehaites, the Elamites; 10 and the rest of the peoples, whom the great and noble Osnappar hath exiled, and set in the city of Samaria,—and the rest Beyond the River, and so forth: 11 ‖This‖ is a copy of the letter which they sent unto him—unto Artaxerxes the king,—

Thy servants, the men Beyond the River and so forth:

12 Be it known' unto the king,—that ‖the Jews who came up from thee unto us‖ are come to Jerusalem,—<the rebellious and wicked city> are they building, and <the walls> have they finished, and <the foundations> will they repair.
13 Now be it known' to the king, that <if |this city| be built, and |the walls thereof| be finished> neither <tribute, excise, nor toll> will they render, and so <the revenue of the kings> shalt thou damage.[c]
14 Now <because the salt of the palace we have eaten> <the impoverishment of the king> it is not meet for us to see,—therefore' have we sent, and certified the king; 15 so that search may be made in the book of the records of thy fathers, so shalt thou find out in the book of records—and shalt ascertain, that ‖this city‖ is a rebellious city, and one that causeth damage unto kings and provinces, and that <rebellion> have they been wont to cause in the midst thereof since the days of age-past time,—<for this cause> was this city laid waste.
16 We do certify the king that <if |this city| be built, and |the walls thereof| finished> ‖for that very reason‖ <portion Beyond the River> shalt thou have none.

19 And <from me> went forth an edict, and they have made search and found, that ‖this city‖ <since the days of age-past time> <against kings> hath lifted herself up,—and ‖sedition and rebellion‖ have been made therein; 20 and ‖mighty kings‖ have there been over Jerusalem, and bearing rule everywhere Beyond the River,—and ‖tribute, excise, and toll‖ have been given to them.

21 ‖Now‖ issue ye an edict, to forbid these men,—that ‖this city‖ be not built, until <from me> the edict be issued.

22 Beware, then, of failure to do thus,—wherefore should the damage increase, to inflict loss on the kings?

23 Then <when ‖the copy of the letter of Artaxerxes the king‖ had been read before Rehum, and Shimshai the scribe, and their associates>[a] they journeyed in haste to Jerusalem, unto the Jews, and forbade them, with arm and force. 24 Then' ceased the work of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—yea it did cease, until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

§ 5. Prophets encourage the Builders; and Pasha Tattenai writes to King Darius, who confirms the Edict of Cyrus. The Temple finished.

5 1 Then were moved to prophesy, Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo, the prophets, unto the Jews who were in Judæa and in Jerusalem,—in the name of the God of Israel, unto them.[b] 2 Then' arose—Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua son of Jozadak, and began to build the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—and <with them> were the prophets of God, strengthening them.

3 <At that time> came unto them Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai, and their associates,—and <thus> spake they unto them,

Who hath issued unto you an edict, <this house> to build, and <this wall> to complete?

4 Then' <after this manner> spake we unto them,—

What are' the names of these men, who <this building> do rear?

5 Nevertheless ‖the eye of their God‖ was upon the elders of Judah, and they did not forbid them, until ‖the matter‖ <unto Darius> should come,—and |then| answer be returned by letter, concerning this.

6 A copy of the letter which Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai, and his associates,[a] the Apharsachites, who were Beyond the River, sent unto Darius the king: 7  sent they unto him,—and <thus> was it written therein, <Unto Darius the king> all prosperity!

8 Be it known' unto the king, that we journeyed into the province of Judah, unto the house of the Great God, and ‖the same‖ is being built with large[b] stones, and ‖timber‖ is being laid in the walls,—and ‖this work‖ <with speed> is being done, and is prospering in their hands.

9 Then' asked we of these elders, <thus> we said to them,—

Who hath issued to you an edict <this house> to build, and <this wall> to complete?

10 Yea <their names also> asked we of them, to certify thee,—that we might write the name, of the men who are at their head.

11 And <thus> returned they |answer| to us, saying,—

‖We‖ are servants of the God of the heavens and the earth, and are building the house which was built these many years ago, which ‖a great king of Israel‖ built and completed.

12 But <after that our fathers had provoked the God of the heavens to wrath> he delivered them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, the Chaldean,—and <this house> he destroyed, and <the people> he exiled to Babylon.

13 Howbeit <in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon> ‖Cyrus the king‖ issued an edict <this house of God> to build.

14 Moreover also <the utensils of the house of God, of gold and silver, which ‖Nebuchadnezzar‖ had brought forth out of the temple which was in Jerusalem, and had brought into the temple of Babylon> Cyrus the king |brought them forth| out of the temple of Babylon, and they were delivered to one Sheshbazzar by name, whom he made |pasha|;[c] 15 and said to him—

<These utensils> take, go carry them into the temple that is in Jerusalem,—and let ‖the house of God‖ be built in its place.

16 Then' ‖this Sheshbazzar‖ came, he laid the foundations of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—and <since then, even until now> it hath been in building, and is not finished.

17 ‖Now‖ therefore, <if |unto the king| it seem good> let search be made in the treasure-house of the king which is there, in Babylon, whether it be so, that <from Cyrus the king> issued an edict, to build this house of God, in Jerusalem,—and <the pleasure of the king concerning this> let him send unto us.

6 1 Then' ‖Darius the king‖ issued an edict,—and they made search in the house of the books, where the treasures were laid up in Babylon.
2 And there was found in Achmetha, in the fortress which is in the province of Media, a roll,—and <thus> was it written therein, as a record:—
3 In the first year of Cyrus the king> ‖Cyrus the king‖ issued an edict, as to the house of God in Jerusalem,
Let the house be built, the place where they used to offer sacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be reared,—|the height thereof| sixty cubits, ‖the breadth thereof| sixty cubits; 4 layers of large stones, three, and one[a] layer of new timber,—and <as for the expenses> <out of the house of the king> let them be given.
5 Moreover also <the utensils of the house of God, of gold and silver, which ‖Nebuchadnezzar| took forth out of the temple that was in Jerusalem, and brought unto Babylon> let them again' be taken to the temple which is in Jerusalem, every one to its place, and lay them up in the house of God.
6 |Now| therefore, Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates, the Apharsachites, who are Beyond the River,—be ye far' from thence: 7 let alone the work of this house of God,—‖the pasha of Judah, and the elders of Judah‖ <this house of God> shall build upon its place;
8 And <from me> is issued an edict, as to that which ye shall do, with these elders of Judah, for the building of this house of God,—
That <of the resources of the king, even the tribute Beyond the River> |forthwith| the expenses be given unto these men, for they must not be hindered.
9 And <whatever may be the need—whether young bullocks or rams or lambs for ascending-sacrifices unto the God of the heavens, wheat, salt, wine or oil, according to the command of the priests who are in Jerusalem>— that it be given to them, day by day, without fail; 10 that they may be offering sweet-smelling sacrifices unto the God of the heavens,—and be praying for the life of the king, and his sons.
11 And <from me> is issued an edict, that <any man who shall alter this message> let timber be torn out of his house, and being lifted up let him be fastened thereunto,—and his house  be made for this; 12 and ‖the God who hath caused his Name to dwell there‖ destroy any king or people, who shall put forth their hand to alter to destroy this house of God, which is in Jerusalem.
‖I, Darius‖ have issued an edict, <forthwith> let it be done.
13 |Then| Tattenai the pasha Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates,[a]—<according as Darius the king had sent> ‖so, forthwith‖ they did.
14 And ‖the elders of the Jews‖ went on building and prospering, through the prophesying of Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo,—they both built and finished, owing to the edict of the God of Israel, and owing to the edict of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes king of Persia. 15 And this house was finished, by the third day of the month Adar,—the which was the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

16 Then did the sons of Israel, the priests and the Levites, and the rest of the Sons of the Exile, keep' the dedication of this house of God, with joy; 17 and offered, for the dedication of this house of God, |bullocks| one hundred, |rams| two hundred, |lambs| four hundred,—and |he-goats, as a sin-offering for all Israel| twelve, according to the number of the tribes of Israel. 18 And they set up the priests in their divisions, and the Levites in their courses, over the service of God, which was in Jerusalem,—as it is written, in the Book of Moses.
19 And the Sons of the Exile kept' the passover,—on the fourteenth of the first month; 20 for the priests and the Levites |had purified themselves| as one man, ‖all of them‖ were pure,—so they slaughtered the passover for all the Sons of the Exile, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves. 21 Therefore the sons of Israel who had returned from the Exile and all who had separated themselves from the impurity of the nations of the land[b] unto them, |did eat|,—to seek Yahweh, God of Israel; 22 and kept the festival of unleavened cakes seven days, with joy,—for Yahweh had made them joyful, and had turned the heart of the king of Assyria towards them, to strengthen their hands, in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

Azariah, son of Meraioth ; 4 son of Zerahiah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki ; 5 son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eliazar, son of Aaron[a] the first priest ;—

6 ‖this Ezra‖ came up out of Babylon, ‖he‖ being a ready[b] scribe in the law of Moses, which Yahweh God of Israel had given,—and the king gave him, according to the hand of Yahweh his God upon him, all his request.

7 So then there came up some of the sons of Israel, and some of the priests and the Levites and the singers and the doorkeepers and the Nethinim, unto Jerusalem,—in the seventh year of Artaxerxes[c] the king. 8 And he[d] entered Jerusalem, in the fifth month,—‖the same‖ was the seventh year of the king. 9 For <on the first of the first month> was a beginning made of coming up from Babylon,—and <on the first of the fifth month> entered he into Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him. 10 For ‖Ezra‖ had settled his heart, to study the law of Yahweh, and to do [it],—and to teach in Israel, statute and regulation.

11 Now ‖this‖ is a copy of the letter which King Artaxerxes gave, to Ezra the priest the scribe,—the scribe of the words of the commandments of Yahweh, and of his statutes, for Israel:—

12 ‖Artaxerxes, king of kings‖ |Unto Ezra the priest, scribe of the law of the God of the heavens—To despatch[e] and so forth.

13 <From me> is issued an edict, that <every one in my kingdom, of the people of Israel, and of their priests and the Levites, who is minded of his own freewill to go to Jerusalem> ‖with thee‖ let him go.

14 <Forasmuch as |from before the king and his seven counsellors| thou art sent, to enquire concerning Judah and as to Jerusalem,—by the law of thy God which is in thy hand ; 15 and to carry the silver and gold which the king and his counsellors have freely offered unto the God of Israel, who |in Jerusalem| hath his habitation ;

16 and all the silver and the gold, which thou shalt find, in all the province of Babylon,—with the freewill offering of the people and of the priests offered willingly for the house of their God which is in Jerusalem>

17 ‖therefore‖ <with all diligence> shalt thou buy—with this silver—bullocks, rams, lambs, with their meal-offerings, and their drink-offerings,—and shalt offer them upon the altar of the house of your God which is in Jerusalem ; 18 and <whatsoever |unto thee and unto thy brethren| shall seem good |with the rest of the silver and the gold| to do> |according to the pleasure of your God| shall ye do.

19 And <the utensils which are freely given to thee for the service of the house of thy God> put thou back, before the God of Jerusalem.

20 And <the rest of the need of the house of thy God, which it shall fall to thee to give> thou shalt give, out of the treasure-house of the king.

21 And ‖from me myself, Artaxerxes the king‖ issueth an edict, to all the treasurers who are Beyond the River, – that <whatsoever Ezra the priest the scribe of the law of the God of the heavens shall ask' of you> |with diligence| shall it be done : 22 unto a hundred talents of silver, and unto a hundred measures of wheat, and unto a hundred baths of wine, and unto a hundred baths of oil,—and salt without limit.

23 <Whatsoever is due to an edict of the God of the heavens> let it be done diligently, for the house of the God of the heavens,—for wherefore' should there be wrath against the realm of the king and his sons?

24 And <you> we do certify, that <as touching any of the priests or the Levites, the singers, the doorkeepers, the Nethinim, or the servitors of this house of God> |tribute, excise or toll| shall it not be competent to impose upon them.

25 And ‖thou, Ezra‖ <according to the wisdom of thy God that is in thy hand> appoint thou judges and magistrates, who shall administer justice to all the people that are Beyond the River, to all who know the law of thy God,—and <whoso knoweth not> ye shall teach.

26 But <whosoever shall not do the law of thy God and the law of the king> ‖speedily‖ let ‖penalty‖ be exacted from him,—whether to death, or to banishment,[a] or to confiscation of goods, or to imprisonment.

27 Blessed' be Yahweh, God of our fathers,—who hath put the like of this into the heart of the king, to beautify the house of Yahweh, which is in Jerusalem ; 28 and <unto me> hath extended lovingkindness, before the king and his counsellors, yea all the valiant captains of the king, —‖I‖ therefore have emboldened myself, according to the hand of Yahweh my God upon me, and gathered out of Israel, chief men, to go up with me.

5 <Of the sons of Zattu>[a] Shecaniah the son of Jehaziel,—and <with him> three hundred males;

6 And <of the sons of Adin> Ebed son of Jonathan,—and <with him> fifty males;

7 And <of the sons of Elam> Jeshaiah,[b] son of Athaliah,—and <with him> seventy males;

8 And <of the sons of Shephatiah> Zebadiah,[c] son of Michael,—and <with him> eighty males;

9 <Of[d] the sons of Joab> Obadiah,[e] son of Jehiel,—and <with him> two hundred and eighteen males;

10 And <of the sons of Bani>[f] Shelomith son of Josiphiah,—and <with him> a hundred and sixty males;

11 And <of the sons of Bebai> Zechariah son of Bebai,—and <with him> twenty-eight males;

12 And <of the sons of Azgad> Johanan son of Hakkatan,—and <with him> a hundred and ten[g] males;

13 And <of the later sons of Adonikam> these being their names, Eliphelet, Jeuel, and Shemaiah,—and <with them> sixty males;

14 And <of the sons of Bigvai> Uthai and Zabbud,[h]—and <with him>[i] seventy males.

15 And I gathered them together unto the river that cometh into Ahava, and we encamped there three days,—and I informed myself among the people and the priests, and <of the sons of Levi> found I none there. 16 So I sent for Eliezer, for Ariel, for Shemaiah, and for Elnathan, and for Jarib, and for Elnathan, and for Nathan, and for Zechariah, and for Meshullam, chief men,—also for Joiarib and for Elnathan, teachers.[k] 17 And I sent them forth unto Iddo the chief, at the place Casiphia,—and I put into their mouth words, to speak unto Iddo and his[l] brethren the Nethinim,[m] at the place Casiphia, to bring unto us attendants for the house of our God. 18 So they brought unto us, according to the good hand of our God upon us, a man of discretion, of the sons of Mahli, son of Levi, son of Israel,—and Sherebiah, and his sons and his brethren, eighteen; 19 and Hashabiah,[a] and <with him> Jeshaiah, of the sons of Merari,—his brethren and their sons, twenty; 20 and <of the Nethinim[b] whom David and the rulers had given for the service of the Levites> ‖Nethinim‖ two hundred and twenty,—‖all of them‖ expressed by name.

21 Then proclaimed I there a fast, by the river Ahava, that we might humble ourselves before our God,—to seek of him a smooth way, for us and for our little ones, and for all our substance. 22 For I was ashamed to ask of the king, a band of soldiers and horsemen, to help us against the enemy in the way, because we had spoken unto the king, saying,

‖The hand of our God‖ is upon all who seek him, for good,
But ‖his power and his anger‖ are against all who forsake him.

23 So we fasted and sought of our God, concerning this,—and he suffered himself to be entreated by us. 24 Then I separated, from among the rulers of the priests, twelve,—even Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and <with them, from among their brethren> ten; 25 and weighed unto them, the silver and the gold, and the utensils,—the heave-offering for the house of our God, which the king and his counsellors and his rulers and all Israel who were present, had offered: 26 I even weighed unto their hand, <of silver> six hundred and fifty talents, and <of utensils of silver> a hundred talents,— <of gold> a hundred talents; 27 and <bowls[c] of gold> twenty, of a thousand drams,[d]—and ‖utensils of fine bright bronze‖ two, precious as gold. 28 Then said I unto them,

‖Ye‖ are hallowed unto Yahweh, and ‖the utensils‖ are hallowed,—and ‖the silver and the gold‖ are a freewill offering, unto Yahweh, God of your fathers:

29 Watch and guard, until ye weigh [them] before the rulers of the priests and the Levites and the ancestral rulers of Israel, in Jerusalem,—in the chambers of the house of Yahweh.

30 So the priests and the Levites accepted the weight of the silver and the gold, and the utensils,—to bring to Jerusalem, unto the house of our God.

31 Then brake we up from the river of Ahava, on the twelfth of the first month, to journey unto Jerusalem,—and ‖the hand of our God‖ was upon us, and he delivered us from the grasp of the enemy and of the lier in wait, by the way. 32 So we came to Jerusalem,—and we rested there, three days. 33 And <on the fourth day> was weighed—the silver and the gold and the utensils, in the house of our God, unto the hand of Meremoth son of Uriah, the priest, and <with him> was Eleazar son of Phinehas,—and <with them> were Jozabad son of Jeshua and Noadiah son of Binnui, Levites: 34 by the

9 1 Now <when these things were ended> the rulers drew near unto me, saying,

The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites have not kept themselves separate from the peoples of the lands,—in view of their abominations—even of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites; 2 for they have taken of their daughters for themselves and for their sons, so that the holy seed[a] have intermingled themselves among the peoples of the lands,—and ‖the hand of the rulers and the deputies‖ hath, in this unfaithfulness, been ‖foremost‖.

3 <When I heard this thing> I rent my garment and my robe,—and tore out of the hair of my head and my beard, and sat stunned.

4 Then <unto me> were gathered all who trembled at the words of the God of Israel, concerning the unfaithfulness of them who had been exiled,—but ‖I‖ sat stunned, until the evening gift. 5 And <at the evening gift> I arose from mine affliction, which had been accompanied by the rending of my garment and my robe,—and I bowed upon my knees, and spread forth my hands[b] unto Yahweh my God; 6 and said,

O my God, I turn pale and am ashamed, to lift up, O my God, my face unto thee,—for ‖our iniquities‖ have multiplied above the head, and our guilt hath magnified itself unto the heavens.

7 <Since the days of our fathers> ‖we‖ have been in great guilt, until this day,—and <for our iniquities> have we been given up—‖we, our kings, our priests‖—into the hand of the kings of the lands, by sword and by captivity and by spoiling and by a turning pale of face, as at this day.

8 And ‖now‖ <for a very little moment> hath come favour from Yahweh our God, in leaving to us a remnant to escape, and in giving to us a nail[c] in his holy place,—that our God may enlighten our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our bondage.

9 For <bondmen> we are', but <in our bondage> hath our God not forsaken us,—but extended unto us lovingkindness before the kings of Persia, to give us a reviving, to set up on high the house of our God, to raise up the desolations thereof, and to give us a wall in Judah and in Jerusalem.

10 But ‖now‖ what can we say, O our God, after this? for we have forsaken thy commandments, 11 which thou didst command by the hand of thy servants the prophets, saying,

<As for the land which |ye| are entering to possess> ‖an impure land‖ it is', with the impurity of the peoples of the lands,—with their abominations, which have filled it from one end to the other, with their uncleanness.

12 ‖Now‖ therefore, <your daughters> do not ye give to their' sons, and <their daughters> do not ye take for your' sons, neither shall ye seek their prosperity nor their pleasure, unto times age-abiding,—to the end ye may become strong, and may eat the good of the land, and may suffer your children to possess it, unto times age-abiding.

13 And <after all that hath come upon us, for our wicked doings, and for our great guilt—

For ‖thou‖ O our God, hast spared us, punishing us less than our iniquities deserved, and hast given us a deliverance such as this>

14 <should we again' break thy commandments and join ourselves by affinity of marriage with the peoples of these abominations>—wouldst thou not be angry with us, unto a full end, that there should be neither remainder nor deliverance?

15 O Yahweh, God of Israel, righteous' thou art', for we have had left us a deliverance as at this day,—|here we are| before thee, in our guilty deeds, for there is no' standing before thee, because of this thing!

10 1 Now <when Ezra had prayed and when he had made confession, weeping and casting himself down, before the house of God> there gathered unto him out of Israel, an exceeding large convocation—men and women and children, for the people wept with a very bitter weeping.

2 Then responded Shecaniah son of Jehiel of the sons of Elam,[a] and said unto Ezra,

‖We‖ have been unfaithful with our God, and have married foreign women from among the peoples of the land,—yet ‖now‖ there is' hope for Israel concerning this thing.

[a] Cp. Dan. ii. 43. [b] Or: "palms." [c] Or: "tent-pin."

[a] "Olam," written; "Elam," read—G.n.

3 ‖Now‖ therefore, let us solemnise a covenant unto our God—to put away all the women and such as have been born of them, in[a] the counsel of my lord,[b] and them who tremble at the commandment of our God, —and <according to the law> let it be done.
4 Arise, for <upon thee> resteth the thing,
but ‖we‖ are with thee,—be strong, and act.
5 Then arose Ezra and made the rulers of the priests, the Levites,[c] and all Israel, swear' to do according to this word, — and they sware. 6 Then arose Ezra from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Jehohanan son of Eliashib,—and ‖when he came thither‖[d] <bread> did he not eat, and <water> did he not drink, for he was mourning over the unfaithfulness of them of the Exile. 7 Then made they a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem, unto all the Sons of the Exile, to gather themselves together unto Jerusalem; 8 and <whosoever should not come within three days, according to the counsel of the rulers and the elders> all his goods should be devoted,— and ‖himself‖ be separated from the convocation of them of the Exile.
9 Then were gathered together all the men of Judah and Benjamin unto Jerusalem, within three days. ‖the same‖ was the ninth month, on the twentieth of the month,—and all the people remained in the broadway of the house of God, trembling concerning the thing, and because of the heavy rains.
10 Then arose Ezra the priest, and said unto
them,
‖Ye‖ have acted unfaithfully, and have married foreign women,—to add unto the guilt of Israel.
11 ‖Now‖ therefore, make confession unto Yahweh God of your fathers, and do his pleasure, — and separate yourselves from the peoples of the land, and from the foreign women.
12 Then responded all the convocation and said,
with a loud voice,— <Thus, according to thy word[e] concerning us> must it be done.
13 Nevertheless' ‖the people‖ are many, and
‖the season‖ is that of the heavy rains, and we are not' able to stand outside,— and ‖the business‖ is not' one for a single day, nor yet for two, for we have abundantly' transgressed, in this thing.
14 Let, we beseech thee, our rulers take up their station for all the convocation, and <all who, throughout our cities, have married foreign women> let them come in at times appointed, and <with them> the elders of every city, and the judges thereof, until the glow of the anger of our God be turned from us, concerning this matter.
15 ‖Only Jonathan son of Asahel and Jahzeiah son of Tikvah‖ made a stand against this,— and ‖Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite‖ helped them.
16 But the Sons of the Exile [did thus], and Ezra the priest separated to himself[a] certain men—ancestral heads by their ancestral houses, and all' of them by name,—and they took their seats on the first day of the tenth month to search into the matter; 17 and they made an end with all the men who had married foreign women,—by the first day of the first month.
18 Now there were found <of the sons of the priests> who had married foreign women,— <of the sons of Jeshua son of Jozadak, and his brethren> Maaseiah, and

THE BOOK OF

NEHEMIAH.

§ 1. Nehemiah's Permit to visit Jerusalem.

1 1 The story[a] of Nehemiah, son of Hacaliah, —and it came to pass <in the month Chislev, in the twentieth year, when ‖I‖ was in Shusan the fortress> 2 that Hanani one of my brethren came, ‖he and certain men out of Judah‖,—so I asked them concerning the Jews who had escaped, who were left of the captivity, and concerning Jerusalem. 3 And they said unto me,

‖The remnant who are left of the captivity, there in the province‖ are in great misfortune and reproach, ‖the wall of Jerusalem‖ is broken down, and ‖the gates thereof‖ are burned with fire.

4 And it came to pass <when I heard these words> that I sat down and wept, and I mourned certain days,—and continued fasting and praying, before the God of the heavens; 5 and said,[b]

I beseech thee, O Yahweh God of the heavens, the great and fearful GOD, —keeping the covenant and lovingkindness for them who love him and keep his commandments:[c]

6 Let, I pray thee, thine ears be attentive and thine eyes open—to hearken unto the prayer of thy servant—which ‖I‖ am praying before thee now, day and night, for the sons of Israel, thy servants,—and making confession concerning the sins of the sons of Israel, which we have committed against thee, ‖both I and the house of my father‖ have sinned.

7 We have dealt ‖very corruptly‖ against thee, —and have not kept the commandments, nor the statutes nor the regulations, which thou didst command Moses thy servant.

8 Remember, I pray thee, the word, which thou didst command Moses thy servant, saying,—

<If[a] ‖ye‖ are unfaithful> ‖I‖ will scatter you among the peoples:

9 <When ye return unto me and keep my commandments and do them> <though it should be that ye have been driven out unto the uttermost part of the heavens> ‖from thence‖ will I gather them, and bring them into the place that I have chosen to make a habitation for my Name there.

10 ‖They‖ therefore, are thy servants ‖and thy people‖,—whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power, and by thy firm hand.

11 I beseech thee, O My Lord, let—I pray thee—thine ear be attentive unto the prayer of thy servant, and unto the prayer of thy servants who delight to revere thy Name, and oh prosper, I pray thee, thy servant to-day, and grant him compassion before this man.

Now ‖I‖ was cup-bearer unto the king.

2 1 And it came to pass <in the month Nisan, in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king> that ‖wine‖ was before him,—so I took up the wine, and gave unto the king, and I had never been sad before him. 2 Then said the king unto me,

Wherefore' is thy countenance sad, seeing that ‖thou‖ art not sick? this is nothing else, but sadness of heart.

Then feared I exceedingly, 3 and said unto the king—

[a] Ml.: "words."

[b] As Nehemiah's prayers are a striking feature of his book, and as the shorter ones interjected into the latter portion of his narrative have something of the effect of Refrains, they are here distinguished by being printed in refrain type. Cp. chap. iv. 4, 5; v. 19; vi. 9, 14; xiii. 14, 22, 29, 31. See also Intro. Chap. I., 3, a, p. 6, ante.

[c] Cp. Exo. xx. 6; xxxiv. 6, 7, n.

[a] "If" not expressed in Heb. Gt. it shd have been—G.n.

Let the ‖king‖ <unto times age-abiding> live! Wherefore' should my countenance |not be sad|, when ‖the city—the place of the sepulchres of my fathers‖ lieth waste, and the gates thereof are consumed with fire?

4 Then the king said to me,
<Concerning what> is it ‖thou‖ wouldst make request?
So I prayed unto the God of the heavens, 5 and then said unto the king,
<If |unto the king| it seemeth good, and if thy servant might find favour before thee> That thou wouldst send me unto Judah, unto the city of the sepulchres of my fathers, that I might build it.

6 And the king said unto me, ‖the queen‖ also sitting beside him,
For how long' would be thy journey? and when wouldst thou return?
So it seemed good before the king to send me, and I set him a time.

7 Then said I unto the king,
<If |unto the king| it seemeth good> may |letters| be given me, unto the pashas Beyond the River,—that they may convey me over, until I come into Judah; 8 also a letter unto Asaph, keeper of the park that belongeth unto the king, that he may give me timber to build up the gates of the fortress which pertaineth to the house, and for the wall[a] of the city, and for the house whereinto I shall enter.[b]
And the king gave me, according to the good hand of my God upon me.

§ 2. Nehemiah's Arrival. He surveys Jerusalem's Ruins, and—despite Sanballat—is determined to rebuild.

9 Then came I unto the pashas Beyond the River, and gave them the letters of the king, —now the king |had sent with me| captains of the army, and horsemen.

10 And <when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant the Ammonite, heard of it> it vexed them, with a great vexation,—that there had come a man,[c] to seek welfare, for the sons of Israel.

11 So I entered Jerusalem,—and was there three days. 12 Then rose I by night, ‖I, and a few men with me, I having told no man, what ‖my God‖ had been putting in my heart, to do for Jerusalem,—and <beast> was there none with me, save the beast on which ‖I myself‖ was riding. 13 So I went forth through the valley-gate by night, even unto the front of the snake-fountain,[d] and into the dung-gate,—and I viewed the walls of Jerusalem, how ‖they‖[e] were broken down, and ‖the gates thereof‖ consumed with fire. 14 Then passed I over unto the fountain-gate, and unto the pool of the king,—but there was no place for the beast that was under me to pass.

15 Then went I up in the torrent-bed, by night, and viewed the wall,—and turned back, and entered by the valley-gate, and so returned.

16 Now ‖the deputies‖ knew not whither I had gone, nor what I' was doing,—<not even to the Jews, nor to the priests, nor to the nobles, nor to the deputies, nor to the rest who were doing the work> had I as yet' told it. 17 So I said unto them,
‖Ye‖ can see the misfortune that ‖we‖ are in, how that ‖Jerusalem‖ lieth waste, and ‖the gates thereof‖ are burned with fire:
Come, and let us build the wall of Jerusalem, that we may remain, no longer, a reproach.

18 Then told I them, of the hand of my God, that ‖it‖ had been good upon me, as also of the words of the king, which he had spoken unto me,—so they said,
We will arise and build!
and they strengthened their hands right well.

19 But <when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant the Ammonite, and Geshem the Arabian, heard' it> they laughed at us, and poured contempt upon us,—and said,
What is this thing which ye' would do? <against the king> would ye' rebel?

20 Then answered I them, and said to them—
‖The God of the heavens—he‖ will prosper us, therefore ‖we his servants‖ will arise and build,—
But <to you> pertaineth no portion, nor right, nor memorial, in Jerusalem.

§ 3. Jerusalem's Wall repaired, in Sections, by Groups of Workers.

3 1 Then arose Eliashib the high priest and his brethren the priests, and built the sheep-gate, ‖they‖ hallowed it, and set up the doors thereof,— <even unto the tower of Hammeah> hallowed they it, unto the tower of Hananel; 2 and <at his hand> built the men of Jericho,—and at his [other] hand built Zaccur, son of Imri. 3 And <the fish-gate> did the sons of Hassenaah build,—‖they‖ laid the beams thereof, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof; 4 and <at their hand> repaired, Meremoth son of Uriah son of Hakkoz, and <at their hand> repaired, Meshullum son of Berechiah son of Meshezabel,— and <at their hand> repaired, Zadok son of Baana; 5 and <at their hand> repaired, the Tekoites,—but ‖their chiefs‖ put not their neck into the service of their lords.[a] 6 And <the old gate> did Joiada son of Paseah, and Meshullam, son of Besodeiah, repair,—‖they‖ laid the beams

§ 4. The Sarcasms of Sanballat and Tobiah opposed by Prayer.

4 1 But it came to pass <when Sanballat heard that we' were building the wall> it angered him, and he was greatly displeased,—and mocked the Jews; 2 and spake before his brethren, and the army of Samaria, and said,

What are ‖these feeble Jews‖ doing? will they fortify themselves?[c] will they sacrifice? will they make an end in a day? will they bring to life the stones out of the heaps of dust, when ‖they‖ have been burned up?

3 Now ‖Tobiah the Ammonite‖ was beside him,—so he said,

<Even that which they' are building> <if a fox should go up> he would break down their stone wall!

cover their iniquity, and <their sin before thee> let it not be blotted out,—for they have caused vexation before them who are building.

6 So we built the wall, and all the wall was finished[a] unto the half thereof,—and the people had a mind[b] to work.

§ 5. Sanballat and his Neighbours conspire to Fight. Their Plot discovered and thwarted. Armed Watchers and Workers.

7 But it came to pass <when Sanballat and Tobiah and the Arabians and the Ammonites and the Ashdodites heard' that the repair of the walls[c] of Jerusalem had gone up, that the breaches began to be stopped> that it angered them exceedingly; 8 and they conspired, all of them together, to come, to fight against Jerusalem,—and to cause it harm; 9 howbeit we prayed unto our God, — and set a watch against them, day and night, because of them. 10 Then said Judah,

The strength of the burden-bearer faileth, and ‖the rubbish‖ aboundeth,—and ‖we‖ are not able to build at[d] the wall; 11 and our adversaries have said,
They shall not know, neither shall they see, until we come into their midst, and slay them,—so shall we cause the work' to cease.

12 But it came to pass <when the Jews dwelling near them came in> then said they unto us, ten times,

<From all places whither ye shall turn>
[they will be] upon us!

13 So I set—on the lower slopes of the place behind the wall in the waste grounds,—yea I set the people, by their families, with their swords, their spears and their bows. 14 Then I looked and rose up, and said—unto the nobles and unto the deputies and unto the rest of the people,

Do not ye fear because of them,— <the great and fearful Lord> remember ye, so shall ye fight for your brethren, your sons and your daughters, your wives, and your houses.

15 And it came to pass <when our enemies heard that it was known to us, and that God had overturned their counsel> then returned we, all of us, unto the wall, every man unto his work. 16 And it came to pass <from that day> ‖the half of my young men‖ were working in the work, and ‖the half of them‖ were grasping the spears, the bucklers, and the bows, and the coats of mail,—but ‖the rulers‖ were behind all the house of Judah. 17 <They who were building at the wall and they who were carrying burdens, they who were lifting> [each man] <with his one hand> was working at the work, and <with the other> was grasping the weapon. 18 <Even they who were building> ‖every man‖ had his sword girded upon his loins, and so was building,—and ‖he that sounded the horn‖ was by my side. 19 So I said unto the nobles and unto the deputies, and unto the rest of the people,

‖The work‖ is great and large,—and ‖we‖ are separated upon the wall, far away, each man from his brother:

20 <In what place soever ye shall hear the sound of the horn> ‖thither‖ gather yourselves unto us,—‖our God‖ will fight for us.

21 So ‖we‖ were working at the work,—‖one half of them‖ grasping the spears, from the uprisings of the dawn, until the coming out of the stars. 22 Moreover <at that time> I said to the people,

Let ‖every one with his young man‖ lodge for the night in the midst of Jerusalem,—so shall they serve us, in the night, as a watch, and ‖the day‖ for work.

23 So <neither I, nor my brethren, nor my young men, nor the men of the watch that followed me> ‖none of us‖ put off our clothes,—every one [went] with his weapon to the water.[a]

§ 6. The People's Complaints that they were oppressed by their Brethren call forth stern Remonstrance, immediate Reform, and Nehemiah's Record of his Own Course.

5 1 Then came there to be a great outcry of the people and their wives,—against their brethren the Jews. 2 And there were some' who were saying,

<Our sons and our daughters> are we' pledging,[b]—that we may obtain corn, and eat, and keep ourselves alive.

3 And there were some' who were saying,

<Our fields and our vineyards and our houses> are we' pledging,—that we may obtain corn in the dearth.

4 And there were others' who were saying,

We have borrowed silver, for the king's tribute,—[upon] our lands and our vineyards. 5 ‖Now‖ therefore, <as is the flesh of our brethren> so is our flesh, <as are their children> so are our children. Yet lo! we' are putting in subjection our sons and our daughters, for bondservants, yea there are some' of our daughters already trodden down, and we are powerless, and ‖our fields and our vineyards‖ belong to others.

6 And it angered me greatly,—when I heard their outcry, and these words.

7 So my heart took counsel unto me'[c] and I contended with the nobles and with the deputies, and said to them,

<A loan on interest — every man to his brother> are ye' making,—

So I appointed over them a great assembly;[d] 8 and I said unto them,

[a] Or: "compacted."

[b] So Gt.; and the structure of the ver. seems to demand this reading.
[c] I.e.: "I carefully considered"—O.G. 576ª.
[d] Or: "convocation."

‖We‖ have bought our brethren the Jews, who had sold themselves unto the nations, according to our ability, and will ‖ye‖ even sell' your brethren, or shall they sell themselves unto us?

And they were silent, and found no answer.

9 Then said I,[a]

<Not good> is the thing which ye' are doing,—ought ye not <in the fear of God> to walk, because of the reproach of the nations, our enemies? 10 ‖I too, then, my brethren and my young men‖, might be lending unto them on interest silver and corn! I pray you, let us leave off this lending on interest! 11 Restore, I pray you, unto them this very day, their fields, their vineyards, their[b] oliveyards, and their houses,—also the hundredth[c] of silver and corn, new wine[d] and oil, for which ye' have been lending to them.

12 And they said,

We will restore them, and <from them> will we require nothing, ‖so‖ will we do, as ‖thou‖ art saying.

Then called I the priests, and put them on oath, to do according to this promise. 13 Also ‖my lap‖ shook I out, and said—

<Thus and thus> may God shake out every man who shall not confirm this promise, out of his house and out of his labour, yea <thus and thus> let him be shaken out and empty,—

And all the convocation said,

Amen!

and praised Yahweh, and the people did' according to this promise.

14 Moreover <from the day I was commanded to become their pasha in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year, even unto the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes the king, twelve years> ‖I and my brethren‖ <pasha's bread> have not eaten; 15 whereas ‖the former pashas, who were before me‖ suffered themselves to be a burden upon the people, and took from them in bread and wine, besides forty shekels of silver, even ‖their young men‖ bare rule over the people,—but ‖I‖ did not so, because of the fear of God. 16 Moreover also <in this work of the wall> I repaired, and <no field> did we[e] buy,—though ‖all my young men‖ were gathered thither unto the work. 17 And ‖Jews and deputies, a hundred and fifty men, and they who were coming in unto us from among the nations which were round about us‖ [depended] upon my table. 18 Now ‖that which was prepared for a single day‖ was—one ox, six choice sheep, also ‖fowls‖ were prepared for me, and <apportioned unto ten days> of every [a] sort of wine, in abundance,[a]—yet ‖in spite of this‖ <the bread of the pasha> demanded I not, because heavy' was the bondage upon this people.

19 Remember unto me, O my God, for good,—all that I have done for this people.

§ 7. Sanballat and other Enemies, seeking a Conference, and hiring a False Prophet, to intimidate Nehemiah, are yet further baffled.

6 1 And it came to pass <when it was reported to Sanballat and Tobiah and to Geshem the Arabian and to the rest of our enemies, that I had built the wall, and there was left therein no breach,—though <up to that time, the doors> had I not set up in the gates> 2 that Sanballat and Geshem sent unto me, saying,

Come! and let us meet together in the villages,[b] in the valley of Ono,—

But ‖they‖ were plotting' to do me harm. 3 So I sent unto them messengers, saying,

<A great work> am ‖I‖ doing, and cannot come down,—wherefore' should the work cease whilst I leave it, and come down unto you?

4 Yet they sent unto me, according to this message, four times,—and I replied to them according to this answer.

5 Then Sanballat sent unto me, according to this message, a fifth' time, by his young man,—with an open letter, in his hand: 6 wherein was written—

<Among the nations> it is reported, and ‖Gashmu‖ saith it, that ‖thou and the Jews‖ are plotting to rebel, <for which cause> thou' art building the wall,—and ‖thou‖ art to become their' king, according to these words.

7 Moreover also <prophets> hast thou set up to make proclamation concerning thee in Jerusalem, saying,

He hath become king[c] in Judah!

‖Now‖ therefore, will it be reported to the king, according to these words.

‖Now‖ therefore, come, and let us take counsel together.

8 Then sent I unto him, saying,

Nothing hath been done, according to these words, which thou art saying,—but <out of thine own heart> art thou feigning them.

9 For ‖they all‖ were seeking to put us in fear, saying,

Their hands will slacken from the work, and it will not be accomplished.

son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel, ‖he‖ being shut in> he said,

Let us meet together in the house of God, in the midst of the temple, and let us close the doors of the temple, for they are coming to slay thee, yea <by night> are they coming to slay thee.

11 Then said I,

Should ‖such a man as I‖ flee? Who then <being such as I> would enter the temple to save his life? I will not enter.

12 Then perceived I, that lo! it was ‖not God‖ who had sent him, — though  he had spoken concerning me, but ‖Tobiah and Sanballat‖ had hired him: 13 <to this end>[a] ‖hired‖ he was', to the end that I might be afraid and do so, and might sin,—and it might serve them for an evil report, to the end they might bring reproach upon me.

14 Have remembrance, O my God, of Tobiah and of Sanballat, according to these their[b] doings, —moreover also' of Noadiah the prophetess, and of the rest of the prophets, who would have put me in fear.

15 So the wall was finished, on the twenty-fifth of Elul,—in fifty-two days.

16 And it came to pass <when all our enemies heard, and all the nations that were round about us saw> that they fell greatly in their own eyes, and took knowledge that <from God> had this work been wrought.

17 Moreover <in those days> were the nobles of Judah busy with their letters which were going unto Tobiah,—and those of Tobiah were coming unto them; 18 for ‖many in Judah‖ had taken an oath to him, because he was in marriage affinity with Shecaniah son of Arah,— and ‖Jehohanan his son‖ had taken the daughter of Meshullam, son of Berechiah. 19 Moreover <his good deeds> were they telling before me, and <my affairs> were they carrying out to him, —<letters> did Tobiah send to put me in fear.

§8. Nehemiah appoints Governors of the City and Watches for the Gates.

7 1 And it came to pass <when the wall was built, and I had set up the doors,—and the doorkeepers and the singers and the Levites had been appointed> 2 that I gave Hanani my brother, and Hananiah captain of the castle, charge over Jerusalem, for ‖he‖ was a truly faithful[c] man, and revered God above many.

3 And I[d] said unto them,

Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened until |hot| be the sun, and |while they are standing by| let them close the doors, and make them fast,—setting watches, of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, every one in his watch, and every one over against his own house.

§9. Intending to Enrol the People, Nehemiah finds a Register of the First Return.

(Cp. Ezr. ii.)

4 Now ‖the city‖ was broad on both hands, and large, but ‖the people‖ were few in the midst thereof,—and the houses had not' been built.

5 So then my God put it into my heart, and I gathered together the nobles and the deputies and the people, to register their genealogy,— then found I a register roll, of them who came up at the first, and found written therein:—

6 ‖These‖ are the sons of the province, who came up from among the Captives of the Exile, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon did exile,—but they came back to Jerusalem and to Judah, every one to his own city; 7 who came in with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah,—the number of the men of the people of Israel.

8 |The sons of Parosh| two thousand, one hundred, and seventy-two;

9 |The sons of Shephatiah| three hundred, and seventy-two;

10 |The sons of Arah| six hundred, and fifty-two;

11 |The sons of Pahath-moab, belonging to the sons of Jeshua and Joab| two thousand, eight hundred, and eighteen;

12 |The sons of Elam| a thousand, two hundred and fifty-four;

13 |The sons of Zattu| eight hundred, and forty-five;

14 |The sons of Zaccai| seven hundred, and sixty;

22 |The sons of Hashum| three hundred, and twenty-eight;

23 |The sons of Bezai| three hundred, and twenty-four;

24 |The sons of Hariph| a hundred, and twelve;

§ 10. In the Seventh Month, at the People's Request, Ezra reads publicly out of the Law; the People weep, but are counselled to rejoice.

And <when the seventh month arrived> the sons of Israel were in their cities.[a]

8 1 Then all the people gathered themselves together, as one man, into the broad way that was before the water-gate,—and they spake unto Ezra the scribe, to bring the book[b] of the law of Moses, which Yahweh had commanded Israel. 2 So then Ezra the priest brought the law, before the convocation of both men and women, and all that had understanding to hearken,—on the first day of the seventh month; 3 and read therein, before the broad place which was before the water-gate, from the time it was light, until the noon of the day, in presence of the men and the women, and such as had understanding,—and ‖the ears of all the people‖ were unto the book of the law. 4 And Ezra the scribe stood upon a lofty platform[c] of wood, which they had made for the purpose, and there stood, beside him, Mattithiah and Shema and Anaiah and Uriah and Hilkiah and Maaseiah, on his right hand,—and <on his left> Pedaiah and[d] Mishael and Malchijah and Hashum and Hashbaddanah, Zechariah, Meshullam.

5 And Ezra the scribe opened' the book before the eyes of all the people, for <above all the people> was he,—and <when he opened it> all the people |stood up|. 6 And Ezra blessed' Yahweh the great God,—and all the people responded' with the lifting up of their hands,—and they bent their heads and bowed themselves down unto Yahweh, with their faces to the ground. 7 And ‖Jeshua and Bani and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and[e] the Levites‖ did cause the people to understand the law, ‖the people‖ remaining in their places. 8 So they read in the book of the law of God, distinctly,[f]—and, giving the sense, caused them to understand the reading.

Amen! Amen!

9 Then Nehemiah — |he| was the governor— and Ezra the priest the scribe, and the Levites who were causing the people to understand, said unto all the people,

‖To-day‖ is |holy| unto Yahweh your God,
do not mourn, nor weep,—

for |weeping| were all the people, when they heard the words of the law. 10 So he said unto them—

Go your way, eat the fat and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing' is prepared, for holy' is the day, unto our Lord,—and be not grieved, for ‖the joy of Yahweh‖ is your strength.[a]

11 And ‖the Levites‖ were quieting all the people, saying—

Hush! for ‖the day‖ is holy,—and be not grieved.

12 And all the people went their way, to eat and to drink, and to send portions, and to make great rejoicing,—because they had understood the words which were made known unto them.

§ 11. The Reading of the Second Day leads to a Revival of Dwelling in Booths, neglected since the days of Joshua.

13 And <on the second day> were gathered together—the ancestral heads of all the people, the priests and the Levites, unto Ezra the scribe,—even to give attention unto the words of the law. 14 And they found written in the law, — that Yahweh gave command through[b] Moses, that the sons of Israel should dwell in booths, during the festival of the seventh month; 15 and that they should publish and send along a proclamation throughout all their cities and throughout Jerusalem, saying,

Forth to the mountain, and bring in branches of olive, and branches of oleaster, and branches of myrtle, and branches of palms, and branches of thick trees,—to make booths, as it is written.

16 So the people went forth, and brought in, and made themselves booths, every one upon his roof, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the broad place of the water-gate, and in the broad place of the gate of Ephraim. 17 And all the convocation of them who had returned out of the captivity made booths, and dwelt in booths, for, since the days of Jeshua son of Nun, had not the sons of Israel done so, unto that day,—and there was very great rejoicing. 18 So he[c] read in the book of the law of God, day by day, from the first day unto the last day, and they kept the festival seven days, and <on the eighth day> a closing feast,[d] according to the regulation.

§ 12. A Solemn Fast; a Public Prayer; leading to a Written Promise of Reform.

9 1 Now <on the twenty-fourth day of this month> were the sons of Israel gathered together, with fasting and with sackcloth, having earth upon them. 2 And the seed of Israel separated themselves from all the sons of the foreigner, — and stood and made confession over their own sins, and the iniquities of their and read in the book of the law of Yahweh their God, a fourth part of the day,—and  they were making confession and bowing themselves down, unto Yahweh their God. 4 Then stood up on the platform of the Levites, Jeshua and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah,[a] Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani,[b] Chenani, —and made outcry, with a loud voice, unto Yahweh their God. 5 Then said the Levites—

Jeshua and Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah,
Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah,[c] Pethahiah,

Stand up, bless Yahweh your God, from age to age,— Yea let them bless thy glorious Name, which is exalted above all blessing and praise.

6 ‖Thou‖ art Yahweh' |thou alone|, ‖Thou‖ didst make the heavens, the heavens of heavens, and all their host, the earth and all that is thereon, the seas and all that is therein, and ‖thou‖ holdest them all' in life, — and ‖the host of the heavens‖ <unto thee> are bowing down.

7 ‖Thou‖ art Yahweh, God, who didst choose Abram, and broughtest him forth out of Ur of the Chaldees,—and madest his name
Abraham; 8 and didst find his heart faithful[d] before thee, and didst solemnise with him a covenant, to give the land of the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebusite, and the Girgashite, — to give it unto his seed, — and didst confirm thy words, for ‖righteous‖ thou art'.

9 Yea thou sawest the affliction[e] of our fathers, in Egypt, and <their outcry> thou heardest, by the Red Sea; 10 and didst grant signs and wonders against Pharaoh, and against all his servants, and against all the people of his land, for thou hadst taken note, that they ruled proudly over them, — and so thou didst make thee a name, as at this day.

11 And <the sea> didst thou cleave asunder before them, and they passed through the midst of the sea, on dry ground,—whereas <their pursuers> thou didst cast into the depths like a stone, into the mighty waters,[f]

12 And <in a pillar of cloud> didst thou lead them, by day,—and in a pillar of fire, by night, to light up for them the way wherein they should go.

13 And <upon Mount Sinai> camest thou down, and spakest with them out of the heavens, — and gavest them just regulations, and faithful laws, good statutes and commandments.

14 And <thy holy sabbath> didst thou make known to them, — and <commandments and statutes and a law> didst thou command them, through[a] Moses thy servant.

15 And <bread out of the heavens> didst thou give them, for their hunger, and <waters out of the cliff> didst thou bring them, for their thirst,—and badest them go in to take possession of the land, which thou hadst lifted thy hand to give them.

16 But ‖they and our fathers‖ dealt proudly,— and hardened their neck, and hearkened not unto thy commandments; 17 but refused to hearken, neither kept in mind thy wonders which thou hadst done with them, but they hardened their neck, and appointed a head that they might return to their servitude, in their perverseness.[b]

But ‖thou‖ art a God of forgivenesses, gracious and full of compassion, slow to anger and abounding in lovingkindness,[c] and didst not forsake them.

18 Yea <although they made them a molten
calf, and said,

‖This‖[d] is thy God, that brought thee up[f] out of Egypt,[g]—

and wrought great insults> 19 yet ‖thou‖ <in thine abounding compassions> didst not forsake them in the desert, — ‖the pillar of cloud‖ departed not from over them by day, to lead them in the way, nor the pillar of fire by night, to light up for them the way[h] wherein they should go.

20 And <thy Good Spirit> thou gavest, to instruct them,[i]—and <thy manna> thou withheldest not from their mouth, and <water> thou gavest them, for their thirst.

21 Yea <forty years> didst thou sustain them in the desert, they lacked nothing,—‖their mantles‖ waxed not old and ‖their feet‖ swelled not.

22 And thou gavest them kingdoms, and peoples, and allotted to each of them a corner,—and they took possession of the land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og king of Bashan.

23 <Their children also> didst thou multiply, like the stars of the heavens,—and didst bring them into the land which thou hadst promised their fathers they should enter to possess; 24 so the children entered' and possessed the land, and thou subduedst before them the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, and deliveredst them into their hand,—with their kings, and the peoples of the land, to do with them according to their pleasure; 25 and they captured fortified cities, and a fat soil, and took possession of houses full of every good thing, wells digged, vineyards and olive-yards and fruit-trees, in abundance,—so they did eat and were filled and became fat, and luxuriated in thy great goodness.

26 But they murmured and rebelled against thee, and cast thy law behind their back, and <thy prophets> they slew, who testified against them[a] that they might turn them back unto thee,—and they wrought great insults.

27 Therefore didst thou deliver them into the hand of their adversaries, who distressed them,—and <in the time of their distress> they made outcry unto thee, and ‖thou‖ <out of the heavens> didst hear, and <according to[b] thine abounding compassions> gavest them saviours, that they might save[c] them out of the hand of their adversaries.

28 But <as soon as they had rest> they again' wrought wickedness before thee,—and thou didst leave them in the hand of their enemies, who bare rule over them, yet <when they again' made outcry unto thee> ‖thou‖ <from the heavens> didst hear and didst deliver them according to[d] thy compassions, many times; 29 and didst testify against them, to bring them back unto thy law, yet ‖they‖ dealt proudly, and hearkened not unto thy commandments, and <against thy regulations> they sinned, the which—if any son of earth shall do—then shall he live by them,—and yielded a rebellious shoulder, and <their neck> they stiffened, and hearkened not.

30 And thou didst suffer many years to pass over them, and didst testify against them[e] by thy Spirit through[f] thy prophets, yet did they not give ear,—therefore didst thou deliver them into the hand of the peoples of the lands.

31 Yet <in thine abounding compassions> thou didst not make of them an end, neither didst thou forsake them,—for  thou art.

32 ‖Now‖ therefore, O our God—the GOD great, mighty, and fearful—keeping the covenant and the lovingkindness,[g] let not all the trouble seem little before thee, which hath come upon us—on our kings, on our rulers, and[h] on our priests, and on our prophets, and on our fathers, and on all thy people,—from the days of the kings of Assyria, until this day.

33 But ‖thou‖ art righteous, as to all that hath fallen upon us,—for <faithfulness> hast thou wrought, whereas ‖we‖ have been lawless; 34 and[a] ‖our kings, our rulers, our priests, and our fathers‖ have not kept thy law,—nor given heed unto thy commandments, or unto thy testimonies, wherewith thou hast testified against them.

35 But ‖they‖ <in their kingdom, and in thine abundant goodness which thou gavest them, and in the broad and fat land which thou didst set before them> did not serve thee, neither turned they from their wicked doings.

36 Lo! ‖we‖ |to-day| are bondmen—<even upon the land which thou gavest our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof> lo! ‖we‖ are bondmen; 37 and ‖the increase thereof‖ aboundeth unto the kings whom thou hast set over us, for our sins,—and <over our bodies> are they bearing rule, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and <in great distress> we are'.

38 <Seeing, therefore, all this> ‖we‖ are plighting our faith, and putting it in writing,—and <upon the sealed scroll> are our rulers, our Levites, our priests.

the Levites, the doorkeepers, the singers, the Nethinim, and all who had separated themselves from the peoples of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons and their daughters,—every one having knowledge and understanding> [29] were holding fast unto their distinguished brethren, and were entering into a curse and into an oath, to walk in the law of God, which was given through[a] Moses the servant of God,—and to observe and do all the commandments of Yahweh our Lord,[b] and his regulations, and his statutes; [30] and that we would not give our daughters unto the peoples of the land,—and <their daughters> would we not take for our sons; [31] and <if the peoples of the land should be bringing in wares,[c] or any corn on the sabbath day, to sell> we would not buy of them on the sabbath, or on a holy day,—and that we would remit the seventh year, and the loan[d] of every hand. [32] And we laid on ourselves charges, appointing for ourselves the third of a shekel, yearly,—for the service of the house of our God: [33] for the bread to set in array, and the continual meal-offering, and for the continual ascending-sacrifice, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the appointed feasts, and for things hallowed, and for victims bearing sin, to put a propitiatory-covering over Israel,—and for all the work of the house of our God. [34] Also <lots> did we cast, concerning the offering of wood among the priests, the Levites, and the people, to bring it unto the house of our God, by our ancestral houses, at times arranged, year by year,—to burn upon the altar of Yahweh our God, as it is written in the law. [35] And that we would bring in the firstfruits of our ground, and the first-fruit of all fruit of all trees, year by year,—unto the house of Yahweh; [36] also that <the firstborn of our sons, and of our cattle, as it is written in the law,—and the firstlings of our herds and of our flocks> we would bring in unto the house of our God, unto the priests who should be in attendance in the house of our God; [37] and <the first part of our meal and our heave-offerings and the fruit of all trees, new wine and oil> would we bring in unto the priests, into the chambers of the house of our God, and the tithe of our ground unto the Levites,—‖the Levites themselves‖ taking the tithes in all our cities of agriculture. [38] And the priest the son of Aaron should be with the Levites, when the Levites should take the tithes,—and ‖the Levites‖ should bring up the tithe of the tithe, unto the house of our God, into the chambers pertaining unto the treasure-house. [39] For <into the chambers> should the sons of Israel and the sons of Levi bring in the heave-offering of the corn, the new wine and the oil, since <there> are the utensils of the sanctuary, and the priests who are in attendance, and the doorkeepers, and the singers,—so would we not neglect the house of our God.

§ 14. A Record of those who dwelt in Jerusalem of the Chiefs of Judah and Benjamin, and of the Priests and Levites; also of the Villages in which men of Judah and Benjamin dwelt.

11 [1] And the rulers of the people dwelt in Jerusalem,—and ‖the rest of the people‖ cast lots, to bring in one out of ten to dwell in Jerusalem the holy city, and nine parts in [other] cities. [2] And the people bestowed a blessing on all the men, who willingly offered' themselves to dwell in Jerusalem.

[3] Now ‖these‖ are the chiefs of the province, who dwelt in Jerusalem, but <in the cities of Judah> dwelt every man in his possession throughout their cities, Israel, the priests, and the Levites and the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon. [4] And <in Jerusalem> dwelt certain of the sons of Judah and of the sons of Benjamin,—

<Of the sons of Judah> Athaiah son of Uzziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalalel, of the sons of Perez; [5] and Maaseiah son of Baruch, son of Col-hozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, son of the Shilonite. [6] ‖All the sons of Perez who were dwelling in Jerusalem‖ four hundred and sixty-eight, men of ability.

[7] And ‖these‖ are the sons of Benjamin,—Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiah; [8] and <after him> Gabbai, Sallai,—nine hundred and twenty-eight. [9] And ‖Joel son of Zichri‖ was in charge over them,—and ‖Judah son of Hassenuah‖ was over the city, as second.

[10] <Of the priests> Jedaiah son of Joiarib, Jachin; [11] Seraiah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, chief ruler of the house of God; [12] and their brethren who were doing the work of the house, eight hundred and twenty-two,—and Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah; [13] and his brethren, ancestral chiefs, two hundred and forty-two,—and Amashsai son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer; [14] and their brethren, strong men of ability, a hundred and twenty-eight,—and ‖he who was in charge of them‖ was Zabdiel, son of Haggedolim.[a]

[15] And <of the Levites> Shemaiah son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni; [16] and Shabbethai and Jozabad, over the outside business of the house of God, of the chiefs of the Levites; [17] and Mattaniah son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, leader of the praise[b] who giveth thanks,[c] in prayer, and Bakbukiah the second among his brethren,—and Obadiah[d] son of Shemaiah,[d] son of Galal, son of Jeduthun.[a] 18 ‖All the Levites in the holy city‖ were two hundred and eighty-four.

19 And ‖the door-keepers—Akkub, Talmon, and their brethren who were keeping watch in the gates‖ were a hundred and seventy-two.
20 But ‖the residue of Israel, the priests, the Levites‖ were in all the cities of Judah, every one in his inheritance.
21 Howbeit ‖the Nethinim‖ were dwelling in Ophel,—and ‖Ziha and Gishpa‖ were over the Nethinim.
22 And ‖the overseer of the Levites in Jerusalem‖ was Uzzi son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica,—of the sons of Asaph the singers, to take lead in the business of the house of God. 23 For ‖the commandment of the king‖ was upon them,—as to a fixed provision for the singers, the need of a day upon its day.
24 And ‖Pethahiah son of Meshezabel, of the sons of Zerah, son of Judah‖ was at the hand of the king, in every matter pertaining to the people.
25 And <as for the villages in their fields> |some of the sons of Judah| dwelt in Kiriath-arba, and the hamlets thereof, and in Dibon, and the hamlets thereof, and in Jekabzeel, and the villages thereof; 26 and in Jeshua, and in Moladah, and in Beth-pelet; 27 and in Hazar-shual, and in Beer-sheba, and the hamlets thereof; 28 and in Ziklag, and in Meconah, and in the hamlets thereof, 29 and in En-rimmon, and in Zorah, and in Jarmuth; 30 Zanoah, Adullam, and their villages, Lachish, and the fields thereof, Azekah, and the hamlets thereof, —so they encamped from Beer-sheba, unto the valley of Hinnom. 31 And ‖the sons of Benjamin‖ [dwelt] from Geba, to Michmas[b] and Aija, and Bethel, and the hamlets thereof: 32 Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah; 33 Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim; 34 Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat; 35 Lod, and Ono, the valley of craftsmen.[c] 36 Howbeit ‖of the Levites‖ |certain courses of Judah| pertained unto Benjamin.

12 1 Now ‖these‖ are the priests and the Levites, who came up with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua,—Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra; 2 Amariah, Malluch, Hattush; 3 Shecaniah, Rehum, Meremoth; 4 Iddo, Ginnethoi,[d] Abijah; 5 Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah; 6 Shemaiah, and Joiarib, Jedaiah; 7 Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, Jedaiah,—‖these‖ were the chiefs of the priests and their brethren, in the days of Jeshua. 8 And ‖the Levites‖ Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, Mattaniah, —over the choirs,[e] ‖he and his brethren‖; 9 and ‖Bakbukiah and Unno[a] their brethren‖ were over against them, in wards. 10 And ‖Jeshua‖ begat Joiakim,—and ‖Joiakim‖ begat Eliashib, and ‖Eliashib‖ [begat][b] Joiada; 11 and ‖Joiada‖ begat Jonathan,—and ‖Jonathan‖ begat Jaddua. 12 And <in the days of Joiakim> were priests, ancestral chiefs,—<of Seraiah> Meraiah, <of Jeremiah> Hananiah; 13 <of Ezra> Meshullam,—<of Amariah> Jehohanan; 14 <of Malluchi>[c] Jonathan,—<of Shebaniah>[d] Joseph; 15 <of Harim> Adna,—<of Meraioth> Helkai;[e] 16 <of Iddo>[f] Zechariah,—<of Ginnethon> Meshullam; 17 <of Abijah> Zichri,—<of Miniamin, of Moadiah> Piltai; 18 <of Bilgah> Shammua,—<of Shemaiah> Jehonathan; 19 and <of Joiarib> Mattenai,—<of Jedaiah> Uzzi; 20 <of Sallai> Kallai,—<of Amok> Eber; 21 <of Hilkiah> Hashabiah,—<of Jedaiah> Nethanel.
22 ‖The Levites—in the days of Eliashib, Joiada, and Johanan, and Jaddua‖ were recorded as ancestral chiefs,—‖also the priests‖ unto the reign of Darius the Persian. 23 ‖The sons of Levi, ancestral heads‖ were written in the book of Chronicles,—even until the days of Johanan, son of Eliashib. 24 And ‖the chiefs of the Levites‖ Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeshua son of Kadmiel, with their brethren over against them, to praise—to give thanks, by the commandment of David the man of God,—ward joined to ward. 25 ‖Mattaniah and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, Akkub‖ were watchers, doorkeepers of the ward, in the storehouses of the gates. 26 ‖These‖ were in the days of Joiakim, son of Jeshua, son of Jozadak,—and in the days of Nehemiah the pasha, and Ezra the priest the scribe.

27 And <at the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem> they sought the Levites, out of all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem,—to keep the dedication and the rejoicing, both with thanksgiving and with music, cymbals, harps,[g] and with lyres. 28 So the sons of the singers gathered themselves together,—both out of the circuit round about Jerusalem, and out of the villages of the Netophathites; 29 also out of Beth-gilgal, and out of the fields of Geba, and Azmaveth,—for <villages> had the singers builded for themselves, round about Jerusalem.
30 And the priests and the Levites purified themselves,—and purified the people, and the gates, and the wall. 31 Then brought

I up the rulers of Judah upon the wall,—and I appointed two large choirs, even to go in procession to the right, upon the wall, towards the dung-gate; 32 and after them went Hoshaiah, and half the rulers of Judah; 33 then Azariah, Ezra, and Meshullam; 34 Judah, and Benjamin, and Shemaiah, and Jeremiah; 35 and <of the sons of the priests, with trumpets> Zechariah —son of Jonathan—son of Shemaiah—son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph; 36 and his brethren—Shemaiah and Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, and Judah, Hanani, with the instruments of music of David,[a] the man of God,—with Ezra the scribe before them; 37 and <over the fountain gate and straight before them> they went up by the stairs of the city of David, at the going up of the wall,—above the house of David, even as far as the water-gate, eastward. 38 And ‖the second choir‖ was going over against them,
‖I‖ following it,—with the half of the people upon the wall, above the tower of the ovens, even as far as the broad wall; 39 and above the gate of Ephraim, and upon the old gate, and upon[b] the fish-gate, and the tower of Hananel, and the tower of Hammeah, even as far as the sheep-gate,—and they came to a stand, at the gate of the guard. 40 So the two choirs |came to a stand| at the house of God,—and I, and half the deputies with me; 41 and ‖the priests—Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah‖ with trumpets; 42 and Maaseiah and Shemaiah and Eleazar and Uzzi and Jehohanan and Malchijah and Elam and Ezer,—and the musicians sounded aloud, with Jezrahiah who was not over them.

43 And they sacrificed, on that day, great sacrifices, and rejoiced, for ‖God‖ had caused them to rejoice with great joy, moreover also ‖the women and children‖ rejoiced,—so that the rejoicing of Jerusalem was heard afar off.

44 And there were set in charge, on that day, certain men, over the chambers for the treasures, for the heave-offerings, for the firstfruits, and for the tithes, to gather into them, out of the fields of the cities, the portions appointed by the law,[c] for the priests, and for the Levites, —for ‖the joy of Judah‖ was over the priests and over the Levites, who were remaining.

45 So they kept the charge of their God, and the charge of the purification, and [so did] the singers and the doorkeepers,—according to the commandment of David and of Solomon his son.

46 For <in the days of David and Asaph, of old> there were chiefs[d] of the singers, and songs[e] of praise and thanksgiving, unto God. 47 Now ‖all Israel—in the days of Zerubbabel, and in the days of Nehemiah‖ used to give the portions of the singers and the doorkeepers, the need of a day upon its day,—and they hallowed them unto the Levites, and ‖the Levites‖ hallowed them unto the sons of Aaron.

§ 17. The Day of Dedication further distinguished by a Reading in the Law which led to the Expulsion of Tobiah the Ammonite out of the Temple Chambers.

1 <On that day> a portion was read in the 13 book of Moses, in the ears of the people,—and it was found written therein, that the Ammonite and the Moabite should not enter into the convocation of God, unto times age-abiding;
2 because they met not the sons of Israel, with bread and with water,—but hired against them Balaam, to curse them, although our God turned the curse into a blessing. 3 So it came to pass, when they had heard the law,— that they separated all the mixed multitude from Israel. 4 Now <before this> ‖Eliashib the priest, who was set over a chamber of the house of God‖ was allied unto Tobiah; 5 so he prepared him a large chamber, where aforetime they used to lay the meal-offering, the frankincense, and the utensils, and the tithe of the corn, the new wine and the oil, in charge of the Levites, and the singers, and the doorkeepers,— and the heave-offerings for the priests. 6 But <throughout all this [time]> was I not in Jerusalem,—for <in the thirty-second year of Arta-xerxes king of Babylon> I came unto the king, and <at the end of certain days> obtained I leave of the king; 7 and came to Jerusalem,— and had intelligence of the wickedness which Eliashib had committed for Tobiah, in preparing for him a chamber, in the courts of the house of God; 8 and it grieved me exceedingly,
—and I cast forth all the household utensils of Tobiah, outside of the chamber. 9 Then commanded I, and they purified the chambers,— and I put back there the utensils of the house of God, the meal-offering and the frankincense.

§ 18. Neglected Levites, recalled and provided for.

10 Then came I to know, that ‖the portions of the Levites‖ had not been given [them],—so that the Levites and the singers, who had been doing the work, |had fled every one to his field|.
11 Therefore contended I with the deputies, and
said,

Wherefore' is the house of God |forsaken|?

So I gathered them together, and set them in their place. 12 Then ‖all Judah‖ brought in the tithe of corn, and new wine, and oil, unto the treasuries; 13 and I made treasurers[a] over the treasuries—Shelemiah the priest, and Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah from among the Levites, and <next unto them>[b] Hanan son of Zaccur,

[a] Gt.: "I set in charge"—G.n.
[b] Or: "and to help them." Ml.: "unto their hand."

son of Mattaniah,—for faithful' were they accounted, and it was [laid] upon them to distribute unto their brethren.

14 Remember me, O my God, concerning this,—and do not wipe out my lovingkindnesses which I have done for the house of my God, and for those keeping charge thereof.

§ 19. Trading on the Sabbath suppressed.

15 <In those days> saw I in Judah—some treading winepresses on the sabbath, and bringing in sheaves and lading asses, moreover also wine, grapes, and figs, and every kind of burden, which they were bringing into Jerusalem on the sabbath day,—so I protested against it, as a day for them to sell provisions. 16 And ‖men of Tyre‖ dwelt therein, who were bringing in fish—and every kind of ware for sale,—and were selling, on the sabbath, to the sons of Judah, and[a] in Jerusalem; 17 so I contended with the nobles of Judah,—and said unto them,

What is this wicked thing which ‖ye‖ are doing, and profaning the sabbath day?

18 Was it not ‖thus‖ your fathers did, and our God brought upon us all this calamity, and upon this city?—and ‖ye‖ would add indignation against Israel, by profaning the sabbath![b]

19 And it came to pass <when the gates of Jerusalem made a shadow before the sabbath> then gave I word, and they shut the doors, and I gave word, that they should not open them, until after the sabbath,—and <some of my young men> set I near the gates, so that no burden should be brought in, on the sabbath day. 20 But the traders and sellers of all kinds of wares lodged outside Jerusalem, once or twice. 21 Therefore I testified against them, and said unto them,

Wherefore are ye' lodging against the wall? <if ye do it again> |a hand| will I thrust upon you,—

<From that time> they came not on the sabbath. 22 And I gave word to the Levites, that they should be purifying themselves and coming in, as keepers of the gates, to hallow the sabbath day.

<This also> remember to me, O my God, and have pity upon me, according to the abundance of thy lovingkindness.

§ 20. Mixed Marriages denounced and punished.

23 Moreover <in those days> saw I the Jews who had married women of Ashdod, of Ammon, of Moab; 24 and ‖their children‖ were one-half speaking the language of Ashdod, and understood not' how' to speak the language of the Jews,—but after[a] the tongue of both people.

25 So I contended with them, and laid a curse upon them, and I smote, from among them, certain men, and pulled out their hair,—and I put them on oath by God,

Ye shall not give your daughters unto their sons, nor take of their daughters, for your sons nor for yourselves.

26 Was it not <over these things> that Solomon king of Israel sinned'—though <among many nations> there was no king such as he, and he was ‖beloved by his God‖ and so God gave him to be king over all Israel,—<even him> did foreign women |cause to sin|.

27 <Unto you> then, shall we hearken, to do all this great wickedness, to act unfaithfully with our God,—by marrying foreign wives?

28 And ‖one of the sons of Joiada, son of Eliashib the high priest‖ was son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite,—therefore I chased him from me.

29 Remember them, O my God,—on account of the Defilings of the Priesthood, and the Covenant of the Priesthood, and of the Levites.

30 So I purified them from everything foreign,—and appointed charges unto the priests and unto the Levites, every one in his work; 31 also for the offering of wood, at times appointed, and for the firstfruits.

Remember me, O my God, for good!

THE BOOK OF

ESTHER.

§ 1. The Disobedience and Fall of Queen Vashti.

1 1 And it came to pass in the days of Ahasuerus,
—‖the same‖ Ahasuerus that reigned from India even unto Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces: 2 <in those days,— when King Ahasuerus was sitting on the throne of his kingdom, which was in Shusan the palace; 3 in the third year of his reign> he made a banquet unto all his rulers and his servants,—the power of Persia and Media, the nobles and the rulers being before him; 4 when he showed the riches of the glory of his kingdom, and the splendour of his excellent majesty,
—many days, a hundred and eighty days;
5 that <when these days were fulfilled> the king made—for all the people that were present in Shusan the palace, both for great and small—a banquet, seven days,—in the court of the garden of the palace of the king: 6 white stuff, cotton[a] and blue, being held fast with cords of fine linen and purple, upon rods[b] of silver, and pillars of white marble,—the couches being of gold and silver, upon a pavement of alabaster and white marble, and pearl and black marble. 7 And they gave them drink in vessels of gold, |vessels, from vessels| being diverse,—even the wine of the kingdom in abundance, by the bounty of the king. 8 And ‖the drinking‖ was according to the law,[c] no one compelling, — for ‖so‖ had the king appointed unto every chief of his household, that every' man |should do according to his
pleasure|.

9 ‖Also Vashti the queen‖ made a banquet for the women,—in the royal house which belonged to King Ahasuerus.

10 <On the seventh day> when merry was the heart of the king with wine> he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar and Carcas, the seven eunuchs who were waiting before King Ahasuerus,—11 to bring in Vashti the queen, with the royal crown,
—to show the peoples and the rulers her beauty,
for <of pleasing appearance> was she.

12 But Queen Vashti refused' to come in at the command of the king, which was given through the eunuchs,—and the king was exceeding wroth, and ‖his anger‖ burned within him.

13 Then said the king unto the wise men having knowledge of the times,—<for ‖so‖ was the manner of the king before all having knowledge of law and judgment;[a] 14 and |near unto him|
were Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, Memucan,—the seven rulers of Persia and Media, who used to behold the face of the king, who sat first, in the kingdom>—

15 <According to law> what ought to be done, with Queen Vashti,—for that she hath not performed the command of King Ahasuerus, through the eunuchs?

16 Then said Memucan[b] before the king and the rulers,

<Not against the king alone> hath Vashti the queen acted perversely,—but against all the rulers, and against all the peoples, who are in all the provinces of King
Ahasuerus. 17 For the report of the queen |will go forth| unto all women, so putting contempt upon their lords, in their eyes,— when it is reported to them,

‖King Ahasuerus‖ commanded Vashti the queen to be brought in before him, but she came not.

18 And ‖this day‖ shall the ladies of Persia and Media, who have heard the report of the queen, tell it, unto all the lords of the king,—with enough of contempt and wrath.

19 <If |unto the king| it seem good> let there go forth a royal declaration from before him, and let it be written among the laws of Persia and Media, so that it shall not pass away,—That Vashti |is not to come in| before King Ahasuerus, and <her royal estate> let the king give unto her neighbour, who is better than she.

20 <When the edict of the king which he shall make, is published' throughout all his kingdom, for |great| it is'>[c] then ‖all wives‖ will give honour unto their lords, both great and small.

21 And the thing seemed good' in the eyes of the king, and the rulers,—and the king did' according to the word of Memucan. 22 So he sent letters, into all the provinces of the king, into every province according to the writing thereof, and unto every people according to their tongue,—
That every man should be ruler in his own

§ 2. The Selection of Esther, a Jewess, to be Queen instead of Vashti.

2 1 <After these things, when the wrath of King Ahasuerus was appeased> he remembered Vashti, and what she had done, and what was decreed against her. 2 Then said the young men of the king, who waited upon him,—

Let them seek out for the king young virgins, of pleasing appearance; 3 and let the king appoint officers throughout all the provinces of his kingdom, and let them gather together every young virgin of pleasing appearance unto Shusan the palace, unto the house of the women, into the custody of Hegai eunuch of the king, keeper of the women, and let there be given the things needed for their purification;[b] 4 and <the maiden that is pleasing in the eyes of the king> let her be queen instead of Vashti.

And the thing seemed good in the eyes of the king, and he did so.

5 ‖A certain Jew‖ there was, in Shusan the palace,—whose ‖name‖ was Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a man of Benjamin; 6 who had been exiled from Jerusalem, with the exiles who were carried away with Jeconiah king of Judah,—whom ‖Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon‖ exiled. 7 And it came to pass, that he was bringing up[c] Hadassah, ‖the same‖ was Esther, his uncle's daughter, for she had neither father nor mother,—and ‖the maiden‖ was of beautiful form and pleasing appearance, and when her father and mother died, Mordecai took her for his own daughter. 8 So it came to pass <when the king's command and decree was heard, and there had been gathered together many maidens unto Shusan the palace, unto the custody of Hegai> that Esther was taken into the house of the king, unto the custody of Hegai, keeper of the women; 9 and the maiden was pleasing in his eyes, and she received lovingkindness before him, and he hastened to give her ‖the things needed for her purification, and things apportioned her‖, and to give her ‖seven select maidens‖ out of the house of the king,—and he removed her and her maidens to the best place in the house of the women. 10 Esther had not told of her people, nor of her kindred,—for ‖Mordecai‖ had laid charge upon her, that she should not tell. 11 And ‖throughout every day‖ |Mordecai| used to walk to and fro, before the court of the house of the women,—to get to know the welfare of Esther, and what would be done with her.

12 Now <when the turn of each maiden came, to go in unto King Ahasuerus, after it had been done to her according to the law of the women for twelve months, for ‖so‖ were filled the days of their purification,—six months with oil of myrrh, and six months with perfumes, and with things for the purification[a] of the women> 13 ‖then‖ indeed, the maiden came in unto the king,—‖whatsoever she might mention‖ was given her, to go with her, out of the house of the women up to the house of the king: 14 <in the evening> she' went in, and <in the morning> she' returned—unto the second house of the women, unto the custody of Shaashgaz the king's eunuch, who kept the concubines,—she went not in again unto the king, except the king delighted in her, and she were called by name. 15 But <when the turn came for Esther daughter of Abihail the uncle of Mordecai—who had taken her as his own daughter—to go in unto the king> she requested nothing, save what Hegai the king's eunuch who kept the women might direct,—but so it was, that Esther obtained favour in the eyes of all who beheld her. 16 So then Esther was taken unto King Ahasuerus, into his royal house, in the tenth month, ‖the same‖ was the month Tebeth,—in the seventh year of his reign. 17 And the king loved Esther above all the women, and she obtained favour and lovingkindness before him, above all the virgins,—so that he set the royal crown upon her head, and made her queen, instead of Vashti. 18 Then the king made a great banquet, for all his rulers and his servants, the banquet of Esther,—and [b] for all the provinces> made he, and gave a present, according to the bounty of a king.

19 Now <when virgins were gathered together a second time> then ‖Mordecai‖ was sitting in the gate of the king. 20 Esther had not told of her kindred, nor her people, as ‖Mordecai‖ had laid charge upon her,—and <the command of Mordecai> Esther performed, like as when she was being brought up with him. 21 <In those days, when |Mordecai| was sitting in the gate of the king> Bigthan and Teresh, two of the eunuchs of the king who guarded the threshold, were wroth, and sought to thrust a hand upon King Ahasuerus; 22 but the thing became known to Mordecai, who told it unto Esther the queen,—and Esther told it unto the king, in the name of Mordecai. 23 And <when the thing was searched into and found [true]> then were they two hanged upon the gallows, and it was written, in the book of the chronicles, before the king.

§ 4. Haman made Chief Minister; but, Mordecai refusing to bow down to him, Haman plots to destroy the whole Jewish People.

3 1 <After these things> did King Ahasuerus promote to power Haman son of Hammedatha

the Agagite, and exalted him,—and placed his seat above all the rulers who were with him. 2 And ‖all the king's servants who were in the king's gate‖ used to bend and bow themselves down unto Haman, for ‖so‖ had the king given command concerning him, —but ‖Mordecai‖ bent not nor bowed himself down. 3 Then said the king's servants who were in the king's gate, unto Mordecai,—

4 Wherefore' art ‖thou‖ transgressing the command of the king?

And it came to pass <when they had spoken unto him day by day, and he had not hearkened unto them> that they told Haman, to see whether the account of Mordecai would stand, for he had told them, that ‖he‖ was a Jew. 5 And <when Haman saw that Mordecai did not bend nor bow down unto him> then was Haman filled with wrath; 6 but <it was contemptible in his' eyes> to thrust forth a hand on Mordecai alone, for they had told him of the people of Mordecai, —and Haman sought to destroy all the Jews who were throughout all the kingdom of Ahasuerus, the people of Mordecai. 7 <In the first month—‖the same‖ was the month Nisan, in the twelfth year of king Ahasuerus> was Pur cast—‖the same‖ is the Lot, before Haman, from day to day, and from month to month,—and the lot fell on the thirteenth day[a] of the twelfth month, ‖the same‖ is the month Adar. 8 Then said Haman unto King Ahasuerus,

There is' a certain people, scattered abroad and dispersed among the peoples, throughout all the provinces of thy kingdom,—‖whose laws‖ are diverse from every people, and <the laws of the king> they observe not, <for the king> therefore, it is not fit, to suffer them.

9 <If ‖unto the king‖ it seem good> let it be written, to destroy them, —and <ten thousand talents of silver> will I weigh out upon[b] the hands of them who are doing the business, to bring [it] into the treasuries of the king.

10 So then the king took his signet-ring from off his hand, and gave it unto Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the adversary of the Jews; 11 and the king said unto Haman,

‖The silver‖ is granted thee,—and the people, to do with them, as may seem good in thine eyes.

12 Then were called the scribes of the king, in the first month, on the thirteeth day therein, and it was written according to all that Haman commanded unto the satraps of the king, and unto the pashas, who were over every province, and unto the rulers of every people, every province according to the writing thereof, and every people according to the tongue thereof,—<in the name of King Ahasuerus> was it written, and sealed with the signet-ring of the king. 13 Then were sent letters, by the hand of the runners, into all the provinces of the king, To destroy, to slay and to cause to perish all Jews, both young and old, little ones and women, in one day, on the thirteenth of the twelfth month ‖the same‖ is the month Adar,—and the spoil of them to be a prey. 14 ‖A copy of the writing, to be delivered as an edict throughout every province‖ was published to all the peoples,—that they should be ready against this day. 15 ‖The runners‖ went forth, urged on by the word of the king, and ‖the edict‖ was given in Shusan the palace,—and ‖the king and Haman‖ sat down to drink, but ‖the city of Shusan‖ was perplexed.

§ 5. Mordecai and Esther defeat the Schemes of Haman, who is hung on the Gallows which he had prepared for Mordecai, the latter being honoured in his Adversary's Stead, and the Jews being permitted to stand for their Lives, and so are delivered.

4 1 <When ‖Mordecai‖ came to know all that had been done> Mordecai rent his garments, and put on sackcloth, and ashes,—and went forth into the midst of the city, and cried out with an outcry loud and bitter; 2 and went in as far as before the gate of the king,—for ‖none‖ might enter into the gate of the king, clothed with sackcloth. 3 And <throughout every province, whithersoever the word of the king and his edict came> was great mourning to the Jews, and fasting and weeping, and lamentation,—‖sackcloth and ashes‖ were spread out for many.

4 So the maidens of Esther and her eunuchs went in and told her, and the queen writhed in great anguish,—and sent garments to clothe Mordecai, and to remove his sackcloth from off him, but he accepted them not. 5 Then called Esther for Hathach, one of the eunuchs of the king whom he had stationed before her, and charged him, concerning Mordecai,—to get to know what' this was, and why' this was. 6 So Hathach went forth unto Mordecai,—in the broadway of the city, which was before the gate of the king. 7 And Mordecai told him all that had befallen him, —and an exact statement[a] of the silver, that Haman had promised to weigh out unto the treasuries of the king, for the Jews, to destroy them. 8 Also  gave he unto him, to shew unto Esther, and to tell her,—and to lay charge upon her, to go in unto the king—to make supplication unto him, and to make request before him, for her people. 9 And Hathach came in and told Esther, the words of Mordecai.

[a] So O.G. Cp. chap. x. 2.

10 Then spake Esther unto Hathach,—and gave him charge, unto Mordecai:—
11 ‖All the servants of the king, and the people of the provinces of the king‖ do know, that <whatsoever man or woman shall go in unto the king—into the inter court—who hath not been called> ‖one‖ is his law, to put him to death, saving' any to whom the king may hold out the golden sceptre, who then shall live,—but ‖I‖ have not been called to go in unto the king, these thirty days.
12 And they told Mordecai, the words of Esther. 13 Then Mordecai commanded to answer Esther,— Do not think in thine own soul, to escape in the house of the king from among all the Jews.
14 But <if thou ‖do indeed hold thy peace‖ at this time> ‖respite and deliverance‖ will be appointed for the Jews, from another place, but ‖thou, and thy father's house‖ will perish, — and who knoweth whether <for a time such as this> thou hast attained unto the royal estate?
15 Then Esther commanded, to answer Mordecai:—
16 Go! gather ye together all the Jews who are to be found in Shusan, and fast ye for me—and[a] neither eat nor drink—three days, night nor day, and[b] ‖I and my maidens‖ will fast so,—and <in this manner> will I go in unto the king, though it is not according to the law, and <when I have perished> I have perished![c] 17 So Mordecai departed, — and did according to all that Esther' had charged upon him.

5 1 And it came to pass, on the third day, that Esther put on her royal apparel, and stood in the inner court of the house of the king, over against the house of the king,—and ‖the king‖ was sitting upon his royal seat, in the royal house, over against the opening of the house. 2 And it came to pass <when the king saw Esther the queen standing in the court> that she obtained favour in his eyes,— and the king held out to Esther, the golden sceptre which was in his hand, so Esther drew near, and touched the top of the sceptre. 3 Then said the king unto her,
What aileth thee, Queen Esther? and what is thy request?
<Unto the half of the kingdom> shall it be given thee.
4 Then said Esther,
<If |unto the king| it seem good> let the king with Haman come in this day, unto the banquet which I have prepared for him.
5 And the king said,
Hasten ye Haman, to perform the word of Esther.
So the king with Haman came in, unto the banquet which Esther had prepared. 6 Then said the king unto Esther, during the banquet of wine,
What is thy petition, that it may be granted thee?—and what is thy request—unto the half of the kingdom—that it may be performed?
7 Then answered Esther, and said,—
<As touching my petition and my request> 8 <If I have found favour in the eyes of the king, and if |unto the king| it seem good, to grant my petition, and to perform my request> let the king with Haman come in unto the banquet which I will prepare for them, and ‖to-morrow‖ I will do, according to the word of the king.
9 Then went Haman forth on that day, joyful and of a merry heart,—but <when Haman saw Mordecai in the gate of the king, that he rose not up nor moved because of him> then was Haman filled with wrath' against Mordecai.
10 Nevertheless Haman restrained himself, and came into his own house,—and sent and brought in his friends, and Zeresh his wife; 11 and Haman recounted unto them the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children,—and all the things wherein the king had promoted him to power, and how he had advanced him, above the rulers and the servants of the king.
12 And Haman said,
Moreover Esther the queen did bring in no one with the king into the banquet which she had prepared, saving myself, — yea moreover <even for to-morrow> ‖I‖ am invited unto her, with the king.
13 Yet ‖all this‖ sufficeth me not,—so long as ‖I‖ see Mordecai the Jew, sitting in the gate of the king.
14 Then said Zeresh his wife and all his friends unto him,
Let them make ready a gallows, of the height of fifty cubits, and <in the morning> speak thou unto the king, that they hang Mordecai thereon, then go with the king into the banquet joyfully.
And the thing seemed good before Haman, and he made ready the gallows.

6 1 <During that night> the sleep of the king fled,—and he commanded to bring in the book of remembrance, the chronicles, and they were read before the king. 2 And it was found written, how that Mordecai had told concerning Bigthana and Teresh, the two eunuchs of the king guarding the threshold,—who had sought to thrust forth a hand upon King
Ahasuerus. 3 Then said the king,
What honour and dignity hath been done unto Mordecai, for this?
Then said the king's young men, who were ministering unto him,
Nothing' hath been done for him.
4 Then said the king,
Who is in the court?
Now ‖Haman‖ had come into the outer court of the king's house, to speak unto the king, to hang Mordecai upon the gallows which he had prepared for him. 5 So the king's young men said unto him,

Lo! ‖Haman‖ standing in the court.

And the king said,

Let him come in.

6 So Haman came in, and the king said unto him,

What shall be done unto the man in whose honour' ‖the king‖ delighteth?

Then said Haman in his own heart,

Unto whom' will the king delight to do honour more than unto me?

7 So Haman said unto the king,—

<As touching the man in whose honour ‖the king‖ delighteth> 8 let them bring in royal apparel wherewith the king' hath clothed himself,—and the horse whereon the king' hath ridden, and the royal crown which hath been set upon his own' head; 9 and let the apparel and the horse be delivered unto the hand of one of the king's rulers, one of the nobles, and so let them array the man, in whose honour ‖the king‖ delighteth,—and cause him to ride upon the horse through the broadway of the city, and let them proclaim before him,

<Thus and thus> shall it be done unto the man in whose honour' ‖the king‖ delighteth!

10 Then said the king unto Haman,

Haste, take the apparel and the horse, just as thou hast said, and do even so' unto Mordecai the Jew, who is sitting in the king's gate,—do not let fail a thing, of all which thou hast spoken!

11 So Haman took the apparel and the horse, and arrayed Mordecai,—and caused him to ride through the broadway of the city, and proclaimed before him,

<Thus and thus> shall it be done unto the man in whose honour' ‖the king‖ delighteth!

12 Then Mordecai returned unto the gate of the king,—but ‖Haman‖ hurried unto his own house, mourning, and with covered head. 13 And Haman recounted unto Zeresh his wife, and unto all his friends, everything that had befallen him. Then said his wise men, and Zeresh his wife, unto him,

<If |of the seed of the Jews| is Mordecai before whom thou hast begun to fall> thou shalt not prevail against him, but shalt ‖utterly fall‖ before him.

14 <While yet' they were speaking with him> ‖the eunuchs of the king‖ had come,—and they hastened to bring Haman, unto the banquet which Esther' had prepared.

7 1 So the king and Haman came in, to banquet with Esther the queen. 2 Then said the king unto Esther, on the second day also, during the banquet of wine,

What is thy petition, Queen Esther, that it may be granted thee? and what is thy request—unto the half of the kingdom—that it may be performed?

2 Then answered Esther the queen, and said,

<If I have found favour in thine eyes, O king, and if |unto the king| it seem good> let my life be granted me, as my petition, and my people, as my request;

4 For we are sold, ‖I and my people‖, to be destroyed, to be slain and to be caused to perish.

<If indeed |for bondmen and for bondwomen| we had been sold> I had held my peace, although the adversary could not have made good the damage to the king.

5 Then spake King Ahasuerus, and said unto Esther the queen,—

Who' is he now, and where' is he, whose heart is set to act thus?

6 And Esther said,

A man who is an adversary and enemy, ‖this wicked Haman‖.

And ‖Haman‖ was terrified, before the king and the queen. 7 <Now ‖the king‖ arising in his wrath from the banquet of wine, and going into the palace garden> ‖Haman‖ stood to make request for his life from Esther the queen, for he saw that ruin |was determined against him| by the king. 8 <When ‖the king‖ returned out of the palace garden into the place of the banquet of wine> ‖Haman‖ was lying prostrate upon the couch whereon Esther was. Then said the king,

Will he ‖even dare to force the queen‖ while I am in the house?

<No sooner had the word gone forth out of the mouth of the king> than <the face of Haman> they had covered. 9 Then said Harbonah—one of the eunuchs before the king,—

Yea lo! ‖the gallows that Haman made ready for Mordecai, who had spoken well for the king‖ is standing in Haman's house, of a height of fifty cubits.

Then said the king,

Hang him thereon.

10 So they hanged Haman on the gallows which he had prepared for Mordecai,—and ‖the wrath of the king‖ was appeased.

8 1 <On that day> did King Ahasuerus give unto Esther the queen, the house of Haman, the adversary of the Jews,—and ‖Mordecai‖ came in before the king, for Esther had told, what he was to her. 2 And the king took off his signet-ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it unto Mordecai,—and Esther set Mordecai over the house of Haman.

3 <Yet again> spake Esther before the king, and fell down at his feet,—and wept and made supplication unto him, to cause the mischief of Haman the Agagite to pass away, even the plot which he had plotted against the Jews. 4 And the king held out unto Esther, the golden sceptre,—so Esther arose, and stood before the king; 5 and said—

<If |unto the king| it seem good, and if I have found favour before him, and the thing be approved before the king, and ‖I myself‖ be pleasing in his eyes> let it be written, to reverse' the letters plotted by Haman, son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, which he wrote to destroy the[a] Jews, who are in all the provinces of the king.

6 For how' can I endure to see[b] the ruin that shall overtake my people? or how' can I endure to see the destruction of my kindred?

7 Then said King Ahasuerus unto Esther the queen, and unto Mordecai the Jew,—

Lo! <the house of Haman> have I given unto Esther, and <him> have they hanged upon the gallows, because he thrust forth his hand against the Jews.

8 ‖Ye‖ therefore, write concerning the Jews as may seem good in your own eyes, in the name of the king, and seal it with the king's signet-ring,—for a writing which hath been written in the king's name, and sealed with the king's signet-ring> none' can reverse.

9 Then were called the king's scribes at that time—in the third month, ‖the same‖ is the month Siwân,[c] on the twenty-third thereof, and it was written according to all that Mordecai commanded unto the Jews, and unto the satraps and pashas and rulers of the provinces, which are from India even unto Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces, every province according to the writing thereof, and every people according to their tongue,—and unto the Jews, according to their writing, and according to their tongue; 10 and he wrote in the name of King Ahasuerus, and sealed it with the king's signet-ring,—and sent letters by the hand of runners on horses, riding the swift steeds used in the king's service, bred of the stud: 11 That the king had granted unto the Jews who were in every' city, to gather themselves together, and to stand for their life,[d] to destroy, to slay and to cause to perish—all the force of the people and province who should distress them, their little ones and women,—and [to take] the spoil of them as a prey;—12 <upon one day> throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus,—upon the thirteenth of the twelfth month, ‖the same‖ is the month Adar: 13 ‖A copy of the writing to be given, as an edict, throughout every' province‖, was published to all the peoples,—and that the Jews be ready against that day, to avenge themselves on their enemies. 14 ‖The runners that rode on the swift steeds used in the king's service‖ went forth, being urged forward and pressed on, by the word of the king,—and ‖the edict‖ was given in Shusan the palace.

15 And ‖Mordecai‖ went forth from the presence of the king, in royal apparel, of blue and white, with a large diadem of gold, and a mantle of fine linen and purple,—and ‖the city Shusan‖ was bright and joyful. 16 <To the Jews> had come light, and joy,—and gladness and honour. 17 And <in every' province, and in every' city, whithersoever the word of the king and his edict did reach> |joy and gladness| had the Jews,—a banquet and a happy day,—and ‖many from among the peoples of the land‖ were becoming Jews, for the dread of the Jews had fallen upon them.

9 1 And <in the twelfth month, ‖the same‖ is the month Adar, on the thirteenth day thereof, when the word of the king and his edict arrived to be put in execution,—on the day when the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them, though it |was changed| so that the Jews themselves should have power over them who hated them> 2 the Jews assembled themselves together in their cities, throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, to thrust forth a hand against them who were seeking their hurt, and ‖no man‖ stood before them, for the dread of them had fallen upon all the peoples. 3 And ‖all the rulers of the provinces, and the satraps and the pashas, and the doers of business that pertained to the king‖ were extolling the Jews,—for the dread of Mordecai had fallen upon them; 4 since great' was Mordecai, in the house of the king, and ‖his fame‖ was going forth throughout all the provinces,—for ‖the man Mordecai‖ went on waxing great. 5 So then the Jews smote all their enemies, with the smiting of the sword and slaughter, and destruction,—and they dealt with them who hated them according to their pleasure. 6 Yea <in Shusan the palace> did the Jews slay and destroy five hundred men. 7 And

<Parshandatha and Aridatha; 9 and Dalphôn, and Parmashta, and Aspatha; 8 and Arisai, and Poratha, and Aridai, and Adalia, and Vaizatha;—

10 the ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the adversary of the Jews> slew they,—but <on the spoil> thrust they not forth their hand.

11 <On that day> came in the number of the slain into Shusan the palace, before the king. 12 Then said the king unto Esther the queen,

<In Shusan the palace> have the Jews slain and caused to perish five hundred men, and the ten sons of Haman,—<in the rest of the provinces of the king> what have they done?

What, then, is thy petition, that it may be granted thee? and what is thy request further, that it may be performed?

13 Then said Esther,

<If |unto the king| it seem good> let it be granted, to-morrow also, unto the Jews who are in Shusan, to do according to the edict of to-day,—and that ‖the ten sons of Haman‖ be hanged upon the gallows.

14 And the king commanded it to be done so, and there was given an edict, in Shusan,—and <the ten sons of Haman> they hanged.

15 So the Jews who were in Shusan assembled themselves together, on the fourteenth day also, of the month Adar, and slew in Shusan three hundred men,—but <on the spoil> thrust they not forth their hand.

16 And ‖the remainder of the Jews who were in the provinces of the king‖ assembled themselves together and stood for their life,[a] and then had rest from[b] their enemies, having slain of them that hated them seventy-five thousand,—but <on the spoil> thrust they not forth their hand: 17 on the thirteenth day of the month Adar,—and then had rest on the fourteenth day thereof, and made it' a day of banqueting and rejoicing. 18 But ‖the Jews who were in Shusan‖ assembled themselves together on the thirteenth day thereof, and on the fourteenth day thereof,—and then had rest on the fifteenth day thereof, and made it' a day of banqueting and rejoicing. 19 <For this cause> |the country Jews, who dwelt in the country towns| were making the fourteenth day of the month Adar one of rejoicing and banqueting, and a day of happiness,—and of sending portions every one to his neighbour.

§ 6. The Feast of Purim is established to commemorate the Preservation of the Jewish People.

20 And Mordecai wrote these things,—and sent letters unto all the Jews who were in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, near, and far off; 21 to establish for them, that they should continue to observe the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day thereof,—always year by year; 22 according to the days wherein the Jews found rest from their enemies, and the month which was turned for them, from sorrow to joy, and from mourning to a happy day,—that they should make them days of banqueting and rejoicing, and of sending portions, every one to his neighbour, and gifts, unto the needy. 23 And the Jews took upon them that which they had begun to do,—and that which Mordecai had written unto them; 24 because ‖Haman, son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the adversary of all the Jews‖ had plotted against the Jews, to cause them to perish,—and had cast Pur, ‖the same‖ is the Lot, to terrify them, and to destroy them; 25 but <by [Esther's] going in[a] before the king> he commanded by letter, that his wicked plot which he had plotted against the Jews, |should return| upon his own head,—and that he and his sons should be hanged upon the gallows. 26 <For this cause> called they these days Purim, after the name Pur, <for this cause>—for all the words of this epistle,—and what they had seen concerning such a matter, and what had reached unto them. 27 The Jews established' and took' upon themselves—and upon their seed, and upon all who should join themselves unto them, that it might not pass away, that they would continue to keep these two days, according to the writing concerning them and at their set time,—always year by year. 28 And ‖these days‖ were to be remembered and to be kept, always from generation to generation, by every' family, every' province, and every' city,—that ‖these days of Purim‖ should not pass away, out of the midst of the Jews, and ‖the memorial of them‖ not cease from their seed.

29 Then wrote Esther the queen daughter of Abihail and Mordecai the Jew, with all authority,—to confirm this second epistle concerning the Purim; 30 and he sent letters unto all the Jews, throughout the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus, — words of peace and stability: 31 to establish these days of the Purim, in their set times, according as Mordecai the Jew and Esther the queen had enjoined upon them, and according as they had enjoined upon their own soul, and upon their seed,—the story of the fastings and of their outcry. 32 And ‖the command of Esther‖ confirmed the story of these Purim,—and it was written in a book.

10 1 And King Ahasuerus laid tribute upon the land, and upon the shores of the sea. 2 But <all the acts of his authority, and his might, and the clear story of the promotion of Mordecai, wherewith the king' promoted him> are ‖they‖ not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia? 3 For ‖Mordecai the Jew‖ was next unto King Ahasuerus, and became great among the Jews, and accepted by the multitude of his brethren, — seeking happiness for his people, and speaking peace to all his[b] seed.

THE BOOK OF JOB.

A Narrative Introduction to the Book of Job.

1 1 ‖A man‖ there was—in the land of Uz, ‖Job‖ his name,—and that man was blameless and upright,[a] and one who revered God, and avoided evil. 2 And there were born unto him seven sons and three daughters. 3 And his substance was—seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she-asses, and a body of servants exceeding large,—thus was that man the greatest of all the sons of the East.

4 Now his sons were wont to go, and make a banquet, at the house of each one upon his day, —and to send and call their three sisters, to eat and to drink with them. 5 And so it was, when the days of the banquet came round, that Job sent and hallowed them, and rising early in the morning offered ascending-sacrifices, according to the number of them all;[b] for Job said,

Peradventure my sons have sinned,
And have cursed[c] God in their hearts.

<Thus and thus> was Job wont to do all the days.

6 Now there came a certain day, when the sons of God entered in to present themselves unto Yahweh,—so the accuser also' entered, in their midst. 7 And Yahweh said unto the accuser,

Whence comest thou?

And the accuser answered Yahweh, and said,

From going to and fro in the earth, and wandering about therein.[d]

8 And Yahweh said unto the accuser,

Hast thou applied thy heart unto my servant Job, that there is none' like him in the earth, a man blameless and upright, one revering God and avoiding evil?

9 And the accuser answered Yahweh, and said,

Is it <for nought> that Job revereth God?

10 Hast not ‖thou thyself‖ made a hedge about him, and about his house, and about all that he hath, on every side? <The work of his hands> thou hast blessed, and ‖his substance‖ hath broken forth in the land.

11 But ‖in very deed‖ put forth, I pray thee, thy hand, and smite all that he hath,—verily <unto thy face> will he curse[a] thee.

12 And Yahweh said unto the accuser,

Lo! ‖all that he hath‖ is in thy hand, only' <against himself> do not put forth thy hand.

So the accuser went forth from the presence of Yahweh.

13 And there came a certain day,—when his sons and his daughters were eating, and drinking wine, in the house of their eldest brother. 14 And ‖a messenger‖ came in unto Job, and said,—

‖The oxen‖ were plowing, and ‖the asses‖ feeding beside them; 15 when the Sabeans swooped down, and took them, and <the young men> smote they with the edge of the sword,—and escaped' am ‖only I alone‖ to tell thee.

16 <Yet' was this one speaking> when ‖another‖ came in and said,—

‖A fire of God‖ fell out of the heavens, and burned up the sheep and the young men, and consumed them; and escaped' am ‖only I alone‖ to tell thee.

17 <Yet' was this one speaking> when ‖another‖ came in and said,

‖The Chaldeans‖ appointed three chiefs, and spread out against the camels, and took them, and <the young men> smote they with the edge of the sword; and escaped' am ‖only I alone‖ to tell thee.

18 <Yet' was this one speaking> when ‖another‖ came in and said,—

‖Thy sons and thy daughters‖ were eating, and drinking wine, in the house of their eldest brother; 19 when lo! ‖a great wind‖ came from over the desert, and smote the four corners of the house, and it fell upon the young men, and they died,—and escaped' am ‖only I alone‖ to tell thee.

20 Then Job arose, and rent his robe, and shaved his head, and fell to the earth and worshipped; 21 and said—

Naked' came I forth from the womb of my mother,
And naked' must I return thither,
‖Yahweh‖ gave, and ‖Yahweh‖ hath taken away,—
The name of Yahweh be blessed!

[a] Or: "straightforward." Ml.: "straight."

[b] Sep. adds: "and one bullock for a sin-offering, for their souls"—G.n.

[c] Gt. that the Heb. here was originally ḳâlal, properly "to curse": but that the Sopherim deliberately altered it euphemistically) to barak, properly "to bless"—G.n. and G. Intro. 365–7.

[d] Sep.: "wandering about <under the heavens> am I come"—G.n.

[a] Cp. ver. 5, n. The same applies here and ii. 5, 9.

22 <In all this> Job sinned not,[a] nor imputed folly unto God.

2 1 And there came a certain day when the sons of God entered in, to present themselves unto Yahweh,—so the accuser also' entered in their midst, to present himself unto Yahweh. 2 And Yahweh said unto the accuser,

Whence comest thou?

And the accuser answered Yahweh, and said,

From going to and fro in the earth, and from wandering about therein.

3 And Yahweh said unto the accuser,

Hast thou applied thy heart unto my servant Job, that there is none' like him in the earth, a man blameless and upright,[b] one who revereth God, and avoideth evil; and still' he is holding fast his integrity,[c] although thou movedst[d] me against him, to swallow him up without cause.

4 Then the accuser answered Yahweh, and said,

Skin for skin, and so <all that a man hath> will he give for his life.[e]

5 ‖In very deed‖ put forth, I pray thee, thy hand, and smite unto his bone, and unto his flesh,—verily <unto thy face> will he curse[f] thee.

6 And Yahweh said unto the accuser,

Behold him! in thy hand,—only <his life> preserve thou!

7 So the accuser went forth from the presence of Yahweh,—and smote Job with a sore boil,[g] from the sole of his foot unto his crown. 8 And he took him a potsherd, to scrape himself therewith; he being seated in the midst of ashes. 9 Then said his wife unto him,[h]

Art thou still' holding fast thine integrity? Curse[f] God, and die!

10 And he said unto her,

<As one of the base women speaketh> speakest thou?[i] ‖Blessing‖ shall we accept from God, and |misfortune| shall we not accept?

<In all this> Job sinned not with his lips.

11 Now when the three friends of Job heard' of all this misfortune which had befallen him,—they came, every man from his own place, Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite,—for they had by appointment met together to come to shew sympathy with him, and to comfort him. 12 And <when they lifted up their eyes afar off, and knew him not> they lifted up their voice, and wept,—and rent, every one his robe, and sprinkled dust upon their heads, toward the heavens. 13 And they sat with him upon the ground, seven days and seven nights,—and none' was speaking unto him a word, for they saw that |exceeding great| was the stinging pain.

Job curses the Day on which he was Born.

3 1 |After this| opened Job his mouth, and cursed his day. 2 So then Job began,[a] and said:—

3 |Perish| the day' wherein I was born,
And the night' it was said,
Lo! a manchild![b]

4 <That day> be it darkness,—
Let not God enquire after it from above,
May there shine upon it no clear beam:

5 Let darkness and death-shade buy it back,[c]
May there settle down upon it a cloud,
Let a day's dark eclipse cause it terror:

6 <That night> darkness take it,—
May it not rejoice among the days of the year,
<Into the number of months> let it not enter.

7 Lo! <that night> be it barren,
Let no joyous shouting enter therein:

8 Let day-cursers denounce it,
‖Those skilled in rousing the dragon of the sky‖:

9 Darkened be the stars of its twilight,—
Let it wait for light, and there be' none,
Neither let it see the eyelashes of the dawn:—

10 Because it closed not the doors of the womb wherein I was,[d]—
And so hid trouble from mine eyes.

11 Wherefore' <in the womb>[e] did I not die?
<From the womb> come forth and cease to breathe?

12 <For what reason> were there prepared for me—knees?
And why—breasts, that I might suck?

13 Surely <at once> had I lain down, and been quiet,
I had fallen asleep, ‖then‖ had I been at rest:—

14 With kings, and counsellors of the earth,
Who had built them pyramids:[f]

15 Or with rulers possessing |gold|,—

Who had filled their houses with silver:
16 Or that <like an untimely birth hidden away> I had not come into being,[a]
Like infants that never saw light:
17 There' ‖the lawless‖ cease from raging,
And there' the toil'-worn are at rest:
18 At once' are prisoners at peace,
They hear not the voice of a driver:
19 <Small and great> |there| they are',
And ‖the slave‖ is free from his master.[b]
20 Wherefore' give, to the wretched, |light|?
Or |life|[c] to the embittered in soul?—
21 Who long for death, and it is' not,
And have digged for it, beyond hid treasures:
22 Who rejoice unto exultation,
Are glad, when they can find the grave:
23 To a man, whose way is concealed,
And God hath straitly enclosed him?
24 For <in the face of my food> ‖my sighing‖ cometh in,
And <poured out like the water> are my groans:
25 For  I dreaded, and it hath come upon me,
And ‖that from which I shrank‖ hath overtaken me.
26 I was not careless, nor was I secure, nor had I settled down,—
When there came—consternation!

Job's Three Friends, essaying to comfort him, assume his Guilt as the Cause of his Chastisement, and provoke bitter Replies from the Sufferer.

4 1 Then responded Eliphaz the Temanite, and said:—

2 <If one attempt a word unto thee> wilt thou be impatient?
But <to restrain speech> who' can endure?
3 Lo! thou hast admonished many,
And <slack hands> hast thou been wont to uphold:
4 <Him that was stumbling> have thy words raised up,
And <sinking knees> hast thou strengthened.
5 But ‖now‖ it cometh upon thee,
And thou despairest,
It smiteth even thee,
And thou art dismayed.

6 Is not ‖thy reverence‖ thy confidence?
And is not |thy hope| ‖the very integrity of thy ways‖?[d]

7 Remember, I pray thee, ‖who‖ <being innocent>[e] hath perished,
Or when' ‖the upright‖ have been cut off.
8 <So far as I have seen>
‖They who plow for iniquity
And sow misery‖,
Reap the same:
9 By the blast of God> they perish,
And <by the breath of his nostrils> are they consumed:
10 <[Notwithstanding] the roaring of the lion, and the noise of the howling lion>
Yet ‖the teeth of the fierce lions‖ are broken:
11 <The strong lion perishing for lack of prey>
‖Even the whelps of the lioness‖ are scattered.

12 But <unto me> something was brought by stealth,[a]—
And mine ear caught a whispering of the same:
13 <When there were thoughts, from visions of the night,—
When deep sleep falleth upon men>
14 ‖Dread‖ came upon me, and trembling,
<The multitude of my bones> it put in dread:
15 Then ‖a spirit‖ <over my face> floated along,
The hair of my flesh bristled-up':
16 It stood still, but I could not distinguish its appearance,
I looked, but there was no' form before mine eyes,[b]—
<A whispering voice>[c] I heard:—
17 Shall ‖mortal man‖ be more just than God?
Or a man' be more pure than ‖his Maker‖?
18 Lo! <in his own servants> he trusteth not,
And <his own messengers> he chargeth with error:[d]
19 How much more' the dwellers in houses of clay,[e]
Which <in the dust> have their foundation,
Which are crushed sooner than[f] a moth:
20 <Betwixt morning and evening> are they broken in pieces,
<With none to save>[g] they utterly' perish:
21 Is not their tent-rope[h] within them |torn away|?
They die, disrobed of wisdom!

5 1 Call, I pray thee—is' there one to answer thee?
Or <to which of the holy ones> wilt thou turn?
2 For <to the foolish man> death is caused by vexation,
And ‖the simple one‖ is slain by jealousy.

I‖ have seen the foolish taking root,
And then hath his home decayed[a] |in a moment|:
His children are far removed from safety,
And they are crushed in the gate, and there is none' to deliver:
Whose harvest> ‖the hungry‖ eateth up,
And <even out of thorn hedges>[b] he taketh it,
And the snare gapeth for their substance.
For sorrow' |cometh not forth out of the dust|,—
Nor <out of the ground> sprouteth trouble.
Though ‖man‖ |to trouble| were born,
As ‖sparks‖[c] |on high| do soar>
Yet indeed' ‖I‖ would seek unto El,
And <unto Elohim> would I set forth my cause:—
Who doeth great things, beyond all search,— Wondrous things,[d] till they cannot' be recounted;
Who giveth rain, upon the face of the earth,
And sendeth forth waters, over the face of the open fields;
Setting the lowly on high,
And ‖mourners‖ are uplifted to safety;
Who doth frustrate the schemes of the crafty,
That their hands cannot achieve abiding success;
Who captureth the wise in their own craftiness,
Yea the headlong counsel of the crooked:
<By day> they encounter darkness,
And <as though it were night> they grope at high noon.
But he saveth from the sword, out of[e] their mouth,
And <out of the hand of the strong> the needy.
Thus to the poor' hath come hope',
And ‖perversity‖ hath shut her mouth.
O! how happy is the man whom God' correcteth![f]
Therefore <the chastening of the Almighty> do not thou refuse;
For ‖he‖ woundeth that he may bind up,
He smiteth through, that ‖his own hands‖[g] may heal.
<In six troubles> he will rescue thee,
And <in seven> there shall smite thee no misfortune:
<In famine> he will ransom thee from death,
And in battle, from the power of the sword;
<During the scourge of the tongue> shalt thou be hid,
Neither shalt thou be afraid of destruction when it cometh;
<At destruction and at hunger> shalt thou laugh,
And <of the wild beast of the earth> be not thou afraid;
For <with the stones of the field> shall be thy covenant,
And ‖the wild beast of the field> hath been made thy friend;
And thou shalt know that <at peace> is thy tent,
And shalt visit thy fold, and miss nothing;
And thou shalt know, that numerous' is thy seed,
And ‖thine offspring‖ like the young shoots of the field.[a]
Thou shalt come, yet robust, to the grave,
As a stack of sheaves mounteth up in its season.
Lo! ‖as for this‖ we have searched it out—
|so| it is',
Hear it, and know ‖thou‖ for thyself.

Then responded Job, and said:— 6
Oh that ‖weighed‖ were my vexation,
And <my engulphing ruin—into the balances> they would lift up all at once!
For ‖now‖ <beyond the sand of the seas> would it be heavy,
<On this account> |my words| have wandered.
For ‖the arrows of the Almighty‖ are in me,
<The heat whereof> my spirit is drinking up,
The ‖terrors of God‖ array themselves against me.
Doth the wild ass' bray over grass?
Or loweth the ox' over his fodder?[b]
Can that which hath no savour be eaten without salt?
Or is' there any taste in the white of an egg?[c]
My soul hath refused to touch,
‖Those things‖ are like disease in my food.
Oh that my request would come!
And <my hope> oh that God would grant!
That it would please God to crush me,
That he would set free his hand, and cut me off!
So might it still be my comfort,
And I might exult in the anguish he would not spare,—
That I had not concealed the sayings of the Holy One.
What is my strength, that I should hope?
Or what mine end, that I should prolong my desire?[d]

Or have I become, unto thee,[c] a burden?
And why wilt thou not remove my transgression, And take away mine iniquity?
For ‖now‖ |in the dust| should I lie down,
And thou shouldst seek me diligently, and I should not' be.[d]

Then responded Bildad the Shuhite, and said:—

How long wilt thou speak these things?
Or <as a mighty wind> shall be the sayings of thy mouth?
Should ‖God‖ pervert justice?
Or ‖the Almighty‖ pervert righteousness?
<Though ‖thy children‖ sinned against him,
And he delivered them into the hand of their transgression>
Yet <if ‖thou thyself‖ wilt diligently seek unto God,—
And <unto the Almighty> wilt make supplication;
If <pure and upright> ‖thou thyself‖ art>
Surely ‖now‖ will he answer thy prayer,[e]
And will prosper thy righteous' habitation:
So shall thy beginning appear small,—
When <thy latter end> he shall greatly increase!
For inquire, I pray thee, of a former generation,
And prepare thyself for the research of their fathers;—
For <of yesterday> are ‖we‖, and cannot know,
For  are our days upon earth:
Shall ‖they‖ not teach thee—tell thee,[f]
And <out of their memory>[g] bring forth words?
Can the paper-reed grow up, without a marsh?
Or the rush grow up, without water?
<Though while still |in its freshness| it be not plucked off>
Yet <before any kind of grass> it doth wither:
‖So‖ shall be the latter end[a] of all who forget God,
And ‖the hope of the impious‖ shall perish:
Whose trust' shall be contemptible,[b]—
And  his confidence:
He leaneth upon his house, and it will not stand,
He holdeth it fast, and it will not remain erect.
Full of moisture' he is', before the sun,
And <over his garden> his shoot goeth forth:
<Over a heap> his roots are entwined,
<A place of stones> he descrieth;[c]
<If one destroy him out of his place>
Then will it disown him [saying]—
I have not seen thee.
Lo! ‖that‖ is the joy of his way,—
And <out of the dust> shall others spring up.
Lo! ‖God‖ will not reject a blameless man,[d]
Neither will he grasp the hand of evil-doers:
At length he shall fill with laughter thy mouth,
And thy lips, with a shout of triumph:
‖They who hate thee‖ shall be clothed with shame,[e]—
But ‖the tent of the lawless‖ shall not' be!

Then responded Job, and said— 9
‖Of a truth‖ I know that so' it is,
But how can a mortal be just with God?
<If he choose to contend with him>
He cannot answer him, one of a thousand:
<Wise in heart, and alert in vigour>
What man hath hardened himself against him, and prospered!
Who removeth mountains, unawares,
Who overturneth them in his anger;
Who shaketh the earth, out of its place,
And ‖the pillars thereof‖ shudder;
Who commandeth the sun, and it breaketh not forth,[f]
And <about the stars> he putteth a seal;
Who spreadeth out the heavens, by himself alone!
And marcheth along, on the heights of the sea;[g]
Who made the Bear,[h] the Giant[i] and the Cluster,[k]
And the chambers of the south;
Who doeth great things, past finding out,
And marvels, beyond number.
Lo! he cometh upon me, yet can I not see him,

Yea he passeth on, yet can I not discern him.
12 Lo! he snatcheth away, who can bring it back?[a]
Who shall say unto him, What wouldst thou do?
13 As for God <if he withdraw not his anger>
<Under him> will have submitted themselves—the proud helpers.[b]
14 How much less' that ‖I‖ should answer him,
Should choose my words with him?
15 Whom <though I were righteous> yet would I not answer,[c]
<To be absolved>[d] I would make supplication.
16 <Though I had called, and he had answered me>
I could not believe, that he would lend an ear to my voice.
17 For <with a tempest> would he fall upon me,
And would multiply my wounds without need;
18 He would not suffer me to recover my breath,[e]
For he would surfeit me with bitter things.
19 <If it regardeth vigour> bold is he!
<If justice> who could summon him?[f]
20 <If I should justify myself> ‖mine own mouth‖ would condemn me,— <I' blameless'?> then had it shewn me perverse.
21 <I' blameless'?>
I should not know my own soul,
I should despise my own life!
22 ‖One thing‖ there is', <for which cause> I have said it,
<The blameless and the lawless> he' bringeth to an end.
23 <If ‖a scourge‖ slay suddenly>
<At the despair of innocent ones> he mocketh.
24 ‖The earth‖ hath been given into the hand of a lawless one,
<The faces of her judges> he covereth,
‖If not‖ then who is' it?
25 ‖My days‖ therefore,[g] are swifter than a runner,
They have fled, they have seen no good.
26 They have passed away, with boats of paper-reed,[h]
Like a vulture [which] rusheth upon food.
27 <If I say, I will forget my complaint,
I will lay aside my sad countenance, and brighten up>
28 I am afraid of all my pains,
I know, that thou wilt not pronounce me innocent.
29 ‖I‖ shall be held guilty,—
Wherefore then <in vain> should I toil?
30 <Though I bathe myself in snow water,
And cleanse, in cleanness itself, my hands>
31 Then <in a ditch> wouldst thou plunge me,
And mine own clothes' should abhor me:
32 For he is not a man like myself, whom I might answer,
Nor could we come together' into judgment:
33 There is' not,[a] between us, a mediator,[b]
Who might lay his hand upon us both.
34 Let him take from off me his rod,
And <his terror> let it not startle me:[c]
35 I could speak, and not be afraid of him,
Although <not so> am ‖I‖ in myself!
1 My soul doth loathe my life,— 10
I let loose my complaint,
I speak, in the bitterness of my soul.
2 I say unto God,
Do not hold me guilty,
Let me know, on what account' thou contendest with me!
3 Is it seemly in thee, that thou shouldst oppress?
That thou shouldst despise' the labour of thine own hand,
When <upon the counsel of the lawless> thou hast shone?
4 <Eyes of flesh> hast thou?
Or <as a mortal seeth> seest thou?
5 <As the days of a mortal> are thy days?
Or ‖thy years‖ as the days of a man?
6 That thou shouldst seek for mine iniquity,
And <for my sin> shouldst make search:
7 <Though it is |within thine own knowledge|> that I would not be lawless,
And ‖none‖ <out of thy hand> can deliver?
8 ‖Thine own hands‖ shaped me, and made me,
All in unison round about, and yet thou hast confounded me.
9 Remember, I pray thee, that <as clay> thou didst make me,
And <unto dust> thou wilt cause me to return.
10 Didst thou not, <like milk> pour me forth?
And <as cheese> curdle me?
11 <With skin and flesh> clothe me?
And <with bones and sinews> interweave me?
12 <Life and lovingkindness> thou didst bestow upon me,—
And ‖thy watchful care‖ preserved my breath.[d]
13 Yet <these things> thou didst hide in thy heart,
I know, that ‖this‖ hath been with thee!
14 <If I have sinned> then couldst thou watch me,[e]
And <from mine iniquity> thou wouldst not acquit me:
15 <If I have been lawless> alas for me!

Or <if I am righteous> I will not lift up my head, <Surfeited with shame> look thou then on my humiliation.[a]
16 <When it is lifted up> |like a howling lion| thou dost hunt me,
Then again' thou dost shew thyself marvellous against me.
17 Thou renewest thy witnesses before me,
And dost increase thy vexation with me,
‖Relays—yea an army‖ is with me.
18 Wherefore' then <from the womb> didst thou bring me forth?
I might have breathed my last, and ‖no eye‖ have seen me.
19 <As though I had not been> should I have become,—
<From the womb to the grave> might I have been borne.[b]
20 Are not my days |few|?—then forbear,[c]
And set me aside, that I may brighten up for a little;
21 Before I go, and not return,
Unto a land of darkness and death-shade:
22 A land of obscurity, like thick darkness,
Of death-shade and disorder,
And which shineth like thick darkness.

11 1 Then responded Zophar the Naamathite, and said:—

2 Should ‖the multitude of words‖ not be answered?
Or should ‖a man full of talk‖[d] be justified?
3 Shall ‖thy pratings‖ cause men to hold their peace?
<When thou hast mocked> shall there be none' to put thee to shame?
4 Since thou hast said,
Right' is my doctrine,
And pure' am I in his[e] eyes.
5 But <in very deed> oh that God would speak,
That he would open his lips with thee:
6 That he would declare to thee the secrets of wisdom,
For they are double to that which actually is,[f]—
Know then that God could bring into forgetfulness for thee, a portion of thine iniquity.
7 The hidden depth of God[g] canst thou discover?
Or <unto the furthest limit of the Almighty> canst thou attain?[h]
8 <The heights of the heavens> what canst thou do?
<Depths deeper than hades> what canst thou know?
9 <Longer than the earth> is the measure thereof,
And broader than the sea.
10 <If he sweep on, or shut up, or call together>
Who then shall hinder him?
11 For ‖he‖ knoweth men of falsity,
And seeth iniquity, and him that doth not diligently consider.
12 But ‖an empty person‖ will get sense,[a]
When ‖a wild ass's colt‖ is born a man![b]
13 <If ‖thou‖ hast prepared thy heart,
And wilt spread forth, unto him, thy hands—
14 <If ‖iniquity‖ be in thy hand>
Put it far away,
And let there not dwell in thy tents[c] perversity>
15 Surely ‖then‖ shalt thou lift up thy face free from blemish,
And shalt be established, and not fear.
16 For ‖now‖[d] shalt thou forget |sorrow|,
<Like waters passed away> shalt thou remember it.
17 <Above high noon> shall rise life's continuance,
‖Darkness‖ <like a morning> shall appear,
18 And thou shalt be confident, that there is' hope,
And <when thou hast searched>[e] securely' shalt thou lie down;
19 And shalt rest, with none' to put thee in terror,—
And many shall entreat thy favour.
20 But ‖the eyes of the lawless‖ shall fail,—
And ‖place of refuge‖ shall have vanished from them,
And ‖their hope‖ be a breathing out of life.[f]

1 Then responded Job, and said:— 12

2 <Of a truth> ‖ye‖ are the people,
And <with you> wisdom |will die|.
3 ‖I also‖ have a mind[g] like you,
‖I‖ fall not short |of you|,
But who' hath not' such things as these?
4 <A laughing-stock to one's neighbour> do I become,
One who hath called upon God and he hath answered him!
A laughing-stock—a righteous man without blame!
5 <For ruin> there is contempt, in the thought of the man at ease,— Ready, for such as are of faltering foot!
6 At peace' are the tents that belong to the spoilers,
And there is security to them who provoke God,
To him who bringeth a god in his hand.
7 But ‖in very deed‖ ask, I pray thee, the beasts, and they will teach thee,
And the bird of the heavens, and it will tell thee;

8 Or address the earth, and it will teach thee,
And the fishes of the sea | will recount it to thee | :
9 Who' knoweth not, among all these,
That ‖the hand of Yahweh‖[a] hath done this?
10 In whose hand is the soul[b] of every living thing,
And the spirit of all the flesh of men.
11 Doth not ‖the ear‖ try | words | ?
Even as ‖the palate‖ tasteth for itself ‖food‖?
12 <In the Ancient> is wisdom,
And <[in] Length of Days> understanding:
13 <With Him> are wisdom and strength,
<To Him> pertain counsel and understanding.
14 Lo! He pulleth down, and it cannot be built,
He closeth up over a man,[c] and it cannot be opened:
15 Lo! He holdeth back the waters, and they dry up,
Or sendeth them out, and they transform the earth:
16 <With Him> is strength and effective wisdom,
<To Him> belong he that erreth, and he that causeth to err.
17 Who leadeth away counsellors [as] a spoil,
And <judges> He befooleth:
18 <The fetters of kings> He looseth,
Or hath bound a slave's waistcloth about their loins:
19 Who leadeth away priests [as] a spoil,
And <men firmly seated> He overturneth:
20 Setting aside the speech[d] of the trusty,
And <the discernment of elders> He taketh away:
21 Pouring contempt upon nobles,
And <the girdle of the mighty> hath He loosed:
22 Laying open deep things, out of darkness,
And bringing out to light, the death-shade:
23 Who giveth greatness to nations, or destroyeth them,
Who spreadeth out nations, or leadeth them into exile:
24 Who taketh away the sense[e] of the chiefs of the people of the earth,
And hath caused them to wander in a pathless' waste:[f]
25 They grope about in the dark, having no light,
And He hath made them to reel, like a drunken man.

13 1 Lo! <all [this]>[g] hath mine own eye' seen,—
Mine ear hath heard and understood it:
2 <Just as ye' know> ‖I too‖ know,
‖I‖ fall not short | of you |.
3 | But indeed | ‖I‖ <unto the Almighty> would speak,
And <to direct my argument unto God> would I be well pleased.
4 For [in truth] ‖ye‖ do besmear with falsehood,[a]
Worthless physicians, all of you!
5 Oh that ye would ‖altogether hold your peace‖,
And it should serve you for wisdom!
6 Hear, I pray you, the argument of my mouth,[b]
And <to the pleadings of my lips> give heed:—
7 Is it <for God> ye would speak perversely?
And <for him> would ye speak deceit:
8 Even <for him> would ye be partial?
Or <for God> would ye [so] plead?
9 Would it be well, when he searched you out?
Or <as one might jest with a mortal> would ye jest | with him | ?
10 He will ‖severely rebuke‖ you,
If ye are secretly' partial.
11 Shall not ‖his majesty‖ overwhelm you?
And ‖the dread of him‖ fall upon you?
12 Are not your memorable sayings, proverbs of ashes?
<Breastworks of clay> your breastworks?
13 Quietly let me alone, that ‖I‖ may speak out,
Then let come on me | what may |.
14 <In any case> I will take up my flesh in my teeth,
And <my life> will I put in my hand:[c]
15 Lo! he may slay me, [yet] <for him>[d] will I wait,— Nevertheless <my ways—unto his face> will I show to be right:
16 ‖Even he‖ will be on my side—unto salvation,
For <not before his face> shall any impious person come.
17 Hear ye patiently[e] my speech,
And be my declaration in your ears.
18 Lo! I pray you, I have set forth in order a plea,
I know that ‖I‖ shall be found right.
19 Who is' it that shall contend[f] with me?
For ‖now‖ <if I should hold my peace> why! I should breathe my last!
20 Only <two things> do thou not with me,[g]
‖Then‖ <from thy face> will I not hide me:—
21 <Thy hand—from off me> take thou far away,
And <thy terror> let it not startle me![h]

22 Then call thou, and ‖I‖ will answer,
Or I will speak, and reply thou unto me.
23 How many' are mine' iniquities and sins?
<My transgression and my sin> let me know!
24 Wherefore' <thy face> shouldst thou hide?
Or count me, as an enemy to thee?
25 <A driven leaf> wilt thou cause to tremble?
Or <dry stubble> wilt thou pursue?
26 For thou writest, against me, bitter things,
And dost make me inherit the iniquities of my youth;
27 And thou dost put—in the stocks—my feet,
And observest all my paths,
<Against the roots of my feet> thou dost cut out a bound;
28 And ‖a man himself‖ <as a rotten thing> weareth out,
As a garment which the moth' hath eaten.

14 1 ‖Man that is born of a woman‖
Is of few days, and full of trouble:
2 <As a flower> he cometh forth—and fadeth,
He fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not.
3 <And yet upon such a one as this> hast thou opened thine eye?[a]
And <him>[b] wouldst thou bring into judgment with thee?
4 Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?
Not one!
5 <If determined' are his days> |the number of his months| is with thee,
<Fixed times[c] for him> thou hast appointed and he cannot go beyond.
6 Look away from him,[d] that he may rest,
Till he shall pay off, as a hireling, his day.
7 <Though there is'—for a tree—hope,—
<If it should be cut down> that |again| it will grow,
And ‖the tender branch thereof‖ will not cease;
8 If its root |should become old in the earth|,
And <in the dust> its stock should die':
9 <Through the scent of water> it may break forth,
And produce branches like a sapling>
10 Yet ‖man‖ dieth, and is prostrate,[e]
Yea the son of earth doth cease to breathe, and where is he?
11 |Waters| have failed from |the sea|,
And ‖a river‖ may waste and dry up;
12 So ‖a man‖ hath lain down, and shall not arise,—
<Until there are no heavens> they shall not awake,
Nor be roused up out of their sleep.
13 Oh that <in hades> thou wouldst hide me!
That thou wouldst keep me secret, until the turn of thine anger,
That thou wouldst set for me a fixed time, and remember me:
14 <If a man die'> can he live again?[a]
<All the days of my warfare> would I wait,
Until my relief should come:—
15 Thou shouldst call, and ‖I‖ would answer thee,—
<For the work of thine own hand> thou shouldst long.[b]
16 For[c] ‖now‖ <my steps> thou countest,
Thou wilt not pass over[d] my sin:
17 <Sealed up in a bag> is my transgression,
And thou hast glued over mine iniquity.
18 But |in very deed| ‖a mountain falling‖ will lie prostrate,
Or ‖a rock moved out of its place‖:
19 ‖Stones‖ have been hollowed out by waters,
The floods thereof wash away the dust of the earth,
And <the hope of mortal man> thou hast destroyed:
20 Thou dost overpower him utterly, and he departeth,
<Disfiguring his face> ‖so‖ hast thou sent him away.
21 His sons |come to honour|,
And he knoweth it not,
Or they are brought low,
And he perceiveth it not of them.
22 But ‖his flesh‖ <for himself> is in pain,
And ‖his soul‖ <for himself> doth mourn.[e]

15 1 Then responded Eliphaz the Temanite, and said:—
2 Should ‖a wise man‖ answer unreal[f] knowledge?
Or fill, with the east wind, his inner man?
3 Disputing with discourse that doth no good,
Or with speech, wherein is no profit?
4 But ‖thou‖ wouldst take away reverence,
And wouldst attain unto[g] meditation before GOD.
5 For thine own mouth would teach thine iniquity,
And thou wouldst choose the tongue of the crafty.
6 Thine own mouth' shall condemn thee, and ‖not I‖,
And ‖thine own lips‖ shall testify[h] against thee.
7 <The first of mankind> wast thou born?
Or <before the hills> wast thou brought forth?
8 <In the secret council of GOD> hast thou been wont to hearken?

Or canst thou attain[a] for thyself unto wisdom?
9 What knowest thou, that we know not?
[What] understandest thou, and the same' |is not with us|?
10 ||Both hoary and venerable|| are among us,
One mightier than thy father in days!
11 <Too small for thee> are the consolations of GOD?
Or a word spoken gently with thee?
12 How doth thine own heart carry thee away,
And how thine eyes' do roll![b]
13 For thy spirit |replieth against GOD|,
And thou bringest forth—out of thy mouth—words!
14 What' is a mortal, that he should be pure?
Or that righteous' should be one born of a woman?
15 Lo! <in his holy ones>[c] he putteth not confidence,
And ||the heavens|| are not pure in his eyes:[d]
16 How much less when one is detested and corrupt,
A man who drinketh in—like water—perversity,
17 I will tell thee—hear me,
<Since this' I have seen>[e] I must needs declare it.
18 Which ||wise men|| tell,
And deny not [that which is] from their fathers.
19 <To them alone> was the earth given,
And no alien passed through their midst:
20 <All the days of the lawless man> ||he|| doth writhe with pain,
And ||the number of years|| is hidden from the tyrant;
21 ||A noise of dreadful things|| is in his ears,
<In prosperity> the destroyer cometh upon him;
22 He hath no confidence to come back out of darkness,
||He|| being destined' to the power of[f] the sword;
23 A wanderer' ||he||, for bread, [saying] Where [is it]?
He knoweth that <prepared by his own hand> is the day of darkness;
24 Distress and anguish shall startle him,
It shall overpower him, like a king ready for the onset:
25 Because he had stretched out—against GOD—his hand,
And <against the Almighty> had been wont to behave himself proudly;
26 He used to run against him with uplifted neck,
With the stout bosses of his bucklers;
27 For he had covered his face with his fatness,
And had gathered a superabundance on his loins;
28 And had inhabited demolished cities,
||Houses|| wherein men would not dwell,
That were destined to become heaps.
29 He shall not be rich, nor shall his substance' continue,
Neither shall their shadow'[a] stretch along on the earth;
30 He shall not depart out of darkness,
<His young branch> shall the flame' dry up,
And he shall depart, by the breath of his own mouth!
31 Let no one trust in him that—by vanity—is deceived,
For ||vanity|| shall be his recompense;
32 <Before his day> shall it be accomplished,
With ||his palm-top|| not covered with leaves;
33 He shall wrong—like a vine—his sour grapes,[b]
And shall cast off—as an olive-tree—his blossom.
34 For ||the family[c] of the impious|| is unfruitful,
And ||a fire|| hath devoured the tents of bribery;
35 Conceiving mischief, and bringing forth iniquity,
Yea ||their inmost soul|| prepareth deceit.

1 Then responded Job, and said:— 16
2 I have heard many' such things,
<Wearisome comforters> are ye all!
3 Is there to be an end to windy words?
Or what so strongly exciteth thee, that thou must respond?[d]
4 ||I also|| <like you> could speak,—
<If your' soul were' in the place of my' soul>
I could string together words' against you,
And could therewith shake over you my head.
5 I could make you determined, by my mouth,
And then my lip-solace should restrain you.[e]
6 <Though I do speak> unassuaged is my stinging pain,—
And <if I forbear> of what am I relieved?[f]
7 But ||now|| hath he wearied me,
Thou hast destroyed all my family;[e]
8 And <having captured me> it hath served |as a witness|;
And so my wasting away[g] hath risen up against me,
<In my face> it answereth.

9 ‖His anger‖ hath torn and persecuted me,
He hath gnashed upon me with his teeth,
‖Mine adversary‖ hath sharpened his eyes for[a] me.

10 They have gaped upon me with their mouth,
<With reproach> have they smitten my cheek,
Together, against me, have they closed their ranks.[b]

11 God doth abandon me to him that is perverse,
And <into the hands of the lawless> he throweth me headlong.

12 <At ease> was I when he shattered me,
Yea he seized me by my neck, and dashed me in pieces,
Then set me up for himself as a mark:

13 His archers came round against me,
He clave asunder my reins,[c] and spared not,
He poured out, on the earth, my gall;

14 He made a breach in me, breach upon breach,
He ran upon me, like a mighty man.

15 <Sackcloth> sewed I on my skin,
And rolled—in the dust—my horn:

16 ‖My face‖ is reddened from weeping,
And <upon mine eyelashes> is the death-shade:—

17 Though no violence was in my hands,
And ‖my prayer‖ was pure.

18 O earth! do not cover my blood,
And let there be no place for mine outcry.

19 ‖Even now‖ lo! <in the heavens> is my witness,

20 And ‖he that voucheth for me is on high.[d]
My friends are ‖they who scorn me‖,
<Unto God> hath mine eye shed tears:—

21 That one might plead, for a man, with God,—
Even a son of man, for his friend!

22 <When[e] ‖a few years‖ come>
Then <by a path by which I shall not return> shall I depart.

17 1 ‖My spirit‖ is broken,
‖My days‖ are extinguished,
<Graves> are left me.[f]

2 Verily there are mockers,[g] with me!
And <on their insults>[h] mine eye doth rest.

3 Appoint it, I pray thee,—be thou surety for me with thyself,
Who is' there that, on my side, can pledge himself?

4 For <their heart> hast thou kept back from understanding,
<On this account> thou wilt not exalt them.

5 <He that ‖for a share‖ denounceth friends>
Even ‖the eyes of his children‖ shall be dim.

6 But he hath set me, as the byword of peoples,
And <one to be spit on in the face> do I become.

7 Therefore hath mine eye become dim from vexation,
And ‖my members‖ are like a shadow, all' of them.

8 Upright men shall be astounded over this,
And ‖the innocent‖ <against the impious> shall rouse themselves.

9 That the righteous may hold on his way,
And ‖the clean of hands‖ increase in strength.

10 But indeed, <as for them[a] all> will ye bethink yourselves and enter into it, I pray you?
Or shall I not find, among you, one who is wise?

11 ‖My days‖ are past, ‖my purposes‖ are broken off,
The possessions of my heart!

12 <Night for day> they appoint,[b]
‖Light‖ is near, by reason of darkness!

13 <If I wait for hades as my house,
<In darkness> have spread out my couch;

14 <To corruption> have exclaimed, ‖My father‖ thou!
My mother! and My sister! to the worm>

15 Where then' would be my hope?
And <as for my blessedness>[c] who should see it!

16 <With me[c] to hades> would they go down,
If <wholly—|into the dust|> is the descent!

18 1 Then responded Bildad the Shuhite, and said:—

2 How long will ye[d] make a perversion[e] of words?
Ye should understand, and <afterwards> we could speak.

3 Wherefore' are we accounted like beasts?
Or appear stupid,[f] in thine[g] eyes?

4 <One tearing in pieces his own soul in his anger>—
<For thy sake> shall the earth' be forsaken?
Or the rock be moved out of its place?

5 ‖Even the light of the lawless‖ shall go out,—
Neither shall shine the flame of his fire;

6 ‖The light‖ hath darkened in his tent,
Yea ‖his lamp[a] above him‖ goeth out;

7 The steppings of his strength are hemmed in,
And his own counsel casteth him down;

8 For he is thrust into a net by his own feet,
And <upon a trap> he marcheth;

9 There catcheth him—by the heel—a gin,
There holdeth him fast—a noose:
10 Concealed in the ground is a cord for him,—
And a snare for him, on the path.
11 <Round about> terrors have startled him,
And have driven him to his feet.
12 Let his strength be famished,
And ‖calamity‖ be ready at his side;
13 Let it devour the members of his body,
Let the firstborn of death devour his members;
14 Uprooted, out of his tent, be his confidence,
And let it drive him down to the king of terrors;
15 There shall dwell in his tent, what is naught-of-his,[a]
Let brimstone be strewed over his dwelling;
16 <Beneath> let his roots be dried up,
And <above> be cut off his branch;
17 ‖His memorial‖ have perished out of the land,
And let him have no name' over the face of the open field;
18 Let them thrust him out of light into darkness,
Yea <out of the world> let them chase him;
19 Let him have neither scion nor seed among his people,
Neither any survivor in his place of sojourn:
20 <Over his day> have they been astounded who come behind,
And <them who are in advance> a shudder' hath[b] seized.
21 Surely ‖these‖ are the dwellings of him that is perverse,
And ‖this‖ is the place of him that knoweth not GOD.

19 1 Then responded Job, and said:—
2 How long' will ye grieve my soul?
Or crush me with words?
3 <These ten times> have ye reviled me,
Shameless, ye wrong me.[c]
4 <And even if indeed I have erred>
With myself' lodgeth mine error.
5 <If indeed <against me> ye must needs magnify yourselves,
And plead, against me, my reproach>
6 Know, then, that ‖GOD‖ hath overthrown[d] me,
And <within his net> enclosed me.
7 Lo! I cry—out Violence! but receive no answer,
I cry aloud, but there is no' vindication;
8 <My way> hath he walled up, that I cannot pass,
And <upon my paths> hath he made darkness rest;
9 <My glory—from off me> hath he stripped,
And hath removed the crown of my head;
10 He hath ruined me on every side, and I am gone,
And he hath taken away—like a tree—my hope;
11 Yea he hath kindled against me his anger,
And accounted me towards him like unto his adversaries;
12 <Together> enter his troops,
And have cast up, against me, their mound,
And have encamped all around my tent;
13 <My brethren—from beside me> hath he moved far away,
And ‖mine acquaintance‖ are wholly estranged from me;
14 |Failed me| have my near of kin,
And ‖mine intimate acquaintances‖ have forgotten me;
15 ‖Ye guests of my house and my maidens‖
<A stranger> have ye accounted me,
<An alien> have I become in their[a] eyes;
16 <To mine own servant> I called, and he would not answer,
<With mine own mouth> I kept entreating him;
17 ‖My breath‖ is strange to my wife,
And I am loathsome[b] to the sons of my own mother;
18 ‖Even young children‖ despise me,
I rise up, and they speak against me;
19 All the men of mine intimate circle abhor me,
And ‖these whom[c] I loved‖ have turned against me;
20 <Unto my skin and unto my flesh> have my bones' cleaved,
And I have escaped with the skin of my teeth.
21 Pity me! pity me! ‖ye, my friends‖
For ‖the hand of GOD‖ hath stricken me!
22 Wherefore' should ye persecute me as GOD?
And <with my flesh> should not be satisfied?

23 Oh, then, that my words |could be written|,
Oh that <in a record> they could be inscribed:
24 That <with a stylus of iron and [with] lead>
<For all time—in the rock> they could be graven!
25 But ‖I‖ know' that |my redeemer|[d] liveth,
And <as the Last[e] over [my] dust> will he arise;
26 And <though <after my skin is struck off> this[f] [followeth]>
Yet <apart from my flesh> shall I see GOD:

And ‖mine own eyes‖ [shall] have looked upon, and not [those of] a stranger.
Exhausted are my deepest desires in my bosom!

28 Surely ye should say—
Why should we persecute him?
Seeing ‖the root of the matter‖ is found in me.[a]

29 Be ye afraid—on your part—of the face of the sword,
Because ‖wrath‖ [bringeth] the punishments of the sword,
To the end ye may know the Almighty.[b]

20 1 Then responded Zophar the Naamathite, and said:—

2 |Not so|[c] do my thoughts answer me,
And to this' end, is my haste within me:
3 <The correction meant to confound me> I must hear,
But ‖the spirit—out of my understanding‖ will give me a reply.
4 Knowest thou ‖this‖—from antiquity,
From the placing of man upon earth:—
5 That ‖the joy-shout of the lawless‖ is short,
And ‖the rejoicing of the impious‖ for a moment?
6 <Though his elevation mount up to the heavens,
And ‖his head‖ <to the clouds> doth reach>
7 <Like his own stubble>[d] shall he utterly perish,
‖They who had seen him‖ shall say, Where is he?
8 <Like a dream> shall he fly away, and they shall not find him,
Yea he shall be chased away, as a vision of the night.
9 ‖The eye that hath scanned him‖ shall not do it again,
Neither |any more| shall his place' behold him:
10 ‖His children‖ shall seek the favour of the poor,
And ‖his own hand‖ shall give back his wealth.
11 ‖His bones‖ are full of youthful vigour,
Yet <with him—in the dust> shall it lie down.
12 <Though |a sweet taste in his mouth| be given by vice,
Though he hide it under his tongue;
13 Though he spare it, and will not let it go,
But retain it in the midst of his mouth>
14 ‖His food‖ |in his stomach| is changed,
The gall of adders, within him!
15 <Wealth> hath he swallowed, and hath vomited the same,
<Out of his belly> shall |God| drive it forth:
16 <The poison of adders> shall he suck,
The tongue of the viper' shall slay him;
17 Let him not see in the channels
The flowings of torrents of honey and milk.
18 <In vain>[e] he toiled, he shall not swallow,
<Like wealth to be restored> in which he cannot exult!
19 For he hath oppressed—hath forsaken the poor,
<A house> hath he seized, which he cannot rebuild.
20 Surely he hath known no peace in his inmost mind,—
<With his dearest thing> shall he not get away:
21 Nothing escaped his devouring greed,—
<For this cause> shall his prosperity' not continue:
22 <When his abundance is gone> he shall be in straits,
‖All the power of distress‖[b] shall come upon him.
23 It shall be that <to fill his belly> he will thrust at him the glow of his anger,
And rain [it] upon him for his punishment.[c]
24 He shall flee from the armour of iron,—
There shall pierce him, a bow of bronze!
25 He hath drawn it out, and it hath come forth out of his back,—
Yea the flashing arrow-head, out of his gall,
There shall march on him—|terrors|:
26 ‖Every misfortune‖ is laid up for his treasures,—
There shall consume, a fire ‖not blown up‖,[d]—
It shall destroy what remaineth in his tent:
27 The heavens shall reveal' his iniquity,
And ‖the earth‖ be rising up against him:
28 The increase of his house shall vanish,
Melting away[e] in the day of his anger.
29 ‖This‖ is the portion of the lawless man, |from God|,[f]
And the inheritance decreed him from the Mighty One.[g]

21 1 Then responded Job, and said:—

2 Hear ye patiently my words,
And let this be your consolation:
3 Suffer me, that ‖I‖ may speak,
And <after I have spoken> thou[h] canst mock!
4 Did ‖I‖ <unto man> make my complaint?
Wherefore', then, should my spirit not be impatient?
5 Turn round to me, and be astonished,
And lay hand on mouth!

6 <When I call to mind> then am I dismayed,
And there seizeth my flesh a shuddering:—
7 Wherefore do |lawless men| live,
Advance in years, ‖even wax mighty in power‖?
8 ‖Their seed‖ is established in their sight
|along with them|,
Yea their offspring, before their eyes;
9 ‖Their houses‖ are at peace, without dread,
Neither is ‖the rod of God‖ upon them;
10 ‖His bull‖ covereth,[a] and causeth not aversion,
His cow safely calveth, and casteth not her young;
11 They send forth—like a flock—their young ones,
And |their children| skip about for joy;
12 They rejoice aloud as[b] [with] timbrel and lyre,
And make merry to the sound of the pipe;[c]
13 They complete,[d] in prosperity, their days,
And <in a moment to hades> they sink down.
14 Yet they said unto God,
Depart from us, and
<In the knowledge of thy ways> find we no pleasure.
15 What is the Almighty, that we should serve him?
Or what shall we profit, that we should urge him?
16 Lo! <not in their own hand> is their welfare,
‖The counsel of lawless men‖ is far from me!
17 ‖How oft‖[e] |the lamp of the lawless| goeth out,
And their calamity |cometh upon them|,
<Sorrows> apportioneth he in his anger;
18 They become as straw before the wind,
And as chaff, which the storm stealeth away.
19 Shall ‖God‖ reserve |for his children| his sorrow?
Let him recompense him' so that he may know it;
20 ‖His own eyes‖[f] shall see his misfortune,
And <the wrath of the Almighty> shall he drink.
21 For what shall be his pleasure in his house after him,
When ‖the number of his months‖ is cut in twain?
22 Is it <to God> one can teach knowledge,
Seeing that ‖he‖ shall judge |them who are on high|?
23 ‖This‖ man dieth, in the very perfection of his prosperity,
Wholly' tranquil and secure;
24 ‖His veins‖ are filled with nourishment,[a]
And ‖the marrow of his bones‖ is fresh;
25 Whereas ‖this other man‖ dieth, in bitterness of soul,
And hath never tasted good fortune:
26 ‖Together‖ |in the dust| they lie down,
And ‖the worm‖ spreadeth a covering over them.
27 Lo! I know your plans,
And the devices, wherewith ye would do me violence!
28 For ye say,
Where is the house of the noble-minded?
And where the dwelling'-tent of the lawless?
29 Have ye not asked' the passers-by in the way?
And <their signs> can ye not recognise?
30 That <to the day of calamity> is the wicked reserved,
<To the day of indignant visitation> are they led.
31 Who can declare—to his face—his way?
And <what ‖he‖ hath done> who shall recompense to him?
32 Yet ‖he‖ <to the graves> is borne,
And <over the tomb> one keepeth watch;
33 Pleasant to him are the mounds[b] of the torrent-bed,—
And <after him> doth every man march,
As <before him> there were, without' number.
34 How then should ye comfort me with vanity,
Since <as for your replies> there lurketh [in them] treachery?

22 1 Then responded Eliphaz the Temanite, and said:—
2 <Unto God> can a man act as friend?
Surely[c] a discreet' man befriendeth himself!
3 Is it a pleasure to the Almighty, that thou shouldst be righteous?
Or any profit, that thou shouldst be blameless in thy ways?
4 Is it <for thy reverence> that he will accuse thee?
will enter with thee into judgment?
5 Is not ‖thy wickedness‖ great?
And <without end> [are not] thine iniquities?
6 Surely thou hast been wont to put thy brother in pledge |for nothing|,
And <the garments of the ill-clad> hast thou stripped off:
7 <No water—to the weary> hast thou given to drink,
And <from the hungry> thou hast withheld bread:
8 <A man of might> ‖to him‖ pertaineth the land,

10 <For this cause> |round about thee| are snares,
And a dread startleth thee suddenly;
11 Or darkness—thou canst not see,
And ‖a flood of waters‖ covereth thee.
12 Is not |God| [in] the height of the heavens?
Behold, then, the head of the stars, that they are high.
13 Wilt thou say then,
What doth God know?
<Out through a thick cloud> can he judge?
14 ‖Dark clouds‖ are a veil to him, and he cannot see,
Or <the vault of the heavens> doth he walk?
15 <The path of the ancient time> wilt thou mark,
Which the men of iniquity' trod?
16 Who were snatched away before the time,

24 Then lay up, in the dust, precious ore,
And <among the stones of the torrent-beds> fine gold:
25 So shall |the Almighty| become |thy precious ores|
Yea glittering silver[d] unto thee!
26 For ‖then‖ <in the Almighty> shalt thou take exquisite delight,
And shalt lift up—unto God—thy face;
27 Thou shalt make entreaty unto him, and he will hear thee,
And <thy vows> shalt thou pay;
28 And thou shalt decree a purpose, and it shall be fulfilled unto thee,
And <upon thy ways> shall have shone a light;
29 <When men cast themselves down> then thou shalt say Up!
And <him that is of downcast eyes> shall he save;
30 He shall deliver the innocent,[a]
And thou shalt escape[b] by the pureness of thy hands.

1 Then responded Job, and said:— 23
2 <Even to-day> is my complaint' rebellion?[c]
‖His hand‖[d] is heavier than my groaning.
3 Oh that I knew where I might find him!
I would come even unto his dwelling-place;
4 I would set out, before him, a plea,
And <my mouth> would I fill with arguments;
5 I would note the words wherewith he would respond to me,
And would mark' what he would say to me.
6 Would he <with fulness of might> contend with me?
Nay, surely ‖he‖ would give heed to me!
7 ‖There' an upright man‖ might reason with him,
So should I deliver myself completely from my judge.
8 Behold! <eastward> I go, but he is not there,
And <westward> but I perceive him not;
9 <On the north, where he worketh> but I get no vision,
He hideth himself on the south' that I cannot see him.
10 But ‖he‖ knoweth the way that I choose,[e]
<Having tried me> |as gold| I shall come forth.
11 <Of his steps> my foot' taketh hold,

12 <The command of his lips> and would not go back,
And <in my bosom>[f] have I treasured the words of his lips.
13 But ‖he‖ is one,[g] and who can turn him?
<What his soul desired> he hath done.
14 Surely he will accomplish what is decreed for me,
And <many such things> hath he in store.[h]
15 ‖For this cause‖ <from his presence> am I driven in fear,
I diligently consider' and am kept back from him in dread:

16 Yea ‖God‖ hath made timid[a] my heart,
And ‖the Almighty‖ hath put me in terror.
17 Because I was not cut off before the darkness,
Nor <before my face> did the gloom'[b] form a shroud.

24 1 Wherefore <since from the Almighty times' are not hid>
Have ‖his knowing ones‖[c] no vision of his days?
2 <Boundaries> men move back,[d]
<Flocks> they seize and consume;
3 <The ass of the fatherless> they drive off,
They take in pledge the ox of the widow;
4 They turn aside the needy out of the way,
|At once| are the humbled[e] of the land made to hide themselves.
5 Lo! <[as] wild asses in the wilderness> they go forth with[f] their work,
Eager seekers for prey,
‖The waste plain‖ yieldeth them food for their young;
6 <In the field—a man's fodder> they cut down,
And <the vineyard of the lawless> they strip of its late berries;[g]
7 <Ill-clad> they are left to lodge without clothing,
And have no' covering in the cold;
8 <With the sweeping rain of the mountains> are they wet,
And <through having no shelter> they embrace a rock.
9 Men tear, from the breast, the fatherless,
And <over the poor> they take a pledge;
10 <Naked> they go about without clothing,
And <famished> they carry the sheaves;
11 <Between their walls> are they exposed to the sun,[h]
<Wine-presses> they tread, and yet are thirsty;
12 <Out of the city—out of the houses>[i] they make outcry,
And ‖the soul of the wounded‖ calleth for help,
And ‖God‖ doth not regard it as foolish.
13 ‖They‖ have become rebels against the light,—
They are not acquainted with the ways thereof,
Neither abide they in the paths thereof.
14 <With the light> riseth the murderer,
He slayeth the poor and needy,
And <in the night> he becometh like a thief.
15 And ‖the eye of the adulterer‖ watcheth for the evening twilight, Saying Not an eye' will see me!
<A covering for the face> he putteth on;
16 He breaketh, in the dark, into houses,—
<By day> they lock themselves in,[k]
They know not the light;
17 For <in the case of all such> morning to them is the death-shade,
For <to be recognised> is a death-shade terror.
18 Swift' is he on the face of the waters,
Speedily vanished'[a] their share in the land,
He[b] turneth not to the way of the vineyards.
19 ‖Drought and heat‖ steal away snow water,
‖Hades‖ them who have sinned.
20 Maternal love shall forget him, the worm shall find him sweet,
No more shall he be remembered,
But perversity shall be shivered like a tree.
21 He oppresseth the barren who beareth not,
And <to the widow> he doeth not good;
22 Yea he draggeth along the mighty by his strength,
He riseth up, and none hath assurance of life;
23 It is given him to be secure, and confident,
Yet ‖his eyes‖ are upon their ways.
24 They are exalted a little, and are' not,
Yea having been laid low, <like all men> are they gathered,
<Even as the top of an ear of corn> do they hang down.
25 But <if not> who then' can convict me of falsehood?
Or make of no account my words?

25 1 Then responded Bildad the Shuhite, and said:—
2 ‖Dominion and dread‖ are with him,
Who causeth prosperity among his lofty ones;[c]
3 Is' there any number to his troops?
And upon whom ariseth not his light?
4 How then shall |a mortal| be just |with God|?
Or how shall he be pure' who is born of a woman?
5 Look as far as the moon, and[d] it is not clear,
And ‖the stars‖ are not bright in his eyes!
6 How much less' a mortal who is a creeping thing?
Or a son of the earth-born who is a worm?

26 1 Then responded Job, and said:—
2 How' hast thou given help to one of no-strength?
Given victory to an arm of no-power?
3 How' hast thou given counsel to one of no-wisdom?
Or <effective wisdom> abundantly made known?
4 Whom' hast thou taught speech?[e]
Whose inspiration' hath come from thee?
5 ‖The shades‖ tremble,
Beneath the waters and their inhabitants;
6 Naked' is hades before him,

And there is no' covering to destruction;
7 Who stretcheth out the north over emptiness,[a]
Hangeth the earth upon nothingness;
8 Who bindeth up the waters in his thick clouds,
And the cloud is not rent beneath them;[b]
9 Who shutteth-in the face of the throne,
He spreadeth over it his cloud;
10 A <boundary> hath he encircled on the face of the waters,
As far as where light ends in darkness;[c]
11 ‖The pillars of the heavens‖ are shaken,
And are terrified at his rebuke:
12 <By his strength> hath he excited the sea,
And <by his skill> hath he shattered the Crocodile:[d]
13 <By his spirit> hath he arched the heavens,[e]
His hand hath pierced' the fleeing serpent.[f]
14 Lo! |these| are the fringes of his way,[g]
And what a whisper of a word hath been heard of him!
But <the thunder of his might> who could understand?[h]

27 1 And Job again took up his measure, and said:—
2 <As God liveth' who hath taken away my right,
Even the Almighty, who hath embittered my soul;
3 All the while my inspiration is in me,
And the spirit[i] of God is in my nostrils>
4 Verily my lips shall not speak perversity,
Nor shall ‖my tongue‖ utter deceit.
5 Far be it from me! that I should justify |you|,—
<Even until I breathe my last> will I not let go mine integrity from me:
6 <On my righteousness> have I taken fast hold, and will not give it up,
My heart shall not reproach any of my days.
7 Let mine enemy' be a veritably[k] lawless one!
And ‖he that lifteth himself up against me‖ one veritably[k] perverse!
8 For what shall be the hope of the impious, though he graspeth with greed,
When God shall draw forth his soul?[l]
9 <His outcry> will God hear,
When there cometh upon him distress?
10 Verily <in the Almighty> he will not find delight,
Nor call on God continually![m]
11 I would teach you, by the hand of God,
<That which is with the Almighty> will I not conceal.
12 Lo! ‖ye‖ have |all of you| seen,
Wherefore, then, is' it ‖that ye are utterly without purpose‖?
13 ‖This‖ is the portion of a lawless man with God,
That <the heritage of tyrants—from the Almighty> he shall receive.
14 <If his children be multiplied> ‖for them‖ [there is] the sword,
And ‖his offspring‖ shall not be filled with bread;
15 ‖His survivors‖ <by pestilence> shall come to the grave,
And ‖his widows‖ shall not weep;
16 <Though he heap up silver' like |dust|,
And |like a pile| he prepare clothing>
17 He may prepare, but ‖the righteous‖ shall put on,
And <the silver> shall the innocent apportion.[a]
18 He hath built, like a moth, his house,—
Like a hut, which a watcher' hath made.
19 ‖The rich man‖ shall lie down, and not do it again,[b]
<His eyes> hath he opened, and then is' not.
20 There shall reach him—like waters—‖terrors‖,
<By night> a storm-wind hath stolen him away;
21 An east wind shall lift him up, and he shall depart,
And it shall sweep him away out of his place;
22 And He will cast upon him and not spare,
<Out of his hand> shall he[c] ‖swiftly flee‖;
23 He shall clap over him his hands,
And shall hiss him forth out of his place.

28 1 <Though there is' <for silver> a vein,
And a place for the gold they refine;
2 ‖Iron‖ <out of the ore> is taken,
And ‖stone‖ poureth out copper;
3 <An end> hath one set to the darkness,
And <into every extremity> is ‖he‖ making search,
For the stone of darkness and death-shade;
4 He hath sunken a shaft, away from the inhabitants,
Places forsaken by the foot,
They hang down, <away from men> sway to and fro;
5 ‖As for the earth‖ <out of it> cometh forth bread,
And <under it> is upturned, as it were fire;
6 <The place of sapphires> are the stones thereof,
And it hath ‖nuggets of gold‖:—

8 Ravenous beasts[a] have not made a track thereof,
Neither hath the lion marched thereon:
9 <Upon the flint> hath he thrust forth his hand,
He hath turned up mountains by the roots;
10 <Among the rocks> hath he cut open streams,
And <every precious thing> hath his eye seen:
11 <From trickling> he restraineth |rivers|,
And <some hidden thing> is he bringing out to light>
12 Yet where can Wisdom be found?
And where is the place of understanding?
13 Mortal knoweth not the way[c] thereof,
Neither can it be found in the land of the living;
14 The resounding deep hath said, It is not in me!
And the sea hath said, It is not with me!
15 Pure gold cannot be given in its stead,
Neither can silver be weighed as the value thereof;
16 It cannot be put into the scales against the gold of Ophir,
With costly onyx, or sapphire;
17 Neither gold nor crystal can compare with it,
Nor can the exchange thereof|| be a vessel[d] of pure gold,
18 Coral or crystal cannot be mentioned,
Yea  is wisdom, above red coral;[e]
19 The topaz of Ethiopia cannot compare with it, <Against purest gold> can it not be weighed.

20 Whence then cometh ‖wisdom‖?
And where is the place of understanding?
21 Seeing it hath been hid from the eyes of every living thing,
And <from the bird of the heavens> hath it been concealed?

22 ‖Destruction and death‖ have said,
<With our ears> have we heard the report thereof!
23 ‖God‖ understandeth the way thereof,
And he discerneth the place thereof;
24 For he <unto the ends of the earth> directeth his look,
<Under all the heavens> he seeth;
25 Making <for the wind> a weight,
And <the waters> he proved by measure,
26 <When he made <for the rain> a decree,
And a way for the lightning of thunders>[f]
27 Then‖ saw he it, and declared it,
He settled[g] it, yea also he searched it out;

28 And said to the son of earth,
Lo! <the reverence of the Lord>[a] ‖that‖ is wisdom,
And ‖to avoid evil‖ is understanding.

29 1 And Job again took up his measure, and said:—
2 Oh that it were with me as in the months of old,
As in the days when ‖God‖ used to watch over me;
3 When his lamp shone over my head,
<By whose light> I could go through darkness;
4 As I was, in the days of my prime,[b]
When ‖the intimacy[c] of God‖ was over my tent;
5 While yet the Almighty was with me,
<Round about me> were my young men;
6 When my steps were bathed in milk,
And ‖the rock‖ poured out beside me, rivulets of oil:
7 <When I went out to the gate unto the city,
|In the open place| made ready my seat>
8 Young men saw me, and hid themselves,
And ‖the aged‖ arose—they stood;
9 ‖Rulers‖ restrained speech,
And  laid they on their mouth;
10 ‖The voice of nobles‖ was hushed,
And ‖their tongue‖ <to their palate> did cleave;
11 <When ‖the ear‖ heard>, then it pronounced me happy,
<When ‖the eye‖ saw> then it bare me witness;
12 Because I used to deliver the oppressed who was crying out for aid,
The fatherless also, and him that had no helper;
13 ‖The blessing of him that was ready to perish‖ upon me was wont to descend,
And <the heart of the widow> caused I to sing for joy;
14 <Righteousness> I put on, and it clothed me,[d]
<Like a robe and turban> was my |justice|:
15 <Eyes> became I to the |blind|,
And <feet to the lame> was ‖I‖!
16 <A father> was ‖I‖ to the needy,
And ‖as for the cause which I knew not> I used to search it out;
17 And I shivered the fangs of the perverse,—
And <out of his teeth> I tare the prey.

18 Then said I,
<Like a stem> shall I grow old.[f]
Yea <as the sand>[g] shall I multiply days:
19 ‖My root‖ is laid open to the waters,

And |the dew| shall lodge for the night in my boughs;
20 |Mine honour| shall be young again with me,
And ‖my bow‖ <in my hand> be renewed.

21 <To me> men hearkened, and waited,
And kept silence for my counsel;
22 <After I had spoken> they spake not again,
And <upon them> used my speech to drop;
23 And they waited <as for rain> ‖for me‖,
And <their mouths> they opened wide for the spring-rain;
24 I laughed at them—they lost confidence,
And <the light of my countenance> they suffered not to fail;
25 I chose out their way, and sat chief,—
And abode, as king, in an army,
As one who, to mourners, giveth comfort.

30 1 But ‖now‖ they who are of fewer days than I, have poured derision upon me;
Whose fathers I refused—
To set with the dogs of my flock.
2 <Even the strength of their hands> wherefore' was it mine?
<Upon them> vigour was lost;[a]
3 <In want and hunger> they were lean,[b]—
Who used to gnaw the dry ground,[c]
A dark night of desolation!
4 Who used to pluck off the mallow[d] by the bushes,
With the root of the broom for their food;
5 <Out of the midst> were they driven,
Men shouted after them, as after a thief;
6 <In the fissures> of the ravines[e] had they to dwell,
In holes of dust and crags;
7 <Among the bushes> used they to shriek,[f]
<Under the bramble> were they huddled together:
8 <Sons of the base, yea sons of the nameless>
They were scourged out of the land.
9 But ‖now‖ <their song>[g] have I become,
Yea I serve them for a byword;
10 They abhor me—have put themselves far from me,
And <from my face> have not withheld—spittle!

11 <Because |my[h] girdle|[i] he had loosened and had humbled me>
Therefore <the bridle—in my presence> cast they off;
12 <On my right hand> the young brood rose up,—
<My feet> they thrust aside,
And cast up against me their earthworks of destruction;
13 They brake up my path,—
<My engulphing ruin> they helped forward |unaided|;
14 <As through a wide breach> came they on,
<With a crashing noise> they rolled themselves along.

15 There are turned upon me terrors,—
|Chased away as with a wind| is mine abundance,
And <as a cloud> hath passed away my prosperity.

16 ‖Now‖ therefore <over myself> my soul poureth itself out,
There seize me days of affliction:
17 ‖Night‖ boreth |my bones| all over me,—
And ‖my sinews‖ find no rest;
18 <Most effectually> is my skin' disfigured,[a]—
<Like the collar[b] of my tunic>[c] it girdeth me about:[d]
19 He hath cast me into the mire,
And I have become like dust and ashes.
20 I cry out for help unto thee, and thou dost not answer,[e]
I stand still, and thou dost gaze at me;
21 Thou art turned to become a cruel one unto me,
<With the might of thy hand> thou assailest me;
22 Thou liftest up me to the wind, thou carriest me away,
And the storm maketh me faint;[f]
23 For I know that <unto death> thou wilt bring me back,[g]
Even unto the house[h] of meeting for every one living.
24 Only <against a heap of ruins> will one not thrust a hand!
Surely <when one is in calamity—for that very reason> is there an outcry for help.

25 Verily I wept, for him whose lot was hard,
Grieved was my soul, for the needy.

26 Surely <for good> I looked, but there came in evil,
And I waited for light, but there came in darkness;
27 I boiled within me,[k] and rested not,
There confronted me—days of affliction;
28 <In gloom> I walked along, without sun,
I arose—<in the convocation> I cried out for help;
29 <A brother> became I to the brutes that howl,
And a companion' to the birds that screech:
30 ‖My skin‖ turned black, and peeled off me,
And ‖my bones‖ burned with heat:
31 Thus is attuned to mourning—my lyre,
And my flute, to the noise of them who weep.

31 1 <A covenant> I solemnised for[a] mine eyes,—
How then could I gaze upon a virgin?
2 Or what would have been my portion of God from above?
Or what inheritance of the Almighty from on high?
3 Is there not calamity, for the perverse?
And misfortune, for the workers of iniquity?
4 Would ‖he‖ not see my ways?
And <of all my steps> take account?

5 Verily I walked not in falsity,
Nor did my foot' haste unto deceit:—
6 Let him weigh me in balances of righteousness,—

And <instead of barley> a bad-smelling weed!

Ended are the words of Job.

Elihu, a Young Man, perceiving the Failure of Job's Three Friends to answer the Afflicted One, thinks to succeed where they have failed, and makes a Series of Eloquent Speeches.

32 1 So these three men ceased to respond to Job, because ‖he‖ was righteous in their[b] eyes. 2 Then was kindled the anger of Elihu, son of Barachel the Buzite of the family of Ram, —<against Job> was kindled his anger, because he justified his own soul rather than God; 3 and <against his three friends> was kindled his anger, —because that they found not a response, and condemned God.[c] 4 But ‖Elihu‖ had waited for Job with words, because the others were older' than he. 5 Howbeit <when Elihu saw that there was no' response in the mouth of the three men> then was kindled his anger. 6 So then Elihu, son of Barachel, the Buzite, responded and said:—

|Young| am I', whereas ‖ye‖ are aged,
<For this cause> I faltered, and feared—
To shew my knowledge unto you:
7 I said,
‖Days‖ should speak,—
And ‖the multitude of years‖ should make known wisdom.
8 ‖Yet surely‖ there is a spirit in men,
And ‖the inspiration of the Almighty‖ giveth them understanding;
9 ‖Great men‖ may not' be wise',
Nor ‖elders‖ understand justice.
10 ‖Therefore‖ I said,
Hearken unto me,
I will shew my knowledge—‖even I‖.
11 Lo! I waited for your words,
I kept giving ear for your reasons,
Until ye should search out what to say;
12 Yea <unto you> gave I diligent heed,—
But lo! there was, for Job, nothing to convince,
Nor could one of you answer his speeches.
13 <Lest ye should say, We have found out wisdom>.
‖God‖ must put him to flight, not man.
14 <Since he directed not to me' discourse>
Therefore <with your speeches> will I not reply to him.

15 They were dismayed, they responded no more,
They suffered speech to forsake them;
16 <Though I waited> yet could they not speak,
Surely they came to a stand, they responded no more.

17 I will respond ‖even I—on my part‖,
I will shew my knowledge, ‖even I‖!
18 For I am full of discourse,
The spirit in my bosom |presseth me on|.
19 Lo! ‖my bosom‖ is like wine not opened,
<Like new wine-skins> it will burst.
20 I will speak, that I may freely breathe,
I will open my lips and respond.
21 Let me be partial to no man,
And <unto no son of earth> give flattering titles,
22 Surely I know not how to give flattering titles,
How soon' might my Maker' take me away!

33 1 But <in very deed> hear, I pray thee, Job, my discourse,
And <to all my words> give thou ear.
2 Lo! I pray thee, I have opened my mouth,
My tongue, with my palate, hath spoken.
3 Mine utterances come straight from mine own heart,
And <what I know> my lips have truly spoken;
4 ‖The spirit of God‖ hath made me,
And ‖the inspiration of the Almighty‖ giveth me life.
5 <If thou art able to answer me>
Set in order before me—take thy stand!
6 Lo! I' am like thyself' toward God,
<From clay>[a] have I been nipped off[b] ‖even I‖!
7 Lo! ‖my terror‖ will not startle thee,[c]
Nor ‖my hand‖[d] |upon thee| be heavy.

8 But thou hast spoken in mine ears,
And <the sound of words> I heard:—
9 Pure' am |I|, without transgression,—
Clean' am ‖I‖, and have no iniquity;
10 Lo! <occasions of hostility> would he find against' me,
He counteth[e] me an enemy to him;

11 He putteth—in the stocks—my feet,
He watcheth all my paths.
12 Lo! <in this> thou hast not been right—let me answer thee,
For |God| is greater than |man|.
13 Wherefore <against him> hast thou contended?
For <with none of his reasons> will he respond.

14 For <in one way> God may speak,—
And <in a second way> one may not heed it:—
15 <In a dream, a vision[a] of the night,
When a deep sleep falleth upon men,
In slumberings upon the bed>
16 ||Then|| uncovereth he the ear of men,
And <on their correction> affixeth a seal;
17 To turn a son of earth from his[b] deed,
While yet <pride> from man he concealeth:
18 He keepeth back his soul' from the pit,
And his life' from passing away by a weapon.

19 Or he is chastised with pain, upon his bed,
And ||the strife of his bones|| is unceasing!
20 So that his life maketh loathsome [his] food,
And his soul', dainty meat;
21 His flesh wasteth away out of sight,
And bared are the bones once unseen;
22 So doth his soul' draw near to the pit,
And his life' to the inflicters of death:[c]

23 <If there hath been near him a messenger who could interpret—[d]
One of a thousand,
To declare to the son of earth His uprightness>[e]
24 Then hath he shewed him favour, and said,
Set him free[f] from going down to the pit,
I have found a price of redemption!
25 His flesh hath been made fresher than a child's,[g]
He hath returned to the days of his youth;
26 He made supplication unto God, who hath accepted him,
And he hath beheld his face with a shout of triumph,
Thus hath he given back to man his righteousness.
27 He sang before men, and said,
I sinned, and <uprightness> I perverted,
Yet he requited me not;
28 He hath ransomed my[h] soul from passing away into the pit,—
And ||my[i] life|| <in the light> shall have vision.

29 Lo! <all these things> doth God work,
Two ways, three, with a man;
30 To bring back his soul from the pit,
To enlighten with the light of the living.[a]

31 Mark well, O Job, and hearken to me,
Be silent, and ||I|| will speak:
32 <If there is anything to say> reply to me,
Speak, for I desire to justify thee;
33 <If not> do ||thou|| hearken unto me,
Be silent, that I may teach thee wisdom.

34

1 Furthermore Elihu responded, and said:—
2 Hear, ye wise men, my words,
And ||ye who know|| give ear unto me;
3 For ||the ear|| trieth words,
As ||the palate|| tasteth in eating.
4 <What is right> let us choose for ourselves,
Let us know, among ourselves, what is good;
5 For Job hath said—
I am righteous,
But ||God|| hath turned away my right;
6 <Concerning mine own right> shall I tell a falsehood?
Incurable' is my disease—not for any transgression.
7 What man is like Job?
He drinketh in scoffing like water;
8 And is on the way to keep company, with the workers of iniquity,
And to walk with lawless men.
9 For he hath said,
It profiteth not a man,
When ||his good pleasure|| is with God.
10 Wherefore, ye men of mind,[b] hearken unto me,—
Far be it, that ||God|| should be lawless,
Or ||the Almighty|| be perverse!
11 For <what any son of earth doeth> he repayeth him,
And <according to every man's course> he causeth him to find.
12 ||Nay, verily|| |God| will not condemn unjustly,—
Nor ||the Almighty|| pervert justice.
13 Who' set him in charge of the earth?[c]
Or who' appointed [him] the whole world?
14 <If he should set against him his heart,
<His spirit and his inspiration> |unto himself| he should withdraw>
15 All flesh together' |would cease to breathe|,
And ||the earth-born|| |unto dust| would return.[d]

16 <If then [thou hast] understanding> hear this,
Give thou ear to the teaching[e] of my words:—
17 Shall ||the very hater of right|| control?
Or <the just—the mighty one> wilt thou condemn?

18 Doth one say to a king, Abandoned one![a]
Or Lawless one! unto nobles?
19 For he hath shewn no respect of persons unto princes,
Neither hath he recognised the rich rather than the poor?
For <the work of his hands> are they all.
20 <In a moment> they die, even in the middle of the night,—
A people are convulsed when they pass away,
A mighty one is removed[b] ‖without hand‖;
21 For ‖his eyes‖ are on the ways of a man,
And <all his footsteps> he beholdeth,—
22 No' darkness, and no' death-shade,
Where the workers of iniquity' may hide.
23 For <unto no man> doth he appoint a repetition,—
In going unto God, in judgment;
24 He shattereth mighty ones unsearchably,
And setteth up others in their stead:
25 |Therefore| he observeth their works,—
And overturneth [them] in a night, and they are crushed;
26 <In the place of lawless men> hath he chastised them,
In presence of beholders.
27 ‖Forasmuch‖ as they turned from following him,
And <none of his ways> did they teach;
28 Causing to reach him the outcry of the poor,
Yea <the outcry of the oppressed> he heareth.
29 <When ‖he‖ giveth quiet> who then shall condemn?
And <when he hideth [his] face> who then shall sing of him?
Whether unto a nation or unto mankind altogether,
30 That impious men may not reign,
Nor be ensnarers of the people.
31 For <unto God> hath one [ever] said—
I have borne punishment,
I will not be perverse;
32 <What I see not> do ‖thou‖ shew me,
<If ‖perverseness‖ I have wrought> I will do it no more?
33 <According to thy mind> must he requite it, that thou hast refused?
For ‖thou‖ must choose, and not ‖I‖,
<What then thou knowest> speak!
34 ‖The men of mind‖ will say to me,
Yea any wise man hearkening unto me:—
35 ‖Job‖ <without knowledge> doth speak,
And ‖his words‖ are not with discretion.
36 Would that Job might be tested to the uttermost,[c]
For replying' with the men of iniquity:
37 For he addeth—unto his sin—|rebellion|,
<In our midst> he clappeth his hands,
And multiplieth his sayings against God.

35
1 Moreover Elihu responded, and said:—
2 <This> dost thou think to be right?
Thou hast said—
My righteousness is more than God's.
3 For thou dost say,
How can one profit by thee?
How can I benefit, more than by my sin?
4 ‖I‖ will answer thee plainly,[a]
And thy friends[b] with thee.
5 Look at the heavens and see,—
And survey the skies—they are higher than thou.
6 <If thou sinnest> what canst thou work against him?
Or <if thy transgressions be multiplied> what canst thou do unto him?
7 <If thou art righteous> what canst thou give unto him?
Or what <at thy hand> can he accept?
8 <Unto a man like thyself> might thy lawlessness [reach],
And <unto a son of the earth-born> thy righteousness.
9 <By reason of the multitude of oppressions> [men] make outcry,
They cry for help, by reason of the arm of the mighty;[c]
10 But none saith—
Where is God my maker,
Who giveth songs in the night;
11 Who teacheth us more than the beasts of the earth,
And <beyond the bird of the heavens> giveth us wisdom?
12 ‖There‖ [men] make outcry, and he answereth not,
Because of the arrogance of evil-doers.
13 Howbeit <vanity> will God not hear,
Yea ‖the Almighty‖ will not regard it.
14 How much less when thou sayest thou wilt not regard him!
‖The cause‖ is before him, and thou must wait for him.
15 But ‖now‖ <because it is not so> [thou sayest]—
His anger hath punished,
And yet hath he not at all known of transgression;[d]
16 Thus ‖Job‖ vainly' openeth his mouth,
<Without knowledge> he multiplieth words.

36
1 And Elihu added and said:—
2 Restrain thyself for me a little, and I will shew thee,
That <yet—for God> there is justification.[e]
3 I will bring my knowledge from afar,
And <to my Maker> will I attribute righteousness.
4 For <of a truth—not false> are my words,
‖One of competent knowledge‖ is with thee.

[c] Or: "multitudes."
[d] Other renderings of this verse have been proposed.
[e] Ml.: "yet for G. are there words."

5 Lo! ‖God‖ is mighty, yet will he not despise,
Mighty' in vigour of mind;[a]
6 He will not keep alive one who is lawless,
But <the right of oppressed ones> will he grant;
7 He will not withdraw—from a righteous one—his eyes,—
But <with kings on the throne>
He hath seated men[b] triumphantly, and they have been exalted.
8 But <if, bound in fetters,
They have been captured with cords of affliction>
9 Then hath he declared to them their deed,
And their transgressions — that they were wont to behave themselves proudly;
10 Thus hath he uncovered their ear to a warning,
And said — that they should turn from iniquity.
11 <If they would hearken, and serve>
They should complete their days, in prosperity,
And their years, in pleasantness;
12 But <if they would not hearken>
|By a weapon| should they pass away,
And breathe their last, no one knowing.
13 Yea ‖the impious in heart‖ should store up anger,[c]
They should not cry for help, when he bound them.
14 Their soul should die in youth,
And their life, among the unclean.[d]
15 He would deliver the humbled in his humiliation,
And would uncover—in oppression—their ear.
16 Yea he might even have allured thee—
Out of the mouth of straitness,
[Into] a wide space—no narrowness there,—
And ‖the food set down on thy table‖ should have been full of fatness.
17 But <with the plea[e] of a lawless one> thou art full,
‖Plea[e] and sentence‖ will take fast hold.
18 <Because there is wrath>
[Beware] lest he take thee away with a stroke,
Then let not ‖a great ransom‖ mislead thee.
19 Will he value thy riches?
Nay not precious ore,
Nor all the forces of strength.
20 Do not pant for the night,
When peoples disappear from their place.
21 Beware, do not turn unto iniquity,
For <this> thou hast chosen rather than affliction.
22 Lo ‖God‖ exalteth himself by his strength,
Who' like him' doth teach?
23 Who' enjoined on him' his way?
And who' ever said,
Thou hast wrought perversity?
24 Remember, that thou extol his work,
Of which men have sung;
25 ‖Every son of earth‖ hath viewed it,
‖Mortal man‖ looketh at it from afar.
26 Lo ‖God‖ is greater than we can know,
<The number of his years> even past finding out!
27 For he draweth up drops of water,
They trickle as rain through his mist:
28 With which the clouds flow down,
They drop on man in abundance.
29 But surely none can understand the burstings[a] of the cloud,
The crashing of his pavilion!
30 Lo! he hath spread out over it, his lightning,
<The bed of the sea> hath he covered.
31 For <by those things> he executeth judgment on peoples,
He giveth food in abundance:
32 <Upon both hands> he putteth a covering of lightning,
And layeth command upon it against an assailant:
33 His rolling thunder telleth concerning him,—
The cattle, even, concerning him that is coming up.[b]

37 1 Yea <at this> my heart quaketh,
And starteth up out of its place.
2 Hear! oh hear! the raging of his voice,
‖A growling sound also‖ <out of his mouth> goeth forth:
3 <Under the whole heavens> he letteth it loose,
|His lightning also| unto the wings[c] of the earth;
4 <After it> roareth a voice,
He thundereth with his voice of majesty,
Nor will he hold them back, when his voice is heard.
5 God thundereth with his voice, wonderfully,
Doing great things, which we cannot know;
6 For <to the snow> he saith, Fall earthwards,—
Also to the downpour of rain, yea the downpour of his mighty rains.
7 <On the hand of every man> he setteth a seal,
That all men may take note of his doing.[d]
8 So then the wild-beast hath gone into covert,
And <in its lairs> doth it remain.
9 <Out of a chamber cometh a storm-wind,
And <out of the north>[e] cold.
10 <By the breath of God> is given—frost,
And ‖the breadth of waters‖ is congealed;[f]
11 Also <with moisture> burdeneth he the thick cloud,
He disperseth his lightning'-cloud;

12 Yea ‖the same‖ <in circles> turneth itself to and fro, by his steering them to their work, Whithersoever he commandeth them, over the face of the world, towards the earth.[a] 13 Whether <as a rod, or for his earth,
Or in lovingkindness> he causeth it to come.

14 Give thou ear unto this, O Job,
Stay, and consider well the wonders of
God:—
15 Canst thou get to know of God's giving charge over them,
Or of the causing of the lightning of his cloud to shine forth?
16 Canst thou get to know concerning[b] the poisings[c] of the thick cloud,
The wonders of one who is perfect in knowledge?
17 That thy garments should be hot when he quieteth the earth from the south?
18 Didst thou spread out, with him, the skies,
Strong as a molten mirror?
19 Let us[d] know what we shall say to him,
We cannot set in order, by reason of darkness.
20 Shall it be declared to him—that I would speak?
<Were any man to say aught> he might be destroyed?[e]
21 Yet ‖now‖ men see not the light,
Bright' though it is' in the skies,
When ‖a wind‖ hath passed over, and cleansed them.
22 <Out of the north> a golden light[f] cometh,
<Upon God> is fearful splendour:
23 ‖The Almighty, whom we have not fully found out, is great in vigour,— Neither <justice nor abounding righteousness> will he weaken.[g]
24 ‖Therefore‖ do men revere him,
He will not regard any who are wise in heart.[h]

A Divine Voice Interposes.

38 1 Then Yahweh responded to Job, out of a storm, and said:—

2 Who' is' it that darkeneth counsel,
By words, without knowledge?
3 Gird, I pray thee—like a strong man—thy loins,
That I may ask thee,[i] and inform thou me:

4 Where wast thou, when I founded the earth?
Tell, if thou knowest understanding!
5 Who' set the measurements thereof, if thou knowest?[k]
Or who' stretched out over it a line?
6 Whereon' were the pedestals thereof sunk?
Or who laid the corner stone thereof;—
7 When the morning stars sang together,
And all the sons of God shouted for joy?
8 Or [who] shut in, with double doors,[a] the sea,
When, bursting out of the womb, it came forth;
9 When I put a cloud as the garment thereof,
And a thick cloud as the swaddling-band
thereof;
10 And brake off for it my boundary,[b]
And fixed a bar and double doors;
11 And said—
<Hitherto> shalt thou come, and no further,—
And <here> shalt thou[c] set a limit to the majesty of thy waves?

12 <Since thy days [began] hast thou commanded the morning?
Or caused the dawn to know its place;
13 That it might lay hold of the wings[d] of the earth,
And the lawless be shaken out of it?
14 It transformeth itself like the clay of a seal,
So that things stand forth, like one arrayed;
15 That their light may be withdrawn from the lawless,
And ‖the lofty arm‖ be shivered.

16 Hast thou entered as far as the springs of the sea?
Or <through the secret recesses of the resounding deep> hast thou wandered?
17 Have the gates of death been disclosed to thee?
And <the gates of the death-shade> couldst thou descry?
18 Hast thou well considered, even the breadths
of the earth?
Tell—if thou knowest it all!
19 Where then is the way, the light shall abide?[e]
And <the darkness> where then is its place?
20 That thou mayest conduct it unto the bound
thereof,
And that thou mayest perceive the paths to its house.
21 Thou knowest, for <then> hadst thou been born!
And <in number> thy days are many!

22 Hast thou entered into the treasuries of the snow?
And <the treasuries of the hail> couldst thou see?
23 Which I have reserved for a time of distress,
For the day of conflict and of war?
24 Where then is the way the lightning is parted?
The east wind spreadeth itself abroad over
the earth.
25 Who' hath cloven—for the torrent—a channel?
Or a way for the lightning of thunders;[f]

<The shoutings of the driver> he heareth not;
8 He espieth the mountains, his pasture-ground,
And <after every green thing> maketh search.
9 Will the Wild-Ox[b] be pleased to be thy servant?
Or lodge for the night by thy crib?
10 Canst thou bind the wild-ox, so that—with the ridge—shall run his cord?
Or will he harrow the furrows[c] after thee?
11 Wilt thou trust in him, because of the greatness of his strength?
Wilt thou leave unto him thy toil?
12 Wilt thou put faith in him, that he will bring back thy seed?
And that <corn for thy threshing-floor> he will gather?
13 <The wing of the Ostrich that waveth itself joyfully>
Is it the pinion of lovingkindness[d] or the plumage?
14 For she leaveth—to the earth—her eggs,
And <on the dust> she letteth them be warmed;
15 And hath forgotten, that ‖a foot‖ may crush them,[e]—
Or ‖the wild beast‖ tread on them![e]
16 Dealing hardly with her young, as none-of-hers,
<In vain> her labour, without dread.
17 For GOD hath suffered her to forget wisdom,
And given her no share in understanding.
18 <What time, on high, she vibrateth her wings>[f]
She laugheth at the horse and his rider.
19 Couldst thou give—to the Horse—strength?
Couldst thou clothe his neck with the quivering mane?
20 Couldst thou cause him to leap like a locust?
‖The majesty of his snort‖ is a terror!
21 He diggeth[g] into the plain, and rejoiceth in vigour,
He goeth forth to meet armour;
22 He laugheth at dread, and is not dismayed,
Neither turneth he back, from the face of the sword;

23 <Against him> whiz [the arrows of] the quiver,
The flashing head of spear and javelin;
24 <With stamping and rage> he drinketh up[a] the ground,—
He will not stand still when the horn soundeth;
25 <As oft as the horn soundeth> he saith, Aha!
And <from afar> he scenteth the battle,—
The thunder of commanders and the war-cry.

26 Is it <by thine understanding> that the Bird of Passage betaketh him to his pinions?[b]
Spreadeth out his wings[c] to the south?

27 Or <at thy bidding> that the Eagle'[d] mounteth,
And that he setteth on high his nest?
28 <The crag> he inhabiteth, and so lodgeth himself,
On the tooth of the crag, and high fort;
29 <From thence> he searcheth out food,
<Far away> his eyes do pierce;
30 And ‖his young brood‖ suck up blood,
And <where the slain are> ‖there‖ is he!

The Divine Voice again speaks.

40 1 And Yahweh responded to Job, and said:—

2 Shall a reprover contend ‖with the Almighty‖?
<He that disputeth with God> let him answer it!

Job humbles himself.

3 Then Job responded to Yahweh, and said:—

4 Lo! I am of no account, what shall I reply to thee?
<My hand> have I laid on my mouth:
5 <Once> have I spoken, but I will not proceed,[e]
Yea twice, but[f] I will not add.

The Divine Voice resumes.

6 So then Yahweh responded to Job, out of a storm, and said:—

7 Gird, I pray thee—as a strong man—thy loins,
I will ask thee, and inform thou me.

8 Wilt thou even frustrate my justice?
Wilt thou condemn me, that thou mayest appear right?
9 <But if <an arm like God> thou hast,
And <with a voice like his> thou canst thunder>
10 Deck thyself, I pray thee, with majesty and grandeur,
Yea <with dignity and splendour> thou shalt clothe thyself;
11 Pour out thy transports of anger,
And look on every one who is high, and lay him low;
12 Look on every one who is high, and humble him,
Yea tread down the lawless, on the spot:[a]
13 Hide them in the dust all together,
<Their faces> bind thou in darkness;
14 And ‖even I myself‖ will praise thee,
In that thine own right hand can bring thee salvation.

15 Behold, I pray thee, the Hippopotamus, which I made with thee,
<Grass—like the ox> he eateth;
16 Behold, I pray thee, his strength in his loins,
And his force, in the muscles of his belly;
17 He bendeth down[b] his tail like a cedar,
<The sinews of his thighs> are twisted together;
18 ‖His bones‖ are barrels of bronze,
‖His frame‖ is like hammered bars of iron:
19 ‖He‖ is the beginning[c] of the ways of God,
‖Let his maker‖ present him his sword:[d]
20 Surely the mountains bring ‖produce‖ to him,
Where ‖all the wild beasts of the field‖ do play;
21 <Under the lotus-trees> he lieth down,
In a covert of reed and swamp;
22 The lotus-trees cover him with their shade,
The willows of the torrent-bed compass him about;
23 Lo! the river[e] becometh insolent—he is not alarmed![f]
He is confident, though a Jordan burst forth to his mouth:
24 <Before his eyes> shall he be caught?
<With a hook> can one pierce his nose?

41 1 Canst thou draw out the Crocodile[g] with a fish-hook?
Or <with a cord> canst thou fasten down his tongue?
2 Wilt thou put a rush-cord on his nose?
Or <with a thorn> wilt thou pierce his jaw?
3 Will he multiply unto thee supplications,
Or will he speak unto thee softly?
4 Will he solemnise a covenant with thee?
Wilt thou take him for a life-long servant?[h]
5 Wilt thou sport with him, as with a little bird?
Or wilt thou bind him, for thy maidens?
6 Shall the companions bargain over him?
Or will they part him among the traders?
7 Wilt thou fill, with darts, his skin?
Or, with fish-spears, his head?

Remember the battle—no more!
9 Lo! ‖any hope of him‖ hath been found deceptive,
<Even at the sight of him> shall not one be overwhelmed?
10 ‖None so bold‖ that he will rouse him!
Who' then is he' that <before me> can stand?[a] 11 Who' hath forestalled me, that I may repay him?
<Under all the heavens> mine' it is!
12 I will not pass by in silence his parts,
Or the matter of strength, or the grace of his armour.[b]
13 Who' hath removed his outer garment,
<Through his double row of teeth> who' would enter?
14 <The doors of his face> who' hath opened?
‖The circles of his teeth‖ are a terror!
15 ‖A pride‖ are his arched sides,[c]
Closed up, with a firm seal;[d]
16 <One to another> they join,
And ‖air‖ cannot enter between them;
17 <Each to its fellow> they cleave,
They grasp each other, and cannot be parted;
18 ‖His sneezings‖ flash forth light,
And ‖his eyes‖ are like the eyelashes of the dawn;
19 <Out of his mouth> torches dart forth,
‖Sparks of fire‖ escape;
20 <Out of his nostrils> proceedeth smoke,
Like a blown pot and rushes;
21 ‖His breath‖ setteth coals ablaze,
And ‖a flame‖ |out of his mouth| proceedeth;
22 <In his neck> lodgeth strength,
And <before him> danceth dismay;
23 ‖The dewlaps of his flesh‖ cleave together,
<Hardened upon him> they cannot be moved;
24 ‖His heart‖ is hardened like a stone,
Yea hardened, |like the nether millstone|;
25 <At his rising up> mighty men are afraid,
<By reason of terror> they are beside themselves:
26 <As for him that assaileth him> the sword availeth not,[e]
Spear, dart, or coat of mail:
27 He counteth iron' as broken straw,
And bronze' as rotten' wood':
28 The arrow[f] |will not make him flee|,
<Into chaff> are sling-stones' changed by him:
29 <As a straw> is a club' accounted,
And he laugheth at the whir of the javelin;
30 ‖His underparts‖ are points of potsherd,
A pointed threshing roller spreadeth out upon the slime;
31 He causeth to boil, as a cauldron, the raging deep,
<The sea> he maketh like a brewing vessel:[a]
32 <After him> he lighteth up a path,
One might think the resounding deep to be hoary!
33 There is not'—upon the dust—his like,
That hath been made to be without fear;[b]
34 <Every thing lofty> he beholdeth,
‖He‖ is king over all ravenous beasts.[c]

Job again humbles himself.

42 1 Then Job responded to Yahweh, and said:—
2 I know[d] that <all things> thou canst do,
And that no purpose can be withholden from thee.
3 Who is' it that hideth[e] counsel without knowledge?
|Therefore| have I declared, but not understood,
Things too wonderful for me, which I could not know.
4 Hear thou, I pray thee, and |I| will speak,
I will ask thee, and inform thou me.
5 <By the hearing of the ear> had I heard thee,
But ‖now‖ |mine own eye| hath seen thee.
6 <For this cause> I tremble[f] and repent,
On dust and ashes.

A Divine Adjustment between Job and his Three Friends.

7 And it came to pass <after Yahweh had spoken these words unto Job> that Yahweh said unto Eliphaz the Temanite,
Kindled is mine anger against thee and against thy two friends, for ye have not spoken concerning me the thing that is right, like my servant Job.
8 ‖Now‖ therefore, take unto you seven bullocks and seven rams, and go unto my servant Job, and ye shall offer up an ascending-sacrifice in your own behalf, and ‖Job my servant‖ shall pray over you,—for <him> will I accept,[g] that I may not deal out to you disgrace, because ye have not spoken concerning me the thing that is right, like my servant Job.
9 So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite [and][h] Zophar the Naamathite went, and did' according to that which Yahweh

Job restored to Prosperity.

10 And ‖Yahweh himself‖ turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed in behalf of his friends, —and Yahweh increased all that Job had possessed, unto twice as much.

11 Then came unto him all his brethren and all his sisters, and all his former acquaintances, and they did eat bread with him in his house,— and shewed sympathy with him and comforted him, over all the calamity which Yahweh had brought upon him,—and they gave him, every one a weight[b] of money, and every one, a ring of gold.

12 And ‖Yahweh‖ blessed the latter end of Job, more than his beginning,—and so he came to have fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she-asses. 13 And he came to have seven sons, and three daughters; 14 and he called the name of the first Jemima, and the name of the second Kezia, — and the name of the third, Keren-happuch. 15 And there were found no women so fair as the daughters of Job, in all the land, — and their father gave them an inheritance, in the midst of their brethren. 16 And Job lived, after this, a hundred and forty years,[a]—and saw his sons and his sons' sons, four generations. 17 So Job died, old and satisfied with days.

THE PSALMS.

BOOK THE FIRST.

PSALM 1.

1 How happy the man[a]
Who hath not walked in the counsel of the lawless,—
And <in the way of sinners> hath not stood,
And <in the seat of scoffers> hath not sat;
2 But <in the law[b] of Yahweh> is his delight,—
And <in his law>[b] doth he talk with himself day and night.[c]

3 So doth he become like a tree' planted by streams of waters,—
That yieldeth ‖its fruit‖ in its season,
‖Whose leaf‖ also doth not wither,
And ‖whatsoever he doeth‖ prospereth.

4 ‖Not so‖ the lawless,—
But as chaff which is driven about by the wind:
5 <For this cause> shall the lawless not stand[d] in the judgment,—
Nor sinners' in the assembly of the righteous.

6 For Yahweh doth acknowledge'[e] the way of the righteous;
But ‖the way of the lawless‖ shall vanish.[f]

PSALM 2.

1 Wherefore' have nations assembled in tumult?
Or should ‖peoples‖ mutter an empty thing?

2 The kings of earth take their station,
And ‖grave men‖ have met by appointment[a] together,—
Against Yahweh
And against his Anointed One [saying]:
3 Let us break asunder their bonds,—
And cast from us their cords!

4 ‖He that sitteth in the heavens‖ will laugh,—
‖My Lord‖[b] will mock at them:[c]
5 ‖Then‖ will he speak unto them in his anger,
And <in his wrath> confound them:
6 Yet ‖I‖ have installed[d] my king,—
On Zion my holy' mountain.

7 Let me tell of a decree,—
‖Yahweh‖ hath said unto me,
<My son> thou art',
‖I‖ <to-day> have begotten thee:
8 Ask of me, and let me give Nations' as thine inheritance,
And <as thy possession> the ends of the earth:
9 Thou shalt shepherd them[e] with a sceptre of iron,—
<As a potter's vessel> shalt thou dash them in pieces.

[d] So O.G. 651.
[e] So it shd be (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.)—G.n. [M.C.T. has: "break them in pieces."]

10 ‖Now‖ therefore, ye kings, shew your prudence,
Be admonished, ye judges of earth:
11 Serve Yahweh with reverence,
And exult with trembling:
12 Kiss the son,[a] lest he be angry, and ye perish by the way,
For soon' might be kindled his anger,—
How happy are all who seek refuge in him!

PSALM 3.

A Melody of David, when he fled from before Absolom his son.[b]

1 Yahweh! how have mine adversaries multiplied, ‖Multitudes‖ are rising against me;
2 ‖Multitudes‖ are saying of my soul,—
No' salvation for him in God. [Selah.[c]

3 But ‖thou, Yahweh‖ art a shield about me,
My glory, and the lifter up of my head.

4 <With my voice—unto Yahweh> do I cry,
And he hath answered me out of his holy' mountain. [Selah.

5 ‖I‖ laid me down and slept,— I awoke,
Surely ‖Yahweh‖ sustaineth me!
6 I will not be afraid of myriads of people,
Who <round about> have set themselves against me.
7 Rise! Yahweh, Save' me, my God.
Surely thou hast smitten all my foes on the cheekbone,
<The teeth of the lawless> hast thou broken.

8 <To Yahweh> belongeth Salvation![d]
<Upon thy people> be thy blessing. [Selah.

PSALM 4.

To the Chief Musician:[e] with stringed instruments. A Melody of David.

1 <When I cry> answer me, O mine own righteous' God,[f]
<In a strait place> thou hast made room for me,
Shew me favour, and hear my prayer.

2 Ye sons of the great! how long, turning my glory to contempt,
Will ye love emptiness, will ye seek falsehood? [Selah.
3 Know ye, then, that Yahweh hath set apart[g] the man of lovingkindness for himself:
‖Yahweh‖ will hear, when I cry to him.

4 Be deeply moved, but do not sin,—
Ponder in your own heart upon your bed, and be silent. [Selah.

5 Sacrifice the sacrifices of righteousness;
And put your trust in Yahweh.

6 |Multitudes| are saying,
Who will shew us prosperity?
Lift thou upon us the light of thy countenance, O Yahweh.
7 Thou hast put gladness in my heart,—
Beyond the season when ‖their corn and their new wine‖ have increased.
8 <In peace> will I lay me down and at once sleep;
For ‖thou, Yahweh alone‖ wilt cause me <in security> to dwell.

PSALM 5.

To the Chief Musician. For the Flutes.[a] A Melody of David.

1 <To my words> give ear, O Yahweh,
Understand thou my softly murmured prayer:
2 Attend to the voice of my cry, my King and my God,
For <unto thee> do I pray.
3 O Yahweh! <in the morning> shalt thou hear my voice,
<In the morning> will I set in order unto thee, and keep watch;
4 For <not a God finding pleasure in awlessness> art thou',
And wrong' can be no guest of thine:
5 |Boasters| shall not station' themselves |before thine eyes|,—
Thou hatest all workers of iniquity:
6 Thou wilt destroy' them who speak falsehood,—
<The man of bloodshed and of deceit> Yahweh abhorreth.

7 But ‖I‖ <in the abounding of thy lovingkindness> will enter thy house,
I will bow down towards thy holy temple, in reverence of thee.

8 O Yahweh! lead me in thy righteousness, because of mine adversaries,
Make even, before me, thy way:
9 For in his mouth is nothing worthy of trust,[b]
‖Their inward purpose‖[c] is engulphing ruin,—
<An opened sepulchre> is their throat,
<With their tongue> speak they smooth things.
10 Declare them guilty, O God,
Let them fall by their own counsels,—
<Into the throng of their own transgressions> thrust them down,
For they have rebelled against thee:—
11 That all may rejoice' who seek refuge in thee,
<To times age-abiding> may shout in triumph, that thou wilt protect them,
And they' may leap for joy in thee' who are lovers of thy Name.

PSALM 6.

To the Chief Musician, with stringed Instruments upon the eighth.[b] A Melody of David.

1 O Yahweh! do not <in thine anger> correct me,
Nor <in thy wrath> chastise me.
2 Shew me favour, O Yahweh, for languishing' am I':
Heal me, O Yahweh,—for dismayed are my bones:
3 Yea ‖my soul‖[c] is dismayed greatly,
‖Thou, then, O Yahweh‖—how long?
4 Return, O Yahweh, deliver my soul,
Save me, for the sake of thy lovingkindness;
5 For <in death> is no' remembrance of thee,—
<In hades> who shall give thanks unto thee?
6 I am weary with my sighing,
I flood, through the whole night, my couch,—
<With my tears> I cause |my bed| to dissolve:
7 My face |is all sunken with sorrow|,[d]—
It hath aged, because of all mine adversaries.

8 Depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity,
For Yahweh hath heard' the voice of my weeping:
9 Yahweh hath heard' my supplication,
‖Yahweh‖ will receive |my prayer|.
10 Let all my foes' |turn pale and be greatly dismayed|,
Again' let them turn pale in a moment.

PSALM 7.

An Ode[e] of David: which he sang unto Yahweh, on account of the words of Cush the Benjamite.

1 O Yahweh my God, <in thee> have I sought refuge,—
Save me from all my pursuers, and deliver me:
2 Lest one tear, as a lion, my soul,—
And there be no deliverer[f] to rescue.

3 O Yahweh my God
<If I have done this,
If there hath been perversity in my hands:
4 If I have requited my friend with wrong,—
Or have oppressed[g] mine adversary without need>
5 Let an enemy pursue my soul, and overtake it,
That he may tread down, to the earth, my life,—
And <mine honour—in the dust> he may cause to dwell. [Selah.

6 Rise! Yahweh! in thine anger,
Lift thyself up, because of the haughty outbursts of mine adversaries,
Stir up for me the justice[a] thou hast commanded:
7 <When ‖the assembly of peoples‖ gather round thee>
Then <above it—on high> do thou return!

8 ‖Yahweh‖ will judge the peoples,—
Do me justice, O Yahweh,
According to my righteousness,
And according to mine integrity upon me,
9 Let the wrong of the lawless, I pray thee, come to an end,
And establish thou him that is righteous,—
For |a trier of hearts and reins|[b] is God the righteous one.
10 ‖My shield‖ is held by God,[c]
Who is ready to save the upright in heart:
11 A God to vindicate the righteous,—
And yet a God to be indignant throughout every day.

12 ‖If he turn not‖ <his sword> will he whet,—
<His bow> hath he bent, and made ready:
13 But <for himself> hath he made ready the weapons so deadly,
<His arrows> he |so fiery| would make:
14 Lo! he gendereth trouble,
And conceiveth mischief,
But giveth birth to a disappointment:
15 <A pit> he cut out, and digged it,
And then fell into the ditch he had made:
16 His mischief |turneth back| on his own head,—
And <on his own crown> ‖his violence‖ descendeth.

17 I will praise Yahweh according to his righteousness,—
And will praise in song the Name of Yahweh Most High.

PSALM 8.

To the Chief Musician. On "the Gittith."[d] A Melody of David.

1 O Yahweh, our Lord!
How majestic' is thy Name, in all the earth,
Who hast set[e] thy splendour upon the heavens.

2 <Out of the mouth of children and sucklings> hast thou laid a foundation of strength,—
Because of thine adversaries,
To make foe and avenger be still.

7 Sheep and oxen, |all of them|,—
Yea even the beasts of the field;
8 The bird of the heavens, and the fishes of the sea,—
The passer-by on the paths of the seas?
9 O Yahweh, our Lord!
How majestic' is thy Name, in all the earth.

PSALM 9.

To the Chief Musician. On "Muth-labben."[e] A Melody of David.

1 I will praise Yahweh with all my heart,
I will recount all thy wonderful doings:
2 I will rejoice and exult in thee,
I will praise in song, thy Name, O most High.
3 <When mine enemies turned back>
They stumbled and perished from before thee;
4 For thou hast executed my right and my cause,
Thou hast sat on the throne, judging righteously:
5 Thou hast rebuked the nations,
Thou hast destroyed the lawless one,
<Their name> hast thou wiped out, to times age-abiding and beyond.

6 O enemy! complete' are the desolations, evermore,[f]—
<Even cities> hast thou uprooted,[g]
The memory of ‖them‖ hath perished.

7 But ‖Yahweh‖ <unto times age-abiding> will sit,[a]
<Ready for judgment> is his throne;
8 And ‖he‖ will judge the world in righteousness,
He will minister judgment to peoples, in uprightness.

9 Thus be Yahweh a refuge for the crushed one,
A refuge for times of destitution:[b]
10 Thus let them who know thy Name |put confidence in thee|,
That thou hast not forsaken the searchers for thee, O Yahweh.

11 Sing ye praise to Yahweh, who is seated in Zion,
Tell among the peoples his doings.
12 <When he was making inquisition for blood>
‖Of them‖ had he remembrance,
He forgat not the outcry of the oppressed.[c]

13 Shew me favour, O Yahweh!
Behold my humiliation due to them who hate me,
Lift me on high out of the gates of death;
14 That I may recount all thy praises,[d]
<In the gates of the daughter of Zion> may exult in thy salvation.

15 The nations |have sunk| in the pit they had made,
<In the net which they had hidden> is caught their own foot.
16 To be known' is Yahweh, by the sentence he hath executed,
<By the doing of his own hands> is he about to strike down the lawless one.
[Resounding music. Selah.

17 The lawless |shall return| to hades,
‖All nations forgetful of God‖.
18 For <not always> shall the needy' |be forgotten|,—
[Nor] ‖the hope of the oppressed‖[d] perish for ever.

19 Rise! Yahweh! let man not |prevail|,
Let the nations be judged' before thee.
20 Appoint, O Yahweh, a terror[e] for them,—
Let the nations know'
[That] they are men. [Selah.

PSALM 10.

1 Wherefore, O Yahweh, shouldst thou stand afar off?
[Wherefore] hide thyself, in times of destitution?
2 <In the pride of the lawless one> he hotly pursueth the poor,
Let them be caught in the plots which they have devised!
3 For the lawless one hath boasted' over the longing of his soul,
And ‖the robber‖ hath blasphemed Yahweh.[f]

[a] So the Eastern Massorites; but the Western (w. Aram., Sep., Vul.) have: "works" (pl.)—G.n.
[b] "Lack little of"—O.G.
[c] This rendering has seemed the best way out of a difficulty. The Heb. word is elohim, which is used with more latitude than is the English word "God," as may be seen by comparing Exo. xxi. 6, xxii. 8, 9, 28 with Ps. lxxxii. 1, 2, 6, 7 and Jno. x. 34-35; to which may be aded Heb. ii. 3. "Judges" (whether human, as in Exo. xxii., or (?) superhuman, as in Ps. lxxxii.) represent God. It is in this sense the phrase, "messengers of God," is here used. Cp. N.T. Appendix on "Messenger"; observing, however, that elohim, not melakim, is the word here used.
[d] Some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edns. [including 1st, 1477] and Syr.): "work" (sing.)—G.n.
[e] Or: "almuth" (one word); and so in 6 ear. pr. edns. [including the first of 1477], but in some Massoretic copies there is a correction calling for two words. If one word, then it may be taken as: "Prob. on virgins' voices for the boys, i.e., to be sung by boys in the style of girls"—Davies' H.L. If two words, possibly = a tune or choir entitled, "On the death of Bēn (or a son)." Cp. Fuerst, 215.
[f] Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "swords are abandoned"—G.n.
[g] Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.): "forsaken"—G.n.

[a] Or: "endure."
[b] Or: "dearth."
[c] Or: "patient."
[d] Some cod. w. 5 ear. pr. edns. [1 Rabb.]): "praise" (sing.)—G.n.
[e] I.e.: "some awe-inspiring exhibition of power; poss., set them a teacher, master; neither altogether satisfactory"—O.G. 432.
[f] "The primitive reading"—G. Intro. 365.

4 ‖The lawless one‖ <in the loftiness of his countenance> will not enquire,
God is not' in any of his plots:[a]
5 His ways[b] are firm at all times,
<On high> are thy righteous regulations, out of his sight,
<As for all his adversaries> he puffeth at them:
6 He hath said in his heart,
I shall not be shaken,—
<From generation to generation> shall I be in no misfortune.
7 <With cursing> his mouth is full, and with deceptions and oppression,
<Under his tongue> are trouble and mischief:
8 He abideth in the lurking-place of villages,
<In the hiding-places> he murdereth the innocent,—
‖His eyes‖ <for the unfortunate> are on the watch:
9 He lieth in wait in a hiding-place, like a lion in his covert,[c]
He lieth in wait to catch the humbled,
He catcheth the humbled, by drawing him into his net:
10 He croucheth, he lieth down,
Then falleth he with his strong claws upon the unfortunate.[d]
11 He hath said in his heart,
GOD hath forgotten,—
He hath veiled his face,
Oh he hath never seen!

12 Arise! Yahweh!
O GOD! raise thy hand,[e]—
Do not forget the patient![f]

13 Wherefore' hath the lawless one blasphemed God?
He hath said in his heart,
Thou wilt not require [it]![g]

14 Thou hast seen!
For ‖thou‖ <mischief and misery> dost discern,
To requite with[h] thine own hand,[i]
<Unto thee> doth |the unfortunate one| give himself up,
<To the fatherless> ‖thou thyself‖ hast become a helper.
15 Shatter thou the arm of the lawless one,
And <as for the wrongful> wilt thou not enquire for his lawlessness—wilt thou not find [it]?

16 ‖Yahweh‖ is king, to times age-abiding and beyond,
The nations have perished' out of his land.
17 <The longing of the patient>[k] thou hast heard,
O Yahweh,
Thou wilt establish their heart,
Thou wilt make attentive thine ear:

18 To vindicate the fatherless and the crushed,
|A man of the earth| shall ‖no further‖ cause terror!

PSALM 11.

To the Chief Musician.[a] David's.

1 <In Yahweh> have I sought refuge,
How can ye say to my soul,
Flee to a mountain, like[b] a little bird;
2 For lo! ‖the lawless‖ bend the bow,
They have fixed their arrow upon the string,
To shoot, in the darkness, at the upright in heart:
3 <When ‖the pillars‖ are overthrown>
What could ‖a righteous man‖ do?

4 ‖Yahweh‖ is in his holy' temple,
‖As for Yahweh‖ <in the heavens> is his throne,
‖His eyes‖ behold'—
‖His eyelashes‖ test' the sons of men.
5 ‖Yahweh‖ putteth |the righteous| to the test,—
But <the lawless one and the lover of violence> his soul' doth hate.
6 He will rain, upon the lawless, live-coals,[c]—
‖Fire and brimstone, and a burning wind‖ are the portion of their cup.
7 For righteous' is Yahweh,
<Righteousness> he loveth,
‖The upright‖ shall behold his face.[d]

PSALM 12.

To the Chief Musician. On the Octave.[e]
A Melody of David.

1 O save, Yahweh,
For the man of lovingkindness |is no more|,[f]
For the faithful |have vanished| from among the sons of men.
2 <Deception> speak they, every one with[g] his neighbour,—
<With lips uttering smooth things—with a heart and a heart>[h] do they speak.
3 May Yahweh cut off
All the lips that utter smooth things,—
The tongue that speaketh swelling words;
4 Them who say—
<With our tongue> will we prevail
‖Our lips‖ are our own,
Who is our master?

5 <Because of violence done to the poor,
Because of the crying of the needy>
‖Now‖ will I arise! O may Yahweh say,[i]—
I will place [him] in safety—let him puff at him![k]

[k] Or: "he panteth for it." Cp. O.G. 806.

6 ‖The words[a] of Yahweh‖ are words,[a] that are pure,
Silver refined in a crucible of earth,
Purified seven times!

7 ‖Thou, O Yahweh‖ wilt keep them,[b]—
Thou wilt guard him,[b] from this generation unto times age-abiding.

8 <On every side> |the lawless| march about,—
When worthlessness is exalted' by the sons of men.

PSALM 13.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

1 How long', O Yahweh, wilt thou wholly' forget me?
How long' wilt thou hide thy face from me?

2 How long' shall I lay up cares within my soul,
Sorrow in my heart, day by day?
How long' shall mine enemy lift himself up over me?

3 Have regard! answer me, O Yahweh my God,— Light up mine eyes, lest I sleep on into death:[c]

4 Lest mine enemy say
I have prevailed over him!
And ‖mine adversaries‖ exult, that I totter.

5 But ‖I‖ <in thy lovingkindness> have put my trust,
My heart shall exult in thy salvation:

6 I will sing to Yahweh,
For he hath dealt bountifully with me.

PSALM 14.

To the Chief Musician. [d] David's.

1 The impious hath said' in his heart—
There is no' God!
They have acted corruptly,
They have done an abominable deed,
There is none' that doeth good.

2 ‖Yahweh‖ <out of the heavens> looked down over the sons of men,—
To see whether there was' one that shewed wisdom,
Enquiring after God:—

3 ‖The whole‖ have turned aside,
Together' have they become tainted,—
There is none' that doeth good,
Not' so much as ‖one‖!

4 Are all the workers of iniquity |without knowledge|?[e]
Devouring my people, [as] they devour food!
<Upon Yahweh> have they not called.

5 There' have they been in great dread,[f]
Because ‖God‖ is in the circle[g] of the righteous man.

6 <The purpose of the poor>[b] ye would put to shame,
Because ‖Yahweh‖ is his refuge.

7 Oh that <out of Zion> were granted the salvation[c] of Israel!
<When Yahweh bringeth back the captives[d] of his people>
Jacob' |shall exult|, Israel' |be glad|.

PSALM 15.

A Melody of David.

1 O Yahweh!
Who shall be a guest in thy tent?[e]
Who[f] shall abide[g] in thy holy' mountain?

2 He that walketh without blame,
And doeth what is right,
And speaketh truth with his heart;

3 Hath not carried slander on his tongue,
Hath not done his friend a wrong,
Nor  taken up against his neighbour;

4 |Despised in his sight| is the reprobate,
But <them who revere Yahweh> he doth honour,
He hath sworn to his neighbour,[h] and will not change;

5 <His silver> hath he not put out on interest,
Nor  hath he taken.

‖He that doeth these things‖ shall not be shaken unto times age-abiding.

PSALM 16.

A Precious Psalm[i] of David.

1 Preserve me, O God,
For I have sought refuge in thee.

2 Thou hast said[k] unto Yahweh,
<My Lord> art thou!
‖My goodness‖ mounteth not unto thee.

3 It belongeth unto the holy ones,
Whom <in his own land> Yahweh ennobleth,
In whom is all his delight.[l]

4 They multiply their idols,—<another> have they purchased!
I will not pour out their drink-offerings of blood,
Nor will I take up their names' on my lips.

5 ‖Yahweh‖ is mine allotted' portion and my cup,
‖Thou‖ art maintaining my lot.

6 ‖The lines‖ have fallen unto me, in pleasant places,
‖Verily an inheritance that delighteth me‖.

7 I will bless Yahweh, who hath counselled me,— Surely <by night> shall mine impulses[a] admonish me.
8 I have set Yahweh before me continually,
<Because he is on my right hand> I shall not be shaken!
9 |Therefore| hath my heart' rejoiced,
And mine honour' exulted,
Yea ‖my flesh‖ shall settle down securely;
10 For thou wilt not abandon[b] my soul to hades,
Neither wilt thou suffer thy man[c] of loving-kindness, to see corruption:
11 Thou wilt cause me to know, the path of life,—
‖Fulness of joys before thee,
Pleasures at thy right hand evermore‖.

PSALM 17.

A Prayer of David.

1 Hear, O Yahweh, the right,
Attend to my loud cry,
Give ear unto my prayer,
On lips that would not deceive:
2 <From before thee> let my sentence come forth,
‖Thine eyes‖ behold with equity.
3 Thou hast tested my heart,
Hast made inspection by night,
Hast refined me until thou couldst find nothing,
<Had I devised evil> my mouth' should not have transgressed:[d]
4 <As for the workings of men>
<By the word of thy lips>[e] have ‖I‖ taken heed of the paths of the violent one.
5 Thou hast held fast my goings on to thy ways,[f]
My footsteps have not been shaken:
6 ‖I‖ have called upon thee, for thou wilt answer me, O God,— Incline thine ear unto me,
Hear thou my speech:
7 Let thy lovingkindness be distinguished,[g] thou Saviour of such as seek refuge
From them who lift themselves up against thy right hand.
8 Guard me, as the pupil of the eye,[h]—
<Under the shadow of thy wings> wilt thou hide me:
9 From the face of lawless ones who have treated me with violence,
The foes of my soul, who come round against me:
10 <Their own fat [heart]> have they shut up,—
<With their mouth> have they spoken proudly.
11 <As for our own[a] goings> ‖now‖ have they surrounded us,[b]—
<Their eyes> they fix, bending to the earth:
12 ‖His likeness‖ is as a lion, that longeth to rend,
And as a young lion, lurking in secret places.
13 Rise, Yahweh!
Confront his face,
Bring him down,
Deliver my soul' from the lawless one [who is] thy sword:
14 From men [who are] thy hand, O Yahweh,
From the men of this age,
‖Whose portion‖ is among the living,
And <with thy treasure> thou fillest their bosom,—
They must be satisfied with sons,
And must leave their abundance to their children:—
15 ‖I‖ <in righteousness> shall behold thy face,[c]
Shall be satisfied when awakened by a vision of thee.[d]

PSALM 18.

To the chief Musician. Of the servant of Yahweh, of David,—who spake unto Yahweh the words of this song,—in the day when Yahweh had rescued him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul; and he said:—

1 I will love thee, O Yahweh my strength!
2 ‖Yahweh‖ was my mountain crag and my stronghold, and my deliverer:[e]
‖My God‖ was my rock,
I sought refuge in him,
My shield, and my horn of salvation, my high tower.
3 <As one worthy to be praised> called I on Yahweh,—
And <from my foes> was I saved.
4 The meshes of death encompassed me,
‖The torrents of perdition‖[f] made me afraid;
5 The meshes of hades |had surrounded me|,
The snares of death |had confronted me|,
6 <In my distress> called I on Yahweh,
And <unto my God> made outcry for help,
He heard, out of his temple, my voice,
And my outcry for help came before him—entered into his ears!
7 Then did the earth shake and quake,[g]

[d] Or: "by an appearance of thee," "by thine appearing."
[e] Some cod. add: "mine." Cp. 2 S. xxii. 2.
[f] Cp. 2 S. xxii. 5, n.
[g] "Rock and reel"—P.B.

Even ‖the foundations of the mountains‖ were deeply moved,
Yea they did shake, because he was angry.
8 There went up a smoke in his nostrils,
And ‖a fire out of his mouth‖ devoured,
‖Live coals‖ were kindled from it:
9 Then he stretched out the heavens, and came down,—
And ‖thick gloom‖ was under his feet;
10 Then he rode on a cherub, and flew,
And darted on the wings of the wind;
11 Made darkness his hiding-place,
Round about him—his pavilion,
Darkness of waters, clouds of vapours.
12 <Out of the brightness before him> his clouds rolled along,
Hail,[a] and live coals of fire.
13 Then did Yahweh thunder in[b] the heavens,
And the Highest uttered his voice,—
Hail,[a] and live coals of fire.
14 And he sent forth his arrows and scattered them,
Yea <lightnings> he shot out, and confused them.
15 Then appeared' the channels of waters,[c]
Were uncovered' the foundations of the world,—
At thy rebuke, O Yahweh,
At the blast of the breath of thy nostrils.
16 He sent from on high, he took me,—
He drew me out of many waters.
17 He rescued me from my foe, in his might,
And from them who hated me, because they were too strong for me:
18 They confronted me, in the day of my necessity,
Then became Yahweh my stay:
19 And brought me out, into a large place,
He delivered me, because he delighted in me.
20 Yahweh rewarded me according to my righteousness,
<According to the cleanness of my hands> he repaid me;
21 For I had kept the ways of Yahweh,
And not broken away from my God;
22 For ‖all his regulations‖ were before me,
And <his statutes> did I not put from me:
23 So became I blameless with him,
And kept myself from mine iniquity.
24 Yahweh therefore repaid me according to my righteousness,
According to the pureness of my hands, before his eyes.

25 <With the loving> thou didst shew thyself loving,—
<With[d] the blameless man> thou didst shew thyself blameless;
26 <With the pure> thou didst shew thyself pure,
But <with the perverse> thou didst shew thyself ready to contend.

27 For ‖as for thee‖ <an oppressed people> thou didst save;
But <looks that were lofty> layedst thou low;
28 For ‖thou‖ didst light up my lamp,
‖Yahweh my God‖ enlightened my darkness;
29 For <by thee> I ran through a troop,[a]
And <by my God> I leapt over a wall.

30 <As for God> blameless' is his way,
‖The speech[b] of Yahweh‖ hath been proved,
<A shield> he is' to all who seek refuge in him.
31 For who is a God, save Yahweh?
And who is a Rock, save our God?
32 The God' who girded me with strength,
And set forth, as blameless, my way:
33 Planting my feet like hinds' [feet],
Yea <on my[c] high places> he caused me to stand:
34 Teaching my hands to war,—
So that a bow of bronze was bent by mine arms.

35 Thus didst thou grant me, as a shield, thy salvation,—
And ‖thy right hand‖ sustained me,
And ‖thy condescension‖ made me great.
36 Thou didst widen my stepping-places under me,
So that ‖mine ankles‖ faltered not.
37 I pursued my foes, and overtook them,
And returned not, till they were consumed:
38 I crushed them, and they were unable to rise,
They fell under my feet.
39 Thus didst thou gird me with strength, for the battle,
Thou subduedst mine assailants[d] under me.
40 <As for my foes> thou didst give me their neck,
And <as for them who hated me> I destroyed them.
41 They cried out,
But there was none to save,
Unto Yahweh,
But he answered them not.
42 Then did I beat them in pieces, like dust on the face of the wind,[e]
<Like the mire in the lanes> did I scatter[f] them.

43 Thus didst thou rescue me from the contentions of a people,— Didst appoint me to be the head of nations,
‖A people I had not known‖ served me:
44 <At the hearing of the ear> they submitted to me,
‖The sons of the foreigner‖ came cringing unto me:
45 ‖The sons of the foreigner‖ lost heart,
And came quaking out of their fortresses.

46 Yahweh liveth' and ‖blessed‖ be my Rock,
Yea ‖exalted‖ be the God of my salvation:

[f] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "crush." Cp. 2 S. xxii. 43.

47 The GOD, who hath avenged me,[a]—
And subjugated peoples under me:
48 Who hath delivered me from my foes,—
Yea <from mine assailants> hast thou set me on high,
<From the man of violence> hast thou rescued me.

49 ‖For this cause‖ will I praise thee among the nations, O Yahweh,
And <to thy Name> will I sweep the strings:—
50 Who hath made great the victories of his King,—
And shewn lovingkindness to his Anointed One,
To David and to his Seed,
Unto times age-abiding.

PSALM 19.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

1 ‖The heavens‖ are telling the glory of GOD,
And <the work of his hands> the expanse'[b] is declaring;
2 ‖Day‖ |unto day| doth pour forth speech,
And ‖night‖ |unto night| doth breathe out knowledge.
3 There[c] is no' speech, and there are no' words,— Unheard' is their voice!
4 [Yet] <through all the earth> hath gone forth their voice,[d]—
And <to the end of the world> their sayings,—
<For the sun> hath he set up a tent therein;
5 And ‖he‖ is like a bridegroom coming out of his chamber,
He rejoiceth as a hero to run a race:
6 <From one end of the heavens> is his going forth,
And ‖his circuit‖ to the other end thereof,—
And ‖nothing‖ is hid from his glowing heat.

7 The ‖law of Yahweh‖ is complete,
Bringing back the soul,
The ‖testimony of Yahweh‖ is confirmed,
Making wise the simple;
8 The ‖precepts of Yahweh‖ are right,[e]
Rejoicing the heart,
The ‖commandment of Yahweh‖ is pure,
Enlightening the eyes;
9 The ‖reverence of Yahweh‖ is clean,
Enduring evermore,—
The ‖decisions[f] of Yahweh‖ are faithful,
They are righteous ‖altogether‖:
10 ‖More desirable‖ than gold,
Yea than much fine gold,
‖Sweeter‖ also than honey,
Or than droppings from the comb.[g]

11 ‖Even thine own servant‖ taketh warning by them,
<In the keeping of them> great is the reward.
12 <Mistakes> who perceiveth?
<From things that are hidden> acquit me:
13 <Even from the presumptuous> keep back thy servant,
May they not have dominion over me,
‖Then‖ shall I be blameless,
And shall be acquitted from great' transgression:
14 The words of my mouth,
And the soft utterance of my heart,
Shall come with acceptance |before thee|,
O Yahweh, my Rock and my Redeemer!

PSALM 20.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

1 Yahweh answer' thee, in the day of distress,
The Name of the God of Jacob' give thee safety';
2 Send thy help out of the sanctuary,
And <out of Zion> sustain thee;
3 Remember every present of thine,[a]
And <thine ascending-sacrifice> esteem.[b] [Selah.
4 Give thee according to thy heart,
And <all thy purposes> fulfil.

5 We will shout aloud in thy salvation,
And <in the Name of our God> shall we become great,[c]
Yahweh fulfil' all thy petitions.
6 ‖Now‖ do I know' that Yahweh |hath saved| his Anointed One,—
He answereth[d] him out of his holy heavens,
By the mighty saving deeds of his own right hand.

7 ‖These‖ by chariots,
And ‖those‖ by horses,
But ‖we‖ <by the Name of Yahweh our God> Will prevail.[e]

8 ‖They‖ have bowed down and fallen,
But ‖we‖ have arisen, and stand upright.

9 ‖Yahweh‖ hath saved the king.[f]
Answer us, then, on the day when we call.

PSALM 21.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

1 O Yahweh, <in thy strength> will the king' rejoice,
And <in thy salvation> how greatly' will he exult!

2 <The longing of his heart> hast thou given him,
And <the request of his lips> hast thou not withheld. [Selah.

3 For thou wilt come to meet him with the blessings of goodness,
Thou wilt set on his head a crown of pure gold.
4 <Life> he asked of thee,
Thou hast given it him,
Length of days, to times age-abiding and beyond.
5 Great' is his glory in thy salvation,
<Honour and majesty> wilt thou lay upon him;
6 For thou wilt appoint him blessings evermore,
Wilt cheer him with joy by thy countenance;
7 For ‖the king‖ is trusting in Yahweh,
And <in the lovingkindness of the Highest> shall he not be shaken.

8 Thy hand |will find out| all thy foes,
‖Thine own right hand‖ will find out them who hate thee.
9 Thou wilt make them like a furnace of fire, at the time of thy presence,— ‖Yahweh‖ <in his anger> will swallow them up,
And there shall consume them a fire:
10 <Their fruit—out of the earth> wilt thou destroy,
And their seed from among the sons of men;
11 For they have held out against thee a wicked thing,
They have devised a scheme[a] they cannot accomplish,
12 For thou wilt cause them to turn their back,
<Upon thy bow-strings> wilt thou make ready against their face.

13 Be exalted, O Yahweh, in thy strength!
With song and with string will we sound forth thy power.[b]

PSALM 22.

To the Chief Musician. On "the Hind of the Dawn." A Melody of David.

1 My God, my God, why' hast thou forsaken me?
Far from saving me,
The words of my loud lamentation?
2 My God! I keep crying—
By day and thou dost not answer, and
By night and there is no rest for me.

3 But ‖thou‖ art holy,
Who inhabitest[c] the praises[d] of Israel.

4 <In thee> trusted our fathers,
They trusted, and thou didst deliver them;
5 <Unto thee> made they outcry, and escaped,
<In thee> they trusted, and had not turned pale.

6 But ‖I‖ am a worm and no one,
A reproach of men, and despised of a people;
7 ‖All that see me‖ laugh at me,—
They open wide the mouth,[a]
They shake the head:—
8 He should trust in Yahweh—let him deliver him,—
Let him rescue him, seeing he delighteth in him.
9 For ‖thou‖ art he that severed me[b] from the womb,
He that caused me to trust upon the breasts of my mother;
10 <Upon thee> was I cast from the time I was born,
<From the womb of my mother> <my God> hast thou been.

11 Be not far from me, for |distress| is near,
For there is none' to help.
12 Many bulls have surrounded me,
‖Strong oxen of Bashan‖ have enclosed me;
13 They have opened wide against me their mouth,
‖A lion' rending and roaring‖.

14 <Like water> am I poured out,
And <put out of joint> are all my bones,—
|My heart| hath become' |like wax|,
It is melted[e] in the midst of my body;
15 <Dried as a potsherd> is my strength,[d]
And ‖my tongue‖ is made to cleave to my gums,
And <in the dust of death> wilt thou lay me.

16 For dogs have surrounded' me,—
‖An assembly of evil doers‖ have encircled me,
They have pierced[e] my hands and my feet,
17 I may tell all my bones,
‖They‖ look for—they behold[f] me!
18 They part my garments among them,
And <for my vestment> they cast lots.

19 But ‖thou, O Yahweh‖ be not far off,
O my help! <to aid me> make haste;
20 Rescue <from the sword> my life,[g]
<From the power of the dog> my solitary self:[h]
21 Save me from the mouth of the lion,—
Yea <from the horns of wild beasts>[i] hast thou delivered me.[k]

22 I will declare thy Name unto my brethren,
<In the midst of the convocation> will I praise thee.

23 ‖Ye that revere Yahweh‖ praise him,
‖All ye the seed of Jacob‖ glorify him,

Yea all the families of the nations' |will bow themselves down before thee|,
28 For <to Yahweh> belongeth the kingdom,
And One to Rule over the nations.
29 All the great ones of the earth |shall eat and bow down|,[b]
<Before him shall kneel> all that go down to the dust,
Even he who had not kept alive ‖his own soul‖!
30 ‖My seed‖[c] shall serve him,
It shall be recounted, of the Lord, to a generation that shall come:[d]
31 That his righteousness may be declared to a people to be born,
That he wrought with effect![e]

PSALM 23.

A Melody of David.

1 ‖Yahweh‖ is my shepherd—I shall not want:
2 <In pastures of tender grass> he maketh me lie down,
<Unto restful' waters> he leadeth me;[f]
3 <My life> he restoreth,
He guideth me in right paths,[g] for the sake of his Name.
4 Yea, <though I walk through a valley death-shadowed>
I will fear no harm, for ‖thou‖ art with me,
|Thy rod and thy staff| ‖they‖ comfort me.

5 Thou spreadest before me a table, in face of mine adversaries,
Thou hast anointed, with oil, my head,
‖My cup‖ hath run over.

6 |Surely| ‖goodness and lovingkindness‖ will pursue me, |all the days of my life|,
And I shall dwell in the house of Yahweh, evermore.[h]

PSALM 24.

David's. A Melody.

1 <To Yahweh> belongeth
The earth and the fulness thereof,
The world, and they who dwell therein;
2 For ‖he‖ <upon the seas> hath founded it,
And <upon the currents> doth make it firm.

3 Who shall ascend the mountain of Yahweh?
And who shall stand in his holy' place?

4 ‖The clean of hands,
And pure of heart,—
Who hath not uplifted, to falsehood, his soul,[a]
Nor sworn deceitfully‖
5 Shall bear away a blessing from Yahweh,
And righteousness, from his delivering God.

6 ‖This‖[b] is the generation[c] of them who inquire of him,
Who seek thy face, O God of[d] Jacob.
[Selah.

7 Lift up, O ye gates, your heads,
And lift yourselves up, ye age-abiding' doors,
That the king of glory may come in.

8 Who' is the king of glory?
Yahweh, strong and mighty,
Yahweh, mighty in war.

9 Lift up, O ye gates, your heads,
Yea lift [them] up,[e] ye age-abiding' doors,
That the king of glory may come in.

10 Who' then is' the king of glory?[f]
|Yahweh of hosts|,
‖He‖ is the king of glory. [Selah.

PSALM 25.

David's. [An Alphabetical Psalm.][g]

א 1 <Unto thee> O Yahweh, <my soul> would I lift:
ב 2 O my God, <in thee>[h] have I put my trust,
Let me not be put to shame,
Let not my foe exult over me:
ג 3 Yea let ‖none who wait for thee‖ be put to shame,
Let them' be put to shame who act covertly without cause!
ד 4 <Thy ways> O Yahweh, let me know,
<Thy paths> teach thou me:
ה 5 Guide me into thy truth and teach me,
For ‖thou‖ art my delivering' God,

[e] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "And lift yourselves up." Cp. ver. 7—G.n.
[f] Or: "who is he, then—the king of glory?" Cp. O.G. 216, 4b.
[g] Each succeeding verse in Heb. beginning with the succeeding letter of the alphabet. See ante, p. 29.
[h] Gt.: "In thee, O my God"—G.n. [Restoring beth to its place.]

ו <For thee> have I waited all the day:[a]

ז 6 Remember thy compassions, O Yahweh, and thy lovingkindnesses,
For <from age-past times> have they been.

ח 7 <The sins of my youth, and my transgressions> do not thou call to mind,— <According to thine own lovingkindness> remember ‖thou‖ me,
For the sake of thine own goodness, O Yahweh.

ט 8 <Good and upright> is Yahweh,
<For this cause> will he direct sinners into the way.

י 9 May he guide patient wronged-ones to be righted,[b]
And teach such oppressed-ones[c] his way.

כ 10 ‖All the paths of Yahweh‖ are lovingkindness and faithfulness,
To such as keep his covenant, and his testimonies.

ל 11 <For the sake of thy Name> O Yahweh,
Therefore' wilt thou pardon mine iniquity,
For great it is'.

מ 12 Who' then is the man that revereth Yahweh?
Let him direct him into the way he should[d] choose.

נ 13 ‖His soul‖ <with prosperity> shall tarry,[e]
And ‖his seed‖ shall possess the land.

ס 14 <Intimacy with Yahweh> have they who revere him,
<His covenant also> he letteth them know.

ע 15 ‖Mine eyes‖ are continually unto Yahweh,—
For ‖he‖ bringeth out of the net my feet.

פ 16 Turn thou unto me, and shew me favour,
For <alone and oppressed> I am'.

צ 17 <The distresses of my heart> hath he relieved,—
And <out of my straits> brought me forth.[f]

ר 18 Behold my humiliation and my pain,
And take away all my sins.

ר 19 Behold my foes, for they abound,—
And <with the hatred of violence>[g] do they hate me.

ש 20 Oh keep my soul, and rescue me,
Let me not be put to shame, for I have sought refuge in thee.

ת 21 Let ‖blamelessness and uprightness‖ watch over me,
Because I have waited for thee.

22 Redeem Israel', O God,—
Out of all his distresses.

PSALM 26.

David's.

1 Do me justice, O Yahweh,
For ‖I‖ <in my blamelessness> have walked,
And <in Yahweh> have I trusted,
I will not waver.

2 Try me, O Yahweh, and prove me,
Test my reins and my heart:[a]—

3 For ‖thy lovingkindness‖ hath been before mine eyes,
And I have walked to and fro in thy faithfulness;

4 I have not sat with men of deceit,
Nor <with dissemblers> would I enter:

5 I have hated the convocation of evil-doers,
And <with lawless men> would I not sit;

6 I will bathe, in pureness, my hands,—
So will I go in procession around thine altar, O Yahweh;

7 To sound aloud a song,
And to recount all thy wonderful doings.

8 O Yahweh, I have loved the asylum of thy house,
Even the place of the habitation of thy glory!

9 Do not remove, with sinners, my soul,
Nor, with men of bloodshed, my life;

10 In whose hands is a plot,
And ‖their right hand‖ is filled with a bribe.

11 But ‖I‖ <in my blamelessness> will walk,
Redeem me and shew me favour.

12 My foot standeth in a level place,
<In the convocations> will I bless Yahweh.

PSALM 27.

David's.

1 ‖Yahweh‖ is my light and my salvation,
Of whom shall I be afraid?
‖Yahweh‖ is the refuge of my life,
Of whom shall I be in dread?

2 <When there drew near against me evil-doers to devour my flesh> ‖Mine adversaries, and mine enemies—mine
—they‖ stumbled and fell![b]

3 <Though there pitch against me—a camp>
My heart shall not fear,—
<Though there come up against me—a battle>
‖Still‖[c] am I confident.

4 <One thing> have I asked of Yahweh,
<That> will I seek to secure,[d]—
That I may dwell in the house of Yahweh, all the days of my life,
To view the delightfulness of Yahweh,
And to contemplate in his temple.

5 For he will hide me in his pavilion,[e] in the day of calamity,—
He will conceal me, in the secrecy of his tent,
<Within a rock> will he set me on high.

6 ‖Now‖ therefore, shall my head be raised high above my foes round about me,

[a] Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.) prefix to this line the Heb. letter ואני [= "And"]—G.n. [Thereby helping out the initial alphabet. [b] Ml.: "had s. and fallen." The writer views the overthrow as complete.
[c] Or: "In spite of this"—O.G. 261, 6, γ.
[d] O.G. 134.
[e] Or: "booth," "hut," "covert"—O.G.

And I will sacrifice in his tent[1] the sacrifices of triumphant joy,
I will sing and touch the strings, to Yahweh.

7 Hear, O Yahweh, <With my voice> do I
cry,
Oh then[a] shew me favour and answer me.
8 <To thee> said my heart—
[When thou saidst] Seek ye my face—
<Thy face> O Yahweh, will I seek!

9 Do not hide thy face from me,
Do not repulse, in thine anger, thine own servant,—
<My help> thou hast been,
Do not send me away nor forsake me,
O my saving[1] God!

10 <When ‖my own father and mother‖ had forsaken me>
Then ‖Yahweh‖ took me up![b]

11 Point out to me, O Yahweh, thy way,—
And guide me in a level path,
Because of mine adversaries.
12 Do not give me up unto the desire[c] of mine adversaries,
For there have risen up against me
Witnesses that are false,
And he that fanneth up violence.

13 I believe that I shall see—[d]
The goodness of Yahweh in the land of the living,[e]

14 Wait thou for Yahweh,—
Be strong, and let thy heart be bold,
Wait, then, for Yahweh!

PSALM 28.

David's.

1 <Unto thee, O Yahweh> do I cry,
O my Rock! do not turn in silence from me,[f]—
Lest <if thou turn from me in silence>
I be like them who go down into the pit.
2 Hear the voice of my supplication,
When I cry to thee for help,
When I lift up my hands toward thy holy[1] shrine.
3 Do not drag me away—
With the lawless,
Or with the workers of iniquity,—
Who speak peaceably with their neighbours,
But ‖wrong‖ is in their heart.
4 Give them
According to their deed, and
According to the wrong of their practices,— <According to the work[a] of their own hands> give thou unto them,
Bring back their own dealing to themselves.
5 <Because they heed not
The Deeds of Yahweh,
Or the Work[a] of his hands>
He will pull them down, and not build them.

6 Blessed[1] be Yahweh,
Because he hath heard the voice of my supplication.
7 ‖Yahweh‖ is my strength and my shield,
<In him> hath trusted my heart, and I have found help,—
Therefore hath my heart danced for joy,
And <with my song> do I praise him.

8 ‖Yahweh‖ is strength to his people,[b]—
And <the all-saving[1] refuge of his Anointed
One> is he!

9 Oh save thy people,
And bless thine inheritance,
Tend them also, and carry them,
Unto times age-abiding.

PSALM 29.

A Melody of David.

1 Give to Yahweh, ye sons of the mighty,[c]—
Give to Yahweh, [both] glory and strength:
2 Give to Yahweh, the glory of his Name,
Bow down to Yahweh, in the adornment of holiness.[d]

3 ‖The voice of Yahweh‖ is upon the waters,—
‖The God of glory‖ hath thundered,
‖Yahweh‖ is upon mighty waters;
4 ‖The voice of Yahweh‖ is with power,
‖The voice of Yahweh‖ is with majesty:
5 ‖The voice of Yahweh‖ is breaking cedars,
Now hath Yahweh [broken down] the cedars of Lebanon!
6 And hath made them leap like a calf,
Lebanon and Sirion, like the bull-calf of wild-oxen;[e]
7 ‖The voice of Yahweh‖ is cleaving out[f] flames of fire;
8 ‖The voice of Yahweh‖ bringeth birth-pains
upon the wilderness;
Yahweh bringeth birth-pains upon the wilderness of Kadesh!
9 ‖The voice of Yahweh‖ causeth the gazelles[g] to bring forth,
And hath stript forests;
And <in his own temple> ‖every one there‖[h] is saying Glory!

10 ‖Yahweh‖ [at the Flood] was seated,[i]

And Yahweh hath taken his seat, as king, unto times age-abiding.
11 ‖Yahweh‖ will give |strength to his people|,—
‖Yahweh‖ will bless his people with prosperity.

PSALM 30.

A Melody. A Song for the Dedication of the House. David's.

1 I will extol thee, O Yahweh,
For thou hast drawn me up,—
And not suffered my foes to rejoice over me.
2 O Yahweh, my God,
I cried for help unto thee,
And thou hast healed me.
3 O Yahweh! thou hast lifted out of hades, my soul,
Thou hast brought me back to life, from among those who were going down[a] to the pit.
4 Sweep the strings[b] to Yahweh,
Ye his men of lovingkindness,
And give ye praise at the mention of his holiness.
5 For there is ‖a Moment‖ in his anger,
‖a Life-time‖ in his good-pleasure,
<In the evening> cometh Weeping' to lodge,
But |by the morning| 'tis a Shout of Triumph!
6 But ‖I‖ said, in my tranquillity,
I shall not be shaken to times age-abiding!
7 ‖O Yahweh‖ <in thy good-pleasure> hadst thou caused my mountain[c] to stand |strong|,—
Thou didst hide thy face—I was dismayed!

8 <Unto thee, O Yahweh< do I cry,—
And <unto My Lord>[d] do I make supplication:

9 What profit in my blood?
In my going down into the pit?
Can dust praise' thee?
Can it declare thy faithfulness?
10 Hear, O Yahweh, and shew me favour,
O Yahweh! become thou a helper unto me.

11 Thou hast turned my lamentation into a dance for me,—
Thou hast torn off[e] my sackcloth,
And girded me with gladness:
12 To the end that mine honour[f] should make melody unto thee, and not be silent.

O Yahweh, my God!
<Unto times age-abiding> will I praise thee.

[a] So written; but read: "that I shd not go down." In some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): "from among," etc., both written and read; in others (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.): "that I shd not," etc., both written and read—G.n. O.G. (432) prefers as written (above in text).
[b] Or: "make music."
[c] In Sep., Syr., Vul.: "my majesty." But Gt.: "didst set firm (cause to stand) the mountains of strength (= strong mountains)"; and so Aram.—G.n.
[d] Heb.: 'ădhônāy (in M.C.T.); but some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.): "Yahweh"—G.n.
[e] Ml.: "opened" = "torn open."
[f] So it shd be (w. Sep., Syr.). Cp. Ps. cviii. 1—G.n.

PSALM 31.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

1 <In thee> O Yahweh, have I sought refuge,
Let me not be ashamed, to times age-abiding,
<In thy righteousness> deliver me:
2 Incline unto me, thine ear, Speedily rescue me,— Become to me a Rock of refuge, a Place of security,
For saving me.
3 <Because ‖my mountain crag and my stronghold‖ thou art>[a]
Therefore <for the sake of thine own Name> wilt thou lead me and guide me?
4 Wilt thou bring me forth, out of the net which they have hidden for me?
For ‖thou‖ art my refuge.

5 <Into thy hand> do I commit my spirit.—
Thou hast ransomed me, O Yahweh, God most faithful.

6 I hate[b] such as give heed to false' vanities,
‖I‖ then, <in Yahweh> have set my hope.

7 I will indeed exult and rejoice, in thy lovingkindness,—
In that thou hast looked upon my humiliation,
Thou hast taken note that in distresses' was my life;
8 And hast not shut me up in the hand of the foe,
Thou hast given standing, in a roomy place, unto my feet.

9 Shew me favour, O Yahweh, for in distress' am I,— <Wasted with vexation> is mine eye—my soul and my body;
10 For <consumed with sorrow> is my life,
And my years with sighing,—
My strength' hath staggered with my humiliation,[c]
And ‖my bones‖ are without marrow.
11 <By reason of all mine adversaries> have I become a reproach,
<Even to my neighbours> altogether,[d]
And a dread to mine acquaintances,—
‖They who have seen me abroad‖ have fled from me:
12 I have been forgotten, like one dead—out of mind,[e]
I have been as a missing' vessel.
13 For I have heard the whispering of many—
A terror round about![f]
<When they have sat in conclave together against me>
<To take away my life>[g] have they intrigued.

I have said ‖My God‖ thou art'!
15 <In thy hand> are my times,
Rescue me from the hand of my foes and from my pursuers!
16 Cause thy face to shine' upon thy servant,
Save me in thy lovingkindness.
17 O Yahweh! let me not be ashamed,
For I have called upon thee,
Let the lawless[a] be ashamed,
Go down in silence to hades!
18 Let false lips be made dumb,—
Which are speaking—against a righteous one—arrogantly,
‖With pride and contempt‖.

19 How great is thy goodness,[b] which thou hast hidden away for them who revere thee,— Thou hast wrought for them who seek refuge in thee,
In sight of the sons of men.
20 Thou wilt conceal them, in the secrecy of thine own presence, from the conspiracies[c] of men,—
Thou wilt hide them in a pavilion, from the strife of tongues.

21 Blessed be Yahweh,
For he hath made wonderful his lovingkindness for me, in a fortified city.

22 But ‖I‖ had said in mine alarm,[d]
I am cut off from before thine eyes,—
|But, indeed| thou didst hear the voice of my supplication,
When I cried for help unto thee.

23 Love Yahweh, all ye his men of lovingkindness,— <Faithfulness> doth Yahweh observe,
But repayeth abundantly him that worketh proudly.
24 Be strong, and let your heart be bold,
All ye who are waiting for Yahweh.

PSALM 32.

David's. An Instructive Psalm.

1 How happy is he
Whose transgression is forgiven![e]
Whose sin is pardoned![f]
2 How happy the son of earth,
To whom Yahweh will not reckon iniquity!
And in whose spirit is no' guile!

3 <When I kept silence> my bones became worn out,
Through my groaning all the day;
4 For <day and night> |heavy upon me| was thy hand,—
Changed was my life-sap into[g] the drought of summer. [Selah.

5 <My sin> would I own unto thee,
And <mine iniquity> not hide,
I said I will confess my transgressions[a] unto Yahweh,
And ‖thou‖ didst forgive[b] the iniquity of my sin. [Selah.

6 <For this cause> will every man of lovingkindness pray unto thee, in time to obtain,[c]—
Surely <in the overflow of many waters>
‖Unto him‖ shall they not reach.
7 ‖Thou‖ art a hiding-place for me,
<From distress> wilt thou preserve me,—
<With shouts of deliverance> wilt thou compass me about. [Selah.

8 I will make thee discreet,
I will point out to thee the way which thou must go,
I will fix upon thee mine eye.

9 Do not ye become like a horse, like a mule, without' discernment,—
<With the bit and bridle of his mouth>[d] [hast thou] to restrain him,—
He will not come near unto thee.

10 <Many pains> hath the lawless one,—
But <he that trusteth in Yahweh> ‖Lovingkindness‖ shall compass him about.

11 Rejoice in Yahweh and exult, O ye righteous,
Yea, shout in triumph, all ye upright in heart!

PSALM 33.

1 Shout for joy, ye righteous, in Yahweh,
<To the upright> seemly is praise.
2 Give ye thanks unto Yahweh with the lyre,
<With a harp[e] of ten strings> make ye music unto him.
3 Sing unto him a song that is new,
<With skill> sweep the strings, with loud noise.
4 For right' is the word of Yahweh,
And ‖all his work‖ is in faithfulness:
5 Who loveth righteousness and justice,
<With the lovingkindness of Yahweh> the earth' is full.
6 <By the word of Yahweh> the heavens were made,
And <by the spirit of his mouth> all their host:
7 Who gathered as into a skin-bottle[f] the waters of the sea,
Delivering into treasuries the roaring deeps.
8 Let all the earth ‖stand in awe of Yahweh‖,
<Of him> be in dread, all ye inhabitants of the world;
9 For ‖he‖ spake,[g] and it was,
‖He‖ commanded, and it stood forth.[h]

hath brought to nothing the devices of peoples.
11 ‖The counsel of Yahweh‖ <to times age-abiding> shall stand,
‖The devices of his heart‖ from generation to generation.
12 How happy the nation whose God' is ‖Yahweh‖,
The people he hath chosen as his own' inheritance!
13 <Out of the heavens> hath Yahweh looked,
He hath seen all the sons of men:
14 <Out of his settled place of abode> hath he fixed his gaze
On all the inhabitants of the earth:
15 Who fashioneth their heart all together,
Who understandeth all their doings.
16 ‖Not a king‖ can be saved by greatness of force,
Nor ‖hero‖ deliver himself by greatness of strength:
17 <A deception> is the horse, for victory,
And <by his great strength> shall he not deliver.
18 Lo! |the eye[a] of Yahweh| is toward them who revere him,
Unto such as are waiting for his lovingkindness:
19 To rescue, from death, their soul,
And to keep them alive in famine.
20 ‖Our own soul‖ hath waited for Yahweh,
‖Our help and our shield‖ is he!
21 For <in him> shall our heart rejoice,
For <in his holy Name> have we trusted.
22 Be thy lovingkindness, O Yahweh, upon us,
According as we have waited for thee.

PSALM 34.

David's. When he disguised his sanity before Abimelech,—who dismissed him, and he departed.[b] [An Alphabetical Psalm.]

א 1 Let me bless Yahweh at all times,
Continually' be his praise in my mouth.
ב 2 <In Yahweh> boasteth my soul,
The patient oppressed-ones shall hear and be glad.
ג 3 Ascribe ye greatness unto Yahweh with me,
And let us exalt his Name together.

Make war upon them who make war upon me.

And arise in[a] my help;
3 Then draw the spear, and close up[b] against my pursuers,

Who are seeking my life,[c]—

With ‖the messenger of Yahweh‖ pursuing them.
7 For <without cause> have they hid for me, in a ditch, their net,— <Without cause> have they digged [a pit] for my life.[a]
8 There shall reach him a ruin he could not know,—
Yea ‖his own net which he hath hidden‖ shall capture him, <Into that ruin>[b] shall he fall!
9 But ‖my soul‖ shall exult in Yahweh,— shall be glad in his salvation:
10 ‖All my bones‖ shall say—
O Yahweh, who is like unto thee?
Rescuing the oppressed from one stronger than he,
Yea the oppressed and the needy, from their spoiler.
11 There rise up witnesses helping forward violence and wrong,[c]
<What I know not> they demand of me:
12 They repay me evil for good,
Bereaving my soul.
13 But ‖as for me‖ <when they were sick> my clothing was sackcloth,
I humbled, with fasting, my soul,
Though ‖my prayer‖ <unto mine own bosom> might return:
14 <Like as for a friend, like as for a brother of mine own>
I walked to and fro,
<As though mourning for a mother> I gloomily bowed myself down.[d]
15 But <in mine overthrow> have they rejoiced,
And gathered themselves together,—
There gathered themselves together against me foolish men,[e]
And I knew it not,
They have torn in pieces,[f] and not been silent;
16 <Amidst profane praters of perversion>[g]
Have they gnashed upon me with their teeth.
17 My Lord! how long wilt thou look on?
Bring back my soul out of their raging,
<From among lions> my solitary self.[h]
18 I will thank thee, in the midst of a great convocation,[i]—
<In the midst of a mighty people> will I praise thee.
19 Let not them who are falsely my foes rejoice over me,
<As for them who hate me without cause> let them not wink the eye!
20 For <no salutation> will they utter,—
But <against the quiet of the land> |deceitful things| do they devise;
21 Yea they have opened wide against me their mouth,
They have said,
Aha! Aha! our own eye |hath seen|!
22 Thou hast seen, O Yahweh, do not keep silence!
O My Lord! be not far from me:
23 Bestir thyself and wake up, to my vindication,
O my God and My Lord!—to my plea:
24 Vindicate me according to thy righteousness, O Yahweh, my God!
And let them not rejoice over me:
25 Let them not say in their heart,
Aha! to our mind![a]
Let them not say,
We have swallowed him up!
26 Let them' turn pale, and then at once' blush,
Who are rejoicing at my misfortune,—
Let them' be clothed with shame and confusion,
Who are magnifying themselves against me.
27 Let them' shout in triumph and rejoice,
Who are desiring my justification;
And let them say continually,
Yahweh be magnified,
Who hath taken pleasure in the prosperity of his servant.
28 ‖Mine own tongue also‖ shall softly utter thy righteousness,—
<All the day-long>—thy praise!

PSALM 36.

To the Chief Musician. Of the Servant of Yahweh—of David.

1 Declareth' the transgression of the lawless one, within my heart,[b]
There is ‖no' dread of God‖ before his eyes;
2 For he flattereth himself [too much] in his own eyes,
To find his iniquity—to hate [it].
3 ‖The words of his mouth‖ are iniquity and deceit,
He hath left off to shew discretion by doing well:
4 <Iniquity> deviseth he upon his bed,—
He taketh his stand in a way |not good|[c]
<Wrong> doth he not abhor!
5 O Yahweh! <in the heavens> is thy loving-kindness,
‖Thy faithfulness‖ as far as the fleecy clouds:
6 ‖Thy righteousness‖ is like mighty mountains,[d]

And[a] ‖thy just decrees‖ are a great resounding deep,— <Man and beast> thou savest, O Yahweh!

7 How precious' thy lovingkindness, O God,—
Therefore ‖the sons of men‖ <under the shadow of thy wings> seek refuge:
8 They abundantly relish[b] the fatness of thy house,—
And <out of the full stream[c] of thine own pleasures> thou givest them to drink.
9 For <with thee> is the fountain of life,
<In thy light> we see light.
10 Prolong thy lovingkindness unto them who know thee,—
And thy righteousness, to the upright in heart.
11 Let not the foot of pride reach' me,
Nor ‖the hand of the lawless‖ scare me away.
12 There' did the workers of iniquity fall,—
Thrust down, and not able to rise!

PSALM 37.

David's. [An Alphabetical Psalm.]

א 1 Burn not with vexation[d] because of evil-doers,
Be not[e] envious of the workers of perversity;
2 For <like grass> soon' shall they wither,
And <like green herbage> shall they fade.

ב 3 Trust in Yahweh, and do good,
Dwell in the land, and feed on fidelity;
4 Yea, rest thy delight on Yahweh,
That he may give thee the requests of thy heart.

ג 5 Roll on Yahweh thy way,
Trust also in him, and ‖he‖ will effectually work:
6 So will he bring forth, as the light, thy righteousness,
And thy vindication[f] as the noonday.

ד 7 Be resigned to Yahweh, yea wait with longing for him;
Burn not with vexation
At him who prospereth in his way,—
At the man who doeth wickedness.

ה 8 Cease from anger, and forsake wrath,
Burn not with vexation—[it would be] only to do evil;
9 For ‖evil doers‖ shall be cut off,
But <as for them who wait for Yahweh> ‖they‖ shall inherit the earth.[g]

ו 10 <Yet a little> therefore,
And the lawless' one shall not be',
Yea thou shalt look about, over his place—
And he shall have vanished!

11 But ‖the patient oppressed-ones‖ shall inherit the earth,[a]
And shall delight' themselves over the abundance of prosperity.

ז 12 Plotting' is the lawless one, against the just,
And gnashing upon him with his teeth.
13 ‖My Lord‖[b] shall laugh at him,
For he seeth, that his day' |will come|.[c]

ח 14 <A sword> have the lawless |drawn out|
And have trodden their bow,—
To bring down the oppressed and the needy,
To slaughter the upright in life:[d]
15 ‖Their sword‖ shall enter into their own heart,
And ‖their bow‖ shall be broken.

ט 16 Better' the little of the righteous man
Than the abundance of the lawless who are mighty;
17 For ‖the arms of the lawless‖ shall be broken,
But Yahweh |is upholding the righteous|.

י 18 Yahweh knoweth' the days of the blameless,
That ‖their inheritance‖ <unto times age-abiding> shall continue.
19 They shall not be ashamed in the time of calamity,
And <in the days of famine> shall they be filled.

כ 20 For ‖the lawless‖ shall perish,
And ‖the foes of Yahweh‖ be like the glory of the meadows,
They have vanished!
<In smoke>[e] have they vanished!

ל 21 A lawless man borroweth', and will not repay,
But ‖a righteous man‖ sheweth favour and giveth;
22 For ‖such as are blessed of him‖ shall inherit the earth,[a]
But ‖the accursed of him‖ shall be cut off.

מ 23 <From Yahweh> are the steps of a man made firm,
When <with his way> he is well pleased:
24 <Though he fall> he shall not be hurled headlong,
For ‖Yahweh‖ is holding his hand.

נ 25 <Young> have I been, moreover' am old,— Yet have I not seen
A righteous man forsaken,
Nor his seed begging bread:
26 <All day long> is he shewing favour and lending,
‖His seed‖ therefore, shall have a blessing.

ס 27 Turn from evil, and do good,
And so settle down, unto times age-abiding.
28 For ‖Yahweh‖ loveth justice,
And will not forsake his men of lovingkindness, <Unto times age-abiding> have the perverse [ע] been destroyed,[f]—
And ‖the seed of the lawless‖ been cut off.

29 ‖The righteous‖ shall inherit the earth,[a]
That they may settle down, to futurity, thereupon.

פ 30 ‖The mouth of a righteous man‖ softly uttereth wisdom,
And ‖his tongue‖ speaketh justice:
31 ‖The law[b] of his God‖ is in his heart,
His steps' shall not swerve.

צ 32 The lawless' man |lieth in wait| for the just',
And seeketh to put him to death:
33 ‖Yahweh‖ will not leave him in his hand,
Nor condemn him, when he is judged.

ק 34 Wait for Yahweh, and observe thou his path,
That he may exalt thee, to inherit the earth,[a]
<On the cutting off of the lawless> shalt thou look.

ר 35 I have seen a lawless man, a tyrant,[c]
And spreading himself out, like a cedar in Lebanon;[d]
36 Then I passed by,[e] and lo! he had vanished!
Yea I sought him, but he could not be found.

ש 37 Mark the blameless man,
And behold the upright,
For there is a hereafter[f] for the man of peace;[g]
38 But ‖transgressors‖ are to be destroyed together,[h]
‖The hereafter[f] of lawless men‖ is to be cut off.

ת 39 But[i] ‖the deliverance of the righteous‖ is from Yahweh,
‖Their refuge in a time of distress|.
40 Thus hath Yahweh helped them,
Thus hath he delivered them,—
He will deliver them from the lawless, and will save them,
Because they have sought refuge in him.

PSALM 38.

A Melody of David. To bring to Remembrance.

1 O Yahweh, do not <in thine anger> correct me,
Nor <in thy wrath> chastise me;
2 For ‖thine arrows‖ have sunk down into me,
And thy hand' |presseth heavily upon me|.
3 There is no' soundness in my flesh,
By reason of thine indignation,
There is no' peace in my bones,
By reason of my sin;
4 For ‖mine iniquities‖ have passed over my head,
<Like a heavy burden> they are too heavy for me:
5 My wounds' are of bad odour—they have festered,
By reason of my folly:
6 I am bent, I am bowed down very low.
<All the day> have I gloomily' walked;
7 For |my loins| are filled with inflammation,
And there is no' soundness in my flesh:
8 I am benumbed and crushed exceedingly,—
I have cried aloud because of the groaning of my heart.[a]
9 O My Lord! <before thee> is all my longing,
And ‖my sighing‖ <from thee> hath not been hid:
10 ‖My heart‖ fluttereth, my strength hath forsaken me,
And <as for the light of mine eyes>[b] ‖even they‖ are not with me:
11 ‖My lovers, and my friends‖ <from before my stroke> stand aloof,—
And ‖my near ones‖ <far away> do stand:
12 Yea they who are seeking my life |have laid snares|,
And ‖they who are asking my harm‖ have threatened engulfing ruin,
And <deceitful things—all day long> do they mutter.
13 But ‖I‖ <as one deaf> will not hear,—
And as one dumb, who will not open his mouth:
14 Thus have I become as a man who cannot hear,
In whose mouth are no arguments:
15 Because <for thee> O Yahweh, have I waited,
‖Thou‖ wilt answer, O Adonay,[c] my God!
16 For I said Lest they rejoice over me!
<When my feet were tottering> ‖against me‖ have they magnified themselves:
17 For ‖I‖ <to halt> am ready,
And ‖my pain‖ is before me continually;
18 For <mine iniquity> will I declare,
I shall be anxious because of my sin;
19 And <my foes> are alive[d]—have become strong,—
And multiplied' are they who hate me for false cause:
20 ‖Even they who are repaying evil for good‖ accuse me because I pursue the good.
21 Do not forsake me, O Yahweh!
My God! be not far from me:
22 Make haste to help me,
My Lord, my deliverance!

I will put[a] on my mouth a muzzle,
So long as the lawless is before me.

2 I was dumb with silence,
I held my peace, afar from happiness,[b]
But ‖my pain‖ had been stirred:
3 Hot' was my heart within me,
<While I was musing> there was kindled a fire,
I spake with my tongue!

4 Let me know, O Yahweh, mine end,
And the measure of my days—what it is,
I would know how short-lived I am'.

5 Lo! <as hand-breadths> hast thou granted my days,
And ‖my life-time‖ is as nothing before thee,—
Surely  are all men, [even] such as stand firm.[d] [Selah.

6 <Surely as a shadow> doth every man wander,
<Surely in vain> do they bustle about,

<The reproach of the base> oh do not make me!
9 I am dumb, I cannot open my mouth,
For ‖thou‖ hast done it.
10 Remove from off me thy stroke,
<Because of the hostility of thy hand> am ‖I‖ consumed.
11 <When ‖by rebukes for iniquity‖ thou hast corrected a man>
Then hast thou consumed,[g] as a moth, all that was delightful within him,
Surely  are all men. [Selah.

12 Hear my prayer, O Yahweh,
And <unto my cry for help> give ear,
<At my tears> do not be silent,—
For  am ‖I‖ with thee,
‖A stranger, like all my fathers‖.
13 Look away from me, that I may brighten up,
Ere yet I depart and am no more.

PSALM 40.

To the Chief Musician. David's. A Melody.[h]

1 I ‖waited patiently‖ for Yahweh,—
And he inclined[i] unto me, and heard my cry for help;
2 So he brought me up
Out of the destroying' pit,
Out of the swampy' mire,—
And set upon a cliff my feet,
Making firm my steps:
3 Then put he into my mouth a new song,
Praise to our God,—
Many shall see and revere,
And shall trust in Yahweh.

4 How happy the man
Who hath made Yahweh his confidence,
Who hath not turned unto the haughty,
Nor gone aside unto falsehood.

5 <Mighty things> hast thou done—
‖Thou, Yahweh my God‖,
<Thy wonderful doings and thy purposes towards us>
There is no' setting them in order unto thee—
I would tell, and would speak!—
They are too great to rehearse.[a]

6 <Sacrifice and meal-offering> thou didst not delight in,
<Ears> didst thou pierce[b] for me,[c]—
<Ascending-sacrifice and sin-bearer> thou didst not ask:
7 ‖Then‖ said I—
Lo! I am come,
<In the written scroll> is it prescribed for me;
8 ‖To do thy good-pleasure, O my God‖ is my delight,
And ‖thy law‖[d] is in the midst of mine inward parts:
9 I have told the good-tidings of righteousness in a great convocation,
Lo! <my lips> do I not restrain,
O Yahweh, ‖thou‖ knowest:
10 <Thy righteousness> have I not hid in the midst of my heart,
<Thy faithfulness and thy salvation>[e] have I spoken,
I have not concealed thy lovingkindness and thy truthfulness from the[f] great convocation.[g]
11 ‖Thou, O Yahweh‖ wilt not restrain thy compassions from me, ‖Thy lovingkindness and thy truthfulness‖ shall continually' watch over me.
12 For there have closed in upon me, misfortunes beyond number,
Mine iniquities have overtaken' me, and I cannot see,
They have become more than the hairs of my head,
And ‖my courage‖[h] hath forsaken me!
13 Be pleased, O Yahweh, to rescue me,[i]
O Yahweh! <to help me> make haste!

Who are seeking my life to snatch it away,—
Let them' draw back, and be confounded,
Who are taking pleasure in my calamity;
15 Let them' be astonished on account of their own shame,
Who are saying of me, Aha! Aha!
16 Let all them' be glad and rejoice in thee,
Who are seekers of thee.
Let[a] them' say continually— Yahweh be magnified!
Who are lovers of thy salvation.[b]
17 <But ‖I‖ being oppressed and needy>
May My Lord[c] devise for me,—
<My help and my deliverer> thou art'!
O my God, do not tarry!

PSALM 41.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

1 How happy is he that is attentive to the poor,
<In the day of calamity> will Yahweh deliver him:
2 ‖Yahweh‖ will preserve him and keep him alive,
And he shall[d] be pronounced happy in the land,
Do not then give him up' at the desire[e] of his enemies!
3 ‖Yahweh‖ will sustain him upon the bed of sickness,
<All his couch> hast thou transformed[f] in his disease.
4 ‖I‖ said—
O Yahweh, shew me favour,
Heal thou my soul,
For I have sinned against thee:
5 ‖Mine enemies‖ speak ill of me,
When will he die, and his name perish?
6 And <if he have come to see me>
<Falsehood> doth he speak,
‖His own heart‖ gathereth iniquity to itself,
He goeth forth, abroad' he telleth it.
7 <Together—against me> do all who hate me whisper among themselves, <Against me> devise they hurt for me.
8 ‖An infliction of the Abandoned One[a] hath been fixed upon[b] him,
And <now that he hath lien down> he will not again' rise.
9 ‖Even the man whom I used to salute,[c]
In whom I put confidence,
Who used to eat my bread‖,—
Hath magnified his heel against me![d]
10 But ‖thou, O Yahweh‖ shew me favour and raise me up,
That I may repay them.
11 ‖Hereby‖ do I know that thou delightest in me,
In that mine enemy shall not raise a shout over me.
12 But ‖as for me‖
<In my blamelessness> hast thou held me fast,
And hast caused me to stand before thee unto times age-abiding.

BOOK THE SECOND.

PSALM 42.

To the Chief Musician. An Instructive Psalm for the Sons of Korah.

1 <As ‖the hart‖ cometh panting up to the channels of water>
‖So my soul‖ panteth for thee, O God.
2 My soul thirsteth' for God, for a God who liveth,—
When shall I enter in, and see the face of[a] God?
3 My tears' have been my food' day and night,
While it hath been said unto me all the day,
Where' is thy God?
4 <These things> I keep calling to mind, and pouring out, over me, my own soul,
For I used to cross over with a crowd,
Lead them in procession up to the house of God,
‖With the voice of shouting and praise,—a throng keeping festival‖.
5 Why shouldst thou be cast down, O my soul?
And [why][a] shouldst thou moan over me?
Wait thou for God, for yet' shall I praise him,
As the triumph of my[b] presence.[c]

[a] So it shd be—G. Intro. 458. So it is in some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Aram., Syr.)—G.n.

6 My God![a] <over myself> my soul is cast down,—
<For this cause> will I remember thee from the land of Jordan,
And the Hermons[b] from the hill Mizar.
7 <Roaring deep unto roaring deep> is calling, at the voice of thy cataracts,[c]
‖All thy breakers and thy rolling waves‖ <over me> have passed.

8 <By day> will Yahweh command his loving-kindness,
And <in the night> shall His song be with me,
My prayer be to the God of my life.[d]
9 I will say unto God—my rock,[e]
Wherefore' hast thou forgotten me?
Wherefore' in gloom' should I go, because of oppression by the enemy?
10 <With[f] a crushing of my bones> have my adversaries reproached me,— While they keep saying unto me all the day,
Where' is thy God?

11 Why shouldst thou be cast down, O my soul!
And why shouldst thou moan over me?
Wait thou for God, for yet' shall I praise him,
As the triumph of my presence, and my God.

PSALM 43[g]

1 Vindicate me, O God, and plead my cause,[h]
Against a nation |without lovingkindness|,
<From the man of deceit and perversity> wilt thou deliver me?
2 For ‖thou‖ art my defending' God—[i]
Wherefore' hast thou rejected me?
Wherefore' in gloom' should I wander, because of the oppression of an enemy?
3 Send forth thy light and thy faithfulness,
Let ‖them‖ lead[k] me?
Let them bring me into thy holy' mountain,
and into thy habitations:
4 That I may go in unto the altar of God,
Unto God, mine exultant joy,—
That I may praise thee with the lyre,
O God—mine own God!

5 Why shouldst thou be cast down, O my soul?
And why shouldst thou moan over me,
Wait thou for God, for yet' shall I praise him,
As the triumph of my presence, and my God.

PSALM 44.

To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah. An Instructive Psalm.

1 O God! <with our own ears> have we heard,
‖Our fathers‖ have recounted to us,—
The work thou didst work
In their days,
In the days of aforetime:
2 ‖Thou thyself, with thine own hand‖—
Didst dispossess ‖nations‖,
And didst plant them',
Didst break peoples in pieces,
And didst spread them' out:
3 For <not by their own sword> gat they possession of the land,
Nor did ‖their own arm‖ win victory for them,—
But thine own right hand, and thine own arm, and the light of thy face,
Because thou hadst accepted them.

4 ‖Thou thyself‖ art my king, O God,
Command thou the victories of Jacob.
5 <By thee> will we thrust at ‖our adversaries‖,
<In thy Name> will we tread down our assailants;
6 For <not in my bow> will I trust,
Nor shall ‖my sword‖ give me victory;
7 For thou hast saved us from our adversaries,
And <them who hated us> hast thou put to shame.
8 <In God> have we boasted all the day,
And <thy Name—unto times age-abiding> will we praise. [Selah.

9 But nay'[a] thou hast rejected,[b] and confounded us,
And wilt not go forth with our hosts;
10 Thou sufferest us to turn back from the adversary,
And ‖they who hate us‖ have plundered at will:[c]
11 Thou dost give us up like sheep to be devoured,
And <amongst the nations> hast thou scattered us.
12 Thou dost sell thy people for |no-value|,
And hast not made increase by their price.
13 Thou dost make us
A reproach to our neighbours,
A mockery and a derision' to them who are round about us:
14 Thou dost make us
A by'-word among the nations,—
A shaking of the head' among the peoples.
15 <All the day> is my confusion before me,
And ‖the shame of my face‖ hath covered me:

[a] Some cod. (w. Aram.): "Howbeit"—G.n.
[b] Some cod. (w. Syr.) add: "us"—G.n.
[c] Lit.: "for themselves." Some cod. (w. Aram., Syr.): "plundered us"—G.n.

16 At the voice of him who reproacheth and revileth,
At the face of the foe and avenger.

17 ‖All this‖ hath come upon us,
Yet had we not forgotten thee,
Neither had we dealt falsely' with thy covenant;
18 Our heart had not drawn back,
Nor had our goings[a] swerved from thy path;
19 That thou shouldst have crushed us down' in the place of wild dogs,
And covered us over with a deadly shadow.

20 <If we had forgotten the Name of our God,
And had spread forth our hands unto the God of the foreigner>
21 Would not ‖God‖ have searched into this,
Seeing that ‖he‖ knoweth the secrets of the heart?

22 Surely <for thy sake> have we been slain all the day,
We have been accounted as sheep for slaughter.[b]

23 Awake thou! wherefore' shouldst thou sleep, O Lord?[c]
Bestir thee! do not reject us altogether!
24 Wherefore' shouldst thou hide |thy face|?
Shouldst forget our humiliation and our oppression?
For our soul |sinketh down to the dust|,
Our body |cleaveth to the earth|.

25 Arise to our help,
And ransom us, because of thine own loving-kindness.

PSALM 45.

To the Chief Musician. On[d] Shoshannim.[e] For the Sons of Korah. A Psalm of Instruction. A Song of Love.[f]

1 Overflowed' hath my heart, with an excellent theme,
I will recite' my poem concerning the king,
Be ‖my tongue‖ [like] the pen of a scribe who is skilled.

2 Most beautiful thou art, beyond the sons of men,
Graciousness hath been poured forth by thy lips,
<For this cause> hath God blessed thee, to times age-abiding.

3 Gird thy sword upon thy thigh, O mighty one,
['Tis] thine honour and thy majesty;
4 And <[in] thy majesty> be successful! ride forth!
On behalf of faithfulness, and humility—righteousness,
And let thine own right hand shew thee wonderful things.

5 ‖Thine arrows‖ are sharp—
‖Peoples‖ <under thee> fall!
In the heart[a] of the foes of the king.

6 ‖Thy throne, O God‖ is to times age-abiding and beyond,
<A sceptre of equity>[b] is the sceptre of thy kingdom.
7 Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated lawlessness,—
<For this cause> hath God, thine own God, anointed thee
With the oil of gladness, beyond thy partners.[c]

8 ‖Myrrh and aloes, cassias,[d] all thy garments,—
<Out of the palaces of ivory> |the tones of strings| have rejoiced thee.
9 ‖Daughters of kings‖ are among thine honourable women,[e]
Stationed' is the bride at thy right hand, in gold of Ophir.

10 Hearken, O daughter, and observe,
Incline also thine ear,
Forget, then, thine own people,
And the house of thy father;
11 When the king shall desire' thy beauty,
Surely ‖he‖ is thy lord, then bow down to him.

12 Also ‖the daughter of Tyre‖ [cometh in] with a present!
<Thy face> shall the rich of the people appease.

13 |All glorious[f]—the daughter of a king| [sitteth] within,
<Brocades, wrought with gold> [are] her clothing!
14 <In embroidered raiment>[g] shall she be brought unto the king,—
‖The virgins that follow her, her companions‖ are to be conducted unto thee:
15 They shall be brought, with rejoicings and exultation,—
They shall enter into the palace of the king!

16 |Instead of thy[h] fathers| be thy[h] sons,
Thou shalt make them rulers in all the earth.

17 I will keep in remembrance thy Name, through each succeeding generation,
<For this cause> |peoples| shall praise thee, to times age-abiding and beyond.

PSALM 46.

To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah, on Alamoth.[a] A Song.

1 ‖God—for us‖ is a refuge and strength,
A help in distresses, soon found.[b]
2 <For this cause> will we not fear,
Though the earth' sheweth change,
Or the mountains' slip into the heart of the seas:
3 The waters thereof roar and foam,
The mountains tremble with the swelling thereof.[c] [Selah.

4 A river! ‖whose channels‖[d] shall gladden the city of God,
The Most High |hath hallowed his habitation|.[e]
5 ‖God‖ is in the midst of her, she shall not be shaken,
God will help' her, by the turnings of the morning.
6 Nations have roared,
Kingdoms have tottered,
He hath uttered his voice, Earth melteth.

7 ‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is with us,
<A high tower for us> is the God of Jacob. [Selah.

8 Come! view the doings of Yahweh,[f]—
Who hath set desolations in the earth;
9 Causing wars to cease unto the end of the earth,—
<The bow> he shivereth,
And breaketh in pieces the spear,
<War-chariots> burneth he up with fire.

10 Let be! and know' that ‖I‖ am God,
I will be exalted among the nations,
I will be exalted in the earth.

11 ‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is with us,
<A high tower for us> is the God of Jacob. [Selah.

PSALM 47.

To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah. A Melody.

1 All ye peoples, clap your hands,
Shout unto God, with the voice of triumph;
2 For ‖Yahweh—as Most High‖ is to be revered,
A great king, over all the earth,
3 He will subjugate
Peoples under us, and
Tribes of men[g] beneath our feet.

4 He chooseth for us our inheritance,
The excellence of Jacob, which[a] he hath loved. [Selah.

5 God hath ascended with a shout,
Yahweh, with the sound of a horn.
6 Sing praises unto God,[b] sing praises,
Sing praises to our King, sing praises;
7 For God is |king of[c] all the earth|,
Sing praises with understanding.[d]

8 God |hath become king| over the nations,
‖God‖ hath taken his seat upon his holy' throne.
9 ‖The willing-hearted[e] of the peoples‖ have gathered themselves together,
The people of the God of Abraham;
For <to God> belong the shields[f] of the earth,
Greatly' is he exalted.

PSALM 48.

A Melodious Song. For the Sons of Korah.

1 Great' is Yahweh, and worthy to be mightily' praised,
In the city of our God, His holy mountain.
2 <Beautiful in elevation, the joy of all the land>[g]
Is Mount Zion, in the recesses of the north,[h]—
The city of a great king.
3 ‖God‖ <in her palaces> is to be known as a high tower.
4 For lo! ‖Kings‖—
Met as appointed,
Passed by together;
5 ‖They themselves‖ saw,
‖So‖ were they amazed,
Dismayed—they hurried away!
6 ‖Trembling‖ seized them |there|,
‖Pangs‖ like hers who is in travail.

7 <With an east wind> wilt thou shatter the ships of Tarshish.

8 <Just as we had heard> ‖So‖ have we seen,
In the city of Yahweh of hosts,
In the city of our God,
‖God himself‖ will establish her, unto times age-abiding. [Selah.

9 We have thought, O God, upon thy loving-kindness,
In the midst of thy temple:
10 <According to thy Name, O God>
‖So‖ be thy praise, unto the ends of the earth,
<With righteousness> is |thy right hand| filled.

11 Let Mount Zion rejoice,
Let the daughters of Judah exult,
Because of thy judgments.

12 Go round Zion, and compass her about,
Reckon up her towers;
13 Apply your mind[a] to her rampart,[b]
Pass between her palaces,
That ye may recount them to an after' generation;
14 For ‖this' God‖[c] is our' God, to times age-abiding and beyond,
‖He himself‖ will conduct us till death.[d]

PSALM 49.

To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah. A Melody.

Hear ye this, all ye peoples,
Give ear, all ye inhabitants of this passing world;[e]
2 Both sons of the low And sons of the high,— Together' both rich and needy:—
3 ‖My mouth‖ shall speak forth Wisdom,
And the soft utterance of my heart be Understanding:
4 I will bend, to a by-word, mine ear,
I will open, on the lyre, mine enigma.[f]

5 Wherefore' should I fear in the days of calamity,
Though the iniquity of them who lie in wait for me should enclose me?

6 <As for them who are trusting in their wealth,—
And |in the abundance of their riches| do boast themselves>
7 <A brother>[g] can none of them ‖redeem‖,
He cannot[h] give unto God a ransom for himself':
8 <So costly> is the redemption of their soul,
That it faileth unto times age-abiding;
9 That he should |yet| live on |continually|,
Should not see corruption.[i]
10 For it is seen that ‖the wise‖ die,
<Together with the dullard and the brutish> do they perish,
And leave, to others, their wealth:
11 Their ‖inward thought‖ is that[k] their houses are for times age-abiding,
Their habitations, for generation after generation,—
They give their own names unto lands!

12 But ‖a son of earth, though wealthy‖ cannot tarry,
He hath made himself a by-word—
<Beasts> they resemble!

13 ‖This, their way‖, is a folly to them,
And yet ‖their followers‖ <with their mouth> approve. [Selah.

14 <Like sheep—into hades> are they driven,
‖Death‖ shall shepherd them,—
And the upright shall have dominion over them in the morning,[a]
‖Even their form‖ is to decay,
‖Hades‖ is all that remaineth of a habitation for him.[b]

15 But ‖God‖ will redeem my soul,[c] out of the hand of hades,
For he will take me. [Selah.

16 Do not fear
When a man becometh rich,
When the glory of his house increaseth;
17 For <when he dieth> he shall take ‖nothing‖,
His glory' shall not descend after him;
18 For <though <his own self[d]—while he lived> he used to bless,
And they will praise thee, when thou doest well to thyself>[e]
19 He[f] shall enter as far as the circle[g] of his fathers, <Nevermore> shall they see the light.[h]

20 ‖A son of earth though wealthy, who discerneth not‖
Hath made himself a by-word,
<Beasts> they resemble!

PSALM 50.

A Melody of[i] Asaph.

1 ‖El, Elohim, Yahweh‖ hath spoken, and called the earth,
From the rising of the sun, unto the going in thereof:
2 <Out of Zion the perfection of beauty>
|God| hath shone forth.

3 Let our God come, and let him not keep silence!

[a] U.: "heart"; but often = "mind."
[b] Ml.: "the rampart"; which, however, O.G. 298[a] takes as = "her rampart." In some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.) it is: "her rampart"—G.n.
[c] Or: "such a God"—O.G.
[d] In some cod. (w. 5 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Vul.): "for ever" (ml. "unto times age-abiding"); but the Massorites, by a correction which divides one word into two, make it = "unto death"—G.n. But see O.G. 761 ("tr. prob. to xlix. 1"[= a title "Concerning Death"].

"Surely no man can at all redeem,
Nor give unto God his ransom."
[h] Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.): "Nor can he"—G.n.
[i] Or: "the pit."
[k] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "their grave is" (or, "their graves are" ["their houses," etc.]; Gt.: "their grave"—G.n. Cp. O.G. 868.

[a] Gt.: "Let them then descend smoothly to the grave"—G.n.
[b] So, in effect, Fuerst, p. 383*b*. According to the Massoretic pointing, however, the rendering shd rather be: "Even their form is for Hades to consume away out of his abode (? lofty house)." Cp. O.G. 115[a], w. 259*b*.
[c] Or: "life."
[d] U.: "soul."
[e] The result of two various readings in this line, found in some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.), would be this: "So that he would praise thee when thou didst well to him"—Cp. G.n.
[f] So it shd be (w. Sep., Vul.)—G.n.
[g] Or: "dwelling-place"—O.G. Ml.: "generation."
[h] "Unto the end (a long duration) they shall not see the light"—O.G. 664[a], 3.
[i] Or: "for."

‖A fire—before him‖ shall devour,
And <around him> hath it become exceeding tempestuous:
4 He calleth Unto the heavens above,
And unto the earth,
That he may judge[a] his people.

5 Gather yourselves unto me—ye my men of lovingkindness,
Who have solemnised my covenant over sacrifice.

6 Now have the heavens declared his righteousness,
Because ‖God‖ is |about to judge|. [Selah.

7 Hear, O my people, and I will speak,
O Israel, and I will adjure thee,
<God, thine own God> I am':—

8 Not <for thy sacrifices> will I reprove thee,
Nor for thine ascending-offerings, before me continually:
9 I will not take out of thy house—a bullock,
Nor out of thy folds—he-goats;
10 For <mine> is every wild-beast of the forest,
The cattle on the mountains,[b] in their thousands;
11 I know every bird of the mountains,
And ‖the moving things of the plain‖ are with me:
12 <If I were hungry> I would not tell thee,
For <mine> is the world, and the fulness thereof.

13 Will I eat the flesh of mighty oxen?
Or <the blood of he-goats> will I drink?

14 Sacrifice to God a thankoffering,[c]
And pay to the Most High thy vows;
15 Call upon me, then, in the day of distress,
I will deliver thee, that thou mayest glorify me.

16 But <to the lawless one> God saith,
What hast ‖thou‖ to do, to recount my statutes?
Or that thou hast taken up my covenant upon thy mouth?
17 Seeing that ‖thou‖ hast hated correction,
And hast cast my words behind thee;
18 <If thou sawest a thief> then didst thou run[d] with him,—
And <with adulterers> hath been thy chosen life;
19 <Thy mouth> hast thou thrust into wickedness,
And ‖thy tongue‖ kept weaving deceit;
20 Thou wouldst sit down—
<Against thine own brother> wouldst thou speak,
<Against thine own mother's son> wouldst thou expose a fault:—
21 <These things> hast thou done, and I have kept silence,
Thou thoughtest that I should really be' like thyself,
I will convict thee, yea I will set [thine offences] in order before thine eyes.

22 Understand this, I pray you, ye forgetters of God,
Lest I tear in pieces, and there be none' to deliver:—

23 ‖He that sacrificeth a thankoffering‖ will glorify me,—
And will prepare a way[a] by which I may shew him the salvation of God.

PSALM 51.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David. When Nathan the Prophet had come to him, after he had gone in unto Bath-sheba.

1 Be favourable unto me, O God, according to thy lovingkindness,
And <in the multitude of thy compassions> blot out my transgressions;
2 Thoroughly' wash me from mine iniquity,
And <from my sin> make me pure;
3 For <my transgressions> do ‖I‖ acknowledge,
And ‖my sin‖ is before me continually:
4 <Against thee — against thee alone> have I sinned,
And <wickedness — in thine eyes> have I done,—
That thou mayest
Be justified when thou speakest,—[b]
Be clear when thou judgest.
5 Lo! <in iniquity> was I brought forth,
And <in sin> did my mother' conceive me.
6 Lo! <faithfulness> hast thou desired in the inward parts,
Yea <in the hidden part> wilt thou cause me to know |wisdom|.
7 Wilt thou cleanse me from sin[c] with hyssop,
That I may be pure?
Wilt thou wash me,
That I may be whiter |than snow|?
8 Wilt thou cause me to hear[d] joy and gladness?
The bones thou hast crushed |would exult|.
9 Hide thy face from my sins,—
And <all mine iniquities> blot out;
10 <A pure heart> create for me, O God,
And  renew within me.
11 Do not cast me away from thy presence,
And <thy Holy Spirit> do not take from me:
12 Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation,

[a] Or, simply: "To judge his people."
[b] Some read: "on the mountains of God," as in Ps. xxxvi. 6– O.G. 40.
[c] Or, simply: "thanksgiving."
[d] So it shd be (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.)—G.n.
[a] Some cod. (w. 5 ear. pr. edns., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "And ‖there‖ will be a way by which," etc. But Gt.: "And ‖him who is blameless in his way‖ will I shew the salvation of God"—G.n.
[b] Ml.: "in thy word." In some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edns. [1 Rabb.], Sep. and Vul.): "in thy words" (pl.)—G.n.
[c] Or: "sin-cleanse me."
[d] Gt.: "Wilt thou satisfy me with." Cp. Ps. xc. 14—G.n.

And <with a willing[a] spirit> wilt thou uphold me:—
13 I would teach transgressors thy ways,
And ‖sinners‖ <unto thee> should return.
14 Rescue me from shed-blood, O God, the God of my salvation,
My tongue should shout' thy righteousness;
15 O My Lord! <my lips> wilt thou open,
And ‖my mouth‖ shall declare thy praise.
16 For thou wilt not desire sacrifice—that I should give it,
‖Ascending-offering‖ will not please:
17 ‖The sacrifices of God‖ are a spirit that is broken,—
<A heart—broken and crushed> O God, thou wilt not despise.
18 Do good, in thy good-pleasure, unto Zion,
Wilt thou build the walls of Jerusalem!
19 ‖Then‖ shalt thou desire the sacrifices of righteousness,
Ascending-sacrifice and whole burnt-offering,
‖Then‖ shall ascend upon thine altar, young bulls.

PSALM 52.

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of Instruction, of David. When Doeg the Edomite went, and told Saul; and said to him,—|David| hath entered the house of Ahimelech.

1 Why dost thou boast thyself of wickedness, O mighty man?
‖The lovingkindness of GOD‖ [lasteth] all the day.
2 <Engulfing ruin> doth thy tongue devise,
Like a whetted razor, working deceit;
3 Thou lovest Evil more than good,
Falsehood, more than speaking righteousness. [Selah.
4 Thou lovest all devouring words, O deceitful tongue!
5 ‖GOD also‖ will break thee down utterly,—
He will snatch thee up and tear thee away tentless,
And uproot thee, out of the land of the living. [Selah.
6 The righteous shall both see and fear,
And <over him> shall laugh:
7 Lo! the man who made not God' his refuge,—
But trusted in the abundance of his riches,
Emboldened himself in his wealth![b]
8 But ‖I‖ am like a flourishing' olive-tree, in the house of God,
I have put confidence in the lovingkindness of God, for times age-abiding and beyond.
9 I will praise thee to times age-abiding,
Because thou didst effectually work,—
And I will wait on[a] thy Name,
Because it is good,
In the presence of thy men[b] of lovingkindness.

PSALM 53.

To the Chief Musician. On "Mahalath."[c] A Psalm of Instruction, of David.

1 The impious hath said in his heart,
There is no' God!
They have acted corruptly,
They have wrought abominable perversity,
There is none' that doeth good:—
2 ‖God‖ <out of the heavens> looked down upon the sons of men,—
To see whether there was' one that shewed wisdom,
Enquiring after God.
3 ‖They all‖ have turned back,
Together' have they become tainted,—
There is none' that doeth good,
Not' so much as ‖one‖!
4 Are the workers[d] of iniquity |without knowledge|?
Devouring my people, [as] they devour food?
<Upon God>[e] have they not called.
5 There' have they been in great dread[f] where no dread was,
Because ‖God‖ hath scattered the bones of thy besieger,—
Thou hast put [him] to shame,
Because ‖God‖ had |rejected| them.[g]
6 Oh that <out of Zion> were granted the salvations[h] of Israel!
<When God[i] bringeth back the captives[k] of his people>
Jacob' |shall exult|, Israel' |shall be glad|.

PSALM 54.

To the Chief Musician: with Stringed Instruments. A Psalm of Instruction, of David. When the Ziphites came and said unto Saul, Is not ‖David‖ hiding himself |with us|?[l]

1 O God! <by thine own Name> save me,
And <by thine own strength> wilt thou vindicate me?

[a] Gk.: "utter," or "proclaim"—G.n.
[b] Some cod.: "man" (sing.)—G.n.
[c] "Appar. a catchword in a song, giving name to tune"—O.G. 318[b].
[d] In some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns. [1 Rabb.], Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "Are all the workers." Cp. Ps. xiv. 4—G.n.
[e] Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.): "Yahweh." Cp. Ps. xiv. 4—G.n.
[f] Ml.: "dreaded a dread."
[g] In some MSS. is found the verse:—
"The purpose of the poor ye would put to shame, Because Yahweh is his refuge."
—Cp. Ps. xiv. 6—G.n.
[h] In some cod. (w. Sep. and Syr.): "salvation" (sing.). Cp. Ps. xiv. 7—G.n. G. Intro. 148.
[i] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep. and Syr.): "When Yahweh." Cp. Ps. xiv. 7—G.n.
[k] Ml.: "captivity."
[l] Cp. 1 S. xxiii. 19.

[a] Or: "noble," "generous." Cp. Is. xxxii. 8.
[b] So it shd be (w. Aram., Syr.). Cp. Ps. cxii. 3—G.n.

2 O God! Hear my prayer,
Give ear to the sayings of my mouth;
3 For ‖aliens‖[a] have risen up against me,
And ‖men of violence‖[b] have sought my life,[c]
They have not set God before them. [Selah.

4 Lo! ‖God‖ is bringing me help,
‖My Lord‖ is with the upholders of my life;[c]
5 Let him turn back the mischief[d] upon mine adversaries,
<In thy faithfulness> destroy them!

6 <With a freewill-offering>[e] will I sacrifice unto thee,
I will praise thy Name, O Yahweh, for it is good;
7 For <out of all distress> hath he rescued me,—
And <upon my foes> hath |mine own eye| looked.

PSALM 55.

To the Chief Musician: with stringed Instruments. A Psalm of Instruction, of David.

1 Give ear, O God, to my prayer,
And do not hide thyself from my supplication:
2 Attend unto me, and answer me,
I may ramble in my complaining,
And be driven to and fro—
3 Because of the noise of the enemy,
By reason of the oppression[f] of the lawless one,
For they would let trouble drop upon me,
And <in anger> would they entrap me.
4 ‖My heart‖ would writhe within me,
And ‖the terrors of Death‖ have fallen upon me:
5 ‖Fear and trembling‖ would enter me,
And there would have overwhelmed me—a horror!

6 Then I said—
Oh that there were given me a pinion, like a dove,
I would fly away and be at rest:[g]
7 Lo! I would take a distant flight,
I would tarry in the wilderness.[h] [Selah.

8 I would hasten mine escape,
From rushing wind, from storm.

9 Confuse, O My Lord,[i] divide their speech,
For I have seen violence and contention in the city;
10 <Day and night> they go round her, upon her walls,
And ‖trouble and misery‖ are in her midst;

11 ‖Engulfing ruin‖ is in her midst,
And there depart not from her broadway, oppression and deceit.

12 For it is <not an enemy> that reproacheth me,
Or I could bear it,—
Not one that hath hated me, who <against me> hath magnified himself,
Or I might hide myself from him;
13 But it is ‖thou‖, a man esteemed as mine equal,
Mine associate, and mine acquaintance;
14 So that together' have we been wont to find sweetness in counsel,
<In the house of God> used we to walk in the throng.

15 Desolations on them![a]
Let them go down into hades alive,
For ‖wicked doings‖ are at home within them.

16 ‖I‖ <unto God> will cry,—
And ‖Yahweh‖ will save me.

17 <At evening and morning and high noon> have I been wont to lament and complain,
And he hath heard my voice!
18 He hath completely redeemed my soul, out of the attack upon me,
For ‖in multitudes‖ were they [in conflict] with me.
19 God will hear,
Yea He' will humble them[b] who aforetime sat [enthroned]. [Selah.

With whom are no' changings,[c]
Neither have they revered God.

20 He hath thrust forth his hands,[d] against them' he was wont to salute,
He hath violated his covenant;
21 <Smoother than curds>[e] were [the words of] his mouth,
But ‖war‖ was [in] his heart,—
Softer' his words than oil',
Yet ‖they‖ were drawn swords!

22 Cast upon Yahweh thy lot,[f] and ‖he‖ will sustain thee:
He will not suffer, to times age-abiding, the righteous one to be shaken.

23 But ‖thou‖, O God, wilt bring them down to the pit of destruction, ‖Men of bloodshed and deceit‖ shall not live out half their days;
But ‖I‖ will trust in thee.

[a] Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns. [1 Babb.], Aram.): "insolent men." Cp. Ps. lxxxvi. 14—G.n.
[b] Or: "tyrants."
[c] U.: "soul."
[d] Written: "Let the mischief turn back"; read: "Let him turn back the m." In some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Aram., Sep.): "Let him," etc., written and read—G.n.
[e] Or: "freely."
[f] Gt.: "outcry"—G.n.
[g] Or: "and settle down."
[h] Cp. Jer. ix. 2.
[i] Or transfer the name: "Adonay."

[a] So written, which Davies (H. L. 423[b]) thinks better; but read: "Let death pounce or exact upon them." The latter is both written and read in some cod. (w. 9 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.)—G.n.
[b] So it shd be (w. Sep. and Syr.)—G.n.
[c] "Expression peculiar and obscure . . . text perhaps corrupt"—O.G. 322[b].
[d] Some cod. (w. Sep. and Vul.): "hand" (sing.)—G.n.
[e] So it shd be (w. Aram. and Syr.)—G.n.
[f] "The care, anxiety, etc., which are thy portion"; cp. Ps. xxxvii. 5—O.G. 396[b].

PSALM 56.

To the Chief Musician. Upon "The Dove of God from the distant Sea."[a] David's. A precious Psalm.[b] When the Philistines seized him in Gath.

1 Shew me favour, O God,
For weak man hath panted for me,
‖All the day‖ a fighter oppresseth me:
2 Mine adversaries have panted all the day,
For ‖many‖ are fighting with me |loftily|.
3 <What day I am afraid>
‖I‖ unto thee' will direct my confidence.

4 <In God> I will praise his cause,[c]—
<In God> have I trusted, I will not fear,
What can flesh do unto me!

5 <All the day> they wrest |my words|,
<Against me> all their devices are for mischief;
6 They stir up strife—they lie hid,
‖They‖ mark my steps',—
Seeing they have waited for my life.[d]
7 <Because of iniquity> recompense thou them,[e]—
<In anger> bring thou down ‖the peoples‖, O God.
8 <My wandering> hast ‖thou‖ recorded,—
Put thou my tears in thy bottle,
Are they not in thy record?
9 ‖Then‖ shall my foes turn back, in the day I cry,
‖This‖ I know, for[f] God is mine!

10 <In God> will I praise with good cause:
<In Yahweh> will I praise with good cause;
11 <In God> have I trusted, I will not fear,
What can a son of earth do unto me?

12 <Upon me> O God, are thy vows,
I will pay back praises unto thee.
13 For thou hast rescued my soul from death,
Wilt thou not [rescue] my feet from stumbling?[g]
That I may walk to and fro, before God,
In the light of life.[h]

PSALM 57.

To the Chief Musician. "Do not destroy." A precious Psalm[i] ‖of David‖. When he fled from the face of Saul into the Cave.

1 Shew me favour, O God,
Shew me favour,
For <in thee> hath my soul sought refuge,—
And <in the shadow of thy wings> will' I seek refuge
Until the storm of ruin pass by.

2 I will cry unto God Most High,
Unto GOD, who accomplisheth on my behalf:
3 He will send out of heaven, that he may save me,
He who is panting for me |hath reproached|. [Selah.
God will send out his lovingkindness and his faithfulness.

4 ‖My soul‖ is in the midst of lions,
I lie down amidst flames,—
<As for the sons of men>
‖Their teeth‖ are spear and arrows,
And ‖their tongue‖ is a sharp sword.

5 Be exalted Above the Heavens, O God,
Above all the earth, thy glory!

6 <A net> did they fix for my steps,
My soul was bowed down,—
They digged before me a pit,
They fell into the midst thereof! [Selah.

7 Fixed' is my heart, O God,
Fixed' is my heart,
I will sing, and touch the strings.

8 Awake, mine honour,
Awake, harp[a] and lyre,
I will awaken the dawn;
9 I will thank thee, among the peoples, O My Lord,[b]
I will praise thee in song, among the races of men.
10 For <great, unto the heavens> is thy lovingkindness,
And <unto the skies> thy faithfulness.

11 Be exalted Above the heavens, O God,
Above all the earth, thy glory!

PSALM 58.

To the Chief Musician. "Do not Destroy." A precious Psalm ‖of David‖.

1 Are ye ‖indeed‖ silent[c] [when] <righteousness> ye should speak?
When <with equity> ye should judge, O ye sons of men?
2 Aye! ye all[d] do work |perversity|,—
<Throughout the land> |your hands| weigh out ‖violence‖.[e]
3 Lawless men have been estranged' from birth,[f]
They have gone astray' from their nativity, speaking falsehood;

---

[a] So Fuerst. "Prob. name of an old song or music . . . Silent dove among those far away"—Davies' H.L. "Prob. name of melody: To' the dove of distant terebinths' [based on a various reading]"—O.G. 401.
[b] So according to some authorities. "Meaning unknown"—O.G.
[c] Or: "praise because of him."
[d] U.: "soul."
[e] Meaning doubtful; but (with a different reading) Gt.: "there is no deliverance for them"—G.n.
[f] Or: "that."
[g] As a question—"strangely: contr. cxvi. 8"—O.G. 520[b].
[h] Cp. Job. xxxiii. 30.
[i] Cp. Psalms xvi., lvi.

[a] Or: "lute"—O.G.
[b] Heb.: adonay.
[c] Gt.:—
"Do ye indeed, O ye mighty ones, speak righteousness? Equitably do ye judge, O ye sons of men?"
[That is, Gt. élim shd be read for élem]. Cp. Exo. xv. 11—G.n.
[d] So it shd be (w. Syr.)—G.n.
[e] So it shd be (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.)—Gn.
[f] Two synonyms, each = (ml.) "womb."

4 ‖Their poison‖ is like unto the poison of a serpent,
Like the deaf adder, that stoppeth his ear;
5 That will not hearken to the voice of whisperers,
Though the wise one try to bind him with spells.
6 O God! break away their teeth in their mouth,
<The biters of the young lions> knock thou out, O Yahweh!
7 Let such men flow away like waters that disperse themselves:
He prepareth his arrow,[a]
Like [grass][b] let them be cut down:
8 Like a snail, which melteth away as it goeth,[c]
An untimely birth of a woman, which hath not seen the sun:
9 <Before your kettles can perceive the [kindled] bramble>
<Be he green or be he withered> he shall be swept away.
10 The righteous man will rejoice' when he hath seen an avenging,
<His feet> will he bathe in the blood of the lawless one:—
11 So that a son of earth may say—
Surely' there is fruit for the righteous man!
Surely' there are' gods[d] who judge in the earth!

PSALM 59.

To the Chief Musician. "Do not Destroy." A precious Psalm of David. When Saul sent, and they watched the house, to kill him.

1 Rescue me from my foes, O my God,
<From them who lift themselves up against me> wilt thou set me on high:
2 Rescue me, from the workers of iniquity,
And <from the men of bloodshed> save me.
3 For lo! they have lain in wait for my life,[e]
Mighty' ones stir up strife against me,
Without transgression of mine, and without sin of mine, O Yahweh;
4 <For no iniquity> do they run that they may take their stand,
Rouse thyself to meet me, and see.
5 ‖Thou, therefore, O Yahweh, God of hosts, God of Israel‖
Awake, to visit all the nations,
Do not shew favour to any iniquitous traitors. [Selah.
6 They return at evening,
They growl like a dog,
And go round the city.
7 Lo! they belch forth with their mouth,
‖Swords‖ are in their lips,
For [say they] Who doth hear?
8 ‖Thou, therefore, O Yahweh‖, wilt laugh at them,
Thou wilt mock at all nations.[a]
9 ‖O my Strength‖[b] <unto thee> will I make melody,[c]
For ‖God‖ is my high tower.
10 ‖My God of lovingkindness‖[d] will come to meet me,
‖God‖ will let me look on mine adversaries.
11 Do not slay them, lest my people' forget,[e]
Cause them to wander by thy strength, and prostrate them,[f]
[Thou] our shield, O Lord![g]
12 <The sin of their mouth,
The word of their lips>
Let them then be captured in their pride,
Both for the oath and for the deception they record.
13 Bring to a full end in wrath,
Bring to a full end, that they be no' more,—
That men may know that ‖God‖ is ruling in Jacob,
Unto the ends of the earth. [Selah.
14 Let them return, then, at evening,
Let them growl like a dog,
And go round the city.
15 ‖They‖ may prowl about[h] for food,—
And <if they are not satisfied> then let them whine![i] 16 But ‖I‖ will sing thy power,
And will shout aloud, in the morning, thy lovingkindness,—
For thou hast become a refuge for me,
And a place to flee to in the day of my distress.
17 O my Strength, <unto thee> will I make melody,
For ‖God‖ is my high tower, my God of lovingkindness.

[a] Written: "arrow"; read: "arrows." In some cod. (w. 6 ear. pr. edns., Aram., and Syr.): "arrows," written and read: but in others (w. Sep. and Vul.): "arrow," written and read—G.n.
[b] Cp. O.G. 456[a].
[c] So T.G. 802; but Fuerst, 1334, prefers: "Like a festering sore which dissolves."
[d] Thus rendered in the plural, because the Hebrew for "who judge," is exceptionally plural. Men brought up in idolatry may very naturally speak thus, even of the true God. Cp. 1 S. iv. 8. See, however, G. Intro. 153.
[e] U.: "soul."
[a] Cp. Ps. ii. 4.
[b] Mass. Text: "His strength"; on which Ginsburg merely notes that some cod. (w. Sep. and Vul.) read: "My strength." Cp. ver. 17—G.n. The translator has felt compelled to conform this ver. to ver. 17.
[c] So it shd be. Cp. ver. 17—G.n.
[d] So read; but written: "His God of lovingkindness." Some cod. (w. Aram. and Sep.) read and write: "His": but others (w. [? Aram.] and 2 ear. pr. edns.) both read and write: "My"—G.n.
[e] N.B.: A remarkable sentiment!
[f] So O.G. if true reading, p. 434[a].
[g] Or: "O Adonay."
[h] So written; read: "may be caused (or suffered) to prowl about." In some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.): both written and read: "May be caused (or suffered) to prowl about"—G.n.
[i] So it shd be (w. Sep. and Syr.)—G.n.

PSALM 60.

To the Chief Musician. Upon "The Lily of Testimony."[a] A precious Psalm[b] of David, to instruct. When he waged war with Aram-naharaim, and with Aram-zobah,—and then Joab returned and smote of Edom[c] in the Valley of Salt, twelve thousand.

1 O God, thou hast rejected us—hast scattered us,
Thou hast been angry,
Wilt thou restore us?
2 Thou hast shaken the land—hast rent it,
Heal thou the fractures thereof—for it hath tottered:
3 Thou hast suffered thy people to see[d] hardship,
Thou hast let them drink the wine of confusion.

4 Thou hadst given—to them that revere thee—a banner, to float aloft,[e]
Because of [thy] faithfulness.[f] [Selah.

5 <That thy beloved ones may be delivered>
Save thou with thine own right hand—and answer us.[g]

6 ‖God‖ hath spoken in his holiness—
I will exult!
I will apportion Shechem,
And <the Vale of Succoth> will I measure out;
7 <Mine> is Gilead—and <mine> Manasseh,
But ‖Ephraim‖ is the defence of my head,
‖Judah‖ is my commander's staff;
8 ‖Moab‖ is my wash-bowl,
<Upon Edom> will I throw my shoe,[h]
Over[i] Philistia! raise a shout of triumph.[k]

9 Who will conduct me to a fortified city?[l]
Who will lead[m] me as far as Edom!
10 Is it not ‖thou‖, O God?—thou hast rejected us!
And wilt thou not go forth, O God,[n] with our hosts?

11 Grant us help out of distress,
For <vain> is the deliverance of man:
12 <In God> we shall do valiantly,
‖He himself‖ therefore will tread down our adversaries.

[a] "Prob. name of a melody or musical instrument"—Davies' H.L.
[b] Cp. Psalms xvi., lvi.
[c] Cp. 2 Sam. viii. 13; 1 Ch. xviii. 12.

[m] Lit.: "hath led," but in Ps. cviii. 10 Gt.: "will lead."
[n] Some cod. omit: "O God"—G.n.

PSALM 61.

To the Chief Musician. Upon a Stringed Instrument.[a] David's.

1 Hear, O God, my loud cry,
Attend' unto my prayer:
2 <From the end of the earth>[b] unto thee' do I cry,
When my heart fainteth away,
<Unto a rock that is higher than I>[c] wilt thou lead me.
3 For thou hast been
A Refuge to me.
A Tower of Strength, from the face of the foe.
4 I would be a guest in thy tent to the ages,
I would seek refuge in the concealment[d] of thy wings. [Selah.

5 For ‖thou, O God‖ hast hearkened to my vows,
Thou hast granted a possession,[e] unto them who revere thy Name.

6 <Days—unto the days of the king> wilt thou add.
<His years> as of generation after generation:
7 Let him retain his seat[f] age-abidingly' before God,
Appoint that ‖lovingkindness and faithfulness‖ may watch over him!

8 ‖So‖ will I sing thy Name unto futurity,
Paying my vows, day by day.

PSALM 62.

To the Chief Musician. On[g] Jeduthun—A Melody of David.

1 Surely <towards God> silence' [becometh] my soul,
<From[h] him> is my salvation:
2 Surely ‖he‖ is my rock and my salvation,
‖My high tower‖—I shall not be greatly' shaken!

3 How long will ye shout at a man?
Ye shall be crushed[i] all' of you,—
Like a wall that bulgeth,—a fence pushed in!
4 Surely <from his elevation> they have taken counsel to thrust him down,
They accept falsehood,—
<With his mouth> they each of them bless,
But <inwardly> they revile. [Selah.

5 Surely <towards God> be thou silent, my soul,
For <from him> is mine expectation:
6 Surely ‖he‖ is my rock, and my salvation,
‖My high tower‖—I shall not be shaken!

[a] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Vul.): "on stringed instruments" (pl.)—G.n.
[b] Or: "land."
[c] Or: "too high for me" (?"which I cannot climb unaided").
[d] Cp. Ps. xxvii. 5.
[e] Conjectural reading by Cheyne: "[their] request"—O.G. 440[a]. Cp. Ps. xxi. 2.
[f] Prob. = "be enthroned."
[g] Some cod. (w. Syr. and Vul.): "For"—G.n.
[h] Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): "For from." Cp. ver. 5—G.n.
[i] So Ben-Asher, many MSS., and 7 ear. pr. edns.; but Ben-Naphtali, w. 2 ear. pr. edns., has: "Ye would all crush." [The Massoretic cautions vary]—G.n.

7 <Upon God> [depend] my salvation and mine honour,
‖My rock of strength, my refuge‖ are in God.

8 Trust ye in him all ye assembly of the people,[a]
Pour out, before him, your heart,
‖God‖ is a refuge for us. [Selah.

9 Surely <vanity> are men of low degree,
<Deception> men of high degree,—
<In the balances> they go up,
‖They‖ are [made] of vanity |altogether|.

10 Do not trust in extortion,
Nor <with robbery> become vain,—
‖As for wealth‖ <when it beareth fruit>
Do not set [thereon your] heart.

11 <One thing> hath God spoken,
<Two things> [there are] which I have heard,[b]
That ‖power‖ belongeth unto God;
12 And <thine>, O My Lord, is lovingkindness,—
For ‖thou‖ wilt pay back unto every man—according to his deed.

PSALM 63.

A Melody of David. When he was in the Wilderness of Judah.

1 O God, <my GOD> thou art',
Earnestly do I desire thee,—
My soul thirsteth for thee,
My flesh fainteth for thee,
In[c] a land—dry, and weary for want of water,—
2 <In like manner' as |in the sanctuary| I have had vision of thee>
To behold thy power and thy glory.

3 <Because better' is thy lovingkindness than life>
‖My lips‖ aloud shall praise thee!
4 ‖Thus‖ will I bless thee while I live,
<In thy Name> will I lift up mine outspread hands:
5 <As with fatness and richness> shall my soul be satisfied,
And <with joyfully shouting lips> shall my mouth utter praise.
6 <Should I call thee to mind upon my couch>
<In the watches of the night> would I breathe soft speech of thee.
7 For thou hast become a help unto me,—
And <in the shadow of thy wings> will I shout for joy.[d]

8 My soul hath run clinging to thee,
<On me> hath thy right hand laid hold.
9 <When ‖they‖ |to crush it| would seek my life>[e]
They shall go into the lower parts of the earth:
10 Every one shall be given up into the power of the sword,
<The portion of jackals> shall they become.

11 But ‖the king‖ shall rejoice in God,—
Every one shall glory' who swareth by him,
For the mouth of them who speak falsehood |shall be stopped|.

PSALM 64.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

1 Hear, O God, my voice when I complain,
<From dread peril by the foe> wilt thou guard my life.
2 Wilt thou hide me
From the conclave of evil-doers,
From the crowd of workers of iniquity.
3 Who have sharpened, like a sword, their tongue,
Have made ready their arrow—a bitter' word;
4 To shoot, in secret places, at the blameless one,
Suddenly' they shoot at him, and fear not.
5 They strengthen for them a wicked' word,
They talk of hiding snares,
They have said, Who can see them?
6 They devise perverse things,
They have completed the device well devised,
‖Both the intent of each one, and the mind‖ are unsearchable.

7 <Once let God have shot at them an arrow>
Suddenly' have appeared their own wounds!
8 <When they were to have ruined another> their tongue smote themselves,
All who observe them take flight.

9 Therefore have all men feared,[a]—
And have told the doing of God,
And <his work> have considered.

10 The righteous man shall rejoice' in Yahweh, and seek refuge in him,
Then' shall glory'—all who are upright in heart.

PSALM 65.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David—a Song.

1 ‖Thine‖ are silence [and] praise,[b] O God, in Zion,—
And <to thee> shall be paid the vow.

2 Thou hearer of prayer!
<Unto thee> shall all flesh come.

3 ‖Iniquitous things‖ have been too strong for me,
<As for our transgressions> wilt ‖thou‖ by propitiation remove them.

4 How happy the man thou shalt choose and bring near!
He shall abide in thy courts,—

[a] So it shd be (w. Sep., Vul.)—G.n.
[b] Cp. O.G. 262, a.
[c] Some cod. (w. Syr.): "Like"—G.n.
[d] Gt.: "will I tarry"—G.n.
[e] U.: "soul."

[a] Some cod. (w. 6 ear. pr. edns.): "all men seen"—G.n.
[b] Some critics read: "To thee is praise becoming"—O.G. 189*a*.

We shall be satisfied with
The blessing of thy house,
The holiness of thy temple.

5 <By things reverend in righteousness> wilt thou answer us,
O God of our salvation,
The confidence of all the ends of the earth,
And of the sea far away;
6 Who setteth fast the mountains by his strength,
Being girded with might;
7 Who stilleth
The noise of the seas,
The noise of their rolling waves, and
The tumult of races of men?
8 Yea the dwellers in the uttermost parts have feared at thy tokens,
<The goings forth of morning and evening> thou causest to shout for joy.

9 Thou hast visited the earth, and made it abound, <Abundantly> dost thou enrich it—
‖The channel of God‖ is full of waters,
Thou preparest their corn,
Yea ‖thus‖ dost thou prepare it:
10 <The ridges thereof> drenching,
Settling the furrows thereof,
<With myriad drops> dost thou soften it,
<The sprouting thereof> dost thou bless.

11 Thou hast set a crown upon thy year of bounty,
And ‖thy tracks‖ drop fatness;[a]
12 Fruitful' are the pastures of the wilderness,[b]
And <with exultation> the hills' do gird themselves.
13 Clothed' are the pastures with flocks,
‖The valleys also‖ cover themselves with corn,
They shout for joy, yea' they sing.

PSALM 66.

To the Chief Musician. A Melodious Song.[c]

1 Make a joyful noise unto God, all the earth;
2 Praise ye in song the glory of his Name,
Celebrate the glory of[d] his praise:
3 Say unto God—
How fearful in thy doings,
<Through the abounding of thy power> shall thy foes come cringing unto thee;
4 ‖All the earth‖ shall bow themselves down to thee,
And sing praises unto thee,
Shall praise in song thy Name. [Selah.

5 Come and see the doings of God,—
Fearful' in deed toward the sons of men:
6 He turned the sea into dry land,
<Through the stream> crossed they over on foot,
There' did we rejoice in him:

7 Who ruleth in his might unto times age-abiding,
‖His eyes‖ |over the nations| keep watch,
<The rebellious> let them not exalt themselves. [Selah.

8 Bless our God,[a] O ye peoples,
And cause to be heard the sound of his praise;—
9 Who hath set our soul[b] among the living,
And hath not suffered |our foot|[c] to slip.

10 For thou didst prove us, O God,
Thou didst refine us, according to the refining of silver:
11 Thou didst bring us into the hunter's net,
Thou didst lay a load upon our loins;
12 Thou didst let men ride at our head;[d]
We went into fire and into water,
But thou didst bring us forth into freedom.[e]

13 I will enter thy house with ascending-sacrifices,
I will pay unto thee my vows,
14 Which my lips uttered,
And my mouth spake, in my distress.
15 <Ascending-sacrifices of fatlings> will I cause to ascend unto thee,
With the perfume of rams,
I will offer bulls, with he-goats. [Selah.

16 Come! hearken — that I may recount, all ye reverers of God,
What he hath done for my soul:—
17 <Unto him—with my mouth> did I cry,
And high praise was under my tongue.

18 <If ‖iniquity‖ I had cared for in my heart>
My Lord |had not heard me|!
19 ‖But in truth‖ God hath' heard,
He hath attended to the voice of my prayer.

20 Blessed' be God,
Who hath not turned away my prayer'
Nor his own lovingkindness' from me.

PSALM 67.

To the Chief Musician. With stringed Instruments. A Melody,[f] a Song.

1 ‖God‖ be favourable to us and bless us,
Cause his face to shine upon us. [Selah.

2 That thy way' may be known throughout the earth,
<Throughout all nations> thy saving help![g]

3 Peoples will praise' thee, O God,
Peoples will |all of them| praise' thee

[f] Some cod. (w. Sep. and Vul.) add: "of David"—G.n.
[g] Or: "salvation."

4 Races of men' | will be glad and shout for joy |,—
Because thou wilt judge peoples with equity,
And <races of men throughout the earth> thou wilt lead. [Selah.

5 Peoples will praise' thee, O God,—
Peoples will | all of them | praise' thee.

6 ‖Earth‖ will have given her increase,
God, our own' God, | will bless us | :
7 God | will bless us |,
That all the ends of the earth | may revere him |.

PSALM 68.

To the Chief Musician. David's. A Melody, a Song.

1 Let God arise', let[a] his enemies be scattered',
Yea let them that hate him flée' before him :[b]
2 <As smoke is driven about>
Let them be driven about,[c]—
<As wax is melted before a fire>
Let the lawless perish' before God.

3 But let ‖the righteous‖ be glad, let them[d] exult before God,
Yea let them rejoice with gladness.

4 Sing ye to God,
Make music of his Name,—
Lift up (a song),[e] to him that rideth through the waste plains,— <Since Yah is his name> exult ye before him.
5 <The father of the fatherless,
And the advocate of widows>
Is God, in his holy' habitation.

6 ‖God‖ is he that causeth the solitary to dwell in a home,[f]
That bringeth out prisoners into prosperity,
But[g] ‖the rebellious‖ have made their habitation in a sunburnt land.

7 O God! <When thou camest forth before thy people,
When thou didst stride through the wilderness> [Selah.

8 ‖Earth‖ trembled,
Yea ‖the heavens‖ dripped at the presence of God,—
‖This' Sinai‖—at the presence of God, the God of Israel.

9 <A bounteous rain> dost thou shed abroad, O God, upon thine inheritance,[h]
<When exhausted> ‖thou thyself‖ hast supported it:

10 ‖Thy living host‖[a] have remained therein,
Thou dost provide, in thy bounty, for the humbled one[b]—O God!

11 <Let ‖My Lord‖ but give the word>
‖The herald bands‖ will be a mighty host:
12 ‖Kings[c] of armies‖ they flee! they flee!
And ‖she that stayeth at home‖[d] shall share the spoil.

13 <Though ye rest between the folds>
‖The wings of the dove‖ shall be covered with silver,
And ‖her pinions‖ with green-shimmering gold.
14 <When the Almighty scattereth kings therein>
It will gleam like snow in the gloom.[e]

15 <A mighty' mountain>[f] is the mountain of Bashan,
<A mountain of peaks> is the mountain of Bashan!—
16 Wherefore' start ye up,[g] ye mountains, ye peaks?
<The mountain God hath coveted for his habitation>
Surely, ‖Yahweh‖ will inhabit it evermore!

17 ‖The chariots of God‖ are two myriads—thousands repeated,
‖My Lord‖ is among them,
‖Sinai‖ is in the sanctuary![h]

18 Thou hast ascended on high,
Thou hast led in procession[i] a body of captives,
Thou hast received gifts consisting of men,
Yea even the rebellious,
That ‖Yah, Elohim‖ might settle down to rest.[k]

19 Blessed' be My Lord!
<Day by day> he beareth our burden for us,
‖God himself‖ is our salvation.[l] [Selah.

20 ‖The God we have‖ is a God of saving deeds,[m]
And <due to Yahweh, My Lord> are escapes from death.[n]
21 Yea ‖God himself‖ will smite through the head of his foes,—
The hairy crown' of him that is marching on in his guilty deeds.

22 Said My Lord,
<From Bashan> will I bring back,—
I will bring back from the depths of the sea:

[n] Ml.: "exits to death." But cp. Ec. vii. 18.

23 That thou mayest bathe[a] thy foot in blood,—
‖The tongue of thy dogs‖ <from the foes> hath its portion.

24 They have seen thy progress[b] O God,
The progress[b] of my God, my king into the sanctuary:
25 In front' are the singers,[c]
Behind[d] are the harpers,
In the midst of damsels playing on timbrels:

26 <In the congregations> bless ye God,
My Lord, from among the called[e] of Israel:
27 There' is Benjamin, the Diminutive—ruling them,
The princes of Judah—their throng,
The princes of Zebulun,
The princes of Naphtali.
28 Thy God hath commanded[f] thy strength,—
The strength O God, which[g] thou hast wrought for us.

29 <Because of thy temple above Jerusalem>
‖Unto thee‖ shall kings bear along a gift—
30 Rebuke thou
The wild beast of the reeds,
The herd[h] of mighty oxen among the calves of the peoples—[i]
Each one bowing down[k] with bars of silver,— Scatter thou[l] the peoples, who in wars' take delight.
31 Ambassadors come out of Egypt,
‖The Ethiopian‖ eagerly stretcheth out[m] his hands, unto God.

32 ‖Ye kingdoms of the earth‖ sing unto God,
Praise in song Adonây.[n] [Selah.

33 Unto him that rideth upon the most ancient heavens,[o]
Lo! he uttereth his voice, a voice of strength.
34 Ascribe ye strength unto God,—
<Over Israel> is his majesty,
And his strength, in the skies.
35 To be revered' is God, for his sanctuary,[p]—
<As for the God of Israel> ‖he‖ is giving strength and abundant might to the people.
Blessed' be God!

PSALM 69.

To the Chief Musician. On "The Lilies." David's.

1 Save me, O God,
For waters have entered as far as the life;[q]

2 I have sunk in a deep swamp,
Where there is no' place to stand,
I have come into abysses of waters,
Where a flood hath overflowed me;
3 I am weary with mine outcry,
Parched' is my throat,—
Mine eyes have become dim, through waiting for my God.
4 <More than the hairs of my head>
Are they who hate me without' cause,—
<Firmer than my bones>[s]
Are they who are my foes for false' cause,—
<What I had not plundered> ‖then‖[t] had I to restore.

5 O God, ‖thou‖ hast known my folly,
And ‖my wrong-doings‖ <from thee> have not been hid.
6 Let them' not be ashamed, through me,
Who have waited for thee, O My Lord, Yahweh of hosts,[u]—
Let them' not be confounded, through me,
Who are seeking thee, O God of Israel!
7 Because <for thy sake> have I borne reproach,
Confusion hath covered my face;
8 <One estranged> have I become, to my own brethren,
Yea <an alien> to the sons of mine own mother;
9 Because ‖zeal for thy house‖ hath eaten me up,
And ‖the reproaches of them who have reproached thee‖[v] have fallen upon me.
10 <When I have humbled my soul with fasting>[w]
Then hath it turned to my reproach;
11 <When I have made my clothing of sackcloth>
Then have I served them for a by-word;
12 They who sit in the gate talk against me,—
And [against me are] the songs[x] of them who imbibe strong drink.

13 But <as for me> my prayer shall be unto thee,
O Yahweh, in a time of acceptance,
O God <in the abounding of thy lovingkindness> answer me with thy saving' faithfulness.
14 Rescue me out of the mire, lest I sink,
Let me be rescued From my haters, and
From abysses of waters:
15 Let not a flood of waters overflow me,
And let not the depth swallow me up,
Neither let the well close, over me, her mouth.

16 Answer me, O Yahweh, for good' is thy lovingkindness,
<According to the abounding of thy compassions> turn thou towards me:
17 Then do not hide thy face from thy servant,
<Because I am in distress> haste thee—answer me!

[v] Ml.: "the reproaches of thy reproachers."
[w] So it shd be (w. Sep.). Cp. Ps. xxxv. 13—G.n.
[x] "Mocking songs"—O.G.

18 Oh draw near unto my soul—redeem it,
<Because of mine enemies> ransom me.
19 ‖Thou‖ knowest my reproach, and my shame, and my confusion,
<Before thee> are all mine adversaries.
20 Reproach hath broken my heart, and I am weak,—
<Though I waited for one to pity me>[a] yet there was none',
<And for comforters> yet I found not any.
21 But they put in my food—poison!
And <for my thirst> they gave for my drink—vinegar!

22 Let their table, before them, become a snare,
And unto their friends, a lure;
23 Let their eyes become too dim to see,
And <their loins> continually' cause thou to shake;
24 Pour out over them thine indignation,
And let ‖the glow of thine anger‖ overtake them:
25 Let their encampment become desolate,
<In their tents> be there none to dwell:
26 For <whom ‖thou thyself‖ hadst smitten> they pursued,
And <unto the pain of thy wounded ones> they must needs add.[b]
27 Lay punishment on their iniquity,
And let them not enter into thy righteousness;
28 Let them be blotted out of the book of life,[c]
And <with the righteous> let them not be enrolled.

29 ‖I‖ then, am humbled and in pain,
<Thy salvation, O God> may it set me on high.

30 I will praise the Name of God with a song,
And will magnify him with thanksgiving;
31 So shall it be more pleasing to Yahweh than a bullock of the herd,[d]
Showing horn [and][e] divided hoof.

32 The humbled have seen—they rejoice![f]
Ye seekers of God, let your heart, then, revive';
33 For  is Yahweh,
And <his prisoners> hath he not despised.
34 Let the heavens and the earth |praise him|,
The seas, and everything that creepeth therein.
35 For ‖God‖ will save Zion,
And build the cities of Judah,
So shall men dwell there, and possess it:
36 Yea ‖the seed of his servants‖ shall inherit it,
And ‖the lovers of his Name‖ shall settle down therein.

[f] Some cod. (w. 5 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "let them then rejoice"—G.n.

PSALM 70.

To the Chief Musician. David's. To call to Remembrance.[a]

1 [Be pleased][b] O God, to rescue me,
O Yahweh, to help me—make haste.
2 Let them' turn pale and then at once blush,
Who are seeking my life,[c]—
Let them' draw back, and be confounded,
Who are taking pleasure in my misfortune;
3 Let them' turn back, on account of their own shame,
Who are saying[d] Aha! Aha!

4 Let all them' be glad and rejoice in thee,
Yea let them' who are seekers of thee,—say continually God[e] be magnified!
Who are lovers of thy salvation.

5 <But ‖I‖ being humbled and needy>
O God, haste to me,—
<My help and my deliverer> art thou',
O Yahweh[f] do not tarry.

PSALM 71.[g]

1 <In thee, O Yahweh> have I sought refuge,
May I not be ashamed unto times age-abiding:
2 <In thy righteousness> wilt thou rescue me and deliver me,
Incline unto me thine ear, and save me:
3 Be thou unto me a Rock to dwell in,[h] a Place of Security,[i]
To save me,
For <my mountain crag and my stronghold> thou art'.
4 Oh my God, deliver me
From the hand of the lawless one,
From the clutch of the perverse and ruthless one;
5 For ‖thou‖ art my hope,
My Lord, Yahweh,[k]
My confidence from my youthful days:
6 <Upon thee> have I stayed myself from birth,[l]
Thou' art he that severed me[m] ‖from the body of my mother‖,
<Of thee> shall be my praise—continually.

7 <A very wonder> have I been unto many,
Seeing that ‖thou‖ hast been my strong' refuge.
8 My mouth shall be filled with thy praise,
<All the day> with thy splendour.[n]

<Unto every one that is[e] to come> thy might;
19 And <as for thy righteousness, O God, up on high,
Wherein thou hast wrought great things>
O God! who is like unto thee?
20 ‖Thou who hast let us[f] see many distresses and misfortunes‖
Wilt again' bring us[g] to life,
And <out of the resounding depths of the earth> wilt again' raise us[h] up;
21 Thou wilt increase my greatness,
And, on every side, wilt comfort me.

PSALM 72.

Solomon's.

1 O God! <thy justice>[a] give |unto the king|,
And thy righteousness, unto the son of a king;
2 May he judge
Thy people with righteousness;
And thine oppressed ones with justice;
3 May the mountains bring peace[b] to the people,
And the hills [be laden] with righteousness;
4 May he Vindicate the oppressed of the people,
Bring deliverance to the children of the needy, and Crush the oppressor.

5 Let men revere thee
With the sun,
And in presence of the moon,
Unto the remotest generation.

6 Let him come down
Like rain on fields to be mown,
Like myriad drops on land to be reaped.

7 May righteousness[c] in his days, blossom forth,
And abundance of peace, till there be no moon.

8 So let him have dominion
From sea to sea,
And from the River [= "Euphrates"] unto the ends of the earth;
9 <Before him> let the men of the desert kneel,
But ‖as for his foes‖ <the dust> let them lick;
10 ‖The kings of Tarshish and of the Coastlands‖[d]
<A gift> let them render,
‖The kings of Sheba and Seba‖[e]
<A present> let them bring;
11 Yea let all kings |bow down unto him|,
Let ‖all nations‖ serve him;
12 Because he Rescueth
The needy from the rich,[f]
The oppressed, who hath no' helper;
13 He Pitieth the weak and the needy,
And <the lives[g] of the needy> he Saveth:
14 <From extortion and violence> he Redeemeth their life,[h]
And precious' is their blood in his sight.
15 Let him live, then!
And be there given unto him of the gold of Sheba,—

[g] U.: "souls."
[h] U.: "soul."

Let prayer also be offered for him continually,
<All the day> let him be blessed.

16 May there be an abundance of corn in the earth,
in the top of the mountains,—
Let the fruit thereof |wave like Lebanon|,
And they of the city bloom' like the fresh shoots of the earth.

17 May his Name be age-abiding,
<In the presence of the sun> let his Name flourish,[a]—
And may all the families of the ground[a] bless themselves in him,
||All nations|| pronounce him happy!

18 Blessed' be Yahweh God,[b] the God of Israel,—
Who doeth wondrous things by himself alone;
19 And blessed' be his glorious' Name, unto times age-abiding,—
And filled' with his glory' be all the earth,
Amen and Amen!

20 Ended' are the prayers of David, son of Jesse.[c]

[c] In some cod. (w. Syr.) this ver. is not found—G.n.

BOOK THE THIRD.

PSALM 73.

A Melody of Asaph.

1 |Nothing but good| is God
Unto Israel,
Unto the pure in heart.
2 But <as for me>—
My feet' had |almost stumbled|,[a]
My steps' had |well-nigh slipped|;
3 For I was envious of the boasters,
<At the prosperity of the lawless> used I to look.
4 For they have no' pangs in their death,
And vigorous' is their body;[b]
5 <Of the toil of weak mortals> have they none',
Nor <with the sons of earth> are they hard smitten.
6 <For this cause> doth arrogance' deck them as a neck-chain,
And a garment of wrong is their attire;
7 Their iniquity[c] |hath proceeded from fatness|
They have surpassed the imaginations of the heart;
8 They mock, and wickedly command oppression,
<From on high> they command;
9 They have set, in the heavens, their mouth,
And ||their tongue|| marcheth through the earth.
10 Therefore' must his people return[d] thither,[e]
And ||the waters of abundance|| are drained[f] by them;
11 And they say—
How' doth God know'?
And is' there knowledge in the Most High?
12 Lo! ||these||[a] are the lawless,
Who are secure for an age,[b]
They have attained unto wealth.
13 <Altogether in vain>
Have I cleansed my heart,
And bathed in pureness, my hands;
14 And yet been smitten all the day,
And been rebuked morning by morning!
15 <If I had thought I will relate it thus>[c]
Lo! <the circle of thy sons> had I betrayed.
16 <When I reasoned, that I might understand this>
||A vexation|| it was' in mine eyes:
17 Until I could enter the holy places of God,—
Could give heed to their hereafter:—[d]
18 Surely' <in slippery places> dost thou set them,—
Thou hast suffered them to fall into places of danger.
19 How have they become desolate, as in a moment!
They have ceased—come to an end, by reason of calamities.
20 <As the dream of him that waketh>
O My Lord! <when rousing thyself up>
<their shadowy being>[e] wilt thou despise.

[a] Ml.: "I was almost prostrated as to my feet" — O.G.
[b] Gt.:—
"For no pangs have they, Sound and fat is their body."
—G.n.
[c] So it shd be (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.)—G.n.
[d] Written: "bring back"; but read: "return." In some cod. (w. 5 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "return" is both written and read—G.n.
[e] "Read prob.: Therefore he satisfieth them with bread—O.G. 240[b].
[f] Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): "are discovered"—G.n.

[a] Or: "such."
[b] Or: "for a life-time."
[c] "The text is untranslateable . . . prob. hēnah has dropped out before the following hinnēh; for . . . the like of these things.'"—O.G. 459[b].
[d] Or: "future."
[e] "Their semblance"—O.G.

21 But my heart had grown embittered,[a]
And <in my reins>[b] had I received wounds;
22 But ‖I‖ was brutish, and could not perceive,
<Like the beasts>[c] had I become before thee.

23 Nevertheless ‖I‖ am continually' before thee,
Thou hast taken hold of my right hand;
24 <By thy counsel> wilt thou guide me,
And ‖afterwards‖ <unto glory> wilt thou take me.[d]

25 Whom have I in the heavens?
And <compared with thee> there is nothing I desire on earth.
26 Failed' have my flesh and my heart,
<The rock of my heart—and my portion> is God unto times age-abiding.

27 For lo! ‖they who are far from thee‖ shall perish,
Thou hast put an end to every one who wandered unchastely from thee.

28 But <as for me> ‖the drawing near of God‖ is my' blessedness,—
I have made, of My Lord Yahweh,[e] my refuge,—
That I may recount all thy works.[f]

PSALM 74.

An Instructive Psalm. Asaph's.

1 Wherefore', O God, hast thou cast off utterly?
Shall thine anger smoke against the flock of thine own pasturing?
2 Remember thine own assembly thou didst'acquire aforetime,
Thou didst redeem the tribe of thine own inheritance,
Mount Zion,[g] wherein thou didst take up thy habitation.[h]
3 Lift up thy steps unto the places utterly unsafe,[i]
All the mischief! —the foe in the sanctuary!
4 Thine adversaries have roared' in the midst of thine appointed meeting,[k]
They have set their ensigns as tokens![l]
5 One used to be known' according as he carried up high—
Into the thicket of trees—the axes;
6 But ‖now‖ <the doors[m] thereof all together> |with axes and hammers| they batter down.
7 They have cast, into the fire, thy sanctuary,[n]
<To the ground> have they profaned the habitation of thy Name.

8 They have said in their heart,
Let us suppress them altogether,[a]
They have burned up all the meeting-places of God in the land.

9 <Our own signs> have we not seen,—
There is no longer a prophet,—
Neither is there with us, one who knoweth—
How long!

10 How long, O God, shall the adversary' |reproach|?
Shall the enemy revile' thy Name perpetually?
11 Wherefore' shouldst thou withdraw thy hand—thy right' hand?
[Bring it] out of the midst of thy bosom!
[Selah.][b]

12 But ‖God‖ hath been my king from aforetime,
Working Deliverances in the midst of the earth.

13 ‖Thou‖ didst cleave asunder, in thy might, the sea,
Thou didst break in pieces the heads of the Crocodiles, [till they floated] on the waters;
14 ‖Thou‖ didst crush the heads of the Sea-Monster.
Thou didst give him to be food, for the people of the deserts;
15 ‖Thou‖ didst cleave open fountain and torrent,
‖Thou‖ didst dry up rivers of steady flow:
16 <Thine> is the day, Yea <thine> the night,
‖Thou‖ didst establish moon[c] and sun;
17 ‖Thou‖ didst set up all the bounds of the earth,
<As for summer and winter> ‖thou‖ didst form them!

18 Remember this,
‖An enemy‖ hath reproached Yahweh,
Yea ‖an impious people‖ have reviled thy Name.
19 Do not deliver up, to a wild beast, the life of thy turtle-dove,
<The living host[d] of thine oppressed ones> do not forget perpetually.
20 Have respect to thy[e] covenant,
For the dark places of the earth are full' of the habitations of violence.[f]
21 May the crushed one not again' be confounded,
<As for the oppressed and the needy> let them praise thy Name.
22 Arise! O God, plead thine own cause,
Remember the reproach of thee, from the impious one, all the day:
23 Do not forget the voice of thine adversaries,
‖The noise of thine assailants‖ ascending continually.

PSALM 75.

To the Chief Musician. "Do not Destroy." A Melody of Asaph, a Song.

1 We have given thanks unto thee, O God, we have given thanks,
And <in calling upon thy Name>[a] men have recounted thy wonders.

2 Surely I will take a set time,—
‖I‖ <with equity> will judge:
3 <Earth was melting away with all its inhabitants>
‖I‖ have fixed the pillars thereof. [Selah.

4 I have said to the boasters,
Do not boast,
And to the lawless,
Do not lift up a horn;
5 Do not lift up on high' your' horn,
Nor speak of the Rock[b] with arrogance;
6 For neither from east nor west,
Nor from the wilderness of the[c] mountains [cometh exaltation];
7 For ‖God himself‖ is about to judge,
<One> he will cast down,
<Another> he will lift up;
8 For ‖a cup‖ is in the hand of Yahweh,
Whose wine' is foaming,
It is full of spiced wine,
Which he hath caused to flow from one to another,[d]—
Surely <the dregs thereof> they shall drain out—they shall drink,
Even all the lawless ones of the earth.
9 But ‖I‖ will exult[e] unto times age-abiding,
I will sing praises[f] unto the God of Jacob;
10 But <all the horns of the lawless> will I hew off,—
Exalted' shall be the horns of the Righteous One.

PSALM 76.

To the Chief Musician. With Stringed Instruments. A Melody of Asaph, a Song.

1 God is ‖known in Judah‖,
<In Israel> great' is his Name;
2 |Now hath come into Salem| his pavilion,
And his dwelling-place into Zion.
3 ‖There‖ hath he broken in pieces the arrows[g] of the bow,
Shield and sword, and battle.[h] [Selah.

4 <Enveloped in light> ‖thou‖ art more majestic than the mountains of prey.
5 The valiant of heart have become a spoil,
They have slumbered their sleep,
And none of the men of might have found' their hands.
6 <At thy rebuke> O God of Jacob,
Stunned' are the horsemen.[a]

7 <As for thee> to be feared thou art'!
Who then shall stand before thee, because of the power of thine anger?[b]
8 <Out of the heavens> didst thou cause judgment' to be heard, ‖Earth‖ feared and was still:
9 When God' rose up to judgment,
To save all the oppressed[c] of the earth. [Selah.

10 For the multitude of mankind shall give thanks unto thee,
‖The remainder of the multitude ‖shall keep holy festival unto thee.[d]

11 Vow and pay, unto Yahweh your God,— Let ‖all who are round about him‖
Bear along a gift unto him who is to be revered.
12 He cutteth off the spirit of nobles,
He is of reverend majesty to the kings of the earth.

PSALM 77.

To the Chief Musician. On "Jeduthun."[e] Asaph's,[f] a Melody.

1 <With my voice—unto God> will I make outcry,[g]
With my voice unto God, and he will give ear unto me;
2 <In the day of my distress—unto My Lord> will I seek,
‖My hand‖ <by night> hath been outstretched, and never once became slack,
My soul' |hath refused to be consoled|;
3 I remember God and I murmur,
I muse, and my spirit swooneth'. [Selah.

4 Thou hast held, watching, mine eyes,
I was driven to and fro, and could not speak;
5 I reasoned Of the days of aforetime,
Of the years of by-gone ages;
6 I remember my song[h] in the night,—
<With my own heart> I commune,
And my spirit' |maketh search|:—

7 <For ages> will My Lord' reject?
And |not again| grant acceptance |any more|?
8 Hath his lovingkindness' |come to a perpetual end|?
Hath his word failed to generation after generation?

9 Hath GOD' |forgotten to shew favour|?
Or hath he shut up, in anger, his compassions? [Selah.

10 Then said I—
<An affliction to me> it is',
The changing of the right hand of the Most High.

11 I will remember the doings of Yah,
Surely I will remember, out of aforetime, thy wonderful way;[a] 12 And will talk to myself of all thy work,[b]
And <of thy doings> will I muse:—

13 O God, <in the sanctuary>[c] is thy way,—
Who is a great GOD like Elohim?[d]
14 ‖Thou‖ art GOD, doing wonderfully,[e]—
Thou hast made known, among the peoples, thy might;
15 Thou didst redeem, with thine arm—
Thy people,
Thy sons of Jacob and Joseph. [Selah.

16 The waters saw' thee, O God,
The waters saw' thee,
They were in birth-throes,
Yea the resounding deeps were stirred;
17 The clouds |poured down waters|,
The skies uttered ‖a voice‖,
Yea ‖thine arrows‖ flew hither and thither;
18 The ‖voice of thy thunder‖ was in the whirlwind,
Thy[f] lightnings illumined the world,
The earth |trembled and quaked|;
19 <In the sea> was thy way,
And ‖thy path‖[g] in the mighty waters,
And ‖thy footprints‖ could not be known:
20 Thou didst lead, like a flock, thy people,
By the hand of Moses and Aaron.

PSALM 78.

An Instructive Psalm. Asaph's.

1 Give ear, O my people, to mine instruction,
Bend your ear[h] to the sayings of my mouth;
2 I will open, in a parable, my mouth,
I will pour forth enigmas out of antiquity;—
3 Which we have heard, and come to know,
And ‖our fathers‖ have recounted to us;
4 We will not withhold [them] from their children,
<To a later' generation> recounting the praises of Yahweh,
Even his might and his wonders which he wrought;

5 When he set up a testimony in Jacob,
And  appointed in Israel,—
Which he commanded our fathers,
That they might make them known to their children;
6 To the end
A later' generation |might come to know|,
Children who should be born,
Who should arise, and recount [them] to their children;
7 That they might set, in Elohim, their confidence,—
And not forget the doings of El,
But <his commandments> might observe;[a]
8 And not become, like their fathers, a generation stubborn and rebellious,[b]—
A generation that fixed not their heart,
Neither was their spirit' |faithful with[c] GOD|.
9 ‖The sons of Ephraim—armed bowmen‖[d]
Turned in the day of battle;
10 They kept not the covenant of God,
And <in his law> refused to walk;
11 And forgat His doings,
And his wonders which he had shewed them:
12 <In presence of their fathers> wrought he |wondrously|,[e]—
In the land of Egypt—the field of Zoan:
13 He clave the sea, and caused them to pass through,
And reared up the waters like a mound;
14 And led them, by a cloud, in the daytime,
And all the night, by a light of fire;
15 He used to cleave rocks in the desert,
And let them drink as out of[f] mighty deeps;
16 And he brought forth streams out of the cliff,
And caused waters to flow down, like rivers.

17 But again', once more' sinned they against him,
Resisting the Most High in a land of drought:
18 They put GOD to the proof in their heart,
By asking food to their mind:[g]
19 Yea they spake against Elohim,—
They said,
Can' GOD prepare a table in the desert?
20 Lo! he hath smitten a rock,
And waters |have gushed out|,
Yea ‖torrents‖ have rushed along,— <Food also> can he give?
Or provide flesh' for his people?

21 |Therefore| Yahweh hearkened, and became wroth,—
And ‖a fire‖ was kindled against Jacob,
Moreover also ‖anger‖ mounted against Israel;
22 Because They believed not in God,
Nor trusted in his salvation;
23 Though he had commanded the skies above,
And <the doors of the heavens> had opened;

27 And rained upon them flesh' as the dust,
And <like the sand of the seas> birds of wing;
28 And let them fall in the midst of their camp,—
Round about their habitations.
29 So they did eat and were abundantly filled,
When <what they longed for> he had brought them:—
30 < They had not turned away from what they had longed for,
Yet' was their food in their mouth >
31 When ‖the anger of God‖ mounted against them,
And he slew of their vigorous youths,
And <the choice young men of Israel> caused he to bow down in death.

32 <For[b] all this> sinned they still,
And believed not in his wonders;
33 So he ended, in a breath, their days,
And their years, in a sudden terror!

34 <If he slew [of] them> then they sought him,
Yea they turned, and did earnestly seek God;
35 And remembered that ‖Elohim‖ was their rock,
Yea ‖El Most High‖ their Redeemer:
36 So they spake him fair with their mouth,
And <with their tongue> did promise him falsely;
37 But ‖their heart‖ was not fixed with him,
Nor were they trusty' in his covenant:
38 Yet ‖he‖ <full of compassion> would put a propitiatory-covering over iniquity, and not destroy,— Yea <many a time> turned he back his anger,
And would not stir up all his wrath.
39 So then he remembered
That <Flesh> they were',[c]
A Wind departing, that returneth not.
40 How often they Resisted him in the desert,
Vexed him, in the waste:
41 Yea they again put God to the test,
And <to the Holy One of Israel> caused they sorrow:[d]
42 They remembered not his hand——The day
When he ransomed them from the adversary;
43 When he set, in Egypt, his signs,
And his wonders, in the plain of Zoan;
44 When he turned, into blood, their Nile-streams,
And <their own rivers> could they not drink;
45 He sent among them
The gad-fly, and it devoured them,
And the frog, and it despoiled them;

46 When he gave to the corn-locust[a] their produce,
And their toil, to the swarming locust;
47 He killed, with hail, their vine,
And their sycomores, with frost:
48 When he gave up, to hail-storms, their beasts,
And their cattle, to pestilent fevers;
49 He sent among them the heat of his anger,
Wrath and indignation and distress,—
A mission of messengers of misfortune:
50 He levelled a path for his anger,—
Withheld not, from death, their soul,
But <their life—to the pestilence> he delivered:
51 So he smote
Every first-born in Egypt,
The beginning of their strength,[b] in the tents of Ham;
52 And he set forth, like sheep, his people,
And guided them, like a flock in the desert;[c]
53 Yea he led them securely, and they dreaded not,
And <their enemies> the sea' did cover.
54 Then brought he them within his own holy bounds,
The mountain-range, which[d] his right hand made his own:
55 So he drave out, before them, [whole] nations,
And allotted them, by line, an inheritance,
And caused to dwell, in their own homes,[e] the tribes of Israel.
56 But they tested and resisted God Most High,
And <his testimonies> did not observe;
57 But drew back and dealt treacherously, like their fathers,
They turned aside, like deceitful' bowmen;
58 And provoked him to anger with their high places,
And <with their images>[f] used to move him to jealousy.

59 God heard' and was wroth,
And greatly abhorred[g] Israel;
60 So he gave up the habitation of Shiloh,[h]
The tent he had set up among Men;
61 Yea he gave up, into captivity, his strength,
And his beauty' into the hand of an adversary;
62 And delivered up, to the sword, his people,
And <with his own inheritance> was he wroth;
63 ‖His young men‖ were devoured by fire,
And ‖his virgins‖ were not praised in song;
64 ‖His priests‖ |by the sword| did fall,
And ‖his widows‖ were not able to bewail.

65 Then awoke, as one that had slept, Adonây,[i]
As a warrior exulting with wine!
66 So he smote his adversaries in the rear,[k]
<Reproach age-abiding> laid he upon them.

67 Howbeit he rejected the tent of Joseph,
And <the tribe of Ephraim> did not choose:
68 But made choice of the tribe of Judah,
The mountain of Zion, which he loved;
69 And built, like the heights, his sanctuary,
<Like the earth>[a] he founded it to times age-abiding.
70 And made choice of David his servant,
And took him from among the folds of the sheep:
71 <From after the suckling ewes> he brought him in,—
To be shepherd to Jacob his people,[b]
And to Israel, his inheritance.
72 So he did shepherd them, according to the singleness of his heart,
And <with the discernment of his hands>[c] used he to guide them.

PSALM 79.

A Melody of Asaph.

1 O God, nations
Have entered thine inheritance,
Have profaned thy holy' temple,—
Have laid Jerusalem in heaps:
2 They have given
The dead bodies of thy servants,
As food for the birds of the heavens,
The flesh of thy men of lovingkindness,
Unto the wild beast of the earth:
3 They have poured out their blood like water
Round about Jerusalem,
With none' to bury.
4 We have become
A reproach to our neighbours,—
A mockery and a derision, to them who are round about us.

5 How long, O Yahweh, wilt thou be angry utterly?
Shall thy jealousy |burn like fire|?
6 Pour out thy wrath
Upon the nations that have not known thee,[d]—and Upon the kingdoms that <on thy Name> have not called.

7 For he hath[e] devoured Jacob,—
And <his dwelling-place> have they laid waste.

8 Do not remember against us former' iniquities,—
Haste thee, let thy compassions |come to meet us|,
For we have been brought very low!
9 Help us, O God of our salvation,
On account of the glory of thy Name,—
Rescue us then, and put a propitiatory-covering over our sins,
For the sake of thy Name.
10 Wherefore' should the nations' say—
Where is their God?
Let him be known among the nations before our eyes!
[Yea! by] the avenging of the blood of thy servants which hath been shed!
11 Let the groaning of the prisoner |come in before thee|,—
<According to the greatness of thine arm>
Set free[a] them who are appointed to death.[b]
12 Return, therefore, unto our neighbours—
Sevenfold, into their own bosom,
The reproach wherewith they have reproached thee, O Adonāy![c]
13 So ‖we, thy people, and the sheep of thy pasture‖ will give thanks unto thee, to times age-abiding,—
<To generation after generation> will we recount thy praise.

PSALM 80.

To the Chief Musician. For "the Lilies of Testimony." Asaph's. A Melody.

1 O Shepherd of Israel, give ear,
Thou who leddest forth Joseph like a flock,
Thou who art throned on the cherubim, appear!
2 <Before[d] Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh> stir up thy strength,
And come! to our salvation.

3 O God, bring us back,
And light up thy face,
That we may be saved.

4 O Yahweh, God of hosts!
How long' hast thou been wroth with the prayer of thy people?
5 Thou hast fed them with the food of tears,
And hast caused them to drink the water of weeping in threefold abundance.
6 Thou dost make us an object of contention to our neighbours,
And ‖our foes‖ find mockery for themselves.[e]

7 O God of hosts, bring us back,
And light up thy face,
That we may be saved.

8 <A vine out of Egypt> thou didst remove,[f]
Thou didst cast out nations, and plant it;
9 Thou didst make a clear space before it,
So it rooted well its roots, and filled up the land;
10 Covered' were the mountains with its shade,
And <with its boughs> the mighty' cedars.[g]

So that all who pass along the way |pluck its fruit|?

And ‖the wild beast of the field‖ pastureth thereon.

14 O God of hosts, return, we pray thee,—
Look down out of the heavens, and see,
And inspect this vine:
15 Yea the stock which thy right hand planted,
Even upon the son[b] thou didst secure for thyself.

16 <To be burned with fire> it is cut down,—
<At the rebuke of thy countenance>[c] they will perish.

17 Let thy hand be Upon[d] the Man of thy right hand,
Upon[d] the Son of Man thou didst secure for thyself;
18 So will we not draw back from thee,
Thou wilt bring us to life,
And <on thy Name> will we call.

Light up thy face,
That we may be saved.

PSALM 81.

To the Chief Musician. On "the Gittith."[e] Asaph's.

1 Shout ye for joy, unto God our strength,
Sound the note of triumph, to the God of Jacob;
2 Raise a melody, and strike the timbrel,
The lyre so sweet, with the harp:[f]
3 Blow, at the new moon, the horn,
At the full moon, for the day of our sacred festival:[g]
4 For  it is',
A regulation, by the God of Jacob;
5 <A testimony in Joseph>[h] he appointed it,
When he went forth over the land of Egypt:

<A language I liked not> used I to hear;
6 I took away, from the burden, his shoulder,
His hands |from the clay| were set free.

7 <In distress> thou didst cry, and I delivered thee,—
I answered thee, within a hiding-place of thunder,[i]
I proved thee, by the waters of Meribah.
[Selah.

8 Hear, O my people, and I will adjure thee,
O Israel, if thou wilt hearken unto me!
9 There shall not be |within thee| a foreign God,—
Neither shalt thou bow down to a strange God:
10 ‖I, Yahweh‖ am thy God,
Who brought thee up out of the land of Egypt,—
Open wide thy mouth, that I may fill it.

11 But my people |hearkened not| unto my voice,
Even ‖Israel‖ inclined not unto me.
12 So then I let them go on in the stubbornness of their own heart,
They might walk in their own counsels!
13 <If ‖my people‖ were hearkening unto me,
[If] ‖Israel‖ <in my ways> would walk>
14 ‖Right soon‖ <their foes> would I subdue,
And <against their adversaries> would I turn my hand:
15 ‖The haters of Yahweh‖ should come cringing unto him,
Then let their own good time be age-abiding!
16 Then would he feed them from the marrow of the wheat,
Yea <out of the rock—with honey> would I satisfy thee.[a]

PSALM 82.

A Melody of Asaph.

1 ‖God‖ hath taken his place in the august' assembly,[b]
<In the midst of the gods>[c] will he judge.
2 How long' will ye judge perversely
And <the countenances of the lawless> uplift? [Selah.
3 Vindicate the weak and the fatherless,
<The oppressed[d] and the poor> see righted;
4 Deliver the weak and the needy,
<Out of the hand of the lawless> make rescue.
5 They[e] know not, neither can they perceive,
<In darkness> they wander,
All the foundations of the earth do shake
6 ‖I‖ said,
<Gods> ye are',[f]
Yea <sons of the Highest> are ye all';
7 But' indeed, <like the earth-born> shall ye die!
And <like one of the princes> shall ye fall!
8 Arise! O God, judge thou the earth,
For ‖thou‖ wilt inherit all the nations.

PSALM 83.

A Song, a Melody of Asaph.

1 O God, Do not keep quiet,
Do not hold thy peace,
Neither be thou still, O God!
2 For lo! ‖thine enemies‖ are tumultuous,
And ‖they who hate thee‖ have lifted up the head;
3 <Against thy people> they craftily devise a secret plot,
And conspire against thy treasured ones.
4 They have said—
Come, and let us wipe them out from being a nation,
That the name of Israel may be remembered' no more.
5 For they have taken counsel with one heart,
<Against thee — a covenant> would they solemnise—
6 The tents of Edom, and the Ishmaelites,
Of Moab and the Hagarenes;
7 Gebal and Ammon, and Amalek,
The Philistines, with the dwellers in Tyre;
8 |Even Assyria| hath joined herself with them,
They have become an arm to the sons of Lot.
[Selah.

9 Make them like Midian,
Like Sisera, like Jabin, by the torrent of Kishon;[a] 10 They perished at En-dor,
They became manure for the soil!
11 Make them—their nobles—like Oreb and like Zeeb,[b]
And <like Zebah and like Zalmunna> all their princes:[c]
12 Who said—
Let us take a possession for ourselves
The pastures of God!

13 O my God, make them
As whirling [dust],
As chaff before a wind;
14 <As a fire burneth a forest,—
And as a flame setteth mountains ablaze>
15 ‖So‖ wilt thou pursue them with thy tempest,—
And <with thy storm-wind> wilt terrify them:
16 Fill thou their faces with dishonour,
That men may seek thy Name, O Yahweh;
17 Let them turn pale, and be terrified to futurity,
Yea let them blush, and perish:
18 That men may know that ‖thou‖
<Whose Name alone' is Yahweh>
Art Most High over all the earth.

PSALM 84.

To the Chief Musician. On "the Gittith."
For the Sons of Korah. A Melody.

1 How lovely are thy habitations, O Yahweh of hosts!
2 My soul |longeth—yea even languisheth|—for the courts of Yahweh,—
‖My heart and my flesh‖ shout aloud for a Living God.
3 ‖Even the sparrow‖[a] hath found a home,
And ‖the swallow‖ a nest for herself, where she hath laid her young,
Thine altars, O Yahweh of hosts,
My king and my God!
4 How happy are they who abide in thy house,—
Still' are they praising thee. [Selah.

5 How happy the men whose strength is in thee,
Festive processions[b] are in their heart.
6 ‖Passing through the balsam-vale‖
<A place of fountains> they make it,
Yea <with blessings> is it covered by the early rain.
7 They go from strength to strength,[c]
Each one appeareth before God in Zion.

8 O Yahweh, God of hosts, hear thou my prayer,—
Give hear, thou God of Jacob. [Selah.

9 <Our Shield> behold thou, O God,
And look upon the face of thine Anointed One.[d]

10 For better' is a day in thy courts, than a thousand,
I choose rather to stand at the threshold, in the house of my God,
Than to dwell in the tents[e] of lawlessness.

11 For [f] is Yahweh God,— <Grace and glory> will Yahweh give,
He will not withhold what is good, from them who walk without blame.

12 O Yahweh of hosts!
How happy the man who trusteth in thee!

PSALM 85.

To the Chief Musician. For the Sons of Korah. A Melody.

1 Thou hast accepted, O Yahweh, thy land,
Thou hast brought back the captives of Jacob;
2 Thou hast taken away, the iniquity of thy people,
Thou hast covered, all their sin. [Selah.

3 Thou hast withdrawn all thine indignation,
Thou hast ceased from the glow of thine anger.

4 Restore us, O God of our salvation,
And take away thy vexation towards us.

[a] Or simply: "bird."
[b] Ml.: "Highways." "They fondly think of the roads leading to Jerusalem"—Davies' H.L.
[c] "At every step their strength increases"—P.B.
[d] Cp. Ps. lxxxix. 18.
[e] Or: "homes."
[f] Ml.: "buckler."

5 <To times age-abiding> wilt thou be angry with us?
Wilt thou prolong thine anger, from generation to generation?
6 Wilt not ‖thou thyself‖ again' give us life,
That ‖thy people‖ may rejoice in thee.
7 Shew us, O Yahweh, thy lovingkindness,
And <thy salvation> wilt thou grant us.

8 I will hear, what God—Yahweh—|will speak|,—
For he will bespeak prosperity to his people,
And to his men of lovingkindness,
And to them who return with their heart unto him.[a]

9 Surely <near unto them who revere him> is his salvation,
That the Glory |may settle down| in our land.

10 ‖Lovingkindness and faithfulness‖ have met together,
‖Righteousness and prosperity‖ have kissed each other;
11 ‖Faithfulness‖ <out of the earth> doth spring forth,
And ‖righteousness‖ <out of the heavens> hath looked down.
12 ‖Yahweh himself too‖ will give us the blessing,
And ‖our land‖ shall yield her increase.
13 ‖Righteousness‖ <before him> shall march along,—
That he may make, into a way, the steps of its feet.

PSALM 86.

A Prayer. David's.

1 Bow down, O Yahweh, thine ear—answer me,
For ‖oppressed[b] and needy> am I;
2 O guard my life,[c]
For  am I,—
Save thy servant, ‖O thou' my God‖,
[Thy servant] who trusteth in thee;
3 Shew me favour, O My Lord,[d]
For <unto thee> do I cry, all the day;
4 Rejoice the soul of thy servant,
For <unto thee> O My Lord <my soul> do I lift.

5 For ‖thou, O My Lord‖[e] art good and forgiving,
And abundant in lovingkindness,[f] to all who call upon thee.
6 Give ear, O Yahweh, unto my prayer,
And attend' unto the voice of my supplications.
7 <In the day of my distress> will I call upon thee,
For thou wilt answer me.
8 There is none' like unto thee, among the gods, O My Lord,
And nothing' like thy works.

9 ‖All nations whom thou hast made‖
Shall come in and bow down before thee, O My Lord,
That they may glorify thy Name.[a]
10 For great' thou art, and doest wondrous things,
‖Thou, O God, of thyself alone‖.

11 Point out to me, O Yahweh, thy way,
I will walk steadfastly in thy truth,
My heart will rejoice[b] to revere thy Name.
12 I will give thee thanks, Adonay, my God, with all my heart,
And will glorify thy Name unto times age-abiding.
13 For ‖thy lovingkindness‖ is great towards me,
And thou hast rescued my soul from Hades beneath.[c]

14 O God, ‖the insolent‖ have arisen against me,
And ‖the assembly of tyrants‖ have sought my life,[d]
And have not set thee before them.

15 But ‖thou, O My Lord‖ art
A God of compassion and favour,
Slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness and faithfulness![e]

16 Turn thou unto me, and shew me favour,—
Give thy strength to thy servant,
And save the son of thy handmaid.
17 Perform with me a token for good,—
That they who hate me may see' and be ashamed,
In that ‖thou, Yahweh‖ hast helped me and comforted me.

PSALM 87.

For the Sons of Korah. A Melody, a Song.

1 ‖His foundation‖ is in the holy' mountains:
2 Yahweh loveth' the gates of Zion,
More than all the dwellings of Jacob.
3 ‖Glorious things‖ are to be spoken of thee,[f]
O city of God. [Selah.

4 I will mention Rahab and Babylon, to them who know me,— Lo! Philistia and Tyre with Ethiopia,
This' one was born there.
5 But <of Zion> it shall be said—
This' man and that' were born in her,
And the Highest himself' shall establish her.
6 ‖Yahweh‖ will record, when he enrolleth the peoples,
This' one was born there. [Selah.

PSALM 88.

A Song, a Melody. For the Sons of Korah. To the Chief Musician. On "Mahalath."[a] For alternate Song.[b] An Instructive Psalm. By[c] Heman the Ezrahite.[d]

1 O Yahweh, God of my salvation,[e]
<By day> have I made outcry,
<In the night> [also] before thee.
2 Let my prayer |come into thy presence|,
Bow down thine ear to my loud cry.
3 For my soul |is sated with misfortunes|,
And <my life—unto Hades> hath drawn near;
4 I am counted with them who descend into the pit,
I have become as a man that is without' help;
5 <Among the dead> is my couch,[f]—
Like the slain that lie in the grave,
Where thou rememberest them no more,
Yea ‖they‖ <from thy hand> are cut off;
6 Thou hast laid me In the lowest pit,
In dark places,
In the deeps:
7 <Upon me> hath rested thine indignation,
And <with all thy breakers> hast thou caused affliction. [Selah.

8 Thou hast far removed mine acquaintances from me,—
Thou hast made me an abomination unto them,
<Shut up> and I cannot go forth!
9 ‖Mine eye‖ hath dimmed through affliction;[g]
I have called upon thee, O Yahweh, all day long,
I have spread out, unto thee, my hands.[h]
10 <For the dead> wilt thou perform a wonder?
Or shall ‖the shades‖ arising, give thee thanks? [Selah.

11 Shall 'Thy lovingkindness be recounted' in the grave?
'Thy faithfulness, in destruction?
12 Shall any wonder of thine |be known in the dark|?
Or ‖thy righteousness‖ in the land of forgetfulness?

13 But ‖I‖ <unto thee, O Yahweh> have cried for help,
And <in the morning> my prayer will confront thee!
14 Wherefore, O Yahweh, should thou reject my soul?
should thou hide thy face from me?
15 Afflicted' have I been, and dying,[i] from youth,
I have borne the terror of thee—I shall be distracted![k]
16 <Over me> have passed thy bursts of burning anger,
The alarms of thee have put an end to me;
17 They have surrounded me like waters, all the day,
They have come circling against me together:
18 Thou hast far removed from me, lover and friend,
‖Mine acquaintances‖ are in darkness.[a]

PSALM 89.

An Instructive Psalm, by[b] Ethan the Ezrahite.[c]

1 <The lovingkindnesses of Yahweh> age-abidingly will I sing,
<To generation after generation>[d] will I make known thy faithfulness with my mouth.
2 For I said,[e]
<To times age-abiding> shall lovingkindness be built up,
<As for the heavens> thou wilt establish thy faithfulness therein.

3 I have solemnised a covenant, for my chosen one,
I have sworn' unto David my servant:
4 <Unto times age-abiding> will I establish thy seed,
And will build up, unto generation after generation, thy throne. [Selah.

5 So shall the heavens praise thy wondrousness, O Yahweh,—
Yea <thy faithfulness> in the convocation of holy ones.

6 For whom, in the skies, can one compare unto Yahweh?
[Or] can one liken unto Yahweh, among the sons of the mighty?[f]
7 A GOD inspiring awe in the circle of the holy ones, exceedingly,
And to be reverenced above all who are round about him.

8 O Yahweh, God of hosts!
Who, like thee, is mighty, O Yah!
With thy faithfulness round about thee:
9 ‖Thou‖ rulest over the swelling of the sea,
<When the rolling waves thereof lift themselves>
‖Thou‖ dost bid them be still:
10 ‖Thou‖ hast crushed—as one slain—Rahab,
<With thy strong' arm> hast thou scattered thy foes.
11 ‖Thine‖ are the heavens Yea ‖thine‖ the earth,
<The world and the fulness thereof>
‖Thou‖ didst found them;
12 <The north and the south>
‖Thou‖ didst create them,—
‖Tabor and Hermon‖ <with thy Name> shall shout for joy:

PSALM 88.

A Song, a Melody. For the Sons of Korah. To the Chief Musician. On "Mahalath."[a] For alternate Song.[b] An Instructive Psalm. By[c] Heman the Ezrahite.[d]

1 O Yahweh, God of my salvation,[e]
<By day> have I made outcry,
<In the night> [also] before thee.
2 Let my prayer |come into thy presence|,
Bow down thine ear to my loud cry.
3 For my soul |is sated with misfortunes|,
And <my life—unto Hades> hath drawn near;
4 I am counted with them who descend into the pit,
I have become as a man that is without' help;
5 <Among the dead> is my couch,[f]—
Like the slain that lie in the grave,
Where thou rememberest them no more,
Yea ‖they‖ <from thy hand> are cut off;
6 Thou hast laid me In the lowest pit,
In dark places,
In the deeps:
7 <Upon me> hath rested thine indignation,
And <with all thy breakers> hast thou caused affliction. [Selah.

8 Thou hast far removed mine acquaintances from me,—
Thou hast made me an abomination unto them,
<Shut up> and I cannot go forth!
9 ‖Mine eye‖ hath dimmed through affliction;[g]
I have called upon thee, O Yahweh, all day long,
I have spread out, unto thee, my hands.[h]
10 <For the dead> wilt thou perform a wonder?
Or shall ‖the shades‖ arising, give thee thanks? [Selah.

11 Shall Thy lovingkindness be recounted' in the grave?
Thy faithfulness, in destruction?
12 Shall any wonder of thine |be known in the dark|?
Or ‖thy righteousness‖ in the land of forgetfulness?

13 But ‖I‖ <unto thee, O Yahweh> have cried for help,
And <in the morning> my prayer will confront thee!
14 Wherefore, O Yahweh, shouldst thou reject my soul?
shouldst thou hide thy face from me?
15 Afflicted' have I been, and dying,[i] from youth,
I have borne the terror of thee—I shall be distracted![k]
16 <Over me> have passed thy bursts of burning anger,
The alarms of thee have put an end to me;
17 They have surrounded me like waters, all the day,
They have come circling against me together:
18 Thou hast far removed from me, lover and friend,
‖Mine acquaintances‖ are in darkness.[a]

PSALM 89.

An Instructive Psalm, by[b] Ethan the Ezrahite.[c]

1 <The lovingkindnesses of Yahweh> age-abidingly will I sing,
<To generation after generation>[d] will I make known thy faithfulness with my mouth.
2 For I said,[e]
<To times age-abiding> shall lovingkindness be built up,
<As for the heavens> thou wilt establish thy faithfulness therein.

3 I have solemnised a covenant, for my chosen one,
I have sworn' unto David my servant:
4 <Unto times age-abiding> will I establish thy seed,
And will build up, unto generation after generation, thy throne. [Selah.

5 So shall the heavens praise thy wondrousness, O Yahweh,—
Yea <thy faithfulness> in the convocation of holy ones.

6 For whom, in the skies, can one compare unto Yahweh?
[Or] can one liken unto Yahweh, among the sons of the mighty?[f]
7 A GOD inspiring awe in the circle of the holy ones, exceedingly,
And to be reverenced above all who are round about him.

8 O Yahweh, God of hosts!
Who, like thee, is mighty, O Yah!
With thy faithfulness round about thee:
9 ‖Thou‖ rulest over the swelling of the sea,
<When the rolling waves thereof lift themselves>
‖Thou‖ dost bid them be still:
10 ‖Thou‖ hast crushed—as one slain—Rahab,
<With thy strong' arm> hast thou scattered thy foes.
11 ‖Thine‖ are the heavens Yea ‖thine‖ the earth,
<The world and the fulness thereof>
‖Thou‖ didst found them;
12 <The north and the south>
‖Thou‖ didst create them,—
‖Tabor and Hermon‖ <with thy Name> shall shout for joy:

7 There shall fall, at thy side, a thousand,
Yea ‖myriads‖[a] at thy right hand,
<Unto thee> shall it not come nigh;
8 Save only' <with thine own eyes> shalt thou discern,
And <the recompense of the lawless> shalt thou see.

9 <Because ‖thou‖ [hast made] Yahweh, my refuge,[b]—
<The Most High> thou hast made thy dwelling-place>
10 There shall not be sent unto thee misfortune,
Nor shall ‖plague‖ come near into thy tent;[c]
11 For <his messengers> will he charge concerning thee,
To keep thee, in all thy ways;
12 <On hands> will they bear thee up,
Lest thou strike, against a stone, thy foot;
13 <On the lion[d] and adder> shalt thou tread,
Shalt trample on young lion and crocodile.[e]

14 <Because ‖on me‖ he hath set firm his love>
Therefore will I deliver him,
I will set him on high,
Because he hath known my Name;
15 He shall call me, and I will answer him,
<With him> will ‖I‖ be, in distress,
I will rescue him, and will honour[f] him;
16 <With length of days> will I satisfy him,
And will shew him[g] my salvation.

PSALM 92.

A Melody, a Song. For the Sabbath-day.

1 It is good' to give thanks to Yahweh,
And to sing praises[h] unto thy Name,
O Most High;
2 To declare, in the morning, thy lovingkindness,
And thy faithfulness' at night;
3 Upon an instrument of ten strings, and upon a harp,[i]
With resounding music on the lyre.

4 For thou hast made me glad, O Yahweh, in thy doing,[k]
<In the works[l] of thy hands> will I shout for joy.
5 How great' have grown thy works, Yahweh,
[How] very' deep are laid thy plans!

6 ‖A man that is brutish‖ cannot know,
And ‖a dullard‖ cannot discern this:—
7 <When the lawless do thrive like grass,
And all the workers of iniquity have blossomed>
It is that they may be destroyed for ever.[m]

8 But ‖thou‖ shalt be on high age-abidingly, O Yahweh.
9 For lo! ‖thine enemies‖, Yahweh,
For lo! ‖thine enemies‖ shall perish,[a]
They shall be scattered—all the workers of iniquity;
10 But thou wilt exalt, as [those of] the buffalo,[b] my horn,
I have been anointed, with fresh oil.
11 So hath mine eye descried' them who were lying in wait for me,—
<Of my wicked assailants> mine ears' |shall hear|.

12 ‖The righteous‖ <like the palm-tree> shall thrive,
<Like the cedar in Lebanon> shall he grow;
13 ‖They who are planted in the house of Yahweh
<In the courts of our God> shall flourish:
14 Still' shall they bear fruit in old age,
<Vigorous and fresh> shall they be:
15 To declare that upright' is Yahweh,
My Rock, and no perversity' in him.

PSALM 93.

1 ‖Yahweh‖ hath become king,
<With majesty> is he clothed,—
Clothed' is Yahweh,
<With strength> hath he girded himself,
Surely he hath fixed[c] the world,
It shall not be shaken.
2 Established' hath been thy throne from of old,[d]
<From age-past times> thou art'.

3 The floods have lifted up, O Yahweh,
The floods have lifted up—their voice,
The floods have lifted up—their dashing waves.
4 With the sounds of many waters>
Majestic are the breakers of the sea,[e]
<Majestic on high> is Yahweh.

5 ‖Thy testimonies‖ are strongly confirmed,[f]
<To thy house> befitting' is holiness,
O Yahweh—to length of days.

PSALM 94.

1 O God of avenging—Yahweh,
God of avenging, shine forth:[g]
2 Lift up thyself, O judge of the earth,
Render a recompense unto the proud.

3 How long' shall the lawless', O Yahweh,
How long' shall the lawless' exult?[h]

All the workers of iniquity |do boast|:
5 <Thy people> O Yahweh, they will crush,
And <thine inheritance> tread down;
6 <The widow and sojourner> they will slay,
And <the fatherless> murder.
7 Yet have they said—
Yah |doth not see|,
The God of Jacob |doth not understand|.

8 Understand, ye brutish among the people,
And <ye dullards> when will ye show discretion?
9 ||He that planteth the ear|| shall he not hear?
Or ||that fashioneth the eye|| shall he not have power to see?
10 ||He that correcteth nations|| shall he not reprove?
||He that teacheth man knowledge||!
11 ||Yahweh|| knoweth the plans of men,
That ||they|| are a breath!

12 How happy the man whom thou correctest, O Yah![a]
And whom <out of thy law> thou instructest!
13 That thou mayest give him rest from the days of misfortune,
Until there be digged—for the lawless one—a pit.

14 For Yahweh |will not abandon| his people,
And <his inheritance> will he not forsake;
15 For <unto righteousness> shall the judicial sentence[b] return,
Then shall follow it—all the upright in heart.

16 Who' will rise up for me, against the evildoers?
Who' will make a stand for me, against the workers of iniquity?

17 <If ||Yahweh|| had not been a help to me>
Soon' had sunk into silence—my soul!
18 <If I say My foot |hath slipped|>
||Thy lovingkindness|| O Yahweh, supporteth me.
19 <In the multitude of my cares within me>
||Thy consolations|| delight my soul.

20 Shall the throne that inflicteth ruin[c] |have fellowship with thee|,
That frameth oppression |by statute|?
21 They make an attack on the life[d] of the righteous one,—
And <innocent blood> they condemn.

22 But Yahweh hath become for me a high tower,
And my God, my rock of refuge.
23 Thus hath he brought back on them their iniquity,
And <by their own wickedness> will he destroy them,
||Destroy them|| will Yahweh our God.

PSALM 95.

1 Come, let us make a joyful noise to Yahweh,
Let us shout in triumph, to the rock of our salvation!
2 O let us come before his face with thanksgiving,
<With the sounds of strings> let us shout aloud to him.

3 For  is Yahweh,
And a great king, above all gods.
4 <In whose hand> are the hidden recesses[a] of the earth,
And <the peaks of the mountains> are his;
5 |Whose| is the sea, for ||he|| made it,
And <the dry land> ||his hands|| did form.

6 Enter! let us bow down, and bend low,
Let us kneel, before Yahweh our maker;
7 For ||he|| is our God,
And ||we|| are the people of his pasture, and the flock of his hand.[b]

||To-day|| <if |to his voice| ye will hearken>
8 Do not harden your heart as at Meribah,[c]
As on the day of Massah,[c] in the desert;
9 When your fathers |tested me|,
They proved me, yea' they also saw what I could do.
10 <Forty years> loathed I that[d] generation,
So I said—
<A people going astray in heart> they are',
||Even they|| have not known my ways!
11 And I sware in mine anger,—
Verily they shall not enter into my rest.

PSALM 96.

1 Sing to Yahweh, a song that is new,
Sing to Yahweh, all the earth;
2 Sing to Yahweh, bless ye his Name,—
Tell the tidings, from day to day, of his salvation:
3 Recount Among the nations, his glory,
Among all the peoples, his wonders.

4 For great' is Yahweh, and worthy to be mightily' praised,
To be revered' is he' above all gods;
5 For ||all the gods of the peoples|| are things of nought,[e]—
But ||Yahweh|| made |the heavens|.
6 ||Praise and majesty|| are before him,
||Strength and beauty||[f] are in his sanctuary.[g]

7 Give to Yahweh, ye families of the peoples,
Give to Yahweh, glory and strength;
8 Give to Yahweh, the glory of his Name,

9 Bow down to Yahweh, in the adornment of holiness,[a]
Be in anguish at his presence, all the earth!
10 Say among the nations,
Yahweh‖ hath become King,
Surely he hath fixed[b] the world,
It shall not be shaken,
He will judge the peoples with equity.

11 Let the heavens rejoice', and the earth exult',
Let the sea roar', and the fulness thereof;
12 Let the field |leap for joy|, and all that is therein,
‖Then‖ shall[c] all the trees of the forest |shout in triumph|

13 Before Yahweh, for he is coming,
For he is coming' to judge the earth,—
He will judge the world, in righteousness,
And the peoples, in his faithfulness.

PSALM 97.

1 ‖Yahweh‖ hath become king,
Let the earth exult',
Let the multitude of coastlands rejoice'.

2 ‖Clouds and thick darkness‖ are round about him, ‖Righteousness and justice‖ are the establishing of his throne.
3 ‖Fire‖ <before him> proceedeth,
That it may consume, round about, his adversaries.
4 His lightnings |have illumined| the world,
The earth |hath seen, and hath trembled|;
5 ‖The mountains‖ <like wax> have melted,
At the presence of Yahweh,
At the presence, of the Lord[d] of all the earth.

6 The heavens |have declared| his righteousness,—
And all the peoples |have seen| his glory.

7 Let all who serve an image[e] |be ashamed|,
They who boast themselves in things of nought,[f]
Bow down unto him, all ye gods.[g]

8 Zion |hath heard and rejoiced|,
And the daughters of Judah' |have exulted|,
Because of thy righteous decisions,[h] O Yahweh:
9 For ‖thou, Yahweh‖ art Most High over all the earth,
Greatly' hast thou exalted thyself above all gods.[g]

10 Ye lovers of Yahweh! be haters of wrong,—
He preserveth the lives[i] of his men of loving-kindness,
<From the hand of the lawless> will he rescue them.
11 ‖Light‖ is sown[k] for the righteous one,
And <for the upright in heart> rejoicing:

12 Rejoice, ye righteous, in Yahweh,
And give ye thanks, at the mention[a] of his holiness.

PSALM 98.

A Melody.

1 Sing to Yahweh, a song that is new,
For <wonderful things> hath he done,
His own right hand and his holy' arm |have brought him salvation|.
2 Yahweh |hath made known| his salvation,
<Before the eyes of the nations> hath he revealed his righteousness:
3 He hath remembered his lovingkindness and his faithfulness towards the house of Israel,—
All the ends of the earth |have seen| the salvation of our God.

4 Shout aloud to Yahweh, all the earth,
Break forth and make a joyful noise and sweep the strings;
5 Sweep the strings to Yahweh
With the lyre,
With the lyre, and the voice of melody;
6 <With trumpets and the sound of a horn>
Shout aloud, before the king—Yahweh.

7 Let the sea |roar|, and the fulness thereof,
The world, and they who dwell therein;
8 Let ‖the floods‖ clap their hands,
‖Together‖ let |the mountains| make a joyful noise

Before Yahweh, for he is coming—to judge the earth,—
He will judge the world, in righteousness,
And the peoples, with equity.

PSALM 99.

1 ‖Yahweh‖ hath become king,
Let the peoples |tremble|,
He is enthroned on the cherubim,
Let the earth |shake|.
2 ‖Yahweh‖ |in Zion| is great,
And |high| is he' over all the peoples.
3 Let them thank his Name—great and reverend,
|Holy| is he!

4 Yea <with the strength of a king—justice> he loveth,— ‖Thou‖ hast established equity,
<Justice and righteousness in Jacob> ‖thou‖ hast wrought.

5 Exalt Yahweh our God,
And bow down at his footstool,
|Holy|[b] is he!

Yet one bringing vengeance on their deeds.[a]

9 Exalt Yahweh our God,
And bow down towards his holy' mountain,
For |holy| is Yahweh our God.

PSALM 100.

A Melody for Thanksgiving.

1 Make a joyful noise to Yahweh, all the earth:
2 Serve Yahweh with rejoicing,
Enter before him, with shouts of triumph.

3 Know that ‖Yahweh‖ |he| is God,—
‖He‖ made us, and not ‖we ourselves‖,[b]
His people, and the flock of his pasture.

4 Enter ye his gates with thanksgiving,
his courts with praise,
Give ye thanks to him, bless ye his Name;

5 For good' is Yahweh,
Age-abiding' is his lovingkindness,
And <unto generation after generation> his faithfulness.

PSALM 101.

David's. A Melody.

1 <Of lovingkindness and of justice> will I sing!
<Unto thee, O Yahweh> will I touch the strings!

2 I will behave myself wisely[c] in a blameless way,
When wilt thou come in unto me?
I will walk to and fro in the blamelessness of my heart,—in the midst of my house:
3 I will not set before mine eyes a vile thing,[d]—
<The doing of them who fall away> I hate,
It shall not cleave unto me;
4 ‖A perverse heart‖ shall depart from me,
<A maker of mischief> will I not acknowledge;
5 <He that uttereth slander in secret against his friend>
‖Him‖ will I root out;
<One of lofty eyes, and of an ambitious heart>
‖Him‖ shall I not be able to endure.

6 ‖Mine eyes‖ shall be upon the faithful of the land,
That they may dwell with me,—
<He that walketh in a blameless way>
‖He‖ shall attend me.

7 There shall not dwell in the midst of my house,
One who worketh deceit,—
‖He that speaketh falsehoods‖ shall not be established before mine eyes;
8 <Morning by morning> will I uproot
All the lawless ones of the land,
That I may cut off, out of the city of Yahweh—
All the workers of iniquity.

PSALM 102.

A Prayer for the Humbled One[a] when he is about to faint, and <before Yahweh> poureth out his grief.

1 O Yahweh, hear thou my prayer,
And let ‖my cry for help‖ <unto thee> enter in.
2 Do not hide thy face from me,
In the day when I am in distress,—
Bend down unto me thine ear,
<In the day when I call> speedily answer me.

3 For <consumed in smoke>[b] are my days,
And ‖my bones‖ <like a burning mass> are scorched through;
4 <Smitten like herbage> so is my heart dried up,
For I have forgotten to eat my food.
5 <At the noise of my groaning> my bone' |hath cleaved| to my flesh':
6 I am like the pelican of the desert,
I have become as an owl among ruins.
7 I have watched and am become[c]
Like a bird sitting alone[d] upon a house-top.
8 <All the day> have mine enemies |reproached me|,
And ‖they who are mad against me‖ |by me| have sworn.[e]
9 For <ashes—like[f] bread> have I eaten,
And <my drink—with my tears> have I mingled;
10 Because of thine indignation and thy wrath,
For thou hast lifted me up, and cast me down.
11 ‖My days‖ are like a shadow extended,
And ‖I‖ <as green herbage> do wither.

12 But ‖thou, O Yahweh‖ age-abidingly' wilt remain,[g]
And the memorial of thee,[h] to generation after generation.
13 ‖Thou‖ wilt arise, wilt have compassion upon Zion,
Surely it is time to favour her,
Surely the time appointed' |hath come|;
14 Seeing that thy servants |take pleasure| in her stones,
And <her dust> they favour:

15 That the nations may revere thy Name, O Yahweh,
And all the kings of the earth, thy glory.

16 <When Yahweh |hath built up| Zion,
Hath appeared in his glory;
17 Hath turned towards the prayer of the destitute,[a]
And not despised their prayer>
18 This |shall be written| for a later' generation,
And ||a people to be created|| will give praise unto Yah:—
19 That he looked down, out of his holy' height,
||Yahweh|| <from the heavens unto the earth> directed his gaze;—
20 To hear the groaning of the prisoner,
To set free, them who were appointed to death.[b]
21 To the end the Name of Yahweh |might be celebrated in Zion|
And his praise in Jerusalem:
22 When the peoples |gather themselves together|,
And the kingdoms, to serve Yahweh.

23 He hath prostrated, in the way, my[c] strength,—
He hath shortened my days.
24 I said,
O my GOD, do not remove me[d] in the midst of my days,
<Throughout the generation of generations> are thy years;
25 <Of old—the earth> thou didst found,
And <the work of thy hands> are the heavens;
26 ||They|| shall perish, But ||thou|| wilt abide;
And ||they all|| <like a garment> shall fall in pieces,
<As a vesture> wilt thou change them and they shall vanish;
27 But ||thou|| art |the same|,—
And ||thy years|| shall have no end:
28 ||The children of thy servants|| shall continue,—
And ||their seed|| <before thee> be established.

PSALM 103.

1 Bless, O my soul, Yahweh,[e]—
And all that is within me, his holy' Name;
2 Bless, O my soul, Yahweh,
And forget not all his dealings:[f]—
3 Who forgiveth all thine iniquity,[g]
Who healeth all thy diseases;
4 Who redeemeth, from destruction, thy life,
Who crowneth thee, with lovingkindness and compassion:
5 Who satisfieth, with good, thine age,
Thy youth' |reneweth itself like an eagle|.

6 Yahweh is one |who executeth righteousness|,
Yea vindication' for all the oppressed.
7 Who made known his ways unto Moses,
<Unto the sons of Israel> his doings.

8 <Compassionate and gracious> is Yahweh,—
Slow to anger and abundant in lovingkindness.[a]

9 <Not perpetually> will he contend,
<Nor age-abidingly> retain anger;
10 <Not according to our sins> hath he dealt with us,
<Nor according to our iniquities> hath he treated us.
11 For <as the heavens are exalted over the earth>
His lovingkindness hath prevailed[b] over them who revere him;
12 <As far' as East from West>
Hath he put far' from us, our transgressions;
13 <Like the compassion of a father for his children>
Is ||the compassion of Yahweh|| for them who revere him;
14 For ||he|| knoweth how we are formed,[c]
He is mindful[d] that ||dust|| we are'.[e]

15 ||As for man|| <like grass> are his days,
<Like the blossom of the field> ||so|| doth he blossom;
16 For ||a wind|| hath passed over it, and it is gone',
And its own place is acquainted with it no more.

17 But ||the lovingkindness of Yahweh|| is from one age even to another
Upon them who revere him,
And his righteousness, to children's children:—
18 To such as keep his covenant,
And remember his precepts, to do them.

19 ||Yahweh|| <in the heavens> hath established his throne,
And ||his kingdom|| <over all> hath dominion.

20 Bless Yahweh, ye[f] messengers of his,— Heroes of vigour, doing his word,
To hearken [again] to the voice of his word;
21 Bless Yahweh, all ye his hosts,
Attendants of his, doing his pleasure;
22 Bless Yahweh, all ye his works,
In all places of his dominion,
Bless, O my soul, Yahweh.

[a] Or: "forlorn."
[b] Ml.: "the sons of death."
[c] Written: "his"; read: "my." In some cod. (w. Sep. and Vul.): "his," both written and read: in others (w. 2 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Syr.): "my," both written and read—G.n.
[d] Or (ml.): "do not take me up."
[e] The rhythm of this line is intended to facilitate the accenting of the Divine Name on the second syllable—See Intro. Chap. IV., II. B, 3, ante, p. 25.
[f] "Dealings" is not only more exact than "benefits," but is here the more expressive word; since, in the enthusiasm of his gratitude, the Psalmist may have felt that all the divine "dealings" formed a fitting subject for praise.

PSALM 104.

1 Bless, O my soul, Yahweh,—
Yahweh, my God, thou art exceedingly' great,
<With honour and majesty> hast thou clothed thyself,
2 Putting on light, as a robe,
Stretching out the heavens, as a curtain;
3 Building,[a] in the waters, his upper chambers,—
Who maketh clouds his chariot,
Who passeth along on the wings of the wind;
4 Making His messengers, winds,
His attendants, a flaming fire;
5 He hath fixed the earth on its foundations,
It is not to be shaken, to times age-abiding and beyond.

6 <With the resounding deep—as a garment> hast thou covered it,
<Above the mountains> stand the waters;
7 <At thy rebuke> they flee,
<At the voice of thy thunder> they hurry away;
8 Mountains rise', Valleys sink'
Unto the place which thou hast fixed for them;
9 <Bounds> hast thou set, which they are not to pass over,
They are not to return to cover the earth.

10 Who hast sent forth springs, through the torrent-beds,
<Between the mountains> they flow along;
11 They give drink, to every wild beast of the field,
The wild asses do break' their thirst.
12 <Over them> the bird of the heavens settleth down,
<From amidst the foliage> they utter a voice.

13 Who watereth the mountains out of his upper chambers, <Out of the fruit of thy works> thou satisfiest the earth.

14 Who causeth the grass to shoot forth for the cattle,
And the herb, for the service of man,
That he may bring forth food out of the earth;
15 And ‖wine‖ may rejoice the heart of man,
Making radiant his well-nourished face,—
And ‖food‖ may <the heart of man> sustain.

16 Satisfied' are
The trees of Yahweh,
The cedars of Lebanon, which he hath planted;
17 Where the birds build their nests,
‖The stork‖ <in the fir-trees> hath her house;
18 The high mountains‖ are for the chamois,
‖The crags‖ are a refuge for the conies.[b]

19 He hath made the moon' for seasons,[c]
And ‖the sun‖ knoweth his place for entering in.

20 Thou causest darkness, and it becometh night,
<Therein> creepeth forth
Every wild beast of the forest;
21 ‖The young lions‖ roaring for prey,
And seeking, from GOD, their food.
22 The sun ariseth, they withdraw themselves,
And <in their lairs> lay them down.
23 Man' goeth forth to his work'
And to his labour, until evening.

24 How thy works abound', O Yahweh!
<All of them—in wisdom> hast thou made,
The earth is full' of thy possession:—[a]
25 ‖This sea here‖ is great and broad on both hands,— Wherein are creeping things, even without' number,
Living things, small with great;
26 ‖There‖ |ships| sail along,
This sea-monster,[b] thou hast formed[c] to sport therein;
27 ‖All of them‖ <for thee> do wait,
That thou mayest give them their food in its season;
28 Thou givest unto them, they gather,[d]
Thou openest thy hand, they are satisfied with good.
29 Thou hidest thy face, they are dismayed,[e]
Thou withdrawest their spirit,
They cease to breathe,
And <unto their own dust> do they return:
30 Thou sendest forth thy spirit, they are created,
And thou renewest the face of the ground.

31 Be thy glory, O Yahweh, to times age-abiding,
Let Yahweh rejoice in his own works:[f]
32 Who looketh at the earth, and it trembleth,
He toucheth the mountains, and they smoke.

33 I will sing to Yahweh, as long as I live!
Yea I will touch the strings to my God, while I continue;
34 <Pleasing unto him> be my meditation,
‖I‖ will rejoice in Yahweh.

35 Sinners shall be consumed' out of the earth,
And ‖the lawless‖ no more, shall exist,—
Bless, O my soul, Yahweh,
Praise ye Yah![g]

[a] Ml.: "joining."
[b] Cp. Lev. xi. 5, n.
[c] "Most likely sacred seasons"—O.G. 417[b], 437[a].

[a] Or: "acquisition." So (sing.) in many MSS. (w. 5 ear. pr. edns. [1 Rabb.]); but in others (w. 6 ear. pr. edns.): "possessions" (or "acquisitions") (pl.)—G.n.
[b] Or: "whale." So O.G.
[c] Or: "The sea-monster which thou hast formed." Cp. O.G. 261, 5.
[d] Or: "pick up."
[e] So O.G.; "suddenly perish"—T.G.
[f] Cp. Job xiv. 15.
[g] Or, as one word: "Halleluyah"; and so the Massoretic text. But Ginsburg concludes: "There can hardly be any doubt that this" [resolution of the phrase into two words, translated as three] "exhibits the primitive reading." He further expresses the confident conclusion that the phrase was originally the public reader's invitation to the worshippers to join in the public responses—G. Intro. pp. 375–81.

PSALM 105.

1 Give ye thanks to Yahweh, Call upon his Name,
Make known, among the peoples, his doings;
2 Sing ye to him, Make ye music to him,
Speak ye of all his wonders.
3 Make your boast in his holy' Name,
Joyful be the heart of them who are seeking Yahweh.
4 Search out Yahweh and his strength,
Seek diligently his face at all times.[a]
5 Remember his wonders which he hath done,
His portents, and the just decisions[b] of his mouth.

6 O ye Seed of Abraham[c]—his servants,[d]
Sons of Jacob—his chosen ones:
7 ‖Yahweh himself‖ is our God,
<Through all the land>[e] are his just decisions.

8 He hath remembered, unto times age-abiding, his covenant,
The word he commanded, to a thousand generations;
9 Which he solemnised with Abraham,
And his oath, to Isaac;
10 And confirmed it unto Jacob for a statute,
To Israel, as a covenant age-abiding;
11 Saying, <To thee> will I give the land of Canaan,
As your inherited' portion;
12 While as yet' they[f] were men easily counted,—
A very few, and sojourners therein;
13 And they wandered from nation to nation,
From a kingdom, to another people.
14 He suffered no son of earth to oppress them,
And reproved—for their sakes—[even] kings!
15 Ye may not touch mine Anointed ones,
And <to my Prophets> may ye do no wrong.

16 Then called he a famine over the land,
<All the staff of bread> he brake;
17 He sent before them a man,
<For a slave> was he sold—[even] Joseph;
18 They forced, into a fetter, his foot,[g]
<Into the iron> entered his soul;[h]
19 Until the time when his word' came to pass,
‖Speech[i] of Yahweh‖ proved him;
20 The king sent, and set him free,
<One having dominion over peoples> yet loosed he his bonds;
21 He appointed him lord to his household,
And one having dominion over all he possessed;
22 That he might bind his rulers as he pleased,[a]
And <his elders> he might embue with wisdom.

23 So Israel came' into Egypt,
And ‖Jacob‖ sojourned in the land of Ham;
24 And he made his people exceeding' fruitful,—
And caused them to become stronger than their adversaries.

25 He let them turn[b] their heart—
To hate his people,
To deal treacherously with his servants;
26 He sent Moses his servant,
Aaron, whom he had chosen.
27 He[c] set among them his threatening' signs,
And his wonders, in the land of Ham;
28 He sent darkness, and made it dark,
But they rebelled[d] against his words;[e]
29 He turned their waters into blood,
And so caused their fish to die;
30 Their land swarmed' with frogs,
In[f] the chambers of their kings!
31 He spake, and there came in the gad-fly,
Gnats,[g] in all their bounds;
32 He made their showers—hail,
A fire flaming throughout their land;
33 And he smote their vines, and their fig-trees,
And brake in pieces the trees of their bounds;[h]
34 He spake—then came the swarming locust,—
The devouring locust, and that without number;
35 And devoured all the herbage in their land,
And devoured the fruit of their ground.
36 Then smote he every firstborn in their land,
The beginning of all their strength;[k]

37 Thus brought he them forth, with silver and gold,
Nor was there, throughout his tribes, one that faltered;
38 Egypt rejoiced' when they went out,
For the dread of them had fallen' upon them.

39 He spread out a cloud as a covering,
And fire, to give light by night,
40 They asked,[l] and he brought in[m] the quail,—
And <with the bread of the heavens> he satisfied them;

41 He opened the rock, and there gushed forth waters,
They flowed along, through parched places, as a river;
42 For he remembered his holy' word,
With Abraham his servant.

43 Thus brought he forth his people with gladness,—
<With shouts of triumph> his chosen ones;
44 And gave them, the lands of the nations,
And <of the toil of the peoples> took they possession:
45 In order that they might observe his statutes,
And <over his laws> might keep watch,
Praise ye Yah.[a]

PSALM 106.

1 Praise ye Yah,
Give ye thanks to Yahweh—
For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.[b]

2 Who can relate the mighty deeds of Yahweh?
Can cause to be heard, all his praise?
3 How happy! They who observe justice,
He that executeth[c] righteousness at all times.

4 Remember me,[d] O Yahweh, when thou acceptest thy people,[e]
Visit me,[d] with thy salvation;
5 That I may look upon the welfare of thy chosen ones,
That I may rejoice in the joy of thy nation,
That I may glory, with thine inheritance.

6 We have sinned—with our fathers,
We have acted perversely, we have[f] committed lawlessness;
7 ‖Our fathers, in Egypt‖ understood not thy wonders,
They remembered not the abounding of thy lovingkindnesses,
But rebelled by the sea—at the Red Sea.[g]

8 Yet he saved them, for the sake of his Name,
To make known his mighty power;
9 So he rebuked the Red Sea, and it dried up,
And he led them through deeps, as pasture-land;
10 And saved them from the hand of one full of hatred,
And redeemed them out of the hand of the foe:
11 So the waters covered their adversaries,
‖Not one from among them‖ was left.
12 They believed therefore in his words,
They sang his praise.

13 Soon' forgat they his works,—
They waited not for his counsel;
14 But lusted a lust in the desert,
And tested God in the waste.
15 So he gave them their request,
But sent leanness into their soul.
16 And they became jealous
Of Moses, in the camp,—
Of Aaron, the holy one of Yahweh;
17 The earth opened' and engulfed Dathan,
And covered up the assembly of Abiram;
18 Then was kindled a fire in their assembly,—
‖A flame‖ consumed[a] the lawless ones.
19 They made a calf in Horeb,—
And bowed down to a molten image;
20 Thus changed they my glory,[b]
For the similitude of an ox that eateth grass.
21 They forgat God their saviour,
Who had done great things in Egypt:
22 Wonders in the land of Ham,
Terrible things by the Red Sea.
23 Then would he have bidden to destroy them,—
Had not Moses his chosen, stood in the breach before him,
To turn back his wrath from destroying.

24 And they refused the delightful' land,
They believed not his word;
25 But murmured in their tents,—
They hearkened not[c] unto the voice of Yahweh.
26 So he lifted up his hand unto them,
That he would let them fall in the desert;
27 And would disperse[d] their seed among the nations,
And would scatter them throughout the lands.

28 Yet they let themselves be bound to Baal-peor,—[e]
And did eat sacrifices to the dead:[f]
29 So they provoked[g] to anger by their doings,
And a plague |made a breach among them|.
30 Then stood up Phinehas, and interposed,
And stayed' was the plague:
31 So it was counted unto him, for righteousness,
To generation after generation, unto times age-abiding.

32 And they provoked by the waters of Meribah,—
And it fared ill with Moses, for their sakes;
33 For they embittered his spirit,[h]
And he spake rashly with his lips.

34 They destroyed not the peoples of which Yahweh had spoken to them;
35 But had fellowship with the nations,
And learned their doings;
36 Yea they served their idols,
And they[i] became to them a snare:

And <with the bread of the heavens> he satisfied them;

41 He opened the rock, and there gushed forth waters,
They flowed along, through parched places, as a river;
42 For he remembered his holy word,
With Abraham his servant.
43 Thus brought he forth his people with gladness,—
<With shouts of triumph> his chosen ones;
44 And gave them the lands of the nations,
And <of the toil of the peoples> took they possession:
45 In order that they might observe his statutes,
And <over his laws> might keep watch,
Praise ye Yah.[a]

PSALM 106.

1 Praise ye Yah.
Give ye thanks to Yahweh—
For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.[b]
2 Who can relate the mighty deeds of Yahweh?
Can cause to be heard all his praise?
3 How happy! They who observe justice,
He that executeth[c] righteousness at all times.
4 Remember me,[d] O Yahweh, when thou acceptest thy people,[e]
Visit me,[d] with thy salvation;
5 That I may look upon the welfare of thy chosen ones,
That I may rejoice in the joy of thy nation,
That I may glory, with thine inheritance.
6 We have sinned—with our fathers,
We have acted perversely, we have[f] committed lawlessness;
7 Our fathers, in Egypt‖ understood not thy wonders.
They remembered not the abounding of thy lovingkindnesses,
But rebelled by the sea—at the Red Sea.[g]
8 Yet he saved them, for the sake of his Name,
To make known his mighty power;
9 So he rebuked the Red Sea, and it dried up,
And he led them through deeps, as pasture-land;
10 And saved them from the hand of one full of hatred,
And redeemed them out of the hand of the foe:
11 So the waters covered their adversaries,
‖Not one from among them‖ was left.
12 They believed therefore in his words,
They sang his praise.
13 Soon forgat they his works,—
They waited not for his counsel;
14 But lusted a lust in the desert,
And tested God in the waste.
15 So he gave them their request,
But sent leanness into their soul.
16 And they became jealous
Of Moses, in the camp,—
Of Aaron, the holy one of Yahweh;
17 The earth opened and engulfed Dathan,
And covered up the assembly of Abiram;
18 Then was kindled a fire in their assembly,—
‖A flame‖ consumed[a] the lawless ones.
19 They made a calf in Horeb,—
And bowed down to a molten image;
20 Thus changed they my glory,[b]
For the similitude of an ox that eateth grass.
21 They forgat God their saviour,
Who had done great things in Egypt:
22 Wonders in the land of Ham,
Terrible things by the Red Sea.
23 Then would he have bidden to destroy them,—
Had not Moses his chosen, stood in the breach before him,
To turn back his wrath from destroying.
24 And they refused the delightful land,
They believed not his word;
25 But murmured in their tents,—
They hearkened not[c] unto the voice of Yahweh.
26 So he lifted up his hand unto them,
That he would let them fall in the desert;
27 And would disperse[d] their seed among the nations,
And would scatter them throughout the lands.
28 Yet they let themselves be bound to Baal-peor,—[e]
And did eat sacrifices to the dead;[f]
29 So they provoked[g] to anger by their doings,
And a plague ‖made a breach among them‖.
30 Then stood up Phinehas, and interposed,
And stayed' was the plague:
31 So it was counted unto him, for righteousness,
To generation after generation, unto times age-abiding.
32 And they provoked by the waters of Meribah,—
And it fared ill with Moses, for their sakes;
33 For they embittered his spirit,[h]
And he spake rashly with his lips.
34 They destroyed not the peoples of which Yahweh had spoken to them;
35 But had fellowship with the nations,
And learned their doings;
36 Yea they served their idols,
And they[i] became to them a snare:

37 Yea they sacrificed their sons and their daughters to mischievous demons;[a] 38 And poured out innocent' blood,
The blood of their sons and their daughters,
Whom they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan,
And the land was polluted with blood-shed;
39 And they became unclean by their works,
And became unchaste in their doings.
40 Then was kindled' the anger of Yahweh with his people,
And he abhorred his own inheritance.
41 So he delivered them up into the hand of the nations,
And they who hated them |had dominion over them|;
42 And their enemies oppressed them,
And they were bowed down under their hand.

But ‖they‖ rebelled by their counsel,
And sank low in their iniquity.

BOOK THE FIFTH.

PSALM 107.

1 O give thanks to Yahweh—[a]
For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.

2 Let the redeemed of Yahweh say',
Whom he hath redeemed from the hand of the adversary;
3 And <out of the lands> hath gathered them,—
From the east and from the west,
From the north and from the south.[b]
4 They wandered about in the desert—in a waste, <Way[c] to a city to dwell in> found they none;
5 <Hungry—yea thirsty>
Their soul, within them, fainted:

6 Then made they outcry to Yahweh, in their peril,
<Out of their distresses> he rescued them;

7 And led them by a straight' road,
That they might journey to a city to dwell in.

8 Let them give thanks to Yahweh
for his lovingkindness, and for his wonderful dealings with the sons of men;[d]

9 For he hath satisfied the longing soul,
And <the famished soul> hath he filled with good.

10 <The dwellers in darkness and death-shade,
Bound with oppression[a] and iron;
11 Because they had rebelled against the sayings of GOD,—
And <the counsel of the Most High> they had spurned;
12 And he bowed down, with labour, their heart,
They staggered, with no one to help>

13 Then made they outcry to Yahweh in their peril,
<Out of their distresses> he saved them;

14 He brought them forth out of darkness and death-shade,
And <their fetters> he tare off.

15 Let them give thanks to Yahweh
for his lovingkindness, and
for his wonderful dealings with the sons of men!

16 For he brake in pieces the doors of bronze,
And <the bars of iron> he hewed asunder.

17 <‖The perverse‖ <by reason of their transgression,
And on account of their iniquities> are afflicted;

[a] This line is preceded in Sep. and Vul. by the [public reader's] invitation: "Praise ye Yah." — G.n. Cp. Ps. civ. 35, n.
[b] Lit.: "from the sea." Gt.: "from the right" = "south, because when facing east the right hand is towards the south"—O.G.
[c] So shd the verse be divided (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.) — G.n. [Hence not: "waste of a way," as O.G. 445b.]
[d] Or: "Adam."

[a] Or: "humiliation."

18 <All manner of food> their soul abhorreth,
And so they draw near unto the gates of death>

19 Then make they outcry to Yahweh in their peril,
And <out of their distresses> he saveth them.

20 He sendeth his word, and healeth them,
And delivereth them from their graves.[a]

21 Let them give thanks to Yahweh
for his lovingkindness, and
for his wonderful dealings with the sons of men!

22 Yea let them sacrifice the sacrifices of thanksgiving,
And recount his works with a shout.

23 <Men who go down to the sea, in ships,
Doing business through mighty waters;
24 ‖They‖ see the works[b] of Yahweh,
And his wonders in the deep;
25 And he speaketh, and there ariseth[c] a tempestuous wind,
Which lifteth on high its rolling waves;
26 They mount the heavens, They descend the roaring deeps,
‖Their soul‖ <by trouble> dissolveth;
27 They reel and stagger, like a drunken man,
And ‖all their wisdom‖ is engulfed>

28 Then make they outcry to Yahweh, in their peril,
And <out of their distresses> he bringeth them forth.[d]

29 He calmeth the storm to a whisper,
And silent are their rolling waves:
30 Then are they glad, because they are hushed,
And he guideth them unto their desired' haven.[e]

31 Let them give thanks to Yahweh
for his lovingkindness, and
for his wonderful dealings with the sons of men!

32 Yea let them extol him in the convocation of the people,
And <in the seated company of elders> let them praise him.

33 He turneth
Rivers into a desert, and
Springs of Water into thirsty ground,
34 A Land of Fruit into a waste of salt,
For the wickedness of them who dwell therein.

35 He turneth
A Desert into a pool of water, and
A Parched Land into springs of water;
36 And hath caused the famished to dwell there,
And they have built them a city to dwell in;

37 And have sown fields, and planted vineyards,
And made them fruits of increase:
38 Thus hath he blessed them, and they have multiplied greatly,
And <their cattle> he maketh not few.

40 He poureth contempt upon nobles,
And causeth them to wander in a pathless' waste;[a]
39 So have they become few and been brought low,
By oppression, misfortune and sorrow;
41 But he hath set the needy on high from affliction,
And made families |like a flock|:—
42 The upright seeth' and is glad,
And ‖all perverseness‖ hath closed her mouth.

43 Who is wise? then let him observe these things!
And diligently consider the lovingkindness of Yahweh.

PSALM 108.

A Song, a Melody: David's.

1 |Fixed| is my heart, O God,[b]
I will sing and touch the strings, even mine honour.[c]
2 Awake, O harp[d] and lyre,
I will awaken the dawn!

3 I will thank thee among the peoples, O Yahweh,
And will sing praise unto thee, among the tribes of men.
4 For <great above the heavens> is thy lovingkindness,
And <as far as the skies> thy faithfulness.
5 Be thou exalted above the heavens, O God,
And <above all the earth> be thy glory.
6 <To the end thy beloved ones may be delivered>
Oh save thou with thy right hand and answer me![e]

7 ‖God‖ hath spoken in his holiness,
I will exult!
I will apportion Shechem!
And <the Vale of Succoth> will I measure out;
8 <Mine> is Gilead—<mine>[f] Manasseh,
But ‖Ephraim‖ is the defence of my head,
‖Judah‖ is my commander's staff;
9 ‖Moab‖ is my wash-bowl,
<Upon Edom> will I throw my shoe,[g]
<Over Philistia> raise a shout of triumph.

Who will lead[a] me as far as Edom?
11 Hast not thou, [b] O God, rejected us?
And wilt not go forth, O God, with our hosts?
12 Grant us help out of distress,
For <vain> is the deliverance of man:
13 <In God> shall we do valiantly,
||He himself|| therefore, shall tread down our adversaries.

PSALM 109.

To the Chief Musician. David's. A Melody.

1 O God of my praise, [c] do not be silent;
2 For ||the mouth of the lawless one and the mouth of the deceiver|| <against me> are open,
They have spoken to me with a false' tongue;
3 And <with words of hatred> have they surrounded me,
And have made war upon me without cause:
4 <For my love> they have been accusing me,
While ||I|| was at prayer:
5 Yea they have returned [d] unto me—
Evil' for good'; and Hatred' for my love'.

6 Set in charge over him, one who is lawless,
And let ||an accuser|| stand at his right hand;
7 <When he is judged> let him go out condemned,
And let ||his own petition|| become a sin;
8 Let his days become few,
<His overseership> let another' take;
9 Let his children become fatherless,
And his wife a widow;
10 Let his children ||wander about|| and beg,
Let them be driven out [e] of their ruins;
11 Let the creditor take aim at all that he hath,
And let strangers prey on the fruit of his toil;
12 Let him have no one to continue lovingkindness,
And there be none to favour his fatherless children;
13 Let his posterity be for cutting off,
<In another generation> let their [f] name be wiped out;
14 Remembered' be the iniquity of his fathers against Yahweh, [g]
And <the sin of his mother> let it not be wiped out;
15 Let them be before Yahweh continually,
And let the memory [h] of them |be cut off out of the earth|.

16 Because that he remembered not to shew lovingkindness,
But pursued the man that was oppressed and needy,
That <the downhearted> he might slay.

17 <Because he loved cursing>
May it have come upon him,
<Because he delighted not in blessing>
May it have kept far from him;
18 <Because he clothed himself in cursing as his outer garment>
Therefore may it have entered like water into his inward part,
And like oil into his bones;
19 Be it his, as a garment he shall wrap round him,
And for a girdle he shall, at all times, gird on:
20 ||This|| be the reward of mine accusers, from Yahweh,
Even of them who are speaking wrongfully against my life. [a]

21 But ||thou|| Yahweh, Adonāy, deal effectually with me, for the sake of thy Name,
<Since good' is thy lovingkindness> O rescue me;
22 For <oppressed and needy> I am',
And ||my heart|| is wounded [b] within me.
23 <As a shadow when it stretcheth out> I am gone,
I am shaken off like the locust;
24 ||My knees|| tremble from fasting,
And ||my flesh|| faileth of fatness:
25 So ||I|| am become a reproach for them,
They see me, they shake their head.

26 Help me! O Yahweh my God,
Save me, according to thy lovingkindness:
27 That they may know that <Thine own hand> this is',
||Thou, Yahweh|| hast done it.

28 ||They|| may curse' if ||thou|| wilt bless,—
||Mine assailants|| shall be ashamed, [c]
But ||thy servant|| shall rejoice;
29 Mine accusers shall be clothed with confusion,
And shall wrap about them, like a cloak, their own shame.

30 I will thank Yahweh loudly with my mouth,
Yea <in the midst of multitudes> will I praise him;
31 Because he standeth at the right hand of the needy,
To save, from them who would pass sentence on his [d] life. [a]

Tread thou down in the midst of thy foes.

3 ‖Thy people‖ will freely offer themselves in the day of thine army,[a]—
<In the splendours of holiness[b] out of the womb of the dawn>
To thee' [shall spring forth] the dew of thy youth.[c]

4 Yahweh [hath sworn]—and will not repent,
‖Thou‖ [shalt be] a priest unto times age-abiding,
After the manner of Melchizedek.

5 ‖My Lord[d] on thy right hand‖,—
Hath shattered—in the day of his anger—kings;
6 He will judge among the nations—full of dead bodies!
He hath shattered the head over a land far extended:
7 <Of the torrent in the way> will he drink,—
<For this cause> will he lift up [his] head.

PSALM 111.

1 Praise ye Yah!
I will give thanks unto Yahweh with a whole heart,
In the circle of the upright and the assembly.
2 Great' are the works of Yahweh,
Sought out[e] by all who find pleasure therein.
3 <Honourable and majestic> is his doing,
And ‖his righteousness‖ standeth for aye.
4 <A memorial> hath he made by his wonders,
<Gracious and compassionate> is Yahweh.[f]
5 <Food>[g] hath he given to them who revere him,
He will remember age-abidingly his covenant.
6 <The might[h] of his works> hath he declared to his people,
That he may give them the inheritance of the nations.[i]
7 ‖The works[k] of his hands‖ are faithful and just,[l]
Firm' are all his precepts;
8 Upheld to futurity, to times age-abiding,
Done in faithfulness and equity.
9 <Ransom> hath he sent to his people,
He hath commanded to times age-abiding his covenant,
<Holy and reverend> is his Name.

10 <The beginning of wisdom> is the reverence of Yahweh,
<Good discretion> have all that do them,
‖His praise‖ endureth for aye.

PSALM 112.

1 Praise ye Yah!
How happy is the man who revereth Yahweh,
<In his commandments> delighteth he greatly;
2 <Mighty in the earth> shall be his seed,
‖The generation[a] of the upright‖ shall be blessed;
3 ‖Wealth and riches‖ shall be in his house,
And ‖his righteousness‖ standeth for aye.
4 |Risen—in darkness| is light to the upright,
‖The gracious and compassionate and righteous‖.
5 Well' for a man shewing favour and lending!
He shall sustain his affairs with justice.
6 Surely, <unto times age-abiding> shall he not be shaken,
<In remembrance age-abiding> shall the righteous' one remain;
7 <Of evil tidings> shall he not be afraid,
Established' is his heart, led to trust[b] in Yahweh;
8 Upheld' is his heart, he shall not be afraid,
Until that he gazeth on his foes.
9 He hath scattered abroad, he hath given to the needy,
‖His righteousness‖ standeth for aye,
‖His horn‖ shall be exalted in honour.[c]
10 ‖The lawless one‖ shall see, and be indignant,
<His teeth> will he gnash and melt away,
‖The craving[d] of the lawless‖ shall vanish.

PSALM 113.

1 Praise ye Yah!
Praise, O ye servants of Yahweh,
Praise the Name of Yahweh;
2 Be the Name of Yahweh blessed,
Henceforth, even to times age-abiding.
3 <From the rising of the sun unto the going in thereof>

PSALM 115.

1 <Not unto us> O Yahweh, <not unto us>,—
But <unto thine own Name> give glory, concerning thy lovingkindness, concerning[c] thy faithfulness.

2 Wherefore' should the nations' say,
Pray where is their God?
3 When ‖our God‖ is in the heavens,
<Whatsoever he pleased> hath he done.

4 ‖Their idols‖ are silver and gold,[d]
The work[e] of the hands of men,—
5 <A mouth> have they, but they speak not,
<Eyes> have they, but they see not;
6 <Ears> have they, but they hear not,
<A nose> have they, but they smell not:
7 Their hands! but they feel not,
Their feet! but they walk not,
No sound make they in their throat.
8 <Like unto them> shall be they who make them,
Every one[f] who trusteth in them.

9 O Israel![g] trust thou in Yahweh,
<Their help and their shield> is he!
10 O house of Aaron! trust ye in Yahweh,
<Their help and their shield> is he!
11 Ye that revere Yahweh! trust in Yahweh,
<Their help and their shield> is he!
12 ‖Yahweh‖ hath remembered us, he will bless—
He will bless the house of Israel,
He will bless the house of Aaron;
13 He will bless them who revere Yahweh,
‖The small with the great‖.

14 Yahweh multiply' you,
‖You, and your children‖.
15 Blessed' are ye' of Yahweh,
Who made the heavens and the earth:
16 <As for the heavens> ‖the heavens‖ belong to Yahweh,
<But the earth> hath he given to the sons of men.[a]
17 ‖The dead‖ cannot praise Yah,
Nor any that go down into silence;
18 But ‖we‖ will bless Yah,
From henceforth even unto times age-abiding.
Praise ye Yah.[b]

PSALM 116.

1 I love Yahweh—because he heareth'
My voice, my[c] supplications;
2 <Because he hath bowed down his ear unto me>
Therefore <throughout my days> will I call.

3 The meshes of death encompassed' me,
‖And the distresses of hades‖ came upon me,
<Peril and sorrow> I found;
4 But <on the Name of Yahweh> I called—
I beseech thee, Yahweh, deliver my soul.

5 Gracious' is Yahweh and righteous,
And ‖our God‖ is full of compassion.[d]
6 Yahweh |preserveth the simple|,
I was brought low, when <to me> he granted salvation.

7 Return, O my soul, to thy rest,
For ‖Yahweh‖ hath dealt bountifully with thee.

8 For thou hast rescued my soul from death,— mine eyes from tears,
my feet from stumbling.

9 I will walk to and fro before Yahweh, in the lands of life.
10 I believed' that I should speak,
‖I‖ was greatly depressed.
11 ‖I‖ said in mine alarm,[e]
‖All men‖ are false!

12 How shall I give back to Yahweh,
All his benefits unto me?
13 <The cup of salvation> will I lift,
And <on the Name of Yahweh> will I call:
14 <My vows—to Yahweh> will I pay,
Might it be in the presence of all his people!

15 <Costly' in the eyes of Yahweh>
Is ‖death‖ for his men of lovingkindness.

16 I beseech thee, O Yahweh—
For ‖I‖ am thy servant,—
‖I‖ am thy servant, the son of thy handmaid,
Thou hast loosened my bonds.

17 <To thee> will I sacrifice a sacrifice of thanksgiving,
And <on the Name of Yahweh> will I call:

18 <My vows—to Yahweh> will I pay,
Might it be in the presence of all his people;—

19 In the courts of the house of Yahweh,
In the midst of thee, O Jerusalem.
Praise ye Yah![a]

PSALM 117.

1 Praise Yahweh, all ye nations,
Laud him, all ye tribes of men;[b]
2 For his lovingkindness |hath prevailed over us|,
And ‖the faithfulness of Yahweh‖ is to times age-abiding.
Praise ye Yah![a]

PSALM 118.

1 Give ye thanks to Yahweh—
For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.[c]

2 I pray you! let Israel |say|,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.[c]
3 I pray you! let the house of Aaron' |say|,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.[c]
4 I pray you! let them who revere Yahweh' |say|,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.[c]

5 <Out of a strait> called I on Yah,
He answered me with enlargement.[d]
6 ‖Yahweh‖ is on my side,[e] I will not fear,
What can man' |do unto me|?
7 ‖Yahweh‖ is on my side,[e] with them who help me,
‖I‖ therefore shall gaze upon them who hate me.

8 It is <better to seek refuge in Yahweh>
Than to put confidence in man:
9 It is <better to seek refuge in Yahweh>
Than to put confidence in nobles.

10 ‖All nations‖ have compassed me about,
<In the Name of Yahweh> surely I will make them be circumcised;[f]
11 They have compassed me about—‖yea compassed me about‖,
<In the Name of Yahweh> surely I will make them be circumcised;[f]

12 They have compassed me about like wax bees,[a]
They have blazed up[b] like the fire of thorns,
<In the Name of Yahweh> surely I will make them be circumcised.[c]

13 Thou didst ‖thrust sore‖ at me that I might fall,
But ‖Yahweh‖ hath helped me.

14 <My might and melody> is Yah,
And he hath become mine' by salvation.[d]

15 ‖The voice of shouting and salvation‖ is in the tents of the righteous,
‖The right hand of Yahweh‖ is doing valiantly:
16 ‖The right hand of Yahweh‖ is exalted,
‖The right hand of Yahweh‖ is doing valiantly.
17 I shall not die, but[e] live,
That I may recount the doings[f] of Yah.
18 Yah' ‖chastened me sore‖,
But <unto death> did not deliver me.

19 Open to me the gates of righteousness,
I will enter therein, I will give thanks unto Yah.
20 ‖This‖ is the gate for Yahweh,
‖Such as are righteous‖ shall enter therein.
21 I will thank thee, because thou hast answered me,
And hast become mine, by salvation.[g]

22 ‖A stone the builders' refused‖
Hath become the head of the corner:
23 <From Yahweh> hath this' come to pass,
‖The same‖ is marvellous in our eyes.
24 This' is the day, which Yahweh' hath made,
We will exult, and be glad therein.[h]

25 Ah now, Yahweh, do save, we beseech thee,
Ah now, Yahweh, do send success, we beseech thee!

26 Blessed' be he that entereth,
In the Name of Yahweh,
We have blessed you,
Out of the house of Yahweh.
27 Yahweh is GOD',
And hath shed on us light,—
Bind ye the festal sacrifice with cords,
Up to the horns of the altar.

28 <My GOD> thou art', and I will thank thee,—
My Elohim, I will exalt thee.

29 Give ye thanks to Yahweh—
For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.

PSALM 119.

ALEPH.

א [1] How happy the men of blameless life,
Who walk in the law of Yahweh.
א [2] How happy they who observe his testimonies,
<With a whole heart> they seek him.
א [3] Yea, they have not wrought perversity,
<In his ways> have they walked.
א [4] ‖Thou‖ hast commanded thy precepts,
That they should be diligently kept.
א [5] Oh would that my ways' might be settled!
That I might keep thy statutes.
א [6] ‖Then‖ shall I not be ashamed,
When I have respect unto all thy commandments.
א [7] I will thank thee with uprightness of heart,
When I have learned thy righteous regulations.
א [8] <Thy statutes> will I keep,
Do not thou forsake me utterly.

BETH.

ב [9] Wherewithal can a young man keep pure his way?
By taking heed, according to thy word.[a] ב [10] <With all my heart> have I sought thee,
Suffer me not to be led astray from thy commandments.
ב [11] <In my heart> have I treasured what thou hast said,[b]
To the end I may not sin against thee.
ב [12] Blessed' art thou, O Yahweh,—
Teach me thy statutes.
ב [13] <With my lips> have I recounted
All the regulations of thy mouth.
ב [14] <In the way of thy testimonies> have I rejoiced,
Like as over all riches.
ב [15] <In thy precepts> will I meditate,
That I may discern thy paths.
ב [16] <In thy statutes> will I find my dear delight,
I will not forget thy word.[c]

GIMEL.

ג [17] Bestow thy bounties upon thy servant—let me live,
That I may observe thy word.[a] ג [18] Unveil thou mine eyes, that I may discern Wondrous things out of thy law.
ג [19] <A sojourner> am ‖I‖ in the earth,
Do not hide from me, thy commandments.
ג [20] My soul is crushed' with longing
For thy just decisions[d] at all times.
ג [21] Thou hast rebuked the proud as accursed,
Who stray from thy commandments.
ג [22] Roll from off me, reproach and contempt,
For <thy testimonies> have I observed.
ג [23] Even rulers have taken their seat, <against me> have talked,
‖Thy servant‖ will still meditate in thy statutes.
ג [24] Yea ‖thy testimonies‖ are my dear delight,[a]
My counsellors.

DALETH.

ד [25] My soul |cleaveth to the dust|,
Give me life, according to thy word.[b]
ד [26] <My ways> I recounted, and thou didst answer me,
Teach me thy statutes.
ד [27] <The way of thy precepts> cause thou me to understand,
And I will indeed meditate in thy wonders.
ד [28] My soul weepeth itself away, for grief,
Confirm thou me, according to thy word.[c]
ד [29] <The way of falsehood> take thou from me,
And <with thy law>[d] O favour me.
ד [30] <The way of faithfulness> have I chosen,
<Thy regulations> have I deemed right.
ד [31] I have kept close to thy testimonies,
O Yahweh! do not put me to shame.
ד [32] <The way of thy commandments> will I run,
For thou wilt enlarge my heart.

HE.

ה [33] Point out to me, O Yahweh, the way of thy statutes,
That I may observe it unto the end.
ה [34] Give me understanding, that I may observe thy law,
That I may keep it with a whole heart.
ה [35] Guide me in the path of thy commandments,
For <therein> do I find pleasure.
ה [36] Incline my heart unto thy testimonies,
And not unto unjust gain.
ה [37] Turn away mine eyes, from beholding vanity,
<In thy way>[e] give me life.
ה [38] Establish, unto thy servant, thy word,[f]
Which pertaineth[g] to the reverence of thee.
ה [39] Cause to pass away my reproach, that I have feared,
For ‖thy regulations‖ are good.
ה [40] Lo! I have longed for thy precepts,
<In thy righteousness> give me life.

WAW.

ו [41] And let thy lovingkindness reach me,
O Yahweh,
Thy salvation, according to thy word.[h]
ו [42] So shall I have something to answer him that reproacheth me,
That I have trusted in thy word.[i]

ZAYIN.

ז 49 Remember the word unto thy servant,
Upon which thou hast caused me to hope.
ז 50 ‖This‖ is my comfort in mine affliction,
That ‖thy word‖[d] hath given me life.
ז 51 ‖Insolent men‖ have derided me exceedingly,
<From thy law> have I not swerved.
ז 52 I have remembered thy regulations [which have come down] from age-past times, O Yahweh,
And have consoled myself.
ז 53 ‖A raging heat‖ hath seized me, by reason of the lawless,
Who forsake thy law.
ז 54 <Songs> have thy statutes' become to me,
In my house[e] of sojourn.
ז 55 I have remembered, in the night, thy Name, O Yahweh,
And have kept thy law.
ז 56 <This> have I had,
Because[f] <thy precepts> have I observed.

HETH.

ח 57 ‖My portion‖ is Yahweh,
I have promised that I would keep thy words.[g]
ח 58 I have sought the smile of thy face with all my heart,
Shew me favour, according to thy word.[d]
ח 59 I have thought upon my ways,
And have turned my feet unto thy testimonies.
ח 60 I have hastened, and not delayed,
To keep thy commandments.
ח 61 ‖The meshes of the lawless‖ have surrounded me,
<Thy law> have I not forgotten.
ח 62 <At midnight> I arise to give thanks unto thee,
For thy righteous regulations.
ח 63 <Companion> am I, to all who revere thee,
And to them who keep thy precepts.

ח 64 <Of thy lovingkindness> O Yahweh, the earth |is full|,
<Thy statutes> teach thou me.

TETH.

ט 65 <Well> hast thou dealt with thy servant,
O Yahweh, according to thy word.
ט 66 <Good judgment and knowledge> teach thou me,
For <in thy commandments> have I trusted.
ט 67 <Before I was afflicted> I myself' was going astray,
But ‖now‖ <thy word>[a] have I kept.
ט 68 <Good> thou art', and doing good,
Teach me thy statutes.
ט 69 Insolent' men have plastered falsehood over me,
‖I‖ <with a whole heart> will observe thy precepts.
ט 70 <Gross, like fat> is their heart,
‖I‖ <in thy law> have found dear delight.
ט 71 It is <well for me> that I was afflicted,
That I might learn thy statutes.
ט 72 <Better to me> is the law of thy mouth,
Than thousands of gold and silver.

YODH.

י 73 ‖Thine own hands‖ have made me, and formed[b] me.
Give me understanding, that I may learn thy commandments.
י 74 ‖They who revere thee‖ shall see me and rejoice
That <for thy word> I waited.
י 75 I know, O Yahweh, that righteous' are thy regulations,
And <in faithfulness> didst thou afflict me.
י 76 Let thy lovingkindness, I beseech thee, serve to comfort me,
According to thy word[a] to thy servant.
י 77 Let thy compassions reach me, that I may live,
For ‖thy law‖ is my dear delight.
י 78 Let insolent men |be ashamed|, because <by means of falsehood> they have dealt with me perversely,
‖I‖ will meditate in thy precepts.
י 79 Let them who revere thee |turn unto me|,
Even they who know[c] thy testimonies.
י 80 Let my heart be thorough[d] in thy statutes,
That I may not be ashamed.

KAPH.

LAMED.

ל 89 <Age-abidingly> O Yahweh,
Hath thy word been set up in the heavens.
ל 90 <To generation after generation> is thy faithfulness,
Thou hast established the earth, and it standeth.
ל 91 <By thy regulations> do they stand to-day,
For ‖all‖ are thy servants.
ל 92 <Had not thy law been my dear delight>
‖Then‖ had I perished in mine affliction.
ל 93 <Unto times age-abiding> will I not forget thy precepts,
For <by them> hast thou given me life.
ל 94 <Thine> am I'—oh save me!
For <thy precepts> have I sought.
ל 95 <For me> have the lawless waited, to destroy me,
<Thy testimonies> will I diligently consider.
ל 96 <To all perfection> have I seen an end,
Broad' is thy commandment |exceedingly|.

MEM.

מ 97 Oh how I love thy law!
<All the day> is it my meditation.
מ 98 <Beyond mine enemies> will thy commandment' make me wise,
For <age-abidingly> shall it be mine'.
מ 99 <Beyond all my teachers> have I shewn discretion,
For ‖thy testimonies‖ are my meditation.
מ 100 <Beyond the elders> will I shew understanding,
For <thy precepts> have I observed.
מ 101 <From every way of wickedness> have I withheld my feet,
That I might keep thy word.[a]
מ 102 <From thy regulations> have I not turned aside,
For ‖thou‖ hast directed me.
מ 103 How smooth to my palate is thy speech,[b]
<More than honey> to my mouth.
מ 104 <Out of thy precepts> will I get understanding,
<For this cause> do I hate every false' way.

NUN.

נ 105 <A lamp to my feet> is thy word,
And a light to my path.
נ 106 I sware, and have fulfilled,[c]
To keep thy righteous' regulations.

נ 107 I have been afflicted exceedingly,—
O Yahweh, give me life according to thy word.
נ 108 <The freewill offerings of my mouth> accept, I pray thee, O Yahweh,
And <thy regulations> teach thou me.
נ 109 ‖My life‖[a] is in my hand continually,
Yet <thy law> have I not forgotten.
נ 110 The lawless have set a snare for me,
Yet <from thy precepts> have I not strayed.
נ 111 As an inheritance have I taken thy testimonies unto times age-abiding,
For <the joy of my heart> they are'.
נ 112 I have inclined my heart to perform thy statutes,

פ 129 Wonderful' are thy testimonies,
‖For this cause‖ hath my soul observed them.
פ 130 ‖The opening of thy words‖ sheddeth light,
Giving understanding to the simple.
פ 131 <My mouth> have I opened wide, and panted,
Because <for thy commandments> have I longed.
פ 132 Turn thyself unto me, and shew me favour,—
As is befitting, to the lovers of thy Name.
פ 133 <My steps> direct thou by[a] thy word,[b]
And let no iniquity' |have dominion over me|.
פ 134 Set me free from the oppression of man,
So will I keep thy precepts.
פ 135 <Thy face> light thou up on thy servant,
And teach me thy statutes.
פ 136 <Streams of water> have run down mine eyes,
Because men have not kept thy law.

ZADHE.

צ 137 Righteous' art thou, O Yahweh,—
And <equitable> are thy regulations.
צ 138 Thou hast righteously commanded thy testimonies,
Yea in great faithfulness.
צ 139 My zeal |hath put an end to me|,
For mine adversaries' have forgotten thy words.[c]
צ 140 Refined' is thy word,[b] to the uttermost,
And ‖thy servant‖ loveth it.

And ‖all thy commandments‖ are truth.
ק 152 |Long| have I known, from thy testimonies,
That <to times age-abiding> thou didst establish them.

RESH.

ר 153 Behold mine affliction, and rescue me,
For <thy law> have I not forgotten.
ר 154 Plead my cause, and redeem me,
<By thy word>[b] give me life.
ר 155 <Far from the lawless> is salvation,
For <thy statutes> have they not sought.
ר 156 ‖Thy compassions‖ are great, O Yahweh,
<According to thy regulations> give me life.
ר 157 <Many> are my persecutors and mine adversaries,
<From thy testimonies> have I not swerved.
ר 158 I have seen traitors, and felt loathing,
Because <thy word>[b] they kept not.
ר 159 See thou that <thy precepts> I have loved,
O Yahweh <according to thy lovingkindness> give me life.
ר 160 |The sum of thy word| is truth,[e]
And <age-abiding> is every one of thy righteous' regulations.[d]

SHIN.

ש 161 ‖Rulers‖ have persecuted me, without cause,
But <of thy word>[c] hath my heart stood in awe.
ש 162 Joyful' am I' over thy word,[f]
Like the finder of spoil in abundance.
ש 163 <Falsehood> I hate and abhor,
<Thy law> do I love.
ש 164 <Seven times in the day> have I praised thee,
For thy righteous regulations.
ש 165 <Blessing in abundance> have the lovers of thy law,
And nothing to make them' stumble.
ש 166 I have looked for thy salvation, O Yahweh,
And <thy commandments> have I done.
ש 167 My soul hath kept' thy testimonies,
Yea I have loved them greatly.
ש 168 I have kept thy precepts, and thy testimonies,
For ‖all my ways‖ are before thee.

TAU.

ת 169 Let my shouting come near' before thee, O Yahweh,
<According to thy word> give me understanding.
ת 170 Let my supplication come in' before thee,
<According to thy word>[b] deliver me.

For <thy commandments> have I not forgotten.

PSALM 120.

A Song of Ascents.[c]

1 <Unto Yahweh, in the distress that befell me>
I cried—and he answered me.
2 O Yahweh! rescue thou my soul—
From the false' lip,
From the deceitful' tongue.
3 What shall be given to thee,
And what shall be added to thee
Thou deceitful tongue?
4 The arrows of the hero sharpened,
With burning coals of broom.

5 Woe is me, That I sojourn in Meshek,[d]—
That I abide near the tents of Kedar![e]
6 ‖Long‖ hath my soul had her dwelling
With him[f] that hateth peace:
7 ‖I‖ am for peace, and verily I speak,
‖They‖ are for war!

PSALM 121.

A Song of Ascents.

1 I will lift up mine eyes, unto the mountains,
From whence cometh my help!
2 ‖My help‖ is from Yahweh,
Who made heavens and earth.

3 May he not suffer thy foot[g] |to slip|,
May[h] thy keeper |not slumber|!

4 Lo! |neither will slumber nor sleep|
The keeper of Israel.

5 ‖Yahweh‖ is thy keeper,
‖Yahweh‖ is thy shade, on thy right hand:
6 ‖By day‖ |the sun| shall not smite,
Nor |the moon| by night.

7 ‖Yahweh‖ will keep thee from all harm,
He will keep thy life.[a]
8 ‖Yahweh‖ will keep thy going out' and thy coming in',
From henceforth, even unto times age-abiding.

PSALM 122.

A Song of Ascents. David's.[b]

1 I was glad, when they were saying unto me,
<Unto the house of Yahweh> let us go!

2 Standing' are our feet,
Within thy gates, O Jerusalem!
3 ‖Jerusalem‖! that hath been builded,
A true city,[c] all joined together as one:
4 Whither' have come up the tribes,
The tribes of Yah,
A testimony to Israel,
To give thanks unto the Name of Yahweh:
5 For there' are set—
Thrones for justice,
Thrones for the house of David.

6 Ask ye for the peace of Jerusalem,
|They shall prosper| who love thee!

7 Peace' be within thy walls',
Prosperity within thy palaces':
8 <For the sake of my brethren and friends>
Oh, might I speak [saying],
Peace be within thee!
9 <For the sake of the house of Yahweh our God>
Will I seek blessing for thee.

PSALM 123.

A Song of Ascents.

1 <Unto thee> have I lifted up mine eyes,
O thou who art enthroned in the heavens.

2 Lo! <as the eyes of men-servants are unto the hand of their masters,
As the eyes of a maid-servant, unto the hand of her mistress>
‖So‖ are our' eyes, unto Yahweh our God,
Until that he shew us favour.

3 Shew us favour, O Yahweh, shew us favour,
For <exceedingly> are we sated with contempt:
4 <Exceeding sated therewith> is our soul,—
‖The scorn of the careless,
The contempt of the proud‖.[d]

PSALM 124.

2 <If it had not been |Yahweh| who was on our side,
When men rose up against us>
3 ‖Then‖ <alive> had they swallowed us up,
In the glow of their anger against us;
4 ‖Then‖ |the waters| had whelmed us,
|The torrent| gone over our soul;
5 ‖Then‖ had gone over our soul
The waters so proud!

6 |Blessed| be Yahweh,
Who gave us not as prey to their teeth.

7 ‖Our soul‖ |as a bird| hath escaped from the snare of the fowlers,
‖The snare‖ is broken, and ‖we‖ are escaped:
8 ‖Our help‖ is in the Name of Yahweh,
Who made heaven and earth.

PSALM 125.

A Song of Ascents.

1 ‖They who trust in Yahweh‖
[Are] like Mount Zion[a]
Which shall not be shaken,
<Age-abidingly> shall it remain.
2 ‖Jerusalem‖! |mountains| are round about her;
‖And Yahweh‖ is round about his people,
From henceforth even unto times age-abiding.
3 For the sceptre of lawlessness[b] shall not remain over the allotment of the righteous,— Lest the righteous put forth—unto perversity—their hands.

4 Do good, O Yahweh, unto such as are' good,
Even unto such as are upright in their hearts.

5 <As for them who turn aside unto their crooked ways>
Yahweh |will lead them forth| with the workers of iniquity,
Prosperity on Israel!

PSALM 126.

A Song of Ascents.

1 <When Yahweh brought back' the captives of Zion>
We were like them who dream:
2 ‖Then‖ was our mouth' |filled with laughter|,
And our tongue' with a shout of triumph,—
‖Then‖ said they among the nations,
Yahweh |hath done great things| with these!
3 Yahweh |hath done great things| with us,
We are full of joy!

4 Bring thou back, O Yahweh, our captives,
Like channels in the South.
5 ‖They who are sowing with tears‖
<With shouting> shall reap:
6 ‖He that |doth indeed go forth| and weep,
Bearing seed enough to trail along‖[a]
Doth ‖surely come in‖ with shouting,
Bringing his sheaves.

PSALM 127.

A Song of Ascents. Solomon's.

1 <If ‖Yahweh‖ build not the house>
‖In vain‖ have the builders of it toiled' thereon,
<If ‖Yahweh‖ watch not the city>
‖In vain‖ hath the watchman kept awake:
2 <Vain' for you>—
To be early in rising,
To be late in lying down,
To be eating the bread of wearisome toil,
‖So‖ would he give his beloved one[b] sleep.[c]

3 Lo! <An inheritance from Yahweh> are children,
<A reward> the fruit of the womb:
4 <As arrows in the hand of a warrior>,
‖So‖ are the children of young men.
5 How happy the man who hath filled his quiver with them!
They will not be ashamed,
But will speak with enemies in the gate.

PSALM 128.

A Song of Ascents.

1 How happy' is every one that revereth Yahweh,
Who walketh in his ways!
2 The labour of thine own hands> surely thou shalt eat.
How happy' thou, and well' for thine!
3 ‖Thy wife‖ like a fruitful' vine,
Within the recesses of thy house,—
‖Thy children‖ like plantings of olive-trees,
Round about thy table.
4 Lo! ‖thus‖ shall be blessed the man
Who revereth Yahweh.

5 Yahweh will bless thee, out of Zion,—
And behold thou[d] the welfare of Jerusalem,
All the days of thy life!
6 And behold thou[d] thy children's children,— Prosperity on Israel!

PSALM 129.

A Song of Ascents.

1 <Many a time> have they harassed me from my youth,
Well may Israel say':

[c] Or: "in sleep"—O.G.

[d] Or: "That thou mayest behold." Cp. Driver, Heb. Tenses, § 46[3]; Dav. Heb. Syn. 97, § 68 (a).

2 <Many a time> have they harassed me from youth,
Yet' have they not prevailed against me.
3 <Upon my back> have ploughmen ploughed,
They have lengthened their furrow!

4 ‖Yahweh‖ is righteous,
He hath cut asunder the cords of the lawless.

5 Let all who hate Zion |be ashamed and shrink back|:
6 Let them become like the grass of housetops,
Which <before it is pulled up> hath withered;
7 Wherewith no reaper |hath filled his hand|,
Nor binder |his bosom|:
8 Neither have the passers-by ever said,
‖The blessing of Yahweh‖ be unto[a] you,—
We have blessed you in the Name of Yahweh.

PSALM 130.

A Song of Ascents.

1 <Out of the depths> have I cried unto thee,
O Yahweh.
2 O My Lord![b] hearken thou unto my voice,—
Let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplications
3 <If <iniquities> thou shouldest mark, O Yah>
O My Lord,[b] who could stand?
4 But <with thee> is forgiveness,
That thou mayest be revered.

5 I have waited for Yahweh
My soul hath waited for his word;[c]
6 I have hoped, O my soul, for My Lord,[d]
More than they Who watch for the morning,
Who ‖watch for the morning‖.[e]

7 Wait, O Israel, for Yahweh,—
For <with Yahweh> is lovingkindness,
And there aboundeth with him—redemption.
8 ‖He‖ therefore, will redeem Israel'
From all his iniquities.

PSALM 131.

A Song of Ascents. David's.

1 O Yahweh, my heart |is not haughty|,
Nor are mine eyes |lofty|,
Neither have I moved among great matters,
Or among affairs too wonderful for me.[f]
2 Surely I have soothed and silenced[g] my soul,—
Like a weaned child, concerning his mother,
Like a weaned child, concerning myself—mine own soul.

3 Wait, O Israel, for Yahweh,
From this time forth, even to times age-abiding.

PSALM 132.

A Song of Ascents.

1 Remember, O Yahweh, unto David,
All his humiliations!
2 What he Sware to Yahweh,—
Vowed to the Mighty One of Jacob:
3 Surely I will not enter the home of my own house,
Nor ascend my curtained couch;
4 I will not give sleep to mine eyes,
Nor <to mine eye-lashes> slumber:
5 Until I find
A place' for Yahweh,
Habitations' for the Mighty One of Jacob.

6 Lo! we heard of it at Ephrathah,
We found it in the fields[a] of the wood.

7 We would enter his habitations,
We would bow down at his footstool.

8 Arise! O Yahweh, unto thy place of rest,
‖Thou, ‖ and the ark of thy strength|.[b]
9 ‖Thy priests‖ let them be clothed with righteousness,
‖Thy men of lovingkindness‖ let them shout for joy!
10 <For the sake of David thy servant>
Do not turn away the face of thine Anointed One.

11 Yahweh hath sworn' unto David,
<In faithfulness> will he not turn from it,—
<Of the fruit of thy body>
Will I seat on thy throne.
12 <If thy sons keep' my covenant,
And my testimony[c] which I will teach them>
‖Even their sons‖ <unto futurity>
Shall sit on thy throne.

13 For Yahweh hath chosen' Zion,—
He hath desired it as a dwelling for himself:
14 ‖This‖ is my place of rest unto futurity,
‖Here‖ will I dwell, for I have desired it:
15 <Her provision> will I abundantly bless,
<Her needy ones> will I satisfy with bread:
16 And <her priests> will I clothe with salvation,
And ‖her men of lovingkindness[d] shall ‖shout aloud‖ for joy;
17 ‖There‖ will I cause to bud a horn to David,
I have prepared a lamp' for mine Anointed One;

18 <His enemies> will I clothe with shame,
But <upon himself> shall his crown be resplendent.

PSALM 133.

A Song of Ascents. David's.

1 Lo! <how good and how delightful>
For brethren ‖to dwell together even as one‖.
2 Like the precious oil upon the head,
Descending upon the beard;
The beard of Aaron,—
Which descended unto the opening of his robe:[a]
3 Like the dew of Hermon, which descended upon the mountains of Zion,—
For ‖there‖ did Yahweh command the blessing,
|Life| unto times age-abiding.[b]

PSALM 134.

A Song of Ascents.

1 Lo! bless Yahweh, all ye servants of Yahweh,
Who stand in the house of Yahweh |by night|:
2 Lift up your hand in holiness,
And bless Yahweh.

3 May Yahweh |bless thee| out of Zion,
Even he that made heaven and earth.

PSALM 135.

1 Praise ye Yah,[c]
Praise ye the Name of Yahweh,
Praise, O ye servants of Yahweh;
2 Who stand In the house of Yahweh,
In the courts of the house of our God.
3 Praise ye Yah,
For good' is Yahweh,
Sing praises to his Name,
For it is full of delight;
4 For <Jacob> hath Yah chosen' for himself,
Israel, for his own treasure.

5 For ‖I‖ know that great' is Yahweh,
Yea ‖our Lord‖[d] is beyond all gods.
6 <Whatsoever Yahweh hath pleased> he hath done,—
In the heavens and on the earth,
In the seas, and all resounding deeps:
7 Causing vapours to ascend from the end of the earth,— <Lightnings for the rain> hath he made,
Bringing forth wind out of his treasuries.
8 Who smote the firstborn of Egypt,
Both of man, and of beast;
9 Sent signs and wonders into thy midst, O Egypt,
Upon Pharaoh, and upon all his servants.

10 Who smote great nations,
And slew mighty kings:
11 Sihon, king of the Amorites,
And Og, king of Bashan,
And all the kingdoms of Canaan;
12 And gave their land as an inheritance,
An inheritance to Israel his people.

13 O Yahweh! ‖thy Name‖ is age-abiding,—
O Yahweh! ‖thy memorial‖ is to generation after[a] generation.

14 For Yahweh will vindicate' his people,—
And <on his servants> have compassion.[b]

15 ‖The idols of the nations‖ are silver and gold,[c]
The work[d] of the hands of men:
16 <A mouth> have they, but they speak not,
<Eyes> have they, but they see not;
17 <Ears> have they, but they hear not,
<Nose>—there is no' breath in their mouth.
18 <Like unto them> shall be they who make them,
Every one who trusteth in them.

19 O house of Israel! bless Yahweh,
O house of Aaron! bless Yahweh;
20 O house of Levi! bless Yahweh,
Ye that revere Yahweh! bless Yahweh.
21 Blessed be Yahweh out of Zion,
Who inhabiteth Jerusalem,
Praise ye Yah![e]

PSALM 136.

1 Give ye thanks to Yahweh
For he is good,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.[f]
2 Give ye thanks to the God of gods,[g]
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
3 Give ye thanks to the Lord of lords,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
4 To him that doeth great wonders |by himself alone|,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
5 To him that made the heavens with understanding,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
6 To him that stretched out the earth above the waters,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
7 To him that made great lights,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
8 The sun to rule the day,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
9 The moon and stars to rule the night,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
10 To him that smote Egypt in their firstborn,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
11 And brought forth Israel out of their midst,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
12 With a firm hand, and a stretched-out arm,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.

13 To him that divided the Red Sea into divisions,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
14 And caused Israel to pass through the midst thereof,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
15 And shook off Pharaoh and his army in the Red Sea,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
16 To him that led his people through the desert,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.

20 Also Og, king of Bashan,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
21 And gave their land for an inheritance,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
22 An inheritance to Israel his servant,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
23 Who <in our low estate> remembered us,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness;
24 And freed us with force from our adversaries,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
25 Who giveth food to all flesh,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.
26 Give ye thanks unto the GOD of the heavens,
For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.

PSALM 137.

1 <By the rivers of Babylon> ‖there‖ we sat down, yea we wept[a]——
When we remembered Zion:
2 <Upon the willows—in the midst thereof>
Hanged we our lyres:
3 For <there> our captors asked of us words of song,
And our plunderers—gladness,—
Sing us of the songs of Zion!

4 How' shall we sing the song of Yahweh,
On a foreign' soil?

5 <If I forget thee, O Jerusalem>
Let my right-hand forget':[b]
6 Let my tongue cleave' to the roof of my mouth,
|If I do not remember thee|!
‖If I do not lift up Jerusalem above the head of mine own gladness‖.

7 Remember, O Yahweh, against the sons of Edom, the day of Jerusalem,—
How they continued to say—Overthrow! Overthrow!
Unto the foundation within it.

8 O ruined[a] daughter of Babylon,—
How happy the man who shall repay thee
Thy dealing, wherewith thou didst deal with us!
9 How happy the man who shall snatch away'
And dash thy children' against the crag!

PSALM 138.

David's.

1 I will give thee thanks[b] with all my heart,
<Before the messengers of God>[c] will I praise thee in song:
2 I will bow down towards thy holy' temple,
And thank thy Name, for thy lovingkindness and for thy faithfulness,
For thou hast magnified, |above all thy Name|, ‖thy word‖![d]
3 <In the day I cried unto thee>
Then didst thou answer me,
And didst excite me, in my soul, mightily.
4 All the kings of the earth |will thank thee, O Yahweh|,
When they have heard the sayings of thy mouth;
5 And they will sing of[e] the ways of Yahweh,
That great' is the glory of Yahweh:
6 <Though lofty' is Yahweh> yet <the lowly> he regardeth,
But <the haughty—afar off> doth he acknowledge.
7 <Though I walk in the midst of distress> thou wilt give me life,—
<Because of the anger of my foes>[f] thou wilt thrust forth thy hand,[g]
And thy right' hand |will save me|:
8 ‖Yahweh‖ will carry through my cause,—
O Yahweh! ‖thy lovingkindness‖ is age-abiding,
<The works[h] of thine own hands> do not thou desert.[i]

PSALM 139.

To the Chief Musician. David's. A Melody.

1 O Yahweh! thou hast searched me, and observed:
2 ‖Thou‖ hast observed my downsitting and mine uprising,
Thou hast given heed to my desire, from afar:
3 <My path and my couch> hast thou examined,[k]
And <all my ways> thou well knowest.[l]

High, I cannot attain to it!

7 Whither' can I go from thy spirit?
Or whither <from thy face> can I flee?
8 <If I ascend the heavens> ‖there‖ thou art'!
<If I spread out hades as my couch> behold thee!
9 <If I mount the wings of the dawn,
Settle down in the region beyond the sea>
10 ‖Even there‖ thy hand shall lead me,
And thy right' hand |shall hold me|.
11 <If I say, Surely ‖darkness‖ shall cover me!>
Then ‖night‖ is light about me.
12 ‖Even darkness‖ will not conceal from thee,—
But ‖night‖ <like day> will shine,
<So' is the darkness> as' the light!

13 For ‖thou‖ didst possess thyself of my reins,
Thou didst weave me together in the womb of my mother.
14 I thank thee, in that fearfully' was my being distinguished,[a]
Wonderful' are thy works,
And ‖mine own soul‖ is observing [them] intently!
15 My substance[b] was not hid' from thee,—
When I was made in secret,
When I was skilfully figured in the lower parts of the earth.
16 <Mine unfinished substance> thine eyes beheld,
And <in thy book> all the parts thereof were written,—
The days they should be fashioned!
While yet there was not one among them.

17 <To me> then, how precious have thy desires[c] become, O God!
How numerous, the heads of them!
18 I would recount them!
<Beyond the sands> they multiply,
I rouse myself—[d]
And am still with thee.

19 Wilt thou not, O God, slay the lawless one?
Therefore, ye men of bloodshed, depart from me!
20 For they speak of thee wickedly,
Thy foes' lift up [their hand] unto falsehood.[e]
21 Do I not hate ‖them who hate thee‖, O Yahweh?
And loathe ‖them who rise up against thee‖?
22 <With completeness of hatred> I hate them,
<As enemies> have they become to me.

23 Search me, O God, and observe my heart,
Try me, and observe my cares;
24 And see if there be any idol-way[a] in me,
And lead me in a way age-abiding.

PSALM 140.

To the Chief Musician. A Melody of David.

1 Rescue me, O Yahweh, from the men of mischief,
<From the men of violence> wilt thou preserve me:
2 Who have devised mischiefs in [their] heart,
<Every day> do they stir up wars:
3 They have sharpened their tongue like a serpent,—
‖The poison of the asp‖ is under their lips.
[Selah.
4 Keep me, O Yahweh, from the hands of the lawless one,
<From the man of violence> wilt thou preserve me,—
Who have devised, to thrust at my steps:
5 The proud have hidden a snare for me,
And <cords> have they spread as a net beside the track,
<Snares> have they set for me. [Selah.

6 I have said unto Yahweh, |My God| thou art'!
Give ear, O Yahweh, unto the voice of my supplications.
7 O Yahweh, My Lord, my saving' strength,[b]
Thou hast screened my head in the day of battle.
8 Do not grant, O Yahweh, the desires of the lawless one,
<His device> do not promote,
They would exalt themselves. [Selah.

9 <As for the head of them who surround me>
Let the mischief of their lips cover them:
10 May there be dropped[c] on them live coals,—
<Into the fire> may they be let fall,
‖Into watery pits [from which] they shall not rise‖.
11 <As for the slanderer>[d] let him not be established in the earth,[e]—
<As for the man of wrongful violence> let misfortune hunt him with thrust upon thrust.

12 I know that Yahweh will execute
The right of the oppressed one,
The vindication of the needy.
13 Surely ‖the righteous‖ shall give thanks to thy Name,
The upright shall dwell' in thy presence.

PSALM 141.

A Melody of David.

1 O Yahweh, I have cried unto thee,
Make thou haste to me,
Give ear unto my voice, when I cry to thee.
2 Let my prayer be set in order like incense before thee,—
The lifting up of my hands[a] as the evening gift.
3 Set thou, O Yahweh, a watch at my mouth,
Keep thou guard over the door of my lips.
4 Let not my heart incline to a matter of wrong,
That I should busy myself with practices in lawlessness, with men working iniquity,
And let me not eat of their dainties.
5 Let a righteous man smite' me—
<A lovingkindness> that he should correct me,
An oil for the head [which] let not my' head refuse!
For ‖yet‖ |even my prayer| shall be in their calamities.
6 Their judges |have been hurled down by a crag|,[b]
Now have men heard my sayings, for they have become sweet.
7 <As when one plougheth and furroweth the earth>
|Scattered about| are our bones at the mouth of hades!
8 Surely <unto thee, O Yahweh, My Lord> are mine eyes,
<In thee> have I sought refuge,
Do not pour out my life.
9 Keep me out of
The clutches of the trap they have set for me, and
The snares of the workers of iniquity.
10 They who are lawless |shall fall into the nooses thereof|,
While ‖I, at the same time‖ pass on.

PSALM 142.

An Instructive Psalm of David. When he was in the Cave. A Prayer.

1 <With my voice—to Yahweh> make I outcry,
<With my voice—to Yahweh> make I supplication:
2 I pour out before him my complaint,
<My distress—before him> I tell.
3 <When my spirit fainted concerning myself>
Then ‖thou‖ didst take note of my path,—
<In the course which[c] I was about to take>
They had hidden a snare for me.
4 Look to the right hand and see,
That there is none that <for me> hath regard,— Escape is lost' to me,
There is no' one to care for my life.
5 I have made outcry unto thee, O Yahweh,—
I have said,
‖Thou‖ art my refuge,
My portion, in the land of the living.[a]
6 Attend thou unto my loud cry,
For I am brought very low,—
Rescue me from my pursuers,
For they are stronger than I.
7 O bring forth, out of prison, my soul,
That I may give thanks unto thy Name,—
<About me> let the righteous gather round,
For thou wilt deal bountifully with me.

PSALM 143.

A Melody of David.

1 O Yahweh, hear my prayer,
Give ear to my supplications,
<In thy faithfulness> answer me, |in thy righteousness|.
2 Do not then enter into judgment with thy servant,
For no one living |can appear just before thee|.
3 For an enemy
Hath pursued my soul,
Hath crushed, to the earth, my life,
Hath made me dwell in dark places, like the ancient dead.
4 Therefore hath my spirit' |fainted concerning myself|,
<Within me> hath |my heart| been confounded.
5 I have remembered the days of aforetime,
I have talked with myself of every deed of thine,[b]
<Of the work[c] of thy hands> I would speak:
6 I have spread out my hands unto thee,
‖My soul‖ is as[d] a thirsty land, for thee. [Selah.
7 Speedily' answer me, O Yahweh,
My spirit faileth',—
Do not hide thy face from me,
Or I shall be made like unto them who go down into the pit.
8 Let me hear, in the morning, thy lovingkindness,
For <in thee> have I trusted,—
Let me know the way in which[e] I should walk,
For <unto thee> have I uplifted my soul.
9 Rescue me from my foes, O Yahweh,
<Unto[f] thee> have I come seeking refuge.[g]

10 Teach me to do thy good pleasure,
For ‖thou‖ art my God,—
‖Thy spirit‖ is good,
Wilt thou set me down to rest in a level land.[a]
11 <For the sake of thy Name>, O Yahweh, wilt thou give unto me life,
<In thy righteousness> wilt thou bring forth, out of distress, my soul;
12 And <in thy lovingkindness> wilt thou exterminate my foes,—
And destroy all the adversaries of my soul,
Because ‖I‖ am thy servant.

PSALM 144.

David's.

1 Blessed' be Yahweh, my Rock,
Who teacheth my hands to war,
my fingers to fight:
2 My lovingkindness and my stronghold,
My high tower and my deliverer—‖mine‖!
My buckler, and he in whom I have sought refuge,—
He that subdueth my people[b] under me.[c]

3 O Yahweh! what is the earthborn,
And yet thou hast acknowledged him,—
The[d] son of a mortal,
And yet thou hast taken account of him:[e]
4 ‖The earthborn‖ resembleth |a vapour|,
‖His days‖ are like a passing' shadow.

5 O Yahweh! bow thy heavens and come down,
Touch[f] the mountains, that they smoke:
6 Flash forth lightning, that thou mayest scatter them,
Send out thine arrows, that thou mayest confound them:
7 Put forth thy hands[g] from on high:—
Snatch me away and rescue me
Out of mighty waters,
Out of the hand of the sons of the alien,
8 |Whose mouth| hath spoken deceit,
And ‖whose right hand‖ is a right hand of falsehood.

9 O God!  will I sing unto thee,—
<On a harp[h] of ten strings> will I make music[i] to thee:
10 Who giveth victory unto kings,—
Who snatcheth away David his servant, from the calamitous' sword.

11 Snatch me away and rescue me
Out of the hand of the sons of the alien,—
Whose mouth hath spoken deceit,
And ‖whose right hand‖ is a right hand of falsehood:—
12 That ‖our sons‖ may be like plants well grown while yet young,— ‖Our daughters‖ like corner pillars,—carved, in the construction of a palace:
13 ‖Our garners‖ full, pouring out from one kind to another;
‖Our flocks‖ multiplying by thousands—by myriads, in our open fields:
14 ‖Our oxen‖ well-laden;
No breaking in and no departing,[a]—
And no loud lament in our places of concourse:—
15 How happy the people that is in such' a case!
How happy the people that hath Yahweh for its God!

PSALM 145.

A Psalm of Praise. David's.

א 1 I will extol thee, my God, O King,
And will bless thy Name, to times age-abiding and beyond;
ב 2 <Every day> will I bless thee,
And praise thy Name, to times age-abiding and beyond.[b]

ג 3 Great' is Yahweh—and worthy to be heartily praised,
And ‖his greatness‖ is unsearchable.[b]

ד 4 <Generation unto generation> shall celebrate thy works,
And <thy mighty deeds> shall they tell:
ה 5 <The splendour of the glory of thy majesty> shall they speak,
And <thy wonders> will I utter.[c]
ו 6 And <the might of thy terrible acts> shall men speak,
And <as for thy greatness>[d] I will recount it.
ז 7 <The memory of thy great goodness> shall men pour forth,
And <thy righteousness> shall they shout aloud.

ח 8 |Gracious and compassionate| is Yahweh,—
Slow to anger, and of great lovingkindness.[e]

י 10 All thy works, O Yahweh, |will give thanks unto thee|,—
And ‖thy men of lovingkindness‖ will bless thee:
כ 11 <The glory of thy kingdom> will they tell,—
And <thy power> will they speak.
ל 12 To make known to the sons of men, his mighty deeds,
And the splendid glory of his kingdom.
מ 13 ‖Thy kingdom‖ is a kingdom of all ages,—
And ‖thy dominion‖ is over generation after generation.[a] ס 14 Yahweh is ready to uphold all who are falling,
And to raise all who are laid prostrate.
ע 15 ‖The eyes of all‖ <for thee> do wait,
And ‖thou‖ givest them their food in its season.
פ 16 ‖Thou‖[b] openest thy hand,[c]
And fillest every living thing with gladness.
צ 17 Righteous' is Yahweh in all his ways,
And kind' in all his works.
ק 18 Near' is Yahweh to all who call upon him,—
‖To all them who call upon him in faithfulness‖.
ר 19 <The desire of them who revere him> will he fulfil,
And <their cry> will he hear, and will save them.
ש 20 Yahweh preserveth' all who love him,
But <all the lawless> will he destroy.
ת 21 <The praise of Yahweh> my mouth' shall speak,
That all flesh may bless' his holy Name,
Unto times age-abiding and beyond.[d]

PSALM 146.

1 Praise ye Yah.
Praise, O my soul, Yahweh.
2 I will praise Yahweh while I live!
I will make melody to my God while I continue!

3 Do not ye trust in nobles,
In a son of man[e] who hath no deliverance:
4 His spirit |goeth forth|, he returneth to his ground,
<In that very day> his thoughts perish.

5 How happy is he that hath the God of Jacob as his help,
‖Whose hope‖ is on Yahweh his God:—
6 Who made The heavens and the earth,
The sea and all that is therein,
Who keepeth faithfulness to times age-abiding:
7 Who executeth justice for the oppressed,
Who giveth food to the famishing,
‖Yahweh‖ who liberateth prisoners;
8 ‖Yahweh‖ who opened [the eyes of] the blind,
‖Yahweh‖ who raiseth the prostrate,
‖Yahweh‖ who loveth the righteous;
9 ‖Yahweh‖ who preserveth sojourners,
<The fatherless and widows> he relieveth,—
But <the way of the lawless> he overturneth.
10 Yahweh |will reign|, to times age-abiding,
Thy God, O Zion, To generation after generation.
Praise ye Yah!

PSALM 147.

1 Praise ye Yah.
For it is good, to make melody to our God,[a]—
For it is delightful, seemly' is praise!
2 Yahweh |is building Jerusalem|,
<The outcasts of Israel> will he gather together.
3 He is healing the broken in heart,—
And binding up their hurts.
4 Counting the number of the stars,
<To all of them—names> he giveth.
5 Great' is our Lord,[b] and of abounding strength,
And ‖his knowledge‖ cannot be expressed.
6 Yahweh |relieveth the humbled|![c]
Casting the lawless down to the earth.

7 Respond to Yahweh with thanksgiving,
Make melody to our God with the lyre.
8 Who covereth the heavens with clouds,
Preparing rain' for the earth,
Who causeth the mountains to sprout grass:
9 Giving, to the beast, its food,
To the young ravens, when they cry.

10 <Not in the strength of the horse> doth he delight,
<Not[d] in the legs of a man> hath he pleasure:
11 Yahweh |hath pleasure| in them who revere him,
In them who wait for his lovingkindness.

12 Laud thou, O Jerusalem, Yahweh,
Praise thy God, O Zion:
13 For he hath strengthened the bars of thy gates,
He hath blessed thy children in thy midst:
14 Who maketh thy boundaries to be peace,
<With the marrow of wheat> doth he satisfy thee:
15 Who sendeth his utterance[e] to the earth,
<How swiftly> runneth his word!

[a] Here some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.) add:—
"Faithful' is Yahweh in all his words,
And kind' in all his works"—G.n.

16 Who giveth snow like wool,
<Hoar-frost—like ashes> he scattereth:
17 Casting forth his ice like crumbs,
<Before his cold> who can stand?
18 He sendeth forth his word and melteth them,
He causeth his wind to blow, the waters' |stream along|:
19 Declaring his word[a] unto Jacob,
His statutes and his regulations, unto Israel.
20 He hath not dealt so with any nation,
And <his regulations> he maketh not known to them.[b]
Praise ye Yah!

PSALM 148.

1 Praise ye Yah,
Praise Yahweh, out of the heavens,
Praise him, in the heights;
2 Praise him, all his messengers,
Praise him, all his host;[c]
3 Praise him, sun and moon,
Praise him, all ye stars of light;
4 Praise him, O ye heavens of heavens,
And ye waters' that are above' the heavens;
5 Let them praise the Name of Yahweh,
For ||he|| commanded, and they were created;
6 So caused he them to stand perpetually—age-abidingly,
<A decree> hath he given, and it passeth[d] not beyond.

7 Praise Yahweh, out of the earth,
Sea monsters, and all resounding deeps;
8 Fire and hail, snow and vapour,
Stormy wind, fulfilling his word;
9 Ye mountains, and all hills,
Fruit trees, and all cedars;
10 Thou wild-beast, and all ye cattle,
Crawling creature, and bird of wing;
11 Kings of earth, and all peoples,
Rulers, and all judges of earth;
12 Young men, yea even virgins,
Elders, and children.

13 Let them praise the Name of Yahweh,
For lofty' is his Name alone,
His splendour' is over earth and heavens.

14 Therefore hath he exalted a horn for his people,
A praise' for all his men of lovingkindness,
For the sons of Israel—a people near him,
Praise ye Yah!

PSALM 149.

1 Praise ye Yah,
Sing to Yahweh a song that is new,
His praise in the convocation of the men of lovingkindness.
2 Let Israel rejoice' in him that made him,
Let the sons of Zion exult in their king;
3 Let them praise his Name in the dance,
<With timbrel and lyre> let them make music to him.
4 For Yahweh is taking pleasure in his people,
He will beautify humbled ones[a] with victory.
5 Let the men of lovingkindness exult as they glory,[b]
Let them shout aloud upon their beds:
6 The high songs[c] of GOD be in their throat,
And a two-edged sword in their hand:
7 To execute An avenging among the nations,
Rebukes among the peoples:
8 To bind Their kings with fetters, and
Their honoured ones with iron bands;
9 To execute upon them the sentence written,
||An honour|| shall it be' to all his men of lovingkindness.
Praise ye Yah!

PSALM 150.

1 Praise ye Yah,
Praise ye GOD in his sanctuary,
Praise him, in his strong' expanse;
2 Praise him, for his mighty deeds,[d]
Praise him, according to[e] his exceeding greatness:
3 Praise him, with the blast of a horn,
Praise him, with the harp[f] and lyre:
4 Praise him, with timbrel and dance,—
Praise him, with stringed instrument and flute,[g]
5 Praise him, with cymbals of clear tone,—
Praise him, with cymbals of loud clang:
6 Let ||every breathing thing|| praise Yah,
Praise ye Yah!

SPECIAL NOTE ON
THE PSALMS.

THE exigencies of space in relation to the varying forms in which this Bible is issued afforded a welcome opportunity for inserting here a Special Note on the Psalms, rather than reserve such a note for the Old Testament Appendix. It will be necessary to restrict this further outgrowth from the original design of THE EMPHASISED BIBLE to subjects which are in some measure peculiar to the work, leaving the student to seek elsewhere for fuller information on related topics. It will be convenient to treat, first, of some external features which are observable in the foregoing presentment of the Psalms; and, secondly, to touch upon some more essential characteristics of these precious compositions, especially in regard to certain grave questions of interpretation.

I. EXTERNAL FEATURES.

1.—The division of the Psalms into Books, having now been familiarised by means of the Revised Version, claims no further notice here than merely to say that the ancient issue of the Psalms in successive and enlarging collections, relieves us from all embarrassment and impulse to prejudgment, when we first find it stated at the end of the Second Book (Psalm lxxii.) that the prayers of David the son of Jesse are "ended," and yet discover others, later on, attributed to the same author. Just as, in the Book of Proverbs, the first collection (x. to xxiv.) is supplemented by another which, at a later date, "Hezekiah and his men copied out" (xxv. 1), so later editions of the Psalms may very well contain compositions from David's own pen which at an earlier time had not been brought to light, or had not been suitably edited for insertion among the hymns employed in the Temple service.

2.—The titles of the Psalms need cause us no anxiety. That they are very ancient is evident from their appearance as translated in the Septuagint Version,[a] but further than this we need not go; and if any Psalms, by the application of sound principles of exegesis, remonstrate against the occasion ascribed to them, we need do no more than pay respectful regard to a venerable tradition, and pass on in quest of more conclusive evidence. In particular it should be understood that the preposition generally rendered "of" in the phrase "Psalm of David," may easily and naturally be rendered "to," "for" "of," or "by"—and so may be taken as the "to" of dedication, the "for" of desired use, the "of" of subject-matter, or finally the "by" of authorship—which last can itself scarcely preclude editorial preparation for liturgical use, to say nothing of perils of transcription and transmission, to guard us from which the labours of the textual critic are of such priceless worth. A Psalm "of" Asaph may have been "for" Asaph's use, or one composed "by" him. We should scarcely think of a Psalm composed "by" the Sons of Korah: much rather "for" their use. And yet one and the same preposition serves in these several applications. An effort has been made in the foregoing version to keep the reader in the enjoyment of his legitimate freedom.

3.—The word Selah has long been proof against all endeavours to resolve it. That it literally means "to lift up" has been generally admitted. But "lift up" what?—instruments or voices? And why and how lift up? And so despair has relinquished the inquiry: it was some musical note or sign—precise nature unknown. Others settled down in the conclusion that it simply or chiefly meant "Pause." And "pause" was nearly successful; save that, to say "pause" at the end of a Psalm, seemed needless. To the Oxford Gesenius belongs the merit of suggesting a more adequate explanation, the substance of which is cited in note [c] to Ps. iii. p. 530, ante. As a call upon the people to lift up their voices in praise of Yahweh, a pleasing pause for a practical purpose would be thereby constituted, and one which would suit equally the close of a strophe or the end of a Psalm; and at the same time not be wholly out of place even when it was used to mark a movement of musical rhetoric—interrupting a sentence—a movement akin to the pause for effect familiar in oratory. If the latter part of this explanation be borne in mine, the otherwise unwelcome letting in of a little extra space in connection with some of the occurrences of "Selah" in the foregoing pages, will be explained.

4.—We are thus prepared for the more graphic setting of the word Hallelujah (=Hallelu Yah ="Praise ye Yah") than was previously familiar to us; and for which we are indebted to Dr. Ginsburg.[b] Hallelu Yah becomes the more general invitation to the people to join: Selah the more precise intimation of the points at which the loud acclaim should come in. That the two words are seldom or never found in company, may merely show that, after all, we have only glimpses of the ancient temple worship. At first it may seem a little amusing that by the simple process of resolving the word "hallelujah" into its elements and then translating it in harmony with its force and intent we actually get rid of the word (as one compound word) altogether! That is so; but consider the gain. We not only catch a fresh sight of the ancient worship as a living thing, but we gain an accession to the instances in which the thrice holy Divine Name (in its abbreviated form of "Jah"="Yah") occurs in the Old Testament; and, to condescend upon the minor matter of pronunciation, it seems peculiarly becoming that the same translation that ventures upon the spelling "Yahweh" should set free from its almost meaningless combination (often flippantly ejaculated, and sometimes lightly used as a badge) the august syllable Yah. The relation of "Yah" to "Yahweh" is so generally admitted, that to accept the obvious pronunciation of the former and refuse the proposed pronunciation of the latter, would appear to be rather inconsistent.

[a] See note [c] on heading to Ps. iv.

5.—The Alphabetical Psalms claim notice, if only because—the fact that there are such Psalms has in this Bible been forced into prominence by the exhibit in the margin of the Hebrew letters which form this characteristic. It will readily be understood that in some cases these letters have been placed in the right-hand margin merely for convenience, and that they still refer to the first Hebrew word in the line. There are seven such Alphabetical Psalms—namely, xxv., xxxiv., xxxvii., cxi., cxii., cxix., and cxlv. To these, some scholars add Psalms ix. and x., which were perhaps originally one Psalm, and in which fragments of the alphabetical arrangement are still discernible. The 119th is the most conspicuous of these singular compositions, both owing to the number of verses headed by each Hebrew letter in succession (eight to each), and to the circumstance that the names of the Hebrew letters are preserved as paragraph headings by the Bibles in common use. The device under consideration may be described as an abecedarian acrostic. Eight verses in succession begin (in the original) with words commencing with aleph; then eight verses start with words beginning with beth; and so on to the end of the alphabet of 22 letters, making 176 verses in all. In the other alphabetical Psalms the arrangement is less formidable; a stanza only, or a distich, or even a single line being headed by each Hebrew letter as the initial of the original word employed. This initialling device makes a singularly striking and beautiful re-appearance in the Book of Lamentations, in which book of five chapters four are alphabetical: Chapters i. and ii. having each a single alphabet, hence twenty-two verses each; Chapter iii., a triple alphabet—three alephs, three beths, etc.—hence sixty-six verses in all; Chapter iv., a single alphabet and twenty-two verses; Chapter v., still twenty-two verses, but, strange to say, no alphabet. In settling the rendering of Chapter iii., it was found easily possible to conform some four or five triplets to the same style, so far as to begin three verses in succession with the same English letter. Ordinarily, as might be anticipated, the imitation has to be given up; but this small measure of success impressed the present translator's mind with the conviction that here we have to do with something more than a literary curiosity. There must have been patient devising on the part of the author; and there must have resulted an aid to memory so effective as scarcely to have been outside the original composer's intention. Truly, a fruitful consideration, bearing on the advantages even now of memorising Holy Scripture, and on the debt of gratitude we owe to paraphrasts and hymn-writers who, by alliteration, rhythm, and rhyme, render aid to the memories of the illiterate, the sick, the blind, and the bookless—aid which tends to keep Divine truth alive in the hearts of men when they most need its influence. Incidentally, the Alphabetical Psalms may yield a valuable lesson in textual criticism. Whoever the author of any one of these Psalms may have been, the intuition comes to us with unanswerable force that if the initial alphabet is nearly unbroken, it must have been originally intended to make it perfect. Hence, when an expert like Dr. Ginsburg says, on Psalm xxv. 2, that he thinks that instead of "O my God, in thee," it should rather be "In thee, O my God," it needs only that we notice that whereas the former in Hebrew is Elohay, bekâ*, the latter is Bekâ, Elohay*, thus perfecting the sequence of the initials by bringing the letter beth next after aleph, to feel almost certain that he is right. In like manner, when we observe that, while the nineteenth letter (koph) is absent, the twentieth letter (resh) starts two verses in succession, we cannot avoid the conclusion that a disturbance has at some time or other crept in, even though we cannot now set the matter right; and perhaps just here it may be of no practical consequence, as some nearly synonymous word to that rendered "Behold" in verse 18, but beginning with a k, may have originally commenced that sentence. Where, however, the alphabet is complete, we rest content in the assurance that copyists have had a double safeguard against error.

6.—Something has been done in this translation to resolve the individual Psalms into groups of lines, commonly called strophes, thereby marking sub-divisions likely to be of practical service, both as indicating changes of tone, topic, speaker, and drift, and as letting in glimpses of that mighty afflatus by which the psalmists were suddenly or gradually carried away into realms of thought and feeling wholly beyond their actual circumstances. It is probable that more might have been done in this direction, even by one individual, had unlimited time and space been at command; but it may in the end be better that studious readers should help themselves by grafting personal labour upon that which here and elsewhere has been prepared to their hand. Where the interjection of "Selah" has occasioned a division which cannot be justified even by a musical imagination, let some small "closing-up" sign be inserted by the student's own hand in the margin. Where, on the other hand, smaller strophes are seen to group themselves into larger divisions, let extra space, at the larger divisions, be in like manner suggested by some appropriate token.

II.—Essential Characteristics.

It is impossible here to treat of many of the most obvious of these:—the adaptation of the Psalms, by reason of their direct address to Deity, to lift up man's spirit to his Maker; their powerful hold on men's deepest sympathies, in that they are sensitively in touch with a wide range of human sin and sorrow; their prevailing tendency to carry the reader onward out of darkness into light, so that although many of them commence in deepest depths of despair, their ending is mostly on the mountain top of exuberant joy; and, not to go further, the happy blending of personal interests with national and world-wide affairs, so that the piety that begins at home in the privacy of the closet and, it may be, the agonies of a broken heart, is speedily borne on eagle wings to survey the glorious majesty of the Divine Kingdom. On these and other grounds, here left untouched, the lasting popularity of the Psalms securely rests.

A few points, however, not overmuch observed, claim brief remark.

1.—The dramatic structure of a good many Psalms makes special demand on interpretative inquiry. Take the Second Psalm as an example. In reading this we listen to no fewer than four distinct voices. There is first (and last) the voice of the Psalmist himself, speaking in his own person, however truly he was led of the Spirit in what he uttered; secondly, the language attributed to the lawless conspirators against Yahweh and his Anointed One; thirdly, the counter declaration of the Most High; fourthly, the record of the Son of God, who in turn cites the terms in which he had been addressed by the Divine Father, counselling him (the Son) to ask for and obtain world-wide dominion; the whole being then concluded, as named above, by the resuming voice of the Psalmist, as timely adviser, counselling the kings and rulers of the earth to act with prudence. It is little to say that the Psalm cannot be expounded in the absence of dramatic feeling and insight: it cannot even be read with fitting expression. Perhaps the most difficult of all the dramatic Psalms is the sixty-eighth, which severely taxes, not the expositor alone, but the translator, who has to determine how to render his descriptive tenses, whether as applying to past, present, or future; and, to decide this, he seems bound to apprehend, as best he may, what is the ideal key-note of the whole of this magnificent composition. The ground-thought being almost certainly the bringing up of the ark to Jerusalem, yet how manifestly this concept shrinks into a mere point of departure for a flight into Messiah's coming kingdom, for which the Ascension of the Anointed One into heavenly glory is a stepping-stone—unless indeed our own beloved Apostle Paul is wholly at fault in Ephesians Four.

2.—This feature of dramatic structure naturally leads forward to a deeper question—that of inspirational prophetic flight into the future. Were Psalmists and Prophets divinely gifted seers into futurity, or were they not? Were they—as the Apostle Peter affirms they were[a]—taken hold of and borne along or carried away out of the present into the future? It may be conceded that to be sent back to the historical starting-points of the prophetic word is well; but to get set fast there is ill indeed. The eagle of prophecy had its nest on the rock of accomplished fact; but to that rock it was not chained. It had a pinion strong enough to bear it up towards the sun, to an elevation from which it could descry things then distant, yea, and things yet to come.

3.—This step emboldens us to take another, landing us in the midst of the problem of dispensation. What spirit are we of?—what dispensation are we in? For instance, can we, may we, dare we curse as the old Hebrews cursed—as (we might almost say) they were trained to curse? Take Psalm cix. as an example, if you wish to see how whole-heartedly and with what poetry and passion they could execrate their foes. Can we curse like that? or are we in duty bound and in spirit empowered to abstain? We know well we must not curse at all.[b] But how is that? It is because we have heard a Voice saying—"Bless and curse not"; because we have seen an Example which would put us to shame if we, even on the strongest provocation, dared to "breathe out threatenings and slaughter"; and, finally, because we can never think the command to abstain from cursing arbitrary so long as we realise that we are at present only followers of the Messiah in his humiliation. In this the whole question of dispensation is involved. But the sword of truth is two-edged. The Church—the called-out assembly—of the Messiah cannot curse; but there is another thing she cannot do—at least if rightly guided. She cannot confound herself with the manifested, world-dominating Kingdom of God. The life of the kingdom is in her by faith—that is all: she sees the kingdom at present only from afar. By faith she brings it nigh, it is true; and that is precisely the angle of vision from which she can say and sing the songs of the kingdom which she finds in the Book of Psalms. She leaps over the intervening "strange work" of overthrowing and breaking in pieces. That belongs not to her—least of all at present. That commission is safe in immortal and unerring hands. If we are ever to join in its execution, it can only be when we have "overcome";[c] and we cannot overcome if we fail meantime to let patience have her perfect work.[d] If it might be said without presumption: When Biblical Criticism knows how to make the reasonable distinction—that what is impossible now may be possible hereafter—it may cease torturing humble souls by seeming to say that there are no Predictions of a Personal Messiah in the Old Testament. In any case, it may safely be said: That in proportion as Christians can see their way to judge simply and clearly as to what in the Psalms they may legitimately decline as inapplicable to them; and what in the Psalms they may simply defer, as unfulfilled at present; and so cease to stretch and strain the Word in order to make it suit our intermediate dispensation, to which in the main it does not belong;—so in proportion will they enjoy these admirable lyrics with a refined delight which, probably, they have not hitherto known.

THE PROVERBS.

General Introduction, in Praise of Wisdom, as the Source whence Proverbs are derived (Chapters I. to IX).

1 1 The proverbs of Solomon, son of David, King of Israel:

2 For the knowledge of wisdom and correction,
For discerning the sayings of intelligence;
3 For receiving the correction of prudence,
Righteousness and justice, and equity;
4 For giving To the simple shrewdness,[a]
To the young man, knowledge and discretion.

5 A wise man |will hear|, and will increase learning,
And a ‖discreet man‖ <wise counsels> will acquire,
6 By gaining discernment of proverb, and satire,
The words[b] of the wise, and their dark sayings.
7 ‖The reverence of Yahweh‖ is the beginning of knowledge,
<Wisdom and correction> the foolish have despised.

8 Hear, my son, the correction of thy father,
And do not reject the instruction of thy mother;
9 For  shall they' be to thy head,
And chains of ornament, to thy neck.

10 My son, <if sinners entice' thee> do not consent.
11 <If they say—
Come with us,—
Let us lie in wait for blood,
Let us watch in secret for him who is needlessly innocent;[c]
12 Let us engulf them, like hades, |alive|,
<While in health> like them who are going down to the pit;
13 <All costly substance> shall we find,
We shall fill our houses with spoil;
14 <Thy lot> shalt thou cast into our midst,
<One purse> shall there be |for us all|!>
15 My son, do not walk in the way with them,
Withhold thy foot from their path.[d]
16 For ‖their feet‖ <to mischief> do run,
And haste to the shedding of blood.
17 Surely <in vain> is spread the net,
In the sight of aught that hath wings![e]
18 Yet ‖they‖ <for their own blood> lie in wait,
They watch in secret for their own life.[a]
19 Such' are the ways of every one that graspeth with greed,
<The life[a] of the owners thereof> it taketh away!

20 ‖Wisdom‖ <in the open place> soundeth forth,
<In the broadways> she raiseth her voice;
21 <At the head of bustling streets> she crieth aloud,—
<At the openings of the gates in the city—her sayings> she doth utter:—
22 How long, ye simple ones, will ye love simplicity?
And ‖scoffers‖ <in scoffing> delight them?
And ‖dullards‖ hate knowledge?
23 Will ye turn, at my reproof?
Lo! I will pour out to you my spirit,
I will make known my words to you.

24 <Because I called, and ye refused,
I stretched out my hand, and no' one regarded;
25 But ye dismissed all my counsel,
And <to my rebuke> would not yield>
26 ‖I also‖ <at your calamity> will laugh,
I will mock, when cometh your dread;
27 When cometh as a crashing' your dread,
And ‖your calamity‖ <as a storm-wind> overtaketh,
When there come upon you, distress and anguish.
28 ‖Then‖ will they call me, but I will not answer,
They will seek me diligently, but shall not find me.
29 <Because they hated knowledge,
And <the reverence of Yahweh> did not choose;
30 Consented not to my counsel,
Disdained all my rebuke>
31 Therefore shall they eat of the fruit of their own way,
And <with their own counsels> be filled.
32 For ‖the turning away of the simple‖ will slay them,—
And ‖the carelessness of dullards‖ will destroy them.
33 Whereas ‖he that hearkeneth unto me‖ shall dwell safely,
And be at rest, without dread of misfortune.

1 My son, <if thou wilt receive my sayings, 2
And <my commandments> wilt treasure up by thee;

[a] Or: "prudence."
[b] Or: "sentences."
[c] Or: "who is innocent in vain."
[d] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "paths"
[e] Ml.: "any owner (baal) of a wing." Some cod. (w. Sep., Vul.): "owners" (pl.)—G.n.

[a] U.: "soul."

2 So that thou Direct unto wisdom thine ear,
Bend thy heart unto understanding;
3 Yea if <for understanding> thou cry aloud,
<For knowledge> utter thy voice;
4 If thou seek her as silver,
And <like hid treasure> thou search for her>
5 ‖Then‖ shalt thou understand the reverence of Yahweh,
And <the knowledge of God> shalt thou find.
6 For ‖Yahweh‖ giveth wisdom,
<Out of his mouth> knowledge and understanding;
7 Yea he treasureth for the upright safety,
A shield [is he] to them who walk in integrity.[a]
8 To him that observeth the paths of justice,
Yea <the way of his men[b] of lovingkindness> he doth guard.
9 ‖Then‖ shalt thou understand righteousness and justice,
And equity—every noble course.
10 <When wisdom entereth thy heart,
And ‖knowledge‖ |to thy soul| is sweet>
11 ‖Discretion‖ shall watch over thee,
‖Understanding‖ shall preserve thee:—
12 To rescue thee from the way of the wrongful,
From the man that speaketh perverse things;
13 From them who forsake the paths of rectitude,
To walk in the ways of darkness;
14 Who rejoice to do wrong,
Exult in the perversities of the wrongful;
15 ‖Whose paths‖ are twisted,
And they are tortuous' in their tracks:
16 To rescue thee from the woman that is a stranger,
From the female unknown who with her speeches seduceth;
17 Who forsaketh the friend of her youth,[c]
And <the covenant of her God> hath forgotten;
18 For she hath appointed[d] unto death her house,
And unto the shades her courses;
19 ‖None who go in unto her‖ come back,
Neither attain they unto the paths of life:[e]
20 To the end that thou walk in the way of good men,
And <the paths of the righteous> that thou observe.
21 For ‖the upright‖ shall abide on the earth,[f]—
And ‖the men of integrity‖[g] shall remain[h] therein;
22 But ‖the lawless‖ |out of the earth| shall be cut off,
And ‖traitors‖ shall they tear away[i] therefrom.

3 1 My son <mine instruction> do not thou forget,
And <my commandment> let thy heart observe;
2 For <length of days and years of life,
And blessedness> shall they add to thee.
3 <Lovingkindness and faithfulness> let them not forsake thee,—
Bind them upon thy neck,
Write them upon the tablet of thy heart:[a]
4 So find thou favour and good repute,
In the eyes of God and man.

5 Trust thou in Yahweh with all thy heart,
And <unto thine own understanding> do not lean:
6 <In all thy ways> acknowledge[b] him,
And ‖he‖ will make straight thy paths.
7 Do not become wise in thine own eyes,
Revere Yahweh and avoid evil:[c]
8 <Healing> shall it be to thy body,[d]
And refreshing to thy bones.
9 Honour thou Yahweh with thy substance,
And with the firstfruit of all thine increase;
10 So shall thy storehouses be filled' with plenty,
And <with new wine>[e] shall thy vats overflow.

11 The <chastening of Yahweh> my son do not reject,
Nor loathe his rebuke;
12 For <whom Yahweh loveth'> he correcteth,[f]
He causeth pain[g] to the son in whom he delighteth.
13 How happy the man who hath found wisdom,
And the man who draweth forth understanding,
14 For better' is her merchandise than the merchandise of silver,
Yea <than gold> her increase;
15 |More precious| is she than corals,[h]
Yea |none of thy delightful things| doth equal her:
16 ‖Length of days‖ is in her right hand,
<In her left> are riches and honour;[i]
17 ‖Her ways‖ are ways of pleasantness,
And ‖all her paths‖ are peace;[k]
18 <A tree of life> is she to them who secure her,—
And ‖they who hold her fast‖ are every one to be pronounced happy.

19 ‖Yahweh‖ <in wisdom> founded the earth,
Establishing the heavens' with understanding;
20 <By his knowledge> the resounding deeps were burst open,
And ‖the skies‖ drop[l] down dew.

i Sep. inserts here:—
"<Out of her mouth> proceedeth righteousness, ‖Law and lovingkindness‖ are on her tongue."—G.n. k Or: "well-being."
l Cp. chap. viii. 22–31.

21 My son, let them not depart from thine eyes,
Guard thou counsel and purpose:
22 So shall they become life to thy soul,
And an adorning' to thy neck;[a]
23 ‖Then‖ shalt thou walk securely in thy way,
And ‖thy foot‖ shall not stumble;
24 <When thou sittest[b] down> thou shalt have no dread,
Yea thou shalt lie down, and sweet' shall be thy sleep.
25 Be not thou afraid of sudden' dread,
Nor of the desolation of the lawless, when it cometh.
26 For ‖Yahweh‖ will be in all thy ways,[b]
And will keep thy foot from the snare.
27 Withhold not good from them who ask it,[b]
When it is in power of thy hand[c] to do it:
28 Do not say to thy neighbour,[d]
Go and come again,
And to-morrow' I will give,
When thou hast it by thee.[e]
29 Devise not against thy neighbour an injury,
Seeing that ‖he‖ dwelleth securely by thee.
30 Contend not with a man without cause,
If he hath dealt thee no wrong.
31 Do not thou envy the man of violence,
Neither choose thou any of his ways:
32 For <an abomination to Yahweh> is the tortuous man,
But <with the upright> he is intimate.
33 ‖The curse of Yahweh‖ is in the house of the lawless one,
But <the home of the righteous> he blesseth.
34 <Though[f] at scoffers he scoffeth>
Yet <to the humbled> he granteth favour.
35 <Honour> shall the wise inherit,—
But <as for dullards> shame shall carry them away.

4 1 Hear, ye sons, the correction of a father,
And attend, that ye may know understanding.
2 For <good teaching> have I given you,
<Mine instruction> do not ye forsake.
3 For  became I to my father,
Tender and most precious in the sight of my mother.[g]
4 So he taught me, and said to me—
Let thy heart |lay hold of my words|,
Keep my commandments and live!
5 Acquire wisdom, acquire understanding,
Do not forget, neither decline thou from the sayings of my mouth.
6 Do not forsake her, and she will guard thee,—
Love her and she will keep thee.
7 ‖The principal thing‖ is wisdom, acquire thou wisdom,[a]
<With all thine acquisition> acquire thou understanding.
8 Exalt her, and she will set thee on high,[b]
She will bring thee to honour, when thou dost embrace her:
9 She will give for thy head a wreath of beauty,
<A crown of adorning> will she bestow upon thee.
10 Hear, my son, and receive my sayings,
And they will multiply to thee the years of life.
11 <In the way of wisdom> have I taught thee,
I have guided thee in tracks of uprightness.
12 <When thou walkest> thy step' shall not be hemmed in,
And <if thou runnest> thou shalt not stumble.
13 Take fast hold of correction, let her not go,—
Keep her, for ‖she‖ is thy life.
14 <Upon the path of the lawless> do not thou enter,
And do not advance in the way of the wicked:
15 Avoid it, do not pass thereon—
Turn from it, and depart.
16 For they sleep not, unless they can do mischief,—
They rob themselves of their sleep, if they cannot cause someone to stumble.[c]
17 For they consume bread gotten by lawlessness,
And <wine obtained by violence> they drink.
18 But ‖the path of the righteous‖ is as the light of dawn,[d]—
Going on and brightening, unto meridian day.[e]
19 ‖The way of the lawless‖ is like[f] darkness,
They know not, at what they stumble.
20 My son <to my words> attend,
<To my sayings> incline thou thine ear;
21 Let them not depart[g] from thine eyes,
Keep them in the midst of thy heart;
22 For <life> they are', to them who find them,—
And <to every part of one's flesh> they bring healing.
23 <Above all that must be guarded> keep thou thy heart,
For <out of it> are the issues[h] of life.

24 Remove from thee, perverseness of mouth,
And <craftiness of lips> put far from thee.
25 Let ‖thine eyes‖ <right onward> look,—
And ‖thine eyelashes‖ point straight before thee.
26 Make level the track of thy foot,[a]
That ‖all thy ways‖ may be directed aright:
27 Decline not, to the right hand or to the left,— Turn away thy foot from wickedness.[b]

5 1 My son <to my wisdom> attend,
And <to mine understanding> incline thou thine ear:
2 That thou mayest preserve discretion,—
And <as for knowledge> that thy lips may guard it.
3 For <with sweet droppings> drip the lips of her that is a stranger,
And <smoother than oil> is her mouth;[c]
4 But ‖the latter end of her‖ is bitter as wormwood,
Sharp, as a two-edged sword!
5 ‖Her feet‖ are going down to death,—
<On hades> will her steps take firm hold.
6 <Lest ‖the path of life‖ she should ponder>
Her tracks have wandered she knoweth not [whither].

7 ‖Now‖ therefore, ye sons, hearken unto me,
And do not turn away from the sayings of my mouth.
8 Keep far from her[d] thy way,
And do not go near the opening of her house:
9 Lest thou give, to other men, thy vigour,
And thy years, to him that is cruel:
10 Lest strange men |be well fed| by thy strength,
And ‖thy toils‖ be in the house of the alien.
11 So shalt thou grieve[e] in thy latter end,
In the failing of thy flesh and of thy healthy condition;[f]
12 And thou shalt say—
How' I hated correction!
And <reproof> my heart disdained';
13 Neither hearkened I to the voice of my teachers,
Nor <to my instructors> inclined I mine ear:
14 Soon' was I in all evil,
‖In the midst of convocation and assembly‖.

15 Drink thou water out of thine own cistern,
And flowing streams out of the midst of thine own well.
16 Let not[e] thy fountains |flow over| abroad
In the streets, dividings of waters:
17 Let them be for thyself |alone|,—
And not' for strangers with' thee.
18 Let thy well-spring be blessed,—
And get thy joy from[a] the wife of thy youth:—
19 A loving hind! a graceful doe!
Let |her bosom| content thee at all times,
And <in her love> mayst thou stray evermore.
20 Wherefore, then, shouldst thou stray, my son, with a strange woman?
Or embrace the bosom of a woman unknown?
21 For <before the eyes of Yahweh> are the ways of a man,—
And <all his tracks> doth he consider:[b]
22 ‖His own iniquities‖ shall entrap him with the lawless,
And <by the cords of his own sin> shall he be seized.
23 ‖He‖ shall die, for lack of discipline,
And <by the abounding of his perversity> shall he be lost.

6 1 My son <if thou have become surety for thy neighbour,— have struck for a stranger thy hands>[c]
2 Thou hast been snared by the sayings of thy mouth,—
Thou hast been caught' by the sayings of thy mouth.
3 Do this then, my son, and deliver thyself,
When thou hast come into the hand of thy neighbour,
Go, haste thee, and urge thy neighbour;[d]
4 Do not give Sleep to thine eyes, or Slumber to thine eyelashes;
5 Deliver thyself, as a gazelle out of the hand,
And as a bird, out of the hand[e] of the fowler.

6 Go to the ant, thou sluggard,
Observe her ways, and be wise;
7 Which, <having no harvest,[f] scribe, or ruler>
8 Prepareth |in the summer| her food,
Hath collected |in the harvest| her sustenance.[g]
9 How long, O sluggard, wilt thou lie?
How long ere thou rise from thy sleep?
10 A little sleep, a little slumber,
A little folding of the hands to rest:—
11 So shall come in, as a highwayman, thy poverty,
And ‖thy want‖ as one armed with a shield.[h]

Lo! then <feeble in strength> though she is,
Yet hath she done honour to wisdom and thus is extolled."

12 <An abandoned man, a man of iniquity> [is he] who—
Goeth on in perversity of mouth;
13 Winketh with his eyes,[a]
Speaketh[b] with his foot,[c]
Pointeth with his fingers;
14 [Hath] perverse things in his heart,
Deviseth mischief on every occasion,
<Strifes> he sendeth forth.
15 <For this cause> suddenly' cometh his doom,
<In a moment> shall he be torn in pieces and there be no' mending.

16 <These six things> doth Yahweh hate,
Yea ‖seven‖ are the abomination of his soul:—
17 Eyes' that are lofty,
A tongue' that is false,
And hands' shedding innocent blood;
18 A heart' contriving iniquitous devices,
Feet' hasting to run into mischief;
19 One that uttereth lies—a false witness,
And one sending forth strifes between brethren.

20 Observe thou, my son, the commandment of thy father,
And do not decline from the instruction of thy mother:
21 Bind them upon thy heart continually,
Fasten them upon thy neck;
22 <When thou walkest abroad> it shall guide
thee,
<When thou sleepest> it shall watch over
thee,
<When thou wakest> it shall speak to thee:
23 For  is the commandment,
And ‖the instruction‖[d] a light,
And <the way of life> are the reproofs of correction:
24 To keep thee from the wicked woman,
From the flattery of the tongue of her that is a stranger.
25 Do not covet her beauty, in thy heart,
Neither let her take thee, by her eyelashes;
26 Because <for the sake of an impure woman>
[a man may be brought] even to a cake of bread,—
And ‖a man's wife‖
<For' a precious soul> may hunt!
27 Can a man snatch up fire in his bosom,
And ‖his clothes‖ not be burned?
28 Or can a man walk upon hot coals,
And ‖his feet‖ not be burned?
29 ‖So‖ he that goeth in unto his neighbour's wife,
No man shall be guiltless' who toucheth her!
30 Men despise not a thief, when he stealeth,
To satisfy his appetite,[e] because he is famished;
31 Yet <if found> he must pay back seven-fold,
<All the substance of his house> must he give:

32 ‖He that committeth adultery with a woman‖
lacketh sense,[a]
‖A destroyer of his own life‖[b] is he' that doeth it;
33 <Smiting and shame> shall he find,
And ‖his reproach‖ shall not be wiped out;
34 For ‖jealousy‖ is the rage of a man,
Nor will he spare, in the day of avenging;
35 He will not look, at any ransom,
Neither will he consent, though thou increase the bribe.

7 1 My son, keep my sayings,
And <my commandments> treasure by thee;[c]
2 Keep my commandments and live,
And mine instruction, as the pupil[d] of thine eye;
3 Bind them upon thy fingers,
Write them, on the tablet of thy heart;
4 Say unto wisdom, <My sister> thou!
And <an acquaintance>[e] call thou |understanding|:
5 That thou mayest be kept, from the woman that is a stranger,
From the female unknown, who |with her speeches| doth flatter.

6 For <in the window of my house,
Through my lattice> I looked out;
7 And saw among the simple ones,
Discerned among the youths,
A young man lacking sense;[f]
8 Passing through the street, near her corner,
And <on the way to her house> he sauntered
along;
9 In the twilight, in the evening of the day,
In the midst of the night, and the gloom;
10 And lo! ‖a woman‖ came to meet him,
Attired as one unchaste, of a wily heart.
11 <Boisterous> is she, and rebellious,
<In her house> abide not her feet;
12 Now' outside, now' in the broadways,
And <near every corner> she lieth in wait:
13 So she caught him, and kissed him,
And <emboldening her face> she said to him:
14 ‖Peace'-offerings‖ are by[g] me,
<To-day> have I paid my vows;
15 <For this cause> came I forth to meet thee,
To seek diligently thy face, and I have found
thee:
16 <Coverlets> have I spread on my couch of pleasure,
Dark-hued stuffs, of the yarn of Egypt;
17 I have sprinkled my bed,
With myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon:
18 Come! let us take our fill of endearments,
until morning,
Let us delight ourselves with caresses;

19 For the husband is not' in his house,
He hath gone on a journey afar;
20 <A bag of silver> hath he taken in his hand,
<On the day of the full moon>[a] will he enter his house.
21 She turneth him aside, with her great persuasiveness,—
<With the flattery of her lips> she compelleth him:
22 <Going after her instantly>
<As an ox, to the slaughter> he entereth,
And, as in fetters, unto the correction of a fool.
23 Until an arrow cleaveth' his liver,
As a bird hasteth' into a snare,
And knoweth not, that <for his life> it is!

24 ||Now, therefore|| ye sons, hearken unto me,
And attend, to the sayings of my mouth;
25 Let not thy heart |turn aside to her ways|,
Do not go astray, in her paths.
26 For <many, wounded> hath she caused to fall,—
Yea strong men, slain wholly by her:
27 ||Ways to hades||[b] are in her house,
Descending into the chambers of death.

8 1 Doth not ||wisdom|| cry aloud?
And ||understanding|| send forth her voice?
2 <At the top of the high places above the way,
At the place where paths meet> she taketh her stand:
3 <Beside the gates, at the entrance of the city,—
At the going in of the openings> she shouteth:—
4 <Unto you, O men> I call,
And <my voice> is unto the sons of men;
5 Understand, ye simple ones, shrewdness,
And |ye dullards| understand sense;
6 Hear, for <princely things> will I speak,
And the opening of my lips shall be of equity;
7 For <faithfulness> shall my mouth softly utter,
But <the abomination of my lips> shall be lawlessness;
8 <In righteousness> shall be all the sayings of my mouth,
||Nothing therein|| shall be crafty or perverse;
9 ||All of them|| shall be plain, to them who would understand,
And just, to such as would gain knowledge.
10 Receive my correction, and not silver,
And knowledge, rather than choicest gold.
11 For better' is wisdom, than ornaments of coral,
And ||no delightful things|| can equal her.
12 ||I, wisdom|| inhabit shrewdness,[c]—
And <the knowledge of sagacious things> I gain.
13 ||The reverence of Yahweh|| is to hate wickedness:
<Pride, arrogance, and the way of wickedness;
And a mouth of perverse things> do I hate.

14 ||Mine|| are counsel, and effective working,
||I|| am understanding, ||mine|| is valour:
15 <By me> kings reign,
And dignitaries decree righteousness;[a] 16 <By me> rulers govern,
And nobles—all the righteous' judges:[b]
17 ||I|| love |them who love me|,[c]
And ||they who diligently seek me|| find me:
18 ||Riches and honour|| are with me,
Lordly wealth, and righteousness;
19 Better' is my fruit, than gold—yea fine gold,
And mine increase, than choice silver;
20 |In the way of righteousness| I march along,
In the middle of the paths of justice:
21 That I may cause them who love me to inherit substance,
And <their treasuries> I may fill.[d]

22 ||Yahweh|| had constituted me the beginning of his way,
Before his works,
At the commencement of that time:
23 <At the outset of the ages>[e] had I been established,[f]
In advance of the antiquities of the earth;
24 <When there was no resounding deep> I had been brought forth,
When there were no fountains, abounding with water;
25 <Ere yet the mountains had been settled,[g]
Before the hills> had I been brought forth;
26 Or ever he had made the land and the wastes,
Or the top of the dry parts[h] of the world:
27 <When he prepared the heavens> ||there|| was I!
When he decreed a vault upon the face of the resounding deep;
28 When he made firm the skies above,
When the fountains of the resounding deep |waxed strong|;
29 When he fixed for the sea its bound,
That ||the waters|| should not go beyond his bidding,
When he decreed the foundations of the earth:—
30 Then became I beside him, a firm and sure worker,
Then became I filled with delight, day by day,
Exulting before him on every occasion;
31 Exulting in the fruitful land of his earth,
Yea ||my fulness of delight|| was with the sons of men.[i]

32 |Now, therefore| ye sons, hearken to me,
For how happy are they who <to my ways> pay regard!
33 Hear ye correction, and be wise,
And do not neglect.
34 How happy the man that doth hearken to me,—
Keeping guard at my doors, day by day,
Watching at the posts of my gates;
35 For ||he that findeth me|| findeth life,
And hath obtained favour from Yahweh;
36 But ||he that misseth me|| wrongeth his own soul,
||All who hate me|| love death.

9 1 ||Wisdom|| hath builded her house,
hath hewn out her seven pillars;
2 hath slaughtered her beasts,[a] hath mingled[b] her wine, hath even set in order her table;
3 hath sent forth her maidens,
She crieth aloud
Upon the tops of the heights of the city:
4 Whoso is simple, let him turn in hither,
<As for him that lacketh sense>[c] she saith to him—
5 Come, feed on my food,
And drink of the wine I have mingled;
6 Forsake the simple ones, and live,
And advance in the way of understanding.
7 ||He that rebuketh a scoffer|| getteth to himself
contempt,
And ||he that reproveth a lawless man|| [getteth
to himself] his shame.[d]
8 Do not reprove a scoffer, lest he hate thee,
Reprove a wise man, and he will[e] love thee.
9 Give to a wise man, and he will[e] be wiser still,
Inform a righteous man, and he will[e] increase learning.
10 <The beginning of wisdom> is the reverence of Yahweh,
And ||the knowledge of the Holy||[f] is understanding;
11 For <by me> shall be multiplied—thy days,
And there be added to thee—the years of life.
12 <If thou art wise> thou art wise for thyself,
But <if thou scoff> |alone| shalt thou bear
it.[g]

13 ||The woman Stupidity|| is boisterous,
So simple' that she knoweth not what she would do;[h]
14 So she sitteth at the entrance of her house,
Upon a seat, in the heights of the city;
15 To invite them who pass by the way,
Who are going straight on in their paths:
16 ||Whoso is simple|| let him turn aside hither,
And <as for him that lacketh sense>[a] she saith to him:
17 ||Stolen waters|| will be sweet,—
||And a secret meal||[b] will be pleasant;
18 But he knoweth not, that the shades are there;
<In the depths of hades> are her guests.[c]

The Proverbs proper—the First and Principal Collection (Chapters X. to XXIV.).

10 1 The Proverbs of Solomon:
||A wise son|| maketh a glad father,
But ||a foolish[d] son|| is the grief of his mother.
2 The treasures of lawlessness |do not profit|,
But ||righteousness|| delivereth from death.
3 Yahweh |suffereth not to famish| the soul of the righteous,
But ||the desire of the lawless||[e] he thrusteth
away.
4 He' becometh poor, who dealeth with a slack
hand,
But ||the hand of the diligent|| maketh rich.[f]
5 |He that gathereth in summer| is a prudent son,
||He that sleepeth long in harvest|| is a son causing shame.
6 ||Blessings|| are for the head of the righteous
man,
But ||the mouth of the lawless|| covereth up wrong.
7 ||The memory of the righteous|| yieldeth blessing,
But ||the name of the lawless|| dieth out.[g]
8 ||The wise in heart|| will accept commandments,
But ||he that is foolish with his lips|| shall be thrust away.
9 ||He that walketh uprightly|| may walk securely,
But ||he that maketh crooked his ways|| shall be found out.

[f] Ml.: "holy ones"; but pl. may be that "of excellence."
[g] Sep. and Syr. add:—
"||He that leaneth on falsehoods|| the same |is feeding on wind|,
Yea ||he|| pursueth flying' birds;
For he hath forsaken the paths of his own vineyard,
And <on the tracks of his field> he doth stray;
<Going therefore through a parched' desert,
And a land given up to thirst>
He gathereth worthless fruit in his hands"—G.n.
[h] "Knoweth not anything"—O.G. 553[b]. Ml.: "knoweth not what."

[a] Ml.: "heart." Cp. vi. 32, n.
[b] Ml.: "Bread of concealments."
[c] Sep. and Syr. here add:—
"But turn thou away—do not linger in the place,
Neither set thine eyes upon her,
For so shalt thou pass by strange waters;
Refrain thou from strange waters,
And <from a strange fountain> do not drink,
That thou mayest multiply thy days,
And there be added to thee the years of life"
—G.n.
[d] Or: "stupid."
[e] Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.): "the treacherous." Cp. chap. xi. 6—G.n.
[f] Sep. here adds:—
"A son trained by discipline becometh wise,
But <on a dullard> one may labour."
[g] Or: "decayeth."

10 ‖He that winketh with the eye‖ causeth sorrow,
And ‖he that is foolish with his lips‖ shall be thrust aside.[a]

11 <A well-spring of life> is the mouth of the righteous,
But ‖the mouth of the lawless‖ covereth wrong.

12 ‖Hatred‖ stirreth up strifes,
But <over all transgressions> love' throweth a covering.

13 <In the lips of the intelligent> is found wisdom,
But ‖a rod‖ is for the back of him that lacketh sense.[b]

14 ‖Wise men‖ treasure up knowledge,
But ‖the mouth of the foolish‖ is a terror[c] near at hand.

15 ‖The substance of the rich‖ is his strong city,
‖The terror[c] of the poor‖ is their poverty.

16 ‖The labour of the righteous‖ [leadeth] to life,
‖The increase of the lawless‖ to sin.

17 <On the way to life> is he that heedeth correction,
But ‖he that hateth[d] reproof‖ is going[e] astray.

18 ‖He that concealeth hatred‖ hath false lips,
<And he that sendeth forth slander> ‖the same‖ is a dullard.

19 <In the multitude of words> there wanteth not transgression,
But ‖he that restraineth his lips‖ sheweth prudence.

20 <Choice silver> is the tongue of the righteous,
But ‖the sense[b] of the lawless‖ is very small.

21 ‖The lips of the righteous‖ feed[f] multitudes,
But ‖the foolish‖ <for lack of sense>[b] shall die.

22 ‖The blessing of Yahweh‖ itself' maketh rich,
And he addeth no grievance therewith.

23 It is <mere sport to a stupid man> to commit lewdness,
But <wisdom> pertaineth to a man of understanding.

24 <The dread of the lawless one> ‖the same‖ shall overtake him,
But ‖the desire of the righteous‖ shall be granted.[g]

25 <Like the passing away of a tempest> so the lawless' one is' not,
But ‖the righteous‖ [hath] an age-abiding foundation.

26 <As vinegar to the teeth, and as smoke to the eyes>
‖So‖ is the sluggard, to them who send him.

27 ‖The reverence of Yahweh‖ addeth days,
But ‖the years of the lawless‖ shall be shortened.

28 ‖The hope of the righteous‖ shall be gladness,
But ‖the expectation of the lawless‖ shall vanish.

29 <A refuge for the blameless> is the path of Yahweh,
But ‖destruction‖[a] [awaiteth] the workers of iniquity.

30 ‖The righteous‖ <to times age-abiding> shall remain unshaken,
But ‖the lawless‖ shall not inhabit the earth.

31 ‖The mouth of the righteous‖ beareth the fruit of wisdom,
But ‖a perverse tongue‖ shall be cut off.

32 ‖The lips of the righteous‖ know what is pleasing,
But ‖the mouth of the lawless‖ [speaketh] perversities.

11 1 ‖A deceptive balance‖ is an abomination to Yahweh,
But ‖a full weight‖ is his delight.

2 <When pride cometh> then cometh contempt,
But <with the modest> is wisdom.

3 ‖The integrity of the upright‖ shall guide them,
But ‖the crookedness of the treacherous‖ shall be their ruin.

4 Wealth |shall not profit| in the day of wrath,
But ‖righteousness‖ shall deliver from death.

5 ‖The righteousness of the blameless‖ shall smooth his way,
But <by his own lawlessness> shall the lawless one |fall|.

6 ‖The righteousness of the upright‖ shall deliver them,
But <by their own craving> shall the treacherous be captured.

7 <When the lawless man dieth> his expectation |perisheth|,
And ‖the hope of strong men‖ hath vanished.

8 ‖The righteous man‖ |out of distress| is delivered,
Then cometh a lawless man into his place.

9 <With the mouth> a profane man destroyeth his neighbour,
But <through knowledge> shall righteous men be delivered.

10 <When it is |well with the righteous|> the city |exulteth|,
<When the lawless perish> there is a shout of triumph.

11 <When the upright are blessed> exalted' is the city,
But <by the mouth of the lawless> it is overthrown.[a]

12 ||He that sheweth contempt for his neighbour|| lacketh sense,[b]
But ||a man of understanding|| observeth silence.

13 ||He that goeth about talebearing|| revealeth a secret,
But ||he that is faithful in spirit|| concealeth a matter.

14 <With no' guidance> a people will fall,
But ||safety|| lieth in the greatness of the counsellor.

15 He that becometh surety for a stranger ||goeth to utter ruin||,
But ||he that hateth striking hands|| is secure.

16 ||A gracious wife|| obtaineth honour,[c]
But ||the diligent||[d] shall obtain wealth.

17 The man of lovingkindness |dealeth well with his own soul|,
But the cruel man |troubleth his own flesh|.

18 ||The lawless man|| earneth the wages of falsehood,
But ||he that soweth righteousness|| hath the reward of fidelity.

19 ||A righteous son||[e] [turneth] to life,
But ||he that pursueth wickedness|| to his own death.

20 |The abomination of Yahweh| are they of perverse heart,
But <his delight> are the men of blameless life.

21 <Hand to hand>[f] the wicked' man shall not be held innocent,
But ||the seed of the righteous|| hath been delivered.

22 <As a ring of gold in the snout of a swine>
Is a woman of beauty who hath abandoned discretion.

23 ||The desire of the righteous|| is only' good,
||The expectation of the lawless|| is wrath.

24 There is' who scattereth, and increaseth yet more,
And who withholdeth of what is due, only' to come to want.

25 ||The liberal soul|| shall be enriched,[g]
And ||he that refresheth|| shall himself also' be refreshed.

26 <He that keepeth back corn> the populace' will curse him,
But there is ||a blessing|| for the head of him that selleth.

27 ||He that diligently seeketh good|| aimeth at favour,
But ||he that studieth mischief|| it shall come on himself.

28 <He that trusteth in his riches> ||the same|| shall fall,[a]
But <like the leaf> shall the righteous break forth.

29 ||He that troubleth his own house|| shall inherit the wind,
But  shall the foolish' be to the wise in heart.

30 ||The fruit[b] of the righteous|| is a tree of life,
And ||he that rescueth[c] souls|| is wise.

31 Lo! ||the righteous|| in the earth' shall be recompensed,
How much more' the lawless and the sinner.

1 ||He that loveth correction|| loveth knowledge, 12
But ||he that hateth reproof|| is brutish.

2 ||A good man|| obtaineth favour from Yahweh,
But  will he condemn.

3 A son of earth |shall not be established| by lawlessness,
But ||the root of the righteous|| shall not be disturbed.

4 ||A virtuous[d] woman|| is the crown of her husband,[e]
But  is she that causeth shame.

5 ||The plans of the righteous|| are just,
But ||the counsels[f] of the lawless|| are deceitful.

6 ||The words of the lawless|| are—of lying in wait for blood,
But ||the mouth of the upright|| shall deliver them.

7 Overthrown' are the lawless and they are' not,
But ||the house of the righteous|| shall stand.

8 <In proportion to his prudence> is a man |to be praised|,
But ||the perverse in heart|| shall be an object of contempt.

9 Better' slighted, and have a servant,
Than to honour oneself, and come short of bread.

10 ||A righteous man|| regardeth the desire[g] of his beast,
But ||the compassions of the lawless|| are cruel.

But ‖the root of the righteous‖ is enduring.[d]

13 <By the transgression of the lips> is the wicked' man |ensnared|,
But the righteous' |cometh out of distress|.[e]

14 <Of the fruit of a man's mouth> shall he be satisfied with good,
And ‖the dealing of the hands of a son of earth‖ shall be paid back to him.

15 ‖The way of the foolish‖ is right in his own eyes,
But ‖he that hearkeneth to counsel‖ is wise.

16 ‖A foolish man‖ <on the [same] day>[f] letteth his vexation be known,
But ‖he that concealeth an affront‖ is prudent.

17 ‖He that whispereth faithfulness‖ declareth righteousness,
But ‖a false witness‖ is a fraud.

18 There is' who babbleth, as with thrusts of a sword,
But ‖the tongue of the wise‖ hath healing.

19 ‖A lip that is faithful‖ shall be firm to futurity,
But <only for a twinkling>[g] is the tongue that is false.

20 ‖Deceit‖ is in the heart of contrivers of mischief,
But <to the counsellors of peace> shall be joy.

21 <Unseemly[h] to the righteous> is any trouble,
But ‖the lawless‖ are full of misfortune.

22 |An abomination to Yahweh| are lips that are false,
But ‖he that dealeth faithfully‖ is[i] his delight.

23 ‖A prudent man‖ concealeth knowledge,
But ‖the heart of dullards‖ proclaimeth folly.

24 ‖The hand of the diligent‖ shall bear rule,
But ‖the indolent‖ shall come under tribute.

25 <When anxiety is in the heart of a man> one may bow him down,
But ‖a good[k] word‖ maketh him glad.

26 The righteous man guideth his neighbour,[l]
But ‖the way of the lawless‖ leadeth them astray.

27 Indolence |roasteth not| his own game,[a]
But ‖the substance of a man‖ is precious |when he is diligent|.

28 <In the way of righteousness> is life,
And <in the path thereof> immortality.[b]

13 1 ‖A wise son‖ [cometh of] a father's correction,
But ‖a scoffer‖ heareth not a rebuke.

2 <Of the fruit of his mouth> shall a man eat[c] what is good,
But ‖the soul of the treacherous‖ [shall be sated with] violence.

3 ‖He that watcheth his mouth‖ guardeth his soul,[d]
<He that openeth wide his lips> [it shall be] his ruin.

4 The sluggard ‖desireth‖, but his soul[e] hath |nothing|.
But ‖the soul of the diligent‖ shall be enriched.[f]

5 <A word of falsehood> the righteous' man |hateth|,
But ‖the lawless‖ causeth shame and disgrace.

6 ‖Righteousness‖ guardeth the man of blameless way,
But ‖lawlessness‖ overthroweth the sinner.[g]

7 There is' Who feigneth himself rich, yet hath nothing at all,
Who pleadeth poverty, yet hath great substance.

8 ‖The ransom of a man's life‖[h] is his wealth,
But ‖the poor‖ heareth not rebuke.

9 ‖The light of the righteous‖ rejoiceth,[i]
But ‖the lamp of the lawless‖ goeth out.

10 <Only by pride> doth one cause contention,
But <with the well-advised>[k] is wisdom.

11 ‖Wealth gotten by greed‖[l] diminisheth,
But ‖he that gathereth by little‖[m] increaseth.[n]

12 ‖Hope deferred‖ sickeneth the heart,—
But  is desire fulfilled.

13 ‖He that despiseth a matter‖ shall get pledged thereto,
But ‖he that revereth a commandment‖ the same shall be recompensed.[o]

[a] Or: "brains"; ml.: "heart." Cp. chap. vi. 32, n.
[b] Sep. adds:—
"‖He that delighteth himself in the drinking of wine‖ Shall leave his own stronghold a disgrace."
[c] Or: "gain"; ml.: "net."
[d] So it shd be (w. Sep.)—G.n.
[e] Sep. adds:—
"‖He that observeth equity‖ shall find compassion,
But ‖he that assaileth in the gates‖ woundeth souls"
—G.n.
[f] Gt.: "at once"—G.n. [g] Ml.: "while I wink."
[h] So it shd be (w. Sep., Syr.)—G.n.
[i] Some cod. (w. Sep.): "he who dealeth f. is" (sing.)—G.n. So "the clause ought to be rendered"—G. Intro. 863.

[b] So O.G. 39*, 677*. But Gt. that instead of "the path thereof" shd be read: "an abominable way"; in which case we must needs adopt his next v.r. ('el for 'al) and complete the line thus: "But an abominable way |leadeth| to death"—G.n.
[c] Some cod. (w. Aram., Syr., Vul.): "be filled with"—G.n.
[d] Or: "life." [e] Or: "appetite."
[f] Or: "be made fat." [g] Ml.: "sin."
[h] U.: "soul." [i] Gt.: "ariseth."
[k] Gt.: "with the modest." Cp. chap. xi. 2—G.n.
[l] So it shd be (w. Sep., Vul.). Cp. chap. xx. 21—G.n.
[m] Ml.: "on the hand."
[n] Sep. and Syr. add:—
"‖A righteous man‖ sheweth favour and lendeth;
Better' is he that sustaineth the heart at the beginning
Than he that inspireth confidence and deferreth hope."
[o] Sep. and Syr. add:—
"‖A crafty son‖ hath nothing good,
But <as for a wise servant> his doings prosper, and his way is directed aright"—G.n.

14 ‖The instruction of the wise‖ is a well-spring of life,
By departing from the snares of death.

15 ‖Sound discretion‖ yieldeth favour,[a]
But ‖the way of the treacherous‖ is rugged.[b]

16 ‖Every prudent man‖ maketh use of knowledge,
But ‖a dullard‖ spreadeth folly.

17 ‖A lawless messenger‖ falleth into mischief,
But ‖a faithful herald‖ bringeth healing.

18 ‖Poverty and contempt‖ are for him that neglecteth correction,
But ‖he that regardeth reproof‖ shall be honoured.

19 ‖A desire fulfilled‖ is sweet to the soul,
But it is ‖an abomination to the lawless‖[c] to depart from evil.

20 ‖He that walketh with the wise‖ becometh wise,
But ‖the friend of dullards‖ becometh foolish.[d]

21 Evil pursueth ‖sinners‖,
But <unto the righteous> shall good' be recompensed.

22 ‖A good man‖ leaveth an inheritance to children's children,
But <laid up for the righteous> is the wealth of the sinner.

23 ‖Much food‖ is in[e] the fallow ground of the poor,
But there is' that is swept away, for want of justice.

24 ‖He that withholdeth his rod‖ hateth his son,—
But ‖he that loveth him‖ carefully correcteth him.[f]

25 ‖The righteous‖ eateth to satisfy his appetite,[g]
But ‖the belly of the lawless‖ shall want.

14 1 Every ‖wise woman‖ buildeth up her house,
But ‖a foolish one‖ <with her own hands> would break it down.

2 ‖He that walketh in his uprightness‖ is one who revereth Yahweh,
But ‖he that is crooked in his way‖ is one who despiseth him.

3 <In the mouth of the foolish> is a haughty' rod,
But <as for the lips of the wise> thou shalt give heed to them!

4 <Without cattle> the crib is clean,
But ‖much increase‖ is in the strength of the ox.

5 ‖A faithful witness‖ will not deceive,
But a false witness ‖uttereth deceitful things‖.

6 A scoffer seeketh' wisdom, and there is' none,
But ‖knowledge‖ <to the discerning> is easy.

7 Get thee from the presence of a man that is a dullard,
When thou perceivest not the lips of knowledge.[a]

8 ‖The wisdom of the prudent‖ is to understand his way,
But ‖the folly of dullards‖ is a fraud.

9 ‖The foolish‖ scoff at guilt,
But <between the upright> is good pleasure.

10 ‖The heart‖ knoweth its own bitterness,[b]
And <in its joy> no stranger shareth.

11 ‖The house of the lawless‖ shall be destroyed,
But ‖the tent of the upright‖ shall flourish.[c]

12 There is' a way that enticeth a man,[d]
But <at the latter end thereof> are the ways of death!

13 <Even |in laughter|> the heart' may be in pain,
And ‖the latter end of gladness‖ be grief.[e]

14 <With his own ways> shall be filled the backslider in heart,
And <from himself>[f] shall a good man [be satisfied].

15 ‖The simple‖ believeth every word,
But ‖the prudent‖ looketh well to his going.

16 ‖A wise man‖ feareth, and avoideth evil,
But ‖a dullard‖ is haughty and confident.

17 ‖The impatient‖ worketh folly,
And ‖a man of wicked devices‖ is hated.

18 The simple inherit' folly,
But ‖the shrewd‖ crowneth himself with knowledge.

19 Abased are the wicked, before the good,
And ‖the lawless‖, at the gates of the righteous.

20 <Even by his neighbour> is a poor man hated,
But ‖the lovers of the rich man‖ are many.

21 ‖He that sheweth contempt for his neighbour‖ sinneth,
But <he that sheweth favour to the afflicted>[g] how happy is he!

22 Shall they not |become vagrants|, who devise evil?
But ‖lovingkindness and faithfulness‖ [be to] them who devise good.

23 <By all labour> there will be abundance,
But ‖the talk of the lips‖ tendeth only' to want.

[a] Sep. adds:
"And ‖the knowledge of the law‖ is |good understanding|,
But," etc. [as in text].—G.n.
[b] Meaning uncertain. Cp. O.G. 451[a].
[c] So the clause ought to be rendered (w. Sep. and Syr.)—G. Intro. 863. [d] Or: "wicked;" or "worse."

[d] Ml.: "is pleasing before a man."
[e] So it shd be (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.)—G.n, [Heb.: mended by simple regrouping of letters.]
[f] Gt.: "from his own doings." Cp. Jer. xvii. 10—G.n.
[g] Or: "oppressed," "humbled."

The crown of the wise‖ is their wealth,
But ‖the folly of dullards‖ is ‖folly‖.

<A deliverer of souls> is a faithful' witness,
But ‖he that uttereth falsehoods‖ is a fraud.

<In the reverence of Yahweh> is strong security.
And ‖his children‖ shall have a place of refuge.

27 ‖The reverence of Yahweh‖ is a well-spring of life,
That a man may avoid[a] the snares of death.

28 <In the multitude of a people> is the majesty of the king,
But <in the ceasing of population> is the ruin of the prince.

29 ‖One slow to anger‖ hath great understanding,
But ‖the hasty in spirit‖ exalteth folly.

30 <The life of the whole body> is a tranquil mind,[b]
But  is jealousy.

31 ‖The oppressor of the poor‖ hath reproached his Maker,
But he that sheweth favour to the needy, is one who |holdeth Him in honour|.

32 <By his own wickedness> shall the lawless man |be thrust down|,
But the righteous' |seeketh refuge in his integrity|.[c]

33 <In the heart of the intelligent> reposeth wisdom,
But <in the midst of dullards> it maketh itself known.

34 ‖Righteousness‖ exalteth a nation,
But <a reproach to any people‖[d] is sin'.

35 ‖The good-pleasure of a king‖ is due to a servant who is discreet,
But ‖his indignation‖ shall be against him that bringeth shame.

15 1 ‖A soft answer‖ turneth away wrath,
But a cutting word raiseth anger.

2 ‖The tongue of the wise‖ adorneth knowledge,—
But ‖the mouth of dullards‖ belcheth out folly.

3 <In every place> are the eyes of Yahweh,
Observing the evil and the good.

4 ‖Gentleness of the tongue‖ is a tree of life,
But ‖crookedness therein‖ a grievous wound in the spirit.

5 A foolish [son]‖ spurneth the correction of his father,
But ‖he that heedeth a reproof‖ sheweth prudence.[e]

6 ‖The household of the righteous man‖ is a great treasure,
But <in the increase of the lawless> is disturbance.

7 ‖The lips of the wise‖ scatter abroad knowledge,
But ‖the heart of dullards‖ is not right.[a]

8 ‖The sacrifice of lawless men‖ is an abomination to Yahweh,
But ‖the prayer of the upright‖ is his delight.

9 ‖An abomination to Yahweh‖ is the way of the lawless,
But <the pursuer of righteousness> he loveth.

10 There is ‖grievous correction‖ for him that forsaketh the right path,
‖He that hateth rebuke‖ shall die.

11 ‖Hades and destruction‖ are before Yahweh,
How much more' then, the hearts of the sons of men.[b]

12 A scoffer |loveth not| one who reproveth him,
<Unto the wise> doth he not go.

13 ‖A joyful heart‖ maketh a pleasing countenance,—
But <in sorrow of heart> is a stricken spirit.

14 ‖The heart of the intelligent‖ seeketh knowledge,
But ‖the mouth[c] of dullards‖ feedeth on folly.

15 ‖All the days of the afflicted‖ are sorrowful,
But ‖a cheerful heart‖ is a continual banquet.

16 Better' is a little, with the reverence of Yahweh,
Than great treasure, and disquietude therewith.

17 Better' is an allowance of herbs,[d] and love |there|,
Than a fatted ox, and hatred therewith.

18 ‖A wrathful man‖ stirreth up strife,
But ‖he that is slow to anger‖ calmeth contention.[e]

19 ‖The way of the sluggard‖ is like a thorn hedge,
But ‖the path of the upright‖ is a raised road.

20 ‖A wise son‖ maketh a glad father,—
But ‖a dullard‖[f] despiseth his own mother.

21 ‖Folly‖ is joy to him that lacketh sense,[g]—
But ‖a man of understanding‖ taketh a straight course.

22 Plans |are frustrated|, for lack of consultation,
But <by the multitude of counsellors> shall counsel[h] |be established|.

[a] Ml. and tersely: "To avoid."
[b] Ml.: "heart."
[c] So it shd be (w. Sep.)—G.n.
[d] Ml.: "to peoples."
[e] Sep. here adds:—
"<In the abounding of righteousness> is great treasure,
But ‖the lawless‖ out of the land' shall be uprooted"
—G.n.

[d] Or: "vegetables."
[e] Sep. adds:—
"A man slow to anger calmeth contention,
But a lawless man rouseth it again"—G.n.
[f] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr.): "a son who is a dullard"—G.n.
[g] Ml.: "heart." Cp. chap. vi. 32, n.
[h] So it shd be (w. Aram., Sep. Syr.). Cp. chap. xix. 21—G.n.

23 A man hath joy in the answer of his own mouth,
And ‖a word in its season‖—how good!

24 ‖The way of life‖ is upwards to the prudent,
That he may depart from hades beneath.

25 <The house of proud men> will Yahweh tear down,
But he will maintain the boundary of the widow.

26 <An abomination to Yahweh> are the plottings of the wicked,
But <with the pure> are sayings of sweetness.

27 He |troubleth his own house| who graspeth with greed,
But ‖he that hateth gifts‖[a] shall live.

28 ‖The heart of the righteous‖ studieth[b] to answer,
But ‖the mouth of the lawless‖ belcheth out[c] mischiefs.

29 Far off is Yahweh from the lawless,
But <the prayer of the righteous> will he hear.

30 ‖The sparkling of bright eyes‖ rejoiceth the heart,
‖Good news‖ giveth marrow to the bones.[d]

31 ‖The ear that heareth the reproof which giveth life‖
<In the midst of the wise> shall remain.

32 ‖He that declineth correction‖ despiseth his own soul,[e]
But ‖he that heareth reproof‖ gaineth sense.[f]

33 ‖The reverence of Yahweh‖ is the correction of wisdom,
And <before honour> is humility.

16 1 <To man> belong the preparations of the heart,
But <from Yahweh> cometh the answer of the tongue.

2 ‖All the ways of a man‖ [may be] pure in his own eyes,
But ‖he that testeth spirits‖ is Yahweh.

3 Roll upon Yahweh thy doings,
That thy plans |may be established|.

4 <Everything> hath Yahweh made for its own purpose,
Yea ‖even the lawless one‖ for the day of calamity.

5 <An abomination to Yahweh> is every one who is haughty in heart,
<Hand to hand> he shall not be held innocent.[g]

6 <By lovingkindness and fidelity> shall iniquity be covered.[a]
And <in the revering of Yahweh> is a turning away from wrong.

7 <When |acceptable to Yahweh| are the ways of a man>
<Even his enemies> doth he cause to make peace with him.

8 Better a little with righteousness,
Than large revenues without justice.

9 ‖A man's heart‖ deviseth his way,
But ‖Yahweh‖ directeth his steps.

10 ‖An oracle‖ is on the lips of a king,
<In giving sentence> his mouth must not be unfaithful.

11 ‖The balance and scales of justice‖ belong to Yahweh,
And <his handiwork> are all the weights of the bag.

12 <The abomination of kings> is to work lawlessness,
For <by righteousnesss> is established a throne.

13 <The delight of kings>[b] are lips of righteousness,—
And <the words of uprightness>[c] he loveth.

14 ‖The wrath of a king‖ [meaneth] messengers of death,
But ‖a man who is wise‖ will appease it.

15 <In the light of a king's countenance> is life,
And ‖his good-pleasure‖ is like the cloud of harvest-rain.[d]

16 <To acquire wisdom> how much better than gold!
And <to get hold of understanding> more choice than silver!

17 ‖The highway of the upright‖ is to avoid evil,[e]
|He preserveth his soul| who guardeth his way.[f]

18 <Before grievous injury> pride!
And <before a fall> haughtiness of spirit!

19 Better is lowliness of spirit with the patient,[g]
Than a portion of spoil with the proud.

20 ‖He that showeth discretion concerning a matter‖ shall find good,
And <he that trusteth in Yahweh> how happy is he!

[a] Or: "bribes."
[b] Ml.: "muttereth" = "repeateth to himself."
[c] Cp. verse 2.
[d] Or: "fatteneth the body." [e] Or: "life."
[f] Ml.: "heart." Cp. vi. 32, n.
[g] Sep. here adds:—
"<At the beginning of a way> it is good to do righteousness,
And more pleasing before God than to offer sacrifices.
‖He that seeketh Yahweh‖ shall find knowledge and righteousness,
Yea they who seek him uprightly shall find peace.
‖All the doings of Yahweh‖ are in righteousness.
But the lawless one is kept for the day of calamity"
—G.n.

[a] Or: "shall a propitiatory covering be put over iniquity."
[b] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr.): "a king." In others "king" is written, and "kings" read—G.n.
[c] So it shd be (w. Sep.)—G.n.
[d] "Spring-rain cloud"—O.G. Cp. Deu. xi. 14.
[e] Sep. adds:—
"And <length of life> are the ways of righteousness.
‖He that accepteth correction‖ shall prosper,
And ‖he that heedeth reproofs‖ shall gain wisdom"
—G.n.
[f] Sep. adds:—
"And ‖he that loveth his life‖ restraineth his mouth"
—G.n.
[g] Or: "afflicted," "oppressed," "humbled."

21 ‖The wise in heart‖ shall be called intelligent,
And ‖sweetness of lips‖ increaseth persuasiveness.

22 ‖A well-spring of life‖ is discretion to its owner,
But ‖the correction of the foolish‖ is folly.

23 ‖The heart of the wise‖ giveth discretion to his mouth,
And <upon his lips> increaseth persuasiveness.

24 <A comb of honey> are pleasant words,
Sweet to the taste[a] and healing[b] to the bone.

25 There is' a way that enticeth a man,
But <at the latter end thereof> are the ways of death.[c]

26 ‖The appetite[a] of the toiler‖ hath toiled for him,
For his mouth |hath urged him on|.

27 ‖An abandoned man‖[d] diggeth up mischief,—
And <upon his lips> as it were a fire is scorching.

28 ‖A perverse man‖ sendeth forth strife,
And ‖a tattler‖ separateth intimate friends.

29 ‖A ruthless man‖ enticeth his neighbour,
And leadeth him in a way |not good|.[e]

30 <Closing his eyes> to devise perverse things,
<Biting his lips> he hath plotted mischief.

31 <A crown of adorning> is a hoary head,
<In the way of righteousness> it should be found.

32 Better' he that is slow to anger, than a hero,
And he that ruleth his spirit, than he that captureth a city.

33 <Into the lap> is cast the lot,
But <from Yahweh> is its every decision.[f]

17 1 Better' a dry morsel, and peace therewith,
Than a house full of contentious' sacrifices.

2 ‖A prudent servant‖ shall rule over a son who causeth shame,
And <in the midst of brothers> shall he share the inheritance.

3 Fining-pot for silver, crucible for gold,
But |he that trieth hearts| is ‖Yahweh‖.

4 ‖Discord‖ giveth heed to the aggrieving lip,—
‖Falsehood‖ giveth ear to the destroying tongue.

5 ‖He that mocketh the poor‖ hath reproached his Maker,
|He that maketh merry at distress| shall not be held innocent.[g]

6 |The crown of old men| consists of children's children,
|And the adornment of children| is their fathers.[a]

7 <Unseemly in an unworthy man> is the lip of excellence,[b]
Much more' <in one of noble mind> the lip of falsehood.

8 A gift, in the eyes of its owner, is ‖a stone of beauty‖, <Whithersoever it turneth> it bringeth prosperity.

9 ‖He that hideth a transgression‖ seeketh love,
But ‖he that repeateth a matter‖ separateth intimate friends.

10 A reproof sinketh more deeply into an intelligent man
Than a hundred stripes into a dullard!

11 <Nothing less than rebellion> doth a wicked' man seek,
And ‖a relentless messenger‖ shall be sent out against him.

12 Let a bereaved bear encounter' a man,
Rather than a dullard, with his folly!

13 <He that returneth evil for good>
Evil shall not depart' from his house.

14 <A letting forth of water> is the beginning of strife,
Therefore <before it breaketh out> abandon ‖contention‖.

15 <He that justifieth the lawless, and he that condemneth the righteous>
<An abomination to Yahweh> are they ‖both‖.

16 Wherefore' is there a price in the hand of a dullard?
That he who is without sense |may acquire wisdom|.

17 <At all times> doth a friend love,
And ‖a brother for distress‖ must be born.

18 <A man lacking sense>[c] is one who striketh hands,
Giving security, before his neighbour.

19 <A lover of transgression> is one who loveth strife,
‖He that heighteneth his door‖[d] seeketh grievous harm.

20 ‖The crooked in heart‖ shall not find good,
And ‖he that is perverse with his tongue‖ shall fall into wickedness.

21 ‖He that begetteth a dullard‖ it is to his own grief,
Neither can the father of the base |rejoice|.

22 ‖A joyful heart‖ worketh an excellent cure,—
But ‖a stricken spirit‖ drieth up the bone.

23 <A bribe out of his bosom> doth a lawless man take,
To pervert the ways of justice.

24 <Before the face of the discerning> is wisdom,
But ‖the eyes of a dullard‖ are in the ends of the earth.

25 <A vexation to his father> is the son that is a dullard,
And a bitterness to her that bare him.

26 Surely ‖to chastise the righteous‖ is not good,
To smite the noble-minded for equity.

27 <Sparing of his words> is one who valueth knowledge,
And <of a thoughtful[a] spirit> is a man of intelligence.

28 ‖Even a fool, holding his peace‖ is accounted |wise|,—
‖He that closeth his lips‖ [is thought] to have understanding.

18 1 A man seeketh ‖for satisfaction‖ going his own way, <Through all safe counsel> he breaketh.

2 A dullard |delighteth not| in understanding,
In nothing save the exposing of his own heart.[b]

3 <When the lawless man cometh in> then cometh also contempt,
And <with shame> reproach.

4 <Deep waters> are the words of a man's mouth,—
<A bubbling brook> the well-spring of wisdom.

5 ‖To prefer a lawless man‖ is not good,
Thrusting away the righteous in judgment.

6 ‖The lips of a dullard‖ enter into contention,
And ‖his mouth‖ <for blows> crieth out.

7 ‖The mouth of a dullard‖ is his ruin,
And ‖his lips‖ are a snare to his soul.

8 ‖The words of a tattler‖ are dainties,[c]
‖They‖ therefore go down into the chambers of the inner man.[d]

9 <Surely he that is slothful in his work>
‖Brother‖ is he' to a master at laying waste.

10 <A tower of strength> is the Name of Yahweh, <Thereinto> runneth the righteous and is safe.

11 ‖The substance of a rich man‖ is his strong city,
And like a high wall in his imagination.

12 <Before grievous injury> a man's heart is haughty,
And <before honour> is humility.[e]

13 ‖He that answereth before he heareth‖
<A folly> it is' to him and |a reproach|.

14 ‖The spirit of a man‖ sustaineth his sickness,
But  who can bear it?

15 ‖The heart of the intelligent‖ acquireth knowledge,
Yea ‖the ear of the wise‖ seeketh knowledge.

16 ‖The gift of a man‖ maketh room for him.
And <before great men> setteth him down.

17 Righteous' is he that is first in his own cause,
Then cometh[a] his neighbour and thoroughly searcheth him.

18 The lot causeth ‖contentions‖ to cease,
And <the mighty> it parteth.

19 ‖A brother estranged‖[b] [is worse] than a strong city,—
And ‖contentions‖ are as the bar of a citadel.

20 <Of the fruit of a man's mouth> shall his inmost mind[c] be satisfied, <With the product of his lips> shall he be satisfied.

21 ‖Death and life‖ are in the power of the tongue,
And ‖its friends‖ shall eat its fruits.

22 ‖Who hath found a wife‖[d] hath found a blessing,
And hath obtained favour from Yahweh.[e]

23 <Supplications> doth the poor' man utter,
But ‖the rich‖ answereth fiercely.

24 ‖A man[f] having [many] friends‖ shall come to ruin,
But there is' a loving one who sticketh closer than a brother.

19 1 Better' is a poor man walking in his integrity,
Than one of perverse lips[g] and ‖he‖ a dullard.

2 Surely <for the soul to be |without knowledge|> is not good,
And ‖he that hasteth with his feet‖ strayeth.

3 ‖The folly of a man‖ subverteth his way,
And <against Yahweh> his heart is angry.

4 ‖Wealth‖ addeth many friends,
But ‖the poor man‖ <from his own friend> is parted.

5 ‖A false witness‖ shall not be held innocent,
And ‖he that uttereth lies‖ shall not escape.

"There are' friends who can shout for joy,
But there is' a loving one who sticketh closer than a brother."
That is—Many will shout with us in prosperity, for one who will stick close to us in adversity.

6 ‖Many‖ will entreat the favour[a] of a noble,
And ‖every one‖ is a friend to a man abounding in gifts.

7 ‖All the brethren of a poor man‖ hate him,
How much more have ‖his friends‖ gone far from him,[b]
He may hunt up promises—there are' none.[c]

8 ‖He that acquireth sense‖[d] loveth his own soul,
‖He that guardeth understanding‖ shall find blessing.

9 ‖A false' witness‖ shall not be held innocent,
And ‖he that uttereth lies‖ shall perish.

10 <Unseemly for a dullard> is delicate living,
How much more for ‖a servant‖ to bear rule over princes.

11 ‖The discretion of a man‖ deferreth his anger,
And ‖his adorning‖ is to pass over transgression.

12 <The growl as of a young lion> is the rage of a king,
But <like dew upon the grass> is his good pleasure.

13 <Engulfing ruin to his father> is a son that is a dullard,—
And  are the contentions of a wife.

14 ‖House and substance‖ are an inheritance from one's fathers,
But <from Yahweh> cometh a wife who is prudent.

15 ‖Sloth‖ falleth into a deep sleep,
And ‖a soul that is indolent‖ shall famish.

16 ‖One who guardeth the commandment‖ guardeth his life,[e]
‖He that is reckless in his ways‖ shall die.[f]

17 <A lender to Yahweh> is one who sheweth favour to the poor,
And <his good deed> He will pay him back.

18 Correct thy son, because there is' hope,
Yet <not so as to slay him> let thy passion[e] be excited.

19 ‖A man in a rage‖ taketh away the penalty,—
Nevertheless <if thou let him go free> the more [stripes] must thou add.

20 Hear counsel, receive correction, that thou mayest be wise in thine after-life.

21 Many' are the devices in a man's heart,
But <the counsel of Yahweh> ‖that‖ shall stand.

22 ‖The charm of a man‖ is his lovingkindness,—
And better' a poor man, than one who deceiveth.

23 ‖The reverence of Yahweh‖ leadeth to life,
Satisfied' then, let a man remain—let him not be visited by calamity.

24 A sluggard burieth his hand in the dish,
<Even unto his own mouth> will he not bring it back.

25 <The scoffer> thou shalt smite, and ‖the simple‖ will beware,
But correct[a] a man of intelligence—he will understand teaching.[b]

26 <He that ruineth his father, and chaseth away his mother>
Is a son causing shame and reproach.

27 Cease, my son, to hear instruction that would cause thee to wander from the sayings of knowledge.

28 ‖An abandoned' witness‖[c] scorneth justice,
And ‖the mouth of lawless men‖ swalloweth iniquity.

29 <Prepared for scoffers> are punishments,
And stripes, for the back of dullards.

20 1 Wine is ‖a scoffer‖, and strong drink ‖a brawler‖,
‖Every one therefore who erreth therein‖ is unwise.

2 <The growl as of a young lion> is the dread inspired by a king,
|He that provoketh him| endangereth[d] his own life.[e]

3 <Honour> hath the man who sitteth away from strife,
But ‖any fool‖ may break through.

4 <By reason of the autumn>[f] a sluggard will not plough,
Therefore[g] shall he beg in harvest, and there be' nothing.

5 <Deep water> is counsel in a man's heart,
But ‖a man of understanding‖ will draw it out.

6 A kind' man[h] one may call[i] ‖a great' man‖,—
But  who can find?

7 <As for a righteous man |walking in his integrity|>
How happy are his children after him!

8 ‖A king sitting on the throne of judgment‖
Scattereth, with his eyes, all wrong.

9 Who can say, I have cleansed my heart,
I am pure from my sin?

10 <Divers weights, and divers measures>
<An abomination to Yahweh> are they ‖both‖.

11 Even <by his doings> doth a youth make himself known,
Whether <pure and upright> be his work.

12 <The hearing ear, and the seeing eye>
‖Yahweh‖ hath made them ‖both‖.

13 Do not love sleep, lest thou come to poverty,
Open thine eyes, be satisfied with bread.

14 ‖Bad! bad!‖ saith the buyer,
But <going his way> ‖then‖ he boasteth.

15 There are' gold, and an abundance of corals,
But <precious jewels> are the lips of knowledge.

16 Take his garment who is pledge for a stranger,—
Then <for a woman unknown>[a] accept him as surety.[b]

17 <Sweet to a man> may be the bread of falsehood,
But <afterward> shall his mouth be filled with gravel.

18 <Plans—by counsel> shalt thou establish,
And <with concerted measures> make thou war.

19 <A revealer of secrets> is one who goeth about talebearing,
Therefore <with him who openeth his lips> shalt thou not have fellowship.

20 <Whoso revileth his father or his mother>
His lamp shall be put out in deep darkness.

21 <An inheritance hastily gotten[c] at the beginning>
‖The latter end thereof‖ shall not bring blessing.

22 Do not say, I will requite wrong!
Wait thou for Yahweh that he may save thee.

23 <An abomination to Yahweh>[d] are divers weights,
And ‖deceptive balances‖ are not good.

24 <From Yahweh> are a man's steps,
<A son of earth> then—how can he discern his way?

25 <It is a snare to a man> that he should rashly cry[e] Holy!
And <after making vows> to reflect!

26 A wise' king |winnoweth out the lawless|,
When he hath turned over them the wheel.[f]

27 <The lamp of Yahweh> is the spirit of a son of earth,
Searching all the chambers of the inner man.[g]

28 ‖Lovingkindness and faithfulness‖ will guard a king,—
Therefore should he support, with lovingkindness, his throne.

29 ‖The beauty of young men‖ is their strength,
And ‖the ornament of old men‖ a hoary head.

30 ‖Blows that cut in‖ cleanse away[a] wickedness,
And ‖smitings‖ [enter] the chambers of the inner man.

21 1 <[Like] channels of water> is the heart of a king, in the hand of Yahweh,— <Whithersoever he will> he turneth[b] it.

2 ‖Every way of a man‖ may be right in his own eyes,
But ‖he that testeth hearts‖ is Yahweh.

3 <To do righteousness and justice>
Is more choice' to Yahweh than sacrifice.

4 <Loftiness of eyes, and ambition of heart—
The lamp of the lawless> are sin.

5 ‖The plans of the diligent‖ tend only to abundance,
But ‖of every one that is urgent‖ only to want.

6 ‖The gaining of treasures with a tongue of falsehood‖
Is a vapour driven away, [they who seek them] seek death.[c]

7 ‖The violence of the lawless‖ shall drag them away,—
Because they have refused to do justice.

8 Crooked' is the way of a guilty man,[d]
But <as for the pure> straight is his dealing.

9 <Better' to dwell on the corner of the roof>
Than a quarrelsome wife, and a house in common.[e]

10 ‖The soul of the lawless man‖ craveth mischief,
His own friend |findeth no favour in his eyes|.

11 <When the scoffer' is punished> the simple' |becometh wise|,
<When the wise is instructed>[f] he receiveth knowledge.

12 The Righteous One observeth' the house of the lawless,—
He is ready to cast down lawless men into misfortune.

13 <He that shutteth his ear from the cry of the poor>
‖Even he‖ shall call, and not be answered.

14 ‖A gift in secret‖ quencheth anger,
And ‖a present in the bosom‖ mighty wrath.

15 <It is a joy, to a righteous man> to do justice,
But ‖dismay‖ to the workers of iniquity.

[c] Some cod. (w. Sep. and Vul.): "snares," or "even snares," or "even the snare of death"—G.n.
[d] So O.G. 255 (but "text dubious"). Some cod. (w. Aram., Syr., Vul.): "a man who is an alien"—G.n.
[e] Cp. chap. xxv. 24.
[f] Or: "When he [or one] giveth heed to the wise."

16 ‖The man who wandereth from the way of discretion‖
<In the gathered host[a] of the shades> shall settle down.

17 <A needy man> shall he' be that loveth merriment,
‖The lover of wine and oil‖ shall not become rich.

18 <A ransom for the righteous> is the lawless,
And <instead of upright men> the traitor.

19 <Better to dwell in a desert land>
Than with a woman, quarrelsome and provoking.

20 ‖Desirable treasure and oil‖ are in the home of the wise,
But ‖a man who is a dullard‖ will destroy it.

21 ‖He that pursueth righteousness and loving-kindness‖
Shall find life, righteousness and honour.

22 <A city of heroes> doth a wise man scale,
And bringeth down the strength of its confidence.

23 ‖He that keepeth his mouth and his tongue‖
Keepeth, out of distresses,[b] his soul.

24 <A haughty insolent one—Scoffer is his name>
Is he that acteth in a transport of pride.

25 ‖The craving of the sluggard‖ killeth him,
For his hands have refused' to work.

26 <All the day> he greatly craveth,[c]
Whereas ‖the righteous‖ giveth, and doth not spare.

27 ‖The sacrifice of the lawless‖ is an abomination,
How much more, when |with wickedness| he bringeth it in!

28 ‖A false witness‖ shall perish,
But ‖the man who hearkeneth‖ <with abiding effect>[d] shall speak.

29 A lawless man emboldeneth his face,
But <as for the upright> ‖he‖ directeth[e] his ways.[f]

30 There is no wisdom, nor understanding,
Nor counsel, to confront Yahweh.

31 ‖The horse‖ is prepared for the day of battle,
But <to Yahweh> pertaineth the victory.

22 1 |More choice| is a name, than great riches,
<Beyond silver and gold> is pleasant grace.

2 ‖The rich and the poor‖ meet together,
<The maker of them all> is Yahweh.

3 ‖A prudent man‖ seeth calamity, and hideth himself,
But ‖the simple‖ pass on, and suffer.[a]

4 ‖The reward of humility‖ is the reverence of Yahweh,
Riches, and honour, and life.

5 ‖Thorns and[b] snares‖ are in the way of the perverse,—
‖He that guardeth his soul‖ shall be far from them.

6 Train up a youth, in the direction of his duty,[c]
<Even when he becometh old> he will not depart from it.

7 ‖The rich‖ |over the poor| beareth rule,—
And <slave> is the borrower to the lender.

8 ‖He that soweth perversity‖ shall reap trouble,
And ‖the rod of his wrath‖ shall be ready.[d]

9 ‖A benevolent eye‖ |the same| shall be blessed,—
Because he hath given of his bread to the poor.[e]

10 Drive away the scoffer, that strife may depart,
And quarrel,[f] and contempt may cease.

11 Yahweh loveth[g] the pure in heart,[h]
Gracious' are his lips, his friend' is the king!

12 ‖The eyes of Yahweh‖ watch over knowledge,
Therefore hath he overturned the words[i] of the treacherous.

13 Saith the sluggard,
A lion outside!
<Amidst the broadways> shall I be slain.

14 <A deep chasm> is the mouth of strange women,
‖He with whom Yahweh is indignant‖ falleth there.[k]

15 ‖Foolishness‖ is bound up in the heart of a youth,
‖The rod of correction‖ shall drive it far from him.

16 ‖He that oppresseth the poor, to make increase for himself,
Giving to the rich‖ shall surely come to want.

But <all that is vain in his works> will he distroy."
—G.n. Cp. 1 Cor. iii. 12-15.
[e] Sep. and Vul. add:—
"<Might and honour> will he' achieve who bestoweth gifts,
But ‖the life of such as hold fast possessions‖ shall be taken away"—G.n. Cp. Lk. xii. 16-21.

But it is becoming to turn back from a way that is perverse and wicked"—G.n.

17 Incline thine ear[a] and hear the words[b] of wise men,
Then <thy heart> wilt thou apply to my teaching;[c]
18 For sweet' shall they be, when thou shalt keep them in thine inmost mind,
They shall fit well together, upon thy lips.
19 <That in Yahweh' may be thy trust>
I have made them known to thee to-day ‖even to thee‖.
20 Have I not written for thee noble things,[d]
With counsels and knowledge:
21 To cause thee to know the meaning of faithful sayings,
That thou mayest give back faithful sayings to them who ask[e] thee.

22 Do not rob the poor, because he is' poor,
Neither crush thou the oppressed in the gate;
23 For ‖Yahweh‖ will plead their cause,
And will despoil their despoilers of life.

24 Do not have friendship with one given to anger,[f]
And <with a wrathful man> shalt thou not enter in:
25 Lest thou learn his ways,[g]
And take a snare to thy soul.

26 Be not of them who strike hands,
Of them who are sureties for debts:
27 <If thou hast nothing to pay>
Why' should one take away thy bed from under thee?

28 Do not move back the ancient[h] boundary,
Which thy fathers' made.

29 Seest thou a man prompt in his business?
<Before kings> shall he stand,
He shall not stand before men who are obscure.

23 1 <When thou sittest to eat with a ruler>
‖Thou shalt consider well‖ what is before thee;
2 And shalt put a knife to thy throat,
If <of great appetite>[i] thou art:
3 Do not crave his dainties,[k]
For ‖the same‖ are deceitful' food.
4 Do not toil to get wealth,
<Of thine own understanding> forbear:
5 Wilt thou let thine eye fly thereupon, when it is nothing'?
For it will ‖surely make‖ itself wings,
<Like an eagle> will it wing its way across the heavens.

6 Do not eat the food of him that hath a begrudging eye,
Neither crave thou his dainties;
7 For <just as he hath thought in his own mind>[a]
‖so‖ he is':
Eat and drink! he may say to thee,
But ‖his heart‖ is not with thee.
8 <As for thy morsel thou hast eaten> thou shalt vomit it,
So shalt thou waste thy things so sweet.

9 <In the ears of a dullard> do not speak,
For he will despise the good sense of thy words.

10 Do not move back the ancient boundary,[b]
And <into the fields[c] of the fatherless> do not enter;
11 For ‖their near of kin‖[d] is strong,
‖He‖ will plead their cause with thee.

12 Bring, to correction, thy heart,
And thine ears, to the sayings of knowledge.

13 Do not withhold, from a child,[e] correction,
<When thou smitest him with the rod> he shall not die:
14 ‖Thou‖ <with the rod> shalt smite him,
And <his soul from hades> shalt thou deliver.

15 My son! <if thy heart be wise>
My heart shall rejoice' ‖even mine‖.
16 So shall my reins[f] exult,
When thy lips speak the things that are right.

17 Let not thy heart be envious of sinners,
Only of the reverence of Yahweh, all day long;
18 For surely there is' a future,[g]
And ‖thine expectation‖ shall not be cut off.

19 Hear ‖thou‖ my son, and be wise,
And lead forward, in duty, thy heart.

20 Do not be among them who tipple with wine,—
Among them who are gluttons;[h]
21 For ‖the tippler and the glutton‖ shall come to poverty,
And <rags> shall Slumber' put on!

22 Hearken to thy father here, who[i] begat thee,
And despise not <when she is old> ‖thy mother‖.

23 <Truth> buy thou, but do not sell,
Wisdom, and correction, and understanding.

24 ||Greatly shall exult|| the father of a righteous man,
And[a] ||he that begetteth a wise son|| shall rejoice in him:
25 Rejoice shall thy father and thy mother,
Yea she |shall exult| who bare thee.

26 Oh give, my son, thy mind[b] unto me,
And let ||thine eyes|| observe[c] |my ways|;
27 For  is the unchaste woman,
And  the female unknown;
28 Yea ||she|| <as for prey> lieth in wait,
And <the treacherous among mankind|| she causeth to abound.

29 Who' hath woe?
Who' hath outcry of pain?
Who' hath contentions?
Who' hath complaining?
Who' hath needless wounds?
Who' hath dulness of eyes?
30 They who tarry over wine,
They who go in to search for mixed wine.[d]

31 Do not look on wine when it becometh red,
When it giveth in the cup its sparkle,[e]
Glideth down smoothly.
32 ||Its after effect|| is that <like a serpent> it biteth,
And <like a viper> it doth sting.
33 ||Thine eyes|| will see strange women,
And ||thy heart|| will speak perverse things:
34 So shalt thou become, as one lying down in the heart of the sea,—
Or as one lying down on the top of the mast-gear;[f]
35 They smote me—I felt no pain,
They struck me down—I noticed it not,—
When shall I wake up?
I will go on, I will seek it |again|!

24 1 Be not thou envious of wicked men,
Neither crave to be with them;
2 For <violence> their heart muttereth,
And <mischief> their lips do speak.

3 <In wisdom> is a house builded,
And <in understanding> is it established;
4 And <in knowledge> chambers are filled,
||With all acquisitions, costly and fair||.

5 ||A wise man|| is mighty,[g]
And ||a man of knowledge|| becometh alert in vigour.[h]

6 Surely |with concerted measures| shalt thou make for thyself war,
And ||success|| lieth in the greatness of the counsellor.

7 <Unattainable'[a] to a foolish man> are the dictates of wisdom,
<In the gate> he openeth not his mouth.

8 <He that deviseth to do mischief>
||Him|| shall men call |a master[b] of plots|.

9 ||The purpose of folly|| is sin,
And <an abomination to mankind> is a buffoon.[c]

10 Thou hast been slothful in the day of straitness,
||Strait|| is thy strength.

11 Deliver thou such as are being led forth to death,
And <them who are tottering to slaughter> oh that thou wouldst hold back!
12 <Though thou say,
Lo! we knew not this>
Shall not ||he that proveth hearts, himself|| discern?
And ||he that formeth thy soul, himself|| know?
And bring back to a son of earth according to his deed?

13 My son, eat thou honey, because it is good,—
And droppings from the comb [because they are] sweet to thy palate:
14 ||Thus|| take knowledge of wisdom, for thine own soul;
<If thou find it> then there is' a future,
And ||thine expectation|| shall not be cut off.[d]

15 Do not lie in wait, thou lawless man, against the home[e] of the righteous,— Neither destroy thou his place of rest;[f]
16 For <seven times> may the righteous fall and yet arise,
But ||lawless men|| shall stumble into calamity.

17 <When thine enemy[g] falleth> do not thou rejoice,
And <when he stumbleth> let not thy heart exult:
18 Lest Yahweh see it, and it be wicked in his eyes,
And he turn away from him his anger.

19 Burn not with vexation against evildoers,[h]
Be not[i] envious of lawless men;
20 For there shall be no future for the wicked,[k]
||The lamp of the lawless|| shall go out.[l]

21 Revere thou Yahweh, my son, and the king,
And <with the fickle> have thou no fellowship;

[a] So read (with "and"), though not written. Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.) both write and read: "And"—G.n.
[b] Or: "attention." U.: "heart."
[c] Written: "delight in"; read: "observe." Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.) both write and read: "observe"—G.n.
[d] Cp. Is. v. 22, n.
[e] Lit.: "its eye." "The eye of wine is the bubbling when it sparkles as poured out"—T.G.
[f] "That is, in the look-out basket at the mast-head"—O.G.

[k] Cp. ver. 14; and chap. xxiii. 18.
[l] Or: "be extinguished."

22 For <suddenly> shall arise their calamity;
And <the misfortune of their years> who knoweth?[a]

23 ‖These things also‖ concern the wise,
<To take note of faces in judgment> is not good.

24 <He that saith to the lawless man,
‖Righteous‖ thou art'>
Peoples shall denounce' him,
Populations shall curse' him;
25 But <to reprovers> one should be pleasant,
And <upon them> should come an excellent blessing:
26 <Lips> should one kiss
With one who answereth in right[b] words.

27 Prepare <in the open> thy work,
And make ready <in the field> for thyself,
<Afterwards> shalt thou build thy house.

28 Do not become a needless' witness against thy neighbour,
So mightest thou open too wide thy lips:
29 Do not say—
<According to what he hath done to me>
‖So‖ will I do to him,
I will repay every one according to his work.

30 <By the field of the sluggard> I passed,
And by the vineyard of a man lacking sense;[c]
31 And lo! There had come up all over it—thorns,
There had covered the face thereof—thistles,
And ‖the stone fence thereof‖ had been thrown down.
32 So I observed it ‖for myself‖,
I applied my heart,
I looked—I accepted correction:
33 A little sleep,
A little slumber,
A little folding of the hands to rest:
34 So shall come in, as a highwayman, thy poverty,
And ‖thy want‖ as one armed with a shield.

A Supplementary Collection of Proverbs.
(Chapters XXV. to XXIX.)

25 1 ‖These also‖ are proverbs of Solomon,—which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah transcribed.

2 ‖The glory of God‖ is to conceal a thing,
But ‖the glory of kings‖ is to search out a thing.

3 <The heavens for height, and the earth for depth>
But ‖the heart of kings‖ cannot' be searched.

4 <Remove the dross from the silver>
And there cometh forth, to the refiner, a vessel:
5 <Remove a lawless man from before the king>
That his throne' |may be established in righteousness|.

6 Do not honour thyself before a king,
Nor <in the place of great men> do thou stand;
7 For better' it be said to thee, Come up hither,—
Than that thou be put lower down before a noble,
Whom thine own eyes' |have beheld|.

8 Do not go forth to strive in haste,—
Lest [thou know not] what to do in the latter end thereof,
When thy neighbour' |hath put thee to shame|.

9 <Thy contention> urge thou with thy neighbour,
And <the secret of another> do not reveal:
10 Lest he that heareth expose' thee,
And ‖the report concerning thee‖ turn not away.[a]

11 <Golden fruit in figured silver baskets>
Is a word spoken on fitting occasion.

12 <A ring of gold, and a vessel of precious metal>
Is a wise reprover, on a hearing ear.

13 <As the cold of snow in the day of harvest>
Is a faithful messenger to them who send him,—
When <the life[b] of his masters> he restoreth.

14 <Clouds and wind, when rain there is none>
Is the man who boasteth himself of a pretended gift.[c]

15 <By long patience> is a judge persuaded,[d]
And ‖a soft tongue‖ breaketh the bone.

16 <Honey having found> eat to suffice thee,
Lest thou loathe it, and vomit it forth.

17 Withhold[e] thy foot from the house of thy neighbour,—
Lest he be weary of thee, and hate thee.

[a] Sep. here adds:—
"‖A son who watcheth a matter outside‖ shall belong to the place of destruction,
It will surely ‖receive‖ him.
‖Nothing false‖ <from the mouth of a king> should be uttered,
And ‖nothing false‖ <from his tongue> should go forth;
<A sword> is the tongue of a king, and not one of flesh,
And ‖he that is delivered up‖ shall be slain;
For <if his anger be kindled> with vigour will he destroy men,
And <bones of men> will he break,
And consume like an unquenchable flame,
So that he shall not become food for young eagles"
"Correct or honest"—O.G. —G.n.
Ml.: "heart." Cp. vi. 32, n.

[a] Sep. here adds:—
"But thou shalt be, on thy part, like death:
<Favour and love> will he freely give,
<The same> shalt thou keep to thyself,
Lest thou become a reproach;
But guard thou thy ways with uprightness."
—G.n.
[b] U.: "soul."
[c] Ml.: "a gift of falsehood."
[d] Cp. Lu. xviii. 5. [e] Ml.: "make rare."

18 <A hammer and a sword, and a sharpened arrow>
Is a man becoming a false witness against his neighbour.

19 <A broken tooth and a faltering foot>
Is confidence in the treacherous, in the day of danger.

20 <As splendour of dress on a cold day—vinegar upon nitre>
So is a singer with songs, unto a sad heart.

21 <If he that hateth thee hunger> give him bread to eat,
And <if he be thirsty> give him water to drink;
22 For <burning coals> shalt thou' be heaping[a] upon his head,—
And ‖Yahweh‖ will repay thee.

23 <‖A north wind‖ bringeth forth rain>
And ‖a face stirred with indignation‖ a secretive tongue.

24 <Better' to dwell on the corner of the roof>
Than a quarrelsome wife, and a house in common.[b]

25 <As cold water to a thirsty soul>
So is a good report from a far country.

26 <A fountain fouled, a spring spoiled>
Is a righteous man tottering before one who is lawless.

27 <To eat honey in abundance> is not good,
Nor is ‖searching out their own honour‖ an honourable thing.

28 <A city broken down without' a wall>
Is a man who hath no' control over his own spirit.

26 1 <As snow in summer, and as rain in harvest>
‖So‖ unbecoming to a dullard is honour.

2 <As a sparrow in wandering, as a swallow in flying>
‖So‖ |a causeless curse| shall not[c] alight.

3 <A whip for the horse, a bridle[d] for the ass>
And a rod for the back of dullards.

4 Do not answer a dullard, according to his folly,
Lest ‖even thou thyself‖ become like' him;
5 Answer a dullard, according to his folly,
Lest he become wise in his own eyes.

6 ‖One who cutteth off feet, one who drinketh down wrong‖,
Is he who sendeth a message[e] by the hand of a dullard.

7 <Useless' are[f] the legs of the lame>
And a proverb, in the mouth of a dullard.

8 <Like tying a stone to a sling>
‖So‖ is he that giveth honour |to a dullard|.

9 A brier cometh into the hand of a drunken-man,
A proverb into the mouth of dullards.

10 [As] an archer who woundeth every thing,
[So] one who hireth a dullard, and a drunkard crossing the sea.[a]

11 <As ‖a dog‖ returneth unto his own vomit>
‖A dullard‖ repeateth his folly.[b]

12 Thou hast seen a man wise in his own eyes,—
More hope of a dullard, than of him!

13 Saith the sluggard,
A roaring lion in the road!
A tearing lion in the midst of the broadways.

14 <‖The door‖ turneth on its hinges>
And ‖the sluggard‖ upon his bed.

15 The sluggard burieth his hand in the dish,
He is too lazy to bring it back to his mouth.

16 Wiser is the sluggard in his own eyes,
Than ‖seven persons‖ who can answer with judgment.

17 <As he who layeth hold of the ears of a dog>
Is a passer[c]-by, who giveth vent to his wrath over a quarrel |not his|.

18 <As a madman throwing firebrands, arrows and death>
19 ‖So‖ is a man who deceiveth his neighbour,
And saith, Was not ‖I‖ in sport?

20 <Without wood' a fire' is quenched>
And <where there is no' tattler> strife is hushed.

21 <Black coal to burning blocks, and wood to fire>
So is a contentious man, for kindling strife.

22 ‖The words of a tattler‖ are dainties,[d]
‖They‖ therefore go down into the chambers of the inner man.

23 <Dross silver overlaid upon earthenware>
So are burning lips, with a mischievous heart:
24 <With his lips>[e] the hater dissembleth,
But <within himself> he layeth up deceit:
25 <Though he make gracious his voice> do not trust him,
For ‖seven abominations‖ are in his heart:

[a] Ml.: "be snatching up [and putting]."
[b] Cp. chap. xxi. 9.
[c] So written: but read: "to him" "shall come"]. Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.): "to him." Others (w. 8 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep.): "not" ["shall not alight"]—G.n.
[d] Some cod. (w. 4 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Syr. and Vul.): "and a b."—G.n.
[e] Lit.: "words."
[f] Some render: "Take away"—Fuerst. Cp. T.G. and O.G.

[a] This rendering of a difficult verse (see A.V. and R.V.) is in part based on a correction by Dr. Ginsburg. He says that the letters shd be re-grouped, the letter sin also being changed to shin, so as to read weshikkōr 'owēr yām; and so Aram. and Syr.—G.n.
[b] Sep. here adds:—
"There is' a shame which bringeth sin,
And there is' a shame which is honourable and pleasing"—G.n.
[c] Gt.: the division of the verse shd be shifted thus:—
"<As one who layeth hold on the ears of a passing dog>
Is he who giveth vent to his wrath over a quarrel not his"—G.n.
[d] "Bits greedily swallowed"—O.G. 529[b]. Or: "are spoken with mysterious confidence"—Fuerst. Cp. chap. xviii. 8.
[e] So read; but written: "lip" (sing.) Some cod. (w. 6 ear. pr. edns.) both write and read: "lips" (pl.)—G.n.

26 Hatred may clothe itself with guile,
His wickedness shall be disclosed′ in the convocation.

27 ‖He that diggeth a pit‖ <thereinto> shall fall,
And ‖he that rolleth a stone‖ <upon himself> shall it return.

28 ‖A false tongue‖ hateth them who are crushed by it,
And ‖a flattering mouth‖ worketh occasion of stumbling.

27 1 Do not boast thyself of to-morrow,
For thou knowest not what a day′ may bring forth.

2 Let another praise′ thee, and not thine own mouth,
‖A stranger‖ and not thine own lips.

3 Heavy′ is a stone, and weighty′ is sand,—
But ‖the vexation of a fool‖ is heavier than both.

4 The cruelty of rage, and the overflow of anger!
But who′ can stand′ before ‖jealousy‖?

5 Better is a rebuke that is open,
Than love carefully concealed.

6 Faithful′ are the wounds of a friend,
But lavished′ are the kisses of an enemy.

7 ‖The surfeited soul‖ trampleth upon droppings from the comb,
But <to the hungry soul> ‖every bitter thing‖ is sweet.

8 <As a bird′ wandering from her nest>
‖So‖ is a man′ wandering from his place.

9 ‖Oil and perfume‖ rejoice the heart,
‖The sweetness of one's friend‖ more than fragrant wood.[a]

10 <Thine own friend and thy father's friend> do not thou forsake;
But <the house of thy brother> do not enter, in thy day of calamity,
Better a neighbour near, than a brother far off.

11 Be wise, my son, and rejoice my heart,
That I may answer him that reproacheth me in a matter.[b]

12 ‖A prudent man‖ seeth calamity—he hideth himself,
‖The simple‖ pass on—they suffer.[c]

13 Take a man's garment when he hath become pledge for a stranger,
Then <for a female unknown>[d] accept him as surety.[e]

14 <He that blesseth his friend, with a loud voice, in the morning early>
‖A reproach‖ shall it be reckoned to him.

15 ‖A continuous dripping on a day of downpour,
And a contentious wife‖ are alike:

16 ‖He that hideth her‖ hideth the wind,
And <perfume> his right hand may proclaim.

17 Let ‖iron‖ <by iron> become sharp,
And let ‖a man‖ sharpen the face of his friend.

18 ‖He that guardeth the fig-tree‖ shall eat the fruit thereof,
And ‖he that watcheth over his master‖[a] shall be honoured.

19 <As in water, face′ [answereth] to face′>
‖So‖ the heart of man′ to man′.

20 ‖Hades and destruction‖ are not satisfied,
And ‖the eyes of a man‖ are not satisfied.[b]

21 <Fining pot for silver, and crucible for gold>
And |a man| [is to be tried] by what he praiseth.[c d]

22 <Though thou pound a fool in a mortar, amidst grain, with a pestle>
His folly′ |will not depart from him|.

23 ‖Note well‖ the appearance of thy flock,
Apply thy mind[e] to thy herds;
24 For <not age-abiding> are riches,
Nor is the diadem, from generation to generation:—
25 The grass |is taken away|, and the young shoot |showeth itself|,
And the herbage of the mountains [is gathered|;
26 There are ‖lambs‖ for thy clothing,
And <for the price of thy field> there are |he-goats|;
27 With ‖enough goats-milk‖ for thy food—for the food of thy household,
And ‖a maintenance‖ for thy maidens.

28 1 ‖The lawless‖ fleeth when no′ man pursueth,
But ‖the righteous‖ <like a lion> are confident.

2 <For the transgressions of a land> many are the rulers thereof,
But <under an intelligent and discerning man> stability is prolonged.

3 <A poor man, who oppresseth the helpless>
[Is like] a rain beating down, leaving no′ food.

4 ‖They who forsake instruction‖ praise one who is lawless,
While ‖they who keep instruction‖ are at strife with them.

[a] So T.G., Fu., Davies. "Hearty counsel"—O.G.
[b] Note the recurrence of exhortation. Cp. xxii. 17-21.
[c] Gt.: "and suffer." Cp. chap. xxii. 3—G.n.
[d] Some cod. write: "persons unknown"; but read: "a woman unknown." Cp. chap. xx. 16—G.n.
[e] Cp. chap. xx. 16.

[a] Ml.: "masters"; but the "plural" may be that "of excellence."
[b] Sep., Syr. and Vul. here add:—
"<An abomination to Yahweh> is he that winketh with his eye,
They also who lack knowledge, yet restrain not their tongue." —G.n.
[c] Ml.: "by his praise." Gt.: "by his doings"—G.n.
[d] Sep., Syr. and Vul. here add:—
"‖The heart of the lawless‖ seeketh out wickedness,
But ‖the heart of the upright‖ seeketh out knowledge"—G.n.
[e] Ml.: "heart." Cp. vi. 32, n.

5 ‖Wicked men‖ consider not justice,
But ‖they who seek Yahweh‖ consider everything.

6 Better' a poor man walking in his integrity,[a]
Than one who is crooked—turning two ways, though ‖he‖ be rich.

7 ‖He that keepeth instruction‖ is a son with discernment,
But ‖a companion of squanderers‖ bringeth shame to his father.

8 ‖He that increaseth his substance by interest and profit‖,
<For one ready to favour the poor> doth gather it.

9 <He that turneth away his ear from hearing instruction>
‖Even his prayer‖ is an abomination.

10 ‖He that misguideth the upright into a hurtful way‖
<Into his own pit> ‖he himself‖ shall fall,
But ‖men of integrity‖[a] shall inherit good.

11 <Wise in his own eyes> is the man that is rich,
But ‖a poor man of discernment‖ searcheth him out.

12 <In the exulting of the righteous> there is great glorying,
But <when the lawless arise> a man must be sought' for.

13 ‖He that covereth his transgressions‖ shall not prosper,
But ‖he that confesseth and forsaketh‖ shall find compassion.

14 How happy the man who is ever circumspect,[b]
Whereas ‖he that hardeneth his heart‖ shall fall into calamity.

15 <A growling[c] lion, and a ranging bear>
Is a lawless ruler, over a poor people.

16 ‖A leader‖ may lack intelligence, yet abound in oppressions,
‖The hater[d] of greed‖ shall lengthen out days.

17 <A man oppressed with a person's blood>[e]
<Unto a pit> shall flee, let them not hold him back.[f]

18 ‖He that walketh with integrity‖ shall be saved,
But ‖he that is crooked, turning two ways‖ shall fall in one.[g]

19 ‖He that tilleth his ground‖ shall have plenty of bread,
But ‖he that pursueth empty-heads‖ shall have plenty of poverty.

20 ‖A man of fidelity‖ aboundeth in blessings,
But ‖one hasting to be rich‖ shall not be held innocent.

21 <To take note of faces [in judgment]> is not good,[a]
And <for a bit of bread> a man will transgress.

22 A man ‖hasting to be rich‖ hath an evil eye,
And knoweth not when want[b] may overtake him.

23 ‖He that reproveth a man‖ shall |afterwards| find more |favour|,
Than he that useth a flattering tongue.

24 <He that robbeth his father or his mother, and saith,
It is no transgression>
‖Companion‖ is he' to one who wasteth.

25 ‖The ambitious in soul‖ stirreth up strife,
But ‖he that trusteth in Yahweh‖ shall be enriched.

26 <He that trusteth his own heart> ‖the same‖ is a dullard,
But <he that walketh wisely> ‖the same‖ shall be delivered.

27 ‖One who giveth to the poor‖ shall have no' want,
But ‖he that hideth his eyes‖ shall receive many a curse.

28 <When lawless men rise> a common man will hide' himself,
But <when they perish> righteous men multiply'.

29 1 <He that being often reproved[c] stiffeneth his neck>
Suddenly' shall be hurt, and there be no' healing.

2 <When the righteous become great>[d] the people rejoice,
But <when a lawless man beareth rule>[e] a people sigh.

3 ‖A man who loveth wisdom‖ gladdeneth his father,
But ‖a companion of harlots‖ destroyeth wealth.

4 ‖A king‖ |by justice| shall establish a land,—
But ‖a man open to bribes‖[f] bringeth it to ruin.

5 ‖A man who flattereth his neighbour‖
Spreadeth ‖a net‖ over his steps.

[a] Or: "blamelessness."
[b] Or: "who hath holy dread continually."
[c] "Of a lion (while it is devouring its prey: opposite of roar, with which it springs upon it)"—O.G. 625[a].
[d] So read; but written: "haters."
[e] Ml.: "the blood of a soul."
[f] Sep. here adds:—
"Correct thy son, and he will love thee,
And will give delight (or delicacies) to thy soul,
Thou shalt not hearken to a lawless nation (or Gentile)"—G.n.
[g] Gt.: "shall fall into a pit"—G.n.

[a] Cp. chap. xxiv. 23.
[b] Some cod. (w. 4 ear. pr. edns., Sep.): "lovingkindness" [hesed for heger]"—G.n. In which case render:—"And shall not know when lovingkindness overtaketh him."
[c] Ml.: "a man of reproofs" ("who deserves them"—O.G.); ("a man who opposes in speaking," "who likes to speak against, positive in assertion"—T.G.).
[d] Or: "many."
[e] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "when lawless men (pl.) bear rule"—G.n.
[f] Ml.: "a man of presents."

6 <In the transgression of a wicked man> is a snare,
But ‖the righteous‖ doth shout in triumph and rejoice.

7 The righteous doth acknowledge' the plea of the poor,
But ‖the lawless‖ regardeth not knowledge.

8 ‖Men given to mockery‖ inflame a city,—
But ‖wise men‖ turn away anger.

9 ‖A wise man pleading with a foolish man‖
<Whether he rage or laugh> there is no' settlement.

10 ‖Blood-thirsty men‖ hate the blameless man,
And <as for the upright> they seek his life.[a]

11 <All his anger> doth a dullard' let go,
But ‖a wise man‖ <by keeping it back> stilleth it.

12 <When a ruler giveth heed to the word of falsehood>
‖All his attendants‖ become lawless.

13 ‖The poor man and the man of usury‖ meet together,
‖He that enlighteneth the eyes of them both‖ is Yahweh.

14 <When a king judgeth faithfully the poor>
‖His throne‖ |to futurity| shall be established.

15 ‖A rod with rebuke‖ giveth wisdom,
But ‖a youth unrestrained‖ bringeth shame to his mother.

16 <When the lawless become great> transgression' increaseth,
But ‖the righteous‖ shall behold |their ruin|.

17 Correct thy son, that he may give thee rest,
That he may give delight[b] to thy soul.

18 <Where there is no' vision> a people' is let loose,
But <he that keepeth instruction> how happy is he!

19 <By words> a servant' will not be corrected,
<Though he perceiveth> yet is there no' answer.

20 Thou hast seen a man hasty in his words,—
There is ‖more hope of a dullard‖ than of him.

21 ‖He that dealeth tenderly with his servant' from childhood‖,
<In his after life> shall have him for a son,[c]

22 ‖A man given to anger> stirreth up strife,
And ‖he that exceedeth in wrath‖[d] aboundeth in transgression.

23 ‖The loftiness of a man‖ layeth him low,—
But ‖one of a lowly spirit‖ shall attain unto honour.

24 ‖He that shareth with a thief‖ hateth himself,[a]
<An oath> he heareth, yet may not tell.[b]

25 ‖The fear of man‖ setteth a snare,
But ‖he that trusteth in Yahweh‖ shall be placed on high.[c]

26 ‖Many‖ seek the face of a ruler,
But <from Yahweh> is the sentence of each one.

27 <An abomination to the righteous> is the man of perversity.
And <an abomination to the lawless> is a man of straightforward way.

Sententious Sayings from the Stores of Agur and Lemuel (Chapters XXX. and XXXI. 1-9).

1 The words of Agur, son of Jakeh, [even] the oracle,[d]— 30
The utterance of the man, for Ithiel,
For Ithiel and Ucal.[e]
2 Surely <more brutish> am ‖I‖ than any man,
Nor doth ‖the understanding of a son of earth‖ pertain to me;
3 Neither have I learned wisdom,
Nor <the knowledge of the Holy Ones> can I acquire.

4 Who' hath ascended the heavens and then descended?
Who' hath gathered the wind into his two hands?
Who' hath wrapped up the waters in a mantle?
Who' hath set up all the ends of the earth?
What is his name and what the name of his son, when thou knowest?

5 Every saying of God is refined,
<A shield> is ‖he‖ to them[f] who seek refuge in him.
6 Do not add unto his words,
Lest he convict thee, and thou be found false.

7 <Two things> have I asked of thee,
Withhold them not from me, ere yet I die:
8 <Vanity and falsehood> remove far from me,
<Neither poverty nor riches> give me,
Feed me with the food appointed me:
9 Lest I be full, and deny,
And say— Who' is Yahweh?
Or lest I be impoverished and steal,
And do violence to[g] the Name of my God.

[a] U.: "soul."
[b] Or: "delicacies." Cp. chap. xxviii. 17, n.
[c] So some; others: "he will aspire to be a son," or "will become insolent." Meaning dubious—O.G.
[d] Or: "a master (Heb.: ba'al) of wrath." Cp. chap. xxii. 24.

[a] See Lev. vi. 1.
[b] Or: "of Jakeh of Massa." Cp. Gen. xxv. 14. Read probably: "my oracle"; or, "from Massa"—O.G. 429.
[c] Gt. (by regrouping letters, after "The utterance of the man"):—
"Oh that God were with me!
Oh that God were with me!"
Or else:
"I have wearied myself, O God,
I have wearied myself, O God, and am consumed"
—G.n. Cp. O.G. 87[a].
[d] Or: "his own life." U.: "soul."
[e] Or: "be made safe."
[f] Some cod.: "all them"—G.n.
[g] Or: "take hold of," "handle."

10 Do not slander a servant to his master,[a]
Lest he revile thee, and thou be found guilty.

11 A generation! <Its father> it revileth,
And <its mother> it doth not bless.
12 A generation! Pure in its own eyes,
Yet <from its filth> hath it not been bathed,
13 A generation! How lofty are its eyes,
And its eyelashes uplifted.
14 A generation! <Swords> are its teeth,
And <knives> its incisors,—
To devour the humbled[b] out of the earth,
And the needy, from among men.[c]

15 ‖The vampire‖ hath two daughters, Give! Give!
‖Three‖ there are' will not be satisfied,
‖Four‖ have not said, Enough!
16 Hades,
And barrenness,[d]—
A land not satisfied with water,
And fire, that saith not, Enough!

17 <The eye That mocketh a father,
And despiseth to obey a mother>
The ravens of the valley[e] shall pick it out,
And the young of the eagle shall eat it.

18 ‖Three‖ things there are', too difficult for me,
Yea ‖four‖ which I do not understand:
19 The way of an eagle in the heavens,
The way of a serpent on the rock,—
The way of a ship in the heart of the sea,
And the way of a man with a maid.
20 ‖So‖ is the way of a woman committing adultery,—
She eateth, and wipeth her mouth,
And saith, I have done no iniquity!

21 <Under three things> a land' is stirred,
Yea <under four> she cannot bear up:
22 Under a servant, when he reigneth,
And a base man, when he is surfeited with food;
23 Under a hateful woman, when she is married,
And a handmaid when she driveth out her mistress.

24 ‖Four‖ things there are', the small of the earth,—
Yet ‖they‖ are wiser than the wise:
25 The ants, a people |not strong|,—
Yet prepare they, in summer, their food;
26 The conies, a people of |no power|,
Yet set they, among the crags, their house;
27 <King> is there none' to ‖the locusts‖,—
Yet go forth in swarms, do they all;
28 ‖The lizard‖ |with hands| reneweth its hold,[f]—
Yet ‖the same‖ is in the palaces of the king.

29 ‖Three‖ things there are' which step along well,
Yea ‖four‖ which excel in going:
30 The lion, hero among beasts,
Which turneth aside from the face of no one;
31 The greyhound,[a] or the he-goat,—
And a king, having a band of soldiers[b] with him.

32 <If thou hast acted basely by lifting thyself up,—
If thou hast plotted evil> [put thy] hand to [thy] mouth!

33 Surely ‖the pressing of milk‖ bringeth forth curd,
And ‖the pressing of the nose‖ bringeth forth blood,
And ‖the pressing of wrath‖ bringeth forth strife.

1 The words of Lemuel the king,— 31
The strain[c] which was taught him by his mother:—

2 What, my son?
And what, the son of my womb?
Aye what, the son of my vows?
3 Do not give, to women, thy strength,
Nor thy ways, to them who ruin[d] kings.

4 It is not for kings, O Lemuel,
It is not for kings to drink wine,
Nor ‖for dignitaries‖ to desire strong drink,[e]
5 Lest he drink, and forget that which is decreed,
And alter the plea of any who are sorely oppressed.[f]
6 Give strong drink, to him that is perishing,
And wine, to such as are embittered in soul:
7 Let him drink, and forget his poverty,
And <his wearying toil> let him remember no more.

8 Open thy mouth for the dumb,
For the cause of all the children of the departed.[g]
9 Open thy mouth—judge righteously,—
And administer justice for the poor and the needy.

An Alphabetical[h] Poem in Praise of the Worthy Woman.

10 <A virtuous[i] woman> who can find? 31
For <far beyond corals> is her worth.
11 The heart of her husband |trusteth her|,
And <gain>[k] he shall not lack:
12 She doeth him good and not evil,
All the days of her life:

ECCLESIASTES;

OR, THE PROCLAIMER.

1 The words of the Proclaimer, son of David, king in Jerusalem.

2 Vanity of vanities! saith the Proclaimer,[a] vanity of vanities! ‖all‖ is vanity.

3 What profit hath Man,[b]—in all his toil wherewith he toileth under the sun? 4 ‖Generation‖ goeth and ‖generation‖ cometh, but ‖the earth‖ <unto times age-abiding> remaineth. 5 And the sun |breaketh forth|, and the sun |goeth in|,—yea <unto his own place> he panteth, from whence he' brake forth. 6 <Going unto the south, and circling unto the north,—circling, circling continually> is ‖the wind‖, and <over its own circuits> returneth the wind. 7 ‖All the streams‖ flow into the sea, yet ‖the sea‖ is not' full,— <unto the place whither the streams flow> ‖thither‖ do they again' flow. 8 ‖All words‖ are weak, unable' is any man to tell,—not[a] satisfied' is the eye by seeing, nor filled' is the ear with hearing. 9 ‖That which hath been‖ is the same that shall be, and ‖that which hath been done‖ is the same that shall be done,—and there is ‖nothing' new‖ under the sun. 10 Is' there a thing, of which it can be said, See here, it is ‖new‖? ‖Already‖ hath it been |for ages|, [it is something] which was before us. 11 There is |no' remembrance| of the things before,—nor <even of the things after, which shall be> will there be any remembrance, with them who shall come after.

12 ‖I, the Proclaimer‖ was king over Israel, in Jerusalem. 13 And I gave my heart to seek and to search out, |wisely|, concerning all things which are done under the heavens,[b]—‖the same‖ is the vexatious employment God hath given' to the sons of men to work toilsomely therein. 14 I saw all the works which were done under the sun,—and lo! ‖all‖ was vanity and a feeding on wind.[a] 15 ‖That which is crooked‖ cannot be straight,—and ‖that which is wanting‖ cannot be reckoned. 16 Spake ‖I‖, in[b] my heart, saying, <As for me> lo! I have become great and have gathered wisdom, beyond any one who hath been before me over[c] Jerusalem,—and ‖my heart‖ hath seen much wisdom and knowledge: 17 yea I have given my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness,[d] and folly,—I know that ‖even this‖ is a feeding on wind.[a] 18 For <in much wisdom> is much vexation,—and ‖he that increaseth knowledge‖ increaseth pain.

[b] Or: "the son of earth."

[a] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr.): "and not"—G.n.

2 1 Said ‖I‖, in my heart, Come now! I will prove thee with gladness and look thou on blessedness,—but lo! ‖even that‖ was vanity. 2 <Of laughter> I said, Madness! and <of mirth> What can it do? 3 I sought out with my heart,[e] to cherish[f] with wine my flesh,—but ‖my heart‖ was to guide with wisdom, even in laying hold of folly, until I should see which was blessedness for the sons of men as to that which they could do under the heavens,[g] during the number of the days of their life. 4 I enlarged my works,—I built me houses, I planted me vineyards; 5 I made me gardens and parks,[h]—I planted in them trees of every kind of fruit; 6 I made me pools of water,—to irrigate therefrom the thick-set saplings growing up into trees: 7 I acquired men-servants and women-servants, and ‖the children of the household‖ were mine,—also possessions, ‖herds and flocks in abundance‖ were mine, beyond all who had been before me in Jerusalem; 8 I heaped me up both silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings and provinces,—I provided me singing-men and singing-women, and the delights of the sons of men, a wife and wives.

9 So I became great and increased, more than any one who had been before me in Jerusalem, —moreover' ‖my wisdom‖ remained with me; 10 and <nothing that mine eyes asked> withheld I from them,—I did not keep back my heart from any gladness, for ‖my heart‖ obtained gladness out of all my toil, and so ‖this‖ was my portion out of all my toil. 11 <When ‖I‖ looked upon all my works which my hands' had made, and on my toil whereon I had toilsomely wrought> then lo! ‖all‖ was vanity and feeding on wind,[i] and there was no' profit under the sun. 12 Thus turned ‖I‖ to look at wisdom, and madness and folly,—for what can the man [do more] who cometh after the king? [save] that which ‖already‖ men have done.

13 Then saw ‖I‖, that wisdom' doth' excel folly,—as far as light' excelleth darkness'. 14 <As for the wise man> |his eyes| are in his head, whereas ‖the dullard‖ <in darkness> doth walk,—but ‖I myself‖ knew that ‖one destiny‖[a] happeneth to[b] them |all|. 15 Then said ‖I‖, in my heart, <As it happeneth to the dullard> ‖even to me‖ will it happen, but wherefore |then|[c] became ‖I‖ wise to excess? Therefore spake I, in my heart, ‖Even this‖ is vanity. 16 For there is no' remembrance of a wise man more than of a dullard, unto times age-abiding,—seeing that <already, in the days to come> all hath been forgotten, how then cometh it that the wise' man dieth' equally with the dullard'?

17 Therefore I hated life, for  was the work which was done under the sun,—for ‖all‖ was vanity and a feeding on wind.[d] 18 Therefore hated ‖I‖ all my toil wherein I' was toiling under the sun,—in that I should leave it for the man who should come after me; 19 and who' could know whether a <wise man> he would be or a foolish, and yet he would lord it over all my toil wherein I had toiled and wherein I had acted wisely under the sun,—‖even this‖ was vanity.

20 Then resolved I, to give my heart over to despair,—concerning all the toil, wherein I had toiled,[e] under the sun. 21 For here' is a man,[f] whose toil hath been with wisdom and with knowledge and with skill,—yet <to a man who hath not toiled therein> shall he leave it as his portion, ‖even this‖ was vanity and a great vexation. 22 For what hath the man for all his toil, and for the striving of his heart,—wherein ‖he himself‖ toiled under the sun? 23 For ‖all his days‖ are pains, and <vexatious> is his employment, <even in the night> his heart lieth not down,—‖even this‖ was |vanity|. 24 There was nothing more blessed for Man [than][g] that he should eat and drink, and see his desire[h] for blessedness in his toil,—<even this> saw ‖I myself‖, that <from the hand of God> it was. 25 For who could eat and who could enjoy, so well as I?[i] 26 For <to a man who is good before him> hath he given wisdom and knowledge and gladness,—whereas <to the sinner> he hath given employment, to gather and heap up, to give to one who is good before God, ‖even this‖ was vanity, and a feeding on wind.

3 1 For <every thing> there is a season,—
And a time for every pursuit under the heavens:—
2 A time to be born, and a time to die,—
A time to plant, and a time to uproot what is planted;
3 A time to kill, and a time to heal,—
A time to break down, and a time to build up;
4 A time to weep, and a time to laugh,—
A time to wail, and a time to dance for joy;
5 A time to cast away stones, and a time to heap up stones,—
A time to embrace, and a time to be far from loving embrace;
6 A time to seek, and a time to give up as lost,—
A time to keep, and a time to cast away;
7 A time to rend, and a time to sew,—
A time to be silent, and a time to speak;
8 A time to love, and a time to hate,—
A time of war, and a time of peace.
9 What profit hath he that worketh, in that wherein ‖himself‖ hath toiled? 10 I looked at the employment which God hath given to the sons of men to work therein: 11 <Everything> hath he made beautiful in its own time,—also <intelligence>[a] hath he put in their heart, without which men could not find out the work which God hath wrought from the beginning even unto the end. 12 I know that there is no blessedness in them,—save to be glad, and to do well with[b] one's life. 13 Though indeed <that any man should eat and drink, and see blessedness in all his toil> it is |the gift of God|. 14 I know, that <whatsoever God doeth> ‖the same‖ shall be age-abiding, <unto it> there is nothing' to add, and <from it> there is nothing to take away,—and ‖God‖ hath done it, that men should stand in awe before him. 15 ‖That which was‖ |already| had been, and ‖that which shall be‖ |already| shall have been,—but ‖God‖ seeketh that which hath been chased away.
16 Then |again| I saw under the sun,—‖the place of justice‖ that there' was lawlessness, and ‖the place of righteousness‖ that there' was lawlessness. 17 Said ‖I‖, in my heart, <Both the righteous and the lawless> will God judge,—for [there will be] a time for every pursuit, and concerning every work—‖there‖. 18 Said ‖I‖ in my heart, <as concerning the sons of men> That God was minded to prove them,—and that they might see that they were beasts ‖of themselves‖. 19 For <as regardeth the destiny of the sons of men and the destiny of beasts> ‖one fate‖ have they, <as dieth the one> ‖so‖ dieth the other, and <one spirit> have they all,—and ‖the pre-eminence of man over beast‖ is nothing, for ‖all‖ were vanity: 20 ‖all‖ go unto one place,—‖all‖ came from the dust, and ‖all‖ return to the dust.[a] 21 Who knoweth the spirit of the sons of men, whether it[b] |ascendeth| above,—or the spirit of the beast, whether it[b] |descendeth| below to the earth? 22 So I saw, that there was nothing better than that a man should be glad in his works, for ‖that‖ is his portion,—for who' can bring him in to look upon that which shall be after him?

4 1 Then again ‖I‖ considered all the oppressive deeds which were done under the sun,—and lo! the tears of the oppressed, and they have no' comforter, and <on the side of their oppressors> is power, and they have no' comforter. 2 So ‖I‖ pronounced happy' the dead who were ‖already‖ dead,—more than the living, who were living |still|; 3 and <as better than both> him who had not yet' come into being,—who had not seen the vexatious work, which was done under the sun.
4 Then saw ‖I‖ all the toil and all the skill of the work, that <for this> a man was envied of his neighbour,—‖even this‖ was vanity and a feeding on wind. 5 ‖The dullard‖ claspeth his hands, and consumeth his own flesh. 6 Better' a handful—with quietness,—than both hands full—with toil and feeding on wind.
7 Then again ‖I‖ looked at a vain thing under the sun:—8 Here' is one without a second, <even son or brother> he hath none, yet is there no' end to all his toil, ‖even his eye‖[c] is not satisfied with riches,—neither [saith he] <For whom> am I toiling and letting my soul want good? ‖Even this‖ was vanity, yea |a vexatious employment| it was! 9 Better' are two than one,—in that they have a good reward for their toil. 10 For <if the one should fall> [the other] would raise up his companion,—but alas! for him who is alone when he falleth, with no second to raise him up! 11 Moreover <if two lie together> then have they warmth,—but how can ‖one‖ have warmth? 12 And <though an enemy should prevail against one> ‖two‖ might make a stand before him,—and ‖a threefold cord‖ cannot soon be broken.
13 Better' a boy poor and wise,—than a king old and stupid,[d] who knoweth not how to take warning any longer. 14 For <out of prison> came he forth to reign,—yea' <even in his own kingdom> was he born poor.
15 I saw all the living, who were going hither and thither under the sun,—[that they were] with the boy who was to be the second, who was to stand in the other's place:—16 There was no end to all the people, to all before whom he came, yet' ‖they who should come later‖ would not rejoice in him,—surely ‖even this‖ was vanity, and a feeding on wind.

5 1 Keep thy foot,[a] when thou goest unto the house of God, and be more ready to hear, than dullards to offer sacrifice,—for they make no' acknowledgment of doing wrong. 2 Be not rash with thy mouth, and <with thy heart> be not in haste to bring forth a word, before God,—for ‖God‖ is in the heavens, and ‖thou‖ upon the earth, <for this cause> let thy words be few. 3 For a dream cometh through the multitude of business,—and ‖the voice of a dullard‖ is with a multitude of words. 4 <When thou vowest a vow unto God> do not defer to pay it, for there is no pleasure in dullards,—<what thou vowest> pay! 5 Better' that thou shouldest not vow,—than vow, and not pay. 6 Do not let thy mouth' cause thy flesh' to sin,—neither say thou, before the messenger,[b] that it was |a mistake|,—wherefore should God be indignant at thy voice, and destroy the work[c] of thy hands? 7 For [it was done] amidst a multitude of dreams, and vanities, and many words,—but <towards God> be thou reverent.

8 <If ‖the oppression of the poor, and the wresting of justice and righteousness‖ thou see in the province> do not be astonished over the matter,—for ‖one high above the highest‖[d] is watching, yea ‖the Most High‖ is over them. 9 And ‖the profit of the earth‖ is |for all|,—‖a king‖ <by the field> is served.

10 ‖He that loveth silver‖ shall not be satisfied with silver nor ‖he that loveth abundance‖ with revenue,—‖even this‖ was vanity.

11 <When blessings are increased> increased are the eaters thereof,—what profit, then, to the owner[e] of them saving the sight of his eyes?

12 Sweet' the sleep of the labourer, whether <little or much> he eat,—but ‖the surfeit of the rich man‖ will not' suffer him to sleep.

13 Here' was an incurable evil, I had seen under the sun,—riches kept by the owner thereof, to his hurt; 14 and those riches perish, by being ill employed,—and though he begetteth a son, yet is there in his hand nothing at all. 15 <As he came from his mother's womb> ‖naked‖ he again' departeth, as he came,—and <nothing> can he take of his toil, which he can carry in his hand. 16 ‖Even this‖ moreover, is an incurable evil, <altogether as he came> ‖so‖ shall he depart,—what profit then shall he have who toileth for the wind? 17 <Even all his days> [are spent] in darkness and mourning,[a]—and he is very morose, and is sad and angry.

18 Lo! what ‖I myself‖ have seen—Better' that it should be excellent to eat and to drink and to see blessedness, in all one's toil wherein one toileth under the sun, for the number of the days of his life, in that God hath given it him, for ‖that‖ is his portion: 19 yet' regardeth every man, to whom God hath given wealth and goods, and granted him power to eat thereof, and to take his portion, and to find gladness in his toil> ‖this‖ is [the gift of God]. 20 ‖Though it be not much‖ let him remember the days of his life,—for God beareth witness, by the gladness of his heart.

6 1 Here' was an evil,[b] I had seen under the sun, —and it is |common| among men:[c] 2 <A man to whom God giveth riches and gains and honour, so that nothing' doth he lack for his soul[d]—of all that he craveth> and yet God doth not give him power to eat thereof, but ‖a man unknown‖ eateth it,—‖this‖ was vanity, and <an incurable evil> it was'.

3 <Though a man should beget a hundred children, and live ‖many years‖ so that many' should be the days of his years, but his own soul ‖[d] should not be satisfied with the good, and he should not even have ‖a burial‖> I said, <Better than he> is an untimely birth! 4 For <in vain> it came in, and <in darkness> it departeth,—and <with darkness> |its name| is covered: 5 <even the sun> it never saw, nor aught did it know,—<more quietness> hath this' than the other.

6 <Even though one hath lived a thousand years twice told> yet <good> hath he not seen,—is it not <unto one place> that ‖all‖ are going?

7 ‖All the toil of man‖ is for his mouth,—though ‖even the desire‖[e] is not satisfied!

8 For what profit hath the wise man over the dullard? What can ‖the poor man‖ know'—so as to walk before the living?[f] 9 Better' the sight of the eyes than the wandering of desires,—‖even this‖ was vanity, and a feeding on wind.

10 <Whatsoever one may be> ‖long ago‖ was he called by his name, and it is known' that it is—Son of Earth,[g]—he cannot, therefore, contend with one stronger than he. 11 <Seeing there are' things in abundance which make vanity abound> what profit hath man? 12 For who knoweth what is good for a man throughout his life, for the number of the days of his life of vanity, seeing he will make them[h] like a shadow,—for who can tell a man, what shall be after him, under the sun?

7 1 Better' a name, than precious ointment,—
And the day of death, than the day of one's birth.

2 Better' to go to the house of mourning, than to go to the house of banqueting,
For ‖that‖ is the end of all men,—

16 Do not become so very' righteous, neither count thyself wise beyond measure,— wherefore' shouldst thou destroy thyself?
17 Do not be so very' lawless, neither become thou foolish,—wherefore' shouldst thou die, before thy time?
18 It is well' that thou shouldst lay fast hold of this, but <even from the other> do not withdraw thy hand,[b]—for ‖he that revereth God‖ shall come forth out of them all. 19 ‖Wisdom‖ bringeth more strength to a wise man, than ten heroes, that are in the city. 20 For <as for men> there is none righteous in the earth, that doeth good, and sinneth not.

21 Moreover <not to all the words which men speak> do thou apply thy heart,—lest thou hear thine own servant' reviling thee! 22 For truly <many times> thy heart knoweth,—that ‖even thou thyself‖ hast reviled others.

23 <All this> have I proved by wisdom,—I said, I will be wise, but ‖that‖ was far from me. 24 <Far away> is that which hath been,—and deep, deep,[a] who can find it out?
25 Resolved ‖I‖ in[b] my heart, to know and search out, and to seek wisdom, and a conclusion,[c]— and to know lawlessness [to be] stupidity, and folly to be madness.
26 ‖I‖ could' indeed find, to be <more bitter than death> the woman, whose heart'
is |snares and nets|, and her hands'
|bonds|,—‖whoso is pleasing before God‖ shall escape from her, but ‖he that sinneth‖ shall be captured by her. 27 See! <this> have I found, saith the Proclaimer [counting] one by one, to find a conclusion;[c] 28 <what my soul still sought> yet I found not,—<one man out of a thousand> have I found, but  have I not found.
29 ‖Only‖ see, <this> have I found,
That God made[d] man upright,—
But ‖they‖ have sought out many devices.[e]

8 1 Who' is really a wise man,
And who' knoweth the interpretation[f] of a thing?
‖The wisdom of a man‖ lighteth up his countenance,
But <by defiance of countenance> one is disfigured.
2 I [said],[g] <The bidding of the king> observe thou, even out of regard to the oath of God.
3 <Not rashly from his presence> shouldst thou go: do not[h] take thy stand in a vexatious thing,—for <whatsoever he pleaseth> he will do. 4 <Where the word of a king is> there is power,—who' then may say to him, What wouldst thou do? 5 ‖He that observeth the commandment‖ will not notice a vexatious thing,—and <of time and manner> will the heart of the wise take note. 6 For <to every pursuit> there is' a time and a manner,—when ‖the vexation[i] of man‖ is great concerning it.
7 For there is no' one who knoweth what shall be,—for <when it shall be> who will[k] tell him? 8 ‖No man‖ hath power over the spirit, to retain the spirit, and ‖none‖ hath power over the day of death, and there is no' furlough in war,—neither shall lawlessness deliver them who are given thereto. 9 <All this> had I seen, and tried to apply my heart to every work which was done under the sun,—at such time as one' man had power over another' man, to his hurt.

10 And ‖thereupon‖ I considered the lawless when buried, when they had entered [their graves], that <from the place of the Holy One> they used to go and boast[a] in the city that they had so' done,—‖even this‖ was vanity.

11 <Because sentence against a wicked work is not executed speedily — on this account> the heart of the sons of men is fully set within them, to commit wickedness. 12 <Though a sinner be committing wickedness a hundred times, and continuing long in his own way> yet I' surely know that it shall be well to them who revere God, who stand in awe before him; 13 but <well> shall it not be to the lawless man, neither shall he lengthen out his days like a shadow,—because he standeth not' in awe before God.

14 Here' was a vain thing which was done upon the earth—that there were' righteous men unto whom it happened' according to the work of the lawless, and there were' lawless men, unto whom it happened according to the work of the righteous,—I said, that ‖even this‖ was vanity.

15 Then extolled I, gladness, in that there was' nothing better for a man, under the sun, than to eat and to drink, and to be glad,—since ‖that‖ should tarry with him in his toil, for the days of his life which God had given him under the sun. 16 <When I gave my heart, to know wisdom, and to consider the business that was done upon the earth> then surely <by day and by night> there was one who suffered not his eyes ‖to sleep‖.[b] 17 Then I considered all the work of God, that man could not find out the work that was done under the sun, inasmuch as man toileth in seeking and yet cannot find,—yea' <even though the wise man should say he knoweth> yet can he not find it out.

9 1 For <unto all this> I applied my heart, and ‖my heart‖ considered[c] all this, that ‖the righteous and the wise and their servants‖ were in the hand of God,— <neither love nor hatred> could any man know, ‖every one‖[d] was before Him.[e] 2 ‖Every one‖ was like every one else, <one destiny> had the righteous and the lawless, the good and the pure and the impure, and he that sacrificed, and he that did not' sacrifice,— <as the good man> ‖so‖ the sinner, <he that took an oath> as he who <of an oath> stood in fear. 3 ‖This‖ was a misfortune in all that was done under the sun, that <one destiny> had they all,— yea also ‖the heart of the sons of men‖ was full of wickedness, and ‖madness‖ was in their heart, while they lived, and <after that> [they went] unto the dead. 4 For <whosoever was united[a] to all the living> ‖for him‖ there was hope,—inasmuch as ‖a living dog‖ fared better than a dead lion. 5 For ‖the living‖ knew that they should die,—but ‖the dead‖ knew not [anything], neither had they any longer a reward, because forgotten' was their memory. 6 ‖Both their love and their hatred and their envy‖ already' had perished,—and <portion> had they none any longer, unto times age-abiding, in aught that was done under the sun. 7 Go thy way—eat, with gladness, thy food, and drink, with a happy heart, thy wine,—when already' God is well pleased with thy works. 8 ‖Continually‖ let thy garments be white,—and <ointment upon thy head> let it not be lacking. 9 Enjoy[b] life, with thy wife whom thou lovest, all the days of thy life of vanity, which he hath given thee under the sun, all thy days of vanity,[c]—for ‖that‖ is thy portion in life, and in thy toil wherewith ‖thou‖ art toiling under the sun. 10 <Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do> <with thy might> do,—for there is no work nor calculation nor knowledge nor wisdom, in hades, whither ‖thou‖ art going.

11 I again' saw[d] under the sun, that not <to the swift> was the race, nor <to the strong> the battle, nay! nor <to the wise> food, nor <to the intelligent> riches, nor <even to the well-informed> comeliness,[e]—for ‖time and accident‖ happened to them all. 12 For, indeed, man could not know his own time. Like fishes which were caught in a cruel net, and like little birds which were caught in a trap, <like them> were ensnared the sons of men, by a time of misfortune, when it fell upon them suddenly.

13 <Even this> had I seen of wisdom, under the sun,—and <of great import> was the same unto me:—14 A little city, and men therein few,—and there came against it a great king, and surrounded it, and built against it large siege-works; 15 but there was found therein a man, poor [but][f] wise, and ‖he‖ delivered the city by his wisdom,—yet ‖no one‖ remembered that poor man. 16 Then said ‖I‖, Better is wisdom than strength,—although ‖the wisdom of the poor man‖ be despised, and his words‖ not heard. 17 ‖The words[g] of the wise <in quietness> are heard,—beyond the outcry of one who ruleth over dullards. 18 Better wisdom, than weapons of war,—but ‖one sinner‖ may destroy much good.

10 1 ‖Dead flies‖[a] cause to stink [and] ferment, the oil of the perfumer,—
<More costly[b] than wisdom or honour> is a little folly.

2 ‖The sense[c] of the wise‖ is on his right hand,—
But ‖the sense[c] of the dullard‖ on his left:
3 Yea <even by the way, as the foolish man walketh along> his sense[c] faileth him—and he telleth everyone that ‖foolish‖ is he!

4 <If ‖the spirit of a ruler‖ riseth up against thee> ‖thy place‖ do not leave,—for ‖gentleness‖ pacifieth such as have greatly erred.

5 Here' was a misfortune I had seen under the sun,—a veritable[d] mistake that was going forth from the presence of one who had power:
6 Folly placed in great dignity,—
While ‖the rich‖ <in a low place> took their seat:
7 I had seen |servants| upon horses,—
And |rulers| walking like servants, on the ground.

8 ‖He that diggeth a pit‖ <thereinto> may fall,—
And ‖he that breaketh through a hedge‖ there may bite him a serpent.
9 ‖He that removeth stones‖ may be hurt therewith,—
‖And he that cleaveth wood‖ may be endangered thereby.

10 <If |blunt| be the iron, and |himself| hath not sharpened |the edge|> then <much force> must he apply,—but <an advantage for giving success> is wisdom.[e]

11 <If a serpent will bite, unless he is charmed>
Then there is nothing' better for him that owneth a tongue.[f]
12 ‖The words of a wise man's mouth‖ are pleasant,—
But ‖the lips of a dullard‖ will swallow him up:
13 ‖The beginning of the words of his mouth‖ is folly,—
But ‖the latter end of his speech‖[g] is mischievous[h] madness.

14 Yet ‖a foolish man‖ multiplieth words,—
[Though] no man knoweth that which hath been,[i]
And <that which shall be after him> who can tell him?

15 ‖The toil of dullards‖ shall weary a man,[k]
That he knoweth not how to go into the city.

16 Alas! for thee, O land, when thy king is a boy,—
And ‖thy rulers‖ <in the morning> do eat:
17 How happy art thou, O land, when thy king is a son of nobles,—
And ‖thy rulers‖ <in season> do eat,
For strength, and not for debauchery.

18 <By two lazy arms> the framework sinketh in,[a]—
And <by the hanging down of the hands> the house' may leak.

19 Merrily people make bread,[b]
And ‖wine‖ gladdeneth life,—
But ‖money‖ answereth all things.

20 <Even in thy thought> do not revile |the king|,
Nor <within thy bed-chambers> revile thou the rich,—
For ‖a bird of the heavens‖ might carry the voice,
Yea ‖an owner of wings‖ might tell the matter.

11 1 Cast thy bread-corn, upon the face of the waters,—
For <after many days> shalt thou find it:
2 Give a portion to seven, yea even to eight,—
For thou canst not know, what there shall be of misfortune upon the earth.

3 <If the clouds be filled with a downpour>
<Upon the earth> will they empty themselves,
And <if a tree fall in the south or in the north>
<In the place where the tree falleth> ‖there will it be found.

4 ‖He that observeth the wind‖ will not sow,—
And ‖he that watcheth the clouds‖ will not reap.

5 <Just as thou knowest not what is the way of the spirit, when the body is in the womb of her that is with child>
‖Even so‖ canst thou not know the work of God, who maketh all.

6 <In the morning> sow thy seed,
And <until evening> do not withhold thy hand,—
For thou knowest not—
Whether shall thrive, either this or that,
Or whether ‖both alike‖ shall be fruitful.

7 Truly sweet' is the light,—
And <pleasant to the eyes> to see the sun:
8 But <though ‖many years‖ a man live>
|Through them all| let him rejoice;
Yet let him remember the days of darkness,
For many' they may be, ‖all that cometh‖ may be vanity.

9 Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth,
And let thy heart gladden thee in the days of thine early manhood,
And walk thou—
In the ways of thine own heart, *
And in that which is seen by thine own eyes,—
Yet know, that <for all these things>
Will God bring thee into judgment.
10 Therefore remove thou vexation from thy heart,
And put away discomfort from thy flesh,—
For ‖youth and dawn‖ are vanity!
12 1 Yet remember thy Creator,[a] in the days of thy vigour,—
Or ever come in, the days of discomfort,
And the years arrive, in which thou shalt say—
I have, in them, no' pleasure;
2 Or ever be darkened—
The sun, and the light, and the moon, and the stars,—
And the clouds return' after a downpour of rain;
3 In the day when the keepers of the house shall tremble,
And the men of might bow themselves,—
And the grinders cease because they are few,
And they who look through the windows[b] are darkened;
4 And the doors in the street be closed,
When the sound of the mill become low,—
And one rise at the chirp of a small bird,
And low-voiced be all the daughters of song;
5 Yea <at what is high> they be in fear,
And there be ‖terrors‖[c] in the way,
And the almond be rejected,[d]
And the grasshopper drag itself along,[e]
And desire perish,—
For man is going to his age-abiding home,
When the wailers shall go round in the streets;
6 Or ever the silver cord be loosed,[a]
Or the golden bowl be broken,—
Or the bucket by the fountain be shivered,
Or the wheel at the well be broken;
7 And the dust return' to the earth, as it was,—
And ‖the spirit‖ return unto God, who gave it.
8 Vanity of vanities, saith the Proclaimer, ‖all‖ is vanity.
9 <Besides that> the Proclaimer being wise,— still further taught knowledge unto the people, and weighed and searched, arranged proverbs in abundance.
10 The Proclaimer sought to find out words giving delight,
And to note down rightly, the words of truth.
11 ‖The words[b] of the wise‖ are as goads,
Yea <as driven nails> their well-ordered sayings,[c]—
Given from one shepherd.
12 ‖And besides‖ <from them> my son, be admonished,—
<Of making many books> there is no end,
And ‖much study‖[d] is a weariness of the flesh.
13 <The conclusion of the matter—the whole> let us hear,[e]—
<Towards God> be reverent,
And <his commandments> observe,
For ‖this‖ [concerneth] all mankind.
14 For <every work> will God bring into judgment,
With every hidden thing,—
Whether good, or evil.

THE SONG OF SONGS.

1 1 The Song of Songs, which pertaineth to Solomon.

[She.]
2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth!

[They.][a]
For better' are thy caresses than wine:
3 <Like the fragrance of thy precious oils>
<Oil poured out> is thy name,
<For this cause> virgins love thee.

[She.]
4 Draw me!

[They.]
<After thee> will we run!

[She.]
The king |hath brought me| into his chambers.

[They.]
We will exult and rejoice in thee,
We will mention thy caresses, beyond wine.
Sincerely' they love thee.

[She.]
5 <Swarthy> I am' but comely,
Ye daughters of Jerusalem.

[They.]
Like the tents of Kedar,
Like the curtains of Solomon.

[She.]
6 Do not look on me,
Because ‖I‖ am so swarthy,
Because the sun hath scorched' me,—
‖My mother's sons‖ were angry with me,
They set me to keep the vineyards,
<Mine own' vineyard> have I not kept. . . .
7 Tell me, thou loved of my soul!
Where' wilt thou pasture thy flock?
Where' wilt thou let them recline at noon?
For why' should I be as one that wrappeth a veil about her, by the flocks of thy companions?

[He.]
8 If thou know not of thyself,
Most beautiful among women!
Get thee forth in the footsteps of the flock,
And pasture thy kids by the huts of the shepherds. . . .

[a] Whether "His" companions, or "Hers"; or merely a "Chorus."

9 <To a mare of mine, in the chariots of Pharaoh>
Have I likened thee, my fair one!
10 Comely' are Thy cheeks, with bead-rows,
Thy neck, with strings of gems.

[They.]
11 <Rows of golden ornaments> will we make
thee,
With studs of silver.

[She.]
12 <By the time the king is in his circle>
‖My nard‖ will have given out its fragrance:
13 <A bag of myrrh> is my beloved to me,
<Between my breasts> shall it tarry the night!
14 <A cluster of henna> is my beloved to me,
In the vineyards of En-gedi.[a]

[He.]
15 Lo! thou art beautiful, my fair one,
Lo! thou art beautiful,
‖Thine eyes‖ [are] doves!

[She.]
16 Lo! thou art beautiful, my beloved,
Yea delightful!

[Both.]
Yea! ‖our couch‖ is covered with leaves:
17 ‖The beams of our house‖ are cedars,
‖Our fretted ceiling‖ is cypress-trees.

[She.]
2 1 I am The meadow-saffron[b] of Sharon,
The lily of the valleys.

[He.]
2 <As a lily among thorns>
‖So‖ is my fair one, among the daughters!

[She.]
3 <As an apple-tree[c] among the trees of the forest>
‖So‖ is my beloved, among the sons:
<In his shade> I greatly delighted and sat
down,
And ‖his fruit‖ was sweet to my taste.

[a] "On the western shore of the Dead Sea"—O.G.
[b] So O.G. (colchicum autumnale, Linn.) Cheyne: "narcissus" — Isa. xxxv. 1.
[c] "Apple." In Arabic . . . "not only a common one, but also the lemon, citron, etc."—T.S.

4 He hath brought me into the house of wine,
And ‖his banner[a] over me‖ is love.

5 Sustain me with raisin-cakes,
Refresh me with apples,—
For <sick with love> I am'.

6 <His left hand under my head>
Then ‖his right hand‖ embraceth me!

[He.]

7 I adjure you, ye daughters of Jerusalem,
By the gazelles or by the hinds of the field,—
That ye wake not, nor arouse, the dear love until she please!

[* * * *]

[She.]

8 The voice[b] of my beloved!
Lo! here he cometh,— Leaping over the mountains,
Skipping over the hills.

9 Resembleth, my beloved, a gazelle,
Or a young stag.—
Lo! here he is, standing behind our wall,
Looking in at the windows,
Peeping in at the lattice.

10 Responded my beloved, and said to me,—
Rise up! my fair—my beautiful—one,
And come away,

11 For lo ‖the winter‖ is past,—
‖The rain‖ is over, [and][c] gone;

12 ‖The flowers‖ have appeared in the earth,
‖The time of the spring-song‖[d] hath come,—
And ‖the voice of the turtle‖ is heard in our land;

13 ‖The fig-tree‖ hath spiced[e] her green figs,
And ‖the vines—all blossom‖ yield fragrance,—
Rise up! my fair—my beautiful—one,
And come away!

[He.]

14 O my dove!
<In the retreats of the crag,
In the hiding-place of the terrace>
Let me see thy form,
Let me hear thy voice,—
For ‖thy voice‖ is sweet,
And ‖thy form‖ comely.[f]

[Both.]

15 Take ye for us, the foxes,
‖The little foxes that are spoiling the vines‖,—
And ‖our vines‖ are all blossom!

[She.]

16 ‖My beloved‖ is |mine|,
And ‖I‖ am |his|,
He that pastureth among lilies!

17 <Until the day |breathe|
And the shadows |be lengthened|>
|Again| liken thyself, my beloved,
To a gazelle, or to a young stag,
Upon the cleft mountains.[a]

[* * * *]

[She.]

1 <Upon my couch, in the night-time> sought 3
I the beloved of my soul,—
I sought him, but found him not.

2 Come! I must arise, and go about in the city,
In the paths[b] and in the broadways,
I must seek the beloved of my soul,—
I sought him, but found him not.

3 The watchmen that go round in the city |found me|,
<The beloved of my soul> have ye seen?

4 <Scarcely had I passed from them>
When I found' the beloved of my soul,—
I caught him, and would not let him go,
Until that I had brought him into the house of my mother,
And into the chamber of her that conceived me.

[He.]

5 I adjure you, ye daughters of Jerusalem,
By the gazelles, or by the hinds of the field,—
That ye wake not, nor arouse, the dear love until she please.

[* * * *]

[They.]

6 Who' is this, coming up out of the wilderness,
Like pillars[c] of smoke,—
With perfume of myrrh, and frankincense,
Besides all the aromatic powder of the merchant?

7 Lo! his couch, 'tis Solomon's own,
‖Threescore heroes‖ around it,—
Of the heroes of Israel:
8 ‖All of them‖ grasping the sword,
Trained for war,—
‖Every man‖ with his sword upon his thigh,
Because of dread, in the night-time.

9 <A palanquin> King Solomon made himself,
Of the trees of Lebanon:
10 <The supports thereof> made he of silver,
<The couch[d] thereof> of gold,
<The seat thereof> of purple,—
‖The midst thereof‖ hath an inlay of love[e]
From the daughters of Jerusalem.

11 Go forth and gaze, ye daughters of Zion, upon King Solomon,—
Wearing the crown, wherewith his mother |crowned him|,
In the day of his marriage,[f] and
In the day of his heart' gladness.

4 1 Lo! thou art beautiful, my fair one,
Lo! thou art beautiful,
‖Thine eyes‖ are doves, from behind thy veil,—
‖Thy hair‖ is like a flock of goats, which are reclining on the sides of Mount Gilead:
2 ‖Thy teeth‖ are like a flock, evenly grown,[a] which have come up from the washing-place,— Whereof ‖all of them‖ are twin-bearers, and <bereaved>[b] is none' among them:
3 <Like a cord of crimson> are thy lips,
And ‖thy mouth‖ is lovely,—
<Like a slice of pomegranate> are thy temples, behind thy veil:
4 <Like the tower of David> is thy neck, built for war,[c]—
‖A thousand shields‖ hung thereon,
‖All‖ the equipment of heroes:
5 ‖Thy two breasts‖ are like two young roes, twins of a gazelle,—
Which pasture among lilies.

6 <Until the day |breathe|,
And the shadows |be lengthened|>
I will get me unto the mountain of myrrh,
And unto the hill of frankincense.

7 Thou art ‖all over‖ beautiful, my fair one,
And <blemish> is there none' in thee.

8 <With me, from Lebanon> O bride,
<With me, from Lebanon> shalt thou enter,—
Thou shalt look round[d] from the top of Amana,
From the top of Senir, and Hermon,
From the dens of lions,
From the mountains of leopards.

9 Thou hast encouraged me,[e] my sister, bride,—
Thou hast encouraged me,[e] with one [glance][f] of thine eyes,
With one ornament of thy neck.
10 How beautiful' are thy caresses, my sister, bride,—
How much more delightful' thy caresses, than wine,
And the fragrance of thine oils, than all spices:
11 <With sweetness> thy lips do drip, O bride,— ‖Honey and milk‖ are under thy tongue,
And ‖the fragrance of thy garments‖ is like the fragrance of Lebanon.

12 <A garden barred> is my sister, bride,—
A spring[g] barred, A fountain sealed:
13 ‖Thy buddings forth‖ are a paradise of pomegranates,
With precious fruits,—
Henna bushes, with nard blossoms:
14 Nard and saffron, sweet cane and cinnamon,
With all woods of frankincense,— Myrrh and aloes, with all the chiefs of spices:
15 A garden fountain, a well of living waters,—
And flowings from Lebanon.

[She.]

16 Awake, O north wind, and come in, thou south,
Fan my garden—its balsams |will flow out|,—
Let my beloved enter' his garden,
And eat his precious fruits.

[He.]

5 1 I have entered my garden, my sister, bride,
I have plucked my myrrh, with my balsam,
I have eaten the honey of my thicket,[a]
I have drunk my wine, with my milk:—
Eat ye, O friends,
Drink, yea drink abundantly, ye beloved!

[* * * *]

[She.]

2 ‖I‖ was sleeping, but ‖my heart‖ was awake,—
The voice[b] of my beloved—knocking!

Open to me, my sister, my fair one, my dove, my perfect one,
For ‖my head‖ is filled with dew,
‖My locks‖ with the moisture of the night.

3 I have put off my tunic, oh how' shall I put it on?
I have bathed my feet, oh how' shall I soil them?

4 ‖My beloved‖ thrust in his hand, at the window,[c]
And ‖my feelings‖ were deeply moved for him:[d]
5 ‖I myself‖ arose, to open to my beloved,—
And ‖my hands‖ dripped with myrrh,
And ‖my fingers‖ with myrrh distilling,
Upon the handles of the bolt.
6 ‖I myself‖ opened to my beloved,
But ‖my beloved‖ had turned away, had passed on,— ‖My soul‖ had gone out when he spake,
I sought him, but found him not,
I called him, but he answered not.

7 The watchmen who were going round in the city |found me|,
They smote me, wounded me,—
The watchmen of the walls |took away my cloak[e] from off me|.

8 I adjure you, ye daughters of Jerusalem,—
<If ye find my beloved> what will ye tell him?
That <sick with love> I am'.

[d] So cod. Hillel. Some cod. (w. 5 ear. pr. edns.): "for myself"—G.n.
[e] So T.G.; others: "veil."

[Daughters of Jerusalem.]
9 What is thy′ beloved more than any other′ beloved,
Thou most beautiful among women?
What is thy′ beloved more than any other′ beloved,
That <thus> thou hast adjured us?

[She.]
10 ‖My beloved‖ is white and ruddy,
Conspicuous beyond ten thousand:
11 ‖His head‖ is pure gold,—
‖His locks‖ are bushy,[a] black as a raven;
12 ‖His eyes‖ like doves, by the channels of water,—
Bathing in milk, set as gems in a ring:[b]
13 ‖His cheeks‖ like a raised bed[c] of balsam, Growing[d] plants of perfume,—
‖His lips‖ lilies, dripping with myrrh distilling:
14 ‖His hands‖[e] cylinders of gold, set with topaz,—
‖His body‖ wrought work of ivory, covered with sapphires:
15 ‖His legs‖ pillars of white marble, founded on sockets of gold,—
‖His form‖ like Lebanon, choice as cedars:
16 ‖His mouth‖ most sweet,
Yea |altogether| he is delightful,—
‖This‖ is my beloved,
Yea ‖this‖ is my dear one, ye daughters of Jerusalem.

[Daughters of Jerusalem.]
6 1 Whither′ hath thy beloved |gone|,
Thou most beautiful among women?
Whither′ hath thy beloved |turned him aside|?
That we may seek him with thee.

[She.]
2 ‖My beloved‖ is gone down to his garden,
To the beds of balsam,—
To pasture in the gardens,
And to gather lilies,
3 ‖I‖ am my beloved's,
And ‖my beloved‖ is mine,
He that pastureth among lilies.

[* * * *]

[He.]
4 |Beautiful| art thou, my fair one, as Tirzah,[f]
Comely, as Jerusalem,—
Majestic[g] as bannered hosts!
5 Turn away thine eyes from me,
For ‖they‖ have excited me,—
‖Thy hair‖ is like a flock of goats, that are reclining on the sides of Mount Gilead:
6 ‖Thy teeth‖ are like a flock of sheep which have come up from the washing-place,— Whereof ‖all of them‖ are twin-bearers, and <bereaved>[a] is there none′ among them:
7 <Like a slice of pomegranate> are thy temples, from behind thy veil:

8 ‖Threescore‖ are the queens,
And ‖fourscore‖ are the concubines,—
And ‖virgins‖ there are, without number.
9 ‖One alone‖ is my dove, my perfect one,
‖One alone‖ was she to her mother,
‖Pure‖ was she to her that bare her,—
The daughters |have seen her|, and pronounced her happy,
‖Queens and concubines‖ and they have praised her′.

[* * * *]

[They.]
10 Who′ is this, that looketh forth like the dawn,
Beautiful as the moon,
Pure as the sun,
Majestic[b] as bannered hosts?

[He.]
11 <To the garden of nuts> I went down,
To look at the fresh shoots of the ravine,[c]—
To see whether had burst forth the vine, had blossomed the pomegranate:—
12 I know not [how it was] |my soul| set for me the chariots of my willing people!

[* * * *]

[They.]
13 Return, return, O Shulamite,[d]
Return, return, that we may look on thee!

[She.]
What would ye look on in the Shulamite?

[They.]
As it were the dance of a double camp[e] . . .

7 1 |How beautiful| are thy feet in sandals, O daughter of a noble,—
‖The curvings of thy hips‖ are like ornaments wrought by the hands of a skilled workman:
2 ‖Thy navel‖ is a round bowl, may it not lack spiced wine!
‖Thy body‖ a heap of wheat fenced about with lilies;
3 ‖Thy two breasts‖ are like two young roes, the twins of a gazelle:
4 ‖Thy neck‖ is like a tower of ivory,—
‖Thine eyes‖ are pools in Heshbon, by the gate of Bath-rabbim,[f]

‖Thy nose‖ is like the tower of Lebanon, which looketh towards Damascus:
5 ‖Thy head upon thee‖ is like Carmel,
And ‖the hair of thy head‖ is like purple,——
‖The king‖ is held captive by the ringlets!

[He.]
6 |How beautiful, and how delightful| O dear
love, for delights:
7 ‖This thy stature‖ is like to a palm-tree,
And ‖thy breasts‖ are like clusters:
8 I said,
I will ascend the palm-tree,
I will lay hold of its fruit stalks—
Oh then, let thy breasts', I pray thee, be like vine'-clusters,
And ‖the fragrance of thy nose‖ like apples;
9 And ‖thy mouth‖ like good wine——

[She.]
Flowing to my beloved smoothly,
Gliding over the lips of the sleeping.
10 ‖I‖ am my beloved's,
And <unto me> is his longing.
11 Come, my beloved,
Let us go forth into the country,
Let us stay the night in the villages:
12 Let us get up early to the vineyards,
Let us see whether the vine |hath burst
forth|,
The blossom |hath opened|,
The pomegranates |have bloomed|,—
<There> will I give my caresses to thee.
13 ‖The love-apples‖ have given fragrance,
And <at our openings> are all precious things, new and yet old,— O my beloved! I have treasured them up for thee.

1 Oh that thou hadst been a very brother to
me,
Who had sucked the breasts of my own mother,—
<Had I found thee without> I had kissed
thee,
Yea' folk would not have despised me!
2 I would have guided thee—brought thee into the house of my mother,
Thou wouldst have instructed me,—
I would have let thee drink of spiced wine,
Of the pressed-out juice of my pomegranate.

3 <His left' hand under my head>
Then ‖his right hand‖ embraceth me.

[He.]
4 I adjure you, O ye daughters of Jerusalem,— Why will ye wake, and why will ye arouse the dear love until she please!

[* * * *]

[They.]
5 Who is this, coming up out of the wilderness,
Leaning upon her beloved?

[He.]
<Under the apple-tree> I roused thee,
Where thy mother |was in pain with thee|,
Where she' was in pain who gave thee birth!

[She.]
6 Set me as a seal upon thy heart,
As a seal upon thine arm,
For <mighty as death> is love,
<Exacting as hades> is jealousy,—
‖The flames thereof‖ are flames of fire,
The flash of Yah![a]
7 ‖Many waters‖ cannot quench love,
Nor shall ‖floods‖ overwhelm it,— <If a man would give all the substance of his house, for love>
They would ‖utterly despise‖ him.

[* * * *]

[They.]
8 <A sister> have we, a little one,
And ‖breasts‖ hath she none,—
What shall we do for our sister,
In the day when she may be spoken for?
9 <If |a wall| she is> we will build upon[b] it a battlement[c] of silver,— <But if ‖a door‖ she is> we will close it up with a plank of cedar.

[She.]
10 ‖I‖ was a wall, and ‖my breasts‖ like towers,— ‖Then‖ became I, in his eyes, one who did indeed find good content.
11 <A vineyard> had Solomon, as the owner of abundance,
He put out the vineyard to keepers,—
‖Every man‖ was to bring in, for the fruit thereof, a thousand silverlings:
12 ‖Mine own vineyard‖ is before me,—
The thousand belong to thee, O Solomon,
And two hundred to the keepers of the fruit
thereof.

[He.]
13 O thou fair dweller in the gardens,
‖The companions‖ are giving heed to thy voice,
Let me hear it.

[She.]
14 Come quickly, my beloved, and resemble thou
A gazelle, or a young stag,
Upon the mountains of balsam-trees.

The anxiety, however, on the part of the Sopherim not to describe Jehovah as the source of human love, and especially not to exhibit him in parallelism with Hades, has caused the Western redactors of the text to obliterate the name of God in the only place where the Divine Name occurs in this book"—Ibid. Accordingly the received Heb. text [one word = "intense flame"] is found in Western copies and in Ben-asher, but "the true reading" [two words] has been preserved in Eastern copies and in Ben-naphtali (w. the Hillel copy and 5 ear. pr. edns.)—Cp. THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET

ISAIAH.

§ 1. After a General Introduction, follows—a Solemn Indictment against Israel: sustained by Exhortation, Promise, and Threatening.

1 The vision of Isaiah, son of Amoz, which he saw, concerning Judah and Jerusalem,—in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah,—kings of Judah.

2 Hear, O heavens,
And give ear, O earth, for ‖Yahweh‖ hath spoken:—
<Sons> have I brought up, and advanced,
And ‖they‖ have rebelled against me.

3 An ox' |knoweth| his owner',
And an ass' his master's crib',—
‖Israel‖ doth not know,
‖My people‖[a] doth not consider.

4 Alas! a nation—committing sin,
a people—burdened with iniquity,
a seed—practising wickedness,
sons—acting corruptly.
They have forsaken Yahweh, despised the Holy One of Israel,—
Are estranged and gone back.

5 Why should ye be smitten any more?
Ye would again' turn aside!
The whole head is sick,
And the whole heart faint:

6 <From the sole of the foot, even unto the head> there is in it no soundness,
Bruise and stripe and newly-made wound,—
They have not been pressed out, nor bound up,
nor soothed with oil.

7 Your country—is a desolation,
Your cities[b]—are consumed with fire,—
Your soil — <right before your eyes> |foreigners| are devouring it,
And it is a desolation, a very overthrow by foreigners;[c]

8 And left' is the Daughter of Zion,
Like a hut in a vineyard,—
Like a lodge in a gourd-plot,
Like a city besieged.

9 <If ‖Yahweh of hosts‖ had not left as a very small remnant> <Like Sodom> had we become,
<Gomorrah>[d] had we resembled.

10 Hear the word of Yahweh, ye rulers of Sodom,—
Give ear to the instruction of our God, ye people of Gomorrah:—

11 ‖Of what use to me‖ is your multitude of sacrifices? Saith Yahweh:
I am sated with ascending-offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts,—
<In the blood of bulls and young rams and he-goats> have I no pleasure.

12 <When ye enter to see my face>[a]
Who hath required this at your hand, trampling my courts?

13 Ye shall not again' bring in an empty' present,
‖Incense‖ <an abomination> is that' unto me!
New moon, and sabbath, calling an assembly—
I cannot endure ‖iniquity and sacred festival‖!

14 <Your new moons, and your appointed feasts> my soul |hateth|,—
They have become unto me a burden I am too weary to bear:

15 <Even when ye spread forth your open palms>
I hide mine eyes from you;
Yea <though ye multiply' prayers>
I am not hearkening,—
‖Your hands‖ <with deeds of blood> are filled.

16 Wash you, make you clean,
Put away the wickedness of your doings from before mine eyes,—
Cease to do evil.

17 Learn to do well—
Seek justice,
Correct the oppressor,[b]—
Vindicate the fatherless,
Plead the cause of the widow.

18 Come, I pray you, and let us settle the dispute,[c] Saith Yahweh,— <Though your sins be found like scarlet>
<As snow> shall they be made white,
<Though[d] they appear red like crimson>
<As wool> shall they become.

[b] Some cod. (w. Syr.): "And your c."—G.n.
[c] Or: "A veritable foreign' overthrow."

<If ye be willing—and hearken>
<Of the good of the land> shall ye eat;
But <if ye refuse and rebel>
<With the sword> shall ye be devoured,
For ‖the mouth of Yahweh‖ hath spoken it.

How' hath she become unchaste!—
The city that was Faithful,—
Full of justice, Righteousness lodged in her,
But ‖now‖ murderers!

‖Thy silver‖ hath become dross,—
‖Thy wine‖[a] weakened with water;
‖Thy rulers‖ are unruly,[b] and companions of thieves,
‖Every one of the people‖[c] loveth a bribe, and runneth after rewards,—
<The fatherless> they do not vindicate,
And ‖the plea of the widow‖ reacheth them not.

‖Therefore‖
Declareth the Lord, Yahweh of hosts,
The Mighty One of Israel,—
Alas! I must appease me on mine adversaries,
I must avenge me on mine enemies;
That I may turn my hand against thee,
And smelt away, as with potash,[d] thy dross,
And remove all thine alloy;
That I may restore thy Judges, as at the first, and thy Counsellors, as at the beginning,— <After that> shalt thou be called Righteous' citadel,
Trusty' city,—
‖Zion‖ |with justice| shall be redeemed,—
And ‖her returning ones‖ |with righteousness|;
And ‖the downfall of transgressors and sinners‖ shall be |together|,—
And ‖they who forsake Yahweh‖ shall be brought to an end;
For they shall turn pale on account of the oaks' which ye desired,—
And ye shall blush on account of the gardens' which ye had chosen;
For ye shall be as an oak with its leaf[e] faded,
And as a garden' that hath no' ‖water‖;
Then shall the strong' one become tow',
And his work' a spark',—
And they shall both blaze together,
And there be none' to quench the fire.

§ 2. A complete Vision concerning Judah and Jerusalem, in which Sin and Punishment and ultimate Cleansing and Glory are vividly portrayed: the whole prefaced by an extract from the prophet Micah (iv. 1–3).

1 That[a] which Isaiah, son of Amoz, saw in vision,—concerning Judah and Jerusalem. 2

2 But it shall come to pass, |in the afterpart of the days|,
That the mountain of the house of Yahweh
Shall be |set up| as the head of the mountains,
And be exalted above the hills,—
And all the nations |shall stream[b] thereunto|;
3 And many peoples shall go, and say—
Come ye, and let us ascend
Unto the mountain of Yahweh,
Unto[c] the house of the God of Jacob,
That he may teach us of his ways,
And we may walk in his paths,—
For <out of Zion> shall go forth a law,
And the word of Yahweh out of Jerusalem;
4 And he will judge between the nations,
And be umpire to many peoples,—
And they will beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks,
‖Nation[d]—against nation‖ shall not lift up sword,
Neither shall they learn any more to make war.

5 O house of Jacob! come ye, and let us walk in the light of Yahweh.

6 Therefore'[e] hast thou abandoned thy people, the house of Jacob,
Because' they have become full of the East,
And use hidden arts, like the Philistines,—
And <with the children of foreigners> strike hands;—
7 So that filled' is their land with silver and gold,
And there is no end to their treasures,—
And filled' is their land with horses,
And there is no end to their chariots;
8 And filled' is their land with idols,—
<To the work of their own hands> do they bow themselves down,
To that which they made with their own fingers.
9 So the mean man boweth down,
And the great man stoopeth low,[f]—
Therefore do not thou forgive them!

10 Enter into the rock,
Or hide thee in the dust,—
Because of the terribleness of Yahweh,
And for his majestic' splendour.[a]

11 ‖The lofty looks of mean men‖ shall be humbled,
And |the haughtiness of great men| shall be bowed down,—
And Yahweh alone' shall be exalted' ‖in that day‖.[b]

12 For ‖a day of Yahweh of hosts‖ [shall be]— Upon every one who is high and lofty,—
And upon every one who is lifted up,
And he shall be brought low;

13 And upon all cedars of Lebanon, that are high and lifted up,—
And upon all the oaks of Bashan;

14 And upon all the lofty mountains,—
And upon all the uplifted' hills;

15 And upon every high tower,—
And upon every fortress wall;

16 And upon all the ships of Tarshish,—
And upon all desirable' banners.

17 And the haughtiness of mean men |shall be humbled|,—
And the loftiness of great men |shall be laid low|,—
And Yahweh alone' shall be exalted' ‖in that day‖.[c]

18 And ‖the idols‖ shall wholly' pass away;

19 And they shall enter into the holes of the rocks, and into the caves of clay,[d]—
Because of the terribleness of Yahweh,
And for his majestic' splendour,[e]
When he ariseth to shake terribly the earth.

20 ‖In that day‖ shall the son of earth cast his idols of silver, and his idols of gold,—which had been made for him to worship, into the hole of the mice, and to the bats;

21 That he may enter into the clefts of the rocks, and into the fissures of the crags,—
Because of the terribleness of Yahweh,
And for his majestic' splendour,
When he ariseth to shake terribly the earth.[f]

22 Cease ye from the son of earth,
In whose nostrils is but a breath,—
For <wherein' to be reckoned' upon> is |he|?

3 1 For lo! ‖the Lord, Yahweh of hosts‖ removing from Jerusalem and from Judah,
The stay and staff,—
The whole stay of bread,
And the whole stay of water:

2 Man of might, and man of war,—
Judge and prophet,
And diviner and elder;

3 Captain of fifty, and favourite;[a]
And counsellor, and skilled artificer,[b]
And master of magical formulas;

4 And I will appoint |boys| to be their princes,—
And ‖petulant children‖[c] shall rule over them.

5 And the people |will tyrannise|
Every man over his fellow-man,
And every man over his friend,—
And they will rage
|The boy| against |the elder|,
And |the despised| against |the honourable|.

6 <When a man |shall lay hold| on his brother, of the house of his father, [saying]—
‖Clothing‖ hast thou',
Become thou our ‖ruler‖,—
‖This downfall‖ be under thy hand>

7 He will swear,[d] in that day, saying—
I will take no control,
When <in mine own house> is neither food nor clothing,—
Ye must not set me' for a ruler of people!

8 For stumbled' hath Jerusalem, and ‖Judah‖ hath fallen,— Because ‖their tongue and their doings‖ are against Yahweh, Provoking his glorious' presence.[e]

9 ‖The show of their face‖[f] hath answered[g] against them,
And <their sin—like Sodom> have they told, they have not concealed it.
Alas for their souls!
For they have requited to themselves |calamity|.

10 Say ye to the righteous, It is well!
For <the fruit of their doings> shall they eat:

11 Alas! <for the lawless> it is ill,
For ‖what his own hand hath matured‖ shall be done to him.

12 My people! |children| are their tyrants,[h]
And ‖women‖ rule over them,—
My people! ‖they who should lead thee forward‖ are causing thee to stray, <Thy pathways> have they destroyed.[i]

13 Yahweh |hath taken his station to plead|,—
And is standing to judge peoples:

14 ‖Yahweh‖ |into judgment| will enter,
With the elders of his people,
And their princes,[k]—
But ‖ye‖ have consumed the vineyard,
‖That which hath been robbed from the oppressed‖ is in your houses.

[i] Ml.: "swallowed up."
[k] Or: "generals."

What right have ye to crush[a] my people,
And <the faces of the oppressed> to grind?
Demandeth My Lord, Yahweh[b] of hosts—

And Yahweh saith—

<Because haughty' are the daughters of Zion,
And they walk with neck thrown back, and wanton eyes,—
Tripping along as they go,
And <with their feet> making a tinkling sound>[c]
Therefore will My Lord[d] |smite with leprosy| the crown of hair of the daughters of Zion,—
And ‖as for Yahweh‖ <their shame> will he lay bare!
<In that day> will My Lord[d] remove the finery—of the anklets, and the little suns, and the little moons; [19] the pendants, and the bracelets, and the veils; [20] the chaplets, and the armlets, and the girdles, and the scent-cases, and the amulets; [21] the rings, and the nose-jewels; [22] the robes, and the over-tunics, and the cloaks, and the purses; and the mirrors, and the linen wraps, and the tiaras, and the cloaks.
And it shall come to pass—
That <instead of fragrance> |a putrid odour| shall be,
And <instead of a girdle> an encircling rope,
And <instead of braided hair> baldness,
And <instead of a festal robe> a girding of sackcloth,
Branding instead of beauty:
‖Thy males‖ |by the sword shall fall|,—
And ‖thy mighty men‖[e] |by the war|;
And her gates shall mourn and lament,—
And <forsaken> <on the ground> shall she sit.
And seven women will take hold of one man, in that day, saying,
<Our own bread> will we eat,
And <our own apparel> will we wear,—
‖Only‖ let us be called by thy name, to take away our reproach.

<In that day>
Shall |the Bud of Yahweh| become beautiful and glorious,—
And |the Fruit of the Land| splendid and majestic,
To the escaped of Israel.
And it shall come to pass—
‖He that is left in Zion‖
And ‖he that remaineth in Jerusalem‖
Shall be called ‖holy‖,— ‖Everyone written unto life, in Jerusalem‖.

4 <When My Lord[a] shall have bathed away the filth of the daughters of Zion,
And <the blood-guiltiness[b] of Jerusalem> he shall wash away out of her midst,—
By the spirit of judgment, and
By the spirit of thorough cleansing>
5 Then will Yahweh |create|—
<Over all the home[c] of Mount Zion and Over her assembly>[d]
A cloud by day, and a smoke,
And the shining of a fire-flame, by night,—
For <over all the glory> shall be a canopy;
6 And  shall there be
For a shade by day, from the heat.—and
For a refuge, and for a shelter, from storm and from rain.

§ 3. The Parabolic Song of the Vineyard, Explained and Applied, with a six-fold Lament ("Alas!") and a Refrain; followed by a Prediction of Invasion.

1 Let me sing, I pray you, for a well-beloved of mine, 5
The song of my beloved, concerning his vineyard:—

<A vineyard> had my well-beloved, on a very fruitful hill;
2 And he thoroughly digged it,
And gathered out the stones thereof,
And planted it with a precious vine,
And built a tower in the midst thereof,
|Moreover also|  hewed he therein,—
Then waited he, that it should bring forth grapes.
And it brought forth wild' grapes:[e]

3 ‖Now‖ therefore, O inhabitant of Jerusalem,
And men of Judah,—
Judge, I pray you, betwixt me, and my vineyard:—
4 What could have been done further' to my vineyard,
That I had not done in[f] it?
Why' then—
<When I had waited that it should bring forth grapes'>
Brought it forth wild' grapes?

5 ‖Now‖ therefore, I pray you, let me tell |you| what I' am about to do to my vineyard,—
To take away the fence thereof,
And it shall be eaten up,
To destroy the wall thereof,
And it shall be trodden down;
6 And I will make it a waste;—

It shall be neither pruned nor hoed,
But there shall come up briars and thorns,—
And <upon the clouds> will I lay a charge,
That they rain thereon no rain.

7 Surely ‖the vineyard of Yahweh of hosts‖ is the house of Israel,
And ‖the men of Judah‖ are the plantation in which he dearly delighted,—
And he waited
For |equity| but lo! ‖murderous iniquity‖,
For the rule of right, but lo! ‖the cry of the wronged‖.[a]

8 Alas! for them who join house to house, <Field to field> bring they near,—
Until there is no room,
But ye are left to dwell alone' in the midst of the land.

9 <In mine ears> [said] Yahweh of hosts,—
Verily ‖houses in abundance‖ shall become |a desolation|,
Large and fair, without inhabitant;

10 For ‖ten yokes of vineyard‖ shall yield |one bath|,[b]—
And ‖the seed of a homer‖[c] shall yield an ephah.[d]

11 Alas! for them who rise early in the morning that  they may pursue,—
Who follow on in the evening cool, [until] |with wine| they are heated;

12 And it cometh to pass—that lyre and harp,[e] timbrel and flute, and wine, are in their banquets,—
But <the doing of Yahweh> they do not discern,
And <the work of his hands> have they not seen.

13 ‖Therefore‖ are my people taken away captive, before they know it,—
And ‖their honourable men‖ are famished with hunger,
And ‖their multitude‖ do gape for thirst.

14 ‖Therefore‖ hath hades enlarged' her desire,[f]
And opened her mouth to its widest,—
And their glory, and their multitude, and their pomp, and he that is uproarious, |shall descend| thereinto.

15 And the mean man hath been bowed down,
And the mighty man hath been humbled,—
Yea ‖the looks of the haughty‖ shall be humbled.[g]

16 But Yahweh of hosts |hath been exalted| in justice,—
And ‖the GOD that is holy‖ hath been hallowed in righteousness;

17 Then shall the young rams feed' where they please,—
And <the wastes of the wealthy> shall strangers' consume.

18 Alas! for them
Who draw on themselves punishment, with cords of falsehood,—
And <as with waggon-bands> |penalty|:

19 Who say—
Let his work quicken'—let it hasten',
That we may see,—
And let the purpose of Israel's Holy One |draw near and come|,
That we may know!

20 Alas! for them
Who call evil good, and good evil,—
Who put darkness for light, and light for darkness,
Who put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter.

21 Alas! for them
Who are wise in their own eyes,—
And <in their own sight> are prudent.

22 Alas! for them
Who are heroes, to drink wine,—
And men of valour, to mingle[a] strong drink,

23 Who justify the lawless, for a bribe,—
Whereas <the righteousness of the righteous> they take from him.[b]

24 ‖Therefore‖
<As a tongue of fire |eateth up straw|,
And a flame reduceth ‖dry grass‖ to powder>[c]
‖Their root‖ |like rottenness| shall become,
And ‖their blossom‖ |like dust| shall ascend,—
Because they refused the law[d] of Yahweh of hosts,
And <the utterance of the Holy One of Israel> they despised.

25 ‖For this cause‖ did the anger of Yahweh kindle' upon |his own people|,
And he stretched out his hand against them and smote them—
So that the mountains |trembled|,
And |their dead bodies| served |for fuel|[e] in the midst of the streets.

<For all this> hath his anger |not turned back|,
But <still> is his hand outstretched.[f]

26 Therefore will he lift up an ensign to the nations afar off,
And signal[g] for him from the end of the earth,—
And lo! <with hot haste> will he come:

§ 4. By a Vision in the Temple, Isaiah is called and qualified for his Prophetic Mission; and prepared to wait long for good Success.

6 1 <In the year that King Uzziah died> I saw My Lord,[c] sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and ‖his skirts‖ did fill the temple.[d] 2 ‖Seraphim‖ were standing above him; <six wings severally> had each one,—
<With twain> he covered his face',
And <with twain> he covered his feet',
And <with twain> he did fly.
3 And they continued crying out one to another,[c]
and said,
Holy—holy—holy, is Yahweh of hosts,—
‖The fulness of the whole earth‖ is his glory.
4 And the foundations of the porch[f] |were moved| at the voice of him that cried,—and ‖the house‖ was filled with smoke. 5 Then said I—Woe to me!—for I am undone,
Because  am |I|,
And <in the midst of a people of unclean lips> do I' dwell,—
For <the King, Yahweh of hosts> have mine eyes seen!
6 Then flew unto me, one of the seraphim,
And <in his hand> a live coal,[g]—
<With tongs> had he taken it from off the altar.
7 Then touched he my mouth, and said—
Lo! this hath touched thy lips,—
Thus shall be taken away, thine iniquity,
And ‖thy sin‖ by propitiation be covered.
8 Then heard I the voice of My Lord,[c] saying,
Whom' shall I send?
And who' will go for us?
And I said—
Here am I'—send me'.
9 Then said he—
Go and say unto this people,—
Hear on, but do not discern,
See on, but do not perceive:
10 Stupefy thou the heart of this people,
And <their ears> make thou heavy,
And <their eyes> overspread,[a]—
Lest they see with their eyes,
And <with their ears> should hear,
And ‖their[b] heart‖ should discern and come back,
And they be healed.
11 Then said I—
How long, My Lord?[c]
And he said—
Until the time that Cities be wasted through having no inhabitant,
And houses—through having no men,
And ‖the ground‖ be laid waste unto desolation;
12 And Yahweh have far removed' men,—
And great' be the abandonment in the midst of the land.
13 Yet still' shall there be in it a tenth,
Though it again' be consumed,—
Like an oak and like a terebinth,
Which <when felled> have a stock in them,[d]
‖A holy seed‖ shall be the stock thereof.

§ 5. Isaiah's first Message to King Ahaz: "Courage!"

7 1 And it came to pass <in the days of Ahaz son of Jotham son of Uzziah, king of Judah> that Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah
king of Israel, |came up| to Jerusalem, to war against it,—but could not prevail against it.
2 And it was told the house of David,[c] saying,
Syria hath settled down upon Ephraim.
Then shook his heart, and the heart of his people, as the trees of a forest shake' before a wind. 3 Then said Yahweh, unto Isaiah, Go forth, I pray thee, to meet Ahaz, ‖thou, and Shear-jashub[f] thy son‖,—unto the end of the channel of the upper pool, unto the highway of the fuller's field; 4 and say unto him—
Take heed and keep thyself calm—do not fear, neither let ‖thy heart‖ be faint, because of these two fag-ends of smoking firebrands,—in spite of[g] the glow of the anger of Rezin and Syria, and the son of Remaliah.

[a] Some authorities have: "And he." Cp. G.n.

5 <Because Syria |hath taken counsel| against thee, for mischief, — [with] Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, saying,

6 Let us go up against Judah, and besiege it, and break it open, for ourselves,—and set up a king in the midst thereof, even the son of Tabeal>

7 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,[a]—
It shall not stand,
Neither shall it come to pass!

8 For <though the head of Syria' is Damascus,
And the head of Damascus is Rezin>
Yet <within threescore and five years more'> shall Ephraim be broken, that it shall not be a people;

9 ‖Even though |the head of Ephraim| is Samaria,
And |the head of Samaria| is the son of Remaliah‖.
<If ye trust not>
Surely ye cannot be trusted![b]

§ 6. Isaiah's second Message to King Ahaz: "Ask a Sign!"

10 And again' spake Yahweh unto Ahaz, saying—

11 Ask thee a sign, of Yahweh thy God,—
Go down deep for a request,
Or ascend on high![c]

12 But Ahaz said,—
I will not ask,
Nor will I put Yahweh to the proof.

13 Then said he—
Hear, I pray you, O house of David!
Is it ‖too little‖ for you to weary |men|, that ye must weary ‖even my God‖?

14 Wherefore' let[d] My Lord[e] Himself give' you a sign,—
Lo! ‖a Virgin‖[f] <being with child and giving birth to a son> thou[g] wilt call his name Immanuel.[h]

15 <Curds and honey> shall he eat, by the time that he knoweth to refuse the bad and choose the good; 16 for <before the boy knoweth to refuse the bad and choose the good> forsaken' shall be the land,[a] at which ‖thou‖ art alarmed, of the presence of both her kings.

17 Yahweh will bring' upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon the house of thy father, days which have not come, from the day when Ephraim departed from Judah,—|even the king of Assyria|.

18 And it shall come to pass |in that day| that Yahweh will give a signal—
To the fly that is in the uttermost part of the Nile-canals of Egypt,
And to the bee that is in the land of Assyria.

19 And they shall all of them |come and settle down|—
In the desolate torrent-valleys,
And in the rents of the crags,—
And on all the thorn-bushes,
And on all the pastures.[b]

20 <In that day> will My Lord[c] shave <with a hired' razor, even with them of the lands over the River ["Euphrates"], with the king of Assyria> the head, and the hair of the feet,—yea <even the beard> will it sweep off.

21 And it shall come to pass, <in that day> that a man shall keep alive a young cow, and two sheep. 22 Yea it shall come to pass <for the abundance of the yield of milk> that he shall eat curds,—for <curds and honey> shall every one eat, that is left in the midst of the land.

23 And it shall come to pass <in that day> that ‖every place wherein there used to be a thousand vines at a thousand pieces of silver‖ — yea <even for briars and thorns> shall it be. 24 <With arrows and with a bow> shall one come in thither,—for <briars and thorns> shall be all the land.

25 But <all the hills which |with the hoe| can be weeded>—there shall not come thither, the fear of briars and thorns,—but it shall be for the sending forth of oxen, and for the tread of lesser cattle.

§ 7. Isaiah himself instructed to take action: If the Name of Promise is declined, a Name of Threatening shall be given and attested.

8 1 And Yahweh said unto me:
Take thee a large tablet,—and write thereon, in plain characters,
To Maher-shalal-hash-baz.
["Speed-spoil-hurry-prey."][d]

2 That I may take in attestation, faithful witnesses,—even Uriah the priest, and Zechariah[e] son of Jeberechiah.[f]

3 Then approached I unto the prophetess, and she conceived, and bare a son,—and Yahweh said unto me, Call his name Maher-shalal-hash-baz. 4 For

[a] Or transfer both names: "Adonây Yahweh."
[b] Should not the expositor bear this in mind, and carry it over with him into the next section? Cp. note [g] on ver. 14.

[f] It is true that the Heb. word here is 'almah, and not bĕthulah; but an examination of all the occurrences of the former shews that it is synonymous with the latter, and properly means "virgin."
[g] Some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edns. and Sep.) read: "thou wilt call"—G.n. [The translator deems the internal evidence strong enough to warrant the adoption of this reading in the text. Mark the result: "Thou—Ahaz—wilt call." And so he would, if he had accepted and received the sign. But did he trustfully respond to the gracious challenge, and thereby secure the immediate fulfilment of the promise? The answer, in the negative, is writ large in what follows (ver. 17). He would not "trust," and therefore could not "be trusted" (ver. 9).]
[h] In many MSS. (w. 6 ear. pr. edns.) given as two words; but in some (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.) as one word—G.n.

[f] Heb.: yĕbherekhyâhu.

<before the boy shall have knowledge to cry, My father! and My mother!> the riches of Damascus and the spoil of Samaria |shall be carried away| before the king of Assyria.

§ 8. The Assyrian Invasion again Threatened—but Defied: The Prophet meantime must Dissent, Testify and Wait, with his Eye on a Dawning Day.

5 And again' Yahweh spake unto me |yet further| saying:

6 <Because this people hath refused the waters of Shiloah which flow softly,—and are rejoicing with Rezin and the son of Remaliah> 7 ‖now therefore‖ lo! the Lord[a] is about to bring up against them, the waters, strong and many, of the River [=Euphrates], even the king of Assyria, and all his glory, —and he shall rise over all his channels, and flow over all his banks; 8 and roll on throughout Judah—overflow and pass along, till <unto the neck> he shall reach,—and it shall be, that ‖the stretching out of his wings‖ shall fill the breadth of thy land, O Immanuel![b]

9 Rage, O ye peoples,—and be overthrown,
And give ear, all ye distant parts of the earth,—
Gird yourselves and be overthrown,
Gird yourselves, and be overthrown:[c]

10 Determine a plan,—and it shall be frustrated,—
Speak a word, and it shall not stand,
For With-us-is-God!

11 For ‖thus‖ spake Yahweh unto me, like[d] a firm grasp of the hand,—when he admonished me, not to walk in the way of this people, saying:

12 Ye shall not say—A confederacy! of everything of which this people |may say|, A confederacy!
And <their fear> shall ye not fear or regard as awful:

13 <Yahweh of hosts> ‖him‖ shall ye hallow,—
And let ‖him‖ be your fear, and let ‖him‖ inspire you with awe;

14 So shall he become a hallowed asylum,—
But a stone to strike against, and a rock to stumble over, unto both houses of Israel,
A trap and a snare to the dweller[e] in Jerusalem;

15 And many |shall stumble among them|,—
and fall and be torn, and snared, and captured.

16 Bind thou up the testimony,—
Seal the instruction amongst my disciples.[a]

17 I will therefore long for Yahweh,
Who is hiding his face from the house of Jacob,—
And will wait |for him|.

18 Lo! ‖I' and the children whom Yahweh hath given' me‖ are for signs and for wonders, in Israel,—from Yahweh of hosts, who is making[b] his habitation in Mount Zion.

19 But <when they say unto you—
Seek ye unto the necromancers[c] and unto the wizards, who chirp, and who mutter>
Should not a people seek ‖unto its God‖?
<In behalf of the living> [should it seek] unto the dead?

20 To the law, [d] and to the testimony!
<If they speak not according to this word>
[It is] because they have no' dawning day.

§ 9. A renewed Description of Deepening Gloom (cp. v. 26—30), which serves as a Background for an Outburst of Messianic Light.

21 Therefore shall they pass through it, hard pressed and hungry,—
And it shall be <when they hunger> then will they rage and revile their king and their god, and turn their faces upwards;

22 And <unto the land> shall they look hard,
And lo! ‖distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish‖ driven away!

9 1 For there is no gloom to her who had been in anguish,
<In the former time> he brought into dishonour
The land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali,
<In the latter time> hath he brought into honour
The Lake-way over the Jordan,
Galilee of the nations.

2 ‖The people who were walking in darkness‖
Have seen a great light,—
<The dwellers in a land death-shadowed>
‖A light‖ hath shined upon them.

3 Thou hast increased the exultation,
Thou hast made great the joy,[e]—
They joy before thee, according to the joy of harvest,
As men exult when they distribute spoil.

[a] Or: "Adonây."
[b] No thanks to Ahaz, but this name of promise, once given, strikes root; cp. ver. 10. The Heir may not come yet, but his Inheritance must be reserved for him, in spite of every vicissitude.
[c] Cp. Intro., Chap. II., Synopsis, B, c.

[c] So O.G.; but others: "familiar spirits." Cp. Lev. xx. 27.
[d] Or: "instruction."
[e] So Gt, the letters shd be regrouped and the words accordingly emended; an opinion so strongly sustained in his Intro., p. 161, that the resultant reading is, in this translation, taken up into the text. It has the unlooked-for argument in its favour, that it calls for what Dr. R. Moulton terms the "envelope" arrangement of the lines, which fact does not seem to have occurred to Dr. Ginsburg himself—Tr. N.B.: lo', "not," is retained in M.C.T.; but at the foot lo', "to him," is given as the official reading; which in some cod. (w. Aram. and Syr.) is both written and read—G.n.

4 For <the yoke of their burden,
The cross-bar of their shoulder,[a]
The goad of their driver>
Hast thou broken, as in the day of Midian.
5 Surely ‖every boot of one tramping in tumult, and the war-cloak rolled in blood‖
Then shall serve for burning, food for fire;
6 For ‖A Child‖ hath been born to us,
‖A Son‖ hath been given to us,[b]
And the dominion is upon his shoulder,—
And his Name hath been called Wonderful Counsellor,[c]
Mighty God,[d]
Father of Futurity,[e]
Prince of Prosperity.[f]
7 <Of the increase of dominion, and of prosperity>
There shall be no end—
Upon the throne of David, and Upon his kingdom,
By establishing it, and
By sustaining it,
With justice, and
With righteousness,—
From henceforth,
Even unto times age-abiding:
‖The jealousy[g] of Yahweh of hosts‖ will perform this!

§ 10. The Subject of Israel's Sin and Yahweh's consequent Displeasure resumed from Chapter v. 25. The same general Strain, and the same Refrains.

8 <A word> hath My Lord[h] sent unto Jacob,—
And it shall alight on[i] Israel;
9 And the people shall all' of them know [it]—
Ephraim and the dweller in Samaria—
Who <in pride and insolence of heart> are saying:
10 ‖Bricks‖ have fallen down,
But <with hewn stone> will we build,— ‖Sycomores‖ have been felled,
But <with cedars> will we replace them.
11 Therefore will Yahweh strengthen the adversaries[k] of Rezin against him,—
And his enemies will he arouse:
12 Syrians before, and Philistines behind,
Thus have they devoured Israel with open mouth,—
<For all this> hath his anger |not turned back|,
But <still> is his hand outstretched.[a]
13 Yet ‖the people‖ have not turned unto him that smote them,—
And <Yahweh of hosts> have they not sought.
14 Therefore hath Yahweh cut off from Israel—
Head and tail,
Palm-top and rush,
In one day.
15 <The elder and favourite> ‖he‖ is the head,—
And <the prophet teaching falsehood> ‖he‖ is the tail;
16 And ‖they who should have led this people forward‖ have been causing them to stray,—
And ‖they who are led of them‖ are destroyed.[b]
17 |For this cause| <over their choice young men> will My Lord[c] not rejoice,
And <on their fatherless and their widows> will he not have compassion,
For ‖every one of them‖[d] is profane and an evildoer,
And ‖every mouth‖ is speaking baseness,—
<For all this> hath his anger |not turned back|,
But <still> is his hand outstretched.
18 For lawlessness |hath consumed like fire|,
<Briars and thorns> doth it devour,—
Yea it hath kindled upon the thickets of the forest,
And they have rolled up, as a column of smoke.
19 <Through the wrath of Yahweh of hosts> is the land consumed,—
And |the people| have come to be |as fuel for fire|.
|A man| <unto his own brother> sheweth not pity;
20 And he hath slain on the right, and yet is hungry,
And hath eaten on the left, yet are they not satisfied,—
|Every one| <the flesh of his own arm> will they eat:
21 Manasseh — Ephraim, and Ephraim — Manasseh,
‖They together‖—against Judah,—
<For all this> hath his anger |not turned back|,
But <still> is his hand outstretched.

Turning aside |from judgment| ‖the poor‖,
And robbing |of justice| ‖the oppressed of my people‖,—
So that |widows| become |their spoil|,
And <of the fatherless> they make prey.
What, then, will ye do for the day of visitation,
And for the devastation which <from afar> shall come?
<Unto whom> will ye flee for help?
And where' will ye leave your glory?[a]
<Without me> one hath bowed under a prisoner,
Yea <under the slain> do they fall!

<For all this> hath his anger |not turned back|,
But <still> is his hand outstretched.

X. The Punishment of Assyria foretold, on account of its Godless self-glorifying. Yahweh's People encouraged. The Invasion graphically portrayed. Assyria's Downfall, by bold Metaphor predicted.

Alas! ‖for Assyria‖ the rod of mine anger,—
Yea <the very staff in their hand> is |my displeasure|:
<Against an irreligious[b] nation> will I send him,
Yea <against the people with whom I am wroth> will I command him,—
To capture spoil, And lay hold on prey,
And cause them to be trodden down as the mire of the lanes.

But <as for him> ‖not so‖ doth he deem,
And <in his heart> ‖not so‖ doth he think,—
For[c] ‖to destroy‖ is in his heart,
And to cut off nations, |not a few|;
For he saith:—
Are not ‖my generals‖ all alike'[d] ‖kings‖?
Is not |Calno| ‖like Carchemish‖?
Is not |Hamath| ‖like Arpad‖?
Is not |Samaria| ‖like Damascus‖?
<As my hand hath reached unto the kingdoms of idols,—whose images[e] did excel[f] them of Jerusalem and Samaria>
Shall I not, <as I have done to Samaria and her idols>, ‖so‖ do to Jerusalem and her images?

Wherefore it shall come to pass—<When My Lord shall finish his whole work upon Mount Zion, and upon Jerusalem>
I will bring punishment—
Upon the fruit of the greatness of heart of the king of Assyria,
And upon the vainglory of his uplifted eyes.

For he hath said—
<By the strength of mine own hand> have I effectually wrought,
‖And by my wisdom—for I have discernment‖,—
That I might remove the bounds of peoples,
Yea <their treasures> have I plundered,
That I might lay prostrate, as a mighty one, the inhabitants;
And my hand |hath found as a nest| the wealth of the peoples,
And <as the gathering of eggs that are forsaken> ‖all the earth‖ have ‖I‖ gathered,—
And there was none to flap a wing, or open a mouth, or chirp.

Shall the axe |boast itself| against him that heweth therewith?
Or the saw |magnify itself| against him that wieldeth it?
As if a rod |could wield| them who lift it up!
As if a staff |could raise| what is |not wood|![a]

|Therefore| shall the Lord,[b] Yahweh[c] of hosts,
Send |among his fat ones| ‖leanness‖,
And <under[d] his glory> shall he kindle |a kindling|, ‖like the kindling of fire‖;
So shall |the Light of Israel| become ‖a fire‖,
And |his Holy One| ‖a flame‖,
Which shall burn and consume his thorns and his briars, in one day;
And <the glory of his forest and of his garden land, both soul and body> shall it bring to an end,—
And it shall be like the wasting away of a consumptive.
And ‖the remnant of his forest-trees‖ |few in number| shall become,—yea ‖a child‖ might describe[e] them!

And it shall come to pass <in that day>
That the remnant of Israel,
And the escaped of the house of Jacob,
Shall |no more again| lean upon him that smote them,—
But shall lean upon Yahweh, the Holy One of Israel, |in truth|.
‖A remnant‖ shall return,[f]
The remnant of Jacob,—unto the mighty GOD;[g]
For <though thy people, O Israel, shall be as the sand of the sea>
‖A [mere] remnant‖ shall return of them,—
‖A full end decreed‖ bringeth in |justice| like a flood;
For ‖a full end and that a decreed one‖[h] is My Lord, Yahweh of hosts, executing in the midst of all[i] the earth.[k]

24 |Therefore|, ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh[a] of hosts,
Do not fear, O my people dwelling in Zion, because of Assyria,—
When <with his rod> he would smite thee,
And when <his staff> he would lift up against thee, in the manner of Egypt;
25 For <yet a very little while> and displeasure shall end,
Yea ‖mine anger‖ over[b] their destruction.
26 And Yahweh of hosts |will brandish over him| ‖a scourge‖—
Like the smiting of Midian, at the rock Oreb,—
And <his staff [being] over the sea>
He will lift it up in the manner of Egypt;
27 And it shall come to pass <in that day>
That his burden |shall remove| from off thy shoulder,
And his yoke from off thy neck,—
Yea, the yoke shall be broken, because of fatness.[c]

28 He hath come in unto Ayyâth,
Hath passed through Migron,—
<At Michmash> storeth his baggage:
29 They have passed over the pass,
Geba is his halting-place,—
|Terror-stricken| is Ramah,
‖Gibeah of Saul‖ hath fled!
30 Make shrill thy voice, O daughter of Gallim!
Hearken, O Laishah;
Answer, O Anathoth!
31 Madmenah |hath fled|,—
‖The inhabitants of Gebim‖ have gone into safety:
32 <While yet to-day, in Nob, he tarrieth>
He brandisheth his hand toward
The mount of the daughter[d] of Zion,
The hill of Jerusalem.

33 Behold! ‖the Lord, Yahweh of hosts‖ is about to lop off a tree-crown, with a crash,— Then shall ‖they who are lifted on high‖ be hewn down,
And ‖the lofty‖ be laid low;
34 Then will he fell the thickets of the forest, with iron,—
And ‖Lebanon‖ |by a majestic one| shall fall.

§ 12. An Ideal Son of Jesse, becoming Monarch of the World, Israel sings Hymns of Triumph.

11 1 But there shall come forth a shoot from the stock of Jesse,—
And ‖a sprout,[e] from his roots‖ shall bear fruit;

2 And the spirit of Yahweh shall rest' upon him',—
The spirit of wisdom and understanding,
The spirit of counsel and might,
The spirit of knowledge, and reverence of Yahweh;
3 So will he find fragrance,[a] in the reverence of Yahweh,
And[b] not <by the sight of his eyes> will he judge,
Nor <by the hearing of his ears> will he decide;
4 But he will judge |with righteousness| them who are poor,
And decide |with equity| for the oppressed[c] of the land,[d]—
And he will smite the land[e] with the sceptre of his mouth,
And <with the breath of his lips> will he slay the lawless one;

5 And righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins,—
And faithfulness the girdle of his reins;
6 And the wolf shall dwell with the lamb,
And ‖the leopard‖ |with the kid| shall lie down,—
And the calf, and the young lion, and the fatling—together,
With ‖a little child‖ leading them;
7 And ‖the cow‖ |with the bear| shall find pasture,
‖Together‖ shall their young ones |lie down|,—
And ‖the lion‖ |like the ox| shall eat straw;
8 And the sucking child 'shall caress' over the hole of the asp,
Yea <over the viper's den> hath the weaned child stretched out his hand:
9 They shall not hurt—nor destroy, in all my holy' mountain,—
For filled' is the land with the knowledge of Yahweh,
As ‖the waters‖ |to the sea |form a covering.

10 And there shall come to be <in that day>
A root of Jesse, which shall be standing as an ensign of peoples, <Unto him> shall nations seek,—
And |his resting-place| shall be |glorious|.

11 And it shall come to pass <in that day>
That My Lord[f] will again' |a second time| set his hand, to possess himself of the remnant of his people,—who shall be left—from Assyria and from Egypt, and from Pathros and from Ethiopia, and from Elam and from Shinar, and from Hamath and from the Coastlands of the sea;
12 And he will lift up a standard to the nations,
And will gather the outcasts of Israel,—
And <the dispersed of Judah> will he collect,
From the four corners of the earth.

13 And the envy of Ephraim |shall be removed|,
And ‖the vexatious doings of Judah‖ shall be cut off:
‖Ephraim‖ shall not envy |Judah|,
And ‖Judah‖ shall not vex |Ephraim|;

14 But they shall fly on the wing of the Philistines, in the west,
<Together> shall they make prey of the sons of the east,—
<On Edom and Moab> putting forth their hand,
With ‖the sons of Ammon‖ hearkening unto them.

15 And Yahweh |will devote to destruction| the gulf[a] of the Egyptian sea,
And will brandish his hand against the River [=Euphrates], in the full force of his spirit,[b]—
And will smite it in the seven streams,
And cause a marching through in sandals;

16 So shall there be a highway for the remnant of his people who shall be left, out of Assyria,—
Like as it was to Israel, in the day that he came up out of the land of Egypt!

12 1 Thou shalt say, therefore, in that day,

I will praise thee, O Yahweh!
<Though thou hast been angry with me>
Thine anger turneth back,
And thou dost comfort me.

2 Lo ‖God‖ is my salvation!
I will trust, and not dread,—
For ‖my might and melody‖[c] is Yah, Yahweh,
And he hath become mine, by salvation.[d]

3 Therefore shall ye draw water, with rejoicing,—out of the fountains of salvation.
4 And ye shall say |in that day|,

Praise Yahweh,
Call upon his Name,
Make known among the peoples, his doings,—
Bring to remembrance, that |exalted| is his Name!
5 Praise in song Yahweh,
For  hath he done,—
<Well known>[e] is this, in all the earth.
6 Make shrill thy voice and sing out, thou inhabitress of Zion,—
That <great in the midst of thee> is ‖the Holy One of Israel‖.

§ 13. The Fall of Babylon foretold: Israel's Taunt-Song over Babylon's fallen King—Hades in Commotion. An Appendix on Assyria.

13 1 The oracle on Babylon,—of which Isaiah, son of Amoz, |had vision|:—
2 <Upon a bare mountain> lift ye up a standard,
Raise high the voice' to them,—
Wave the hand,
That they may enter the doors of nobles.
3 ‖I myself‖ have given charge to my hallowed ones,— Yea I have called
My heroes in showing mine anger,
My proudly' exulting ones.[a]

4 The noise of a multitude in the mountains,
A resemblance of many people,—
The noise of a tumult of kingdoms,
Nations gathered together,
Yahweh of hosts, mustering a host for battle!
5 They are coming in
From a land far away,
From the utmost bound of the heavens,—
Yahweh—with his weapons of indignation,
To destroy the land.

6 Howl ye! for at hand' is the day of Yahweh,—
<As a veritable[b] destruction from the Almighty> shall it come.
7 ‖For this cause‖—
‖All hands‖ shall hang down,—and ‖Every mortal heart‖ melt.
8 And they shall be in distress—
‖Writhings and pains‖ shall lay hold,
<As a woman in childbirth> shall they be in pangs,—
‖Every one‖ |at his neighbour| shall look in amazement,
<Faces of flames> their faces!

9 Lo! ‖the day of Yahweh‖ coming in,
Fierce and overflowing, and burning with anger,—
To devote the earth to desolation,
<And her sinners> will he destroy out of it.
10 For ‖the stars of the heavens, and their constellations‖ shall not flash forth their light,—
Obscured' shall be |the sun| in his |going forth|,
And ‖the moon‖ shall not shed her light.
11 And I will visit |upon the inhabited earth ‖calamity‖,
And |upon the lawless| ‖their punishment‖,—
And will quiet the arrogance of the proud,
And <the loftiness of tyrants> will I lay low.
12 I will cause |a man|[c] to be more precious than |fine gold|,—
Even |a son of earth| than |the finest gold of Ophir|.

[a] So O.G. 144, b. [b] O.G. 454, 1, d. [c] Or: "a mortal."

13 |For this cause| <the heavens> will I disturb,
And |the earth| shall tremble' |out of her place|,—
In the wrath of Yahweh of hosts,
And in the day of the glow of his anger.
14 And it shall be—
Like a gazelle that is chased,
And like a sheep with none' to lift it up,—
‖Each‖ |to his own people| will they turn,
And ‖each‖ |to his own land| will they flee:
15 ‖Every one found‖ shall be thrust through,—
And ‖every one taken‖ shall fall by the sword;
16 And ‖their infants‖ shall be dashed to the ground, before their eyes,—
Plundered' shall be |their houses|, and ‖their wives ravished‖.

17 Behold me! stirring up against them, |the Medes|,—
Who <of silver> shall take no account,
And <as for gold> they shall not delight in it;
18 And ‖bows‖ shall dash the young to pieces,—
And <on the fruit of the womb> will they have no pity,
<Over[a] children> will |their eye| throw no shield.

19 Thus shall Babylon—
The most lovely of kingdoms,
The majestic beauty of the Chaldees—
|Become| as in the divine overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah.
20 It shall not be dwelt' in for ever,
Neither shall it be inhabited, from generation to generation,—
Neither shall encamp there |an Arab|,[b]
Nor ‖shepherds‖ fold their flocks there.
21 Then shall lie down' there, |wild beasts|,[c]
And filled' shall be their houses, with |owls|,—
Then shall inhabit there, the ostrich,
And ‖shaggy creatures‖ shall dance there.
22 And jackals |shall answer| in their citadels,
And |wild dogs| in their voluptuous palaces,—
And near to come' is |her time|,
And ‖her days‖ shall not be delayed.

14 1 For Yahweh |will have compassion| on Jacob,
And will yet' choose Israel,
And will give them rest upon their own soil,—
And the sojourner |shall join himself| unto them,
And they shall attach themselves unto the house of Jacob;
2 And peoples |shall take them|, and bring them into their own place,[d]
And the house of Israel shall possess themselves of them |upon the soil of Yahweh| ‖for servants and for handmaids‖,—
Thus shall they be taking captive their captors,
And shall tread down their oppressors.[a]

3 And it shall come to pass <in the day when Yahweh |shall give thee rest| from thy toil, and from thy disquiet,—and from the hard service which had been laid upon thee> 4 that thou shalt take up this taunt over the king of Babylon, and shalt say:—

How' hath ceased' the oppressor!
Ceased' the exactress![b]
5 Broke' hath Yahweh the staff of the lawless,—
The sceptre of despots;
6 Smiting peoples in passion,
With stroke unremitting,—
Trampling, in anger, on nations,
Persecution unhindered.
7 <Quiet, at rest> the whole earth,—
Men have burst into shouting!
8 ‖Yea the pine-trees‖ make mirth at thee,
‖Cedars of Lebanon‖!
<Since thou wast laid low>
No feller hath come up against us!

9 ‖Hades, beneath‖ is excited about thee
To meet thine arrival,—
Rousing up, for thee, Shades,[c]
All the he-goats[d] of earth!
Maketh rise from their thrones,
All the kings of the nations.

10 ‖All of them‖ answer, and say to thee,—
‖Thou too‖ made strengthless |as we|!
<Unto us> art thou like!
11 <Brought down to Hades> thy pride,
The hum of thy harps,[e]
<Beneath thee> is spread out corruption,[f]
And ‖thy coverlet‖[g]—worms!

12 How' hast thou fallen from heaven,
O Shining One—Son of the Dawn!
Hewn down to the earth,
O crusher of nations!

13 Yet ‖thou‖ didst say in thy heart—
<The heavens> will I ascend,
<Above the stars of GOD> will I lift up my throne,—
That I may sit in the Mount of Assembly[h]
In the Recesses of the North:
14 I will mount on the hills of the clouds,
I will match the Most High!

15 |Howbeit| <to Hades> shalt thou be brought down,—
To the Recesses of the Pit!

16 ‖They who see thee‖ <upon thee> will gaze,
<Upon thee> will thoughtfully muse,—
Is this' the man who startled the earth?
Who terrified kingdoms?

17 Who made the world like a desert?
And <its cities> brake down?
<Its prisoners> he loosed not,
Each one to his home?

18 ‖All the kings of the nations—they all‖ are lying in state,
Each one in his crypt;

19 But ‖thou‖ art flung out from thy grave,
Like a scion detested,[a]
Beshrouded with slain, the pierced of the sword,
Like a carcase trod underfoot:

20 <As for them who go down to[b] the stones of the Pit>[c]
Thou shalt not be united with them in burial;
For <thy land> thou didst ruin,
<Thy people> didst slay,— <Unnamed to times age-abiding>
Be the seed of the wicked!

21 Prepare—for his sons—shambles,
For the iniquity of their fathers,—
They shall not rise, nor possess the earth,
Nor fill the face of the world with cities.

22 I will rise, then, against them,
Declareth Yahweh of hosts,—
And will cut off from Babylon,
Record and remnant,
And[d] scion and seed,
Declareth Yahweh.

23 And will make her a possession for the bittern,[e]
And marshes of water,—
And will sweep it with the besom of destruction,
Declareth Yahweh of hosts.

24 Yahweh of hosts |hath sworn|, saying,—
Surely <as I intended> ‖so‖ hath it come to pass,
And <as I purposed> ‖the same‖ shall stand:—

25 That I will break in pieces the Assyrian, in my land,
Yea <upon my mountains> will I tread him underfoot,—
So shall be removed from off them, his yoke,
And ‖his burden‖ |from off their shoulder| shall be removed.

26 ‖This‖ is the purpose that is purposed upon all the earth,—
And ‖this‖ the hand outstretched over all the nations;

27 For ‖Yahweh of hosts‖ hath purposed,—
And who' shall frustrate?
And ‖his‖ is the hand outstretched,
And who' shall turn it back?

§ 14. A Prophecy against Philistia.—"Yahweh hath founded Zion."

28 <In the year that King Ahaz died> came this oracle:—

29 Do not rejoice, Philistia |any of thee|,
In that the rod of him that smote thee |is broken|,—
For <out of the root of the serpent> shall come forth |a viper|,
And his fruit be a fiery dragon that flieth.

30 Then shall feed, the firstborn of the poor,
And ‖the needy‖ |in confidence| lie down,—
And I will kill with famine thy root,
And ‖thy residue‖ shall be slain.

31 Howl—O gate, Make outcry—O city,
Dispersed art thou, Philistia |all of thee|,—
For <out of the north> a smoke cometh in,
With no' straggler in his ranks.

32 What, then, shall one answer the messengers of a nation?
That ‖Yahweh‖ hath founded Zion,
And <in her> shall seek refuge, the oppressed[a] of his people.

§ 15. A Prophecy against Moab.

15 1 The oracle on Moab:
<Because <in a night> was laid waste Ar of Moab—destroyed!
Because <in a night> was laid waste Kir of Moab—destroyed>

2 He hath gone up to Bayith and Dibon, to the high places, to weep,—
<On Nebo and on Medeba> Moab is howling,
<On all their heads>[b] a baldness,
‖Every[c] beard‖ clipped.

3 <In their streets> have they girded them with sackcloth,—
<On their housetops, and in their broadways> every one[d] is howling—melting in tears;

4 And Heshbon |hath made outcry|, and Elealeh,
<Unto Jahaz> hath been heard their voice,—

‖For this cause‖ do the armed men of Moab roar,
|Every man's soul|[a] quivereth to him.
5 ‖Mine own heart‖ for Moab continueth to make outcry,
‖Her fugitive‖[b] |as far as Zoar| is like a heifer of three years;
For <the ascent of Luhith>[c] |with weeping| they ascend,
For <by the way of Horonaim—an outcry of destruction> they excite;
6 For ‖the waters of Nimrim‖ shall become |desolation|,—
For grass |hath dried up|,
Herbage |hath failed|,
‖Green thing‖ hath not sprung up!
7 |For this cause| <the savings they had made, and that which they had stored>
<Over the torrent-bed of the willows> shall they bear them.
8 For the outcry |hath gone round| the boundary of Moab,—
‖As far as Eglaim‖ the howling thereof,
And ‖to Beer-elim‖ the howling thereof.
9 For ‖the waters of Dimon‖ are full of blood,
For I will lay upon Dimon new troubles,[d]—
<To the escaped of Moab> ‖the lions‖,
Even to the survivors on the soil.

16 1 Send ye the lamb due to the ruler of the land,
From Sela towards the desert,—
Unto the mount of the daughter of Zion;
2 Yet shall it be that—
<Like wandering birds from a nest cast forth>
Shall be the daughters of Moab, at the fords of Arnon.
3 Bring thou[e] in counsel,
Execute thou[f] judgment,
Make |as the night| thy shadow, in the midst of high noon,—
Hide thou the outcasts,
<The wanderer> do not thou reveal.

4 Let mine own outcasts[g] |sojourn with thee|,
O Moab, become thou a covert to them, from the face of the spoiler,—
For vanished' is the oppressor,
At an end' is extortion,
They who tread down have ceased' out of the land.

5 So[a] shall be established |in lovingkindness| ‖a throne‖,
And one shall sit thereon |in truth| |in the home[b] of David‖,—
Judging—and seeking justice, and speeding righteousness.

6 We have heard of the arrogance of Moab, Proud exceedingly!
His haughtiness and his arrogance and his passion,
<Not true> are his boastings.[c]
7 Therefore shall |Moab| howl for |Moab|,
‖All that belong to her‖ shall wail,—
<For the ruins[d] of Kir-hareseth>[e] shall they moan out, Utterly stricken!
8 For ‖the fields of Heshbon‖ are withered—
The vine of Sibmah,
‖The owners of nations‖ have broken off ruddy branches,[f]
<Unto Jazer> had they reached,
They had spread abroad to the desert,—
‖Her boughs‖ had stretched forth, had gone over to the sea.
9 ‖For this cause‖ will I bewail, in the wailing of Jazer,
The vine of Sibmah,
I will drench thee with my tears, O Heshbon, and Elealeh,—
For <upon thy fruit-harvest, and upon thy grain-harvest> |the battle-shout| hath fallen.
10 Now shall be withdrawn rejoicing and exultation, out of the garden-land,
And <in the vineyards> shall be neither singing nor shouting,—
<Wine in the winepress> the treader |shall not tread|,
<The vintage-shout> have I made to cease.
11 |For this cause| ‖mine inward parts—for Moab‖ |like a lyre| shall make a plaintive sound,—
Yea ‖what is within me‖ |for Kir-heres|.
12 And it shall be—
<When it is seen that Moab hath laboured in vain on[g] the high place>
He shall enter into his holy place to pray, and shall not prevail.

13 ‖This‖ is the word which Yahweh spake concerning[h] Moab in |time past|;
14 But ‖now‖ hath Yahweh spoken, saying,
<In three years[i]—as the years of a hireling> shall the glory of Moab be diminished, with all the great multitude,—even a very small remnant, |of no account|.

§ 16. A Prophecy against Damascus.

17 1 The oracle on Damascus,—
Lo! ||Damascus|| is to be removed from being a city,
And shall become a heap of ruins:
2 ||Forsaken|| are the desolate cities,—
||For flocks|| shall they serve,
Which shall lie down, and have none' to make them afraid.
3 Then shall the fortress cease from Ephraim,
And the kingdom from Damascus, and the remnant of Syria,— 4 <Like the glory of the sons of Israel> shall they be,— Declareth Yahweh of hosts.
4 And it shall come to pass <in that day>
That the glory of Jacob |shall be diminished|,
And ||the fatness of his flesh|| shall be wasted;
5 And it shall come to pass—
That <as the harvestman gathereth' standing corn,
And <with his arm—the ears> he reapeth>
Yea it shall come to pass—
That ||so|| shall he be who gleaneth ears, in the vale of Rephaim;
6 Yet shall there be left therein, a gleaning,
As in the beating of an olive-tree,—
Two—three berries, in the head of the tree-top,— Four—five, among her fruitful boughs,
Declareth Yahweh,
God of Israel.
7 <In that day> shall the son of earth look to him that made him,—
And ||his eyes|| <unto the Holy One of Israel> be turned;
8 And he shall not look unto the altars, the work of his own hands,— Nor <to what his own fingers have made> shall his eye be turned,
Whether Sacred Stems or Sun-pillars.
9 <In that day> shall his fortified cities become Like a neglected bough and a topmost branch,
Which they neglected because of the sons of Israel,—
So shall there be desolation.
10 <Because thou didst forget the God of thy salvation,
And <thy Rock of refuge> thou didst not remember>
||For this cause|| shalt thou plant very pleasant plants,[a]
And <the slip of a stranger> shalt thou set:
11 <In the day when thou plantest> fence thou in,
And <in the morning> cause thou ||thy slip|| to blossom,—
A harvest will have waved in the day of destiny, and mortal pain.

[a] "Perh. = Adonis-plantations (gardens)"—O.G. 654.

12 Alas! the booming of many peoples,
<Like the booming of the seas> shall they boom,—
And ||the rushing of nations||!
<Like the rushing of mighty waters> shall they rush.
13 <Though nations |like the rushing of many waters| shall rush>
Yet shall one rebuke him,
And he shall flee far away,—
And be chased
As the chaff of the mountains before a wind,
And as whirling stubble' before a storm!
14 <At eventide> lo! terror,
<Before morning> he[a] is' not!

||This|| is the portion of them who plunder us,
And the lot of them who make of us a prey.

§ 17. A Prophecy against a Land Far South.

18 1 Ho! thou land of the buzzing of wings,[b]—
Which is beyond the rivers of Ethiopia:
2 That sendeth, by the sea,[c] ambassadors,
Even in vessels of paper-reed, upon the face of the waters,—
Go, ye swift messengers,
Unto a nation drawn out[d] and polished,
Unto a people terrible from their beginning and onwards,—
A nation most mighty and subduing,
Whose land rivers |have cut through|.
3 All ye inhabitants of the world,
And ye, that dwell in the earth,—
<When there is lifted up an ensign on the mountains>
Ye shall look,
And <when there is blown a horn>
Ye shall hearken.
4 For ||thus|| said Yahweh unto me,—
I must be quiet,
I must look on in my fixed place of abode,—
Like a bright heat, on the light,
Like a cloud of dew, in the heat[e] of harvest.
5 For <before harvest, when the bud is perfect,
And |the blossom| becometh ||a ripening grape||>
Then will one cut down the twigs with pruning-hooks,
And <the tendrils> will he remove [and] cast down:
6 They shall be left together,
To the ||ravenous birds|| of the mountains,
And to the beast of the earth,—

[a] In some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "and he"—G.n.
[b] So O.G., Davies, Cheyne. Or: "shadow falling both ways." So Fuerst.
[c] Or: "large river."
[d] Or: "tall"—O.G. and others [qy.: "postponed and polished (as by scouring)"?].
[e] Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): "day"—G.n.

Then shall the ravenous bird |summer upon them|,
And ‖every beast of the earth‖ |upon them| shall winter.[a]

7 <In that time> shall there be borne along,
As a present unto Yahweh of hosts,
A people drawn out[b] and polished,
Even from a people terrible from their beginning and onwards,—
A nation most mighty and subduing
Whose land rivers |have cut through|,
Unto the place of the Name of Yahweh of hosts,
Mount Zion.

§ 18. A Prophecy against Egypt: "Yahweh will plague and heal!"

19 1 The oracle on Egypt:
Lo! ‖Yahweh‖, riding upon a swift cloud,
and he will enter Egypt,
And the idols of Egypt |shall shake| at his presence,
And ‖the heart of Egypt‖ shall melt within him;
2 And I will stir up |Egyptians| against |Egyptians|,
And they shall fight—
Every one against his brother, and Every one against his neighbour,—
City against city, and Kingdom against kingdom.
3 And the spirit of Egypt |shall vanish| within them,
Yea <the sagacity thereof> will I swallow up,—
And they will seek Unto the idols, and Unto them that mutter, and Unto them that have familiar spirits,[c] and Unto the wizards;
4 And I will deliver the Egyptians into the hand of a cruel lord,—
And a fierce king shall rule over them,
Declareth the Lord,[d] Yahweh of hosts.
5 And the waters shall be dried up from the great stream,[e]—
And ‖the River‖ shall waste and be dry;
6 And rivers |shall stink|,
The canals of Egypt be shallow and waste,
‖Reed and rush‖ be withered;
7 The meadows by the Nile, by the mouth of the Nile,
And all that is sown in the Nile,
Shall be dry, driven away, and not be!
8 Then shall the fishers |lament|,
And all shall mourn, who cast in the Nile a hook,—
And ‖they who spread nets on the face of the waters‖ shall languish;
9 Then shall turn pale
The workers in combed flax,— and
The weavers of white linen;
10 Then shall her pillars be crushed,—
‖All who make wages‖ be bowed down in soul.
11 Surely ‖foolish‖ are the princes of Zoan,
‖The wisest counsellors of Pharaoh‖ |in counsel| are brutish,—
How can ye say unto Pharaoh,
<Son of the wise> am I',
‖Son of the kings of olden time‖?
12 Where then are' thy wise men?
Pray let them tell thee!
And let them know what Yahweh of hosts |hath purposed| on Egypt!
13 Doting' are the princes of Zoan,
Deceived' are the princes of Nôph:
They who are the corner-stone of her tribes' |have led[a] Egypt astray|.
14 ‖Yahweh‖ hath infused in her midst a spirit of perverseness,—
And they have led Egypt astray into all his own doings,
As a drunken man staggereth' into his own vomit;
15 And Egypt shall have nothing which can be done,
Which head or tail, palm-top or rush, |can do|!
16 <In that day> shall Egypt be like unto women,—
And shall start and tremble because of the brandishing of the hand of Yahweh of hosts, which he' is about to brandish over it.
17 Then shall the soil of Judah become, |to Egypt| ‖a terror‖;[b]
‖Every one to whom it is mentioned‖ will tremble,—
Because of the purpose of Yahweh of hosts, which he' is purposing against it.
18 <In that day> shall there be five cities in the land of Egypt,
Speaking the language[c] of Canaan,
And swearing unto Yahweh of hosts,—
‖The city of destruction‖[d] shall be the name of one!
19 <In that day> shall there be
An altar unto Yahweh, in the midst of the land of Egypt,—
And a pillar[e] near the boundary thereof, unto Yahweh;[f]
20 And it shall become a sign and a witness unto Yahweh of hosts, in the land of Egypt,—

[a] "Shall spend the harvest time upon it"—O.G. 358.
[b] Or: "tall"—O.G. and others [qy.: "postponed and polished (as by scouring")?].

[b] Ml.: "a reeling."
[c] Lit.: "lip."
[d] So O.G. 249. Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns. and Sep.): "The city of the sun"—G.n. "The Sep. solves the difficulty inasmuch as it clearly shows that the Hebrew recension from which it was made read, City of righteousness"—G. Intro. 406.
[e] Or: "obelisk." Heb.: mazzêvah.
[f] Some cod. (w. Syr.): "Y. of hosts"—G.n.

For they will make outcry unto Yahweh, because of oppressors,
That he would send them a saviour—and a great one,
Then will he deliver them.

21 Then will |Yahweh| make himself known' |to the Egyptians|,
So shall |the Egyptians| know' |Yahweh|, in that day,—
And they will offer a sacrifice and a present,[a]
And will vow a vow unto Yahweh, and will perform.

22 And Yahweh |will plague| Egypt, ‖plague and heal‖,—
And they will turn unto Yahweh,
And he will be entreated of them, and will heal them.

23 <In that day> shall there be a highway, from Egypt to Assyria,
And |the Assyrians| shall come' into |Egypt|,
And |the Egyptians| into |Assyria|;
And |the Egyptians| shall serve'[b] |with the Assyrians|.

24 <In that day> shall |Israel| be |a third| with Egypt and with Assyria,—
A blessing in the midst of the earth:
Whom Yahweh of hosts hath blessed, saying,— ‖Blessed‖ be
My people—the Egyptians,
And the work of my hands — the Assyrians,
And mine own inheritance—Israel.

§ 19. A Warning not to trust in Egypt—symbolically enforced by Isaiah.

20 1 <In the year that Tartan entered Ashdod, when Sargon king of Assyria |sent him|,—and he fought against Ashdod and captured it>,—
2 ‖at that time‖ spake Yahweh, through[c] Isaiah son of Amoz, saying,
Go, and loose the sackcloth from off thy loins,
And <thy sandal> draw thou off from thy foot,—
And he did so, walking disrobed and barefoot. 3 Then said Yahweh,—
<As my servant Isaiah |hath walked| disrobed and barefoot, three years, as a sign and a wonder, against Egypt and against Ethiopia>
4 ‖So‖ shall the king of Assyria lead away the captives of Egypt, and the exiles of Ethiopia, young and old, disrobed and barefoot,—with their persons behind uncovered' ‖the shame of Egypt‖.
5 Thus shall they be confounded, and turn pale,—
For Ethiopia, their expectation, and
For Egypt, their boast;[d]
6 And the inhabitant of this shore |shall exclaim|, in that day,
Lo! ‖such‖ is our expectation, whereunto we fled for help, that we might be delivered from the presence of the king of Assyria!
How then shall ‖we‖ |escape|?

§ 20. A Prophecy against the Desert of the Sea.

21 1 The oracle on the desert of the sea:[e]—
<As storm-winds in the South which |with a rush from the desert| do come from a terrible land>
2 [So] hath ‖a grievous vision‖ been told me:—
‖The deceiver‖ is deceiving,
And ‖the spoiler‖ is spoiling,
Go up, O Elam,
Besiege, O Media,
<All the sighing she hath caused> have I made to cease.
3 ‖For this cause‖ are my loins filled' with anguish,
‖Pangs‖ have seized me, as the pangs of her that is giving birth,—
I writhe, so that I cannot hear,
I tremble, so that I cannot see:
4 My heart fluttereth',
‖A horror‖ terrifieth me,—
<My twilight of pleasure>[b] hath he turned for me into a time of trembling.
5 [Ye thought] to prepare the table—spread the mat—eat—drink! . . .
Arise, ye chieftains, anoint the shield![c]
6 For ‖thus‖ hath My Lord said' unto me,—
Go, set the watchman,
<What he seeth> let him tell!
7 <When he seeth
A train of horsemen in double rank,
A train of asses,
A train of camels>
Then shall he hearken attentively, with diligent heed.
8 Then cried he,
A lion!
<On the watch> O My Lord, had I' been standing continually, by day,
And <at my post> had I' been stationed whole nights;—
9 When lo! here was a train of men coming,
With horsemen in double rank,—
And one began and said,
Fallen! fallen! is Babylon,
And ‖all the images[d] of her gods‖ are smashed to the ground!

10 O thou My threshing![e]
And the grain of my corn-floor![f]
<That which I have heard from Yahweh of hosts, the God of Israel>
Have I declared |unto you|.

[a] Or: "meal-offering."
[b] Or: "offer," "worship."

[d] Carved, graven, or even molten—Deut. vii. 5.
[e] ="My oppressed people."
[f] Ml.: "'And son of my threshing-floor'; i.e., my poor people crushed as corn in the threshing"—Davies' H.L.

§ 21. A Prophecy against Dumah (Edom).

11 The oracle on Dumah:[a]
<Unto me> is one crying—out of Seir,
Watchman! how far gone is the night?
Watchman! how far gone is the night?[b]
12 Said the watchman,
There cometh a morning,
But also a night,—
<If ye will enquire> enquire ye[c]—
Come |again|!

§ 22. A Prophecy against Arabia.

13 The oracle on Arabia,—
<Among the shrubs in Arabia>[d] must ye lodge,
Ye caravans of Dedanites.
14 <To meet the thirsty> bring ye water,—
Ye dwellers in the land of Tema;
<With bread for him> get in advance of him that is in flight!
15 For <before swords> have they fled:
Before a sword that is drawn,
Before a bow that is bent,
And before the stress of war.
16 For ‖thus‖ hath My Lord said unto me,—
<Within a year, according to the years of a hireling> shall fail all the glory of Kedar;
17 And ‖The remnant of the record of bowmen,
The heroes of the sons of Kedar‖
Shall become few;
For ‖Yahweh, God of Israel‖ hath spoken.

§ 23. A Prophecy against the Valley of Vision.

22 1 The oracle on the valley of vision,—
What aileth thee, then,
That thou art wholly gone up to the housetops?
2 <With tumults> art thou filled, thou citadel in commotion! city exultant!
‖Thy slain‖ are Not the slain of |the sword|,
Nor the dead in battle.
3 ‖All thy rulers‖ having fled |together|, <by the bow> are taken captive:
All found in thee have been taken captive |together|,
<Far away> have they fled.
4 ‖For this cause‖ I said—
Look away from me,
|Bitterly| will I weep,—
Do not press to comfort me,
For the ruin of the daughter of my people.
5 For  pertaineth to My Lord Yahweh of hosts, in the valley of vision,— an undermining of walls, and a crying for help to the mountain.
6 Yea ‖Elam‖ beareth the quiver,
With trains[a] of men, [and][b] horsemen,—
And ‖Kir‖ hath uncovered the shield.
7 And it hath come to pass that |the choice of thy vales| are full of chariots;
Yea ‖the horsemen‖ have set themselves |in array| at the gate.
8 Then removed he the veil of Judah,—
Yea thou didst peer, on that day, into the armoury of the forest-house;
9 And <the breaches in the city of David> ye beheld, for they were many,—
So ye gathered together the waters of the lower pool;
10 And <the houses of Jerusalem> ye counted,—
And brake down the houses, to fortify the wall;
11 And  ye made, between the two walls, for the waters of the ancient pool,—
And had no regard unto him that made it,
Nor <unto him that formed it long ago> had ye respect.
12 And <when My Lord Yahweh of hosts called, in that day,—for weeping, and for lamentation, and for shaving bare, and for girding with sackcloth>
13 Then lo! joy and rejoicing, killing oxen, and slaughtering sheep, eating flesh, and drinking wine,—
Let us eat and drink,
For <to-morrow> we may die!
14 Therefore did Yahweh reveal himself in mine ears,
Surely there shall be no propitiatory-covering put over this iniquity for you, until ye die,
Saith My Lord, Yahweh,[c] of hosts.

§ 24. Shebna removed from his office as Steward, and Eliakim installed in his stead.

15 ‖Thus‖ said My Lord Yahweh[c] of hosts,
Come, go in unto this steward,
Unto Shebna, who is over the house:[d]
16 What doest thou here?
And whom hast thou here?
That thou hast hewn for thyself here a sepulchre,—
As one hewing on high' his sepulchre,
Cutting out in the cliff' a habitation for himself?
17 Lo! ‖Yahweh‖ is about to hurl thee, with a hurl, O mighty man,—
And roll thee with a roll;

[a] "The oracle of silence, i.e., of concealment, hidden meaning." Or else: "name of Edom with mystic meaning; Duma = silence of death, desolation." For both, see O.G. 189[a].
[b] So A. B. Davidson, "Temple Bible." "How much of the night is passed? Literally, 'What from off the night?'"—G.A.S. "How late is the hour of night?"—Cheyne [P.B.].
[c] Or: "If ye will keep on asking, keep on asking."
[d] Instead of "in Arabia," Cheyne reads and renders: "at eventide"—P.B.

[a] Cp. chap. xxi. 7.
[b] Some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edns., Vul.) have this "and"—G.n.
[c] Or: "Adonáy, Yahweh."
[d] Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.) add: "and thou shalt say unto him"—G.n.

18 He will ‖toss‖ thee, with a toss, like a ball, into a country wide on both hands,—
‖There‖ shalt thou die,
And ‖there‖ shall thy glorious' chariots be the contempt of the house of thy lord.
19 Thus will I thrust thee out from thine office,—
And <from thy station> shall one tear thee down.
20 And it shall come to pass, <in that day>
That I will call for my servant, for Eliakim, son of Hilkiah,
21 And will clothe him with thy tunic,
And <with thy girdle> will I gird him,
And <thine authority> will I deliver into his hand,—
So shall he become a father
To the inhabitant[a] of Jerusalem, and
To the house of Judah.
22 And I will lay the key of the house of David, upon his shoulder,—
And he shall open, and none' shall shut,
And shut, and none' shall open;
23 And I will fasten him as a peg in a sure place,—
And he shall become a throne of glory, to the house of his father;
24 And they shall hang upon him, all the weight of his father's house—
The offshoots, and the side-twigs—
All the small vessels,
Both the cups and all the jugs[b]
25 <In that day>—
Declareth Yahweh of hosts
Shall the peg |give way|, that was fastened in a sure place,—
Yea it shall be cut off and fall,
And the burden that was upon it shall perish,
For ‖Yahweh‖ hath spoken!

§ 25. A Prophecy against Tyre: when restored to her Traffic, she will render Tribute to the Temple of Yahweh.

23 1 The oracle on Tyre,—
Howl! ye ships of Tarshish,
For it is laid too waste to be a haven to enter,
<From the land of Cyprus> hath it been unveiled to them.
2 Be dumb, ye inhabitants of the Coast,— Whom ‖the merchants of Zidon‖ <passing over the sea> once replenished;
3 Yea <on mighty waters> was the grain of Shihor,
‖The harvest of the Nile‖ was her increase,—
And so she became a mart of nations.
4 Turn thou pale, O Zidon,
For spoken' hath the sea, the fortress of the sea, saying,—
I have neither been in pangs nor given birth,
I have neither brought up young men, nor promoted virgins.
5 <Like the report of Egypt>
They shall be in pangs at the like report of Tyre.[a]
6 Pass ye over to Tarshish,—
Howl, ye inhabitants of the Coast:
7 Is this, to you, an exultation?
<Though |from ancient days| is her antiquity>,
Yet shall her own feet' carry her away, far off to dwell.[b]
8 Who' hath purposed this, against Tyre,
The bestower of crowns,—
Whose merchants are princes,
Her traders, the honourable of the earth?
9 ‖Yahweh of hosts‖ hath purposed it,—
To humble the pride of all beauty,
To make of little esteem all the honourable
of the earth.
10 Pass through thy land, as the Nile,— O daughter of Tarshish, there is no' restraint[c] any longer!
11 <His hand> hath he stretched out over the sea,
He hath shaken kingdoms,— ‖Yahweh‖ hath given command against the Phœnician coast,[d]
To destroy her fortresses.
12 Therefore hath he said,—
‖No more, again‖ do thou exult,
Thou violated virgin daughter of Zidon,—
<To Cyprus> arise and pass over,
<Even there> shall one find thee no rest.
13 Lo! <the land of the Chaldeans>
|This| is the people, that was not,
‖Assyria‖ founded it for the inhabitants of the desert,—
They set up its siege-towers,
They demolished its palaces,
Made it a ruin!
14 Howl, ye ships of Tarshish,—
For laid waste' is your fortress.
15 So shall it be <in that day>
That Tyre shall be forgotten seventy years,
According to the days of a certain king:
<At the end of seventy years> shall it befall Tyre according to the song of the harlot:
16 Take thou a lyre, Go round the city,
O harlot forgotten,— Sweetly touch the strings, Lengthen out the song,
That thou mayest be called to mind.
17 So shall it be <at the end of seventy years>
That Yahweh will visit' Tyre,
And she will return to her hire,— Yea she will play the harlot—with all the kingdoms of the earth, upon[e] the face of the ground.

[a] In some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.): "inhabitants"—G.n.
[b] "Jars, pitchers"—O.G.
[a] Cp. O.G. p. 453, b.
[b] Or: "sojourn."
[c] But see O.G. 561[a].
[d] See O.G. 488[b].
[e] Some cod.: "which are upon"—G.n.

18 But |her merchandise and her hire| shall be hallowed unto Yahweh,
It shall not be stored up, nor hoarded,—
For <to them who dwell before Yahweh> shall her merchandise belong,
That they may eat to satisfaction,
And have stately apparel.

§ 26. A world-wide Devastation gives place to a Manifestation of Yahweh as King in Jerusalem; in connection with which, supra-mundane and mundane hostile Powers are Imprisoned, Death is Defeated, the Veil over the Nations is Removed, Israel fills the World with Fruit, and Songs are sung both in the Uttermost Parts of the Earth and in the Land of Judah.

24 1 Lo! Yahweh emptying the earth, and laying it waste,—
And he will overturn the face thereof,
And scatter them who dwell therein.
2 And it shall be—
<As the people> ‖so‖ the priest,
<As the servant> ‖so‖ his lord,
<As the maid> ‖so‖ her mistress,—
<As the buyer> ‖so‖ the seller,
<As the lender> ‖so‖ the borrower,
<As the debtor> ‖so‖ his creditor.
3 Emptied—emptied—shall be the earth, yea
pillaged—pillaged,—
For ‖Yahweh‖ hath spoken this word.
4 Mourneth, fadeth, the earth
Languisheth, fadeth, the world,— Languished' have the lofty of the people of the earth.
5 Yea ‖the earth itself‖ is profaned under them who dwell therein,—
For they have Set aside laws,
Gone beyond statute,
Broken an age-abiding covenant.
6 ‖For this cause‖ |a curse| hath devoured the earth,[a]
And punished are the dwellers therein,—
‖For this cause‖ are burned the inhabitants of the earth,
And the men left remaining—are |few|.
7 Mourneth' the new wine,
Withereth' the vine,—
Sighing' are all the merryhearted:
8 Ceased' hath the mirth of timbrels,
Ended' is the noise of the uproarious,—
Ceased' hath the mirth of the lyre:
9 <With a song> they drink not wine,—
Bitter' is strong drink,[b] to them who drink it:
10 Broken down' is the city of desolation,[c]— Shut up' every house, that it cannot be entered.
11 There is an outcry concerning wine' in the streets,—
Darkened' is all joy,
Departed' the gladness of the earth.
12 There is left in the city, desolation,—
And <to ruins> have been broken the gate.
13 <When ‖thus‖ it shall be in the earth,
in the midst of the peoples> [There shall be] like the shaking of an olive-tree, like the going round to pick, when closed' is the harvest.
14 ‖They‖ shall lift up their voice—shall raise a tremulous note,— <On account of the splendour of Yahweh> have they made a shrill cry, on the West;
15 ‖For this cause‖
<In the Regions of Light> give ye glory to Yahweh,—
<In the Coastlands of the Sea> [unto] the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel.
16 ‖From the uttermost part of the earth‖
<melodies> have we heard—
‖Beauty‖ to the righteous one![a]
But I had said—
Ruin to me! Ruin to me! Woe to me!
‖Traitors‖ have betrayed,
Yea ‖traitorously‖ have traitors betrayed!
17 Terror and pit, and snare,[b]—are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth!
18 So shall it be—
‖He that fleeth from the sound of the terror‖ shall fall into the pit,
And ‖he that getteth up out of the midst of the pit‖ shall be captured in the snare,—
For ‖the windows on high‖ have opened,
And shaken' are the foundations of earth.
19 The earth breaketh, breaketh,—
The earth crasheth, crasheth,
The earth tottereth, tottereth;
20 The earth staggereth—staggereth, like a drunken man,
And rocketh to and fro like a night-hut,—
So shall be heavy upon her, her transgression,
And she shall fall, and |not again' rise|.[c]
21 And it shall be <in that day>
That Yahweh will bring punishment Upon the host of the height, in the height,—
And upon the kings of the ground, on the ground.
22 And they shall be swept together in a crowd, fettered for a pit,
And shall be lowered into a dungeon,—
And <after many days> shall they be punished.
23 Then shall blush, the silvery moon,
Then turn pale, the glowing sun,—
Because Yahweh of hosts |hath become king|
In Mount Zion,
And in Jerusalem,
And before his Elders, in glory.[d]

[a] Some cod. (w. 4 ear. pr. edns., Syr.): "Because of a curse the earth mourneth"—G.n.

[a] Or: "the vindicated one." Cp. Zech. ix. 9.
[b] N.B.: the striking assonance: paḥadh wa-paḥath wa-paḥ.
[c] So "I had said," ver. 16.
[d] Or: "And before his elders [shall be] glory."

Yahweh! <my God> thou art',
I will exalt thee,
I will praise thy Name,
For thou hast done a wonderful thing,—
Purposes of long ago,
Faithfulness in truth.
2 For thou hast made,
of a citadel, a mound,
of a defenced city, a ruin,— palaces for foreigners, to be no city,
<To times age-abiding> shall it not be built.
3 ‖For this cause‖ shall glorify thee—a strong people,
‖The city of tyrannous nations‖ shall revere thee;
4 For thou didst become
A refuge to the weak,
A refuge to the needy, when distress was upon him,—
A shelter from the storm,
A shade from the heat,
When the blast of tyrants was like a storm against a wall.
5 <As heat in a desert> ‖the pomp of foreigners‖ wilt thou subdue,— Heat—with the shade of a cloud,
‖The song of tyrants‖ become low.[a]

6 Then will Yahweh of hosts prepare' for all the peoples <in this mountain>
A banquet of fat things,[b]
A banquet of old wines,—
Of fat things[b] full of marrow,[c]
Of old wines well refined;[d]
7 And he will swallow up <in this mountain>
The mask of the veil, the veil that is upon all the peoples,[e]—
And the web that is woven over all the nations.
8 <Having swallowed up death itself victoriously>
My Lord, Yahweh,[f] |will wipe away| tears from off all faces,—
And <the reproach of his own people> will he remove from off all the earth,
For ‖Yahweh‖ hath spoken.
9 So shall it be said <in that day>
Lo! <our God> is this!
We waited for him,[g] that he might save us,—
‖This‖ is Yahweh!
We waited for him,
Let us exult and rejoice, in his salvation.
10 For the hand of Yahweh will settle down in this mountain,—
Then shall Moab be trodden down in its place,
Like the treading down of a strawheap in the water of a dunghill;

11 <Should he spread forth his hands in the midst thereof,
As a swimmer spreadeth forth to swim>
Then would be laid low his pride, together with the devices of his hands.
12 Yea <the lofty stronghold of thy walls>
Hath he brought down—
Laid low—
Levelled to the ground, even unto the dust.

1 <In that day> shall be sung this song, in the land of Judah,— 2
<A strong city> have we!
‖Salvation‖ will he set for walls and rampart.
2 Open ye the gates,—
That there may enter in—a righteous nation preserving fidelity.
3 <A purpose sustained> thou wilt guard, [saying] Prosper! Prosper!
Because <in thee> hath he been led to trust.
4 Trust ye in Yahweh, unto futurity,—
For <in Yah, Yahweh> is a rock of ages.
5 For he hath brought down the inhabitants of the height, the city exalted,—
He layeth it low.
Layeth it low, even to the ground,
Levelleth it, even to the dust:
6 The foot trampleth' it,—
The feet of the lowly,[a]
The steps of the weak.
7 ‖The path of a righteous man‖ is ‖even‖,—
O Upright One! <the track of a righteous man> thou makest level.[b]
8 Surely <in the path of thy regulations> O Yahweh, we waited for thee,— <Unto thy Name and unto thy Memorial>[c] was there a longing of soul:
9 <With my soul> longed I for thee in the night,
Yea <with my spirit within me> I kept on searching for thee,[d]—
For <when thy regulations [extend] to the earth>
The inhabitants of the world will have learned ‖righteousness‖.
10 <Let favour be shewed to the lawless> he hath not learned righteousness,
<In a land of honest dealings> he acteth perversely,—
And seeth not the splendour of Yahweh.
11 O Yahweh <though thy hand be lifted up> yet do they not see,
Would they might see—and turn pale at a people's zeal,—
Surely ‖the fire of thine enemies‖ must consume them!

12 O Yahweh, thou wilt ensure prosperity for us,—
For <even all our works> hast thou wrought for us.

13 O Yahweh, our God!
Lords other than thee, have owned' us,—
<By thyself alone> will we call upon[a] thy Name.

14 ‖The dead‖ come not to life again,
‖The shades‖ do not arise,[b]—
|Therefore| thou hast visited and destroyed them,
And caused to perish every memorial of them.

15 Thou hast increased the nation, O Yahweh,
Thou hast increased the nation, |thou hast gotten thyself glory|,[c]—
Thou hast extended far, all the ends of the land.

16 O Yahweh! <in distress> they sought thee,—
They poured out a whispered prayer,[d] when thy chastening was upon them.

17 <Like as a woman with child—
Draweth near to giving birth,
Is in pain,
Crieth out in her pangs>
‖So‖ were we before thee, O Yahweh;—

18 We were with child—
We were in pain,
As it were we brought forth wind,—
<Salvation> we could not accomplish for the earth,
Neither were born'[e] the inhabitants of the world.

19 Thy dead |shall come to life again|,
<My dead body> they shall arise,—
Awake and shout for joy, ye that dwell in the dust.
For [f] is thy dew,
And ‖earth‖ |to the shades| shall give birth.[g]

20 Come, my people, enter into thy chambers,[h]
And shut thy doors[i] behind thee,—
Hide thee, as it were, a little moment,[k]
Till the indignation pass over.

21 For lo! ‖Yahweh‖ is coming forth out of his place,
To visit the iniquity of earth's inhabitant upon him,— Therefore shall the earth unveil her shed-blood,
And throw a covering, no longer, over her slain.

27 1 <In that day> will Yahweh
<With his sword—the hard and the great and the strong>
|Bring punishment|
Upon Leviathan, the fleeing[a] serpent,
And upon Leviathan, the crooked[b] serpent,—
And will slay the monster which is in the sea.

2 <In that day> A Wine-Vineyard![c] sing ye unto her:

3 ‖I—Yahweh‖ am watching over her,
<Every moment> will I water her,— <Lest anyone injure her>
<Night and day> will I watch over her.

4 <Fury> have I none,—
Oh that there were delivered to me, briars and thorns, in battle!
I would march in among them,
I would set fire to them |one and all|.

5 Else, let one lay hold of my protection,[d]
Let him make peace with me,—
<Peace> let him make with me.

6 <In coming times> shall Jacob |strike root|,
Israel |shall blossom and bud|,—
Then shall they fill the face of the world with fruit.

7 Was it <with the smiting of his smiter> that he smote him?
Or <as with the slaying of his slayer> was he slain?

8 <By driving her away—by dismissing her> wouldest thou contend with her?
He removed her by his[e] rough wind, in a day of east wind.

9 |Therefore| <hereby> shall a propitiatory-covering be put over the iniquity of Jacob,
And all ‖this‖ is the fruit of taking away his sin,—
<When he maketh all the stones of an altar like chalk-stones that soon crumble>
Sacred Stems and Sun Images |shall not arise|.

10 For ‖the fortified city‖ is solitary,
The dwelling forsaken, and left as a wilderness,—

[a] Cp. O.G. 270[b]. Ml.: "made mention of."

[b] This is the natural and obvious rendering; and so, in effect, G.A.S. translates. Even so, however, the next couplet would appear to limit the statement to the "other lords" just alluded to in ver. 13. ‖There‖ shall the calf feed,
And ‖there‖ lie down,
And shall consume the branches thereof:
11 <When the cut-off boughs thereof are dry>
they shall be broken to pieces,
‖Women‖ coming, are kindling it!
For it is ‖not a people of understanding‖,
<For this cause>
Will he that made him |not have compassion upon him|
And ‖he that formed him‖ will shew him no favour.

12 And it shall come to pass |in that day|
That Yahweh will beat off his fruit from the stream of the River [=Euphrates], unto the torrent-valley of Egypt,—
And ‖ye‖ shall be picked up, one by one,
O sons of Israel.
13 And it shall come to pass |in that day|
That there shall be a blowing with a great horn,
Then shall come in
Such as have wandered in the land of Assyria,
And such as have been outcasts in the land of Egypt,—
And they shall bow themselves down unto Yahweh,
In the holy mountain,
In Jerusalem.

§ 27. Samaria's Overthrow foretold, the Babble of Ephraim's Drunkards being mimicked in Derision and in Wrath: Jerusalem's Scoffing Rulers denounced; and to them is threatened the founding of a Testing Stone in Zion.

28 1 Alas! for the proud crown of the drunkards of Ephraim,
And for his fading wreath of majestic beauty,—
Which is on the head of the fertile valley, of them who are overcome[a] with wine.
2 Lo! My Lord[b] hath one who is ‖strong and bold‖,
<Like a storm of hail, a destroying tempest,[c]
Like a storm of mighty waters o'erflowing>
Hath he thrust it down to the earth with force:
3 <With the feet' shall be trodden down> the proud crown of the drunkards of Ephraim!
4 So shall his fading wreath of majestic beauty,
Which is on the head of the fertile valley, become'—
Like the first-ripe fig before fruit-harvest,
Which <when he that looketh upon it seeth, while it is yet in his hand> he swalloweth it up.

5 <In that day> will Yahweh of hosts become
A crown of beauty, and
A diadem of majesty,—
Unto the remnant of his people:
6 Even a spirit of justice—to him that presideth over justice,
And strength to them who would turn back the battle at the gate.

7 But <as for these>
<With wine> do they reel, and
<With strong drink> do they stagger,—
‖Priest and prophet‖ reel with strong drink
They are swallowed up through wine,
They stagger through strong drink,
They reel in prophetic vision,
They totter in pronouncing judgment.
8 For ‖all tables‖ are full of filthy vomit,—
There is no place!

9 ‖Whom‖ would he teach knowledge?
And ‖whom‖ would he cause to understand the message?
Them who are weaned from the milk?
taken from the breasts?
10 For it is—
Precept upon precept, precept upon precept,
Line upon line, line upon line,—
A little here, a little there.[a]

11 For <with a jabbering lip, and with an alien tongue> must he speak unto this people!
12 To whom he said—
‖This‖ is the rest—give ye rest to the weary, and
‖This‖ is the quietness,—
But they were unwilling to hear.
13 So the word of Yahweh must be' to them—
Precept upon precept, precept upon precept,
Line upon line, line upon line,
A little here, a little there,[b]—
That they may go, and fall backward, and be torn, and snared, and captured.

14 |Wherefore|, hear ye the word of Yahweh,
Ye men who scoff,—
Ye rulers of this people that is in Jerusalem.
15 <Because ye have said—
We have solemnised a covenant with death,
And <with hades> have we effected a vision,[c]—

[b] Heb.:—
Wĕhāyāh' lāhem' dĕvar-yahweh',
Ẓaw lāẓāw, ẓaw lāẓāw,
Ḳaw lāḳāw ḳaw lāḳāw,
Zĕ'ēr shām, zĕ'ēr shām.
Giving back to the scoffers their own words—now as a stern threatening.
[c] Cp. O.G. 302[b].

‖The overflowing scourge, when it sweepeth by‖ shall not reach unto us,
For we have made lying' our refuge,
And <in falsehood> have we hid ourselves>
16 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,[a]
Behold me! founding in Zion, a stone,
A stone of testing,[b]
The costly[c] corner of a well-laid foundation,
‖He that trusteth‖ shall not make haste![d]
17 But I will make—Justice' the line, and Righteousness' the plummet,—
And the hail shall |sweep away|' your refuge of lying,
And <your hiding-place> the waters shall overflow;
18 So shall be wiped out your covenant with death,
And ‖your vision[e] with hades‖ not stand,—
<When ‖the overflowing scourge‖ sweepeth past> then shall ye be thereby beaten down:
19 <As often as it sweepeth past> it shall take you' away,
For <morning by morning> shall it pass along,
By day and by night,—
And it shall be nothing less than a terror, to make out the message;
20 For too short' is the couch to stretch oneself out,—
And ‖the coverlet‖ too narrow, when one draweth up his feet.[f]
21 For <as in Mount Perazim>[g] will Yahweh arise,
<As in the vale of Gibeon>[h] will he be stirred,—
To do his work—foreign' is his work,
And to perform his task—strange' is his task.
22 ‖Now‖ therefore, do not show yourselves scoffers,
Lest your fetters |be bound fast|,—
For <of a full end, and that a decreed one> have I heard from My Lord Yahweh of hosts, upon all the land.[i]

§ 28. Practical Wisdom traced to its true Source [added by some to the foregoing section].

23 Give ear, and hear ye my voice,— Hearken, and hear ye my speech:—
24 <All day long> doth the plowman plow for sowing?
Doth he continue laying open and harrowing his soil?
25 Doth he not <when he hath levelled the face thereof>
Cast abroad the fennel?
And <the cummin> doth he not scatter?
And plant wheat in rows,
And barley in a lot,
And spelt in the border thereof?
26 Yea, One hath trained him to good judgment,
‖His God‖ directeth him.
27 For <not with a sledge> must |black coriander| be threshed,
Nor must ‖the wheel of a cart‖ <on cummin> be turned,
But <with a staff> must |fennel| be beaten,
And |cummin| ‖with a rod‖:
28 ‖Bread-corn‖ must be crushed,—
Yet would he not be evermore' ‖threshing‖ it,
So he hasteneth over it the wheel of his cart, with his horsemen,
He crusheth it not!
29 ‖Even this‖ <from Yahweh of hosts> cometh forth,—
Who hath bestowed distinction upon counsel,
And magnified sound wisdom.[a]

§ 29. Alas for Ariel, the Hearth of God ("Mount Zion"); yet shall besieging nations not obtain their Desire.

29 1 Alas for Ariel, Ariel,[b]
The city against[c] which |David| encamped,—
Add ye a year to a year,
Let ‖the festivals‖ come round;
2 Yet will I bring Ariel into straits,—
And she shall become a bewailing and wailing,
Yea she shall become to me a veritable Hearth of God.[d]
3 And I will encamp round about against thee,—
And lay siege against thee with a fort,
And raise against thee siege-works;
4 And thou shalt be brought low—
<Out of the earth> shalt thou speak,
And <out of the dust> shalt thou lower thine utterance,—
And <as one that hath a familiar spirit>
<Out of the earth> shall come thy voice,
And <out of the dust> thy speech shall chirp;
5 Then shall be |as fine dust| the multitude of thy foreigners,—
And <as chaff that passeth away> the multitude of tyrants;
And it shall come to pass, in a twinkling, suddenly.

[a] Or transfer both names: "Adonây, Yahweh."
[b] So, exactly. Cp. O.G. 103[b]. That is, a stone, tested itself, and testing others. Cp. ver. 17 and Zech. iii. 9.

[c] So Cheyne (P.B.). "In" ("In which David fixed his camp")—O.G. 333.
[d] Heb.: Ariel, as above.

<From Yahweh of hosts> shalt thou be visited,
With thunder, and with earthquake, and a great noise,—hurricane and storm, and a flame of fire devouring;
7 And it shall be like the dream of a night vision,
With the multitude of all the nations who have been making war against Ariel,—
Even with all who have been making war against her, and her stronghold, and who have been laying siege to her;
8 Yea it shall be
<As when the hungry man dreameth', and lo! he is eating,
But he awaketh, and his soul |is empty|,
Or as when the thirsty man dreameth', and lo! he is drinking,
But he awaketh, and lo! he is faint, and |his soul| is craving>
‖So‖ shall it be with the multitude of all the nations, that have come forth to war against Mount Zion.

§ 30. Yahweh further complains of his own People for Want of Discernment, for Formality, and unbelieving Perversity; but foretells Better things.

9 Stand ye stock still, and stare,
Besmear your eyes, and be blind,—
They are drunken, but not with wine,
They reel, but not with strong drink;
10 For Yahweh |hath poured out upon you| a spirit of deep sleep,
Yea hath tightly shut your eyes—the prophets,—
And <your heads—the seers> hath he covered,[a] 11 And so all' vision hath become unto you, as the words of a writing that is sealed,
Which is delivered unto one acquainted with writing, saying,
Pray thee, read this,
And he saith,
I cannot, for it' is |sealed|;
And then the writing is delivered to one unacquainted with writing, saying,
Pray thee, read this,
And he saith,
I am not acquainted with writing.
13 Wherefore My Lord[b] hath said,—
<Because this people |hath drawn near| with their mouth,
And <with their lips> have honoured me,
But <their heart> have they moved far from me,
And so their reverence of me hath become
A commandment of men' in which they have been schooled>[c]
14 ‖Therefore‖ behold me! again' dealing wonderfully with this people, doing wonderfully a wonderful thing,—
So |shall perish| the wisdom of their wise men,
And ‖the intelligence of their intelligent men‖ shall vanish!
15 Alas! for them who would fain have been too deep for Yahweh, by giving secret counsel,—and therefore <in the dark> have been their doings, and they have said,
Who' can see us? and—
Who' can understand us?
16 Your perverseness!
As if <like clay> ‖the potter‖ could be reckoned;
For shall |the thing made| say' |of him that made it|
He made me not?
Or hath ‖the thing fashioned‖ ever said |of him that fashioned it|
He hath no understanding?
17 Is it not yet' a very little while,
And |Lebanon| shall be turned |into garden land|,—
And ‖garden land‖ |for a forest| be reckoned?
18 Therefore, in that day, shall the deaf hear' the words of a book,[a]—
And <out of gloom and darkness> |the eyes of the blind| shall see;
19 And again' shall the humbled,[b] <in Yahweh> have joy,—
And ‖the needy of mankind‖ <in the Holy One of Israel> exult;
20 For the tyrant[c] |hath vanished|,
And the scoffer |is no more|,
Yea cut off' are all who watch for iniquity:—
21 Who bring a man into condemnation with a rumour,
And <for him that decideth[d] in the gate> lay a snare,—
And have driven away, for a thing of nought, one who was righteous.
22 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, concerning the house of Jacob, [even he saith it] who redeemed Abraham,—
‖Not now‖ shall |Jacob| turn pale,
And ‖not now‖ shall their faces whiten;
23 For[e] <when he seeth his children, the work of my hands, in his midst>
They will hallow my Name,—
Yea they will hallow the Holy One of Jacob,
And <the God of Israel> will they regard with awe.
24 Then will they who erred in spirit, comprehend,[f]
And ‖the murmurers‖ accept instruction.

§ 31. Reliance on Egypt denounced. Yahweh Israel's true Protection against both Egypt and Assyria.

30 1 Alas! for sons who are rebellious,
Declareth Yahweh.
Executing a purpose, but not from me,
And pouring out a libation,[a] but not from my spirit,—
That they may add sin to sin:
2 Who are setting out to go down to Egypt,
But <at my mouth> have not asked,— Betaking them to the protection of Pharaoh,
And seeking refuge under the shadow of Egypt.
3 Therefore shall |the protection of Pharaoh|
|become to you| a shame,
And |the refuge in the shadow of Egypt|
an insult;
4 For |their princes| have been |in Zoan|,—
And ‖their messengers‖ |unto Hanes| would draw near.
5 ‖Every one‖ hath felt ashamed of a people that could not serve them,— Neither with help, nor with service,
But they are a shame, yea even a reproach.

6 The Oracle on the Beasts of the South,—
<Through a land of distress and oppression—
Lioness and lion coming therefrom,
Viper and fiery flying serpent>
They would carry, on the shoulders of young asses, their wealth,
And, on the humps of camels, their treasures,
Unto a people that cannot serve them.
7 But ‖the Egyptians‖ <with vanity and emptiness> would help,— Therefore' have I proclaimed concerning this,
‖Insolent‖! ‖they‖ sit still![b]
8 ‖Now‖[c] enter—
Write it upon a tablet before them,
And <upon a scroll> inscribe it,—
That it may serve for a later day,
For futurity, unto times age-abiding:—
9 That it is ‖a rebellious people‖
Sons, apt at deceiving,—
Sons, unwilling to hear the law[d] of Yahweh:
10 Who have said to |the seers|,
Ye must not |see|!
To the prophets,
Ye must not prophesy to us reproofs!
Speak to us smooth things,
Prophesy delusions:
11 Depart ye from the way,
Turn aside from the path,—
Desist, from setting before us ‖the, Holy One of Israel‖.
12 |Therefore|—
‖Thus‖ saith the Holy One of Israel,
<Because ye have rejected this word,—
And have trusted in oppression and perverseness,
And have relied thereon>
13 ‖Therefore‖ shall this iniquity become to you
As a breach ready to fall,
A bulging in a high wall,—
Whose breaking down cometh ‖suddenly in a twinkling‖.
14 Yea he will break it—as the breaking of the pitcher of a potter, ‖crushed‖ |he will not spare|;
So that there shall not be found, <when it is smashed>
A sherd' wherewith to snatch fire from a hearth,[a]
Or to skim off water out of a cistern.
15 For ‖thus‖ said my Lord Yahweh,[b] the Holy One of Israel—
<By returning and resting> shall ye be saved,
<In keeping quiet and trusting> shall be your strength,— Howbeit ye would not!
16 But ye said,—
Nay! but <on horses> will we flee,
‖For this cause‖ shall ye indeed flee,—
And <on the swift> will we ride,
‖For this cause‖ ‖swift‖ shall be your pursuers:
17 ‖One' thousand‖ <before the war-cry[c] of one—before the war-cry of five> shall ye flee,— Until ye have been left,
As a pole on the top of a mountain,
And as an ensign upon a hill.
18 And |therefore| will Yahweh wait,
That he may grant you favour,
And |therefore| will he lift himself up,
That he may show you compassion,—
For <A God of justice>[d] is |Yahweh|,
How happy all they who are waiting for him
19 For ‖a people‖ |In Zion| shall dwell
‖In Jerusalem‖,—
<As for weeping> thou shalt not weep!
<As for favour> he will grant thee favour,
at the sound of thine outcry,—
<As soon as he heareth> he hath answered thee!
20 <Though My Lord[e] |should give you| bread in short measure, and water in scant allowance>
Yet will thy Teacher[f] |not hide himself any more|,
But thine eyes shall ever be looking on Teacher.[f]

21 So shall ‖thine own ears‖ hear a word from behind thee saying,—
‖This‖ is the way, walk ye therein,
‖When ye would turn to the right hand,
Or when ye would turn to the left‖.

22 Then will ye defile—
The overlaying of thy graven images[a] of silver,
And the coating of thy molten image[b] of gold,—
Thou wilt cast them away, as a woman the token of her sickness,
Begone! shalt thou say thereto.

23 Then will he give—
Rain' for thy seed—wherewith thou shalt sow thy ground, and Bread' as the increase of thy ground, which shall be fertile and fat,— Thy cattle, in that day, shall feed' in broad pasture:

24 And ‖the oxen and the young asses that till the ground‖ <salted provender> shall eat, which hath been winnowed with shovel or fan.

25 Then shall there be,
On every lofty mountain, and
On every lifted hill,
Channels, Conduits of water,—
In the great day of slaughter,
When the towers fall.

26 Then shall |the light of the moon| be |as the light of the sun|,
And ‖the light of the sun‖ shall be |seven-
fold| ‖as the light of seven days‖,—
‖In the day—
When Yahweh |bindeth up| the laceration of his people, and
When <the severe wound caused by smiting them> he healeth‖.

27 Lo! ‖the Name of Yahweh‖ coming in from afar,
His anger kindling, A heavy storm,—
‖His lips‖ are full of indignation,
And ‖his tongue‖ is like a fire that devoureth;

28 And ‖his breath'[c] like an overflowing torrent‖
<even unto the neck> doth reach,
To sift nations' with a sieve of calamity,— ‖A bridle leading to ruin‖ being upon the jaws of the peoples.

29 <A song> shall ye have,
As in the night of hallowing a festival,—
And gladness of heart,
As when one goeth with the flute to enter
Into the mountain of Yahweh,
Unto the Rock of Israel.

30 Then will Yahweh |cause to be heard|—the resounding[d] of his voice,
And ‖the bringing down of his arm‖ shall be seen,
In a rage of anger,
And with the flame of a devouring fire,—
A burst[e] and a downpour, and a hailstone!

31 For <at the voice of Yahweh> shall Assyria
|be crushed|,—
<With his rod> will he smite.

32 And it shall come to pass,—that ‖every stroke of the staff of doom, which Yahweh shall lay upon him‖ shall be with timbrels, and with lyres,— when <with battles of brandished weapons> he hath fought against them.[a]

33 For there hath been set in order, beforehand,[b] a Topheth,
Yea ‖the same‖ <for the king>[c] hath been prepared,
He hath made it deep—made it large,—
The circumference thereof is for fire and wood in abundance,
‖The breath of Yahweh‖ <like a torrent of brimstone> is ready to kindle it.

1 Alas! for them who are going down to Egypt for help,
<On horses> would rely,—
And have trusted—
In chariots—because they are many, and
In horsemen, because they are very bold,
But have not looked unto the Holy One of Israel,
And <unto Yahweh> have not sought.

2 But ‖he also‖ is wise, and hath brought in calamity,
And <his own words> hath he not set aside,—
Therefore will he rise up Against the house of evil-doers, and Against the help of the workers of iniquity.

3 Now ‖the Egyptians‖ are |men| and not
|God|,
And ‖their horses‖ |flesh| and not |spirit|;
<When ‖Yahweh‖ shall stretch out his hand>
Then |he that is giving help| shall stumble',
And |he that is receiving help| shall fall',
And ‖together‖ shall |all of them|
vanish!

4 For ‖Thus‖ hath Yahweh said unto me—
<Like as a lion or a young lion growleth' over his prey,
Who—though there be called out against him a multitude of shepherds—
Will not |at their voice| be dismayed,
Nor |at their noise| be daunted>
‖So‖ will Yahweh of hosts come down, to make war over Mount Zion, and over the hill thereof.

5 <As little mother-birds hovering> ‖so‖ will Yahweh of hosts throw a covering over
Jerusalem,—
‖Covering‖ so will he rescue,
‖Passing over‖ so will he deliver!

6 Return ye unto him, against whom the sons of Israel have deeply' revolted, 7 For <in that day> will every man reject his idols of silver, and his idols of gold,—
Which your hands had made for you |as a sin|!
8 Then shall the Assyrian fall, by the sword,
not of a great man,
And ‖the sword, not of a mean man‖ shall devour him,— Howbeit he shall take his flight from[a] the face of a sword,
And ‖his young men‖ shall come |under

9 And <his own Cliff>[b] ‖through terror‖ shall

Who hath a flame in Zion,
And hath a furnace in Jerusalem.

§ 32. An Ideal Reign of Righteousness, with its blessed Results in quickened Intelligence, improved Speech, and rectified moral Judgments; which Reign, however, has not yet come, and the Careless Women may lament over impending Calamity; but, with the Outpouring of the Spirit, it will come, and its gracious Fruits abound. Also, the great Anti-city will be sunk. Happy! all diligent Sowers of the Prophetic Word.

32 1 Lo! <in righteousness> shall reign |a king|
Yea ‖even princes‖ <with equity> shall bear rule.
2 So shall each one become'
As a hiding-place from the wind
And a covert from the storm,—
As channels of water in a dry place,
As the shadow of a massive cliff in a weary land.
3 And the eyes of them who are ready to see,

And ‖the ears of them who are ready to hear‖

And ‖the tongue of stammerers‖ shall make haste to speak plainly.
5 |A[c] base man| shall no longer be called ‖noble‖,—
Nor ‖a knave‖ be named |liberal‖;
6 For ‖a base man‖ <with baseness> will speak,
And ‖his heart‖ will practise iniquity,—
Practising profanity,
And speaking, against Yahweh that which misleadeth,
Emptying the soul of the hungry,
And <the drink of the thirsty> he causeth
to fail;
7 Yea  |his weapons| are wicked,—
‖He‖ <base schemes> hath devised
To ruin the oppressed with speeches of falsehood,
Even when the needy pleadeth for justice.
8 But ‖a noble man‖ <noble things>[a] hath devised,—
And ‖he‖ <upon noble things> will stand.[b]

9 Ye women in comfort! arise, hear my voice, Ye daughters so confident, give ear to my speech:—
10 <Some days beyond a year> ye shall be

For failed' hath the vintage,
No ‖gathering‖ cometh in.

11 Tremble, ye women in comfort,
Be troubled, ye daughters so confident,—

what on your loins:
12 <Upon your breasts>[c] continue smiting:
For desirable fields,[d]
For fruitful vine.

briars| shall grow,—
Yea, over all houses of joy, thou city exultant!
14 For ‖the palace‖ is abandoned,
‖The tumult of the city‖ hath ceased,— ‖Hill and watch-tower‖[e] serve as caves, unto times age-abiding,
The joy of wild-asses,
The pasture of flocks:—
15 Until there be poured out upon us the spirit, from on high,—
Then shall |the wilderness| become |garden-
land|,
And |the garden-land|[f] <for a forest> be reckoned;
16 Then shall |justice| inhabit |the wilderness|,
And ‖righteousness‖ <in the garden-land>
shall abide;
17 And |the yield of righteousness| shall be
|peace|,—
And |the tillage[g] of righteousness| |quietness
and confidence| to times age-abiding;
18 And my people |shall dwell|
In a home of peace,—and
In habitations of security, and
In resting-places of comfort.

§ 34. The Divine Anger against All Nations falls on Edom: The Ransomed of Yahweh return to Zion.

34 1 Come near, ye nations, to hear,
And, ye races, attend,—
Let the earth hear, and the fulness thereof,
The world, and all things produced therefrom:
2 That Yahweh
hath wrath against all the nations, and indignation against all their host,—
He hath devoted them to destruction,
He hath delivered them to slaughter;
3 And ‖their slain‖ shall be cast out,
And <their carcases> |the stench of them| shall ascend,—
And |the mountains| shall melt away ‖with their blood‖.

4 Then shall be dissolved all the host of the heavens,
And the heavens' |shall roll up as a scroll|,—
Yea ‖all their host‖ shall fade—
Like the fading and falling of a leaf from a vine, and Like what fadeth and falleth from a fig-tree.

5 For my sword| hath been sated in the heavens|,—
Lo! <upon Edom>[d] shall it descend,
Even on the people whom I have devoted to justice.

6 <A sword> hath Yahweh—
Glutted with blood, Sated with fat,—
With the blood of well-fed lambs,[e] and he-goats,
With the fat of the kidneys of rams,—
For  hath Yahweh, in Bozrah,
Yea a great slaughter, in the land of Edom;
7 Then shall buffaloes come down with them,
And bullocks with bulls,—
So shall their land be soaked with blood,
And ‖their dust‖ <with fat> shall be enriched.

8 For  hath Yahweh,—
A year of requitals, for the quarrel of Zion.

9 Then shall |the torrents thereof| be turned |into pitch|,
And |the dust thereof| |into brimstone|,—
So shall her land become burning pitch:
10 Neither <night nor day> shall it be quenched,
<To times age-abiding> shall ascend the smoke thereof,—
<From generation to generation> shall it lie waste,
<Never, never>[a] shall any pass through it:
11 That the vomiting pelican and the bittern |may possess it|:
And ‖the great owl[b] and the raven‖ dwell therein;
Then will he stretch out over it,
The line of desolation,[c] and
The plummet of emptiness.[d]
12 ‖Her nobles‖ (but none are |there|!) <unto royalty> will call,—
All ‖all her princes‖ shall become nought.
13 Then shall come up, in her palaces, |thorns|,
Nettles and thistles, in her fortresses,—
And she shall become
A home for wild dogs,
An enclosure for ostriches;
14 Then shall criers meet with howlers,
And ‖the shaggy creature‖ <unto his fellow> shall call,—
Only ‖there‖ shall |the night-spectre|
Make her settlement,
And find for herself a place of rest:
15 ‖There‖ shall |the arrow-snake|
Make her nest and lay,
And hatch, and gather under her shadow,—
Only ‖there‖ shall be gathered the falcons,[e] every one with her mate.

16 Seek ye out of the scroll of Yahweh, and read,
Not ‖one from among them‖ is lacking,
‖None‖ hath missed |her mate|,—
For ‖a mouth‖[f] hath |itself| commanded,
And ‖his spirit‖ hath |itself| gathered them:
17 Yea ‖he himself‖ hath cast for them a lot,
And ‖his own hand‖ hath given to them a portion |by line|,—
<Unto times age-abiding> shall they possess it,
<To generation after generation> shall they dwell therein.

‖Joy and gladness‖ shall overtake [them],
And sorrow' and sighing' | shall flee away |.

35. The Invasion of Sennacherib King of Assyria.

1 Now it came to pass, <in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah> that Sennacherib king of Assyria came up, against all the fortified cities of Judah, and took them. 2 Then did the king of Assyria send Rabshakeh from Lachish to Jerusalem, unto King Hezekiah, with a heavy force,—and he took his stand by the upper channel of the pool, in the highway of the fuller's field. 3 And there went out to him—Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was over the household,—and Shebna, the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder. 4 And Rabshakeh said unto them,

Pray you say unto Hezekiah,—
‖Thus‖ saith the great king, the king of Assyria,
What is this trust, wherewith thou dost trust?
5 I have said[a] [sayest thou]—they are only words of the lips—
Counsel and might [have I] for the war,—
‖Now‖ upon whom' dost thou trust, that thou hast rebelled against me?
6 Lo! thou dost trust on the support of this bruised cane, on Egypt, whereon, if a man lean, it will enter his hand, and lay it open,—
‖So‖ is Pharaoh, king of Egypt, to all who trust upon him.
7 But <if thou[b] shouldst say unto me,
<In Yahweh our God> do we trust>
Then is that' not he' | whose high places and whose altars | Hezekiah hath removed, and said unto Judah and unto Jerusalem,
<Before this altar> shall ye bow yourselves down?
8 ‖Now‖ therefore, pledge thyself, I pray thee, with my lord, the king of Assyria,—
That I supply thee with two thousand horses,
If thou, on thy part, be able to set riders upon them ;
9 | How then | wilt thou turn away the face of one pasha of the least of my lord's servants?
Or hast thou, on thy part, trusted upon Egypt, for chariots and for horsemen?
10 But ‖now‖ is it ‖without Yahweh‖ that I have come up against this land, to destroy it? ‖Yahweh himself‖ said unto me,
Go thou up against this land, and destroy it!
11 Then said Eliakim, and Shebna, and Joah, unto Rabshakeh—
Speak, we pray thee, unto thy servants in the Syrian language, for ‖we‖ can | understand | it,—and do not speak unto us in the Jews' language, in the ears of the people who are upon the wall.
12 But Rabshakeh said—
Is it <unto thy lord and unto thee> that my lord hath sent me, to speak these things? Is it not concerning the men who are tarrying upon the wall, that they may eat and drink what cometh from them,[a] |with you||?

13 So then Rabshakeh took his stand, and cried out with a loud voice, |in the Jews' language|, and said,

Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of Assyria:

14 ||Thus|| saith the king,

Let not Hezekiah deceive' you,—for he shall not be able to deliver you.

15 Neither let Hezekiah cause you to trust in Yahweh, saying,

Yahweh |will certainly deliver| us,—this[b] city |shall not be given over| into the hand of the king of Assyria.

16 Do not hearken unto Hezekiah,—for ||thus|| saith the king of Assyria,

Deal with me thankfully, and come out unto me,

Then shall ye eat,

Every one of his own vine, and

Every one of his own fig-tree,

And drink, every one the waters of his own cistern:

17 Until I come and take you, into

A land like your own land,—

A land of corn, and new wine,

A land of bread, and vineyards:—

18 Lest Hezekiah |persuade you|, saying,

||Yahweh|| will deliver us!

Have the gods of the nations |delivered|—any one of them—his country, out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

19 Where'[c] are the gods of Hamath, and Arpad?

Where' are the gods of Sepharvaim?

||If indeed they had only delivered Samaria, out of my hand||!

20 Who' are they, among all the gods of these countries, that have delivered their country out of my hand?

That ||Yahweh|| should deliver |Jerusalem| out of my hand!

21 But they held their peace, and answered him not a word,—for <the command of the king> it was, saying,—

Ye must not answer him.

22 Then came in—Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, unto Hezekiah, with rent clothes,—and they told him the words of Rabshakeh.

37 1 And it came to pass, <when King Hezekiah heard it> that he rent his clothes,—and covered himself with sackcloth, and entered the house of Yahweh; 2 and sent Eliakim who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth,—unto Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz; 3 and they said unto him,

||Thus|| saith Hezekiah,

<A day of distress and rebuke and reviling> is this day,—

For children are come to the birth,[a] and ||strength|| is there none' to bring forth.

4 |It may be| that Yahweh thy God will hear' the words of Rabshakeh, whom the king of Assyria, his lord, hath sent' to reproach a Living God, and will rebuke the words' which Yahweh thy God hath heard,—

Wherefore lift thou up a prayer, for the remnant that remaineth.

5 So the servants of King Hezekiah came unto Isaiah. 6 And Isaiah said unto them,

||Thus|| shall ye ||surely say|| unto your lord,—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh—

Be not thou afraid because of the words which thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled |Me|.

7 Behold me! about to let go against him a blast of alarm,[b] and <when he heareth the report> then will he return to his own country,—and I will cause him to fall by the sword, in his own land.

8 So Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria, warring against Libnah,—for he had heard, that he had broken up from Lachish.

9 And he heard it reported concerning Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, saying,

He hath come forth to fight with thee,— so <when he heard it> he sent messengers unto Hezekiah, saying:

10 ||Thus|| shall ye surely speak unto Hezekiah king of Judah, saying,

Let not thy God, in whom ||thou|| art trusting, beguile' thee, saying,—

Jerusalem |shall not be given over| into the hand of the king of Assyria.

11 Lo! ||thou thyself|| hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done' to all the lands, in devoting them to destruction,—and shalt ||thou|| be delivered?

12 Did the gods of the nations |deliver them| whom my fathers destroyed,—Gozan, and Haran,—and Rezeph, and the sons of Eden, who were in Telassar?

13 Where' are the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim,—of Hena, and Ivvah?

14 And <when Hezekiah had received the letter at the hand of the messengers, and had read it> then went he up to the house of Yahweh, and Hezekiah |spread it out| before Yahweh. 15 And Hezekiah prayed' unto Yahweh, saying:

16 O Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel'—inhabiting the cherubim,[c]

||Thou thyself|| art GOD,[d] even thou alone, for all the kingdoms of the earth:

||Thou|| didst make' the heavens and the earth.

17 Bow down, O Yahweh, thine ear—and hear,
Open, O Yahweh, thine eyes[a]—and see,— Yea hear thou all the words of Sennacherib, who hath sent—to reproach a Living God.
18 <Of a truth> O Yahweh, — the kings of Assyria have devoted to destruction all the countries[b] and their land; 19 and have put their gods in the fire,—for ‖no-gods‖ were |they|, but the work of the hands of men—
wood' and stone, and so they destroyed them.
20 ‖Now‖ therefore, O Yahweh our God, save us[c] out of his hand,—
That all the kingdoms of the earth |may
know|,
That ‖thou‖ art Yahweh, |thou alone|.
21 Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent unto Hezekiah,
saying,—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
<In that thou hast prayed unto me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria> 22 ‖this‖ is the word which Yahweh hath spoken concerning him,—
The virgin daughter of Zion |laugheth thee
to scorn—mocketh thee|,
The daughter of Jerusalem ‖after thee‖
|doth wag her head|!
23 ‖Whom‖ hast thou reproached, and insulted?
And ‖against whom‖ hast thou lifted high thy voice?
Yea thou hast proudly raised thine eyes
‖against the Holy One of Israel‖.
24 <Through thy servants> thou hast reproached My Lord, and hast said,—
<With my multitude of chariots> have
I' ascended
The height of the mountains,
The recesses of Lebanon,
That I may cut down
Its tallest cedars,
Its choicest firs,
That I may enter
Its highest summit,
Its thick garden forest:
25 ‖I‖ have digged, and drunk waters,—
That I may dry up, with the soles of my feet, all the Nile-streams of Egypt.

26 Hast thou not heard—
That <long ago> ‖that‖ is what I appointed,
And <from days of old> devised?
‖Now‖ have I brought it to pass,
That thou mightest serve to lay waste |in desolate ruins| ‖fortified cities‖;
27 And ‖their inhabitants, being powerless‖ were overthrown, and put to shame,— They became'—
Grass of the field, and Young herbage,
Grass on housetops, and
Seed parched before it came up.

28 Howbeit <thine abode, and thy coming out and thy going in> I know,—and thy raging |against me|.
29 <Because ‖thy raging against me, and thy contempt‖ have come up into mine ears>
Therefore will I put
My ring in thy nose, and
My bit in thy lips,
And will turn thee back, by the way by which thou camest.

30 And ‖this' unto thee‖ is the sign,
Eating <this year> the growth of scattered seeds,
And <in the second year> that which shooteth up of itself,[a]—
Then <in the third year>
Sow ye'—and reap, and Plant ye vineyards, and eat the fruit
thereof.
31 Then shall the escaped of the house of Judah that remain, |again|
Take root downward,—
And bear fruit upward.
32 For <out of Jerusalem> shall come forth a remnant,
And that which hath escaped, |out of Mount
Zion|,—
‖The jealousy[b] of Yahweh of hosts‖ will perform ‖this‖.

33 |Therefore|, ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh, concerning the king of Assyria,
He shall not enter this city,
Nor shoot there, an arrow,—
Nor attack it with shield,
Nor cast up against it a mound:
34 <By the way that he came in>
‖By the same‖ shall he return,—
And <into this city> shall he not enter,
Declareth Yahweh.
35 Thus will I throw a covering over this city, to save it,—
For mine own sake,
And for the sake of David my servant.

36 Then went forth the messenger of Yahweh, and smote—in the camp of the Assyrians—a hundred and eighty-five thousand,— and <when men arose early in the morning> lo!
‖they were all‖ dead bodies! 37 So Sennacherib the king of Assyria, brake up, and went his way, and returned,—and remained in Nineveh. 38 And it came to pass, <as he' was bowing down in the house of Nisroch his god> that ‖Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons‖ smote him with the sword, howbeit ‖they‖ escaped into the land of
Ararat, — and |Esarhaddon his son| reigned
|in his stead|.

§ 36. Hezekiah's Sickness—Recovery—and Writing.

38 1 <In those days> was Hezekiah sick unto death,—and Isaiah the prophet son of Amoz, |came in unto him|, and said unto him—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Set in order thy house,[a] for ‖about to die‖ thou art, and shalt not recover.
2 Then Hezekiah turned his face unto the wall,—and prayed unto Yahweh; 3 and said,—
I beseech thee, O Yahweh, remember, I pray thee, how I have walked before thee, in faithfulness and with an undivided heart, and <that which is good in thine eyes> have I done.
And Hezekiah wept' aloud. 4 Then came the word of Yahweh unto Isaiah, saying:
5 Go, and say unto Hezekiah—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, the God of David thy father:
I have heard thy prayer,
I have seen thy tears,—
Behold me! about to add unto thy days', |fifteen years|;
6 And <out of the hand of the king of Assyria> will I deliver thee, and this city;
And I will throw a covering over this city.
7 And ‖this‖ |to thee| shall be the sign, from Yahweh,—that Yahweh will do' this thing which he hath spoken:—
8 Behold me! causing the shadow on the steps, which hath come gone down on the steps[b] of Ahaz with the sun, to return' |backwards| ‖ten steps‖.
So the sun returned ten steps, by the steps which it had come down.

9 The writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, when he had been sick, and then recovered from his sickness:—
10 ‖I‖ said—
<In the noontide of my days> I must enter the gates of hades,—
I am deprived of the residue of my years!
11 I said—
I shall not see Yah, Yah, in the land of the living,
I shall discern the son of earth no longer, with the dwellers in the quiet land.[c]
12 ‖My dwelling‖ hath been broken up,
And is stripped from me, like a shepherd's tent,—
I have rolled up—as a weaver—my life,
<From the loom> doth he cut me off,
<From day until night> [I said]—
Thou wilt finish me.
13 I cried out,[a] until morning, like a lion,
‖Thus‖ will he break all my bones!
From day until night,
Thou wilt finish me!
14 <As a twittering[b] swallow>[c] ‖so‖ do I chatter,[d]
I coo as a dove,—
Mine eyes languish' through looking on high,
O My Lord![e] distress is upon me—my Surety!
15 What can I say?
<Since he hath promised for me>
‖Himself‖ will perform.
I will go softly,[f] all my years,
Because of the bitterness of my soul.
16 O My Lord! <on those things do men live,—
And <altogether in them> is the life of my spirit,
When thou hast strengthened me, and made me live.
17 Lo! <for well-being> I had bitterness—bitterness,[g]—
But ‖thou‖ <cleaving unto my soul> hast raised me from the pit of corruption,[h]
For thou hast cast, behind thy back, all my sins.
18 For ‖hades‖ cannot praise thee,
Nor ‖death‖ celebrate thee,—
They[i] who go down to the pit cannot wait for thy faithfulness.
19 <The living, the living> ‖he‖ can praise thee, As I' do this day,—
‖A father‖ <to his children> can make known thy faithfulness.
20 ‖Yahweh‖ [was willing] to save me,—
Therefore <on my stringed instruments> will we play—
All the days of our life,
By the house of Yahweh.
21 And Isaiah had said,
Let them take a cake of figs, and let them press it over the boil,[k] that he may recover.
22 And Hezekiah had said—
What is the sign—that I shall go up unto the house of Yahweh?

and the gold and the spices and the precious ointment, and all his armoury—and all that was found among his treasures,—there was nothing, which Hezekiah [did not show them]—in his house, or in all his dominion.
3 Then came Isaiah the prophet, unto King Hezekiah,—and said unto him—
What said these men? and whence came they unto thee?
And Hezekiah said,
<From a land far away> came they unto me, from Babylon!
4 And he said,
What have they seen in thy house?
Then said Hezekiah,—
<All that is in my house> have they seen, there is nothing which I shewed them not, among my treasures.
5 Then said Isaiah unto Hezekiah,—
Hear thou the word of Yahweh of hosts:
6 Lo! days are coming, when all that is in thy house, and that which thy fathers have treasured up until this day, shall be carried' away unto Babylon,—[nothing] shall be left,
Saith Yahweh.
7 And <of thy sons who shall issue from thee, whom thou shalt beget> shall they take away,—and they shall become eunuchs, in the palace of the king of Babylon.
8 And Hezekiah said unto Isaiah,
Good' is the word of Yahweh, which thou hast spoken.
And he said,
Surely there shall be peace and stability in my days.

§ 38. A Charge to console Jerusalem by the Announcement of a Fact; for the Realisation of which, however, effectual Preparation must be made. In spite of Human Weakness, the Divine Word will be fulfilled, and the Rule of the Shepherd King be triumphantly inaugurated.

40 1 Comfort ye—comfort ye, my people,[a]—
Saith your God.
2 Speak ye unto the heart of[b] Jerusalem,
And cry unto her,—
That accomplished' is her warfare,[c]
That accepted' is her punishment,—
That she hath received, at the hand of Yahweh,
According to the full measure[d] of all her sins.

<In the desert> prepare ye the way of Yahweh,—
Make smooth [in the waste plain] a highway for our God:

4 Let ‖every valley‖ be exalted,
And ‖every mountain and hill‖ be made low,—
And [the steep ground] become [level],
And [the chain of hills]—[a plain]:
5 Then shall be revealed' the glory of Yahweh,—
And all flesh shall see' it together,[a]
For ‖the mouth of Yahweh‖ hath spoken!

6 A voice saying Cry!
And one said—
What' should I cry?
‖All flesh‖ is grass,
And ‖all the grace[b] thereof‖ like the flower of the field:

Because ‖the breath of Yahweh‖ hath blown upon it!
Surely the people [is grass]!
8 The grass [hath withered] The flower [hath faded],—
But ‖the word of our God‖ shall stand unto times age-abiding!

9 <To a high mountain> get ye up, O herald-band[c] of Zion,
Lift high' with strength' your voice, O herald-band[c] of Jerusalem,— Lift it high, do not fear,
Say to the cities of Judah—
Lo! your God!
10 Lo! ‖My Lord, Yahweh‖[d] <as a mighty one> doth come,
And ‖his own arm‖ is about to rule for him,—
Lo! ‖his reward‖ is with him,
And ‖his recompense‖ before him;
11 ‖Like a shepherd‖ <his flock> will he tend,
<In his own arm> will he take up[e] the lambs,
And <in his own bosom> will he carry [them],—

And he hath given him intelligence,
And instructed him in the path of justice,—
And taught him knowledge,
And <in the way of intelligence> hath been giving him understanding?
15 Lo! ‖nations‖
Are as a drop on[a] a bucket,
And <as fine dust on a balance> are accounted,— Lo! ‖islands‖ <like an atom> can he hoist;
16 And ‖Lebanon‖ is not sufficient to burn,—
Nor ‖the beasts thereof‖ sufficient for an ascending-sacrifice!

21 Have ye never taken note?
Have ye never heard?
Hath it not, from the beginning, been told you?
Have ye not been led to discern, from the foundations of the earth?

22 It is he who sitteth upon the circle[e] of the earth,
While |the inhabitants thereof| are |as grasshoppers|,—
Who stretcheth forth <as a curtain> ‖the heavens‖,
And spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in;
23 Who delivereth dignitaries to nothingness,—
‖Judges of earth‖ <like a desolation>[b] hath he made:
24 <Scarcely have they been planted,
Scarcely have they been sown,
Scarcely hath their stock |begun to take root in the earth|>
When he hath just blown upon them, and they have withered,
And ‖a whirlwind‖ <as though they had been chaff> carrieth them away.
25 Unto whom' then, can ye liken me, or can I be equal? Saith the Holy One.

26 Lift on high, your eyes—and see, who' hath created these,
That bringeth forth |by number| their host,—
<To all of them, by name> doth call,
<Because of the abundance of vigour and alertness of strength> ‖not one‖ is missing!

27 |Wherefore| shouldest thou say, O Jacob, or speak, O Israel,—
Hidden' is my path from Yahweh,
And <from my God> ‖my vindication‖ will pass?
28 Hast thou not known,
Hast thou not heard, That
The God of age-past time—
Yahweh,
The Creator of the ends of the earth,
Fainteth not, neither groweth weary,—
There[a] is no' searching of his understanding:
29 Giving |to him that fainteth| ‖strength‖,
And <to him that hath no' vigour> he causeth ‖power‖ to abound?
30 Youths' |both faint and grow weary|,
And ‖young warriors‖—they fall, they fall;[b]
31 But ‖they who wait for Yahweh‖ shall renew their strength,
They shall mount on strong pinion, like eagles,—
They shall run' and not grow weary,
They shall walk' and not faint.

41 1 Be silent [and hearken] unto me,[c] O ye Coastlands,
And let the Races of Men renew their strength,—
Let them approach, ‖then‖ let them speak,
‖Together‖ <for controversy> let us draw near:—
2 Who' roused up one from the East,
‖In righteousness‖ called him to his feet,—

5 Coastlands |have seen|, so they fear,
‖The ends of the earth‖ are in dread,—
They have drawn near, and have come:
6 ‖Every man‖ <to his neighbour> giveth help,—

7 So |the carver| hath encouraged |the goldsmith|,
|He that maketh smooth with the hammer|, |him that smiteth the anvil|,—

8 But <‖thou‖, Israel, my Servant,
Jacob, whom I have chosen,—
The seed of Abraham, my loving one;[c]
9 Thou whom I have taken hold of from the ends of the earth,
And <from the extremities thereof> have called thee,—
And said to thee <My Servant> thou!
I have chosen thee, and not cast thee off>
10 Do not fear, for <with thee> I am!
Look not[d] around, for ‖I‖ am thy God,—
I have emboldened thee,
Yea I have helped thee,
Yea I have upheld thee, with my righteous' right-hand.
11 Lo! they shall turn pale and be ashamed—
All they who have been incensed against thee,—
They shall become as nothing and perish—
The men who have been thine accusers:
12 Thou shalt seek them, but shalt not find them—
The men who have contended with thee,
They shall become as nothing, and as a thing of nought—
The men who have warred against thee;
13 For ‖I, Yahweh, thy God‖ am firmly grasping thy right-hand,—
Who am saying unto thee
Do not fear!
‖I‖ have become thy helper!
14 Do not fear! Thou worm Jacob,
Ye men of Israel,—
‖I‖ have become thy helper,
Declareth Yahweh,
And thy redeemer, The Holy One of Israel.
15 Lo! I have made of thee a new pointed threshing sledge, |owning teeth|,—
Thou shalt thresh mountains, and crush them,
And <hills—like chaff> shalt thou make:
16 Thou shalt fan them, and ‖a wind‖ shall carry them away,
And ‖a whirlwind‖ scatter |them|,—
But ‖thou‖ shalt exult in Yahweh,
And <in the Holy One of Israel> shalt thou boast thyself.[a]

17 <As for the oppressed and the needy,
Seeking water, when there is' none,
‖Their tongue‖ |with thirst| being parched>
‖I—Yahweh‖ will answer them,
<The God of Israel> I will not forsake them:
18 I will open
|On bare hills| ‖rivers‖, and
|In the midst of plains| ‖fountains‖,—
I will make
|The desert| ‖a lake of water‖, and
|Parched land| ‖springs of water‖;
19 I will set |in the desert|
‖Cedar, acacia, and myrtle, and oil-tree‖,—
I will place |in the waste plain|
‖Cypress, holm-oak and sherbin-cedar, together‖
20 That men may see and observe, and consider and understand |at once|,
That ‖the hand of Yahweh‖ hath done this,
That ‖the Holy One of Israel‖ hath created it.

21 Bring near your contention,
Saith Yahweh,—
Advance your defences,
Saith the King of Jacob:
22 Let them advance them, and tell us, What shall happen,—
<Things known in advance — what they were> tell ye,
That we may lay them to our heart, and mark the after-story of them,
Or <things yet to come> let us hear:
23 Tell ye the events which shall be hereafter,
That we may perceive that <gods> ye are',— Surely ye must do something—good or bad,
That we may be amazed, and behold it |at once|.

24 Lo! ‖ye‖ are |of nought|,
And ‖your work‖ is |a puff of breath|,—
<An abomination> he that chooseth you!
25 I have roused up one from the North, and he hath come,
<From the rising of the sun> calleth he on my Name,—
And he hath come |on deputies| ‖as though they were mortar‖,
And |as a potter| treadeth |clay|.

[a] Or: "win applause," "win for thyself praise."

26 Who' hath told in advance, that we might know,
And beforetime, that we might say Right!
Nay, there is none' who can tell,
Nay, there is none' who can let us hear,
Nay, there is none' who can understand what ye utter.

27 ‖He who is First‖[a] [can say]
To Zion,
Lo! there they are!
And to Jerusalem,
<A herald of good-tidings> do I give.

28 So I look, And there is not, a Man!
‖Even among these‖
And there is none' to advise,—
That <when I ask them> can answer a word.

Lo! <as to all of them>
<Vanity—nothingness> are their works,
<Wind and emptiness> their molten images!

§ 41. The Mission of Jacob as Collective Servant of Yahweh having been declared, from behind him steps forth an Individual Servant—known to be such by His becoming a Covenant for His own People—who enters into His people's Calling and carries it forward to fulfilment.

42 1 Lo! <my Servant> I will uphold him,
<My chosen> well-pleased' is my soul,—
I have put[b] my spirit upon him,
<Justice—to the nations> will he bring forth:
2 He will not cry out, nor will he speak loud,—
Nor cause to be heard |in the street| his voice:
3 <Cane that is crushed> will he not break,
<And wick that is fading> will he not quench,—
<Faithfully> will he bring forth justice:
4 He will not fade, nor will he be crushed,
Until he establish |in the earth| ‖justice‖,
And <for his instruction>[c] |Coastlands| wait.[d]

5 ‖Thus‖ saith God himself—[e]
Yahweh,—
<Creator of the heavens, that stretched them forth,
Out-spreader of earth, and the products thereof,—
Giver of breath to the people thereon,
And of spirit to them who walk therein>
6 ‖I—Yahweh‖ have called thee in righteousness,
And will firmly grasp thy hand,—
And will keep thee,
And give thee—
As the covenant of a people,
As the light of nations:

7 To open eyes that are blind,—
To bring forth
Out of the dungeon, the captive,[a]
Out of the prison, the dwellers in dar[illegible]
ness.

§ 42. The Mission of Jacob, broadly viewed [illegible] Yahweh's Witnesses, resumed: with numer[illegible] diverging and converging Details — Di[illegible] Predictions calling for Song, Divine Inacti[illegible] boldly reversed, Divine Irony on Idolat[illegible] Divine Foresight pointedly claimed, Di[illegible] Favour richly bestowed; Jacob's Experie[illegible] recorded, his Blindness, Sins, Sorrows, Sha[illegible] Captivities, Deliverances. The name "Cy[illegible] suddenly announced.

8 ‖I‖ am Yahweh, ‖that‖ is my Name,—
And ‖my glory‖ <to another> will I [illegible] not give,
Nor |my praise| ‖to images‖.[b]
9 <Things told in advance> lo! they [illegible] have come to pass,—
And <new things> am I' telling,
<Ere yet they spring forth> I let |you| hear them.

10 Sing to Yahweh a song that is new,
|His praise| from the end of the earth[illegible],—
Ye that go down to the sea, and the fu[illegible]lness thereof,
The Coastlands, and ye who dwell the[illegible]rein.
11 Let the wilderness |shout|, and the [illegible]cities thereof,
The villages wherein dwelleth Kedar[illegible]—
Let the inhabitants of the crag,[c] rais[illegible] shouts of triumph,
<From the top of the mountains> let [illegible] them cry aloud:
12 Let them render |unto Yahweh| ‖gl[illegible]y,—
And ‖his praise‖ |in the Coastlan[illegible]s| let them tell.

13 ‖Yahweh‖ |as a hero| goeth forth,
<As a man of war> he stirreth up jeal[illegible]sy,—
He giveth a cry, yea he raiseth a war-c[illegible]y,
<Over his foes> he showeth his streng[illegible]h.

14 I have held my peace from age-past [illegible] times,
I kept still,
I restrained myself,—
<As a travailing woman> I pant,
I breathe hard and gasp, |all at on[illegible]|!

15 I will lay waste mountains and hills,
And <all their vegetation> will I wi[illegible]r,—
And I will make |rivers| to be |shore[illegible]|
And <lakes> will I dry up:
16 Thus will I lead the blind by a way t[illegible] know not,
<In[d] paths they know not> will I gui[illegible]
them,—

[d] Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): "And in[illegible]-a

I will make |the place that was dark before them| to be ‖light‖,
And |crooked| ways, to be ‖straight‖,
<These things> have I done[a] unto them,
And have not forsaken them.

17 They have drawn back
They turn very pale
Who have been trusting in a graven image,[b]—
Who have been saying to a molten image,[c]
‖Ye‖[d] are |our gods|!

18 Ye deaf, hear!
And ye blind, look around that ye may see!
19 Who' is blind, if not my Servant?
Or deaf, like |my messenger whom I send|?
Who' is |blind|, like an intimate friend?
Or blind, like the Servant of Yahweh?

20 <Seeing many things> yet thou heedest not,
Opening the ears, yet he[e] heareth not.

21 ‖Yahweh‖ is well-pleased for his own righteousness' sake,
He magnifieth instruction[f] and maketh it majestic.[g]

22 But ‖that‖ is a people preyed upon and plundered,
Snared in holes, |all of them|,
And |in houses of restraint| ‖concealed‖,—
They have become a prey, and there is none' to deliver,—
A booty, and there is none to say— Restore!

23 |Who' among you| will give ear to this,—
Let him hearken and hear |for an aftertime|?
24 Who' gave |as a booty| ‖Jacob‖,
And ‖Israel‖ to them who were ready to take prey?
Was it not |Yahweh|?
‖He against whom we have sinned‖,
And they were not willing |in his ways| ‖to walk‖,
Neither hearkened they to his instruction?[h]
25 So he hath poured out |upon him|
‖The glow of his anger‖, and
‖The strength of battle‖;
And it hath set him aflame round about, yet he knoweth it not,
And it hath kindled upon him, yet he layeth it not to heart.

43 1 ‖Now‖ therefore,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Creating thee, O Jacob, and Fashioning thee, O Israel,—
Do not fear,
For I have redeemed thee,
I have called thee by thy name,
‖Mine‖ thou art'!

2 <When thou passest through the waters>
|with thee| I am',
Or <through the rivers> they shall not overflow thee,—
<When thou walkest through fire> thou shalt not be scorched,
And ‖a flame‖ shall not kindle upon[a] thee;
3 For ‖I—Yahweh‖ am
Thy God,
The Holy One of Israel,
Ready to save thee,—
I have given |as thy ransom| ‖Egypt‖,
‖Ethiopia and Seba‖ in thy stead.
4 <Because thou art precious in mine eyes,
art honoured,
And ‖I‖ love thee,—
And will give |mankind| ‖in thy stead‖
Yea |peoples| ‖for thy life‖>
5 Do not fear, for |with thee| I am',—
<From the East> will I bring in thy seed,
And <from the West> will I gather thee:
6 I will say to the North,
Give up!
And to the South,[b]
Do not withhold!
Bring in My sons from far, and
My daughters, from the end of the earth;
7 Every one who is called by my Name,
Whom <for mine own glory> I have created—|formed|—yea ‖made‖!
8 Bring forth
A blind people, that have' ‖eyes‖, and
A deaf, that have ‖ears‖.

9 ‖All the nations‖ are gathered together,
Yea there is an assembling' of peoples,
‖Who' among them‖[c] can tell this,
And <things in advance> can let us hear?
Let them set forth their witnesses, that they may get their right,
Or let them hear, and say Truth!

10 ‖Ye‖ are my witnesses,
Declareth Yahweh,
And my Servant, whom I have chosen,—
That ye may take note—and believe me,
And perceive that ‖I‖ am He,[d]
<Before me> was not formed a GOD,
Nor <after me> shall one come into being:
11 ‖I—I‖ am Yahweh,—
And there is none, besides me, |ready to save|:
12 ‖I‖ have told—and will save, and make known,
That there is, among you, no strange one;
And ‖ye‖ are my witnesses,
Declareth Yahweh,
That ‖I‖ am GOD.
13 <Even from To-day> ‖I‖ am He,[d]
And none <out of my hand> can deliver,—
I work, and who' reverseth?

14 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Your Redeemer, The Holy One of Israel,—
<For your sakes> have I sent into Babylon,
And will bring down |as fugitives| ‖all of them‖,—
‖Even the Chaldeans, in the ships which cause them loud outcry‖.[a]
15 ‖I—Yahweh‖ am Your Holy One,—
The Creator of Israel,
Your King.

16 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
<Who setteth' |in the sea| ‖a way‖,—
And |in the mighty waters| ‖a path‖;
17 Who bringeth forth Chariot and horse,
Force and strength>
‖Together‖[b] shall they lie down,
They shall not arise,
They are extinguished,
<Like a wick> are they quenched!
18 Do not keep in mind, former things,—
And <things of old> do not consider:
19 Behold me! doing |a new thing|,
‖Now‖ shall it spring forth,
Will ye not take note thereof?
Surely I will set
|In the desert| ‖a way‖,
|In a desolate land| ‖rivers‖:
20 The wild beast of the field shall honour' me,
Jackals, and ostriches,
Because I have given—
|In the desert| ‖waters‖,
|Rivers| ‖in a desolate land‖,
To give drink unto my people, my chosen:
21 ‖A people which I have fashioned for myself‖,
<My praise> shall they record.

22 Yet <not upon me> hast thou called, O Jacob,—
For thou hast been wearied of me, O Israel:
23 Thou hast not brought in to me small cattle as thine ascending-offerings,
Nor <with thy sacrifices> hast thou honoured me,—
I have not oppressed thee with meal-offerings,
Nor have I wearied thee with frankincense;
24 Thou hast not bought for me, |with silver|,
‖fragrant calamus‖,
Nor <with the fat of thy sacrifices> hast thou sated me,—
Thou hast done nothing but oppress me |with thy sins|,
Thou hast wearied me |with thine iniquities|.
25 ‖I—I‖ am he that is ready
To wipe out thy transgressions, for mine own sake,—
And <thy sins> not remember.
26 Put me in mind,
Let us enter into judgment, |at once|,—
Recount ‖thou‖ that thou mayest be justified:

[a] Cp. Lam. ii. 19; also Num. xxiv. 24. Or: "their ships of rejoicing"—"pleasure ships" —A. B. Davidson (Temple Bible).
[b] Or: "At once."

27 ‖Thy chief father‖ hath sinned,—
And ‖thine interpreters‖ have transgressed against me;
28 So then I must needs profane the rulers of the holy place,—
And deliver
|Jacob| to be devoted to destruction, and
|Israel| ‖unto reviling‖!

1 ‖Now‖ then—hear, 44
O Jacob my Servant,—and Israel, whom I have chosen:
2 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Who made thee and formed thee from birth,[a]
Who helpeth thee:
Do not fear, O my Servant Jacob, and Jeshurun,[b] whom I have chosen;
3 For I will pour Water upon the thirsty soil, and Floods upon the dry ground,—
I will pour
My spirit upon thy seed, and
My blessing upon thine offspring;
4 So will they spring up among[c] the grass,
As willows by the water-courses:
5 ‖This one‖ will say <Yahweh's> am I', and ‖That one‖ will call himself by the name of Jacob, and ‖Yonder one‖ will write on his hand—
Yahweh's,
<And after the name of Israel> will one entitle himself.

6 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—King of Israel,
Even his Redeemer Yahweh of hosts,—
‖I‖ am |First|, and ‖I‖ |Last|,
And <besides me> there is' no' God.
7 Who, then, <like me> can call, and declare it, and order it, for me,
Seeing that I appointed an age-abiding people,—
Or <things yet to be, and[d] that shall come to pass>
Let them declare, on their' part.
8 Do not ye dread, nor yet be alarmed,
Have I not <from olden time> told thee and declared?
So that ‖ye‖ are my witnesses,—
Whether there is' a God besides me?
Or is no' Rock—
I know of none!
9 ‖The fashioners of an image[e]—all of them‖ are emptiness,[f]
And ‖the things they delight in‖ cannot profit,—
And <their witnesses>[g] ‖they‖ neither see nor know,
That they may be ashamed.
10 Who' hath fashioned a GOD,
Or <an image>[e] hath molten?
It cannot profit!

11 Lo! ‖all his partners‖ turn pale,
Even ‖the artificers themselves‖ are of the sons of earth,—
Let them gather themselves together—|all of them|,
Let them take their stand,
Let them dread, and turn pale |together|![a]

12 <As for the smith, [with his] cutting-tool>—
<When he hath wrought in the live coals,
And ‖with hammers‖ hath fashioned it,—
And hath wrought it with his strong' arm>
Anon' he is hungry, and hath no' strength,
He hath drunk no water, and so hath become faint!

13 <As for the carpenter>—
He hath stretched out a line, hath drawn it with a pencil,
Hath made it with carving tools,
<With compasses> hath rounded it,—
And so hath made it after the figure of a great man,
After the beauty of a son of earth, |that it may remain in a house|!

14 <When one was cutting him down cedars>
Then took he a holm-tree, and an oak,
And secured them for himself, among the trees of the forest,—
He planted a fir-tree,[b] and the pouring rain made it grow;

15 So it serveth for a man to burn,
And he hath taken of [the branches][c] and warmed himself,
Also' he kindleth a fire, and baketh bread,—
Also' he maketh a GOD, and hath bowed himself down,
Hath made of it a carved image,[d] and adored it:

16 <The half thereof> hath he burned in the fire,
<Over[e] half thereof> he eateth |flesh|,
He roasteth roast, that he may be satisfied,—
Also' he warmeth himself, and saith,
Aha! I am warm, I have seen a blaze;

17 And <the residue thereof>
|Into a GOD| he maketh,
Into his carved image,[d]—
Adoreth it, and boweth down, and prayeth unto it,
And saith,
Deliver me, for ‖my GOD‖ thou art'!

18 They have not taken note, neither can they perceive,—
He hath besmeared—past seeing—their eyes,
Past understanding, their hearts;

19 And no one reflecteth[a]—
There is neither knowledge nor discernment —to say,
<Half thereof> have I burned up in the fire,
Moreover also' I have baked |on the coals thereof| ‖bread‖,
I roasted flesh, and have been eating,—
And <of the remainder thereof> |an abomination| shall I make?
And <to a log of wood> shall I pay adoration?

20 He is feeding on ashes,
‖A deluded heart‖ hath turned him aside,—
And he cannot deliver his own soul, nor say,
Is there not a falsehood in my right hand?

21 Remember these things, O Jacob,
And |Israel|,—for ‖my Servant‖ thou art',—
I have fashioned thee, ‖a Servant of mine‖ thou art'.

22 O Israel,[b] thou shalt not be forgotten of me.
I have wiped out,
As with a thick cloud, ‖thy transgressions‖,
And as with a broad cloud ‖thy sins‖,—
Return unto me, for I have redeemed thee.

23 Shout in triumph, ye heavens, for Yahweh |hath effectually wrought|,
Shout, O ye underparts of the earth,
Ring out,
Ye mountains, into cries of triumph,
Thou forest, and every tree therein,—
For |Yahweh| hath redeemed' |Jacob|,
And <in Israel> will he get himself glory.

24 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Who hath redeemed thee,
Who hath fashioned thee from birth,[c]—
‖I—Yahweh‖ am the maker of all things,
Stretching out the heavens, |alone|,
Spreading forth the earth, |of myself|;[d]

25 Frustrating the signs of praters,
And <diviners> he confoundeth,—
Turning wise men backwards,
And <their knowledge> he maketh folly;

26 Establishing the word of his Servant,
And <the counsel of his Messengers> he maketh good,—
Who saith of Jerusalem—
She shall be inhabited!
And of the cities of Judah—
They shall be built!
And <the ruins thereof> will I set up!

27 Who saith to the deep—
Be dry! and <Thy rivers> will I drain!

28 Who saith of Cyrus—
My Shepherd![e] and <All my pleasure> shall he make good!

§ 43. The Divine Commission of Cyrus more fully declared.

45 1 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, to his Anointed, to Cyrus—Whose right hand I have firmly grasped,
To subdue, before him, |nations|,
And <the loins of kings> will I ungird,—
To open, before him, |the two-leaved doors|,
And ‖the gates‖ shall not be shut:
2 I <before thee> will go,
And <the hills> will I level,[a]—
<The doors of bronze> will I break in pieces,[b]
And <the bars of iron> will I cut asunder;[c]
3 Then will I give thee
The treasures of darkness,
Even the hoards of hidden places,—
That thou mayest get to know
That ‖I—Yahweh, who am calling thee by thy name‖ am the God of Israel.
4 <For the sake of my servant Jacob,
Even Israel my chosen>
Therefore have I called unto thee by thy name,
I give thee a title though thou hast not known me,—
5 ‖I‖ am Yahweh, and there is none else,
<Besides me> there is no' God,—
I gird thee, though thou hast not known me:
6 That men may get to know,
From the rising of the sun,
And from the west,
That there is none besides me,—
‖I‖ am Yahweh, and there is none' else:
7 Forming light, and creating darkness,
Making prosperity, and creating misfortune,—
‖I—Yahweh‖ who doeth all these.

§ 44. The Unfolding of the Divine Plans quickens the Desire for the Victory of Righteousness and Salvation. Men may not dictate to the Most High. He who created the World, called Cyrus, and decreed the Destiny of Israel—not in vain. He may seem to hide himself; yet shall Idolatry be silenced, Israel be saved, Salvation be tendered to Earth's Ends, and every Knee bow to him.

8 Let the drops fall, ye heavens, from above,
Yea, let ‖the skies‖ pour down righteousness,—
Let the earth open, and let them bear as their fruit—deliverance,
And let ‖justice‖ spring forth therewith,
‖I—Yahweh‖ have created it.

9 Alas for him who contendeth with his Fashioner,—
‖A potsherd‖ [should contend] with the potsherds of the ground!
Shall it be said by ‖the clay‖ unto him that is fashioning it,
What wouldst thou make?
Or thy work [say of thee],
He hath no hands?

10 Alas for one who saith to a father,
What begettest thou?
Or to a woman,
What dost thou bring forth?

11 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh
The Holy One of Israel And his Fashioner,
<As to things to come> they have asked me,
<Concerning my sons and concerning the work of my hands> they would command me!

12 ‖I‖ made the earth,
And <man upon it> I created,—
‖I—mine own hands‖ stretched out the heavens,
And <all their host> I commanded:

13 ‖I‖ have roused him up in righteousness,
And <all his roads> will I level,—
‖He‖ shall build my city,
And <my captives>[a] shall he let go,
‖Not for price, nor for bribe‖
Saith Yahweh of hosts.

14 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
‖The produce of Egypt and the gain of Ethiopia, and the Sabeans, men of great stature‖
<Unto thee> shall come over,[b]
And <thine> shall they become,
<After thee> shall they journey,
<In chains> shall they come over,—
And <unto thee> shall they bow down,
<Unto thee>[c] shall they pray [saying],— Surely <in thee> is a God,
And there is none' else—‖no‖ God!

15 |Surely| ‖thou‖ art a God utterly hiding thyself,—
O God of Israel, able to save!

16 They have turned pale and |even been put to shame| ‖all of them‖,—
‖Together‖ have they gone into disgrace, have the makers of images:

17 ‖Israel‖ hath been delivered by Yahweh, with an age-abiding' deliverance,—
Ye shall neither turn pale nor be put to shame, ‖unto the ages of futurity‖.

18 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Who created the heavens,
‖God himself‖
Who fashioned the earth—
And made it,
‖Himself‖ established it, . . .

<To be dwelt in> he fashioned it, ...
‖I‖ am Yahweh, and there is none else:
19 <Not in secret> have I spoken In a place of the earth that is dark,—
I have not said unto the seed of Jacob,
<In a waste>[b] seek ye me,—
‖I‖ am Yahweh,
Speaking the thing that is right,
Declaring the things that are just.[c]

20 Assemble yourselves and come,
Draw near |together|, ye escaped of the nations,—
They know not
Who carry the wood of their carved image,[d]
And pray unto a GOD who cannot save.
21 Tell ye—and bring near,
Yea let them take counsel |together|,—
Who' let this be known aforetime,
<In time past> declared it?
Was it not ‖I—Yahweh‖?
And there is none else that is God, besides me,
A GOD, righteous and ready to save,
There is none, besides |me|!
22 Turn unto me—and be ye saved, all ye ends of the earth,—
For ‖I‖ am GOD, and there is none else.
23 <By myself> have I sworn,
|Gone forth out of my mouth| is righteousness as a decree,
And shall not turn back,—
That <unto myself>
Shall bow' every knee,
Shall swear' every tongue:
24 <Only in Yahweh—for me>
Hath one said,
Is there righteousness and strength.
<Unto him> shall come[e] and turn pale—
All who have been incensed against him:
25 <In Yahweh> shall be justified and shall boast themselves—
All the seed of Israel.

§ 45. Idolatrous Babylon ridiculed: Tried Israel consoled.

46 1 Bel[f] |hath crouched|,
Nebo |is cowering|,
‖Their images‖ are [delivered up] to beast, and to cattle,—
‖The things ye carried about‖[g] are become a load,
‖A burden‖ to the weary!

2 They have cowered, they have crouched |at once|,
And they[a] cannot rescue the burden,—
But ‖their own soul‖ <into captivity> hath departed.

3 Hearken unto me, O house of Jacob,
Even all the remnant of the house of Israel,—
Who have been borne from birth,[b]
Who[c] have been carried from nativity:[d]
4 Even <unto old age> ‖I‖ am |the same|,
And <unto grey hairs> ‖I‖ will bear the burden,—
‖I‖ have made, and ‖I‖ will carry,
Yea[e] ‖I‖ will bear the burden and will deliver.

5 To whom' can ye liken me, or make me equal?
Or compare me, and we be like?
6 ‖They who pour gold out of a purse,
And who weigh silver' in a balance',—
[Who] hire a goldsmith, that he may make it into a GOD‖,
They adore, yea they bow down;
7 They carry him about on the shoulder,
They bear the burden of him—and set him in his place, that he may stand,— <Out of his place> will he not move,—
<Though one even make outcry unto him> he will not answer,
<Out of one's trouble> he will not save him.

8 Remember ye this, and shew yourselves men,[f]—
Bring it back,[g] ye transgressors, to your minds;
9 Remember ye the things named in advance, from age-past times,—
For ‖I‖ am
The Mighty One,[h] and there is |none else|,
The Adorable,[i] and there is none |like me|!
10 Declaring <from the beginning> the latter end,
And <from olden time> that which had never been done,—
Saying My purpose shall stand, and <All my pleasure> will I perform;
11 Calling
From the East, a Bird of Prey,
From a far country, the Man I intended,[k],[l]—
Yea I have spoken, I will also bring it to pass,
I have planned, I will also do it.

12 Hearken unto me,
Ye valiant of heart,—
Who are far away from righteousness:
13 I have brought near my righteousness,
It shall not be far away,
And ‖my deliverance‖ shall not linger,—
But I will give
<In Zion> deliverance,
<To Israel> my glory.

§ 46. Babylon's dire Degradation, for her Delicacy, ruthless Cruelty, boastful Self-confidence, and wicked Idolatries.

47 1 Down—and sit in the dust,[a] O virgin,
Daughter of Babylon,
Sit on the ground—throneless,
Daughter of the Chaldeans;
For thou shalt no more be called
Tender and Dainty.
2 Take millstones, and grind meal,—
Put back thy veil—tuck up thy train,
Bare the leg, wade through streams:
3 Bared' shall be thy shame,
Yea' seen' thy reproach,—
<An avenging> will I take,
And will accept[b] no son of earth.
4 ‖Our Redeemer‖
|Yahweh of hosts| is his name!
‖The Holy One of Israel‖.
5 Sit silent, and get into darkness,
Daughter of the Chaldeans!
For thou shalt no more be called,
Mistress of Kingdoms.
6 I had been provoked with my people,
Had profaned mine inheritance,
And given them into thy hand, . . .
Thou shewedst them no compassion,
<Upon the elder> madest thou very heavy' thy yoke.[c]
7 And thou saidst,
<Unto times age-abiding> shall I be Mistress,—
|Insomuch| that thou laidst not these things to thy heart,
Didst not keep in mind the issue thereof.[d]
8 ‖Now‖ therefore, hear this,
Thou Lady of pleasure,
Who dwelleth securely,
Who saith in her heart,—
‖I‖ [am], and there is no one besides,[e]
I shall not sit a widow,
Nor know loss of children.
9 Yet shall there come to thee—both these, in a moment, in one day,
Loss of children and widowhood,—
<To their full> have they come on thee,
Spite of the mass of thine incantations,
Spite of the great throng of thy spells.
10 And so thou didst trust in thy wickedness,
Thou saidst ‖No one‖ seeth me,
<Thy wisdom and knowledge> ‖the same‖ seduced thee,—
Therefore saidst thou in thy heart,
‖I‖ [am], and there is no one besides.
11 Therefore shall come on thee—|Mischief|,
Thou shalt not know how to charm it away,[a]
Yea there shall fall on thee, |Ruin|,
Thou shalt not be able to appease it,—
And there shall come on thee, |suddenly|,
‖Desolation‖,
Thou shalt not know.
12 Take thy stand, I pray thee,
With thy spells,
And with the throng of thine incantations, wherein thou hast wearied thyself from thy youth,— Peradventure' thou mayest be able to profit,
Peradventure' thou mayest strike me with terror.
13 Thou hast worn thyself out with the mass of thy consultations,—
Let them take their stand, I pray thee, that they may save thee—
The dividers of the heavens[b]—
The gazers at the stars,
They who make known by new moons,[c]
Somewhat of the things which shall come upon thee.
14 Lo! they have become as straw—‖a fire‖ hath burned them up,
They shall not deliver their own soul from the grasp of the flame,—
There is ‖no live coal to warm them, nor blaze to sit before‖.
15 ‖Such‖ have they become to thee, with whom thou hast wearied thyself,—
‖Thy merchants — from thy youth‖ will |every man| stagger |straight onwards|[d] —
There is none to save thee.

§ 47. Unworthy Members of the House of Jacob addressed with stern Remonstrance and Lamentation; then with Invitation and Encouragement.

48 1 Hear ye this—O house of Jacob,
Ye who call yourselves by the name of Israel,
Yea <from the waters[e] of Judah> came they forth,—

[a] Ml.: "upon dust."
[b] Or: "spare." Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.): "I will accept" (omitting "and" — G.n. "Strike treaty with none"—G.A.S.
[c] Cp. Zech. i. 15.
[d] In some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn. [Rabb. 1517] and Vul.): "thy latter end" —G.n.
[e] Or; "I am nought besides." Cp. O.G. 67a.

[a] Nearly so—G. A. Smith, A. B. Davidson, Cheyne.
[b] "For purposes of augury, taking a horoscope, i.e., augurs, astrologers"—T.G.
[c] "Who declare, at the new moons"—O.G.
[d] Ml.: "to the place over against him," "his side," "home." Cp. Fuerst on "ever."
[e] Some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edns.): "days." Other cod.: "waters" written; "days" read.

Who swear by the name of Yahweh,
And <by the God of Israel> call to remembrance—
‖Not in truth, nor in righteousness‖;
2 For <of the holy city> do they call themselves,
And <on the God of Israel> do they stay themselves,—
‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is his name.

3 <Things in advance> ‖of old‖ I declared,
Yea <out of mine own mouth> came they forth, that I might let them be known,— ‖Suddenly‖ I wrought, and they came to pass.
4 <Because I knew that—‖Obstinate‖ thou wast',—
And  was thy neck,
And thy brow, brazen>
5 Therefore told I thee—in time past,
<Ere yet it came> I let thee hear,— Lest thou shouldest say—
‖Mine idol‖ wrought them,
Yea ‖my carved image[a] and my molten image‖ commanded them!
6 Thou hast heard—see it |whole|
And will ‖ye‖ not tell?
I have let thee hear new things—from the present time,
Even secrets, which ye knew not.
7 ‖Now‖ are they created, and |not in time past|,
And <before to-day> thou hadst not heard of them,—
Lest thou shouldest say, Lo! I knew them!
8 Nay! thou hadst not heard,
Nay! thou hadst not known,
Nay! <in time past> |thine ear| was not opened,—
For I knew that thou ‖wouldst be treacherous‖,
Yea [b] hast thou been called.

9 <For the sake of mine own Name> will I defer mine anger,
And <for my praise> will I restrain myself towards thee,—
So as not to cut thee off.
10 Lo! I have refined thee, but not as silver,—
I have tested thee, in a smelting-pot of affliction.[c]
11 <For mine own sake—for mine own sake>[d] will I effectually work,
For how should it be profaned?
And <my glory—to another> will I not give.

12 Hearken unto me,
O Jacob,[e]
And Israel, my called one,—
‖I‖ am |the Same|.[f]
‖I‖ |the first|, yea' ‖I‖ |the last|:[g]

13 Surely ‖mine own hand‖ founded the earth,
And ‖my right hand‖ stretched out the heavens,—
<While I' was calling' unto them> they stood forth |at once|[a]

14 Assemble yourselves — all of you, and hear,
|Who among them|[b] hath told these things?
‖He whom Yahweh loveth‖ will execute—
His pleasure, on Babylon,
And his stroke,[c] on the Chaldeans.
15 ‖I—I‖ have spoken,
Yea I have called him,—
I have brought him in, and he shall make prosperous his way.

16 Draw ye near unto me—hear ye this,
<Not in advance, in secret> have I spoken,
<From the very time it cometh into being>
‖there‖ am I',—
And ‖now‖ |My Lord Yahweh| hath sent me, and his spirit.[d]

17 Thus saith Yahweh—
Thy Redeemer, The Holy One of Israel,—
‖I—Yahweh‖ am thy God,
Teaching thee to profit,
Guiding thee in the way thou shouldest go.
18 Oh! that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments,—
Then had been |like a river| thy prosperity,[e]
And ‖thy righteousness‖, like the waves of the sea:
19 Then had been |like the sand| thy seed,
And ‖the offspring of thy body‖ like the grains thereof,—
|Neither cut off nor destroyed| had been his name from before me.

20 Come ye forth out of Babylon,
Flee from among the Chaldeans,
<With triumphant voice> tell ye—let this be heard,
Let it go forth as far as the end of the earth,—
Say ye—
Yahweh hath redeemed' his servant Jacob!
21 And they thirsted not, when <through dry places> he led them,
<Waters out of the rock> caused he to flow out to them,—
Yea he cleft a rock, and |there gushed out| waters.
22 No well-being, saith Yahweh, to the lawless.[f]

[a] Or: "graven." Heb.: n'sel. Cp. Exo. xx. 4, n.
[b] Ml.: "the womb."
[c] Or: "humiliation," "oppression."
[d] See Intro., Chap. II., Synopsis B, c, ante, p. 16.
[e] Some cod. [w. 2 ear. pr. edns.): "Jacob my servant"—G.n.
[f] Ml.: "‖I‖ am |He|."
[g] Or: "‖I‖ in advance, yea ‖I‖ in the rear."

[a] Cp. Ps. xxxiii. 9.
[b] Some cod. [w. 2 ear. pr. edns. and Syr.): "among you"—G.n.
[c] Or: "might." Lit.: "arm."
[d] "'Hath sent me with His Spirit' (the Spirit does not send, but is sent)"—A. B. Davidson (Temple Bible).
[e] Or: "peace."
[f] Cp. chap. lvii. 20.

§ 48. Yahweh's Servant himself speaks; though in the Name of "Israel," yet also as a Restorer of the Tribes, as Abhorred of his own Nation, and as a Covenant for his People. The Return of Captives, with Songs of Triumph, being thus ensured, bereaved Zion is comforted and Enlarged, and a mysterious Rightful Tyrant-Captor is despoiled.

49 1 Hearken, ye Coastlands, unto me,
And give ear, ye peoples afar off,—
‖Yahweh‖ called me |from my birth|,[a]
<From my nativity>[b] made he mention of my name;
2 And he made my mouth, like a sharp sword,
<In the shadow of his hand> he concealed me,—
And made of me a polished[c] arrow,
<In his quiver> he hid me;
3 And said to me
‖My Servant‖ thou art',—
‖Israel‖[d] in whom I will get myself glory.
4 But ‖I‖ said,[e]
<To no purpose> have I toiled,
<For waste[f] and mist—my vigour> have I spent,—
|Surely| ‖my vindication‖[g] is |with Yahweh|,
And ‖my recompence'‖ |with my God|.
5 ‖Now‖ therefore, said[h] Yahweh—
<Fashioning me from birth
To be Servant to him,
To restore Jacob unto him,
And that ‖Israel‖ |unto him| might be gathered,
And I[i] be honourable in the eyes of Yahweh,
And ‖my God‖ be proved to have been my strength>
6 Yea he said—
It is too small a thing, for being my Servant,
That thou shouldest raise up the tribes of Jacob,
And <the preserved of Israel> shouldst restore,—
So I will give thee to become a light of nations,[k]
That |my salvation| may reach as far as |the end of the earth|.
7 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—the Redeemer of Israel, his Holy One,
<To him that is despised of the soul,
To the abhorred of the nation,
To the servant of rulers>
‖Kings‖ shall see and arise,
‖Princes‖ lo! they have bowed themselves down,—
Because of Yahweh, who is faithful,
The Holy One of Israel, lo! he hath chosen thee.
8 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
<In a time of acceptance> have I answered thee,
<In a day of salvation> have I helped thee,—
That I may preserve thee.
And give thee as the covenant of a people,[a]
To establish the land,
To bring into possession the desolate heritages;
9 Saying To them who are bound,
Go forth,[b]
To[c] them who are in darkness,
Shew yourselves,—
<By the roads> shall they graze,
And <on all bare places> shall be their pasture:
They shall neither hunger, nor thirst,
Nor shall smite them the glowing sand, or the glaring sun,— 10 For ‖he that hath compassion upon them‖ will lead them,
And <unto springs of water> will he conduct them.[d]
11 Then will I make of all my mountains a road,
And ‖my highways‖ shall be upraised.
12 Lo! ‖these‖ <from afar> shall come in,—
And lo! ‖these‖ from the North and from the West,
And ‖these‖ from the land of Sinim.
13 Shout in triumph—O heavens!
And exult—O earth!
And break forth, ye mountains, into shouts of triumph,—
For Yahweh hath comforted his people,[e]
And <on his humbled ones>[h] taketh pity, compassion.
14 But Zion |had said|,
Yahweh hath forsaken me,—
Even ‖My Lord‖[i] hath forgotten me?

[a] Ml.: "the womb."
[b] Ml.: "the body of my mother."
[c] So O.G.; "pointed"—G.A.S.

15 Can |a woman| forget |her sucking child|,
Past taking compassion on the son of her womb?
||Even these|| may forget,
Yet will ||I|| not forget |thee|:
16 Lo! <on the palms of my hands> have I portrayed thee,—
||Thy walls|| are before me continually.
17 In haste' are thy sons,—
||They who have been tearing thee down and laying thee waste|| <out of thee> let them go forth!

18 Lift up, round about, thine eyes, and see,
||All those|| have gathered themselves together —have come to thee!
<As I live> Declareth Yahweh,— Surely <all those—as an ornament> shalt thou put on,
And bind them about thee for a girdle, as a bride.

19 Surely <as for thy wastes, and thy desolations, and thy land of ruins>
Surely ||now|| shalt thou be too strait for thine inhabitants,
And <far off> shall be they who have been swallowing thee up.
20 The children of whom thou wast bereaved |shall yet' say in thine ears|,—
<Too strait for me> is the place,
Make room for me, that I may settle down.

21 Then shalt thou say in thy heart,—
Who hath borne me |these|,
Seeing ||I|| have been bereaved, and unfruitful, a captive and banished?
||These|| therefore, who' hath brought them up?
Lo! ||I|| was left |alone|,
||These||[a] where were |they|?

22 ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh[b]—
Lo! I will lift up, unto nations, my hand,
Yea <unto peoples> will I raise high my banner,—
And they shall bring in thy sons in their bosom,
And ||thy daughters|| |on the shoulder| shall be borne;
23 And |kings| shall be |thy foster-fathers|,
And |their queens|[c] |thy nursing mothers|,
<With face to the ground> shall they bow down to thee,
<The dust of thy feet> shall they lick,—
So shalt thou know that ||I|| am Yahweh,
In that |they shall not be put to shame|
||Who were waiting for me||.

24 Shall prey |be taken from a mighty one|?
Or ||the captive of one in the right|| be delivered?

25 Surely ||thus|| saith Yahweh—
||Even the captive of the mighty one|| shall be taken away,
And ||the prey of the tyrant||[a] be delivered;
And <thine opposers> ||I|| will oppose,
And <thy children>[b] ||I|| will save;
26 Then will I feed thy tormentors with their own flesh,
And <as with new wine—with their own blood> shall they be drunk,—
So shall all flesh |know|[c] that ||I—Yahweh|| am thy Saviour,[d]
And ||thy Redeemer||[e] is the Mighty One of Jacob.

§ 49. Were Israel's Restoration a Mere Question of Power, it might easily be accomplished; but No!—and Yahweh's Servant is heard narrating his Sufferings, and proclaiming his Confidence of Vindication. From his Story let all Godly Sufferers learn to trust, and all Self-Glorifiers take warning.

50 1 ||Thus||[f] saith Yahweh—
Where then is the scroll of your mother's divorce, whom[g] I have put away?
Or |which of my creditors| is it, to whom I have sold you?
Lo! <for your iniquities> have ye been sold,[h]
And <for your transgressions> hath your mother been put away.
2 Wherefore'
<When I came in> was there no' one?
<When I called> was there none' to answer?
Is mine own hand ||really shortened|| that it cannot redeem?
Or is there not' |in me| strength, to deliver?
Lo! <by my rebuke> I dry up the sea,
I make rivers a desert,
Their fish Stinketh, for want of water,
Yea dieth, for thirst:
3 I clothe the heavens with gloom,
And <of sackcloth> make I their covering.

4 ||My Lord, Yahweh|| hath given unto me the tongue of the instructed,
That I should know how to succour the fainting, with discourse,—
He kept wakening—morning by morning,
He kept wakening mine ear,[i] to hearken' as do the instructed;
5 ||My Lord, Yahweh|| opened mine ear,[i]
And ||I|| was not rebellious,—
||Away|| turned I not:

[a] Some cod. (w. Sep., Vul.): "And these" (or, "These, therefore,")—G.n.
[b] Or transfer both names: "Adonáy, Yahweh."
[c] Ml.: "princesses."
[a] "Ruthless"—O.G.
[b] Or: "sons."
[c] Cp. chap. xl. 5; lii. 10.
[d] Or: "am saving thee."
[e] Or: "near of kin." Cp. "the Book of Ruth."
[f] Some cod. (w. 2 car. pr. edns.): "For thus"—G.n.
[g] Or: "wherewith."
[h] Or: "sold yourselves."
[i] Ml.: "for me an ear"= "giving me an open ear."

6 <My back> gave I to smiters, and
<My cheeks> to them who pulled out the beard,—
<My face> hid I not' from insult and spitting.
7 <Because ‖My Lord, Yahweh‖ would help me>
‖Therefore‖ was I not deterred by insult,—
‖Therefore‖ did I set my face' like flint,
And I knew' that I should not be put to shame.
8 ‖At hand‖ is one who can justify me,
Who' will contend with me? let us stand forth together,—
Who' can accuse me?[a] let him draw near to me!
9 Lo! ‖My Lord, Yahweh‖ will help me,
Who' is he' that shall prove me lawless?[b]

Lo! ‖they all‖ <as a garment> shall fall to pieces,
‖The moth‖ shall consume them.

10 Who' among you, revereth Yahweh,
Hearkening unto the voice of his Servant,—
That hath walked in dark places,
And hath had no gleam of light?
Let him trust in the name of Yahweh,
And lean upon his God.
11 Lo! <all ye that kindle a fire,[c]
That gird yourselves with fiery darts>,—
Walk ye in the blaze of your own fire,
And in the fiery darts ye have kindled,
<At my hand> hath this befallen you,
<In sorrow>[d] shall ye lie down.

§ 50. Yahweh again comforts his People.

51 1 Hearken unto me,
Ye that pursue righteousness,
Ye that seek Yahweh,—
Look well unto the rock whence ye were hewn.
And unto the quarry[e] whence ye were digged:
2 Look well unto Abraham your father,
And unto Sarah who gave you birth,—
For he was ‖alone‖ when called I him,
And I blessed him, that I might make him |many|.

3 For Yahweh hath comforted' Zion,
He hath comforted all her waste places,[f]
And hath made her wilderness like Eden,
And her waste plain like the garden of Yahweh,— ‖Joy and gladness‖ shall be found in her,
Thanksgiving, and the voice of melody.[g]

4 Attend unto me, O my people,
And ‖O my nation‖ |unto me| give ear,—
For ‖instruction‖[a] |from me| shall go forth,
And <my justice—for a light of peoples> will I establish:[b]
5 At hand' is my righteousness,
Gone forth' hath my salvation,
And ‖mine own arms‖ |unto the peoples| shall give justice,—
<Upon me> |Coastlands| shall wait,[c]
And <for mine arm> shall they hope.

6 Lift up—to the heavens—your eyes,
And look around to the earth beneath,
<Though ‖the heavens‖ |like smoke| should have vanished,[d]
And ‖the earth‖ |like a garment| should fall to pieces,
And ‖her inhabitants‖ |in like manner| should die'>
Yet ‖my salvation‖ |unto times age-abiding| shall continue,
And ‖my righteousness‖ shall not be broken down.

7 Hearken unto me, ye who discern[e] righteousness,
The people in whose heart is my law,[f]—
Do not fear the reproach of frail men,
Nor <at their revilings> be dismayed;
8 For <like a garment> shall they be eaten of the moth,
And <like wool> shall they be eaten of the larva;
But ‖my righteousness‖ |unto times age-abiding| shall continue,
And ‖my salvation‖ unto the remotest generation.[g]

§ 51. Yahweh's Arm invoked by the Memory of its Past Deeds and in Joyful Assurance of the Result. The Divine Voice of Comfort is again heard. The Prophet himself expostulates with his afflicted People and delivers a further Divine Message.

9 Awake, awake, put on strength, O arm of Yahweh,
Awake, As in days of old,
The generations of bygone ages:
Art not thou' that which—
Hewed down Rahab,
Piercing the Crocodile?[h]
10 Art not thou' that which dried up—
The Sea,
The waters of the mighty Deep,—
That which made of the abysses of the sea' a road for the passing over of the redeemed?

[a] Or: "Who hath a case against me?" Ml.: "Who owneth my judgment or sentence?"
[b] Or (with stronger emphasis on the "Who"): "‖Who‖ will prove me lawless?" Cp. O.G. 216, 4, b.
[c] "Lo! all you, players with fire. Kindlers of fire is the literal rendering. But the word is not the common word to kindle, but is here used of wanton fire raising"—G.A.S.
[d] Or: "a place of pain."
[e] Ml.: "the hollow of the pit."
[f] Cp. xl. 1; xlix. 13.
[g] Or: "the sound of music."

[a] "'Law' is revelation"—A. B. Davidson (Temple Bible).
[b] Or: "cause to settle down."
[c] Cp. chap. xlii. 4; lx. 9.
[d] Ml.: "been dissipated"—O.G.
[e] Or: "take note of."
[f] Or: "mine instruction."
[g] Ml.: "unto the generation of generations."
[h] "As symbol of Egypt"—Davies' H.L.

11 Therefore ‖the ransomed of Yahweh‖ shall again' come unto Zion, with shouts of triumph,[a]
With gladness age-abiding on their head,—
‖Joy and gladness‖ shall overtake [them],
Sorrow and sighing |have fled away|.[b]

12 ‖I—I‖ am he that comforteth you,—
Who' art ‖thou‖ that thou hast feared Frail man that dieth, and ‖A son of the earthborn‖ who |as grass| shall be delivered up?

13 That thou hast forgotten Yahweh thy maker,
Who stretched out the heavens,
And founded the earth?
That thou hast dreaded continually, all the day, by reason of the fury of the oppressor, in that he[c] was ready to destroy?
Where' then, is the fury of the oppressor?

14 The captive hath hastened' to be loosed,—
That he might not die in the pit,
Neither should |his bread| be cut off.

15 But ‖I—Yahweh‖ am thy God,
Who threw into commotion the sea,
And the waves thereof roared,—
‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is his name.

16 Therefore have I put my words in thy mouth,
And <with the shadow of my hand> have I covered thee,—
To plant[d] the heavens, and
To lay the foundations of the earth, and
To say unto Zion,
<My people> thou art'!

17 Rouse thee—rouse thee, stand up, O Jerusalem,
Who hast drunk, at the hand of Yahweh,
his cup of indignation:
<The goblet-cup of confusion>[e] hast thou drunk—hast thou drained.

18 There is none' to guide her,
Among all the sons she hath borne,—
There is none' to grasp her hand,
Among all the sons she hath brought up.

19 <Twain> are the things befalling thee,
Who will lament for thee?
Wasting and destruction, and[f] famine and sword,
By whom shall I comfort thee?

20 ‖Thy sons‖ have fainted,
They lie at the head of all the streets, like a gazelle in a net,—
Who, indeed, are full of
The indignation of Yahweh,
The rebuke of thy God.

21 |Therefore| hear, I pray thee, |this|, thou humbled one,—
And drunken, but not with wine:—

22 ‖Thus‖ saith Thy Lord Yahweh, Even thy God who pleadeth the cause of his people:—
Lo! I have taken, |out of thy hand| the cup of confusion,—
<As for the goblet-cup of mine indignation>
Thou shalt not again' drink it, any more';[a]

23 But I will put it into the hand of thy tormentors,
Who said to thy soul,
Bow down that we may pass over,—
And so thou didst place, as the ground, thy back,
Yea, as the street, to such as were passing
along.

§ 52. Zion called upon to clothe Herself with Strength and Beauty, and shake herself from the Dust of her Captivities; to enjoy Redemption by a Price more precious than Silver; to acknowledge the Name of her lately reviled God as that of a now Present, Speaking King, at last Returned to Zion; as Welcome Heralds proclaim, Consenting Watchmen attest, and her own Songs celebrate. Out of Bondage, then! Yahweh waits to become your Vanguard and Rear-guard.

52 1 Awake, awake,
Put on thy strength, O Zion,—
Put on thy beautiful garments,
O Jerusalem—thou holy' city,
For there shall not again' come into thee any more' the uncircumcised and unclean.

2 Shake thyself from the dust, arise—sit down,
O Jerusalem,—
Loose thyself[b] from the bonds of thy neck,
O captive! daughter of Zion!

3 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh,
<For nought> ye sold yourselves,—
And <not with silver> shall ye be redeemed.[c]

4 For ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,[d]
<To Egypt> went down my people at first,
to sojourn there,—
But ‖Assyria‖ <without cause> hath oppressed him.

5 ‖Now‖ therefore, what do I here?
Demandeth Yahweh.
That my people have been taken away for nought?
‖They who rule them‖ do howl,
Declareth Yahweh,
And <continually—all the day> is my Name' brought into contempt.

6 |Therefore| shall my people acknowledge'
my Name:
‖Therefore‖ <in that day> shall they acknowledge that ‖I‖ am the same, even I who am speaking,— ‖Here I am‖[e]

7 How beautiful, upon the mountains, are the feet—
Of him
That bringeth good tidings,
That publisheth peace,
That bringeth good tidings of blessing,
That publisheth salvation,—
That saith unto Zion,
Thy God |hath become king|.

8 The voice of thy watchmen!
They have uplifted a voice,
‖Together‖ do they renew the shout of triumph,—
For <eye to eye> shall they see,
When Yahweh returneth to Zion.[a]

9 Break forth, shout[b] in triumph, |together|, ye waste places of Jerusalem,—
For Yahweh Hath comforted' his people,[c]
Hath redeemed Jerusalem:

10 Yahweh hath bared his holy' arm,[d] in the eyes of all the nations,[e]
So shall all the ends of the earth see' the salvation of our God.

11 Away! away! come forth from thence!—
<Nought unclean> may ye touch,—
Come forth out of her midst,
Purify yourselves, ye who are to carry the vessels of Yahweh;

12 For <not in haste>[f] shall ye come forth,
Nor <by flight> shall ye journey,—
For <your van-guard> is Yahweh,
And <your rear-guard> the God of Israel.[g]

§ 53. Yahweh's Servant disclosed, first and last, as an Exalted Conqueror, but intermediately as a Sufferer; even at first, however, with an allusion to his Marred Appearance, and at last with his Death regarded as the cause of his Victory. At the beginning and end of this Prophecy, the Voice is plainly that of Yahweh himself; but at liii. 1 the Voice changes, and sounds like that of Israel in changeful Moods propounding her conflicting Thoughts about the Sufferer: as if a final Generation had taken up—in order to resolve and correct—the Doubts and Mistakes of their Ancestors. (Cp. Intro. Chap. II. 11.)

13 Lo! my Servant[h] |prospereth|,—
He riseth, and is lifted up, and becometh very high:

14 <The more that Many |were amazed at thee|
So marred, beyond any man's, was his appearance,—
And his form, beyond the sons of men>

15 The more doth he startle[a] Many nations,
<Before him> have kings closed' their mouth,—
For <that which had not been related to them> have they seen,
And <that which they had not heard> have they diligently considered.

1 Who' believed what we have heard? 53
And <the arm of Yahweh> to whom was it revealed?

2 <When he came up as a sapling[b] before him,
And as a root-sprout out of dry ground>
He had neither beauty nor majesty,—
<When we beheld him> there was nothing to behold, that we should desire him;

3 Despised was he, and forsaken of men,
Man of pains, and familiar with sickness,—
Yea <like one from whom the face is hidden>
Despised, and we esteemed him not.

4 |Yet surely| <our sicknesses> ‖he‖ carried,
And <as for our pains> he[c] bare the burden of them,—
But ‖we‖ accounted him stricken,
Smitten of God, and humbled.[d]

5 Yet ‖he‖ was pierced for transgressions that were ours, was crushed for iniquities that were ours,—
‖The chastisement for our well-being‖ was upon him,
And <by his stripes> there is healing for us.

6 ‖We all‖[e] <like sheep> had gone astray,
<Every man—to his way> had we turned,—
And ‖Yahweh‖ caused to light upon him
The guilt of ‖us all‖.[e]

7 ‖Hard pressed‖[f]—yet ‖he‖ humbled himself,
Nor opened his mouth—
As ‖a lamb‖ <to the slaughter> is led,
And ‖as a sheep‖ <before her shearers> is dumb—
Nor opened his mouth.

8 <By constraint and by sentence>[g] was he taken away,
And <of his age> who considered
That he was cut off[h] out of the land of the living,[i]
<For my people's transgression> did the stroke fall on him?

[a] Or: "For c. to c. shall they look upon Yahweh's return unto Zion." Prob.: "Shall be face to face with the event." Cp. Nu. xiv. 14.

[d] "Degraded"—G.A.S.
[e] Note the echo; Heb.: kullānu in both cases.
[f] Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.) have: "he came near"—G.n. [Cp. Deu. xxv. 1.]
[g] "By tyranny and law" —G.A.S. "Through an oppressive doom"—Cheyne (P.B).
[h] "Wrenched"—G.A.S.
[i] Note how gradually the Servant's sufferings have been disclosed: first, a mere hint of temporary discouragement (xlii. 4); second, an open lament over failure (xlix. 4); third, personal ill-usage (l. 6); fourth, here, violent death!

9 And <appointed with lawless men> was his grave,
And <with the wicked>[a] his tomb,—
Though <no violence> had he done,
Nor was guile in his mouth.

10 Yet ‖Yahweh> purposed to bruise[b] him.
He laid on him sickness:[c]—
<If[d] his soul become an offering for guilt>
He shall see a seed,
He shall prolong his days,—
And ‖the purpose of Yahweh‖ <in his hand> shall prosper:

11 <Of the travail of his soul> shall he see.
He shall be satisfied with his knowledge,
<A setting right, when set right himself> shall my Servant win for the Many,
Since <of their iniquities> ‖he‖ taketh the burden.

12 |Therefore| will I give him a portion in the great,
And <the strong> shall he apportion as spoil,
Because he poured out, to death, his own soul,
And <with transgressors> let himself be numbered,— Yea ‖he‖ <the sin of Many> bare,
And <for transgressors> interposeth.[e]

§ 54. In Strains of exquisite Tenderness Yahweh of Hosts addresses the Nation he purposes to Renew and Restore. The Wife put away shall come back—for ever.

54 1 Shout in triumph, O barren one,
Who hadst not borne,—
Break forth into shouts of triumph — and trill thy voice,
Who hadst not travailed in birth,
For ‖more‖ are the children of the Desolate,
Than the children of Her who had the husband,[f] Saith Yahweh.

2 Enlarge the space of thy tent,
And <the curtains of thy habitations> let them spread forth, do not spare,— Lengthen thy cords,
And <thy tent-pins> make thou fast;

3 For <on the right hand and on the left> shalt thou break forth,—
And ‖thy seed‖ shall <of the nations> take possession,
And <forsaken cities> shall they cause to be inhabited.

4 Do not fear, for thou shalt not turn pale,
Neither feel disgraced, for thou shalt not be put to the blush,—
For <the shame of thy youth> shalt thou forget,
And <the reproach of thy widowhood> shalt thou remember no more;

5 For <thy husband> is |thy Maker|,
‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is his Name,—
And <thy redeemer> |the Holy One of Israel|,
<The God of all the earth> shall he be called.

6 For <like a wife forsaken and grieved in spirit> hath Yahweh' |called thee|,—
<Even the wife of youthful days> in that thou wast rejected, Saith thy God.

7 <For a small moment> I forsook thee,—
But <with abounding compassions> do I embrace thee:

8 <In an overflow of vexation>[a] I hid my face,[b] for a moment, from thee,
But <with lovingkindness age-abiding> have I had compassion on thee,— Saith thy Redeemer, Yahweh.

9 For <the waters[c] of Noah> is this unto me,—
<As to which I sware that the waters of Noah should not again pass over the earth>
‖So‖ have I sworn
Not to be vexed with thee,
Nor to rebuke thee.

10 For ‖the mountains‖ may move away,
And ‖the hills‖ may be shaken,—
But ‖my lovingkindness‖ <from thee> shall not move away,
And ‖my covenant of peace‖ shall not be shaken,
Saith he who hath compassion upon thee—Yahweh.

11 O thou humbled one, storm-tossed, |uncomforted|,—
Lo! ‖I‖ am about to set, in antimony, thy stones,
And will found thee in sapphires;
12 And make rubies, thy battlements,
And thy gates, sparkling stones,—
And all thy boundaries, stones of delight;
13 And ‖all thy children‖ shall be the instructed of Yahweh,—
And ‖great‖ shall be the prosperity of thy children.

[b] "Crush"—O.G.
[c] Or: "made him sick"; = "bruising him sorely"—O.G. 318.
[d] The translator has here very cautiously commenced an indentation, to suggest the question, whether what follows is not an indirect Divine Soliloquy as to the reasons by which the strange procedure is justified: That Yahweh should have purposed to lay on his own approved "Servant" the iniquity of others—"of us all." The Divine Reasoner is at first referred to in the third person (ver. 10), then (ver. 11) says "My Servant," and (ver. 12) assumes the mighty, self-revealing "I."
[e] With this victorious climax of suffering, the Suffering Servant disappears; or appears again only as gracious Proclaimer (lxi.) or terrible Avenger (lxiii.). Henceforth the formation of a NEW ISRAEL becomes the leading theme.

14 <In righteousness> shalt thou be established,—
Be thou far from oppression—
But indeed thou shalt not fear,
And from crushing calamity—
But indeed it shall not come nigh unto thee.
15 Lo![a] they would ‖quarrel‖ with thee—not at all from me,— ‖Whoso hath quarrelled with thee‖ <over thee> shall fall.
16 Lo! ‖I‖ have created the smith, who bloweth up a fire of coals,
And who bringeth forth an instrument for his work,—
And ‖I‖ have created the waster to destroy:[b]
17 ‖No instrument formed against thee‖ shall prosper,
And <every tongue that riseth against thee in judgment> shalt thou prove to be lawless,—
‖This‖ is the inheritance of the servants of Yahweh,
And ‖their righteousness‖ is |from me|,
Declareth Yahweh.

§ 55. Gospel Preaching here begins, as well it may; but the Prophetic Needle holds true to the Pole of the National Hope.

55 1 Ho! every one that thirsteth!
Come ye to the waters,
Yea he that hath no money,—
Come ye—buy corn, and eat,
Yea come—buy corn |without money|,
And |without price| ‖wine and milk‖.
2 Wherefore[c] should ye spend
Money, for that which is |not bread|?
Or your labour, for that which |satisfieth not|?
Keep on hearkening[c] unto me,
And so eat that which is good,
And let your soul |take exquisite delight in fatness|:
3 Incline your ear, and come unto me,
Hearken, That your soul |may live|,—
That I may solemnise for you a covenant age-abiding,
The Lovingkindness to David, well-assured.
4 Lo! <As a witness to the peoples> have I given him,—
|As a leader and commander| to the peoples:
5 Lo! <A nation thou shalt not know> shalt thou call,
And ‖a nation which hath not known thee‖ <unto thee> shall run,—
For the sake of Yahweh thy God,
And for the Holy One of Israel, because he hath adorned thee.

6 Seek Yahweh, while he may be found,[a]—
Call ye upon him, while he is near:
7 Let the lawless forsake[b] his way,
And the man of iniquity, his thoughts,[b]—
And let him return unto Yahweh,
That he may have compassion upon him,
And unto our God,
For he will abundantly pardon.
8 For |my thoughts|[b] are not |your thoughts|,[b]
Nor |your ways| |my ways|,—
Declareth Yahweh.
9 For |higher| are the heavens than the earth,—
‖So‖ |higher| are
|My ways| than |your ways|, and
|My thoughts| than |your thoughts|.
10 For <as the rain and the snow descend[b] from the heavens,
And <thither> do not return,
Except they have watered the earth,
And caused it to bring forth and bud,—
And given seed to the sower, and bread to the eater>
11 ‖So‖ shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth,
It shall not return unto me void,—
But shall accomplish[c] that which I please,
And shall prosper in that whereunto I have sent it.
12 For <with gladness shall ye come forth,
And <in peace>[d] shall ye be led,—
‖The mountains and the hills‖ shall break out, before you, into shouts of triumph,
And ‖all the wild trees‖[e] shall clap their hands:
13 <Instead of the thorn-bush> shall come up the fir-tree,
And <instead[f] of the nettle> shall come up the myrtle-tree,—
So shall it become, unto Yahweh, a Name,
‖A Sign age-abiding, which shall not be cut off‖.

How happy the frail man, who doeth this!
Yea the son of the earth-born who firmly graspeth it!
Keeping the sabbath, lest he profane it, and Keeping his own hand, from doing any wrong.

And let not the son of the foreigner, who hath joined himself unto Yahweh, |speak|[a] saying,
Yahweh ‖will separate‖ me from his people!
Neither let the eunuch |say|,[a]
Lo! ‖I‖ am a tree dried up!

For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh—
<Of the eunuchs,
Who shall keep my sabbaths,
And choose what I delight in,—
And lay firm hold on my covenant>
That I will give unto them—
In my house,
And within my walls,
A sign and a name, better than sons and daughters,—
<A name age-abiding> will I give him, which shall not be cut off.

And <as for the sons of the foreigner—
Who have joined themselves unto Yahweh,
To wait upon him, and
To love the name of Yahweh,
To become his, for servants,—
Every one who keepeth the sabbath, lest he profane it,
And who layeth firm hold on my covenant>
Surely I will bring them into[b] my holy' mountain,
And make them joyful in my house of prayer,
‖Their ascending-offerings and their sacrifices‖ being accepted upon mine altar,—
For ‖my house‖  shall be called, for all the peoples!

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,[c]
Who is gathering the outcasts of Israel:—
<Yet others> will I gather unto him,
Besides his own gathered ones.

§ 57. Corrupt Rulers and Teachers sternly denounced.

All ye beasts of the field! come ye, to devour,
All ye beasts in the forest.
‖His watchmen‖ are blind,
‖None of them‖ know,
‖All of them‖ are dumb dogs, they cannot bark,— Dreaming, sleeping, loving to slumber.

And ‖the dogs‖ are greedy,[a] they know not to be satisfied,
Yea ‖they‖ are shepherds, who know not to discern,— ‖All of them‖ <unto their own way> have turned,
Every man to his unjust gain, |on every hand|:
Come ye! I will fetch wine,
Let us fill ourselves with strong drink,—
And <like this day> shall |to-morrow| be—
Great beyond measure!

§ 58. Calamity impending, as a Punishment of gross (pre-exilic) Idolatry; but the high and holy Inhabitant of Futurity, who longs to heal, encourages the Repentant.

‖The righteous one‖ hath perished, 57
And |not a man| hath taken it to heart,[b]—
Yea ‖the men of lovingkindness‖ have been withdrawn,
No one considering,
That <from the presence of calamity> hath the righteous been withdrawn.
He entereth into peace,
Let them rest upon their couches,—
Each one who went on a straight path.
But ‖ye‖[c] . . . draw near hither,
Ye sons of divination,—
Ye seed of an adulterer, when [your mother] committed unchastity!
Against whom' would ye disport yourselves?
Against whom' would ye widen the mouth, and lengthen the tongue,—
Are not ‖ye‖ Children of transgression,[d]
A Seed of falsehood.[e]
Who inflame yourselves
With the terebinths,[f]
Under every green tree,—
Slaying the children
In the torrent-valleys,
Under the clefts of the crags:
<Among the smooth stones of the torrent-valley>[g] is thy portion,
‖They‖ ‖they‖ are thy lot;
<Even to them> hast thou
Poured out a drink-offering,
Caused to ascend a gift.
<Over these things> can I cease to grieve?
<On a mountain high and uplifted> hast thou set thy couch,— <Even thither> hast thou gone up, to offer sacrifice;

8 And <behind the door and the post> hast thou set thy symbol,[a]
For <with another than me> hast thou uncovered thyself and gone up—
Hast widened thy couch,
And hast solemnised for thyself a covenant
from them,
Thou hast loved their couch, [b] hast
thou seen ;
9 And hast gone to the king[c] with oil,
And hast multiplied thy perfumes,—
And hast sent thy messengers afar,
And . . . lowered thyself as far as hades!

10 <With the length of thy journey> thou wast wearied,
Thou didst not say, Hopeless!
<The reviving of thy power> thou didst find,
<For this cause> hast thou not become sick.
11 Whom' then hadst thou been anxious about,
and feared, that thou shouldest speak falsely,
When <me> thou rememberedst not,
caredst not for me?[d]
Did not ‖I‖ keep silence, even from age-past times,
Although <me> thou wouldest not fear?
12 ‖I‖ will expose thy righteousness,—
And thy works—but[e] they will not profit
thee!
13 <When thou makest outcry> let thy gathered throngs[f] deliver thee!
But <all of them> shall
A wind |catch up|—A breath |take away|!
Whereas ‖he that seeketh refuge in me‖
Shall inherit the land,
And possess my holy' mountain.

14 And one said—
Cast ye up—cast ye up, prepare ye a way,—
Lift the stumbling-block out of the way of my people.[g]

15 For ‖thus‖ saith he that is high and lifted up[h]—
Inhabiting futurity,[i]
And ‖holy‖ is his name :
<A high and holy place> will I inhabit,
Also with the crushed and lowly in spirit,[k]
To revive the spirit of the lowly, and To revive the heart of them who are crushed ;[l]—

16 For <not age-abidingly> will I contend,
<Nor perpetually> will I be wroth,—
For ‖spirit‖ <before me> would faint,
Even ‖the breathing souls‖[a] which ‖I‖ had made.

17 <Because of his iniquitous gain> was I wroth
—and smote him,
Hiding myself[b] that I might be wroth,—
But he went on, turning aside in the way of his own heart.

18 <His ways> have I beheld,
That I might heal him,—
And guide him,
And restore consolations to him, and to his mourners :
19 Creating the fruit of the lips—
Prosperity! Prosperity!
For him that is far off, and for him that is near,
Saith Yahweh,[c]
So should I heal him.
20 But ‖the lawless‖ are like the sea when tossed,—
For <rest> it cannot!
But its waters toss out mire and dirt.
No' well-being, saith my God,[d] to the lawless![e]

§ 59. More Probing of the Sins of the People: Hypocritical Fasting exposed and denounced: Acceptable Fasting encouraged by most gracious Promises.

58 1 Cry aloud,[f] do not spare,
<Like a horn> lift high thy voice,—
And declare,
To my people, their transgression, and
To the house of Jacob, their sins.

2 Yet <me—day by day> do they seek,
And <in the knowledge of my ways> they delight,—
<Like a nation that had done ‖righteousness‖,
And <the justice of their God> had not forsaken>
They ask of me the just regulations,[g]
<In approaching God> they delight.

3 Wherefore' have we
Fasted, and thou hast not seen?
Humbled our soul,[h] and thou wouldst take no note?

Lo! <in the day of your fast> ye take pleasure,
But <all your toilers> ye drive on!

[f] Lit: "Call with the throat." "Call with vehemence but with self-command . . . In the Oriental throat, speech goes down deep enough to echo all the breadth of the inner man"—G.A.S.
[g] Cp. Exo. xxi.-xxiii.
[h] Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Aram., Sep., Vul.): "souls"—G.n.

4 Lo! <for strife and contention> ye fast,
And to smite with the fist of lawlessness,—
Ye[a] shall not fast as to-day,
To cause to be heard, on high, your voice!
5 <Like this> shall the fast be, that I choose,
A day for the son of earth to humble his soul?
Is it to bow down, as a rush, his head,
And <sackcloth and ashes> to spread out?
Is it ‖this‖ thou wilt call a fast,
Or a day of acceptance with Yahweh?
6 Is not ‖this‖ the fast that I must ever choose—
To unbind the tight cords of lawlessness,
To unloose the bands of the yoke,—and
To let the crushed go free, and
That <every yoke> ye tear off?
7 Is it not to break, unto the hungry, thy bread,
And <the thrust-out oppressed> that thou bring into a home,—
<When thou seest one naked> that thou cover him,
And <from thine own flesh> shalt not[b] hide thyself?
8 ‖Then‖ shall break forth, as the dawn, thy light,
And ‖thy new flesh‖[c] shall |speedily| grow,—
Then shall go, before thee, thy righteousness,
‖The glory of Yahweh‖ shall bring up thy rear:
9 ‖Then‖ shalt thou
Call, and ‖Yahweh‖ will answer,
Cry out, and he will say, Behold me!
<If thou remove, out of thy midst,
‖The yoke‖,
The pointing of the finger, and
The speaking of iniquity;
10 And shalt let thine own soul[d] |go out to the hungry|,
And <the soul of the oppressed> thou shalt satisfy>
Then shall break forth, in darkness, thy light,
And ‖thy thick darkness‖ [become] as the splendour of noon;
11 Then will Yahweh guide' thee continually,
And will satisfy, [even] in scorched regions, thine own soul,
Yea <thy very bones> will he invigorate,[e]—
So shalt thou become, like a garden well-watered,
And like a spring of water, whose waters do not deceive';
12 And they who come of thee' shall build the wastes of age-past times,
And <as for the foundations of generation after generation> thou shalt rear them up,—
So shalt thou be called—
A Repairer of broken walls,
A Restorer of paths leading home.
13 <If thou turn back,
From the sabbath, thy foot,[a]
From doing thine own pleasure, on my holy' day,—
And shalt call—
The sabbath, An exquisite delight,
The holy [day] of Yahweh, A day to be honoured,
And so shalt honour it, rather—
Than do thine own ways,
Than take thine own pleasure,[b] or
Than speak [thine own] word>[c]
14 ‖Then‖ shalt thou rest thine own exquisite delight upon Yahweh, . . .
And I will cause thee to ride over the high places of the land,—
And will feed thee with the inheritance of Jacob thy father,
For ‖the mouth of Yahweh‖ hath spoken.

§60. The Darkness deepens; and the Catalogue of Sins unfolds its alarming Length—the Sins being first charged upon the People, then confessed by the People, together with their deplorable Results. At length, Yahweh himself interposes to avenge: repaying his Enemies in the West and in the East. He cometh in like a pent-up River, driven on by the Breath of Yahweh. A Redeemer comes for such as repent in Jacob; who are brought into a Perpetual Covenant, by which the Redeemer's Spirit and Words abide with them for ever.

1 Lo! the hand of Yahweh is not too short' 59 to save,—
Neither is his ear too heavy' to hear.
2 But ‖your iniquities‖ have become separators betwixt you and your God,
And ‖your sins‖ have caused a hiding of face[d]
from you, that he should not hear.
3 For ‖your hands‖ are defiled with blood,
And ‖your fingers‖ with iniquity,—
‖Your lips‖ have spoken falsehood, and
‖Your tongue‖ muttereth ‖perversity‖.
4 ‖None‖ sueth in righteousness, and ‖None‖ pleadeth in faithfulness,—
Men are trusting in confusion,[a] And speaking vanity, Conceiving wickedness, And bringing forth iniquity:
5 <Viper's eggs> do they hatch,
<Spider's threads> do they weave,—
‖He that eateth of their eggs‖ dieth,
And ‖that which is crushed‖ bringeth forth an adder;

[e] Heb.: tohu; Gen. i. 2.

6 ‖Their threads‖ shall not become a garment,
Neither shall they cover themselves with their fabrics,—
‖Their fabrics‖ are fabrics[a] of iniquity,
Yea ‖the product of violence‖ is in their hands;
7 ‖Their feet‖ <to mischief> do run,
And they speed to shed innocent blood,—
‖Their devices‖ are devices of iniquity,
‖Wasting and destruction‖ are in their high roads;
8 ‖The way of well-being‖ have they not known,
And there is no justice in their tracks,—
<Their paths> have they made crooked for themselves, ‖None' who treadeth therein‖ knoweth well-being.

9 ‖For this cause‖ hath justice removed far' from us,
And righteousness overtaketh' us not,—
We wait for light. But lo! darkness,
For brightness. <In thick darkness> we walk:
10 We grope as blind men for a wall,
Yea <as men without' eyes> do we grope,—
We have stumbled at broad noon as though it were twilight,
In desolate places like the dead![b]
11 We growl like bears all of us,
And <like doves> do we ‖mournfully coo‖,—
We wait
For justice, and there is' none,
For salvation, it is far from us!

12 For our transgressions have multiplied' before thee,
And ‖our sins‖ have witnessed[c] against us,—
For ‖our transgressions‖ are with us,
And <as for our iniquities> we acknowledge them:
13 Transgressing and denying Yahweh,
And turning away from following our God,—
Speaking oppression and revolt,
Conceiving and muttering from the heart words of falsehood.
14 So then there hath been a driving back of justice,
And ‖righteousness‖ |afar off| standeth,—
For truth |hath stumbled in the broad-way|,
15 And ‖right‖ cannot enter;
And |the truth| hath been |found missing|,
And he that hath turned away from wrong is liable to be despoiled.[d]

And <when Yahweh |looked|>
Then was it grievous in his eyes, that there was no' justice:

16 <When he saw that there was no' mighty man>
Then was he astonished, that there was none to interpose,—
So his own arm[a] |brought him salvation|,
And <his own righteousness> ‖the same‖ upheld him;
17 And he put on Righteousness' as a coat of mail,
And a helmet of victory upon his head,—
And he put on the garments of avenging for clothing,[b]
And wrapped about him as a cloak—
‖jealousy‖![c]
18 <According to their deeds> ‖accordingly‖ will he repay,
Indignation to his adversaries,
Recompense to his enemies,—
<To the Coastlands—recompense> will he repay:
19 That they may revere—
From the West the name of Yahweh,
And from the Rising of the Sun his glory.[d]
For he will come in like a rushing[e] stream,
‖The breath of Yahweh‖ driving it on;
20 So shall come in, for Zion, a Redeemer,
Even for such as are turning from transgression in Jacob,— Declareth Yahweh.
21 And <as for me> ‖this‖ shall be my covenant with them, Saith Yahweh:
‖My spirit that is upon thee,
And my words which I have put in thy mouth‖,—
Shall not be taken out of thy mouth—
Nor out of the mouth of thy seed,
Nor out of the mouth of thy seed's seed, Saith Yahweh,
From henceforth even unto time age-abiding.

§ 61. "Arise, shine!"—a Call to Zion to dispel the deep Gloom of the Nations. 60

1 Arise—shine,
For thy light |hath come|,—
And ‖the glory of Yahweh‖ |on thee| hath beamed;
2 For lo! ‖darkness‖ covereth the earth,
And ‖deep gloom‖ the peoples,—
But <on thee> beameth Yahweh,
And ‖his glory‖ |on thee| is seen.
3 So shall nations come' to thy light,
And kings, to the brightness of thy dawning.
4 Lift up—round about—thine eyes, and see,
‖They all‖ have gathered themselves together—have come to thee,—
‖Thy sons‖ |from afar| shall come,
And ‖thy daughters‖ |on the side| shall be carried.

5 ||Then|| shalt thou see, and be radiant,
And thy heart |shall throb and be enlarged|,[a]—
For there shall be turned upon thee the fulness of the sea,
||The riches of the nations|| shall come unto thee;

6 ||The multitude of camels|| shall cover thee,
The young camels of Midian and Ephah,
||All they of Sheba|| shall come,—
<Gold and frankincense> shall they bring,
And <the praises of Yahweh> shall they joyfully tell:

7 ||All the flocks of Kedar|| shall be gathered unto thee,
||The[b] rams of Nebaioth|| shall wait upon thee,—
They shall come up, with acceptance, on mine altar,[c]
And <my beautiful' house> will I adorn.

8 Who are these' that,
As a cloud, do fly? and
As doves to their cotes?

9 Surely <for me> shall |Coastlands| wait,[d]
And the ships of Tarshish,[e] first,[f]
To bring in thy sons, from far,
Their silver and their gold with them,—
Unto the name of Yahweh thy God,
And unto the Holy One of Israel,
Because he hath adorned thee.

10 So shall |the sons of the foreigner| build |thy walls|,
And ||their kings|| shall wait upon thee,—
For <in my vexation>[g] I smote thee,
But <in my favour> have I had compassion upon thee.

11 So shall thy gates be open'—continually,
<Neither day nor night> shall they be shut,—
That they may bring unto thee the riches of the nations,
And ||their kings|| be led.

12 For ||the nation and the kingdom that will not serve thee|| shall perish,—
Yea ||the nations|| shall be ||utterly wasted||.

13 ||The glory of Lebanon||, <unto thee> shall come,
The fir-tree, the[h] holm-oak, and the sherbin-cedar, together.
To adorn the place of my sanctuary,
And <the place of my feet> will I make glorious.

14 Then shall come unto thee, bending low,
The sons of them who had humbled thee,
Then shall bow down, unto the soles of thy feet,
All they who had despised thee;
And they shall call thee—
The city of Yahweh,
The Zion of the Holy One of Israel.

15 <Instead of thy being forsaken and hated, so that none' used to pass through thee>
I will make of thee—
An excellency age-abiding,
The joy of generation after generation.[a]

16 And thou shalt derive sweet nourishment from the nations,
Yea <on the bounty of kings> shalt thou be sustained,[b]—
So shalt thou know—
That ||I, Yahweh|| am thy Saviour, and
That ||thy Redeemer|| is the Mighty One of Jacob.

17 <Instead of bronze> I will bring in |gold|, and
<Instead of iron> I will bring in |silver|, and
<Instead of wood> |bronze|, and
<Instead of stones> |iron|,—
And I will appoint the oversight of thee to |Prosperity|,
And the setting of thy tasks to |Righteousness|.

18 Violence |shall[c] no more be heard| in thy land,
Wasting nor destruction, within thy boundaries,—
But thou shalt call Thy walls ||Victory||, and
||Thy gates|| Praise.

19 Thou shalt no' more' have |the sun| |for light by day|,
Neither <for brightness> shall the moon give light unto thee,—
But |Yahweh| shall become |thine age-abiding light|,
And |thy God| ||thine adorning||:

20 |No more shall go in| thy sun,
Nor ||thy moon|| withdraw itself,—
For ||Yahweh|| will become to thee, an age-abiding light,
|So shall be ended| the days of thy mourning.

21 And ||thy people|| shall |all of them| be righteous,
<To times age-abiding> shall they possess the land,—
The sprout of mine own planting,[d]
The work of mine own hands,—
That I may get myself glory.

22 ||The little one|| shall become a thousand, and
||The small one|| a mighty nation:
||I—Yahweh|| <in its own season> will hasten it.

§ 62. The Voice of an Anointed Proclaimer is heard, narrating his Commission, and foretelling the Glad Results of its Fulfilment: moving Israel to Song.

61 1 ‖The spirit of My Lord[a] Yahweh‖ is upon me,— Because Yahweh
|Hath anointed me| to tell good tidings to the oppressed.[b]
Hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted,
To proclaim
|To captives| ‖liberty‖,
|To them who are bound| ‖the opening of the prison‖:[c]
2 To proclaim—
The year of acceptance of Yahweh, and
The day of avenging of our God:[d]
To comfort all who are mourning;
3 To appoint unto the mourners of Zion—
To give unto them,
A chaplet instead of ashes,
The oil of joy instead of mourning,
The mantle of praise instead of the spirit of dejection,[e]—
So shall they be called,
The oaks of righteousness,
The plantation of Yahweh:
That he may get himself glory.[f]
4 Then shall they build the wastes of a bygone age,
<The desolations of former times> shall they raise up,—
And they shall build anew—
The cities laid waste,
The desolations of generation after generation.
5 Then shall strangers stay' and feed your flocks,—
And ‖the sons of the foreigner‖ shall be your plowmen and your vinedressers.
6 But ‖ye‖ <the priests of Yahweh> shall be called,
<The attendants of our God> shall ye be named,—
<The riches of the nations> shall ye eat,
And <in their glory> shall ye boast yourselves.[g]
7 <Instead of your shame>—‖double‖! and <[Instead of] disgrace> they shall shout in triumph over their portion,— |Therefore| <in their own land> shall they possess |double|,
‖Joy age-abiding‖ shall be theirs.
8 For ‖I—Yahweh‖ am a lover of justice,
Hating plunder, for an ascending-sacrifice,[a]—
Therefore will I give their reward with faithfulness,
And <an age-abiding covenant> will I solemnise for them.
9 Then shall be ‖known' among the nations‖ |their seed|,
And ‖their offspring‖ |in the midst of the peoples|,—
‖All who see them‖ shall acknowledge them,
That ‖they‖ are the seed that Yahweh hath blessed.
10 I will ‖greatly rejoice‖ in Yahweh,
My soul shall exult' in my God,
For he hath clothed me, with the garments of salvation,
<With[b] a robe of righteousness> hath he enwrapt me,—
As ‖a bridegroom‖ adorneth himself[c] with |a chaplet|,
And as ‖a bride‖ bedecketh herself with |her jewels|.
11 For <as ‖the earth‖ bringeth forth her bud,
And as ‖a garden‖ causeth |her seeds| to shoot forth>
‖So‖ |My Lord, Yahweh|[d] will cause to shoot forth
Righteousness and praise before all the nations.[e]

§ 63. Intercession offered and invited on Jerusalem's behalf.

62 1 <For Zion's sake> will I not hold my peace,
And <for Jerusalem's sake> will I not rest,[f]—
Until her righteousness |go forth as brightness|,
And ‖her salvation‖ as a torch that is lighted.
2 So shall nations see' thy righteousness,[g]
And all kings, thy glory;
And thou shalt be called by a new name, which ‖the mouth of Yahweh‖ will name.[g] 3 Then shalt thou become—
A crown of adorning, in the hand of Yahweh, and
A royal diadem, in the hand of thy God.

4 Thou shalt be termed no longer—
Forsaken,[a]
Nor shall ‖thy land‖ be termed any longer,
A desolation,
But ‖thou‖ shalt be called,
Hephzibah [= "My delight is in her"],
And ‖thy land‖,
Beulah [= "married"],—
For Yahweh hath found delight' in thee,
And ‖thy land‖ shall be married.
5 For |a young man| marrieth' |a virgin|,
Thy sons |marry thee|!
And |the bridegroom| rejoiceth' over |the bride|—
Thy God |rejoiceth over thee|.

6 <Upon thy walls, O Jerusalem> have I appointed watchmen,
<All the day and all the night through> let them not hold their peace,—
O ye that put Yahweh in mind,[b]
Do not take rest |to yourselves|,
7 Neither give rest |unto him|,[c]
Until he establish, and until he set forth Jerusalem, as a praise in the earth!
8 Sworn' hath Yahweh—
By his own right hand, and
By his own strong' arm,—
Surely I will give thy corn, no more, as food to thine enemies,
Nor shall the sons of the foreigner drink' thy new wine, for which thou hast toiled;
9 But ‖they who have garnered it‖ shall eat it, and praise Yahweh,—
And ‖they who have gathered in its clusters‖ shall drink it, in my holy' courts.[d]

10 Pass ye through, pass ye through the gates,
Prepare ye the way of the people,[e]—
Cast ye up, cast ye up the highway,
Clear it of stones,
Lift ye high a standard' unto[f] the peoples.
11 Lo! ‖Yahweh‖ hath sent a message unto the end of the earth:
Say ye to the daughter of Zion,
Lo! ‖thy Salvation‖ is coming,—
Lo! ‖his reward‖ is with him,
And ‖his recompense‖ before him.[g]

12 So shall men call them—
The holy' people,
The redeemed of Yahweh,—
And ‖thou‖ shalt be called—Sought out,
A city |not forsaken|.[h]

§ 64. An Avenging Redeemer suddenly appears, coming in from Edom, where he has trodden down Israel's Enemies in the Winepress of Divine Wrath. (Cp. Ps. cxxxvii. 7; chaps. xiii., xiv., xxxiv.; Jer. xlix. 19 with l. 44; Obad.; Mi. iv. 9—v. 5.)

1 Who' is this' coming in from Edom, 63
With bright-red garments, from Bozrah?
This' made splendid[a] in his raiment,
Marching on[b] in the greatness of his strength?[c]
‖I‖ speaking in righteousness, Mighty[d] to save.

2 Wherefore' is there red, on thy raiment,—
And thy garments, as of one treading in a wine-trough?
3 <A winepress>[e] have I trodden |alone|,
And <of the peoples> there was no' man with me.
So I trod them down, in mine anger,
And trampled upon them, in mine indignation,—
And their life-blood[f] besprinkled my garments,
And <all mine apparel> I defiled;
4 For ‖a day of avenging‖ was in my heart,
And ‖the year of my redeemed‖ had come.[g]
5 Therefore looked I around, and there was none to help,—
And I was astonished, that there was none to uphold,—
So |mine own arm|[h] ‖brought me salvation‖,[i]
And <mine indignation>[k] ‖the same‖ upheld me;
6 Then trod I down peoples, in mine anger,
And make them drunk, with[l] mine indignation,
And brought down to the earth their life-blood.[m]

§ 65. Israel recalls her past Mercies, and bases on them a Prayer for Deliverance from her present forsaken and ruined Condition.

[h] Cp. chap. lix. 16.
[i] Or: "victory."
[k] Some cod. (w. 4 ear. pr. edns.) have: "righteousness" (instead of "indignation"). Cp. chap. lix. 16—G.n.
[l] Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Aram.): "brake them in pieces." "shivered them"—G.n.
[m] Mi.: "their grape-juice." Will this not cause kings "to shut their mouths at him," being "astonished into silence" (cp. chap. lii. 15)?

Even the abundance of goodness to the house of Israel,
Which he bestowed upon them—
According to his compassions, and
According to the abundance of his loving-kindness.
8 Therefore he said—
Surely <my people> they are',
<Sons> they will not act falsely!
So he became their' saviour.
9 <In all their affliction> ‖he‖ was afflicted,[a]
And ‖the messenger of his presence‖ saved them,
<In his love and in his pity> ‖he‖ redeemed them,—
And then lifted them up and carried them, all the days of the age-past time.
10 But ‖they‖ rebelled, and grieved his Holy Spirit,—
And so he turned against them as an enemy,
‖He himself‖[b] fought against them.
11 Then were recalled[c] the days of the age-past time, ‖Moses—his people‖:—
Where' is he that led them up out of the sea, with the shepherds[d] of his flock?
Where' is he that put, within him, his Holy Spirit?
12 That caused to go |at the right hand of Moses| his own majestic' arm,— Cleaving the waters from before them,
To make himself an age-abiding name:
13 Causing them to go through the roaring deeps,—
Like a horse through the wilderness,
That they should not stumble?
14 <‖As a beast‖ |into the valley| goeth down,
‖The Spirit of Yahweh‖ causeth him to rest>
‖So‖ didst thou lead |thy people|,
To make thyself a majestic' name!
15 Look thou down, out of the heavens, and see,
Out of the high abode of thy holiness and of thy majesty,—
Where' are thy jealousy, and thy mighty deeds?[e]
<The resounding of thy yearning affection, and thy compassions towards me> are they restrained?
16 For ‖thou‖ art our father,
Though ‖Abraham‖ knew us not,
And ‖Israel‖ could not acknowledge us,—
‖Thou, O Yahweh‖ art our father,
<Our Redeemer from the Age-past time> is thy name.
17 |Wherefore| shouldst thou suffer us to wander, O Yahweh, from thy ways?
[Wherefore] shouldst thou let us harden our heart past revering thee?
Return thou, for the sake of Thy servants,
The tribes thou thyself hast inherited.
18 <For a short time only> did thy holy' people hold possession,—
‖Our adversaries‖ trod down thy sanctuary!
19 We have become like those Over whom <from age-past times> thou hast not ruled,
Who have never' been called by thy name!

64 1 Would that thou hadst rent the heavens, hadst come down,
<At thy presence> had ‖mountains‖ quaked:
2 <As fire kindleth' brushwood,
[As] fire causeth ‖water‖ to boil>
[So] <if thou wouldst make known thy Name to thine adversaries>
<At thy presence> ‖nations‖ would tremble.
3 <When thou didst fearful things, we could not expect>
Thou camest down, <at thy presence> ‖mountains‖ quaked.[a]
4 <Although from age-past times
It was never heard,
It was not[b] perceived by |the ear|,—
Neither did ‖the eye‖ ever see—
That ‖a god besides thee‖ could work for the man who waited for him>
5 Yet didst thou meet
Him who was rejoicing' and working righteousness,
Even them who <in thy ways> remembered thee,—
Lo! ‖thou‖ hast been vexed,[c]
And truly we had sinned,
<Among them> was [the prospect of] an age [to come],
That we might be saved.
6 But we have become as one unclean |all of us|,
And <as a garment polluted> were all our righteous doings,—
And so we faded like a leaf |all of us|,
And ‖our iniquity‖[d] <as a wind> carried us away;
7 And there was none'
To call upon thy Name,
To rouse himself to lay firm hold on thee,—
For thou hadst hidden thy face from us,[e]
And hadst made us despond, by means[f] of our iniquity.[g]

art',—
‖We‖ are the clay, and ‖thou‖ art our potter,
Yea <the work of thy hand>[b] are |we all|:
9 Do not be indignant, O Yahweh, so very greatly,
Neither <perpetually> do thou recall iniquity,—
Lo! look around, we pray thee . . . ‖thy people‖ are |we all|.
10 ‖Thy holy' cities‖ have become a wilderness,— ‖Zion‖  hath become,
‖Jerusalem‖ a desolation!
11 ‖Our holy' and our beautiful' house,
Where our fathers praised' thee ‖,
Hath become a conflagration,—
And ‖all our delightful places‖ are in ruins!
12 <In view of these things> wilt thou restrain thyself, O Yahweh?
Wilt thou hold thy peace, and humble us so very greatly?

§ 66. Divine Condescension to Gentiles while Israel are yet sunk in Idolatry. A New Israel to be formed out of the Old; yea New Heavens and a New Earth to be created.

65 1 I have let myself be consulted, by them who had not asked,
I have suffered myself to be found, by them who had not sought me,—
I have said Here I am! Here I am!
Unto a nation that had not been called by my name.
2 I have spread out my hands, all the day,
Unto a rebellious people,—
Who walk In the way that is not good,[c]
After their own devices.
3 <The people who are provoking me to anger, to my face, continually,— Sacrificing in gardens,[d] and Burning incense upon bricks;[e]
4 Who tarry among graves,
And <in the secret places> do lodge,—
Who eat the flesh of swine,
And ‖the broth of refuse things‖ is in their vessels,—
5 Who say—
Draw near by thyself,
Do not approach with me,
For I am holier than thou!>[f]
‖These‖ are A smoke in my nostrils,
‖A fire‖ burning all the day.

6 Lo! it is written before me,—
I will not keep silence,
But I have' recompensed, and will' recompense, into their bosom:
7 Your own iniquities,
And the iniquities of your fathers together,
Saith Yahweh,
Who have burned incense upon the mountains,
And <upon the hills> have reproached me,—
Therefore will I measure their former work, into their bosom.

8 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
<As |new wine| is found |in the cluster|,[a]
And one saith, Do not destroy it, for a blessing' is in it>
‖So‖ will I do for the sake of my servants,[b]
That I may not destroy the whole [nation];
9 Therefore will I bring forth
|Out of Jacob| ‖a seed‖, and
|Out of Judah| ‖an inheritor of my mountains‖,
That my chosen ones may inherit' it,
And ‖my servants‖ dwell there;
10 Then shall |Sharon| become |a fold forflocks|,
And the vale of Achor, for the lying down of herds,—
For my people who have sought me.

11 But ‖ye‖ are they—
Who forsake Yahweh,
Who forget my holy' mountain,—
Who prepare, for Fortune,[c] a table, and
Who fill, for Destiny,[c] mixed wine;[d]
12 Therefore will I destine you' to the sword,
And ‖ye all‖ <to the slaughter> shall bow down.
<Because I called, and ye answered not,
I spake, and ye hearkened not,—
But did that which was wicked in mine eyes,
And <of that wherein I delighted not> ye made choice>
13 ‖Therefore‖
|Thus| saith My Lord, Yahweh,[e]—
Lo! ‖my servants‖ shall eat, but ‖ye‖ shall be famished,
Lo! ‖my servants‖ shall drink, but ‖ye‖ shall be thirsty,—
Lo! ‖my servants‖ shall rejoice, but ‖ye‖ shall turn pale;
14 Lo! ‖my servants‖ shall shout in triumph for mirth of heart,
But ‖ye‖ shall make outcry, for pain of heart,
And <for a breaking of spirit> shall ye howl.

15 So shall ye leave your name for an oath,[a] to my chosen ones,—
So then My Lord Yahweh |will slay thee|,—
And <his servants> will he[b] call by another
name:
16 So that ‖he who blesseth himself in the earth‖
Will bless himself in the God of faithfulness,[c]
And ‖he who sweareth in the earth‖
Will swear by the God of faithfulness,[c]—
Because the former troubles |have been forgotten|, and
Because they are hid from mine eyes.

17 For, behold me!
Creating new heavens, and a new earth,—
And the former shall not be mentioned, neither shall they come up on the heart.[d]
18 But joy ye and exult, perpetually,[e] in what I' am about to create,—
For, behold me!
Creating Jerusalem an exultation, and
Her People a joy;
19 Therefore will I Exult in Jerusalem, and Joy in my People,—
And there shall be heard in her |no
more|
The sound of weeping, or the sound of a
cry:
20 There[f] shall be thenceforward |no more|
A suckling of a few days, or an elder
Who filleth not up his days,—
But ‖a youth, a hundred years old‖ may die,
Yea ‖a sinner, a hundred years old‖ shall be accused.

21 Then shall they build houses, and dwell' in
them,—
And plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of
them;
22 They shall not build, and ‖another‖ dwell,
They shall not plant,[g] and ‖another‖ eat,—
For <as the days of a tree> shall be the days
of my people,
And <the work of their own hands> shall
my chosen ones |use to the full|:[h]
23 They shall not labour in vain,
Nor have children for terror,—
For <the seed of the blessed ones of Yahweh> shall they be',
And their offspring, with them.
24 And it shall come to pass—
That <before they call> ‖I‖ will answer,
And <while yet they' are speaking> ‖I‖ will hear.

25 ‖The wolf and the lamb‖ shall feed |in unity|,
And ‖the lion‖ <as an ox> shall eat straw;
But <as for the serpent> ‖dust‖ shall be his food:
They shall not harm—
Nor shall they destroy,
In all my holy mountain,[a]
Saith Yahweh.

§67. The Humble in Heart, and the Profane who hate them, must be Divinely discriminated. The Birth of a Man-child and of a Nation. Rejoice with Jerusalem. Be warned by the Fate of Idolaters and Transgressors.

66 1 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
‖The heavens‖ are my throne, and
‖The earth‖ is my footstool:
Where' then is the house which ye can build
me?
Or where' is my place of rest?
2 For <all these things> hath mine own hand made,
And all these things |came into being|,—
Declareth Yahweh.
But <for this one> will I look around,
For him who is humbled and smitten[b] in spirit,[c]
And so careth anxiously for my word.

3 ‖He that slaughtereth an ox‖ [is as one] who smiteth a man,
‖He that sacrificeth a lamb‖ [is as one] who beheadeth a dog,
‖He that causeth a meal-offering to ascend‖
[offereth it with] the blood of swine,
‖He that maketh a memorial of frankincense‖
[is as one] who blesseth iniquity:[d]
‖They indeed‖ have chosen their own ways,
And <in their own abominations> their soul hath found delight;
4 ‖I, also‖ will choose the things that vex
them,
And <the things they dread> will I bring upon them, Because—
I called, and there was none' to answer,
I spake, and they hearkened not,—
But did that which was wicked in mine eyes,
And <of that wherein I delighted not> made choice.

5 Hear the word of Yahweh, ye who care anxiously for his word:
Said your brethren
Who hated you,
Who thrust you out for my Name's sake,
Yahweh be glorified!
Therefore shall he appear to your rejoicing,
But ‖they‖ shall turn pale.

A sound, out of the temple,—
The sound of Yahweh, rendering recompense to his foes.

7 * <Before she travaileth> she hath brought forth,—
<Before her pains come to her> she hath given birth to a man-child![a] *

8 Who' hath heard the like of this?
Who'[b] hath seen the like of these things?
Can |a land| be made to bring forth' |in one
day|?
Or |a nation| be born' |at one time|?[c]
<As soon as she travaileth> Zion hath also given birth to her children.

9 Could ‖I‖ bring to the birth, and not cause to bring forth? Saith Yahweh.
Or ‖I‖ be causing to bring forth, and then prevent? Saith thy God.

10 Rejoice ye with Jerusalem, and exult over
her,
All ye who love her,—
Joy with her, right joyfully,
All ye who used to mourn over her:

11 That ye may draw, to satisfaction, out of the fountain[d] of her consolations,—
That ye may drain out and get exquisite delight from the abundance of her glory.

12 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
Behold me! extending unto her, |like a river|
‖prosperity‖,[e]
And <as a torrent o'erflowing> ‖the glory of the nations‖,
That ye may draw it forth,[f]—
<Upon the side> shall ye be carried, and <Upon the knees> shall ye be caressed:

13 <As one whom ‖his mother‖ consoleth>
‖So‖ will ‖I‖ console you',
And <in Jerusalem> shall ye be consoled.

14 <As soon as ye have seen it> |your heart|
shall be joyful,
And ‖your bones‖ |like green herbage| shall thrive,—
So shall be known
The hand of Yahweh with his servants,
But indignation with his foes!

15 For lo! ‖Yahweh‖ <with fire> doth come,
And <like a storm-wind> [are] his chariots,—
To render, with fury, his anger,
And his rebuke, with flames of fire.

16 For <by fire> will Yahweh enter into judgment,
And by his sword, with all flesh,—
And many' shall be the slain of Yahweh.

17 ‖They who hallow themselves and purify themselves for the gardens,[a]
Behind a certain thing[b] in the midst,
Who eat the flesh of swine, and[c] the abomination, and the mouse‖
<Together> shall be cut off—
Declareth Yahweh.

18 Because ‖I‖ . . . <for their works and their devices> doth it come! . . .
Am about to gather together all nations and tongues,—
So shall they come, and see my glory.

19 Then will I set, among them, a sign,
And will send, of them, such as have escaped, unto the nations—
Tarshish, Pul, and Lud, that draw the bow,
Tubal and Javan,—
The Coastlands that[d] are afar off,
Who have not heard my fame,
Nor seen my glory,
And they shall tell my glory throughout the nations.

20 Then shall they bring in all your brethren out of all the nations,
As a present unto Yahweh,
Upon horses and in chariots and in palanquins and on mules and on dromedaries,
Unto my holy' mountain—Jerusalem,
Saith Yahweh,—
Just as the sons of Israel |bring in| their present in a pure vessel, into the house of Yahweh.

21 And <of them also> will I take for priests—for[e] Levites, Saith Yahweh,

22 For <as the new heavens and the new earth which I am about to make, are to remain before me> Declareth Yahweh.
‖So‖ shall remain' your seed and your name.

23 And it shall come to pass, that
<From one new moon to another, and
From one sabbath to another>
Shall all flesh |come in| to bow down before me, Saith Yahweh.

24 Then shall they go forth and look, upon the dead bodies of the men' who had been trespassing against me,—
For ‖their worm‖ shall not die,
And ‖their fire‖ shall not be quenched;
So shall they become an abhorrence, to all flesh.

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET

JEREMIAH.

§ 1. After a brief historical Record, Jeremiah tells of his Pre-natal Destination and early Call to the Prophetic Office. He is charged to be fearless, sent to Nations and Kingdoms, and assured of Divine Aid. Almond Branch and Boiling Caldron shown him as Emblems of his Mission.

1 [1] The words of Jeremiah, son of Hilkiah,—of the priests who were in Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin: [2] unto whom came the word of Yahweh, in the days of Josiah son of Amon, king of Judah,—in the thirteenth year of his reign; [3] it came also in the days of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, unto the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah son of Josiah, king of Judah,—as far as the carrying away of Jerusalem captive, in the fifth month.

[4] So then the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

[5] <Before I formed thee at thy birth>[a] I took knowledge of thee,
And <before thy nativity>[b] I hallowed thee,—
<A prophet to the nations> I appointed thee.

[6] Then said I—
Ah! My Lord, Yahweh!
Lo! I know not how to speak,—
For  am ‖I‖!

[7] Then said Yahweh unto me,
Do not say, <A child> am ‖I‖,—
For <against whomsoever I send thee> shalt thou go,
And <whatsoever I command thee> shalt thou speak:

[8] Be not afraid of their faces,—
For <with thee> am |I|, to deliver thee,
Declareth Yahweh.

[9] Then Yahweh put forth his hand, and touched my mouth,[c]—and Yahweh said unto me,
Lo! I have put my words' in thy mouth.

[10] See! I have set thee in charge, this day, over the nations, and over the kingdoms,
To uproot and to break down, and to destroy and to tear in pieces,—
To build and to plant.

[11] Moreover the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying,
What canst thou see, Jeremiah?
And I said,
<A twig of an almond-tree>[a] can I see.

[12] Then said Yahweh unto me—
Thou hast rightly seen,—for <keeping watch>[b] am I, over my word, to perform it.

[13] And the word of Yahweh came unto me, a second time, saying,
What canst thou see?
And I said,
<A boiling caldron>[c] can I see, with |the front thereof| ‖on the North‖.

[14] Then said Yahweh unto me,—
<Out of the North> shall break forth calamity, against all the inhabitants of the land.[d] [15] For behold me! calling for all the families of the kingdoms of the North,
Declareth Yahweh,—
and they shall come, and set every one his throne[e] at the opening of the gates of Jerusalem, and against all her walls round about, and against all the cities of Judah!

[16] Then will I pronounce my judgments against them, concerning all their wickedness,—in that they have forsaken me, and have burned incense unto other gods, and have bowed down to the works[f] of their own hands.

[17] ‖Thou‖ therefore, shalt gird thy loins, and arise, and speak unto them, all that ‖I‖ command thee,—be not dismayed because of them, lest I dismay thee before their face. [18] ‖I‖ therefore—lo! I have set thee to-day, as a fortified city, and as a pillar of iron, and as walls[g] of bronze, over all the land,—against the kings of Judah, against her princes, against her priests, and against the people of the land.

[a] Mi.: "in the body." [b] Mi.: "bef. thou camest out of the womb." [c] Cp. Is. vi. 7.

[a] "The watcher"—"so called from its early blossom, as being the first of the trees to wake from the sleep of winter"—Davies' H.L. [b] Alluding to the almond-tree; see ver. 11. [c] Or: "a blown c."="a pot over a blown fire"—Davies' H.L. "A blown pot," i.e., "well heated"—O.G. [d] Or: "earth." [e] Or: "seat." [f] Some cod. (w. 1 cur. pr. edn., Syr. and Vul.): "work" (sing.)—G.n. [g] Some cod. (w. 2 cur. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Syr. and Vul.): "a wall"—G.n.

nd they will fight against thee, but shall not prevail against thee, — for <with thee> am ‖I‖, Declareth Yahweh, to deliver thee.

Commencing his First Message to Jerusalem in terms of touching Tenderness, the Prophet remonstrates with his People for their Unfaithfulness, Ingratitude, Daring and Cruelty; he silences Equivocation, and sternly brings home the Charge of Unfaithfulness.

And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying;
Go and cry in the ears of Jerusalem, saying—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
I remember, in thy behalf, the lovingkindness of thy youthful days,
The love of thy bridal estate,—
Thy coming out after me,
Through the desert,
Through a land |not sown|:
|Holiness| was Israel unto Yahweh,
The first-fruit of his increase,—
‖All that devoured it‖[a] were held guilty,
‖Calamity‖ used to come upon them,—
Declareth Yahweh.

Hear ye the word of Yahweh, O house of Jacob,
And all the families of the house of Israel.
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
What did your fathers find in me, by way of perversity, that they removed far from me,—and went after vanity,[b] and became vain?[c] 6 Neither said they,
Where is Yahweh,
Who brought us up out of the land of Egypt,—
Who led us
Through the desert,
Through a land of wastes and clefts,
Through a land of parched places and of death-shade,
Through a land
Along which no man had passed,
And in which no son of earth dwelt?
Then brought I you into a country of garden' land, to eat the fruit thereof and the goodness thereof,—and yet <when ye entered> then defiled ye my land, and <mine inheritance> ye made an abomination.
‖The priests‖ said not,
Where' is Yahweh?
And ‖they who handled the law‖ did not acknowledge me,
And ‖the shepherds‖ transgressed against me,—
And ‖the prophets‖ prophesied by Baal,
And so <after things that could not profit> did they walk.

[a] Or: "him." [b] Or: "the vain thing."
[c] Cp. 2 K. xvii. 15.

9 |Therefore| ‖yet further‖ will I plead with you, Declareth Yahweh,
Yea <with your children's children> will I plead.
10 For—pass through the coastlands of the West,[a] and see,
And <unto Kedar> send ye and |consider diligently|,—
And see—whether[b] there hath been the like of this!
11 Hath |a nation| changed |gods|, although ‖they‖ were No-gods?
Yet ‖my people‖ have changed my[c] glory' for that which could not profit!

12 Be amazed, O ye heavens, at this,—
And shudder, be dried up[d] utterly,
Urgeth Yahweh.
13 For <two wicked things> have my people committed,—
<Me> have they forsaken, |a fountain of living water|,
To hew out for themselves cisterns, broken' cisterns, that cannot hold water.
14 Was Israel ‖a servant‖?
<Born in the house> was |he|?
Wherefore hath he become a prey?
15 <Against him> have been roaring |wild lions|,
They have uttered their voice,—and have made his land a desolation,
‖His cities‖ have been burned, so as to have no inhabitant.
16 ‖Even the sons of Noph and Tahpanhes‖ have been crushing the crown of the head.
17 Is not this' what thou wast certain to do for thyself,—in that thou didst forsake Yahweh thy God, when he was leading thee by the way?
18 ‖Now‖ therefore, what hast thou to do with the way to Egypt, to drink the waters of Shihor?
Or what hast thou to do with the way to Assyria, to drink the waters of the River [= Euphrates]?
19 Let thy wickedness correct' thee,
And ‖thine apostacies‖ rebuke thee,
Know therefore and see,
That it is a wicked thing and a bitter, that thou shouldest have forsaken Yahweh thy God,—
And that the dread of me' should not have pertained to[e] thee, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh[f] of hosts.

[a] Or: "Cyprus."

[c] "The ancient records emphatically declare that the original reading here was . . . (kebhodi) 'my glory'; and that the Sopherim changed it into (kebhodo) 'his glory.' The original reading was deemed too bold a statement and derogatory to the Lord"—G. Intro. 356.
[d] "Devoid of clouds and vapours"—Davies' H.L.
[e] Or: "reached."
[f] Or: "Adonáy Yahweh."

20 For <in age-past time>[a]
I brake thy yoke,
I tare off thy fetters,
And thou saidst, I will not transgress,[b]—
Nevertheless <on every[c] high hill, and under every green tree> wast thou lying down as an unchaste woman.

21 Yet ‖I‖ planted thee a precious vine,[d] a wholly true seed,—
How then didst thou change thyself towards me, into the degenerate plantings of the alien[e] vine?

22 For <though thou wash thee with nitre,[f]
And take thee much soap>[g]
Yet is thine iniquity inscribed' before me,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.[h]

23 How canst thou say,
I have not defiled myself,
<After[i] the Baalim> have I not gone?
See thy way, in the valley,
Own' what thou hast done,—
A nimble young she-camel, crossing[k] her own ways;

24 A wild ass, taught of the desert,
<In the desire of her soul> she snuffeth the wind,
<In her occasion> who can turn her back?
‖None who seek her‖ will weary themselves,
<In her month> they shall find her!

25 Withhold thy foot from being unshod,
And thy throat from thirst!

But thou saidst,
Hopeless!
No! for I love foreigners, and <after them> will I go.

26 <As the shame of a thief when he is found>
‖So‖ |hath been put to shame|,[l] the house of Israel,—
‖They, their kings, their[m] princes, and[n] their priests, and their prophets‖:

27 Saying to a tree, <My father> art |thou|!
And to a stone, ‖Thou‖ didst give us[o] birth,
For they have turned unto me the back, and not the face,—
But <in the time of their calamity> they will say,
Arise, and save us!

28 Where then are thy gods' which thou hast made for thyself?
Let them arise, if they can save thee, in the time of thy calamity,—
For <according to the number of thy cities> have become thy gods, O Judah.[a]

29 |Wherefore| should ye plead against me,
‖All of you‖ have transgressed against me,
Declareth Yahweh.

30 <In vain> have I smitten your children,
<Correction> have they not accepted,—
Your sword hath devoured' your prophets, as a lion that destroyeth.

31 O generation, see ‖ye‖ the word of Yahweh,
<A desert> became I unto Israel?
Or a land of thick darkness?[b]
|Wherefore| have my people said,
We have roved about,
We will not come in, any more, unto thee?

32 Can |a virgin| forget |her ornaments|,—
|A bride|, |her girdle|?
Yet ‖my people‖ have forgotten me, days without number.

33 How' thou dost make winsome thy way, to seek love!
|Therefore| <even unto wicked women> hast thou[e] taught thy ways.

34 <Even in thy skirts> is there found,
The blood of the lives of the helpless innocents,—
Not <in the act of breaking in> didst thou find them,[d] yet [the blood is] on all these.

35 Although thou saidst,
<Because I am innocent> surely hath his anger' turned back from me,— Behold me! entering into judgment with thee, because thou sayest, I have not sinned!

36 |How vigorously| thou goest about, changing thy way!
<Even of Egypt> shalt thou be ashamed, just as thou wast ashamed of Assyria:

37 <Even from this one> shalt thou go forth, with thy hands upon thy head,—
For Yahweh hath rejected those in whom thou confidest, and thou shalt not prosper with them.

3 1 He hath said,[e]
<If[f] a man send away his wife, and she go from him, and become another man's> will he return unto her |again|? would not that land be ‖utterly defiled‖?
<And ‖thou‖ hast been unchaste with many neighbours>[g] and yet [thinkest] to return unto me! Declareth Yahweh.

3 Therefore have been withholden the showers,[a]
And ‖the latter rain‖ hath not come,—
Yet <the forehead of an unchaste woman> hast thou,
Thou hast refused to be ashamed.

4 Hast thou not <from this time> cried unto me,
My father! <the friend of my youth> art |thou|?

Lo! thou hast[b] spoken [thus] but hast done wicked things, and had thy way!

§ 3. Treacherous Judah put to shame as a worse Offender than Apostate Israel: the latter encouraged to return to Zion along with Judah. Ark to be abolished, Nations gathered, Spirit of Adoption bestowed.

6 And Yahweh said unto me, in the days of Josiah the king,
Hast thou seen what |apostate Israel| did?
She used to go upon every high mountain, and beneath every green tree, and commit unchastity there.

7 And I said, <after she had been doing all these things> ‖Unto me‖ shalt thou[c] return?
and she returned not,—and her treacherous sister Judah saw' it!

8 <Though she[d] saw that ‖for all this‖ <apostate Israel having committed adultery> I had sent her away, and had given a scroll of divorcement unto her> yet her treacherous' sister Judah feared not, but ‖she also‖ went and committed unchastity.

9 Yea <though it had come to pass that through the levity of her unchastity, she had defiled the land,—and committed adultery with Stone and with Tree> 10 yet, <in spite of all this> her treacherous' sister Judah |returned not unto me|, with all her heart,—but |falsely|,
Declareth Yahweh.

11 Then said Yahweh unto me,—
Apostate' Israel |hath justified herself|,—more[e] than treacherous' Judah.

12 Go, and proclaim these words, towards the North, and say—
Return! thou apostate' Israel,
Urgeth Yahweh,
I will not lower my face against you,—for <full of lovingkindness> I am',
Declareth Yahweh,
I will not maintain [mine anger] unto times age-abiding. 13 |Only| acknowledge thine iniquity, that <against Yahweh thy God> hast thou transgressed,—and hast gone hither and thither[a] unto foreigners under every green tree, and <unto my voice> ye have not hearkened,
Declareth Yahweh.

14 Return, ye apostate sons,
Urgeth Yahweh,
for ‖I‖ am become your husband,[b]—therefore will I take you, one of a city, and two of a family, and will bring you to Zion;

15 and will give you shepherds, according to mine own heart,—who will feed you, with knowledge and discretion.

16 And it shall come to pass, <when ye shall be multiplied and become fruitful in the land> ‖in those days‖, Declareth Yahweh,
They shall say no more,
The ark of the covenant of Yahweh,
Neither shall it come up on the heart,[c]
Neither shall they remember it,
Neither shall they miss[d] it,
Neither shall it be made any more.[e]

17 <At that time> shall they call Jerusalem,
The throne of Yahweh, and there shall be gathered unto her all the nations — to the Name of Yahweh, to Jerusalem; and they shall walk no more' after the stubbornness of their own wicked' heart.

18 <In those days> shall the house of Judah go unto the house of Israel, — that they may enter together'[f] out of the land of the North, upon the land which I gave as an inheritance unto your fathers.

19 <Though ‖I myself‖ had said,—
How can I put thee among the sons,[g]
And give thee a land to be coveted,
An inheritance of beauty, of the hosts of nations?>
Yet I said,
<My father> shalt thou[h] call me,

treacherously with me, O house of Israel,
Declareth Yahweh.

21 ‖A voice, on the bare heights‖ is heard,
The weeping of the supplications of the sons
of Israel,—
Because they have perverted their way,
Have forgotten' Yahweh their God.

22 Return, ye apostate sons,
I will heal your apostacies!

Behold us! we have come unto thee,
For ‖thou‖ art Yahweh our God.
23 |Surely| <to falsehood> pertain the hills,
The noisy throng on the mountains,— |Surely| <in Yahweh our God> is the salvation[b] of Israel!
24 But ‖the Shameful thing‖ hath devoured
the labour of our fathers, from our youth:
Their flocks, and their herds, their[c] sons,
and their daughters.
25 We must lie down in our shame,
And our reproach |be our covering|,
For <against Yahweh our God> have we sinned,
‖We, and our fathers, from our youth, even until this day‖,— Neither have we hearkened' unto the voice of Yahweh our God.

4 1 <If thou wilt return, O Israel>
Declareth Yahweh,
<Unto me> mayst thou return,—
And <if thou wilt remove thine abominations from before me>
Then shalt thou not become a wanderer.
2 <If thou wilt swear,
By the life of Yahweh!
in faithfulness, in justice and in righteousness>
Then shall the nations bless themselves in
him,
And <in him> shall they glory.[d]

§ 4. Against Judah and Jerusalem an Invasion is threatened—to the Anguish of the tender-hearted Prophet, who, assured it must be so, pictures the Scene of Devastation in Language of great beauty. Rejected by her Paramours, the Forsaken One makes bitter Outcry.

3 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Unto the men of Judah and unto Jerusalem,[e]

Till ye the untilled ground,—
And do not sow among thorns.

4 Circumcise yourselves unto Yahweh,
So shall ye remove the impurity[a] of your heart, ye men of Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem,—
Lest mine indignation |go forth as fire|, and burn, and there be none to quench it,
Because of the wickedness of your doings.

5 Declare ye in Judah,
And <in Jerusalem> let it be heard,
And say,
Blow ye[b] a horn in the land,—
Cry, with full voice[c] And say,
Gather yourselves together,
And let us enter the defenced' cities.
6 Lift up an ensign—Zion-ward,
Bring into safety, do not tarry,—
For <calamity> am ‖I‖ bringing in from the North,
Even ‖a great destruction‖:[d]
7 There hath come up a lion' out of his thicket, Yea ‖a destroyer of nations‖—
hath set forward,
hath come forth out of his place,—
To make thy land' a desolation,
‖Thy cities‖ shall fall in ruins, |so as to have no' inhabitant|.
8 ‖On this account‖ gird you with sackcloth, lament and howl,—
Because the glow of the anger of Yahweh
|hath not turned| from us.

9 And it shall come to pass, in that day,
Declareth Yahweh,
That the courage[d] of the king |shall fail|,
And the courage[d] of the princes,—
And the priests |shall be astonished|,
And ‖the prophets‖ shall be amazed.

10 Then said I,—
Ah! My Lord Yahweh!
|Surely| thou hast suffered this people and
Jerusalem ‖to be beguiled‖, saying, ‖Peace‖ shall ye have,— whereas the sword shall reach' unto the soul.

11 <At that time> shall it be said of this people and of Jerusalem,—
‖The sharp wind of the bare heights in the desert‖ cometh towards the daughter of my people,—‖not to winnow, nor to cleanse‖.
12 ‖A wind too strong for these‖ cometh in for me.

‖Now‖ will ‖I also‖ pronounce sentences

<Swifter than eagles> his horses,—
Woe to us, for we are laid waste!

Wash, from wickedness, thy heart, O Jerusalem,
That thou mayest be saved,—
|How long| shall lodge within thee thy wicked' devices?
For |a voice| declareth from |Dan|,—
And publisheth trouble' from the hill country of Ephraim.
Put ye in mind the nations,
Lo! publish ye against Jerusalem,
||Blockaders|| are coming in from a land afar off,—
And have uttered, against the cities of Judah, their voice:
<As the keepers of a field> have they come against her, round about,—
For <against me> hath she rebelled,
Declareth Yahweh.
||Thine own way And thine own doings||
Have done these things unto thee,—
<This thy wickedness>
Surely it is bitter,
Surely it hath reached unto thy heart.

My bowels! My bowels!
I am pained in the walls of my heart,
My heart beateth aloud to me,
I cannot be still!
For <the sound of a horn> hast thou[a] heard, O my soul,
The loud shout of war!
<Breach upon breach> they cry,[b]
For ||ruined|| is all the land,—
||Suddenly|| are ruined my tents,
||In a moment|| my curtains!
|How long| shall I keep on seeing a standard,— continue to hear the sound of a horn?

Surely ||perverse|| is my people,
<Me> have they not known,[c]
<Foolish sons> they are',
Yea <without understanding> they are':
<Wise> they are', to commit wickedness,
But <how to do well> they know not!

I beheld
The earth, and lo! it was waste and wild,[d]—
The heavens also, and their light was' not:
I beheld
The mountains, and lo! they were trembling,—
And ||all the hills|| had been violently moved:
I beheld
And lo! there was no' human being,—
Yea ||all the birds of the heavens|| had fled:

26 I beheld
And lo! ||the garden-land|| was a desert,—
And ||all its cities|| had been broken down,
Because of Yahweh,
Because[a] of the glow of his anger!

27 For ||thus|| saith Yahweh,
<A desolation> shall all the land become,— Nevertheless  will I not make.

28 ||For this cause||
shall the land mourn',
and the heavens above be overcast':
Because I have spoken, have purposed, and have not repented, nor will I turn back therefrom.

29 <At the noise of horseman and archer>[b]
The whole city |is in flight|,
They have entered dark thickets,
Yea <unto the crags> have they gone up,—
||Every city|| is forsaken,
There remaineth not in them ||a man||!

30 And <when ||thou|| art laid waste> what wilt thou do?
<Though thou clothe thyself with crimson,
Though thou deck thyself with ornaments of gold,
Though thou enlarge with antimony thine eyes>
||In vain|| shalt thou make thyself fair,—
Paramours |have rejected thee|,
<Thy life> will they seek!

31 For  have I heard,
Anguish as of her that is bearing her first-born.
||The voice of the daughter of Zion||!
She gaspeth for breath,
She spreadeth forth her palms,—
Surely woe to me!
For my soul fainteth before murderers.

§ 5. One Right-doer might have saved Jerusalem; but no! Poor and Rich alike are corrupt—Prophets, Priests and People; the End must come, but not an Utter End!

5 1 Run ye to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem,
And see, I pray you, and know, and seek out in the broad places thereof,
Whether ye can find ||a man||,
Whether there is' one Doing justice,
Demanding fidelity,—
That I may pardon her.

Thou hast smitten them,
Yet have they not grieved,[a]
Thou hast consumed them—
They have refused to receive correction,—
They have made their faces bolder than a cliff,
They have refused to return.

4 And ‖I‖ said,—
Only' ‖poor people‖ are |they|,—
They act foolishly, For they know not the way of Yahweh,
the justice of their God!
5 I will betake me unto the great men, and will speak |with them|! For ‖they‖ know
the way of Yahweh,
the justice of their God!
Yea but' ‖they‖ |with one accord| have broken the yoke,
torn off the bands.
6 ‖For this cause‖ hath the lion out of the forest
smitten' them,
‖The wolf of the waste plains‖ preyeth' upon
them,
‖The leopard‖ is keeping watch over their cities,
‖Every one that goeth out from thence‖ is torn in pieces,—
For they have multiplied their transgressions,
Numerous' are their apostacies.

7 How <for this> can I pardon thee?
‖Thine own sons‖ have forsaken me,
And have sworn by No-gods,—
<When I had fed them to the full>[b] Then committed they adultery,
And <the house of the unchaste woman>
they used to throng:
8 <Lusty, well-fed horses> had they become,
‖Every man‖ <unto his neighbour's wife> would neigh!

<For these things> shall I not punish!
Demandeth Yahweh:
Yea <on a nation such as this> must not my soul avenge herself![c]

10 Scale ye her walls, and destroy,
But  do not make,— Remove her tendrils,
For <not to Yahweh> do |they| belong!
11 For <very treacherously> have the house of Israel and the house of Judah |dealt with me|, Declareth Yahweh.
12 They have acted deceptively against[d] Yahweh,
And have said,
Not He!
Neither shall there come' upon us |calamity|,
<Nor sword nor famine> shall we see;

13 But ‖the prophets‖ shall prove to be wind,
And there is |no one| speaking in them!
‖Thus‖ shall it be done to themselves!
14 Therefore
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
God of hosts,
<Because ye have spoken this word>,— Behold me! making my words in thy mouth to be fire,
And ‖this people‖—wood,
So shall it devour them.
15 Behold me! bringing upon you a nation from afar, O house of Israel,
Declareth Yahweh,—
<A nation invincible> it is',
A nation from age-past times> hath it been',
A nation' whose tongue thou shalt not
know,
Neither shalt thou understand[a] what it
speaketh:
16 ‖Its quiver‖ is like an open sepulchre,—
‖They all‖ are heroes:
17 Then shall it eat thy harvest, and thy bread, which |thy sons and thy daughters| should eat,—
It shall eat thy flock and thy herd,
It shall eat thy vine and thy fig-tree,—
It shall destroy thy defenced' cities, wherein ‖thou‖ art trusting, |with the sword|.

18 Yet <even in those days>
Declareth Yahweh,
Will I not make of you' |a full end|.

19 And it shall come to pass <when ye shall say,
|For what cause| hath Yahweh our God done' to us all these things?>
Then shalt thou say unto them,—
<As ye forsook me', and served the gods of the foreigner' in your own land>
‖So‖ shall ye serve aliens' in a land |not your own|.

20 Tell ye this, throughout the house of Jacob,—
And let it be heard throughout Judah,
saying:
21 Hear this, I pray you, ye people—foolish and without heart,— <Eyes> have they, and see not,
<Ears> have they, and hear not!
22 <Even for me> will ye have no reverence?
Enquireth Yahweh,
And <because of me> will ye not be pained?
In that <though I placed the sand as bound to the sea,
A decree age-abiding, and it should not pass beyond it,—
When they would toss themselves,
Then should they not prevail,
When the waves thereof would roar,
Then should they not pass beyond!

Yet ‖this people‖ hath an obstinate and

They have turned aside, and gone their way;
Neither have they said in their heart,—
Let us, we pray you, revere Yahweh our God,
Who giveth rain, even[a] the early and the latter, in its season,[b]—
<The appointed weeks of harvest> he reserveth for us.
‖Your iniquities‖ have thrust away these things,
Yea ‖your sins‖ have withholden that which is good from you.

For there have been found among my people, lawless men,—
One lieth in wait, as with the stooping of fowlers,
They have set a trap, they capture ‖men‖:
<As ‖a cage‖ is full of birds>
‖So‖ are |their houses| full of unrighteous gain,—
‖For this cause‖ have they become great, and waxen rich:
They have waxed fat, they shine,
Yea' they have overpassed the records of wickedness.
<The right> have they not determined,
‖The right of the fatherless, that they might prosper‖,— Yea <justice to the helpless> have they not decreed.
<Upon these things> shall I not bring punishment? Demandeth Yahweh.
Or <on a nation such as this> shall not my soul avenge' herself?[c]

‖An astounding and horrible thing‖ hath been brought to pass in the land:
‖The prophets‖ have prophesied |falsely|,
And ‖the priests‖ tread down |by their means|,
And ‖my people‖ love it |so|,—
What then can ye do, as to her latter end?

The Invader approaches, making light of his Task, his Men clamouring for the Fray. Yahweh, tearing himself from his People because they abound in Wickedness and Violence, and refuse to hearken, and mock the Divine Word—charges the Enemy not to spare. The Prophet himself, filled with Yahweh's Indignation, pours out his Warnings wherever he can get a Hearing, and is further appointed to act as an Assayer of Metal amongst his People.

Take your goods into safety, ye sons of Benjamin, out of the midst of Jerusalem,
And <in Tekoa> blow ye a horn,
And <on Beth-haccherem> raise a fire-signal,—
For ‖calamity‖ hath looked out from the North,
Even a great destruction.[d]

2 <To a comely and delicate woman> have I likened[a] the daughter of Zion:
3 <Against her> shall come shepherds, with their flocks;
They have pitched against her their tents,
round about,
They tend their flocks, every one near at hand.
4 Hallow ye against her a war,
Arise! and let us go up in broad noon.

Woe to us,
for the day |hath turned|,
for the shadows of evening |stretch
along|.

5 Arise! and let us go up in the night,
And let us destroy her palaces.

6 For
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
Cut ye down timber,
And cast up, against Jerusalem, a mound,—
‖That‖ is the city to be punished!
There is ‖nothing‖ but oppression in her midst;
7 <Like the casting forth by a well of its waters>,
‖So‖ hath she cast forth her wickedness,—
‖Violence and destruction‖ are heard in her,
<Before my face, continually> are suffering and smiting.

8 Receive thou correction, O Jerusalem,
Lest my soul be torn from thee,—
Lest I make thee A desolation,
A land not habitable.
9 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
They shall thoroughly glean, as a vine, the remnant of Israel,— Turn back thy hand, as a grape gatherer, over the tendrils.

10 |Unto whom| can I speak—and bear witness,
that they may hear?
Lo! <uncircumcised> is their ear, that they cannot attend,—
Lo! ‖the word of Yahweh‖ hath become to them a reproach, they[b] take no delight therein.

11 So then <with the indignation of Yahweh> am I full,
I am too weary to hold it in,
[I am constrained] to pour it out, upon the boy in the street, and upon the circle of young men |together|,—
For ‖even husband with wife‖ will be cap-

‖Cruel‖ is he!
So they will not have compassion,
‖Their voice‖ <like the sea> will roar,[a]
And <on horses> will they ride,—
Arrayed each one, like a man for battle,
Against thee, O daughter of Zion!
24 We have heard the report thereof,
Relaxed' are our hands,—
‖Anguish‖ hath taken hold on us,
‖Pangs‖ as on her that is giving birth.
25 Do not go out into the field,
And <in the road> do not walk,—
Because ‖a sword‖ hath the foe,—
Terror round about![b]
26 O daughter of my people,
Gird thee with sackcloth, and[c] roll thyself in ashes,—
<The mourning for an only son> make thou for thyself, ‖Most bitter lamentation‖!
For <suddenly> shall the destroyer come upon us.
27 <An assayer> have I set thee amongst my people, of gold-ore,[d]—
That thou mayest note and try their way:[e]
28 ‖They all‖ are rebels[f] of rebels,
Slander-walkers,
[They are] bronze and iron!
<As for them all> ‖corrupters‖ they are!
29 Scorched' are the bellows,
<By fire> is lead [wont to be] consumed,—
<In vain> hath he gone on refining,
For ‖the wicked‖ have not been drawn out:
30 <Rejected silver> are they called,
For |Yahweh| hath rejected' |them|.

§ 7. A Message in the Temple Gate: Thoroughly reform, or the Fate of Shiloh shall befall this House, and Judah be rejected like Ephraim. Jeremiah forbidden to pray for his People, since whole Families and the Temple are given up to Idolatry, and the cruel Rites of Topheth have been commenced. These and other Enormities, including a Falsifying of Records, deepen the Gloom, until at length the Harvest is past!

Yahweh, and thou shalt proclaim there' this word,—and shalt say—
Hear ye the word of Yahweh, all Judah, ye who are entering in at these gates, to bow down unto Yahweh:

3 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
Amend your ways, and your doings,—
That I may cause you to dwell in this place.
4 Do not, on your part, trust in false' words, saying,—
The temple of Yahweh,
The temple of Yahweh,
The temple of Yahweh, they are'!
5 But <if ye shall ‖thoroughly amend‖ your ways, and your doings,— Shall ‖thoroughly execute‖ justice, between a man and his neighbour;
6 <The sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow> shall not[a] oppress,
And <innocent blood> shall not shed in this place,—
And <after other gods> shall not walk, to your own hurt>
7 Then will I cause you to dwell
In this place,
In the land' which I gave to your fathers,—
From one age even unto another.[b]
8 Lo! ‖ye, on your part‖ are trusting in false' words,—
To no' profit!
9 Are ye to steal, commit murder, and commit adultery, and swear |falsely|, and burn incense unto Baal,—and walk after other gods, whom ye have not known;
10 And will ye then come in, and stand before me, in this house, whereon my Name hath been called, and say,—
We have set ourselves free,—for the purpose of committing all these abominations?
11 <A den of robbers> hath this house, on which my Name hath been called, become |in your own eyes|?
‖I, also‖—lo! I have seen it,
Declareth Yahweh.
12 For go, I pray you, unto my place which was in Shiloh,
Where I made my Name to dwell |at first|,—
And see what I did to it, because of the wickedness of my people Israel!
13 ‖Now‖ therefore—
<Because ye have done all these deeds,
Declareth Yahweh,—
And though I spake unto you, betimes' speaking,
Yet ye hearkened not,
And though I cried unto you,
Yet ye answered not>
14 Therefore will I do to the house,
Whereon my Name hath been called,
Wherein ‖ye‖ are trusting,
Even to the place which I gave to you and to your fathers,—
Just as I did unto Shiloh;
15 And will cast you' out from before me,—
Just as I have cast out
All your brethren,
All the seed of Ephraim.

16 ‖Thou‖ therefore—
Do not pray for this people,
Neither lift up for them cry or prayer,
Neither intercede with me,[a]—
For I am not going to hear thee.

17 Dost thou not' see what ‖they‖ are doing
In the cities of Judah,— and
In the streets of Jerusalem?
18 ‖The children‖ gather wood, and
‖The fathers‖ kindle the fire, and
‖The women‖ knead dough,—
To make sacrificial cakes' to the queen[b] of the heavens,
And to pour out drink-offerings' to other' gods,
Provoking me to anger!
19 Is it <me> they are provoking?
Enquireth Yahweh,—
Is it not <themselves>—unto the shame of their own faces?
20 |Wherefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord Yahweh[c]—
Lo! ‖mine anger and mine indignation‖ are about to be poured out upon this place,
On man, and on beast, and
On the tree of the field, and
On the fruit of the ground,—
And it shall burn, and shall not be quenched.

21 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—
<Your ascending-offerings> add ye unto your peace-offerings,[d] and eat ye flesh.
22 For I bade not your fathers,
Neither commanded I them,
In the day I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt,—
Concerning the matter of ascending-offering and peace-offering;[d]
23 But <this thing> I commanded them—saying,
Hearken ye unto my voice,
So will I become unto you—a God,
And ‖ye‖ shall become unto me—a people,—
Ye shall therefore walk in all the way that I may command you,
To the end it may be well with you;

[c] Or transfer both names: "Adonây, Yahweh."
[d] Lit.: "sacrifices"; but see P.B. Lev. i. 3, n., and O.G. 257, 5.

24 Yet they hearkened not,
Neither inclined their ear,
But walked In the counsels—
In the stubbornness of their own wicked heart;
And went backward, and not forward.
25 <Ever since the day that your fathers came forth out of the land of Egypt, until this day>
Have I sent unto you all my servants the prophets,
<Daily, betimes> sending them;
26 Yet they hearkened not unto me,
Neither inclined their ear,—
But stiffened their neck,
They did more wickedly than their fathers.
27 Therefore shalt thou speak unto them all these words,
Though they do not hearken unto thee,—
And thou shalt cry aloud unto them,
Though they do not answer thee;—
28 But thou shalt say unto them,—
‖This‖ is the nation that hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh its God, Neither accepted they correction,—
Perished' is fidelity,
And is cut off, out of their[a] mouth.

29 Cut thou off thy crown of hair, [O Jerusalem], and cast it away,
And lift thou up on the bare heights, a dirge,—
For Yahweh hath rejected and cast out the generation with which he was wroth.
30 For the sons of Judah |have done| that which was wicked in mine eyes,
Declareth Yahweh,—
They have set their abominations in the house whereon my Name hath been called, to defile it;
And they have built the high places of Topheth, which is in the valley of the son of Hinnom,
To burn up their sons and their daughters' in the fire,—
Which I commanded not,[b]
Neither came it up on my heart.[c]
32 |Therefore| lo! |days are coming|,
Declareth Yahweh,
When it shall not be called any more—
The Topheth, nor
The valley of Ben-hinnom, but
The valley of Slaughter,[d]—
And they shall bury in Topheth, for want' of place;
33 And the dead bodies[e] of this people shall become food,
For the bird of the heavens, and
For the beast of the earth,—
And there shall be none' to drive them away.
34 So will I cause to cease,
From the cities of Judah, and
From the streets of Jerusalem,
The voice of joy, and the voice of gladness,
The voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride,[a]—
For  shall the land[b] become.

8 1 <At that time>
Declareth Yahweh,
Shall they bring forth
The bones of the kings of Judah, and
The bones of his princes, and
The bones of the priests, and
The bones of the prophets, and
The bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem
Out of their graves,
2 And shall spread them out—
To the sun and
To the moon and
To all the host of the heavens,
Whom they have loved,
And whom they have served,
And after whom they have walked,
And whom they have sought,
And to whom they have bowed themselves down,—
They shall not be gathered,
Neither shall they be buried,
<As heaps of dung on the face of the ground> shall they be.
3 Then shall |death| be chosen' rather than |life|, by all the remnant of them that remain, of this wicked family,—in all the places,[c] whither I have driven them,
Declareth Yahweh of hosts.
4 Therefore shalt thou say unto them—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Will men fall, and not arise?
Will one turn away, and not come back?
5 Wherefore hath this people of Jerusalem apostatised[d] with an enduring' apostacy,— Taken fast hold of deceit,
Refused to come back?
6 I hearkened and heard—
<Not aright> did they speak,—
|Not a man| repented him of his wickedness, saying,
What have I done!
They have ‖every one‖[e] turned to their course again,
Like a horse sweeping on through the battle.
7 ‖Even' the stork in the heavens‖ knoweth her appointed times,
And ‖the turtle and the swallow[f] and the crane‖ observe the season for coming;
But ‖my people‖ know not the just sentence of Yahweh.

8 How' can ye say,
<Wise> are |we|,
And ‖the law[a] of Yahweh‖ is with us?
|But indeed| lo! <falsely> hath dealt the false pen of the scribes![b] 9 Ashamed' are the wise, dismayed, and captured!
Lo! <the word of Yahweh> have they rejected,
And ‖what wisdom‖ have |they|?[c]
10 |Therefore| will I give—
Their wives to others,
Their fields, to such as shall take possession
of them,
For <from the least, even unto the greatest> ‖Every one‖[d] is ‖wholly given to extortion‖:
<From[e] the prophet, even unto the priest>
‖Every one‖[d] dealeth |falsely|.
11 And so they have healed the grievous wound of the daughter of my people |slightly|,— Saying, Peace! peace! when there was no' peace!
12 Were they led to turn pale, because <an abominable thing> they had done?
Nay! they did not ‖at all‖ turn pale,
Nay! they did not so much as know how' ‖to exhibit shame‖!
|Therefore| shall they fall among them who are falling,
<In the time when they are punished> shall they be overthrown, Saith Yahweh:[f]
13 I will ‖surely remove‖ them,
Declareth Yahweh:
There shall be no' grapes on the vine,
Nor' figs on the fig-tree,
Even ‖the leaf‖ hath faded,
<Though I have given them [these things]> they shall pass away from them.[g]

14 Why' are ‖we‖ sitting still?
Gather yourselves together, and let us enter the defenced' cities,
And let us be silent there,—
For ‖Yahweh our God‖ hath put us to silence,
And made us drink poisoned water,[h]
Because we have sinned against Yahweh.
15 A waiting For prosperity, but no' welfare,—
For a time of healing, but lo! terror.[i]

16 <From Dan> was heard the snorting of his horses,
<At the sound of the neighing of his chargers> the whole land trembled,— Yea they came in and did eat up
The land and the fulness thereof,
The city, and them who were dwelling therein.

17 For behold me! sending among you, serpents
—vipers which there is no' charming,—
And they shall fatally bite you,
Declareth Yahweh.

18 <When I would have cheered myself against sorrow>[a]
‖Against me‖ mine own heart sickened:—
19 Lo! the voice of the cry for help of the daughter of my people, from a land far away,
Is ‖Yahweh‖ not' in Zion?
Is ‖her King‖ not' within her?

|Why| have they provoked me with their carved images,[b] with their foreign vanities?

20 The harvest |is passed|,
The fruit-gathering |is ended|;
And ‖we‖ are not saved!

§ 8. After an Outburst of Emotion the Prophet resumes his unwelcome Theme: further probing the Sins of his People, he is instructed to call for Wailing Women to lament over the Ravages of Death. The Divine Character a Theme for Glorifying. Circumcision availeth nothing.

21 <For the grievous injury of the daughter of my people>
I am grievously injured,—
I am enshrouded in gloom,
‖Horror‖ hath seized me:—
22 <Balsam> is there none' ‖in Gilead‖?[c]
Is there no' |physician| there?
Why hath not appeared[d] the healing of the daughter of my people?

9 1 Oh that my head' were waters,
And mine eyes' a fountain of tears,—
That I might weep day and night,
For the slain of the daughter of my people!

2 Oh that I had in the wilderness, a wayfarers' lodge,
That I might leave my people, and go from
them,—
For ‖they all‖ are Adulterers,
An assemblage of traitors;
3 Who have prepared[e] their tongue as their bow of falsehood,
And ‖not by faithfulness‖ have they become mighty in the land,—
For <from wickedness unto wickedness> have they gone forth,
But <me> have they not known,[f]
Declareth Yahweh.

4 ‖Every one‖ <of his neighbour> beware ye,
And <in no brother> may ye trust,—
For ‖every brother‖ ‖supplanteth‖!
And ‖every neighbour‖ <as a tale-bearer>
goeth about;[a]

5 Yea ‖every one‖ <of his neighbour> maketh
a dupe,
And <truth> they do not speak,—
They have taught their tongue to speak
falsehood,
<In acting perversely> they have wearied themselves.

6 ‖Thy dwelling‖ is in the midst of deceit,— <Through deceit> have they rejected the knowledge of |me|,
Declareth Yahweh.

7 ‖Therefore‖ ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts, Behold me! melting them, so will I try
them,—
For how else should I do, because of the wickedness of[b] the daughter of my people?

8 <A pointed[c] arrow> is their tongue,
<Deceit> hath it spoken,— <With his mouth, peace unto his neighbour> doth one speak,
But <within himself> he layeth his ambush.

9 <For these things> shall I not bring punish- ment on them? Demandeth Yahweh,— <On a nation such as this> must not my soul avenge herself?[d]

10 <Over the mountains> will I take up a weeping and wailing,
And <over the oases of the desert> a dirge,
For they have been burned, so that no man
passeth through,
Neither have men heard the lowing of cattle,—
‖Both the bird of the heavens and the beast‖ have fled, have gone their way:

11 Thus will I give up Jerusalem
To heaps,
A habitation for jackals,—
And <the cities of Judah> will I give up to desolation, without inhabitant.

12 |Who| is the man that is wise,
That he may discern this?
And |unto whom| hath the mouth of Yahweh spoken,
That he may declare it?
‖For what cause‖
Hath the land perished,
Hath it been burned as a wilderness, that no man passeth through?

13 Then said Yahweh,—
<Because they have forsaken my law,[e] which I set before them,—
And have not hearkened to my voice, neither walked therein;

14 But have gone their way,
After the stubbornness of their own heart,—
And after the Baals which their fathers taught' them>

15 ‖Therefore‖
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
The God of Israel,
Behold me!
Feeding them |even this people| with wormwood,—
And I will cause them to drink, poisoned water;[a]

16 And will scatter them among the nations, which neither they nor their fathers |have known|,—
And will send after them the sword, until I have consumed them.

17 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
Consider ye diligently and call for the wailing women, that they may come,—
And <unto the wise women> send ye, that they may come;

18 Yea let them make haste, and lift up over us a wailing,—
That our eyes |may run down| with tears,
And ‖our eyelashes‖ stream down with water;—

19 Yea ‖a voice of wailing‖ hath been heard out of Zion,
How are we ruined!
We have turned very pale,
For we have left the land,
For[b] they have cast down our habitations.

20 For hear, O ye women, the word of Yahweh,
And let your ear take in the word of his mouth,—
And teach your daughters a wail,
Yea |each woman — her neighbour|, ‖a dirge‖:—

21 That death
Hath come up through our windows,
Hath entered our palaces,—
Cutting off
The boy from the street,
The young men from the broadways.

22 Speak thou,
‖Thus‖ declareth Yahweh,
So shall fall the dead bodies of men,
Like dung heaps on the face of the field,[c]—
And like swaths after the harvestman,
With none to gather.

23 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Let not |the wise man| glory |in his wisdom|,
Neither let |the mighty man| glory |in his might|,—
Let not[d] |the rich man| glory |in his riches|;

Executing lovingkindness, justice,[a] and righteousness in the earth,—

Declareth Yahweh.

25 Lo! days are coming,
Declareth Yahweh,—
When I will bring punishment upon every one circumcised,
With him that is uncircumcised:[b]

26 Upon Egypt and upon Judah,
And upon Edom, and upon the sons of Ammon,
And upon Moab,
And upon all the clipped beards,
The dwellers in the desert,—
For ‖all the nations‖ are uncircumcised,
And ‖all the house of Israel‖ are uncircumcised |in heart|.

§ 9. The Folly of Idol-making described with keen Irony; the Majesty of A Living God declared; a Challenge to the World in Aramaic; Israel's Lament.

10 1 Hear ye the word which Yahweh hath spoken unto you, O house of Israel:—
2 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
<Unto the way of the nations> become not ye accustomed,
Nor <at the signs of the heavens> be ye dismayed,—
Because the nations are dismayed at them.
3 For <as for the prescribed customs of the peoples> |vanity| they are',—
For  one cutteth down,
Work for the hands of a skilled workman, |with the axe|:
4 <With silver and with gold> he decketh it,—
<With nails and with hammers> they fasten them, that it may not totter.
5 <Mere palm-trunks turned> they are', and cannot speak,
They must needs be ‖carried‖, for they cannot take a step,—
Be not afraid of them, for they cannot do harm,
And <even to do good> is not in their power.
6 ‖None‖ there is |like unto thee|,[c] O Yahweh,—
‖Great‖ art ‖thou‖,
And ‖great‖ is |thy Name|, ‖for might‖.
7 Who| would not revere thee, O King of nations?
For ‖thee‖ doth it beseem;
Forasmuch as <among all the wise men of the nations,
And throughout all their royal estate>
‖None‖ there is |like unto thee|.
8 But <at once> do they become brutish and stupid,[a]—
<An example of utmost vanity> is |a tree|!
9 ‖Silver spread into plates‖ |from Tarshish| is brought,
And gold, from Uphaz,
Work for the craftsman, and for the hands of the smith,— ‖Blue and purple‖ is their clothing,
‖Work for the skilled‖ are they all.
10 But ‖Yahweh‖ is God |in truth|,
‖He‖ is a God that |liveth|,
And a King of times age-abiding,—
<At his anger> quaketh the earth,
And nations cannot endure' his wrath.
11 ‖Thus‖ shall ye say unto them,
‖The gods that made not the heavens'
And the earth'‖
Shall perish out of the earth,
And from under these heavens![b]
12 <He that made the earth by his power,
That established the world by his wisdom,—
And |by his understanding| stretched out the heavens>
13 <At the voice that he uttered> there was a tumult of waters in the heavens,
And he caused vapours to ascend from the ends of the earth,—
<The lightnings for rain> he made,
And brought forth wind out of his treasuries.
14 Every son of earth hath become too brutish' to discern,
|Every goldsmith| hath been put to shame |by a graven image|,[c]—
For  is his molten image,
Seeing there is no breath[d] in them.
15 ‖Vanity‖ they are', the handiwork of mockeries,—
<In the time of their visitation> shall they perish.
16 <Not like these> is the portion of Jacob,
For <the fashioner of all things> is |he|,[e]
And ‖Israel‖ is his inherited' sceptre,—
‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is his name.
17 Fold up, from the ground, thy travelling carpet,—O inhabitress of the fortress;
18 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Behold me! slinging out the inhabitants of the land at this throw,—
And I will distress them, that they may discover it.
19 Woe to me! for my grievous injury,
‖Severe‖ is my wound,—
But ‖I‖ said,
Verily ‖this‖ is an[f] affliction, and[g] I must bear it:

But yet in measure,—
Not in thine anger, lest thou make me few.

For they have devoured Jacob,
Yea they have devoured him, and consumed him,
And <his habitation> have they made desolate.

§ 10. Suiting the Time when the Book of the Law was found (2 K. xxii. 8; 2 Ch. xxxiv. 15), Jeremiah recalls the People to the Sinai Covenant, appending his own "Amen" to the "Curse" (Deu. xxvii. 16-26); by the flagrant Breach of which Covenant the People are declared past praying for. The Prophet's own Brethren of Anathoth conspire against him; on discovering which he (the "Gentle Lamb") prays for Vengeance, though on public Grounds. The Prophet is counselled to prepare for heavier Trials. In spite of the lingering of Divine Affection, the Anger of Yahweh flames forth, and is subdued only when Israel's wicked Neighbours are brought into the account.

11 1 The word that came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh, saying:
2 Hear ye the words of this covenant,—and speak ye unto the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, 3 and say thou unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, God of Israel,—
‖Accursed‖ is the man who will not hear' the words of this covenant; 4 which I commanded your fathers—in the day when I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the smelting-pot of iron—saying,
Hearken unto my voice, and do them,
According to all that I may command you,—
So shall ye become |my' people|,
And ‖I‖ will become |your' God|:
5 That the oath may be established' which I sware to your fathers,
To give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as at this day.
Then answered I and said,
Amen, O Yahweh!

6 And Yahweh said unto me,—
Proclaim thou all these words, throughout the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying,— Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do them,
7 For I ‖solemnly took your fathers to witness‖ in the day that I brought them up out of the land of Egypt—even until this day, <betimes> taking them to witness, saying,— Hearken ye unto my voice.
8 Howbeit they hearkened not, neither inclined their ear, but walked severally in the stubbornness of their wicked heart,—so then I brought upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did them not.
9 Yahweh therefore said unto me,—
There is found a conspiracy, among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem:
10 They have turned back unto the iniquities of their first fathers, who refused to hear my words, yea ‖they themselves‖ have walked after other gods, to serve them,— the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken' my covenant, which I solemnised with their fathers.
11 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Behold me! bringing upon them calamity, which they shall not be able to escape,—and <though they make outcry unto me> yet will I not hearken unto them. 12 Then shall the cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, go' and make outcry unto the gods, to whom they' have been burning incense,—but they will not at all ‖save‖ them in the time of their calamity; 13 for <according to the number of thy cities> have become thy gods O Judah,[a]—and <according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem> have ye set up altars to the Shameful thing, altars for burning incense to Baal.

‖Thou‖ therefore, do not pray[a] for this people,
Neither lift thou up for them cry or prayer,—
For I am not going to hear, in the time that they cry unto me concerning[b] their calamity.
Why' hath the beloved <in mine own house> done an abomination?
Shall ‖vows and holy flesh‖[c] take away from thee thy wickednesses, or shalt thou <by these> escape?[d]
<A green olive-tree, fair with goodly fruit> did Yahweh call thy name, — <with the noise of a great tumult> hath he kindled fire upon it, and the branches thereof |shall be broken|.
But ‖Yahweh of hosts, who planted thee‖
hath pronounced against thee |calamity|,— on account of the wickedness of the house of Israel and of the house of Judah, which they have wrought[e] for themselves, provoking me to anger by burning incense to Baal.
Now <when ‖Yahweh‖ let me know, and I did know> ‖then‖ didst thou shew me their doings.
But ‖I‖ was as a gentle lamb that is to be led to the slaughter, — and I knew not that <against me> they had devised devices
[saying]—
Let us destroy the tree with its fruit,[f]
Yea let us cut him off out of the land of the living,[g]
And ‖his name‖ shall be remembered no
more!
But, O Yahweh of hosts,
Who judgest righteously,
Who triest affections and intellect,[h]—
Let me see thine avenging upon them,
For <unto thee> have I revealed my cause.

Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Concerning the men of Anathoth, who are seeking thy life,[i] saying,— Thou shalt not prophesy in the name of Yahweh,
So shalt thou not die by our hand:[k]—
Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,—
Behold me! bringing punishment upon them,
‖The young men‖ shall die by |the sword|,
‖Their sons and their daughters‖ shall die
|by famine|;
And <remnant> shall they have none,—
For I will bring calamity against the men of Anathoth, in the year of their visitation.

1 ‖Righteous‖ art thou', O Yahweh, when I present my pleading unto thee,— 12

Wherefore' hath ‖the way of the lawless‖ prospered?
[Wherefore] have all ‖utter traitors‖[a] |been at ease|?
2 Thou didst plant them, yea they took root,
They have gone on, yea' they have borne fruit,—

But far off from their affections.[b]
3 But ‖thou, O Yahweh‖, knowest me,
Wilt thou observe me, and try my heart |towards thee|?
Drag them away, as sheep for slaughter,
And hallow them, for the day when they are to be slain.[c]
4 ‖How long‖ shall the land mourn,
And ‖the herbage of the whole field‖ wither?
<For the wickedness of them that dwell therein> beast and bird |have perished|,
For, say they,
He will not see our latter end!
5 <If |with the footmen| thou hast run, and they have wearied thee>
How then wilt thou hotly contend |with horses|?
<Though |in a safe land| thou' art confident>
Yet how wilt thou deal with the proud banks of the Jordan?[d]
6 For <even thy brethren and the house of thy father>
‖Even they‖ have betrayed thee,
‖Even they‖ have cried after thee |with full voice|,—
Do not trust in them, though they speak unto thee |fair words|.
7 I have forsaken mine own house,
I have given up mine inheritance,—
I have delivered the dearly beloved of my soul, into the hand of her enemies:
8 |Mine inheritance| hath become to me |as a lion in a jungle|,—
She hath given forth against me her voice,
‖For this cause‖ have I hated her.
9 Is it ‖a variegated bird of prey‖ that mine inheritance is to me?
‖The birds of prey‖ are round about against her!
Go ye, assemble all the beasts of the field, bring them to devour.
10 ‖Many shepherds‖ have laid waste my vineyard,
They have trampled down my portion,—
They have turned my coveted' portion into a desert of desolation:

[a] Ml.: "traitors of treachery." [b] Or: "reins." [c] Ml.: "the day of slaughter." [d] Abounding in wild beasts which there hide themselves.

11 It hath been made' a desolation,
It hath mourned unto me, as desolate,—
All the land |hath become' a desolation|,
For ‖no' man‖ layeth it to heart.
12 <On all the bare heights in the wilderness> have come despoilers,
For ‖the sword of Yahweh‖ hath devoured from one end of the land unto the other,—
There is peace' for no' flesh!
13 They sowed |wheat|, but <thorns> have they reaped,
They have put themselves to pain, they[a]
shall not be profited,—
Yea turn ye pale at your produce,
Because of the glow of the anger of Yahweh.

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh
Concerning all my wicked' neighbours, who have been touching the inheritance, which I gave as an inheritance unto my people
Israel,— Behold me! uprooting them from off their own soil,
Whereas <the house of Judah> will I uproot out of their' midst.
15 And it shall come to pass <after I have uprooted them> I will again' have compassion upon them,—and will bring them back—
Every man—to his own inheritance, and
Every man—to his own land.
16 And it shall come to pass—
<If they will ‖diligently learn‖ the ways
of my people—
To swear by my Name [saying],
By the life of Yahweh,
As they taught my people to swear by Baal>
Then shall they be built' in the midst of my people.
17 But <if they will not hearken>
Then will I Uproot that nation,
Uproot, that I may destroy,—
Declareth Yahweh.

§ 11. By Symbolic Action with a Linen Girdle, Jeremiah is taught how Israel now failed of fulfilling Yahweh's Designs, and, by the Metaphor of Wine-jars, how the Nation must suffer Punishment. If the People will not repent, the Prophet will weep in secret. The King and Queen-Mother specially called on to humble themselves.

13 1 ‖Thus‖ said Yahweh unto me,— Go, and buy for thyself, a linen girdle, and put upon thy loins,—but <in water> shalt thou not place it.
2 So I bought a girdle, according to the word of Yahweh,—and put upon my loins. 3 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, a second time, saying:
4 Take the girdle which thou hast bought, which is upon thy loins,—and arise, go to the Euphrates, and hide it there, in a hole of the cliff.
5 So I went, and hid it, by the Euphrates,—as Yahweh had commanded me. 6 And it came to pass, at the end of many days,—that Yahweh said unto me,— Arise, go to the Euphrates, and take from thence, the girdle, which I commanded thee to hide there.
7 So I went to the Euphrates, and digged, and took the girdle' out of the place where I had hidden it,—and lo! the girdle |was spoiled|, it[a] was good for nothing. 8 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:
9 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
<After this manner> will I spoil the pride of Judah, and the great pride of Jerusalem.
10 ‖This wicked people, who are refusing to hear my words, who are walking in the stubbornness of their heart, and have gone after other gods, to serve them, and to bow down to them‖ yea let them be like this girdle, which is good for nothing.
11 For <as a girdle cleaveth unto the loins of a man> ‖so‖ caused I to cleave unto me—the whole house of Israel, and the whole house of Judah,
Declareth Yahweh,
to become mine—
For a people, and
For a name, and
For a praise, and
For an adorning,— but they hearkened not. 12 Therefore shalt thou say unto them this word—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
God of Israel,
‖Every jar‖ is to be filled with wine;
and they will say unto thee,
Do we not ‖know well‖ that ‖every jar‖
is to be filled with wine?
13 Then shalt thou say unto them—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Behold me! filling all the inhabitants of this land—
Even the kings that are sitting for David, upon his throne, and the priests and the prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem—with drunkenness; 14 and I will dash them every man against his brother, even the fathers and the sons |together|,
Declareth Yahweh,—
I will not pity,
Neither will I spare,
Neither will I have compassion,
that I should not destroy them.

Hear ye and give ear, be not haughty,—
For ‖Yahweh‖ hath spoken.
Give ye to Yahweh your God—glory,
Before he cause darkness, and
Before your feet stumble upon the twilight mountains;
Lest <when ye wait for light>
He turn it into the shadow of death,
And change it for thick darkness.

But <if ye will not hear it>
<In secret places> shall my soul weep',
Because of the pride,—
And mine eye[a] ‖shall flow over‖ and run down |with tears|,
Because captive' hath been taken the flock of Yahweh.

Say thou to the king and to the queen-mother,
Abase yourselves— Sit down,—
For descended' have your Head-tires,
your Crown of adornment.
The cities of the South‖[b] are shut,
And there is none' to open,—
Judah |hath been carried away captive|,
She hath altogether' been carried away captive |in full number|.
Lift up your eyes and see Them who are coming in from the North,—
Where is The flock that was given thee,
Thy beautiful' flock?
What wilt thou say when he shall bring punishment upon thee,
Since ‖thou thyself‖ hast accustomed them to be over thee as friends |in chief|?
Shall not ‖pangs‖ seize thee, as of a woman in childbirth?

But <if thou say in thy heart,
Wherefore' have these things befallen' me?>
‖For the greatness of thine iniquity‖ have Thy skirts' been turned aside,
Thy heels' suffered violence!

Can |the Ethiopian| change' |his skin|,
Or |the leopard| |his spots|?
Even ‖ye‖ may be able to do right,
Who are accustomed[c] to do wrong.
Therefore have I scattered them,
As broken straw passing away, by the wind of the desert.

‖This‖ is thy lot,
‖Thy measured portion from me‖,
Declareth Yahweh;
For that thou didst forget me,
And confide in falsehood;
Therefore ‖even I myself‖ have drawn away thy skirts, over thy face,
And thy shame |hath been seen|.
<Thine adulteries, and thy neighings, thine unchaste' wickedness>
<Upon the hills in the field> I have seen thine abominations!

Woe to thee, O Jerusalem,
Wilt thou not become pure?
After how long |yet|?

§ 12. A Severe Drought vividly described; as to which the Prophet intercedes with God, but, for Reasons given, is forbidden to pray; howbeit, in Consideration of the Misguidance of False Prophets, he is permitted to tell the People his Grief. Venturing once more to plead with God, Jeremiah is told that even Moses and Samuel could not succeed, because of the Sin of King Manasseh. Jerusalem is pitied but cannot be spared. The Prophet in dismay apostrophises his Mother, vindicates himself, and is assured of Divine Protection.

1 So much of the word of Yahweh as came[a] unto Jeremiah, concerning the matter of the drought:— 14

2 Judah |mourneth|,
And ‖the gates thereof‖ pine,
They lie in gloom on the ground,—
And ‖the outcry of Jerusalem‖ hath ascended;

3 And ‖their nobles‖ have sent their menials to the waters,—
They have been to the pits,
They have[b] found no water,
They have returned, |their vessels' empty|,
They are pale and ashamed, and have covered their heads.

4 <Because ‖the ground‖ is cracked,
For there hath been no rain in the land>
The plowmen are pale,
They have[c] covered their heads.

5 For ‖even the hind of the field‖ hath calved, and forsaken,
Because there is no |young herbage|;

6 Yea ‖wild asses‖ stand still on the bare heights,
They pant for air like jackals,—
Dimmed' are their eyes,
Because there is |no grass|.

7 <Though ‖our iniquities‖ have testified[d] against us>
O Yahweh, effectually work thou, for the sake of thy Name,—
For our apostacies have abounded,
<Against thee> have we sinned.

8 Thou Hope of Israel,
His Saviour in the time of distress,—
|Wherefore| shouldst thou be as a sojourner[e] in the land?
Or as a wayfarer, who hath turned aside to lodge for the night?

9 |Wherefore| shouldst thou be as a man astounded,
As a mighty man, who cannot save?
Yet ‖thou‖ art in our midst—O Yahweh,
And ‖thy Name‖ |on us| hath been called,
Do not abandon us!

10 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh
To this people,
‖In this way‖ have they loved to wander,
<Their feet> have they not restrained,—
‖Yahweh‖ therefore hath not accepted them,
‖Now‖ will he call to mind their iniquity,—
That he may punish their sins.

11 And Yahweh said' unto me,—
Do not pray[a] for this people, for blessing;
12 <Though they fast> I am not going to hearken unto their loud cry, and <Though they offer ascending-sacrifice and meal-offering> I am not going to accept them,—
For <with sword, and with famine, and with pestilence> am ‖I‖ about to consume them.

13 Then said I,
Ah, My Lord, Yahweh!
Lo! ‖the prophets‖ are saying to them—
Ye shall not see the sword,
And <famine> shall ye not have,—
For <prosperity in truth> will I give you, in this place.

14 So then Yahweh said unto me,
<Falsehood> are the prophets prophesying in my name,
I have not sent them,
Neither have I commanded them,
Neither have I spoken unto them,—
<A vision of falsehood, and
A divination of worthlessness, and
A fraud of their own hearts>
‖They‖ are prophesying unto you.[b]

15 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
concerning the prophets who are prophesying in my Name, though ‖I‖ sent them not, and yet ‖they‖ have been saying,
‖Neither sword nor famine‖ shall there be in this land,—
<By sword or by famine> shall |those' prophets| be consumed';
16 And ‖the people to whom they' have been prophesying‖ shall be getting cast out into the streets of Jerusalem, because of the famine and the sword, and of there being none' to give burial |unto them|, ‖them, their wives, nor their sons nor their daughters‖,—
So will I pour out upon them their own wickedness.

17 Therefore shalt thou say unto them this word,
Let mine eyes |run down| with tears night and day,
And let them not rest,—
For <with a grievous injury> hath been injured the virgin, the daughter of my people,
‖With a wound, severe indeed‖!
18 <If I have gone out into the field>
Then lo! the slain of the sword!
And <if I have entered the city>
Then lo! the diseases of famine!
For ‖both prophet and priest‖ have trafficked against the land |unnoticed|.

19 Hast thou ‖utterly rejected‖ Judah?
<Zion itself> hath thy soul loathed?
|Why| hast thou smitten us, so that there is for us no' healing?
A waiting For prosperity, but no' welfare, and[a]
For a time of healing, but lo! terror![b]

20 We acknowledge, O Yahweh,
Our own lawlessness,
The iniquity of our fathers,—
For we have sinned against thee.

21 Do not despise—for the sake of thy Name,
Do not[c] treat with contempt—the throne of thy glory,—
Remember!—do not break thy covenant with us.

22 Are' there, among the vanities of the nations, senders of rain?
Or can ‖the heavens themselves‖ give myriad drops?
Art not ‖thou‖ he, O Yahweh our God?
Therefore will we wait for thee,
For ‖thou‖ hast made all these.

15 1 Then said Yahweh unto me,
<Though Moses and Samuel should stand' before me>
My soul could not' be toward this people,—
Send them away from before me,
And let them go forth.

2 And it shall come to pass <when they say unto thee, Whither' shall we go?>
Then shalt thou say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
‖Such as are for death‖ to death, and ‖Such as are for the sword‖ to the sword, and ‖Such as are for famine‖ to the famine, and ‖Such as are for captivity‖ to captivity.
3 And I will set in charge over them—four species, Declareth Yahweh,
The sword, to slay, and
The dogs, to trail along,— and
The bird of the heavens and
The beast of the earth, to devour and to destroy.

4 And I will make them a terror, to all the kingdoms of the earth,—
On account of Manasseh, son of Hezekiah, king of Judah,
‖For what[a] he did in Jerusalem‖.
5 For who shall have pity upon thee, O Jerusalem?
And who shall lament for thee?
And who shall turn aside, to ask for thy welfare?
‖Thou‖ hast abandoned |me|,
Declareth Yahweh,
<Backward> thou wilt go,—
Therefore have I stretched forth my hand against thee and laid thee waste,—
I am weary' of having compassion.
7 Therefore have I winnowed them with a winnowing shovel, in the gates of the land,—
I have bereaved—I have destroyed my people,
<From their own ways> have they not returned.
8 Their widows have become multiplied to me, beyond the sand of the seas,
I have brought against them—upon the mother of young men—the spoiler, in the broad noon,—
I have let fall upon her, suddenly, excitement and terrors.
9 Languisheth! she who had given birth to seven,
She hath breathed out her life,[b]
Her sun |hath gone in|, while yet it was day,
She hath turned pale, and hath turned red,—
And ‖the remnant of them‖ <to the sword> will I deliver before their enemies,
Declareth Yahweh.

10 Woe to me! my mother,
That thou didst bear me,
A man of litigation and a man of contention to all the land,—
I have not lent on interest,
Nor have they lent on interest to me,
‖Every one‖ hath treated me with contempt.

11 Said Yahweh,—
Verily, I will loose thee[c] for good!
Verily, I will intercede for thee,
In the time of calamity, and
In the time of distress, with the enemy![d]

12 Shall |iron| crush |the iron from the North| and the bronze?

13 <Thy substance, and thy treasures—for a prey> will I give, |without price|,—

14 Therefore will I make thee pass,[a] with thine enemies, into[a] a land thou knowest not,—
For ‖a fire‖ hath been kindled in mine anger,
<Upon you> shall it burn.

15 ‖Thou‖ knowest—O Yahweh,
Remember me, and visit me, and avenge me upon my persecutors,
Do not <of thy longsuffering> take me away,—
Know—I have borne, for thy sake, reproach.
16 Thy words |were found|,[b] and I did eat them,
Then became thy words[c] unto me, the joy and gladness of my heart,—
For |thy Name| hath been called |upon me|, O Yahweh, God of hosts!
17 I sat not in the circle of mockers,
Nor became I uproarious,—
<Because of thy hand> |by myself| did I sit,
For <with indignation> hadst thou filled me.
18 |Wherefore| hath my pain become |perpetual|?
And my wound |incurable|?
Refuseth to be healed?
Wilt thou ‖indeed be‖ to me,
[As a brook] that disappointeth,
Waters that cannot be trusted?

19 |Wherefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
<If thou wouldst return> I will cause thee to return,
<Before me> shalt thou stand,
Yea <if thou wilt bring out the precious from among the vile>
‖As mine own mouth‖ shalt thou be,—
Let ‖them‖ return unto |thee|,
But ‖thou‖ shalt not return unto |them|;
20 So will I make thee, to this people, a wall of bronze |fortified|,
<When they fight against thee> they shall not prevail against thee,—
For <with thee> am |I|, to save thee and to deliver thee,
Declareth Yahweh;
21 Thus will I deliver thee out of the hand of the wicked,—
And redeem thee out of the grasp of the tyrants.

16 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

2 Thou shalt not take to thee a wife,—
Neither shalt thou have sons or daughters, in this place.

3 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
<Concerning the sons, and concerning the daughters, that are being born in this place,—and concerning their mothers who do bear them, and concerning their fathers who do beget them, in this land>

4 <Of deaths from diseases> shall they die,
They shall not be lamented,

Yea <by sword and by famine> shall they be consumed,
And |their dead bodies| shall become |food|—

Do not thou enter into the house of crying,
Neither do thou go to lament, nor do thou bemoan for them,—
For I have withdrawn my blessing[a] from this people, Declareth Yahweh.
Both lovingkindness and compassion.

6 So shall great and small die in this land,
They shall not be buried,—

Nor cause them to drink the cup of consolation,

9 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts‖
God of Israel,—
Behold me! causing to cease, out of this place,
Before your eyes,
And in your days,
The voice of joy, and the voice of gladness,
The voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride,[a]

10 And it shall be <when thou shalt declare to this people, all these words,—and they shall say unto thee—
<For what reason> hath Yahweh pronounced against us, all this great calamity?
Or what is our iniquity, or what our sin, which we have sinned against Yahweh our God?>

11 Then shalt thou say unto them,—
<For that your fathers forsook |me|, Declareth Yahweh,
And walked after other gods, and served them, and bowed down to them,— Whereas <me> they forsook,
And <my law>[b] kept they not;

12 And ‖ye‖ have done more wickedly than your fathers,—for, look at you! walking every man after the stubbornness of his wicked' heart, so as not to hearken unto me>

13 Therefore will I hurl you forth, from off this land, unto a land' which ye have not known, ‖ye, nor your fathers‖,—and ye can serve there, other gods, day and night, in that I will grant you no favour.

14 |Therefore| lo! |days are coming| Declareth Yahweh,
When it shall be said no more,
By the life of Yahweh, who brought up the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt; but——

15 By the life of Yahweh, who hath brought up the sons of Israel out of the land of the North, and out of all the lands, whither he had driven them,—
So will I bring them back upon their own soil, which I gave to their fathers.

16 Behold me! sending for many fishers, Declareth Yahweh,
And they shall catch them,—and ‖thereafter‖ will I send for many hunters, and they shall hunt them from off every mountain, and from off every hill, and out of the clefts of the crags.

17 For ‖mine own eyes‖ are upon all their ways, they have not been hid from my face,—neither hath their iniquity been concealed from being straight before mine eyes.

18 Thus will I recompense |first, twofold| their iniquity and their sin, because of their profaning my land,—<with the carcase of their disgusting and detestable things> have they filled mine inheritance.

19 O Yahweh, my strength, and my refuge, and my place to fly to, in the day of distress,— <Unto thee> shall nations come in, out of the ends of the earth, that they may say—Surely!

<Falsehood> did our fathers inherit,
Vanity, among whom is none that can profit:
20 Shall |a son of earth| make for himself |gods|
Seeing that ‖they‖ are no-gods?
21 |Therefore| behold me! causing them to know,
|by this stroke|,
I will cause them to know my hand, and my might,—
That they may know, that |my name| is ‖Yahweh‖!

17 1 ‖The sin of Judah‖ is written
With a stylus of iron,
With the point of a diamond:
It is engraved
Upon the tablet of their heart,
And upon the horns of your[a] altars;
2 So long as their sons remember' their altars, and their Sacred Stems,
By the[b] green tree,—
Upon[c] the high' hills.

3 O my mountain in the field!
<Thy substance, all thy treasures> |for a prey| will I give:
Thy high places for[d] sin, within all thy bounds.
4 So shalt thou, even of thyself, suffer to rest the inheritance which I gave thee,
Seeing that I will cause thee to serve thine enemies, in the land which thou knowest not;
For  have ye kindled in mine anger,
<Unto times age-abiding> shall it burn.[e]

5 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Accursed' is the man—
Who trusteth in a son of earth,
And hath made flesh' his arm,—
And whose heart <from Yahweh> turneth aside:
6 Therefore shall he become as a shrub[f] in the waste plain,
Neither shall he perceive' when good cometh,—
But shall inhabit,
Parched places in a wilderness,
A land[g] of salt that cannot be dwelt in.

7 Blessed' is the man
Who trusteth in Yahweh,
To whom Yahweh is his ground of confidence;

8 For he shall become like a tree planted by waters,
And <by a stream> shall he send out his roots,
Neither shall he perceive when heat cometh,
But his leaf shall continue green;
Even <in a year of dearth> shall he not be anxious,
Neither shall he cease from bearing fruit.[a]

9 Deceitful' is the heart[b] above all things,
And ‖dangerously wayward‖,—
Who can know it?
10 ‖I—Yahweh‖ Searching the heart,[b]
Testing the affections;
And giving[c] to every man
According to his way,[d]
According[e] to the fruit of his doings.

11 <[As] a partridge gathereth eggs she did not lay>,
[So] is he that maketh riches, but not with justice,—
<In the midst of his days>[f] shall he leave them,
And <in his latter end> prove to have been base.

12 <A throne of glory, exalted from the beginning> hath been the place of our sanctuary.

13 Thou hope of Israel |Yahweh|,
‖All who forsake thee‖ shall turn pale,—
Yea ‖all who depart from me‖ <in the ground> shall be written,
For they have forsaken a fountain of living water, ‖even Yahweh‖.

14 Heal thou me, O Yahweh, that I may be healed,
Save me, that I may be saved,—
For <my praise> thou art'!

15 Lo! ‖they‖ are saying unto me,—
|Where| is the word of Yahweh?
Pray thee let it come to pass!
16 But <as for me>
I have neither forced myself away from tending the flock after thee,
Nor yet <for the woful day> have I longed—‖thou‖ knowest,—
‖That which came out of my lips‖ <before thy face> was uttered.

17 Do not thou become to me a terror,—
<My refuge> art thou, in the day of calamity.

‖me‖ turn pale,
Let ‖them‖ be terrified, but let not ‖me‖ be terrified,—
Bring thou upon them' a day of calamity,
And <with a double fracture> destroy[a] them.

19 ‖Thus‖ said Yahweh unto me—
Go and stand in the gate of the sons of the people, through which the kings of Judah enter in, and through which they come out,— also in all the gates of Jerusalem. 20 Then shalt thou say unto them—

Hear ye the word of Yahweh,
Ye kings of Judah and all Judah,
And all ye inhabitants of Jerusalem,—who enter in through these gates:
21 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Take heed unto your souls,—
And do not bear any burden on the sabbath' day,[b]
Nor bring it in through the gates of Jerusalem,—
22 Neither shall ye take forth any burden out of your houses, on the sabbath' day,[b]
Nor <any manner of work> shall ye do,—
But ye shall hallow the sabbath day,[b]
As I commanded your fathers.

23 Howbeit they hearkened not, neither inclined their ear,—but stiffened their neck, that they might not hearken, neither receive correction.

24 And it shall come to pass,—
<If ye will ‖indeed hearken‖ unto me,
Declareth Yahweh,
To bring in no burden, through the gates of this city, on the sabbath' day,— But to hallow the sabbath day, by not doing thereon any manner of work> 25 Then shall enter in through the gates of this city,
Kings and princes,
Sitting on the throne of David,
Riding in chariots and on horses,
‖They, and their princes‖,
‖The men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem‖,
And this city shall remain unto times age-abiding.
26 And they shall come in—
Out of the cities of Judah, and Out of the places round about Jerusalem, and
Out of the land of Benjamin, and Out of the lowlands, and out of the hill country, and
Out of the South,
Bringing in ascending-offering, and peace-offering, and meal-offering, and frankincense,—
Even they who bring in a thankoffering into the house of Yahweh.

27 But <if ye will not hearken unto me—
To hallow the sabbath day,
And to bear no burden and bring in through the gates of Jerusalem |on the sabbath
day|>
Then will I kindle a fire within her gates,
And it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem,
And shall not be quenched.

§ 14. The Potter's House and its Lessons: attempting to enforce which, Jeremiah's Hearers conspire against him, and he prays against them—though once he had pleaded for them.

18 1 The word that came unto Jeremiah' from Yahweh, saying:
2 Arise and go down, to the house of the potter,
—and ‖there‖ will I cause thee to hear my words.
3 So I went down, to the house of the potter,— and, there he was! making a piece of work, on the wheels.[a] 4 |Then was marred| the vessel that he' was making, while yet it was clay in the hand of the potter,—so he turned and made of it another' vessel, as seemed right in the eyes of the potter to make it. 5 Then came the word of Yahweh' unto me,
saying:
6 <Like this potter> can I not deal with you,
O house of Israel?
Demandeth Yahweh:
Lo! <as clay in the hand of the potter>
‖So‖ are ‖ye‖ in my hand, O house of Israel.

7 <The moment I speak, concerning a nation, or concerning a kingdom,—to pull up and to break down,[b] and to destroy; 8 and that nation return' from its wickedness, against whom I have spoken> then will I repent concerning the calamity' which I had devised to bring upon it.

9 And <the moment I speak, concerning a nation, or concerning a kingdom,—to build, and to plant; 10 and it commit wickedness in mine eyes, in not hearkening unto my voice> then will I repent concerning the good wherewith I had said I would do it good.

11 ‖Now‖ therefore, I pray thee, speak unto the *men of Judah, and concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
Lo! I' am fashioning against you, calamity, and devising against you, a device,— Return, I pray you, every man from his wicked way,
And amend your ways, and your doings.

[a] M. : "the two stones."
[b] Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns. and Syr.): "and to tear away" [instead of "break down"]. Cp. chap. xxxi. 28.

[a] M acture." [b] Or: "day of rest."

12 And <since they will say, Hopeless!
For <after our own devices> will we walk,
And ‖every one‖ <the stubbornness of his own wicked heart> will we do!>
13 ‖Therefore‖
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Ask, I pray you, among the nations,—
Who' hath heard |such things as these|?
<A very horrible thing> hath |the virgin, Israel| done!
14 Shall the snow of Lebanon |fail from the rock of the field|?
Or shall waters from afar, deep, overflowing, |be dried up|?
15 Yet my people |have forgotten me|,
<Unto vanity> have they been burning incense;
And it hath caused them to stumble
In their ways,
The roads of age-past times,
To walk in by-paths—
A way |not cast up|.[a]
16 To make their land a desolation,
The hissings of age-abiding times,—
‖Every one that passeth by her‖ shall be astonished and wag his head.
17 <Like[b] an east wind> will I scatter them before the enemy,—
<The back and not the face> will I let them see, in the day of their distress.

18 Then said they,—
Come ye, and let us devise against Jeremiah, devices,
For |the law| shall not perish' |from the priest|,
Nor |counsel| from |the wise|,
Nor |the word| from |the prophet|:
Come and let us smite him with the tongue,
And let us not give ear to any of his words!

19 Give thou ear, O Yahweh, unto me,—
And hearken unto the voice of mine accusers.

20 Shall ‖evil‖ be recompensed' for |good|?
For they have digged a pit for my life,[c]—
Remember how I stood before thee,
To speak, in their behalf, what was good!
To turn back thine indignation from them.
21 |Therefore| give thou up their sons' to the famine,
And deliver them into the hands of the sword,
And let their |wives| become |childless and widows|,
And let ‖their men‖ be slain by death,
‖Their young men‖ be smitten by the sword in battle.
22 Let there be heard a cry out of their houses,
When thou shalt bring in upon them a troop, |suddenly|,—
Because they digged a pit to capture me,
And <snares> did they hide for my feet.

23 But |thou, O Yahweh‖ knowest all their counsels against me, to put me to death,
Put thou no propitiatory-covering over their iniquity,
And <their sin, from before thee> do not thou blot out,—
But let them be overthrown before thee,
<In the time of thine anger> deal thou effectively with them.

§ 15. Before the Elders of People and Priests, Jeremiah symbolically breaks a Bottle in Topheth: and there, and in the Temple Court, predicts the Breaking of the People, chiefly for sacrificing their Children to Baal.

19 1 Thus said Yahweh,[a]
Go and buy a potter's earthen bottle,[b]—and [take] of the elders of the people, and of the elders of the priests;
2 Then shalt thou go forth into the valley of Ben-hinnom, which is at the opening of the gate of potsherds; and proclaim there' the words which I shall speak unto thee; 3 and shalt say,— Hear ye the word of Yahweh,
O kings of Judah,
And inhabitants of Jerusalem,—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts—
God of Israel,
Behold me! bringing in calamity upon this place, which shall cause the ears of ‖every one that heareth it‖ to tingle:
4 <Because they have forsaken me,
And have treated this as a foreign place,
And have burned incense therein to other' gods, which ‖neither they, nor their fathers, nor the kings of Judah‖ have known;
And have filled this place with the blood of innocents;
5 And have built the high places of Baal' for burning up their sons in the fire, as ascending-sacrifices to Baal,[c]—
Which I commanded not,
Nor spake,
Neither came it up on my heart>[d]
6 |Therefore| lo! |days coming|
Declareth Yahweh,
When this place shall be called no longer,
The Topheth, or
The Valley of Ben-hinnom,— but—
The Valley of Slaughter;[e]
7 And I will pour out the counsel[f] of Judah and Jerusalem, in this place,
And I will cause them to fall by the sword, before their enemies, and by the hand of them who seek their life,—
And I will give their dead bodies, for food, to the bird of the heavens, and to the beast of the earth;

8 And I will make this city a desolation, and a hissing,—‖every one that passeth by it‖ shall be astonished and hiss, over all her wounds;[a]
9 And I will suffer them to eat the flesh of their sons, and the flesh of their daughters, yea <every one—the flesh of his friend> will they eat,[b]—in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith |their enemies, and they who seek their lives|, will straiten them.

10 Then shalt thou break the bottle,[c] before the eyes of the men who are walking with thee;
11 and shalt say unto them—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts—
‖Thus and thus‖ will I break this people, and this city,
As one breaketh the vessel of a potter, which cannot be made whole any more,—
And <in Topheth> shall they bury, for want of place to bury.
12 ‖Thus‖ will I do to this place,
Declareth Yahweh,
And to the inhabitants thereof,—
‖Even making this city like Topheth‖:
13 Yea |the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses of the kings of Judah|, shall <like the place of Topheth> be places defiled,—even all the houses, upon whose roofs they burned incense, to all the host of the heavens, and poured out drink-offerings to other gods.

14 Then entered Jeremiah out of Topheth, whither Yahweh had sent him to prophesy,—and stood in the court of the house of Yahweh, and said unto all the people:
15 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
Behold me! bringing in against this city, and upon all the cities thereof,
The whole calamity which I have pronounced against her,—
Because they stiffened their neck, that they might not hear my words.

§ 16. Jeremiah is smitten and put in the Stocks by Pashhur, priest, and overseer of the Temple. Next day, when set free, he boldly denounces Pashhur — naming him a "Terror-round-about," and dooming him to be carried Captive to Babylon. Then his Mind recoils, especially when he finds himself laughed at and nicknamed by the People: he resolves to be silent, and cannot: finally, in full Oriental style, he curses the Day he was born.

20 1 And <when Pashhur son of Immer, the priest, who also was deputy-overseer in the house of Yahweh, heard that Jeremiah had prophesied[a] these things> 2 then Pashhur smote Jeremiah the prophet,—and put him in the stocks that were in the upper gate of Benjamin, which was in the house of Yahweh. 3 And it came to pass <on the morrow, when Pashhur brought forth Jeremiah out of the stocks>—that Jeremiah said unto him—

<Not Pashhur> hath Yahweh called thy name,
But Māgôr-missaviv[="Terror-round-about"[b]].

4 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Behold me! making thee a [māgôr i.e. a] terror to thyself and to all who love thee, and they shall fall by the sword of[c] their enemies, ‖thine own eyes also‖ beholding.
And <all Judah> will I deliver into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he will carry them captive to Babylon, and smite them with the sword.
5 And I will deliver up—
All the wealth of this city, and
All her labour and
All her precious things,—
And <all the treasures of the kings of Judah> will I deliver up into the hands of their enemies, and they will make of them a prey, and take them, and carry them into Babylon.
6 And ‖thou, Pashhur, and all who are dwelling in thy house‖ shall go into captivity,— Yea <into Babylon> shalt thou enter,
And <there> shalt thou die,
And <there> shalt thou be buried,
‖Thou, and all who love thee, to whom thou hast prophesied |falsely|‖.

7 Thou didst persuade me, O Yahweh, and I was persuaded,
Thou didst lay firm hold on me, and didst prevail,—
I am become a mockery |all the day|,
‖Every one‖[d] is laughing at me.

8 For <as often as I speak> I make outcry,
<Violence and wasting> I proclaim,—
Yea the word of Yahweh hath become' to me a reproach and derision, |all the day|.

9 Therefore I say—[e]
I will not mention him,
Neither will I speak any more in his name,
But then it becometh in my heart, as a fire that burneth,
Shut up in my bones,—
And I am weary of restraint, and cannot refrain.

[a] Or: "scourgings." The word used means "blow," "wound" "slaughter." All the visible havoc wrought by an invading army is here comprehended.
[b] Cp. Deu. xxviii. 53-57.
[c] Or: "flask."

[a] Or: "was prophesying."
[b] Cp. chap. vi. 25, n.; also Intro., Chap. I., 3, a.

[d] Cp. O.G. 482[a], d, (b).
[e] Or: "keep saying."

10 Because I have heard the whispering of many—
"A terror round about!"[a]
Tell ye [say they], that we may tell of him,
‖All the men I am wont to salute‖[b] do watch for my halting,— |Peradventure| he will be persuaded, and we shall prevail over him, and take our vengeance upon him.[c]

11 But ‖Yahweh‖ is with me, as a mighty one striking terror,
‖For this cause‖ shall my persecutors stumble, and not prevail,—
They have turned very pale,
For they have not prospered,
<Confusion age-abiding> it shall not be forgotten!

12 But, O Yahweh of hosts—
Testing the righteous,
Beholding the affections[d] and the heart,—
Let me see thine avenging upon them,
For <unto thee> have I laid bare my cause.

13 Sing ye to Yahweh! Praise ye Yahweh!
For he hath delivered the soul[e] of the needy, out of the hand of evildoers.

14 ‖Accursed‖ be the day on which I was born,—
<The day when |my mother| bare me> let it not be blessed!
15 ‖Accursed‖ be the man who carried tidings to my father, saying,
There is born to thee a man'-child![f]
Making him very glad:
16 Yea let that' man be—as the cities which Yahweh overthrew' and repented not,—
And let him hear
An outcry in the morning, and
A war-shout at broad noon!
17 Because I was not slain from the womb,—
Nor did |my mother| become |my grave|,
Nor was her womb great for ever!
18 |Wherefore| was' it—
That <from the womb> I came forth, to see labour and pain; and
That |in shame| should |my days| be consumed!

§ 17. In reply to Enquiries of Yahweh made by Jeremiah for King Zedekiah, special Answers are sent to the King, to the People, and to the House of David. Further Messages to the Royal House.

21 1 The word which came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh,—when King Zedekiah sent unto him Pashhur, son of Malchiah, and Zephaniah,[a] son of Maaseiah,[b] the priest, saying:
2 Enquire for us, I pray thee, of Yahweh, in that ‖Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon‖ maketh war against us,—|Peradventure| Yahweh will deal with us, according to all his wonders, so that he go up from us.

3 Then said Jeremiah unto them,—
‖Thus‖ shall ye say unto Zedekiah:
4 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
God of Israel—
Behold me! turning back the weapons of war that are in your hand, wherewith ‖ye‖ are fighting the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans, who are besieging you, outside the wall,—and I will gather them into the midst of this city.
5 And ‖I myself‖ will fight against you, with a hand outstretched, and with an arm of strength,—and with anger and with wrath, and with great indignation; 6 and I will smite the inhabitants of this city, |both man and beast|,—<of a great pestilence> shall they die.
7 And <after that> Declareth Yahweh—
Will I deliver Zedekiah king of Judah, and his servants, and the people,—even such as are left in this city from the pestilence, from[c] the sword, and from the famine,—into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, even into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them who are seeking their life,[d]—and he will smite them with the edge[e] of the sword, he will not have pity on them, nor will he spare, nor will he have compassion.

8 And <unto this people> shalt thou say,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
Behold me! setting before you, the way |of life|, and the way |of death|:[f]
9 ‖He that remaineth in this city‖ shall die—by the sword, or[g] by the famine, or by the pestilence,—
Whereas ‖he that goeth forth and falleth unto the Chaldeans, who are besieging you‖,—then shall he live,[h] and ‖his life‖[d] shall become to him |a spoil|;
10 For I have set my face against this city, for calamity and not for blessing,
Declareth Yahweh,—
<Into the hand of the king of Babylon> shall it be given up, and he will burn it with fire.

11 Now <as to the house of the king of Judah>
—hear ye the word of Yahweh:—
12 O house of David!
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Administer justice |betimes|,[a]
And deliver the robbed out of the hand of the oppressor,—
Lest mine indignation |come forth like fire|,
And burn, and there be none to quench it,
Because of the wickedness of your[b] doings.

13 Behold me! against thee, O thou dweller in the vale, on the level rock,
Declareth Yahweh,—
Ye who are saying,
Who shall come down upon us?
Who shall enter our habitations?
14 Yet will I bring punishment upon you, according to the fruit of your doings,
Declareth Yahweh,—
and will kindle a fire in her forest, and it shall devour all things round about her.

22 1 ‖Thus‖ said Yahweh,
Go thou down to the house of king of Judah, and speak thou there' this word, 2 and say—
Hear thou the word of Yahweh, O king of Judah, who sittest upon the throne of David,—‖thou, and thy servants, and thy people, who enter in at these gates‖
3 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
Execute ye justice, and righteousness,
And deliver the robbed, out of the hand of the oppressor,—
But <the sojourner, the[c] fatherless, and the widow> do not oppress, neither[d] commit violence,
And <the blood of the innocent> do not ye shed, in this place.
4 For <if ye ‖indeed do‖ this thing> then shall there enter into the gates of this house—kings, sitting for David upon his throne, riding in chariots and on horses, ‖he, and his servants,[e] and his people‖.
5 But <if ye will not hear' these words>
‖By myself‖ have I sworn
Declareth Yahweh—
That ‖a ruin‖ shall |this house| become.

6 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh
Concerning the house of the king of Judah,— <Though thou wast
‖Gilead‖ to me,
The summit of Lebanon>
Yet surely I will make thee,
A wilderness,
Cities |not habitable|;

7 And I will hallow against thee Destroyers,
Every man with his weapons,—
And they shall cut down of the choicest of thy cedars, and cast upon the fire.
8 Then shall many nations pass by this city,—and shall say, every man to his neighbour,
<For what cause> hath Yahweh done ‖thus‖ unto this great city?
9 And they shall say,
Because they forsook the covenant of Yahweh, their God,—
And bowed down to other' gods,
And served them.

10 Do not ye lament for him that is dead,
Neither bemoan ye |him|,
But weep ye—weep on[a]—for him that is going away,
For he shall not return any more,
Nor see the land of his birth.

11 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Touching Shallum,[b] son of Josiah, king of Judah,
That reigneth instead of Josiah, his father,
Who hath gone forth out of this place,
He shall not return thither any more;
12 For[c] <in the place whither they have taken him captive>
‖There‖ shall he die,—
And <this land> shall he see no more.

13 Alas! for him who buildeth
His house without righteousness,
And his roof-chambers without justice,—
<Of his neighbour> taketh service for nought,
And <recompense for his work> giveth him not.
14 Who saith—
I will build me a roomy house, with spacious roof-chambers,—
So he cutteth him open its windows,
And it is covered in with cedar,
And he painteth it with vermilion.
15 Shalt thou reign, because ‖thou‖ art eager to excel in cedar?
<Thy father> did he not eat and drink, and do justice and righteousness,
And ‖then‖ it was well with him?
16 [Did he not] plead the cause of the oppressed and the needy,
And ‖then‖ it was well?
Was not ‖that‖ to know |me|?
Demandeth Yahweh.

17 Verily thou hast neither eyes, nor heart, save for thy plundering and for thy shedding of ‖innocent blood‖, and for oppression and for crushing, to do' them!

<Touching Jehoiakim son of Josiah
King of Judah>
They shall not cry in lament for him
Alas, my brother! or Alas, sister!
They shall not cry in lament for him
Alas, lord! or Alas! his renown!
19 <With the burial of an ass> shall he be buried,— Dragged along and cast forth, beyond the gates of Jerusalem.

20 Ascend the Lebanon, and make outcry,
And <in Bashan> put forth thy voice,—
And make outcry from Abarim,[a]
For all thy lovers |are torn in pieces|.

21 I spake unto thee, in thy carelessness,—
Thou saidst, I will not hearken!
‖This‖ hath been thy way from thy youth,
That thou hast not hearkened to my voice.
22 <All thy shepherds> the wind' shall feed,
And ‖thy lovers‖ <into captivity> shall depart,—
Surely ‖then‖ shalt thou turn pale, and be confounded, by reason of all thy wickedness.

23 O inhabitress of Lebanon, that makest thy nest in the cedars,—
How hast thou bemoaned thyself,[b]
Now that pangs have overtaken thee,
Anguish, as of her that giveth birth.
24 ‖As I live‖ Declareth Yahweh,—
<Even though Coniah[c] son of Jehoiakim king of Judah were the signet-ring upon my right hand> yet ‖from thence‖ would I pull thee off; 25 and I would give thee into the hand of them who seek thy life, and into the hand of them from the face of whom ‖thou‖ dost shrink in fear,—even into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and into the hand of the Chaldeans; 26 and I will hurl thee out, and thy mother who bare thee, upon another land, where ye were not born,—and ‖there‖ shall ye die. 27 But <unto the land whither they shall be lifting up their souls to return> ‖thither‖ shall they not return.
28 <An earthen vessel, to be despised, thrown about> is this man Coniah?
Or an instrument, in which is no pleasure?
|Wherefore| are they to be cast out, ‖he, and his seed‖, and to be thrown forth upon a land which they have not known?
29 O land, land, land!
Hear thou the word of Yahweh!

30 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
Register ye this man |childless|,
A man who shall not prosper in his days,—
For there shall prosper of his seed,
No man sitting upon the throne of David,
Or ruling any more over Judah.

§ 18. Bad Shepherds denounced: Yahweh himself will gather the Remnant of his Flock, and raise up Good Shepherds, notably One of Davidic Descent, of Saving Power, and of Divine Name; in whose Days a Wider Return than from Babylon shall furnish a new Formula for Swearing. False Prophets, Dreamers, Pretenders are to be for ever disgraced.

23 1 Alas for the shepherds, who are destroying and scattering the sheep of my pasture,
Declareth Yahweh.
2 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, God of Israel,
Concerning the shepherds who are tending my people,—
‖Ye‖ have scattered my flock, and have driven them away, and have not visited them,— Behold me! visiting |upon you| the wickedness of your doings,
Declareth Yahweh.
3 ‖I myself‖ therefore, will gather the remnant of my flock, out of all the lands whither I have driven them,—
And will bring them back unto their own fold,
And they shall be fruitful and multiply;
4 And I will raise up over them shepherds, who will tend them,—
So shall they not be afraid any more, nor be dismayed, nor be missing,
Declareth Yahweh.
5 Lo! |days are coming|,
Declareth Yahweh,
when I will raise up to David
A righteous Bud[a]
And he shall reign as' king, and prosper,
And shall execute justice and righteousness in the land.
6 <In his days>
Shall Judah |be saved|,
And ‖Israel‖ abide securely,—
And ‖this‖ is his name whereby he shall be called, ‖Yahweh‖ our Righteousness.
7 |Therefore| lo! ‖days are coming‖,
Declareth Yahweh,
When it shall not be said any more,

North, and out of all the lands whither I have driven them,—
And they shall remain upon their own soil.

9 <As for the prophets>—
Broken' is my heart within me,
Trembled' have all my bones,
I have become as a drunken man,
And as a strong man whom wine hath overcome,—
Because of Yahweh,
And because of his holy' words.
10 For <with adulterers> is the land filled',
Yea <because of cursing> doth the land mourn,
Dried up are the oases of the desert,—
And |their oppression| hath become wicked,
And ‖their might‖ is not right.
11 For ‖both prophet and priest‖ are profane,—
<Even in my house> have I found their wickedness, Declareth Yahweh.
12 |Therefore| shall their way become to them like slippery places in darkness,
They shall be driven on, and shall fall therein,—
For I will bring in upon them calamity—
The year of their visitation, Declareth Yahweh.
13 <Even among the prophets of Samaria> had I seen a foolish thing,—
They prophesied by Baal,
And led astray my people Israel.
14 But <among the prophets of Jerusalem> have I seen a horrible thing,— Committing adultery,
And walking in falsehood,
And so strengthening the hands of doers of wickedness, not to return any man from his wickedness:
They have |all of them| become' to me |as Sodom|,
And her inhabitants, |as Gomorrah|.[a]
15 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts
Concerning the prophets,—
Behold me!
Feeding them with wormwood,
And I will cause them to drink poisoned water,[b]—
For <from the prophets of Jerusalem> hath there gone forth profanity unto all the land.
16 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,—
Do not hearken unto the words of the prophets who are prophesying unto you,
They' are filling you' ‖with vain' hopes‖,—
<The vision of their own hearts> do they speak,
Not from the mouth of Yahweh!
17 They keep on saying to them who despise me,
Yahweh |hath spoken|, [saying]
<Prosperity> shall ye have!
And <to every one who is going on in the stubbornness of his own heart> have they said,
There shall come on you |no calamity|;
18 For who' hath stood in the council of Yahweh, that he should see, and hear his word?
Who hath given ear to his[a] word, and heard[b] it?
19 Lo! the tempest of Yahweh!
‖Indignation‖ hath come forth,[c]
Even a tempest whirling along:
<On the head of the lawless> shall it hurl itself down.
20 The anger of Yahweh |will not return|,
Until he hath executed, nor
Until he hath established,
The purposes of his heart,—
<In the afterpart of the days> shall ye understand it |perfectly|.[d]
21 I sent not the prophets, yet ‖they‖ ran,
I spake not unto them, yet ‖they‖ prophesied.
22 But <if they had stood in my council>
Then might they have announced my words unto my people,
And have turned them from their wicked' way and from the wickedness of their doings.
23 Am I' ‖a God at hand‖, Demandeth Yahweh,
And not a God afar off?
24 Can any hide' himself in secret places, that ‖I‖ shall not see him? Demandeth Yahweh,—
<The heavens and the earth> do I' not fill? Demandeth Yahweh.
25 I have heard what the prophets |have said|, who prophesy in my name falsely, saying,—
I have dreamed! I have dreamed!
26 |How long| shall it be' in the heart of the prophets,
[To be] prophets of falsehood,—
And prophets of the deceit of their own heart?
27 Who lay a plot[e] to cause my people |to forget| my name, by their dreams which they relate, every man to his neighbour,—
Just as their fathers forgat |my name|, ‖for[f] Baal‖.
28 <The prophet with whom is a dream>
Let him relate it as' a dream,
And <he with whom is my word>
Let him speak my word as' truth,—
What is the chaff'[g] to the wheat'?
Demandeth Yahweh:

Is not my word |like this|,
‖Like fire‖? Demandeth Yahweh,—
And like a hammer, that breaketh in pieces a cliff?

|Therefore| behold me! against the prophets, Declareth Yahweh,— who steal my words, every man from his neighbour:
Behold me! against the prophets, Declareth Yahweh, who presume with their tongue and declare, He declareth:[a] Behold me! against such as prophesy the dreams[b] of falsehood, Declareth Yahweh, who have related them, and led astray my people, with their falsehoods and with their recklessness,[c]—whereas ‖I‖ had not sent them, nor commanded them, so that they could be of no ‖profit‖ to this people, Declareth Yahweh.

But <when this people, or a prophet or a priest, shall ask' thee, saying
What is the oracle of Yahweh?>
Then shalt thou say unto them,
‖Ye yourselves‖[d] are the oracle,
Therefore will I reject you, Declareth Yahweh;
But <the prophet, or the priest, or the people, who shall say—
The oracle of Yahweh>
I will bring punishment upon that man, and upon his house.
‖Thus‖ shall ye say—every man unto his neighbour, and every man unto his brother,—
What' hath Yahweh |answered|? or,
What' hath Yahweh |spoken|?
but <the oracle of Yahweh> shall ye not mention |any more|, — for ‖every man's oracle‖ shall be his own word, because ye have perverted the words of a Living' God, ‖Yahweh of hosts, our God‖.
‖Thus‖ shalt thou say unto the prophet,—
What' hath Yahweh |answered thee|? or
What' hath Yahweh |spoken|?
But <since ye keep on saying
|The Oracle of Yahweh|>,
|therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
<Because ye have said this word, The oracle of Yahweh, whereas I had sent unto you saying, Ye shall not say, The oracle of Yahweh> [39] |therefore| behold me! I will lift you up,[e] — and carry you away, and the city which I gave to you and to your fathers, from before my face; [40] and will give unto you reproach age-abiding,—and disgrace age-abiding, which shall not be forgotten.

§ 19. Two Baskets of Figs: the Good representing the Captives; and the Bad setting forth such as remain in Judea or dwell in Egypt.

24 [1] Yahweh shewed' me, and lo! two baskets of figs, which had been set before the temple of Yahweh,—after that Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon had carried away captive, Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, and the princes of Judah, and the carpenters and the smiths, out of Jerusalem, and had brought them into Babylon:—[2] ‖the one basket‖ was of very good figs, like the first-ripe' figs; and ‖the other basket‖ was of very bad figs, which could not be eaten |for badness|. [3] Then said Yahweh unto me,—
What canst thou' see, Jeremiah?
And I said,
Figs:
‖the good figs‖ very' good; and
‖the bad‖ very bad, which cannot be eaten |for badness|.
[4] Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

[5] ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh God of Israel,
<Like these' good' figs> ‖so‖ will I regard them of Judah who are carried into captivity, whom I have sent out of this place into the land of the Chaldeans, |for good|. [6] Therefore will I set mine eye[a] upon them, |for good|, and will bring them back upon this land,— and will build them up, and not pull them down, and will plant them, and not root them up;
[7] and will give them a heart, to know |me|, that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
So shall they become my' people,
And ‖I‖ will become their' God;
for they will return unto me with all their heart.

[8] And <like the bad figs, which cannot be eaten |for badness|>
Surely ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh—
‖so‖ will I deliver up Zedekiah king of Judah, and his princes, and the remnant of Jerusalem, that remain in this land, and them who are dwelling in the land of Egypt; [9] yea I will deliver them up, as a terror of calamity, to all the kingdoms of the earth,—as a reproach, and as a by-word, as[b] a mockery and as a contempt, in every place whither I will drive them; [10] and I will send among them, sword, famine[c] and pestilence, — until they are consumed from off the soil, which I gave to them, and to their fathers.

§ 20. Jeremiah sums up the Messages he had delivered against Judah and Jerusalem, from the thirteenth Year of Josiah to the fourth of Jehoiakim; declaring that, as these Messages had been unheeded, the threatened Chaldean Invasion must needs come, but the Captivity in Babylon should be limited to Seventy Years. The Prophet passes the Cup of Indignation round to the Nations, beginning at Jerusalem, and significantly ending with Sheshach (or Babylon, chap. li. 41).

25 1 The word, which came upon[a] Jeremiah, concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah,
—‖the same‖ was the first year of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon; 2 which [word] Jeremiah the prophet spake' concerning all[b] the people of Judah, and against[c] all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying:—

3 <From the thirteenth year of Josiah son of Amon king of Judah, even until this day, the which is the twenty-third year> hath the word of Yahweh come' unto me; and I have spoken unto you, |betimes| speaking, yet have ye not hearkened. 4 And Yahweh sent' unto you, all his servants the prophets, |betimes| sending, though ye hearkened not, neither inclined ye your ear' to hear:
5 saying,—
Return, I pray you, every one from his wicked' way and from the wickedness of your doings,
So shall ye remain on the soil which Yahweh hath given' to you and to your fathers,—even from age to age;
6 But do not go away after other' gods, to serve them, and to bow down to them,— So shall ye not provoke me to anger with the work of your hands, and I will not bring calamity upon you;
7 Howbeit ye hearkened not unto me,
Declareth Yahweh,—
that ye might provoke me to anger with the work of your hands, unto your own hurt.

8 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,—
<Because ye have not heard my words>, 9 Behold me! sending and fetching all the families of the North,
Declareth Yahweh,
and Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, my
servant,
And I will bring them in against this land, and against its inhabitants, and against all these nations, |round about|,—
And I will devote them to destruction, and make them an astonishment and a hissing, and age-abiding desolations.

10 And I will banish from among them—
The voice of joy, and the voice of gladness,
The voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride,—
The sound of the millstones, and the light of the lamp:[a] 11 So shall all this land become a desolation, an astonishment,[b]
And these nations shall serve the king of Babylon, seventy years.

12 And it shall come to pass—
<When the seventy years are fulfilled>
I will visit upon the king of Babylon and upon that nation,
Declareth Yahweh,
their iniquity, and upon the land of the Chaldeans,—and I will turn it into age-abiding desolations.
13 So will I bring upon that land,
All my words which I have spoken against it,—
Even all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah hath prophesied against all the nations.
14 For many nations, and great kings, have used ‖even them‖ as slaves,
So will I recompense to them—
According to their deed, and
According to the work of their own hands.

15 For ‖thus‖ said Yahweh, God of Israel unto
me,
Take this cup of indignation' wine, out of my hand,—and cause all the nations unto whom
I' am sending thee |to drink it|:
16 Yea they shall drink, and reel to and fro, and act as madmen, because of the sword which I' am sending between them.

17 So I took the cup out of the hand of Yahweh,— and caused all the nations, unto whom Yahweh had sent me, |to drink|: 18 [to wit, said he]— Jerusalem, and the cities of Judah, and her kings, her[c] princes,—making them a desolation, an astonishment, a hissing, and a contempt, |as at this day|;
19 Pharaoh king of Egypt, and his servants, and his princes, and all his people;
20 And all the Bedawin,[d] and all the kings of the land of Uz,—and all the kings of the land of the Philistines, even Ashkelon, and Gaza, and Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod;
21 Edom and Moab, and the sons of Ammon;
22 And all the kings of Tyre, and all the kings

26 And all the kings of the North, the near and the far, every man with his brother, and all the kingdoms of the earth, which are on the face of the ground;
And |the king of Sheshach|[c] shall drink |after them|.[d]

27 Therefore shalt thou say unto them—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—
Drink ye and be drunken, and vomit, and fall, and rise not,—because of the sword' which I' am sending between you.

28 And it shall be <when they shall refuse to take the cup at thy hand, to drink> then shalt thou say unto them—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
Ye shall ‖certainly drink‖;
29 For lo! <with the city on which my Name hath been called> am I' making a beginning of sending calamity,
And shall ‖ye‖ be held ‖guiltless‖?[e]
Ye shall not be held guiltless:
For  am I' proclaiming against all the inhabitants of the earth,
Declareth Yahweh of hosts.
30 ‖Thou‖ therefore, shalt prophesy against them all these words,—and shalt say unto them—
‖Yahweh‖ <from on high> will roar,
Yea <from his holy' habitation> will utter his voice,
He will ‖roar mightily‖ over his home,[f]
<With a shout as of them who tread the winepress>[g] will he answer unto all the inhabitants of the earth.

31 There hath come in a tumult, as far as the end of the earth,
For  hath Yahweh |with the nations|,
‖Himself‖ hath entered' into judgment with all flesh,—
<As for the lawless> he hath delivered them to the sword,
Declareth Yahweh.
32 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
Lo! ‖calamity‖! going forth from nation to nation,—
And ‖a great tempest‖ shall be stirred up, out of the remote parts of the earth.

33 Then shall the slain of Yahweh <in that day> be from one end of the earth, even unto the other end of the earth,—
They shall not be lamented, nor gathered together, nor buried,
<As dung, on the face of the ground> shall they serve.

34 Howl, ye shepherds, and make outcry,
And roll in the dust, ye illustrious of the flock,
Because your days for being slaughtered |are fulfilled,—
Therefore will I break you in pieces,[a] and ye shall fall, like a precious vessel!
35 Then shall place of refuge vanish from the shepherds,
And escape, from the illustrious of the flock.
36 The voice of the outcry of the shepherds!
Yea the howling of the illustrious of the flock!—
Because Yahweh is laying waste the grounds where they fed.
37 Then shall be silenced the prosperous pastures,[b]—
Because of the fierceness of the anger of Yahweh.
38 He hath left, as a lion, his covert,
For their land hath become a horror,
Because of the fierceness of oppression,[c] and Because of the fierceness of his anger.

5 To hearken unto the words of my servants

you, even[a] |betimes| sending, though ye have not hearkened>
6 Then I will make this house like Shiloh,[b]—
And <this city> will I make a contempt′ to all the nations of the earth.

7 So the priests and the prophets, and all the people, heard′ Jeremiah, speaking these words in the house of Yahweh. 8 And it came to pass <when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking all that Yahweh had commanded [him] to speak unto[c] all the people> that the priests, and the prophets, and all the people,
|laid hold of him|, saying—
Thou shalt ‖surely die‖!

have heard, with your own ears.
12 Then spake Jeremiah, unto all the princes′ and unto all the people, saying,— ‖Yahweh‖ sent me to prophesy against this house, and against this city, all the words that ye have heard.
13 ‖Now‖ therefore, amend your ways, and your doings, and hearken′ unto the voice of Yahweh your God,—that Yahweh may repent him, as to the calamity′ which he hath spoken concerning you.
14 But <I> behold me! in your hand,—do with me as may be good and right in your eyes;
15 |Only|, ye must ‖know‖ that
<If |ye| do put |me| to death> verily <innocent blood> are ye′ laying upon yourselves, and against this city, and against her inhabitants,—for <of a truth> did Yahweh send′ me unto you, to speak in your ears, |all these words|.
16 Then said the princes, and all the people, unto the priests, and unto the prophets,—
There is nothing in this man, worthy of death, for <in the name of Yahweh our God> hath he spoken unto us.

17 Then rose up men, from among the elders of the land, and spake unto all the convocation of the people, saying:
18 ‖Micah[a] the Morashtite‖ was prophesying, in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah,—and he spake unto all the people of Judah, saying,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts—
‖Zion‖ <as a field> shall be plowed′,
And ‖Jerusalem‖ <into heaps of ruins> shall be turned,
And ‖the mountain of the house‖ [be] like mounds in a jungle.[b]
19 Did Hezekiah king of Judah and all Judah
‖put him to death‖? Did he not revere
Yahweh, and appease the face of Yahweh?
And did not Yahweh repent′ him, as to the calamity which he had spoken against them?
‖We‖ therefore, are doing a great wickedness,[c] against our own lives![d]
20 There was′, however, ‖a man‖ prophesying in the name of Yahweh, Urijah, son of Shemaiah,[e] of Keriath-jearim,—who prophesied, against this city, and against this land, according to all the words of Jeremiah. 21 And <when King Jehoiakim, and all his mighty men, and all the princes, heard′ his words> then the king sought′ to put him to death,— but Urijah heard′, and feared, and fled, and entered Egypt. 22 Then did King Jehoiakim send men to Egypt,—even Elnathan son of Achbor, and certain men with him, into Egypt, 23 and they brought forth Urijah out of Egypt, and took him in unto King Jehoiakim, who smote him with the sword,—and cast out his dead body among the graves of the sons of the people.[f]
24 |Howbeit| ‖the hand of Ahikam, son of Shaphan‖ turned out to be with Jeremiah,— so as not to give him up into the hand of the people, to put him to death.

§ 22. Jeremiah, making Symbolic Bonds and Bars, prophetically charges the Kings of Edom, Moab, Ammon, Tyre and Zidon to submit to Nebuchadnezzar, in spite of False Prophets counselling resistance. A similar Charge to the Priests and People of Jerusalem to disregard their False Prophets: the Temple Vessels shall not soon be brought back; but those still left shall be taken.

27 1 <In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim[g] son of Josiah, king of Judah> came this word unto Jeremiah,[h] from Yahweh, saying:
2 ‖Thus‖ said Yahweh unto me,
Make thee, bonds and bars, and put them upon thine own neck.

Then shalt thou send them unto the king of Edom, and unto the king of Moab, and unto the king of the sons of Ammon, and unto the king of Tyre, and unto the king of Zidon,—by the hand of messengers[a] coming into Jerusalem, unto Zedekiah king of Judah. 4 And thou shalt give them charge, unto their lords, saying,—

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
‖Thus‖ shall ye say unto your lords:—

‖I‖ made The earth—
The man and the beast that are on the face of the[b] earth—
By my great power,
And by mine outstretched arm,—
And gave it to whomsoever was right in mine own eyes.

‖Now‖ therefore, ‖I‖ have given all these lands, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar[c] king of Babylon, my servant,—

Moreover also| <the wild beast of the field> have I given him, to serve him.

Therefore shall all the nations |serve him|, and his son, and his son's son,—until the time even of his own land ‖itself‖ arrive, when many nations and great kings |shall use him as a slave|.

And it shall come to pass, that <the nation or kingdom which will not serve him, even Nebuchadnezzar[d] king of Babylon, and that will not put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon>,—<with sword, and with famine, and with pestilence> will I bring punishment upon that nation,
Declareth Yahweh,
until I have consumed them by his hand.

‖Ye‖ therefore, do not ye hearken unto your prophets, nor unto your diviners, nor unto your dreams, nor unto your users of hidden arts, nor unto your mutterers of incantations,—in that ‖they‖ are speaking unto you, saying,

Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon;

<for falsehood> are they' prophesying unto you,—that ye may be far removed from off your own soil, and I drive you out, and ye be destroyed.

But <the nation that shall bring its neck into the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him> I will let them remain in quietness upon their own soil,
Declareth Yahweh,
and they shall till it, and dwell therein.

So <unto Zedekiah king of Judah> spake according to all these words, saying,—

Bring your necks into the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people, |and live|!

13 |Wherefore| should ye die, ‖thou, and thy people‖, by sword, by[a] famine, and by pestilence, — as Yahweh hath spoken, against the nation that will not serve the king of Babylon?

14 Do not, then, hearken unto the words of the prophets who are speaking unto you, saying—

Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon,— for <falsehood> are they' prophesying unto you. 15 For I have not sent them,

Declareth Yahweh,
but they' are prophesying in my name, |falsely|,—to the end I may drive you out and ye be destroyed, ‖ye, and the prophets who are prophesying unto you‖.

16 Also <unto the priests, and unto all this people> spake I, saying,

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,

Do not hearken unto the words of your prophets, who are prophesying unto you, saying,

Lo! ‖the vessels of the house of Yahweh‖ are to be brought back out of Babylon, |now, quickly|;

for <falsehood> are they' prophesying unto you. 17 Do not hearken unto them, serve the king of Babylon, |and live|! |wherefore| should this city become a desolation?

18 But <if ‖prophets‖ they are', and if the word of Yahweh is' with them> let them intercede, I pray you, with Yahweh of hosts, that the vessels which are left remaining in the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem,[b] |come not| into Babylon. 19 For

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts—

<Concerning the pillars, and concerning the sea, and concerning the stands,—and concerning the residue of the vessels that remain in this city[c] 20 which Nebuchadnezzar[d] king of Babylon took not, when he carried away captive Jeconiah[e] son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, from Jerusalem to Babylon,—with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem> 21 Yea—

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel—

<Concerning the vessels that are left, [in] the[f] house of Yahweh, and the house of the king of Judah, and Jerusalem>

22 <Into Babylon> shall they be taken,
And <there> shall they remain,
Until the day that I visit |them|,
Declareth Yahweh,
When I will bring them up, and restore them unto this place.

§ 23. The Prophet Hananiah, daring to foretell in the Divine Name, the Breaking of Nebuchadnezzar's Yoke within two Years, Jeremiah is charged to confront and contradict him, and to foretell Hananiah's Death that Year—which comes to pass.

28 1 And it came to pass <in that year, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year, in the fifth month> that Hananiah[a] son of Azzur, the prophet who was of Gibeon, |spake unto me| in the house of Yahweh, before the eyes of the priests and all the people, saying:

2 ‖Thus‖ speaketh Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel, saying,—
I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon:
3 <within the space of two years> I' am bringing back into this place, all the vessels of the house of Yahweh,—which Nebuchadnezzar[b] king of Babylon |hath taken away| from this place, and carried into Babylon. 4 <Jeconiah also, son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, with all the captives[c] of Judah who have entered Babylon> am I' bringing back into this place,
Declareth Yahweh,—
for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon.

5 Then said Jeremiah the prophet, <unto Hananiah the prophet, in the presence[d] of the priests, and in the presence[d] of all the people, who were standing in the house of Yahweh> 6 then said Jeremiah the prophet,—
Amen! ‖So‖ may Yahweh do! Yahweh establish' thy words[e] which thou hast prophesied, by bringing back the vessels of the house of Yahweh and all them of the captivity, from Babylon, unto this place.
7 |Nevertheless| hear thou, I pray thee, this word, which I' am speaking in thine ears,—and in the ears of all the people:
8 ‖The prophets who were before me and before thee, from age-past times‖ <when they prophesied against many lands, and concerning great kingdoms, of war, and of calamity,[f] and of pestilence> 9 ‖the prophet who prophesied of peace‖ <when the word of the prophet was fulfilled'> then was known' the prophet, whom Yahweh had sent |in truth|.

10 Then Hananiah the prophet took the yoke' from off the neck of Jeremiah the prophet,—and brake it. 11 And Hananiah spake before the eyes of all the people, saying,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
<In like manner> will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, within the space of two years, from off the neck of all the nations.
And Jeremiah the prophet |went his way|.

12 Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah <after that Hananiah the prophet had broken the yoke from off the neck of Jeremiah the prophet> saying:
13 Go and speak unto Hananiah, saying—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
<Yokes of wood> thou hast broken,—
But thou shalt make, in their stead, yokes of iron!
14 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—
<A yoke of iron> have I put upon the neck of all these nations, to serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and they shall serve him!
|Moreover also| <the wild beast of the field> have I given to him.
15 Then said Jeremiah the prophet unto Hananiah the prophet,— Hear, I pray thee, Hananiah:
Yahweh |hath not sent thee|,
‖Thou‖ therefore, hast caused this people to trust in falsehood! 16 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Behold me! driving thee away from off the face of the ground,—
<This year> art thou' to die,
Because <revolt> hast thou spoken against Yahweh.
17 So Hananiah the prophet |died| the same year, in the seventh' month.

§ 24. Jeremiah's Letter to the Captives in Babylon, charging them to settle down and seek the Welfare of the City where they sojourn, assuring them of a Return after Seventy Years, and warning them against False Prophets—naming Ahab, Zedekiah, and Shemaiah.

29 1 Now ‖these‖ are the words of the letter which Jeremiah the prophet sent' from Jerusalem,—unto the residue of the elders of the captivity, and unto the priests, and unto the prophets, and unto all the people, whom Nebuchadnezzar had carried away captive from Jerusalem to Babylon; 2 after that Jeconiah the king and the queen-mother and the eunuchs, the princes of Judah and Jerusalem and the craftsmen and the smiths, |had gone forth| from Jerusalem;— 3 by the hand of Elasah son of Shaphan and Gemariah[a] son of Hilkiah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent' unto Babylon, to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, saying:—

4 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
Unto all the captivity whom I have suffered to be carried away captive from Jerusalem to Babylon:

[a] Heb.: hănanyâh, 26; 3, hănanyâhu.

[a] Heb.: ʾelʿasah, here only; 4, ʾelʿazâr.

5 Build ye houses, and dwell [in them],—
And plant ye gardens, and eat the fruit thereof;
6 Take ye wives, and beget sons and daughters,
And take wives ‖for your sons‖ and <your daughters> give ye to husbands,
That they may bear sons and daughters,—
And so become ye many there, and do not become few;
7 And seek the welfare of the city whither I have caused you to be carried away captives, and pray for her unto Yahweh,—
For <in her welfare> shall ye' have welfare.

8 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
Let not your prophets that are in your midst, nor your diviners, beguile' you,—
Neither hearken ye unto your dreams, which ye' are dreaming;[a]
9 For <falsely> are they' prophesying unto you, in my name,—
I have not sent them, Declareth Yahweh.

10 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
That <as soon as there are fulfilled to Babylon seventy years>[b] I will visit you, — and establish for you, my good word, by causing you to return unto this place.
11 For ‖I‖ know the plans which I' am planning for you, Declareth Yahweh,— Plans of welfare, and not of calamity,
To give you a future and a hope.[c]
12 So shall ye call upon me,—
And go and pray unto me,—
And I will hearken unto you;
13 So shall ye seek me, and find,
For[d] ye will enquire after me, with all your heart;
14 And I will be found of you, Declareth Yahweh,
And will turn back your captivity,[e]
And will gather you out of all the nations, and out of all the places, whither I have driven you, Declareth Yahweh,
And will bring you back into the place whence I had caused you to be carried away captive:
15 Because ye have said,—
Yahweh hath raised us up prophets in Babylon.

16 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Against the king who is sitting on the throne of David, and Against all the people who are remaining in this city,—your brethren who have not gone forth with you into captivity:
17 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
Behold me! sending upon them, sword, famine,[f] and pestilence,—
So will I make them like the horrid figs,[g] that cannot be eaten for badness;

18 Therefore will I pursue them, with sword, with famine,[a] and with pestilence,—
And will make them a terror to all the kingdoms of the earth,
A curse and an astonishment and a hissing and a reproach, among all the nations whither I have driven them:
19 Because they hearkened not unto my words, Declareth Yahweh,— which I sent unto them[b] by my servants the prophets, |betimes| sending them, yet hearkened they not, Declareth Yahweh.

20 ‖Ye‖ therefore, hear ye the word of Yahweh, all ye of the captivity, whom I have sent[c] from Jerusalem to Babylon:
21 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,
Concerning Ahab son of Kolaiah, and concerning Zedekiah son of Maaseiah, who are prophesying to you in my name |a falsehood|,
Behold me! delivering them into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar[d] king of Babylon, and he will smite them before your eyes:
22 So shall there be taken up—from them—a curse,[e] by all of the captivity of Judah who are in Babylon, saying,—
Yahweh |make thee| like Zedekiah and like Ahab,
Whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire!
23 Because they have committed vileness in Israel,
And have committed adultery with the wives of their neighbours,
And have spoken, as a word in my name, ‖a falsehood‖ |which I commanded them not|,—
And ‖I‖ am one who knoweth—and a witness, Declareth Yahweh.

24 Also <unto Shemaiah the Nehelamite> shalt thou speak, saying:
25 ‖Thus‖ speaketh Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel, saying,—
<Because ‖thou‖ hast sent, in thine own name, |letters|, unto all the people who are in Jerusalem, and unto Zephaniah son of Maaseiah the priest, and unto all the priests, saying:
26 ‖Yahweh‖ hath made thee priest, instead of Jehoiada the priest, that ye should be deputies in the house of Yahweh, to any man who is raving and prophesying, so shalt thou put him into the stocks and into the pillory:
27 ‖Now‖ therefore, |why| hast thou not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth, who is prophesying unto you? 28 For <on this account> hath he sent unto us in Babylon, saying,—

'Tis |long|!
Build ye houses, and dwell [in them],
And plant gardens, and eat the fruit thereof.
29 And Zephaniah the priest hath read this letter in the ears of Jeremiah the prophet>
30 Therefore hath the word of Yahweh come unto Jeremiah, saying:
31 Send thou unto all them of the captivity, saying,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Concerning Shemaiah the Nehelamite,—
<Because Shemaiah |hath prophesied to you|, when ‖I‖ had not sent him,
And hath caused you to trust in falsehood>
32 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
Behold me! bringing punishment upon Shemaiah the Nehelamite, and upon his seed,
He shall have no man to dwell in the midst of this people,
Nor shall he see the good that I am about to do for my people,
Declareth Yahweh;
Because <revolt> hath he spoken against Yahweh.

§ 25. A Scroll of Consolation. With brief Allusions to Israel's Sin and Punishment are given glowing Promises of her Deliverance, Healing, Return, and Permanent Rest, the Appearance of her Illustrious Ruler, the Inclusion of Samaria and Ephraim, the Consoling of Weeping Rachel, and finally a Refrain of Coming Days when there shall be a re-sowing of both Israel and Judah with Men; and a making, with both, a New Covenant, which, even in its outward Provisions, is confirmed by reference to the Stability of the Ordinances of Heaven.

30 1 The word which came unto Jeremiah from Yahweh, saying:—
2 ‖Thus‖ speaketh Yahweh,
God of Israel, saying,—
Write thee all the words which I have spoken unto thee, in a scroll;
3 For lo! |days are coming|,
Declareth Yahweh,
when I will turn the captivity of my people Israel and Judah,
Saith Yahweh,—
and will bring them back into the land which I gave to their fathers, that they might possess it.
4 Now ‖these‖ are the words which Yahweh hath spoken against Israel and against Judah:
5 Yea ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh,
<A voice of trembling> have we heard,
Dread, and not welfare!
6 Ask, I pray you, and see, whether a male |travaileth with child|!
Why' have I seen
Every man with his hands upon his loins, like a woman in travail, and Every face turned into ghastliness?
7 Alas! for ‖great‖ is that day, so that none is like it,[a]—
Yea |a time of anguish| it is' for Jacob,
But <out of it> shall he be saved.
8 And it shall come to pass, in that day,
Declareth Yahweh of hosts,
That I will break his yoke from off thy neck,
And <thy bonds> will I tear off,—
And foreigners |shall use him as a slave no more|;
9 But they shall serve Yahweh their God,—and David their king, whom I will raise up unto them.
10 ‖Thou‖ therefore, do not fear, O my Servant Jacob,
Urgeth Yahweh,
Neither be thou dismayed, O Israel,
For behold me! saving thee from afar,
And thy seed out of the land of their captivity,—
Then shall Jacob return, and rest[b] and be quiet,
And there shall be none to make him afraid;
11 For <with thee> am I,
Declareth Yahweh,
To save thee,—
<Though I make an end of all the nations whither I have scattered thee>[c]
Yet' will I not <of thee> make an end,
But will chastise thee in measure, not holding thee ‖guiltless‖![d]
12 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Incurable' is thine injury,—
Grievous' is thy wound:
13 There is none' to plead thy cause, for binding thee up,[e]—
<Healing bandages> hast thou none:
14 ‖All thy lovers‖ have forgotten thee,
<Thyself> do they not seek,—
For <With the wounding of an enemy> have I wounded thee,
|With the correction of one who is cruel|,
Because of the abounding of |thine iniquity|,
[Because] numerous' have been thy sins.
15 Why' shouldst thou make outcry over thine injury,
Incurable' is thy pain?
<Because of the abounding of thine iniquity,
[Because] numerous' have been thy sins>
Have I done these things unto thee.

[a] Or: "too great to have one like it."

[e] Some scholars place this clause at the head of next line.

16 ‖Therefore‖ ‖all who devour thee‖ shall be devoured,
And ‖all thine adversaries—all of them‖ <into captivity> shall depart,—
So shall |they who plundered thee| |be plundered|,
And <all who preyed upon thee> will I deliver up as a prey.
17 For I will put a bandage upon thee,
And <from thy wounds> will I heal thee,
Declareth Yahweh,—
<Because <An outcast> they called thee,
'Tis ‖Zion‖! who hath |none to ask for her welfare|>
18 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Behold me! bringing back the captivity of the tents of Jacob,
And <on his habitations> will I have compassion,—
So shall the city be built, |upon her own mound|,
And ‖the citadel‖[a] <upon its own site> shall remain:
19 So shall there proceed from them Thanksgiving,[b] and
The sound of them who make merry,—
And I will multiply them, and they shall not become few,
And will make them honourable, and they shall not be despised:[c]
20 And |his sons| shall come to be |as aforetime|,
And ‖his assembly‖ <before me> shall continue,—
And I will bring punishment on all his oppressors;
21 And |his illustrious one| shall spring |from himself|,
And ‖his ruler‖ <from his own midst> shall proceed,
And I will bring him near, and he shall approach unto me,—
For who is' there that hath pledged[d] his own heart to approach unto me?
Demandeth Yahweh:
22 So shall ye become my' people;
And ‖I‖ will become your' God.

23 Lo! |the tempest of Yahweh|!
‖Indignation‖ hath come forth,
‖A tempest rolling itself upward‖,[e]—
<Upon the head of the lawless ones> shall it hurl itself down!
24 The fierceness of the anger of Yahweh will |not turn back|,
Until he hath executed, nor
Until he hath established
The purposes of his heart,—
<In the afterpart of the days> shall ye understand it.[f]

31 1 <At that time> Declareth Yahweh,
I will become a God, to all the families of Israel;
And ‖they‖ shall become my' people.
2 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
There hath found favour in the desert, a people escaped from the sword,—
I must go to cause him, |even Israel|, to rest.
3 <From afar> |Yahweh| hath appeared unto me.

Yea <with an age-abiding love> have I loved thee,
<For this cause> have I prolonged to thee lovingkindness.
4 <Again> will I build thee, and thou shalt be built, thou virgin, Israel,— <Again> shalt thou deck thyself with thy timbrels,
And go forth in the dance of them that make merry:
5 <Again> shalt thou plant vineyards' in the mountains[a] of Samaria,—
The planters have planted, and have laid open [the vineyards].[b]
6 For it is' a day the watchmen have proclaimed throughout the hill country of Ephraim,— Arise ye, and let us go up to Zion, unto Yahweh our God.

7 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Shout ye for Jacob, with gladness,
Make shrill thy voice, as the head of the nations,—
Publish ye, praise ye, and say,
Save thou, O Yahweh, thy people, the remnant of Israel.

8 Behold me! bringing them in out of the land of the North,
And I will gather them out of the remote parts of the earth,
<Among them> the blind and the lame,
The woman with child and she that giveth birth |together|,—
‖A great convocation‖[c] shall return hither:
9 <With weeping> shall they come in,
And <with supplications> will I lead them,
I will bring them unto rivers of waters,
By a smooth way, wherein they shall not stumble,—
For I have become |to Israel| ‖a father‖,
And <as for Ephraim>[d] ‖my firstborn‖ is he!

10 Hear ye the word of Yahweh, O ye nations,
And declare ye in the Coastlands, afar off,—
And say—
‖He that scattereth Israel‖ will gather him,
And watch over him, as a shepherd his flock;
11 For Yahweh hath ransomed' Jacob,—
And redeemed him from the hand of one stronger than he.

12 Then shall they come in, and shall shout in triumph on the height of Zion,
And shall stream[a] unto the goodness of Yahweh,
To the wheat, and to the new wine, and to the oil, and to the young of the flocks and of the herds,—
So shall their soul become like a garden well watered,
And they shall not again' languish |any more|.
13 ||Then|| shall |the virgin| rejoice |in the dance|,
And young men and elders, [rejoice] |together|,—
And I will turn their mourning into gladness, and will comfort them,
And will make them rejoice from their sorrow;
14 Then will I satiate the soul of the priests, |with fatness|,
And ||my people|| <with my goodness> shall be satisfied, Declareth Yahweh.

15 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh—
||A voice|| <in Ramah> is heard,
Wailing, bitter weeping,
Rachel, weeping for her children,—
She refuseth to be comforted for her children,
For they are' not!

16 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh—
Restrain thy voice from weeping,
And thine eyes from tears,—
For there is' a reward for thy labour, Declareth Yahweh,
So they shall return from the land of the enemy:
17 Yea there is hope for thy future,[b] Declareth Yahweh,—
And thy sons shall return to their own boundary.

18 I have ||heard|| Ephraim, bemoaning himself,
Thou hast chastised me, and I have been chastised,
Like a bullock |not broken in|.
Suffer[c] me to return, that I may' return,
For ||thou|| art Yahweh my God.

19 Surely <after my return> I was filled with regret,
And <after I came to know myself> I smote upon the thigh,—
I turned pale, and was even confounded,
For I had borne the reproach of my youthful days.

20 Was Ephraim ||a very precious son to me||?
Was he a most delightful' child?
For <as often as I have spoken against him> I have ||remembered|| him |again|!
<For this cause> have my affections been deeply moved for him,
I must have ||compassion|| upon him, Declareth Yahweh.

21 Erect thee waymarks,
Set thee up finger-posts,
Apply thy heart to
The highway—
The road by which thou didst depart,—
Return, O virgin of Israel,
Return unto these thy cities.
22 |How long| wilt thou turn hither and thither,
O apostate daughter?
For Yahweh hath created' a new thing in the earth,
||A female|| defendeth |a strong man|!

23 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel,
||Again|| shall they say this word, in the land of Judah and in the cities thereof, when I cause their captivity to return,
Yahweh |bless thee|,
Thou home of righteousness!
Thou mountain of holiness!
24 Then shall there dwell throughout Judah itself and all the cities thereof, |together|,— Husbandmen, who shall move about with a flock;
25 For I have satiated the weary soul,—
And <every languishing soul> have I filled.
26 <Upon this> I awoke and considered,—
And ||my sleep|| had been sweet to me![a]

27 Lo! |days are coming|, Declareth Yahweh—
That I will sow
The house of Israel, and
The house of Judah,
With the seed of men, and
With the seed of beasts;
28 And it shall come to pass, that—
<Just as I watched[b] over them, to root up and to break down and to tear out and to destroy, and to break in pieces>
||So|| will I watch[b] over them, to build and to plant, Declareth Yahweh.
29 <In those days> shall they say no more,
||Fathers|| did eat sour grapes,—
And ||children's teeth|| are blunted![c]
30 But ||every one|| <for his own iniquity> shall die,—
<Any human being who eateth the sour grapes> ||his own teeth|| shall be blunted.[c]

31 Lo! |days are coming|, Declareth Yahweh,—
When I will solemnise—
With the house of Israel, and
With the house of Judah,
A new' covenant:

[a] Same word as in Is. ii. 2; Mi. iv. 1, and chap. li. 44.
[b] Cp. chap. xxix. 11.
[c] Or: "Cause."

[a] Had the foregoing prophecy, then, been conveyed in a dream? It would appear so.
[b] Cp. chap. i. 12 (same word).
[c] Cp. Exe. xviii. 2, 3.

Not like the covenant which I solemnised with their fathers,
In the day when I grasped their hand, to bring them forth' out of the land of Egypt,—
In that ‖they‖ brake my covenant,
Though ‖I‖ had become a husband unto them,[a] Declareth Yahweh.
For ‖this‖ is the covenant which I will solemnise with the house[b] of Israel, after those days, Declareth Yahweh,
I will put my law[c] within' them,
Yea <on their heart> will I write it,—
So will I become their' God,
And ‖they‖ shall become my' people.
Then shall they no longer teach
Every man his neighbour, and
Every man his brother, saying,
Know ye Yahweh,—
For ‖they all‖ shall know |me|,
From the least of them,
Even unto the greatest of them,
Declareth Yahweh,
For I will forgive their iniquity,
And <their sin> will I remember |no more|.

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Who hath given the sun' for a light by day,
The ordinances[d] of the moon and the stars, for a light by night,—
Who excited the sea, and the waves thereof roared'
‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is his name:—
<If these ordinances depart from before me>
Declareth Yahweh,—
‖The seed of Israel also‖ may cease from being a nation before me |all the days|.

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
<If the heavens above |can be measured|,
Or the foundations of the earth beneath |be searched out|>
‖I also‖ may reject all the seed of Israel, for all that they have done,
Declareth Yahweh.

Lo! |days are coming|.[e]
Declareth Yahweh,
That the city' shall be built for Yahweh,
From the tower of Hananeel,
[As far as][f] the gate of the corner;
Then shall go forth again the measuring-line straight forward,
Over the[g] hill Gareb,
And it shall go round to Goah;

40 And ‖all the vale of the dead bodies, and of[f] the ashes, and all the fields[a] as far as the Kidron torrent-bed, as far as the horse-gate corner on the east‖,
Shall be holy unto Yahweh,—
It shall not be rooted up, nor thrown down, any more, |unto times age-abiding|.

§ 26. When requested by King Zedekiah to say why he had been prophesying against Jerusalem and the King, Jeremiah narrates how he had, under Divine Guidance, redeemed his Family's Property at Anathoth: this enables him to return to his Royal Questioner a circumstantial though indirect Reply.

32 1 The word which came unto Jeremiah from Yahweh, in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah,—‖the same‖ was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar; 2 and ‖then‖ |the forces of the king of Babylon| were besieging Jerusalem, —and ‖Jeremiah the prophet‖ had been shut up in the guard-court, which was in the house of the king of Judah; 3 whom Zedekiah king of Judah |had shut up|, saying,—
Why' art thou' prophesying, saying,—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Behold me! giving up this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall capture it; 4 and ‖Zedekiah king of Judah‖ shall not be delivered out of the hand of the Chaldeans,—for he shall be ‖wholly given up‖ into the hand of the king of Babylon, and shall speak—the mouth of the one to the mouth of the other, and the eyes of the one <into the eyes of the other> shall look; 5 and <into Babylon> shall he lead Zedekiah, and ‖there‖ shall he remain, until[*] I visit him, Declareth Yahweh,— <though ye fight with the Chaldeans> ye shall not prosper?

6 And Jeremiah said',—
The word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:
7 Lo! ‖Hanameel son of Shallum thine uncle‖ hath come unto thee, saying,— Buy thee my field that is in Anathoth, for ‖thine‖ is the right of redemption, to buy it.
8 So Hanameel son of mine uncle |came unto me|, according to the word of Yahweh, into the guard-court, and said unto me,
Buy, I pray thee, my field that is in Anathoth, which is in the land of Benjamin, for ‖thine‖ is the right of inheritance, and ‖thine‖ the redemption,—buy it for thyself.

[a] So in some cod. (w. 7 ear. pr. edns.) both written and read. M.C.T. writes: "dry places"; but reads: "fields." Cp. 2 K. xxiii. 4.

So I knew, that <the word of Yahweh> it was'.
9 And I bought the field, from Hanameel son of mine uncle, that was in Anathoth,—and weighed him the silver, <seventeen shekels> was the silver;
10 and I wrote in the scroll, and sealed it, and took in attestation |witnesses|,—and weighed the silver in the balances.
11 Then took I the scroll of purchase', both that which was sealed — the title and the conditions — and that which was open;
12 and gave the scroll of purchase', unto Baruch son of Neriah[a] son of Mahseiah, in the sight of Hanameel mine uncle['s son],[b] and in the sight of the witnesses, who subscribed[c] the scroll of purchase, — in[d] the sight of all the Jews, who were sitting in the guard-court.
13 Then charged I Baruch, in their sight, saying:
14 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel.
Take thou these scrolls, this scroll of purchase, even that which is sealed, and this scroll that is open, and put them in an earthen vessel,—that they may remain many days.
15 For
||Thus|| saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel:
||Again|| shall houses and fields and vineyards, be bought, in this land.
16 Then prayed I unto Yahweh,—after I had delivered the scroll of purchase, unto Baruch son of Neriah, saying:—
17 Alas! My Lord, Yahweh!
Lo! ||thou thyself|| didst make the heavens, and the earth, by thy great might, and by thine outstretched arm,—
There is |nothing| ||too wonderful for thee||:
18 Executing lovingkindness unto thousands,
But recompensing the iniquity of fathers, into the bosom of their children |after them|,[e]
Thou GOD, the great, the mighty,
||Yahweh of hosts|| is his name;
19 Great in counsel, and mighty in deed,—
Whose eyes are open on all the ways of the sons of men, to give unto every one
According to his ways, and
According to the fruit of his doings:
20 Who didst set signs and wonders, in the land of Egypt, |unto this day|, and in Israel, and among mankind,[f]—
And didst make for thyself a name, |as at this day|;
21 And didst bring forth thy people Israel, out of the land of Egypt,
With signs and with wonders, and
With a strong' hand, and
With an outstretched' arm, and
With great' terror;
22 And didst give unto them this land, which thou hadst sworn to their fathers to give unto them,—a land flowing with milk and honey;
23 And they came in and took possession of it,
But hearkened not unto thy voice,
Nor <in thy law>[a] did they walk,
<Nought of what thou hadst commanded them to do> did they do,—
And so thou hast caused to befall them, |all this calamity|.
24 Lo! the earthworks! they have entered the city, to capture it,
And ||the city|| hath been given into the hand of the Chaldeans, who are fighting against it, because of the sword and the famine and the pestilence,—
And so ||what thou didst speak|| hath come to pass,
And there' thou art, looking on!
25 Yet ||thou thyself|| saidst unto me, O My Lord, Yahweh,
Buy thee the field for silver,
And take in attestation ||witnesses||,—
Whereas ||the city|| hath been given into the hand of the Chaldeans!
26 Then came the word of Yahweh, unto Jeremiah,[b] saying:—
27 Lo! ||I|| am Yahweh, God of all flesh.—
<For me> is |any thing| too wonderful?
28 |Therefore|
||Thus|| saith Yahweh,—
Behold me! giving this city into the hand of the Chaldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and he shall capture it;
29 And the Chaldeans, who are fighting against this city,
|Shall enter|, and Shall set this city on fire and Shall consume it,—
With the houses on whose roofs they burned incense to Baal, and poured out drink-offerings to other' gods, that they might provoke me to anger;
30 For the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah have been nothing but doers of wickedness in my sight, from the days of their youth,—
For the sons of Israel have been doing

[b] On due consideration we may feel certain that Jeremiah's answer to Zedekiah included not only a rehearsal of the prophet's prayer (verses 16-25), but took in as well the answer of Yahweh (verses 27-44): in which case it is easy to conclude that the pronoun "me" must have originally appeared (in verse 26) where "Jeremiah" now stands; and where "me" still stands in Sep. and Vul.

nothing but provoke me to anger by the workmanship of their hands,
Declareth Yahweh;
31 For <According to mine anger, and According to mine indignation> hath been to me this city, from the day when they built it, even unto this day,—that I should pull it down from before my face: 32 because of all the wickedness of the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah, which they have done to provoke me to anger, ‖they, their kings, their princes, their priests, and their prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem‖:
33 Thus have they turned unto me the back, and not the face,—
<Though I instructed them, |betimes| instructing them>
Yet have they not' been hearkening, to receive correction;
34 But have set their abominations' in the house on which my name hath been called, |to defile it|;
35 And have built the high places of Baal, which are in the valley of Ben-hinnom,
To cause their sons and their daughters to pass through unto Molech,
Which I commanded them not,
Neither came it up on my heart,[a]
That they should do this horrible thing,—
Causing |Judah| to sin!
36 Now therefore‖ <because of this>—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
God of Israel,—
Concerning this city, whereof ye' are saying, It hath been delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon, by sword, and by famine, and by pestilence:
37 Behold me! gathering them out of all the lands, whither I have driven them—
In mine anger, and
In mine indignation, and
In great vexation,—
And I will cause them to return into this place,
And will make them dwell |securely|;
38 And they shall become my' people,—
And ‖I‖ will become their' God;
39 And I will give them one heart, and one way,
That they may revere |me|, all the days,—
For the good of them, and of their children after' them;
40 And I will solemnise to them, an age-abiding covenant,
That I will not turn away from following them, to do them good,—
But <the reverence of myself> will I put in their heart, so that they shall not turn away from me.
41 And I will rejoice over them, to do them good,—
And will plant them in this land, |in truth|, ‖with all my heart, and with all my soul‖.
42 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
<Like as I have brought upon this people' all this great calamity>
‖So‖ am I' bringing upon them all the good that I' am speaking concerning them.
43 Therefore shall fields be bought in this land,—whereof ye' are saying,
It is ‖a desolation‖,
Without man or beast,
It hath been given into the hand of the Chaldeans:
44 <Fields—for silver> shall men buy,
And write in scrolls,
And seal them,
And take in attestation ‖witnesses‖,
In the land of Benjamin, and
In the places round about Jerusalem, and
In the cities of Judah, and
In the cities of the hill country, and
In the cities of the lowland, and
In the cities of the South,—
For I will cause them of their captivity to return, Declareth Yahweh.

§ 27. More Consolation through the Imprisoned Prophet: Promises (with striking Change of Refrain) directed to both Israel and Judah, concerning David's Righteous Offspring, and concerning the Fulfilment of both the Davidic and Levitical Covenants—confirmed by the Covenant of Day and Night.

33 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto Jeremiah, the second time, when he' was yet' imprisoned in the guard-court, saying:
2 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, who doeth it,—
|Yahweh|,[a] who fashioneth it,
to establish it,
‖Yahweh‖ is his name:
3 Call unto me, that I may answer thee,—and tell thee things great and inaccessible, which thou hast not known.
4 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
God of Israel.
Concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the kings of Judah,—which are thrown down against the earthworks and against the sword:
5 ‖In entering to fight with[b] the Chaldeans‖ it is to fill them with the dead bodies of men, whom I have smitten in mine anger and in mine indignation, — and because of whom I have hidden my face from this city,—|by reason of all their wickedness|.

6 Behold me! laying upon her a bandage of healing, so will I heal them,—
And will reveal to them abundance of prosperity and truth;
7 And I will bring back
Them of the captivity of Judah, and
Them of the captivity of Israel,—
And I will build them, |as at the first|;
8 And I will purify them, from all their iniquity wherewith they have sinned against me,—
And I will grant pardon for all their iniquities, Wherewith they have sinned against me, and Wherewith they have transgressed against me;
9 So shall she become to me,—
A name of joy,
A praise, and
An adorning,
To all the nations of the earth,—
Who will hear all the good which I' am doing them,
And will dread and be deeply moved, over all the good' and over all the prosperity' which I' am causing her.

10 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
|Again| shall be heard in this place, <as to which ye' are saying,
‖Deserted‖ it is', without man or beast,
In the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem,
Which are desolate without man or inhabitant or beast>
11 The voice of joy, and the voice of gladness,
The voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride,[a]
The voice of them who are saying,
Praise ye Yahweh of hosts,
For good' is Yahweh,
For age-abiding' is his lovingkindness,[b]
[The voice] of them who are bringing a thank-offering into the house of Yahweh,—
For I will bring back the captives[c] of the land, |as at the first|, Saith Yahweh.

12 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
‖Again‖ shall there be in this place—
Which is deserted, without man or even beast—
And all the cities thereof,—
The home of shepherds, causing |flocks| to lie down.
13 <In the cities of the hill country,
In the cities of the lowland, and
In the cities of the South, and
In the land of Benjamin, and
In the places round about Jerusalem, and
In the cities of Judah>
|Again| shall the flock pass over the hands of the numberer, Saith Yahweh.

14 Lo! |days are coming|, Declareth Yahweh,— when I will establish my good word, which I have spoken—
As to the house of Israel,
And concerning the house of Judah:
15 <In those days, and at that time> will I cause to bud unto David,
A Bud[a] of righteousness,—
And he shall execute[b] justice and righteousness, in the land:
16 <In those days>
Judah shall be saved', and
‖Jerusalem‖ abide |securely|,—
And ‖this‖ is that which shall be proclaimed to her—‖Yahweh‖ our righteousness![c]

17 For ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
There shall not be wanting[d] to David,—
A man to sit upon the throne of the house of Israel;
18 Nor <to the priests the Levites> shall there be wanting—
A man, |before me|,
To offer an ascending-sacrifice, or
To make a perfume with a gift, or
To offer a [peace-] offering,[e] |all the days|!

19 And the word of Yahweh came unto Jeremiah, saying:
20 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
<If ye can break,
My covenant of the day, and
My covenant of the night,
That there be not day and night in their season>
21 ‖My covenant also‖ may be broken,
|With David my servant|,
That he shall not have a son, to reign upon his throne,—
And with the Levites[f] the priests, mine attendants:
22 <As |the host of the heavens| cannot be recorded',
Nor |the sand of the sea| be measured'>
‖So‖ will I multiply,
The seed of David my servant,
And the Levites who attend upon |me|.

23 And the word of Yahweh came unto Jeremiah, saying:
24 Hast thou not observed, what |this people| have spoken, saying,
<The two families which Yahweh did choose'> he hath even cast them off?

And so <my people> they despise, as though they could not again' become a nation in their sight!
25 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh,
<If <my covenant of day and night, the ordinances of the heavens and the earth>
I did not appoint>
26 <The seed of Jacob also, and of David my servant> might I cast off, so as not to take of his seed as rulers' unto the seed of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob,—
For I will bring back them of their captivity, and will have compassion upon
them.

§ 28. Two further Messages to King Zedekiah—the Latter based upon the Breach of Covenant by Princes and People as to letting their Bond-servants go free. The Solemnity of Covenanting portrayed.

34 1 The word which came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh, — when Nebuchadnezzar[a] king of Babylon and all his force and all the kingdoms of the earth the dominion of his hand, and all the peoples, were fighting[b] against Jerusalem and against all her cities, saying:
2 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh
God of Israel,
Go and speak unto Zedekiah, king of Judah,
—and say unto him—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh,
Behold me! giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he will burn it with fire;
3 And ||thou|| shalt not escape out of his hand,
For thou shalt be ||taken||,
And <into his hand> shalt thou be delivered,—
And ||thine own eyes|| <into the eyes of the king of Babylon> shall look,
And ||his mouth|| <with thy mouth> shall
speak,
And <Babylon> shalt thou enter.

4 |Nevertheless| hear the word of Yahweh,
O Zedekiah, king of Judah,—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh,
Concerning thee,
Thou shalt not die by the sword;
5 <In peace> shalt thou die,
And <with[c] the burnings made for thy fathers, the former kings who were before thee> ||so|| shall they make a burning unto thee,
And <with an Alas lord! shall they lament thee,—
Because of the word ||I|| have spoken,
Declareth Yahweh.

6 Then spake Jeremiah the prophet, unto Zedekiah king of Judah, all these words, in Jerusalem; 7 when ||the force of the king of Babylon|| was fighting[a] against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah that were left,— against Lachish and against Azekah, for ||they|| remained among the cities of Judah, as fortified'
cities.

8 The word which came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh, — <after that King Zedekiah had solemnised a covenant with all the people who were in Jerusalem, proclaiming unto them |liberty|: 9 that every man should let his servant and every man his handmaid, ||being a Hebrew or a Hebrewess|| |go free|,—so that no man should use them as slaves,[b] ||to wit
a Jew his brother||; 10 so then they hearkened
—even all the princes and all the people who had entered into the covenant, that every man should let his servant and every man his hand-maid |go free|, so as not to use them as slaves[b] |any longer|,—yea they hearkened, and let them go, 11 howbeit they turned, after that,
and brought back the servants and the handmaids whom they had let go |free|, and brought them into subjection as servants and as handmaids> 12 So then the word of Yahweh came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh, saying:
13 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh,
God of Israel,—
||I myself|| solemnised a covenant with your fathers, in the day when I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves, saying:
14 <At the end of seven years> shall ye let go, every man his brother, ||being a Hebrew||, who shall sell himself unto thee, and serve thee |six years|, then shalt thou let him go |free| from thee.
Howbeit your fathers hearkened not unto me,
neither inclined their ear.
15 And <though ||ye|| just now turned, and did that which was right in mine eyes, by proclaiming liberty, every man to his neighbour,—and solemnised a covenant |before me|, in the house on which my Name hath been called> 16 yet have ye turned and profaned my Name, and brought back, every man his servant, and every man his hand-maid, whom ye had let go |free|, ||at their own desire||,[c]—and have brought them into subjection, to become your' servants and handmaids. 17 |Therefore|—
||Thus|| saith Yahweh,
||Ye|| have not hearkened unto me, in proclaiming liberty, every man to his brother and every man to his neighbour:
Behold me! proclaiming |to you| ||a liberty||
Declareth Yahweh,
unto the sword, unto[d] the pestilence, and

18 and will give the men who are transgressing my covenant <in that they have not confirmed the words of the covenant, which they solemnised |before me|, when they cut ‖the calf‖ in twain, and passed between the parts thereof;[a] 19 even the princes of Judah, and the princes of Jerusalem, the eunuchs, and the priests, and all the people of the land,—who passed between the parts of the calf> 20 yea I will give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them who are seeking their life,[b]—and their dead bodies shall become food, for the birds of the heavens, and for the beasts of the earth.
21 <Zedekiah king of Judah also, with his princes> will I give into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them who are seeking their life,[b]—even into the hand of the force of the king of Babylon, who are going up from you. 22 Behold me! giving command, Declareth Yahweh, and I will bring them back unto this city, and they will fight against it, and capture it, and consume it with fire,—and <the cities of Judah> will I make too desolate to have an inhabitant.[c]

§ 29. The Rechabites. Their Persistent Obedience to their father Jonadab used for reproving Judah and Jerusalem, and as a ground of Promise to themselves.

35 1 The word which came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh,—in the days of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, saying:
2 Go unto the house of the Rechabites, and speak with them, and bring them into the house of Yahweh, into one of the chambers,—and give them |wine| to drink.
3 So I took Jaazaniah,[d] son of Jeremiah, son of Habazziniah, and his brethren, and all his sons,—and all the house of the Rechabites;
4 and brought them into the house of Yahweh, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan son of Igdaliah,[e] a man of God,—which was beside the chamber of the princes, which was above the chamber of Maaseiah[f] son of Shallum, keeper of the porch;[g] 5 and I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites, bowls full of wine, and cups,—and said unto them,
Drink ye wine.
6 Then said they,—
We will not drink wine,—for ‖Jonadab son of Rechab, our father‖ laid command upon us, saying,
Ye shall not drink wine, ‖ye, nor your sons‖, unto times age-abiding; 7 nor <house> shall ye build, nor ‖seed‖ shall ye sow, nor <vineyard> shall ye plant, neither shall ye have' them, —but <in tents> shall ye dwell, all your days, that ye may live many days, on the face of the soil' where ye are sojourning.
8 So we have hearkened unto the voice of Jonadab[a] son of Rechab, our father, in all that he commanded us,—not to drink wine' all our days, ‖we, our wives, our sons, nor our daughters‖; 9 and not to build houses for us to dwell in,—and so <vineyard or field or seed> have we none; 10 but we have dwelt in tents,—and have hearkened and done, according to all that Jonadab our father commanded' us. 11 And so it came to pass, when Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came up into the land, that we said,—
Let us ‖even enter‖ Jerusalem, because of the force of the Chaldeans and because of the force of the Syrians:
So have we dwelt in Jerusalem.

12 Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah, saying:
13 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
Go and say to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem,—
Will ye not receive correction, by hearkening unto my words? Demandeth Yahweh:
14 Confirmed' are the words of Jonadab[a] son of Rechab—which he commanded his sons, that they should not drink |wine|, and they have not' drunk, until this day, for they have hearkened unto the command of their father.
But ‖I‖ have spoken unto you, |betimes| speaking, and ye have not hearkened |unto me|.
15 And I sent unto you all my servants the prophets, |betimes| sending, saying,
Return, I pray you—every man from his wicked' way,
And amend your doings,
And do not go after other' gods to serve them,
So shall ye remain on the soil, which I gave to you, and to your fathers,— but ye have not inclined your ear, nor hearkened |unto me|.
16 <Because the sons of Jonadab[a] son of Rechab have |confirmed| the commandment of their father, which he commanded them,—whereas ‖this people‖ have not hearkened |unto me|>
17 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, God of hosts,
God of Israel,
Behold me! bringing in against Judah, and against all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, all the calamity, which I have spoken concerning them,—

Because I spake unto them, and they did not hearken,
And I called to them, and they did not answer.

18 But <to the house of the Rechabites> said Jeremiah:
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
<Because ye have hearkened unto the commandment of Jonadab[a] your father, and have kept all his commandments, and done' according to all that he commanded you>

19 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—
Jonadab son of Rechab shall not want one to stand before me, |all the days|!

§ 30. By Divine Command, Jeremiah, through Baruch, writes in a Scroll all the Words he has hitherto spoken concerning Israel, Judah and the Nations; after which Baruch reads the Scroll first to all the People, then to the Princes; next, Jehudi begins to read it to King Jehoiakim, who, having heard a Portion, angrily cuts up the Scroll and consumes it in the Fire; for which he is denounced by Yahweh, and the Scroll is rewritten—with Additions.

36 1 And it came to pass, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, that this word came unto Jeremiah, from Yahweh, saying:

2 Take thee a scroll,[b] and write therein, all the words which I have spoken unto thee, concerning Israel, and concerning Judah, and concerning all the nations,— from the day I began to speak unto thee, from the days of Josiah, even until this day:

3 |Peradventure| the house of Judah will hearken' unto all the calamity, which I' am devising to execute against them,—to the end they may return, every man from his wicked' way, whereupon I will forgive their iniquity, and their sin.

4 So Jeremiah called' Baruch, son of Neriah,—and Baruch wrote', from the mouth of Jeremiah, all the words of Yahweh which he had spoken unto him, upon a scroll. 5 Then did Jeremiah command Baruch, saying,—
‖I‖ am hindered, I cannot' enter the house of Yahweh;

6 ‖Thou‖ therefore shalt enter, and read in the roll which thou hast written from my mouth, the words of Yahweh, in the ears of the people, in the house of Yahweh, on the day of a fast,— moreover also <in the ears of all Judah who are coming in out of their cities> shalt thou read them:

7 |Peradventure| their supplication |will fall prostrate|, before Yahweh, and they return' every man from his wicked way,—
For ‖great‖ are the anger and the indignation, which Yahweh hath spoken' against this people.

8 So then Baruch son of Neriah did' according to all which Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of Yahweh, in the house of Yahweh. 9 And it came to pass in the fifth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, that all the people of Jerusalem, and all the people who were coming in out of the cities of Judah into Jerusalem, |had proclaimed a fast before Yahweh|; 10 Baruch, therefore, read in the book, the words of Jeremiah, in the house of Yahweh,—in the chamber of Gemariah son of Shaphan—the scribe, in the upper court, at the opening of the new gate of the house of Yahweh, in the ears of all the people.

11 <When Micaiah, son of Gemariah son of Shaphan, heard' all the words of Yahweh, out of[a] the book> 12 then went he, down unto the house of the king up to the chamber of the scribe, and lo! ‖there‖ all the princes sitting,—Elishama the scribe, and Delaiah son of Shemaiah, and Elnathan son of Achbor, and Gemariah son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah son of Hananiah, and all the princes. 13 So Micaiah told' them all the words which he heard,—when Baruch read in the book, in the ears of the people. 14 All the princes, therefore, sent' unto Baruch, Jehudi, son of Nethaniah son of Shelemiah[b] son of Cushi, saying,
<The roll, wherein thou didst read in the ears of the people> take it in thy hand, and come.
So Baruch son of Neriah[c] took' the roll in his hand, and came in unto them. 15 Then said they unto him, 15 Sit down, we pray thee, and read it in our ears.

So Baruch read' it in their ears. 16 And it came to pass <when they heard all the[d] words> that they turned with fear one to another,—and said unto Baruch,
We must ‖surely tell‖ the king, all these words!

17 Then <unto Baruch> put they questions, saying,—
Tell us, we pray thee, |How| didst thou write all these words at his mouth?

18 So Baruch said' unto them,
<With his own mouth> used he to proclaim unto me' all these words,—and I kept on writing in the book, |with ink|.[e]

19 Then said the princes unto Baruch, Go hide thee, ‖thou and Jeremiah‖, and let
‖no man‖ know where ye |are|!
20 Then went they in unto the king, into the court, but <the roll> had they put in charge, in the chamber of Elishama the scribe,—so they declared, in the ears of the king' all the[a] words. 21 |The king|, therefore, sent |Jehudi|, to fetch the roll, and he fetched it, out of the chamber of Elishama the scribe,—and Jehudi read' it in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes, who were standing near the king.
22 Now ‖the king‖ was sitting in the winter' house, in the ninth' month,—|with the fire-stove before him burning|. 23 So then it came to pass <when Jehudi had read three or four columns, that he cut it up into fragments with a scribe's knife, and cast them into the fire that was in the stove,—until |all the roll| was consumed on the fire that was on the stove. 24 Yet were they not in dread, neither rent they their garments,—‖the king, nor any of his servants that were hearing all these words‖. 25 |Nevertheless| ‖Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah‖ interceded with the king, not to burn the roll,—but he hearkened not unto them.
26 Then did the king command Jerahmeel son of the king, and Seraiah[b] son of Azriel, and Shelemiah son of Abdeel, to fetch Baruch the scribe, and Jeremiah the prophet,—but Yahweh had hid' them.
27 Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah,—after the king had burned the roll, and the words which Baruch had written from the mouth of Jeremiah, saying:
28 |Again| take thee another' roll, and write thereon, all the former' words which were on the first roll, which Jehoiakim king of Judah hath burned.
29 But <unto Jehoiakim king of Judah> shalt thou say,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
‖Thou‖ hast burned this roll, saying,
Why' hast thou written thereon—saying,
The king of Babylon shall ‖certainly come‖ and lay waste this land, and cause to cease therefrom, man and beast?
30 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh
Concerning Jehoiakim king of Judah,—
He shall have none to sit upon the throne of David,—
And ‖his dead body‖ shall be cast out—to the heat by day, and to the frost by night;
31 And I will visit upon him' and upon his seed' and upon his servants', the punishment of their iniquity,—and will bring upon them, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and against[a] the men of Judah, all the calamity, which I have spoken against them, but they have not hearkened.
32 So ‖Jeremiah‖ took another roll' and gave it unto Baruch son of Neriah, the scribe, who wrote thereon, from the mouth of Jeremiah' all the words of the book, which Jehoiakim king of Judah had burned' in the fire,—and further' were added thereunto, many words |like unto them|.

§ 31. King Zedekiah, at the Beginning of his Reign, asks for Jeremiah's Prayers; and, in answer, is warned not to count on Nebuchadrezzar's permanent Departure from Jerusalem. During a temporary Withdrawal of the Chaldeans, Jeremiah is caught going out to Anathoth, falsely accused, smitten, and cast into Prison. The King, secretly consulting the Prophet, reduces his sentence to Confinement in the Guard-court, appointing him a Cake per Day while Bread lasted in the City.

37 1 And Zedekiah son of Josiah |reigned as king| instead of Coniah son of Jehoiakim, whom Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon |made king| in the land of Judah. 2 But neither he, nor his servants, nor the people of the land, had hearkened' unto the words of Yahweh, which he had spoken' through[b] Jeremiah the prophet. 3 And King Zedekiah sent Jehucal son of Shelemiah,[c] and Zephaniah son of Maaseiah the priest, unto Jeremiah the prophet, saying,— Pray thou, I beseech thee, in our behalf, unto Yahweh, our God.

4 Now ‖Jeremiah‖ was coming in and going out in the midst of the people, for they had not put him into prison. 5 And ‖the force of Pharaoh‖ had come forth out of Egypt,—and <when the Chaldeans who were besieging Jerusalem heard the tidings of them> they went up from Jerusalem. 6 Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah the prophet, saying:
7 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
God of Israel,
‖Thus‖ shall ye say unto the king of Judah, who sent you unto me to enquire of me,—
Lo! ‖the force of Pharaoh, which is coming out to you to help‖ is about to return to its own land, |to Egypt|;
8 Then will the Chaldeans come back, and fight against this city,—and capture it, and burn it with fire.
9 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
Let not your own souls[d] deceive you, saying,
The Chaldeans will ‖surely depart‖ from us!
For they will not depart;

For <though ye had smitten all the force of the Chaldeans who are fighting with you, and there had remained of them only desperately wounded' men> yet ‖every man in his tent‖ should have arisen and burnt this city |with fire|.

Now it came to pass <when the army of the Chaldeans |had gone up| from Jerusalem,—because of the force of Pharaoh> 12 then went forth Jeremiah out of Jerusalem, to go into the land of Benjamin,—to receive a portion from thence in the midst of the people. 13 And so it came to pass <he' being in the gate of Benjamin, and there being there' a ward-master whose name was Irijah son of Shelemiah son of Hananiah> that he seized Jeremiah the prophet, saying,

<Unto the Chaldeans> art thou' falling away!

14 Then said Jeremiah,

False! I am not falling away unto the Chaldeans!

Howbeit he hearkened not unto him,—so Irijah seized Jeremiah, and brought him in unto the princes. 15 Then were the princes wroth' against Jeremiah, and smote him,—and put him in prison, in the house of Jonathan the scribe, for <that> had they made the prison. 16 <When Jeremiah had entered into the dungeon-house and into the cells, and Jeremiah |had remained there| many days> 17 then sent King Zedekiah—and fetched him, and the king |asked him|, in his own house, |secretly|, and said,—

Is' there a word from Yahweh?

And Jeremiah said,—

There is, for (said he),

<Into the hand of the king of Babylon> shalt thou be delivered!

18 And Jeremiah said' unto King Zedekiah,—

What sin have I committed against thee, or against thy servants, or against this people, that ye have delivered me' up into prison?

19 |Where|, then, are your prophets, who prophesied unto you, saying,—

The king of Babylon |shall not come| against you, nor against this land?

20 ‖Now‖ therefore, hear, I beseech thee, O my lord the king,—

Let my supplication, I pray thee, fall prostrate before thee, and do not cause me to return unto the house of Jonathan the scribe, lest I die there!

21 Then King Zedekiah gave command, and they committed Jeremiah into the guard-court, and [said] that there should be given him a cake of bread daily, out of the bakers' street, until all the bread out of the city |should be spent|. So Jeremiah remained' in the guard-court.

§ 32. The Princes again conspiring against Jeremiah, King Zedekiah weakly delivers him into their Hands, and they let him down with ropes into a miry Dungeon; from which Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, having interceded with the King, and taking with him thirty Men, delivers him; and Jeremiah, meanwhile giving good but unheeded Counsel to the King, remains in the Guard-court until Jerusalem is captured.

38 1 And <when Shephatiah son of Mattan, and Gedaliah son of Pashhur, and Jucal son of Shelemiah, and Pashhur son of Malchiah, heard' the words which Jeremiah' was speaking unto all the people, saying:

2 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,

‖He that remaineth in this city‖ shall die, by sword, by famine, or by pestilence,—whereas ‖he that goeth forth[a] unto the Chaldeans‖ shall live, so shall he have his life[b] for a spoil, ‖and shall live|.

3 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—

This city shall ‖surely be given‖ into the hand of the force of the king of Babylon, and he shall capture it>

4 Then said the princes unto the king,—

Let this man, we pray thee, |be put to death|, for <in this way> is he' weakening the hands of the men of war who are left in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking unto them' such words as these; for ‖this man‖ is not' seeking |prosperity| for this people, but |misfortune|.

5 Then said King Zedekiah,—

Lo! he' is in your hand; for |the king| is not' one who is able to do anything' against' you.

6 Then took they Jeremiah, and cast him into the dungeon[c] of Malchiah[d] son of the king, which was in the guard-court, and they let Jeremiah down with ropes,—now <in the dungeon> was no' water, |only mire|, so Jeremiah sank' in the mire.

7 <When Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, one of the eunuchs, he' being in the house of the king, heard' that they had delivered Jeremiah into the dungeon,—|the king' being seated in the gate of Benjamin|> 8 then went forth Ebed-melech,[e] out of the house of the king, and spake unto the king, saying:

9 My lord, O King! wickedly' have these men done all that they have done to Jeremiah the prophet, whom indeed they have cast into the dungeon,—since he would have died where he was, because of the famine, for there is no' bread any longer' |in the city|.

10 Then the king commanded' Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, saying,— Take with thee[a] from hence, thirty men, and lift Jeremiah the prophet out of the dungeon, before he die.
11 So Ebed-melech took' the men with him,[b] and went into the house of the king, under the treasury, and took thence, pieces of cast-off clothes, and old rags,—and let them down unto Jeremiah in the dungeon, with the ropes. 12 Then said Ebed-melech the Ethiopian unto Jeremiah,—
Put, I pray thee, the pieces of cast-off clothes and the old rags, under thine arm-joints, under the ropes.
And Jeremiah did' so. 13 Then drew they Jeremiah, with the ropes, and lifted him up out of the dungeon,—and Jeremiah remained in the guard-court. 14 Then King Zedekiah sent' and fetched Jeremiah the prophet unto him, in the third' entrance, which is in the house of Yahweh,—and the king said' unto Jeremiah—
I' am going to ask thee a thing, do not hide anything' from me.
15 Then said Jeremiah unto Zedekiah,
<When I tell thee> wilt thou not ‖surely put me to death‖?
And <when I counsel thee> thou wilt not hearken unto me.
16 So King Zedekiah sware unto Jeremiah, secretly saying,—
<By the life of Yahweh, who made for us, this soul>[c]
I will in no wise put thee to death,
Neither will I deliver thee into the hand of these men, who are seeking thy life.[d]
17 Then said Jeremiah unto Zedekiah—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
God[e] of hosts, God of Israel—
<If thou wilt ‖indeed go forth‖ unto the princes of the king of Babylon> then shall thine own soul live, and ‖this city‖ shall not be burned with fire,—but thou shalt live, ‖thou, and thy house‖.
18 But <if thou wilt not go forth unto the princes of the king of Babylon> then shall this city be delivered into the hand of the Chaldeans, and they shall burn it with fire, and ‖thou‖ shalt not escape out of their hand.
19 Then said King Zedekiah, unto Jeremiah:
I' am afraid of the Jews, who have fallen away unto the Chaldeans, lest they deliver |me| into their hand, and they maltreat me.
20 But Jeremiah said,
They shall not deliver!—
Hearken, I pray thee, unto the voice of Yahweh, in what I' am speaking unto thee, that it may be well with thee, and thy soul live'.
21 But <if thou' art refusing to go forth> ‖this‖ is the thing which Yahweh hath shewed' me:—22 behold, then, ‖all the women that are left in the house of the king of Judah‖ brought forth unto the princes of the king of Babylon,—and ‖those very women‖ saying,
The men thou wast wont to salute[a] |have goaded thee on, and prevailed upon thee|,—
<Thy foot[b] |having sunk in the mire|> they have turned away |back|.
23 Yea [thou shalt behold] all thy wives and thy children, brought forth unto the Chaldeans, and ‖thou‖ shalt not escape out of their hand,—but <by the hand of the king of Babylon> shalt thou be taken, and ‖this city‖ shall be burned[c] with fire.
24 Then said Zedekiah unto Jeremiah—
Do not let ‖any man‖ know of these words, and thou shalt not die.
25 But <when the princes hear' that I have spoken with thee, and they come in unto thee and say unto thee—
Do tell us, we pray thee, what thou didst speak unto the king, do not hide it from us, so will we not put thee to death,—and what spake ‖the king‖ unto |thee|?>
26 Then shalt thou say unto them,—
I' was causing my supplication to fall prostrate before the king, — that he would not cause me to return to the house of Jonathan, |to die there|.
27 Then came in all the princes unto Jeremiah, and asked him, and he told them, according to all these words which the king |had commanded|,[d] —so they turned in silence from him, for the matter |had not been reported|. 28 So Jeremiah remained in the guard-court, until the day when Jerusalem |was captured|; ‖thus‖ it fell out, when Jerusalem |was captured|.

§ 33. *After an eighteen Months' Siege, Jerusalem is taken; King Zedekiah flees to the Waste Plains of Jericho, is captured, brought to Nebuchadrezzar at Riblah, his Sons and Nobles are slain in his presence, his Eyes are put out, and he is taken in Fetters to Babylon. 4 And it came to pass <as soon as Zedekiah king of Judah and all the men of war saw' them> that they fled, and went forth by night out of the city, by way of the king's garden, through the gate between the two walls,—and he[b] went forth by way of the waste plain.[c] 5 But the force of the Chaldeans pursued' them, and overtook Zedekiah, in the waste plains of Jericho, and when they had taken him, they brought him up unto Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, to Riblah, in the land of Hamath,—and pronounced upon him sentences of judgment. 6 And the king of Babylon slew the sons of Zedekiah, in Riblah, before his eyes,—and <all the nobles of Judah> did the king of Babylon slay; 7 and <the eyes of Zedekiah> did he put out, and bound him with fetters of bronze, to bring him into Babylon. 8 And <the house of the king, and the houses[d] of the people> did the Chaldeans burn with fire,—and <the walls of Jerusalem> brake they down; 9 and <the remnant of the people who were left in the city, and the disheartened, who fell away unto him, and the remnant of the people who were left> did Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners,[e] take captive to Babylon. 10 But <of the poor people, who had |nothing|> did Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners, leave remaining in the land of Judah, and gave them vineyards and ploughed fields, |on the same day|.

§ 34. By Nebuchadrezzar's Command Jeremiah is to be well treated: he is taken out of the Guard-court.

11 Then Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon |gave command|, concerning Jeremiah, — through[f] Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners, saying:

§ 35. A Divine Message to Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, recognising his Faith and assuring him of his Life.

15 Now <unto Jeremiah> had come the word of Yahweh, while he was yet shut up' in the guard-court, saying:

16 Go! and speak to Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, saying,—

||Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,

Behold me! bringing about my words against this city, for calamity—and not for blessing, —and they shall come to pass before thee, |in that day|.

17 But I will deliver thee in that day,
Declareth Yahweh,—
and thou shalt not be given up into the hand of the men' from the face of whom ||thou|| mightest shrink with fear.

18 For I will ||surely deliver|| thee, and <by the sword> shalt thou not fall,—but thou shalt have thine own life[b] |as a spoil|,
Because thou hast trusted in me,

§ 36. Nebuzaradan giving Jeremiah his Choice, of going down to Babylon or remaining in the Land, the Prophet decides to dwell at Mizpah with Gedaliah, who had been appointed Governor of the Cities of Judah.

40 1 The thing that happened[c] unto Jeremiah from Yahweh, after Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners had let him go from Ramah, —when he had taken him, he having been bound in fetters in the midst of all the captive-host[d] of Jerusalem, and Judah, who were being carried away captive to Babylon. 2 So then the chief of the royal executioners[e] took Jeremiah,—and said unto him,

||Yahweh thy God|| had threatened this' calamity' against this place; 3 and so Yahweh hath brought it about and done it, just as he threatened,—for ye have sinned against Yahweh, and have not hearkened unto his voice, and so this thing hath befallen' you.

forbear,—see! ‖all the land‖ is before thee, <whither it may be good and right in thine eyes to go> ‖thither‖ go!

5 And ere yet' he could make reply—

Go thou back then unto Gedaliah[a] son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon hath set in charge over the cities of Judah, and dwell thou with him in the midst of the people, or <whithersoever it may be right in thine eyes to go> go!

So the chief of the royal executioners gave him an allowance and a present, and let him go. 6 Then came' Jeremiah unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam, to Mizpah,[b] and dwelt with him in the midst of the people who were left in the land.

§ 37. All the Hebrew Captains left in the Field, with Jews out of Moab, Ammon and Edom, gather unto Gedaliah; among them a Traitor, Ishmael, of whom the Governor is warned; but Gedaliah refusing credence, is cruelly murdered, with the Jews and Chaldeans who are with him. After further Treacheries, Ishmael is pursued by Johanan and others, and his Captives are rescued, but himself escapes. Johanan and those with him, fearing the Wrath of the Chaldeans, dwell at the khan of Chimham, ready to go down into Egypt.

7 Now <when all the captains of the forces which were in the field—‖they and their men‖, heard' that the king of Babylon had set Gedaliah son of Ahikam in charge over the land,—and that he had committed to him men and women and children, and the poor of the land' of those who had not been carried away captive to Babylon> 8 then came they in unto Gedaliah in Mizpah,—both Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and Johanan and Jonathan sons[c] of Kareah, and Seraiah son of Tanhumeth, and the sons of Ephai[d] the Netophathite, and Jezaniah[e] son of the Maachathite, ‖they and their men‖. 9 Then Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, sware' unto them, and to their men, saying,

Do not be afraid of serving the Chaldeans,—dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, that it may be well with you.

10 But <as for me> behold me! remaining in Mizpah, to stand before the Chaldeans' who may come unto us.

‖Ye‖ however, gather ye wine and summer fruits and oil, and put [them] in your vessels, and dwell in your cities which ye have seized.

11 |Likewise also| ‖all the Jews, who were in Moab and among the sons of Ammon and in Edom, and who were in any of the lands‖ <when they heard that the king of Babylon had granted a remnant to Judah, and that he had set in charge over them, Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan> 12 yea, then returned all the Jews, out of all the places whither they had been driven, and came into the land of Judah, unto Gedaliah, in Mizpah, — and gathered wine and summer fruits, in great abundance.

13 But ‖Johanan son of Kareah, and all the princes of the forces which were in the field‖ came unto Gedaliah, in Mizpah, 14 and said unto him—

Dost thou ‖at all know‖ that ‖Baalis,[a] king of the sons of Ammon‖ hath sent Ishmael son of Nethaniah, to smite thee to death?[b]

But Gedaliah son of Ahikam |believed them not|. 15 Then ‖Johanan son of Kareah‖ spake unto Gedaliah |secretly, in Mizpah|, saying,—

Let me go, I pray thee, and smite Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and not ‖a man‖ shall know it,—wherefore' should he smite thee to death,[b] and all Judah who have gathered themselves unto thee, be dispersed, and the remnant of Judah perish'?

16 Then said Gedaliah son of Ahikam, unto Johanan son of Kareah, Thou mayest not do this thing,—for ‖falsely‖ art thou' speaking against Ishmael.

41 1 And it came to pass <in the seventh month> that Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elishama of the seed royal and chiefs of the king, and ten men with him, |came in| unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam, at Mizpah,—and they did there' eat bread together, in Mizpah. 2 Then arose Ishmael son of Nethaniah—and the ten men who were with him, and they smote Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan—with the sword, and slew him' whom the king of Babylon |had set in charge| over the land. 3 And Ishmael smote ‖all the Jews who were with him, even with Gedaliah in Mizpah, and the Chaldeans who were found there, the[c] men of war‖.

4 And it came to pass <on the second day, after he had slain Gedaliah, not ‖a man‖ knowing it> 5 that men came in from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Samaria,—eighty men, with beards shaven and clothes rent, who also had cut themselves, with a meal-offering and frankincense in their hand, to bring them into the house of Yahweh. 6 Then went forth Ishmael son of Nethaniah to meet them, out of Mizpah, weeping all along as he went,[d]—and it came to pass <when he fell in with them> that he said unto them,

Come ye in unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam.

7 And so it was <when they had come into the midst of the city> that Ishmael son of Nethaniah slew' them [and cast them] into the midst of a pit, ‖he, and the men who were with him‖. 8 But ‖ten men‖ were found among them, who said unto Ishmael—

Do not put us to death, for we have secret treasures in the field, wheat and barley and oil and honey.

So he forbare, and put them not to death, in the midst of their brethren. 9 Now <the pit, whereinto Ishmael cast all the dead bodies of the men whom he had smitten> was a large pit,[a] which King Asa had made for fear of Baasha king of Israel, — ‖the same‖ did Ishmael son of Nethaniah fill with the slain. 10 Then did Ishmael take captive all the remnant of the people that was in Mizpah,—the daughters of the king, and all the people that were left remaining in Mizpah, whom Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners had committed unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam,—yea Ishmael son of Nethaniah |took them captive|, and departed, to pass over unto
the sons of Ammon.

11 But <when Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces who were with him, heard' of all the wickedness which Ishmael son of Nethaniah had done'> 12 then took they all the men, and went their way to fight with Ishmael son of Nethaniah,—and found him near the many waters which were in Gibeon. 13 And it came to pass <when all the people who were with Ishmael saw' Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces who were with him> then were they glad.
14 So all the people whom Ishmael had carried away captive out of Mizpah, |compassed about|,
and returned, and went their way' unto Johanan son of Kareah. 15 But ‖Ishmael son of Nethaniah‖ escaped, with eight men, from the face of Johanan,—and departed unto
the sons of Ammon.

16 Then did Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces who were with him, take' all the remnant of the people whom he had recovered from Ishmael son of Nethaniah out of Mizpah, after he had smitten Gedaliah son of Ahikam,—mighty men, men of war, and women and children, and eunuchs, whom he had recovered out of Gibeon; 17 and they departed, and dwelt in the khan[b] of Chimham,[c] which is near Bethlehem,—that they might go to enter Egypt; 18 because of the Chaldeans, for they were afraid of them,—because Ishmael son of Nethaniah had smitten' Gedaliah son of Ahikam, ‖whom the king of Babylon had set in charge' over the land‖.

§ 38. The Spared and Rescued Remnant of Jews solicit Jeremiah's Intercession with Yahweh in their behalf, solemnly pledging themselves to abide the Result; yet, when the Answer proves adverse to their Wishes, they stubbornly disobey, and go down into Egypt as far as Tahpanhes, carrying Jeremiah and Baruch with them. Here the Prophet, with accompanying symbolic Action, foretells an Invasion of Egypt by Nebuchadrezzar King of Babylon.

42 1 Then drew near, all the captains of the forces, and Johanan son of Kareah, and Jezaniah son of Hoshaiah,—and all the people, from the least even unto the greatest; 2 and said unto Jeremiah
the prophet—

Let our supplication, we beseech thee, fall prostrate before thee, and pray thou in our behalf, unto Yahweh thy[a] God, in behalf of all this remnant,—for we are left, a few out of many, |just as thine own eyes' do behold
us|: 3 that Yahweh thy[b] God may tell' us, the way wherein we should walk,—and the thing that we should do.

4 And Jeremiah the prophet said' unto them,

I have heard; behold me! praying unto Yahweh your God, according to your words,—and it shall come to pass, that <the whole thing that Yahweh shall answer you> I will tell you, I will keep back from you, |nothing|.

5 ‖They‖ therefore, said unto Jeremiah,

Yahweh be against us, as a witness, |true and faithful|,—if <according to all the word which Yahweh thy God shall send' thee unto us> ‖so‖ we do not perform: 6 ‖whether for good or for ill‖, <unto the voice of Yahweh our God for which we' are sending thee unto him> will we hearken,—to the end it may be well with us, |because we will hearken' unto the voice of Yahweh our
God|.

7 And it came to pass <at the end of ten days> that the word of Yahweh came' unto Jeremiah. 8 Then called he for Johanan son of Kareah, and for all the princes of the forces' who were with him,—and for all the people, |from the least even unto the greatest|;
9 and said unto them,

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, God of Israel,—unto whom ye sent me, to cause your supplication to fall prostrate before him:—

10 <If ye will ‖indeed abide‖ in this land> then will I build you up, and not pull [you] down, and plant you, and not uproot [you],—for I have compassion, as touching the calamity' which I have caused you. 11 Do not fear the face of the king of Babylon, of whose face ye' are afraid,—do not fear him,

Urgeth Yahweh,

for <with you> am I', to save you, and to deliver you out of his hand: 12 that I may grant you compassions, and he may have compassion upon you,—and suffer you to return unto your own soil.

13 But <since ye' are saying,—
We will not dwell in this land,—nor hearken' unto the voice of Yahweh your God: 14 saying,—
No! for <into the land of Egypt> will we go, where we shall not see war, nor <the sound of a horn> shall we hear,—nor <for bread> shall we be famished,—‖there‖ then will we dwell>

15 ‖Now‖ therefore, ‖for this cause‖ hear ye the word of Yahweh, O remnant of Judah,—

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—
<If ‖ye' do indeed set‖ your faces, to enter Egypt, and do enter to sojourn there> 16 then shall it come to pass that ‖the sword which ye' are fearing‖ shall |there| overtake you, in the land of Egypt,—and ‖the famine which ye' are dreading‖ shall |there| lay fast hold of you, ‖in Egypt‖, and |there| shall ye die. 17 So shall it be with all the men who have set their faces to enter Egypt, to sojourn there, they shall die, by sword, by famine, or by pestilence,—and they shall have neither survival nor escape, from the face of the calamity' which I' am about to bring in upon them. 18 For—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—
<Just as mine anger and mine indignation |have been poured out| upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem> ‖so‖ shall mine indignation be poured out upon you' when ye enter into Egypt,—thus shall ye become a curse, and an astonishment, and a contempt, and a reproach, and ye shall no more' see |this place|.

19 Yahweh hath spoken' concerning you, O ye remnant of Judah,
Do not enter into Egypt:
‖Know certainly‖ that I have taken you to witness to-day. 20 For ye have deceived yourselves at the cost of your lives,[a] for ‖ye yourselves‖ sent me unto Yahweh your God, saying,— Pray thou in our behalf, unto Yahweh our God,—and <according to all that Yahweh our God shall say'> ‖so‖ tell us, and we will do it.

21 Therefore have I told you to-day,—and yet ye have not hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh your God, ‖even in any thing for which he hath sent me unto you‖.

22 ‖Now‖ therefore, ‖know ye certainly‖, that <by sword, by[a] famine, or by pestilence> shall ye die,—in the place whither ye have desired to go, to sojourn.

[a] U.: "souls."

43 1 And it came to pass <when Jeremiah had made an end' of speaking unto all the people all the words of Yahweh their God, with which Yahweh their God had sent' him unto them,—even all these words> 2 then spake Azariah son of Hoshaiah, and Johanan son of Kareah, and all the proud men,—saying unto Jeremiah—
‖Falsely‖ art thou' speaking,
Yahweh our God |hath not sent thee| to say,
Ye shall not enter Egypt, to sojourn there;
3 but ‖Baruch son of Neriah‖ is goading thee on against us,—that he may deliver us into the hand of the Chaldeans, to put us to death, or take us away captive to Babylon.
4 So Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces, and all the people, |hearkened not| unto the voice of Yahweh,—by remaining in the land of Judah; 5 but Johanan son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces, took' all the remnant of Judah, who had returned, out of all the nations whither they had been driven, to sojourn in the land of Judah: 6 both the men and the women and the children, and the daughters of the king, and every soul that Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners |had left| with Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan,—and Jeremiah the prophet, and Baruch son of Neriah; 7 and entered the land of Egypt, for they hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh,—yea entered as far as Tahpanhes. 8 Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah, in Tahpanhes, saying:
9 Take in thy hand great stones, and hide them in the mortar, that is in the brick-yard' which is at the entrance of the house of Pharaoh, in Tahpanhes,—before the eyes of the men of Judah. 10 Then shalt thou say unto them—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel—
Behold me! sending and fetching Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, my servant, and I will set his throne' over these stones, which I have hid,—and he shall spread his canopy over them. 11 And <when he entereth> then will he smite the land of Egypt [and deliver]
Him who is for death' to death, and Him who is for captivity' to captivity, and
Him who is for the sword' to the sword.
12 So will I kindle a fire in the houses of the gods of Egypt, and he shall burn them and carry them away captive,—and shall wrap the land of Egypt about him, just as a shepherd |wrappeth about| him his garment, and shall go forth from thence in peace;

13 And he shall break in pieces the pillars of Beth-shemesh,[a] which is in the land of Egypt,—
And <the houses of the gods of Egypt> shall he burn with fire.

§ 39. Against Jeremiah's Denunciation of his Countrymen's renewed Idolatries in Egypt, they perversely defend themselves; calling forth from the Prophet a Crushing Reply by reference to the Fate of Jerusalem, and a specific Prediction of the Capture of Pharaoh-hophra King of Egypt.

44 1 The word which came to Jeremiah, against all the Jews who were dwelling in the land of Egypt,—who were dwelling in Migdol, and in Tahpanhes, and in Noph, and in the land of Pathros, saying:

2 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
‖Ye yourselves‖ saw all the calamity' which I brought in upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Judah,—and there' they are, a desolation, this day, and there is not' in them an inhabitant: 3 because of their wickedness' which they committed, provoking me to anger, by going to burn incense, to serve other' gods,—whom they had not known, ‖they, ye, nor your fathers‖; 4 yet I sent unto you all my servants the prophets, betimes' sending them, saying,—
Do not, I pray you, commit this abominable thing, which I hate!
5 but they hearkened not, neither inclined their ear, by turning from their wickedness,—so as not to burn incense to other' gods. 6 Therefore were mine indignation and mine anger |poured out|, and a fire was kindled in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, — and they became waste and desolate, |as at this day|. 7 ‖Now‖ therefore,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh, God[b] of hosts,
God of Israel—
|Wherefore| are ye' committing a great wickedness against your own lives,[c] that ye should cut off from you man and woman, child and suckling, out of the midst of Judah,—so that there should not be left you |a remnant|: 8 in that ye provoke me to anger by the works[d] of your own hands, burning incense to other' gods, in the land of Egypt, which ye' have been entering to sojourn,—that ye should cut [them] off' from you, and that ye should become a contempt and a reproach' among[a] all the nations of the earth? 9 Have ye forgotten the wicked ways of your fathers, and the wicked ways of the kings of Judah, and the wicked ways of his wives,[b] and your own wicked ways, and the wicked ways of your own wives,—which they committed in the land of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem?
10 They have not been crushed, unto this day; neither have they been afraid, neither have they walked in my law,[c] and in my statutes, which I set before you, and before your fathers. 11 Therefore'
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
Behold me! setting my face against you, for calamity,—even to cut off all Judah;
12 and I will take the remnant of Judah who did set their faces, to enter the land of Egypt, to sojourn there, and they shall all be consumed, <in the land of Egypt> shall they fall by the sword, <by[d] famine> shall they be consumed, ‖from the least even unto the greatest‖, <by sword and by famine> shall they die,—so shall they become a curse, and an astonishment, and a contempt, and a reproach; 13 and I will bring punishment upon them who are dwelling in the land of Egypt, just as I brought punishment upon Jerusalem,—by sword, by famine, and by pestilence; 14 and there shall be neither escape nor survival, unto the remnant of Judah, who have been entering, to sojourn there, into the land of Egypt,—that they should return to the land of Judah, |even when they' are lifting up their soul to return, to dwell there, for none shall return, |saving fugitives|.

15 Then all the men who knew that their wives were burning incense to other' gods, and all the women standing by, a great convocation,—with all the people who were dwelling in the land of Egypt, in Pathros, |made answer unto Jeremiah|, saying:
16 <As touching the word which thou hast spoken unto us, in the name of Yahweh> we are not going to hearken unto thee;
17 but ‖we will certainly do‖ the whole thing that hath gone forth out of our own mouth, by burning incense to the queen of the heavens, and pouring out to her drink-offerings, just as ‖we and our fathers, and our kings and our princes‖ did, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem,—then were we filled with bread, and became prosperous, and <calamity> saw we none;
18 whereas <from the very time we ceased burning incense to the queen of the heavens and pouring out to her drink-offerings> we have lacked |everything|,—and <by sword and by famine> have we been consumed.

19 And <though we' are burning incense to the queen of the heavens and pouring out to her, drink-offerings> is it ‖without our men‖ that we have made to her sacrificial cakes as images of her, and poured out to her, drink-offerings?

20 Then spake Jeremiah unto all the people,—against the men, and against the women, and against all the people who had been making any answer unto him, saying:

21 Was it not <the very incense which ye burned in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, ‖ye, and your fathers, your kings and your princes, and the people of the land‖> was it not ‖those very things‖ that Yahweh did remember, and that came up on his heart;[a] 22 so that Yahweh could' no' longer[b] forbear, because of the wickedness of your doings, because of the abominations which ye committed,—and your land became' a desolation, and an astonishment, and a contempt, without inhabitant—|as at this day|?

23 <Because that ye burned incense, and that ye sinned against Yahweh, and hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh, and ‖in his law[c] and in his statutes and in his testimonies‖ did not walk> ‖for this cause‖ did this calamity befall' you—|as at this day|.

24 And Jeremiah said' unto all the people, and unto all the women,—
Hear ye the word of Yahweh, all Judah, who are in the land of Egypt,—
25 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel, saying,
‖Ye and your wives‖ have both spoken with your mouth and <with your hands> have ye fulfilled, saying,
We will ‖certainly perform‖ our vows which we have vowed, to burn incense to the queen of the heavens, and to pour out to her, drink-offerings:
the women ‖will certainly confirm'‖ your vows, and ‖certainly perform'‖ your vows.
26 |Therefore| hear ye the word of Yahweh, all Judah, who are dwelling in the land of Egypt,— Behold me! I have sworn by my great Name, Saith Yahweh,
That my Name |shall no more| be invoked by the mouth of any man of Judah, saying—
By the life of My Lord, Yahweh,[d] in all the land of Egypt.

27 Behold me! watching[a] over them |for calamity, and not for blessing|,—so shall all the men of Judah who are in the land of Egypt |be consumed| by sword and by famine, until there be an end of them. 28 Yet ‖the fugitives of the sword‖ shall certainly return' out of the land of Egypt into the land of Judah, men easily counted,—that all the remnant of Judah who are entering Egypt to sojourn there |may know|, ‖whose word‖ shall stand, ‖mine or theirs‖!

29 And ‖this‖ <to you> shall be the sign, Declareth Yahweh, that I' am about to bring punishment upon you in this place,—that ye may know that my words shall ‖certainly stand‖ against you, |for calamity|:

30 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Behold me! delivering up Pharaoh-hophra king of Egypt, into the hand of his enemies, yea into the hand of them who are seeking his life,[b]—just as I delivered Zedekiah king of Judah, into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon his enemy, and one seeking his life.

Unto thee, O Baruch,—

3 Thou didst say,
Surely woe to me!
For Yahweh hath added' sorrow unto my pain,—
I am weary with my moaning,
And <rest> have I not found!

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
Lo, <what I had built> I' am pulling down,
And <what I had planted> I' am rooting up,—
And that' is ‖all the land‖:[c]

46 1 So much of the word of Yahweh as came unto Jeremiah the prophet, concerning the[b] nations.

2 ‖Of Egypt‖

Concerning the force of Pharaoh-necho, king of Egypt, which was by the river Euphrates, in Carchemish,—which Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon |smote|, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah:—

3 Prepare ye buckler and shield,
And draw near to battle:
4 Harness the horses, and mount, ye horsemen,
Stand forth in helmets,—
Polish the lances, put on the coats of mail.

5 Why' have I seen it?
‖They‖ <panic-struck> are drawing back,
Yea ‖their heroes‖ are crushed,
Yea they have ‖fled‖,[c] and not turned,— Terror round about![d] Declareth Yahweh.

6 Let not the swift |flee|,

7 Who is' it that is like the Nile when it riseth,
Like rivers when his waters are tossed?
8 ‖Egypt‖ was like the Nile when it riseth,
And like rivers, when the waters are tossed:
So he said—
I will rise,
I will cover the earth,
I will destroy the city, and the dwellers therein.
9 Mount the horses,
And drive the chariots madly on,
So let the heroes |go forth|,—
Ethiopians and Libyans that grasp the buckler,
And Lydians, that grasp—that tread—the bow.

10 But ‖that day‖ belongeth to My Lord, Yahweh of hosts[e]—
A day of avenging, to avenge him of his adversaries,
When the sword shall devour' and be filled, and be sated with their blood,—
For ‖a sacrifice‖ hath My Lord, Yahweh of hosts,[e]
In the land of the North,
Towards the river Euphrates.

11 Go up to Gilead, and fetch balsam,
O virgin, daughter of Egypt!
<In vain> hast thou multiplied remedies,
<Healing> there is none' for thee.[a]
12 The nations have heard' of thy disgrace,
And ‖thine outcry‖ hath filled the earth,—
For <hero against hero> have they stumbled,
<Together> have fallen |the twain|!

13 The word which Yahweh spake, unto Jeremiah the prophet,—as to the coming of Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon, to smite the land of Egypt:—

14 Tell ye it in Egypt,
And let it be heard in Migdol,
Yea let it be heard in Noph, and in Tahpanhes,—
Say ye—
Stand thou forth, and prepare thyself,
For a sword hath devoured round about thee.

15 Wherefore' have thy valiant ones[b] been laid prostrate?
He hath made no stand, because ‖Yahweh‖ hath driven him back:
16 Hath made many a one to be stumbling,
Yea fallen' is every one against his neighbour,
So they have said—
Arise and let us return to our own people,
And unto the land of our birth,
From the face of the sword of the oppressor.
17 Proclaim ye a name,[c]—
‖Pharaoh, king of Egypt‖—a Sound!
He hath overstepped the time appointed!
18 <As I live> saith the King,
‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is his name:
<‖Though
Like Tabor' among mountains,
Like Carmel>
Into the sea shall he go![d]

19 <Baggage for captivity>[e] prepare thee,
O inhabitress, daughter of Egypt;
For ‖Noph‖ shall become |a desolation|,
And be burned, without inhabitant.

20 <A calf of great beauty>[f] is Egypt:
‖The gad-fly‖ <out of the North> cometh—cometh.[g]
21 ‖Even her hirelings, in her midst‖ are like fatted calves, For ‖even they‖ have turned—
have fled at once!
have[h] made no stand!
For ‖their day of doom‖ hath come upon them, The time of their visitation.

22 ‖Her noise‖ <like a serpent> departeth,—
For <with a force> they advance,
And <with axes> have they come against her, |like them who fell trees|:
23 They have cut down her forest,
Declareth Yahweh,
Surely he cannot be searched out,[a]—
For they have outnumbered locusts, and cannot |be counted|.
24 Put to shame, is the daughter of Egypt,—
She hath been delivered into the hand of the people of the North.

25 Saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—
Behold me! bringing punishment—against Amon of No,[b] and upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt, and upon her gods, and upon her kings,—
Even upon Pharaoh, and upon all that trust in him;
26 And I will deliver them—
Into the hand of them who are seeking their life,[c]
Even into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon,
And into the hand of his servants,—
And <after that> shall it be inhabited as in the days of old, Declareth Yahweh.

27 ‖Thou‖ therefore, do not fear, O my Servant Jacob,
Nor be dismayed, O Israel,
For behold me!
Saving thee from afar,
And thy seed, from the land of their captivity,—
So shall Jacob return, and be quiet, and shall rest,
With none' to occasion alarm.
28 ‖Thou‖[d] do not fear, O my Servant Jacob,
Urgeth Yahweh,
For ‖with thee‖ am I':
≺Though I make an end of all the nations whither I have driven thee≻
Yet <of thee> will I not make an end,
But will correct thee in |measure|,
And not hold thee ‖guiltless‖![e]

§ 42. The Nations:—The Philistines.

47 1 So much of the word of Yahweh as came unto Jeremiah the prophet,
Against the Philistines,— before Pharaoh smote Gaza:

2 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Lo! |waters rising from the North|
And they shall become a torrent overflowing,
Which shall overflow
The land and the fulness thereof,
The city, and the dwellers therein,—
Then shall men |make outcry|,
And all the inhabitants of the land |howl|.
3 ≺Because of the sound of the tramping of the hoofs of his chargers,
Because of the rushing of his chariots, the rumbling of his wheels≻
|Fathers| shall not turn' |to children|,
Because of the unnerving of their hands;
4 On account of the day that cometh to lay waste all the Philistines,
To cut off from Tyre, and Zidon, every escaped one that could have helped,—
For Yahweh |is laying waste| the Philistines,
The remnant of the Coastland of Caphtor.
5 |Baldness| hath come |upon Gaza|,
Silenced' is Ashkelon, the remnant of their vale,—
|How long| wilt thou cut thyself?

6 Ah! thou sword of Yahweh,
|How long| wilt thou not be quiet?
Withdraw into thy scabbard,
Rest thyself, and be still.

7 |How| can it be quiet, when ‖Yahweh‖ hath given it a charge,—against Ashkelon, and against the shore of the sea?
‖There‖ hath he appointed it!

§ 43. The Nations:—Moab.

1 ‖Of Moab‖— 48

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,—
Alas for Nebo, for it is laid waste,
Put to shame'—captured', is Kiriathaim:
Put to shame' is Misgab, and dismayed.
2 <No more> is the praise of Moab,
<In Heshbon> have they devised against her, |calamity|,
Come, and let us cut her off from being a nation,—
Even' thou ‖Madmēn also‖ shalt be silenced,
<After thee> shall march the sword.
3 A voice of outcry, from Horonaim,— Wasting and great destruction!
4 Moab is broken:
Her little ones |have caused to be heard an outcry|.
5 For <the ascent of Luhith> |with weeping| one ascendeth—with weeping,—
For ‖in the descent of Horonaim‖ <the distress of the outcry of destruction> have they heard:
6 Flee, deliver your own lives,—
Then shall the women be as a shrub in the desert.
7 For <seeing thou hast trusted in thy works and in thy treasures>
‖Thou too‖ shalt be captured,—
Then shall Chemosh go forth into captivity,
‖His priests and his princes together‖.

[a] I.e.: "reconnoitred."
[b] Chief god of Thebes.
[c] U.: "soul."
[d] Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): "‖Thou‖ therefore"—G.n.
[e] Exo. xxxiv. 6, 7, n.

8 And the spoiler shall enter' into every city,
And not ‖a city‖ shall escape,
Then shall perish' the vale,
Then be destroyed' the table-land,—
‖As Yahweh hath said‖.

9 Give wing to Moab,
For she must ‖fly away‖;
And ‖her cities‖
<To desolation> shall be turned,
‖With no inhabitant therein‖.

10 |Accursed| be he that doeth the business of Yahweh, |carelessly|;
And, |accursed| be he that withholdeth his sword |from blood|!

11 Moab |hath been at ease| from his youth,
And ‖settled‖ is he' upon his lees,
And hath not been poured out from vessel to vessel,
Nor <into captivity> hath gone,—
|For this cause| hath his flavour stood still' within him,
And ‖his scent‖ is unchanged.

12 |Therefore| lo! |days are coming|,
Declareth Yahweh,
When I will send to him tilters, and they shall tilt him,—
And <his vessels> shall they empty,
And <their jars> shall they dash in pieces.

13 Then shall |Moab| be ashamed, of |Chemosh|,—
Just as |the sons of Israel| were ashamed of |Bethel, their confidence|.

14 How' can ye say,
‖Heroes‖ are we'? and Men of might for the war?

15 Spoiled' is Moab,
And <her cities> hath he ascended,
And ‖the choice of his young men‖ have gone down to the slaughter,— Declareth The King,
‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is his Name.

16 Near' is the doom of Moab, to come,—
And ‖his calamity‖ hasteth |greatly|.

17 Lament ye for him—
All that are round about him, and
All that know his name,—
Say, How' is broken—
The staff of strength!
The rod of beauty!

18 Come down from glory, and sit in thirst,
O inhabitress, daughter of Dibon;
For ‖the spoiler of Moab‖ hath come up against thee,
He hath laid in ruins thy strongholds.

19 <Near the way> take thy stand and keep outlook,
O inhabitress of Aroer:
Ask— Him that fleeth, and
Her that hath escaped,
Say, What hath happened?

20 Confounded' is Moab! For it is broken down!
Howl and make outcry,—
Tell ye in Arnon',
That Moab |is spoiled|;

21 And ‖judgment‖ hath come
Upon the country of the table-land,— Upon Holon, and Upon Jazer, and Upon Mephaath; 22 and Upon Dibon, and Upon Nebo, and Upon Beth-diblathaim; 23 and Upon Kiriathaim, and Upon Beth-gamul, and Upon Beth-meon; 24 and Upon Kerioth, and Upon Bozrah,—
Yea ‖upon all the cities of the land of Moab, far, and near‖.

25 Cut off' is the horn of Moab,
Yea ‖his arm‖ is broken,—
Declareth Yahweh.

26 Make ye him drunken,
Because <against Yahweh> hath he magnified himself;
So shall |Moab| stagger[a] |into his own vomit|,
And shall become a derision, ‖even he‖!

27 And was it not ‖a derision‖ that Israel |became to thee|?
And was it not <among thieves> he was found?
For <as often as thou didst speak of him> thou didst wag the head![b]

28 Leave ye the cities, and dwell in the cliff,
Ye inhabitants of Moab;
And become ye as a dove, that maketh her nest in the further-side of the fissure's mouth.

29 We have heard the arrogance of Moab—proud exceedingly:
His loftiness and his arrogance and his majesty, and his elevation of heart!

30 ‖I‖ know— Declareth Yahweh,
His passion—that 'tis Unjust!
‖His boastings‖, that Untrue have they made [them]!

31 |For this cause| <over Moab> will I howl,
And <for all' Moab> will I make outcry,—
<For the men of Kir-heres> must one[c] moan!

32 <Beyond the weeping of Jazer> will I weep for thee, O vine of Sibmah,[d]
‖Thy tendrils‖ have gone over the sea,[e]
<Unto the sea of Jazer> have they reached,
<Upon thy summer fruits,
And upon thy vintage> |the spoiler| hath fallen.

[a] "Splash (fall with a splash)"—O.G.
[b] Or (more generally): "shake thyself in excitement (perh. of scorn = wag the head")—O.G. 627*.

33 So shall be withdrawn gladness and exultation—
From the fruitful field, and
From the land of Moab,—
And <wine from the vats> have I caused to fail,
They shall not tread with shouting,
‖The shouting‖ shall be no' shouting!

34 <From[a] the outcry of Heshbon,
Even unto Elealeh,
Even unto Jahaz> have they given forth their voice,
<From Zoar even unto Horonaim> the third[b] Eglath,—
For ‖even the waters of Nimrim‖ <to utter desolation> have been turned:

35 Then will I cause to cease, from Moab,
Declareth Yahweh,—
Him that offereth at a high-place, and
Him that burneth incense to his gods.

36 |For this cause| ‖my heart, for Moab‖ <like flutes> shall make plaintive sounds,
Yea ‖my heart, for the men of Kir-heres‖ <like flutes> shall make plaintive sounds,
|Because| ‖the abundance he hath gotten‖ is lost!

37 For ‖every[c] head‖ is baldness,
And ‖every beard‖ clipped:
<Upon all hands> are gashes,
And <upon the[d] loins> |sackcloth|!

38 <Upon all the housetops of Moab,
And in her broadways> it is all lamentation,—
For I have broken Moab—
Like a vessel wherein is no' pleasure,
Declareth Yahweh.

39 <How' it is broken down!>
They have howled,
How' hath Moab turned the back |for shame|,—
So shall Moab become a derision and a terror, to all round about him.

40 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Lo! <as an eagle> shall one dart along,—
And shall spread out his wings towards Moab.

41 Captured' is Kerioth,
And ‖the fortresses‖ are seized,—
Then shall the heart of the heroes of Moab become in that' day,
As the heart of a woman in her pains.

42 Then shall |Moab| be destroyed |from being a people|,—
Because <against Yahweh> hath he magnified himself.

43 ‖Terror, and pit, and snare‖[a] are upon thee, O inhabitant of Moab,
Declareth Yahweh:

44 ‖He that fleeth from the face of the terror‖
Shall fall into the pit,
And ‖he that getteth up out of the pit‖[b]
Shall be captured by the snare,—
For I will bring against her—|against Moab|,
The year of their visitation,
Declareth Yahweh.

45 <In the shadow of Heshbon> stand |strengthless| ‖the fugitives‖,—
For ‖a fire‖ hath gone forth out of Heshbon,
And shall flame out of the midst of[c] Sihon,
And shall devour the beard of Moab,[d]
And the crown of the head of the proudly tumultuous.[e]

46 Woe to thee, Moab!
Lost' are the people of Chemosh,—
For thy sons |have been taken| into captivity,
And thy daughters into captivity.[f]

47 Yet will I bring back the captivity of Moab,
In the afterpart of the days,
Declareth Yahweh.

<Thus far> is the sentence of Moab.

§ 44. The Nations:—The Sons of Ammon.

49 1 ‖Of the sons of Ammon‖—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh:
Hath Israel no' ‖sons‖?
Hath he no' ‖heir‖?
Why hath |Malkam|[g] taken possession' of |Gad|,
Or have ‖his people‖ <in the cities thereof> made their dwelling?

2 |Therefore| lo! |days are coming|,
Declareth Yahweh,
When I will cause to be heard against Rabbah of the sons of Ammon, |an alarm of war|,
So shall she become a mound of desolation,
And ‖her villages‖[h] <with fire> shall blaze,—
Then shall |Israel| inherit them' who inherited him',
Saith Yahweh.

3 Howl, O Heshbon, for Ai is spoiled,
Make outcry, ye daughters of Rabbah,
Gird you with sackcloth,
Lament ye, and run to and fro among the fences,—
For ‖Malkam‖[i] <into captivity> shall go,
His priests and his princes, |together|.

4 Why shouldst thou glory in the vales,
The flowing of thy vale, [a] O apostate' daughter?
She who is trusting in her treasures,
[saying],[b]
Who' shall invade |me|?

5 Behold me! bringing upon thee, terror,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh[c] of hosts,
From all who are round about thee,—
And ye shall be driven out every man before it,
And there shall be none to bring home the wanderer;

6 But <afterwards> will I bring back the captivity of the sons of Ammon,[d]
Declareth Yahweh.

§ 45. The Nations:—Edom. (Cp. Isa. lxiii.)

‖Of Edom‖—

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
Is there |no longer| wisdom in Teman?
Hath counsel perished from the discerning?
Is ‖their wisdom‖ corrupt?

8 Flee ye, turn, go down deep to dwell, O inhabitant of Dedan,—
For <the doom of Esau> have I brought in upon him,
The time of his visitation.

9 <If ‖grape-gatherers‖ came to thee>
Would they not leave |gleanings|?
<If ‖thieves in the night‖>
Would they not have taken away what sufficed them?

10 But ‖I‖ have stripped Esau bare,
I have uncovered his secret places,
And <to conceal himself> shall he not be able!
Spoiled, are his seed, and his brethren, and his neighbours, and he is' not.

11 Leave thy fatherless children
‖I‖ will preserve them alive,—
And ‖thy widows‖
<In me> let them trust.

12 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Lo! ‖they who had not been adjudged to drink the cup‖ ‖shall surely drink‖,
And art ‖thou‖ the one to go ‖unpunished‖?
Thou shalt not go unpunished, but ‖shalt surely drink‖.

13 For <by myself> have I sworn,
Declareth Yahweh,
That |Bozrah|[e] shall become ‖an astonishment, a reproach, and a desolation, and a contempt‖,—
And ‖all her cities‖ shall become age-abiding desolations.

14 <A report> have I heard from Yahweh,
Yea ‖an envoy‖ <throughout the nations> hath been sent,— Gather yourselves together, and come against her,
And arise to the battle.

15 For lo! ‖Small‖ have I made thee among the nations,— Despised among men!

16 ‖Thy monstrous thing‖[a] hath deceived thee,
The insolence[b] of thy heart,
O thou that inhabitest the hidden recesses of the cliff,
That holdest fast the height of the hill,—
<Though thou set high, as an eagle, [c] thy nest>
‖From thence‖ will I bring thee down,
Declareth Yahweh;

17 So shall |Edom| become |an astonishment|,—
‖Every one passing by her‖ will be astonished and hiss [d] over all her plagues:

18 <Like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah[e] and her neighbours>,
Saith Yahweh,—
There shall not dwell there—a man,
Nor sojourn therein—any son of the earth-born.

19 Lo! <like a lion> will he come up from the majesty of the Jordan, unto the pasture[f] perennial,
But I will wink—I will make him run away therefrom,
Who' then shall be the Chosen One whom <over it> I may set in charge?
For who' shall be like unto |me|?
And who' shall appoint |me| a |time|?[g]
And who' is' the Shepherd, that shall stand before |me|?

20 |Wherefore| hear ye
The counsel of Yahweh, which he hath counselled against Edom,
And his devices which he hath devised against the inhabitants of Teman,—
Surely the little ones of the flock |shall drag them away|,
Surely he will cause their fold[h] to be astounded over them.

21 <At the noise of their fall> hath trembled the earth,
‖At the outcry‖ <in the Red Sea> was heard its[i] noise.

22 Lo! <as an eagle> he shall mount and dart, and spread his wings over Bozrah,—
So shall the heart of the heroes of Edom, in that day, become as the heart of a woman in her pain.

§ 46. The Nations:—Damascus.

23 ‖Of Damascus‖

Turned pale' have Hamath and Arpad,
For  have they heard—they tremble,—
<In the sea> is anxiety, it cannot ‖rest‖.
24 Enfeebled' is Damascus,
She hath turned to flee,
But ‖terror‖ hath seized her,—
‖Anguish and pangs‖ have seized her, as a woman in childbirth.
25 Alas! is she not forsaken[a]—
The city so praised!
The citadel I rejoiced in!
26 |Therefore| shall her young men fall' in her broadways,—
And ‖all her men of war‖ shall be silent in that day, Declareth Yahweh of hosts;
27 Then will I kindle a fire in the walls of Damascus,—
And it shall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad.

§ 47. The Nations:—Kedar.

28 ‖Of Kedar‖,
And of the kingdoms of Hazor
Which Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon smote—
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,—
Arise ye, go up against Kedar,
So shall they spoil the sons of the East:
29 <Their tents and their flocks> shall they take,
And <their curtains, and all their baggage,[b] and their camels> shall they carry off for themselves,—
And shall cry out unto them,
Terror round about![c]
30 Flee, remove far away, go deep to dwell,
Ye inhabitants of Hazor,
Urgeth Yahweh;
For Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon—
|Hath counselled against you| a counsel,
And devised against you[d] a device.
31 Arise ye, go up against a nation at ease—dwelling securely, Commandeth Yahweh,—
Having neither doors nor bars,
<Alone> do they dwell:
32 So shall |their camels| become |a prey|,
And |the throng of their cattle| |a spoil|,
Then will I scatter them to every wind, even the clipt-beards,—
And <from all sides of him> will I bring in their doom, Declareth Yahweh.
33 So shall Hazor become
A habitation of jackals,
An astonishment, unto times age-abiding:
There shall not dwell there—a man,
Nor sojourn therein—a son of the earth-born.

§ 48. The Nations:—Elam.

34 So much of the word of Yahweh as came unto Jeremiah the prophet, Against Elam,—
in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, saying:—
35 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,—
Behold me! breaking the bow of Elam,—
The beginning' of their might;
36 Then will I bring in against Elam, four winds, from the four quarters of the heavens,
And will scatter' them to all these winds,—
And there shall be no nation' whither the outcasts of Elam |shall not come|;
37 And I will cause Elam[a] to be dismayed
Before their enemies,
Even before them who are seeking their life,[b]
So will I bring upon them calamity,
Even the glow of mine anger,
Declareth Yahweh,—
And will send after them the sword, until I have made an end of them;
38 And I will set my throne in Elam,—
And will destroy, from thence, king and princes, Declareth Yahweh;
39 But it shall come to pass,
In the after-part of the days,
That I will bring back the captivity of Elam,
Declareth Yahweh.

§ 49. The Nations:—Babylon.

50 1 The word which Yahweh spake
Against Babylon,
Against[c] the land of the Chaldeans,
through[d] Jeremiah the prophet:
2 Tell ye among the nations,
And let it be heard,
And lift ye up a standard,
Let it be heard, do not conceal:
Say ye—
Captured' is Babylon,
Confounded' is Bel,[a]
Broken in pieces' is Merodach,
Confounded' are her images,
Broken down' her manufactured gods;[f]

3 For there hath come up against her—a nation out of the North,
‖The same‖ shall make her land an astonishment,
And there shall be none to dwell therein,—
‖Both man and beast‖ have removed—have gone!

4 <In those days, and at that time>
Declareth Yahweh,
Shall the sons of Israel come in,
‖They‖ and the sons of Judah' |together|:
<Weeping as they travel> so shall they journey on,[a]
And <Yahweh their God> shall they seek;
5 <To Zion> shall they ask the way,
<Hitherward> their faces![b]
Come and let us join ourselves unto Yahweh,
In a covenant age-abiding, which shall not be forgotten.

6 <Wandering sheep> have |my people| been,
‖Their own shepherds‖ led them astray,
<On the mountains> they seduced them,[c]
<From mountain to hill> have they gone,
They have forgotten their couching-place.
7 ‖All who found them‖ devoured them,
And ‖their adversaries‖ said—
We shall not be guilty,—
Because they have sinned
Against Yahweh, the pasturage of righteousness,[d]
Yea ‖the hope of their fathers—Yahweh‖.

8 Remove ye out of the midst of Babylon,
And <out of the land of the Chaldeans> come ye forth,[e]—
And become ye like he-goats before the flock;
9 For lo! I' am rousing and bringing up against Babylon, a gathered host[f] of great nations, out of the land of the North,
And they shall array themselves against her,
<From thence> shall she be captured,—
‖His arrows‖ are as of a hero making childless,[g]
None shall return |empty|.
10 So shall the Chaldeans become a spoil,—
‖All her spoilers‖ shall be satisfied,
Declareth Yahweh;
11 Because they used to be glad,
Because they used to be uproarious,
When plundering mine inheritance,—
Because they used to caper about as a heifer at grass,
And bellow like bulls.

12 Your mother |hath turned very pale|,
She that bare you |hath turned red|,—
Lo! ‖the last of nations‖[a] is—
A desert,
A parched land, and
A waste plain.
13 <Because of the vexation of Yahweh> she shall not be inhabited,
But shall become a complete' desolation,—
‖Every one passing by Babylon‖ shall be astonished and hiss, over all her plagues.
14 Set yourselves in array against Babylon round about,
All ye who tread the bow,
Shoot at her, do not spare so much as an arrow,—
For <against Yahweh> hath she sinned.
15 Raise a shout against her round about,
She hath stretched forth her hand,[b]
Fallen' are her buttresses,
Torn down' are her walls,— <Because ‖the avenging of Yahweh‖ it is'> Take ye vengeance upon her,
<As she hath done> do ye |unto her|.[c]
16 Cut ye off the sower from Babylon,
And him that graspeth the sickle, in the time of harvest.
<From the face of the sword of the oppressor>
‖Each‖ |to his own people| will they turn, and
‖Each‖ |to his own land| will they flee.[d]

17 <A sheep all alone> is Israel,
‖Lions‖ have driven him away,—
<At the first> |the king of Assyria| devoured him,
And <here, at the last>[e] |Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon| hath broken his bones!

18 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
Behold me! bringing punishment against the king of Babylon, and against his land,—
Just as I brought punishment against the king of Assyria.
19 So will I bring back Israel unto his own pasture,
And he shall feed upon Carmel and Bashan;
And <in the hill country of Ephraim and Gilead> shall |his soul| be satisfied'.

20 <In those days, and in that time>
Declareth Yahweh,
The iniquity of Israel |shall be sought| and |there shall be' none|,
And the sins of Judah, and they shall not be found;
For I will grant pardon to them whom I suffer to remain.

21 <Against the land of Merathaim> go thou up against her,
And against the inhabitants of Pekod,—
Lay waste and devote to destruction after them, Declareth Yahweh,
And do according to all which I have commanded thee.

22 The ‖sound of battle‖ is in the earth,—
And a great destruction.[a]

23 How' is cut and broken, the hammer of all the earth![b]
How hath |Babylon| become an astonishment |among the nations|!

24 I laid a snare for thee, yea' and thou wast captured, O Babylon, when ‖thou‖ wast not aware,— Thou wast found out, yea and taken,
For <with Yahweh> hadst thou contended.

25 Yahweh opened' his armoury, and brought out his weapons of indignation,—
For ‖a work‖ it is' pertaining to My Lord, Yahweh[c] of hosts, in the land of the Chaldeans.

26 Come ye against her from farthest parts,
Throw open her granaries,
Cast her up as heaps, and devote her to destruction,—
Do not let her have |a remnant|.

27 Cut up all her bullocks,
Let them go down to the slaughter,—
Alas for them!
For their day |hath come|,
Their time for punishment.

28 The voice
Of them who are in flight, and
Of such as are escaping, out of the land of Babylon,—
To tell in Zion,
The avenging of Yahweh our God,
The avenging of his temple.[d]

29 Publish against Babylon, ye chiefs of all who tread the bow—
Encamp against her round about,
Let there be none[e] to escape,
Recompense to her according to her work,[f]
<According to all which she did> do ye to her,—
For <Against Yahweh> hath she acted presumptuously,
‖Against the Holy One of Israel‖.

30 |Therefore| shall her young men fall in her broadways,—
And ‖all her men of war‖ be silenced in that day, Declareth Yahweh.

31 Behold me! against thee, most insolent one,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh[a] of hosts;
For thy day |hath come|,
Thy time for punishment;

32 So shall the most insolent one stumble' and fall,
And he shall have none' to lift him up,—
And I will kindle a fire in his cities, which shall devour all who are round about him.

33 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts—
Oppressed' were the sons of Israel and the sons of Judah, |together|,—
And ‖all who took them captive
Held them fast,
Refused to let them go:—

34 ‖Their Redeemer‖ can hold fast,
‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is his name,
He will ‖thoroughly plead‖ their plea,—
That he may quiet the earth,
And disquiet the inhabitants of Babylon.

35 ‖A sword‖ is over the Chaldeans, Declareth Yahweh,—
And against the inhabitants of Babylon,
And against her princes,
And against her wise men:

36 ‖A sword‖ is against the praters,
And they shall be shewn to be foolish,—
‖A sword‖ is against her heroes,
And they shall be dismayed:

37 ‖A sword‖ is against his horses and against his chariots, and against all the rabble that are in her midst,
And they shall become women,—
‖A sword‖ is against her treasures,
And they shall be made a prey:

38 ‖A drought‖ is against her waters,
And they shall be dried up,—
For [b] it is',
And <with their shocking things>[c] they act as men who are mad:

39 |Therefore| shall the |criers| dwell with |the howlers|,
Yea ostriches |shall dwell therein|,—
So shall it be dwelt in no more for ever,
Neither shall it be inhabited, unto generation after generation.

40 <Like the divine overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah[d] and her neighbours> Declareth Yahweh,—
There shall not dwell there—a man,
Nor sojourn therein—a son of the earth-born.

41 Lo! a people coming in from the North,—
Yea ‖a great nation, and many kings‖ shall be roused up out of the remote parts of the earth:

‖Their voice‖ <like the sea> will roar,[a]
And <on horses> will they ride,—
Set in array, as one man, for battle,
Against thee, O daughter of Babylon!
43 The king of Babylon hath heard' the report of them,
And unnerved' are his hands,—
‖Anguish‖ hath seized him,
‖Writhing pain‖, as a woman in child-birth.
44 Lo! <as a lion> shall he come up from the majesty of the Jordan,[b]
Unto the pasture perennial,
But I will wink—I will make them run away therefrom,
Who' then shall be the Chosen One whom <against it> I may set in charge?[c]
For who' shall be like unto |me|?
And who' shall appoint |me| a |time|?
And who' is' the Shepherd that shall stand before |me|?
45 |Therefore| hear ye
The counsel of Yahweh, which he hath counselled against Babylon,
And his devices which he hath devised against the land[d] of the Chaldeans,—
Surely the little ones of the flock |shall drag them away|,
Surely he will cause the pasture to be astounded over them.

46 <At the noise of the taking of Babylon> the earth' trembled,—
And ‖the outcry‖ <among the nations> was heard.

51 1 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh—
Behold me! stirring up against Babylon,
And against the inhabitants of the centre[e] of them who rise up against me,[f]—
A wind that destroyeth;
2 And I will send to Babylon winnowers,
And they shall winnow her,
And shall empty her land,—
For they are against her round about, in the day of calamity.
3 Let not the archer tread his bow,
Nor lift himself up in his coat of mail,[g]—
And do not spare her young men,
Devote to destruction all her host.
4 So shall they fall wounded, in the land of Chaldea,— Yea thrust through, in her streets,
5 For Israel and Judah have not been widowed[h]
Of their God,
Of Yahweh of hosts,—
But ‖their land‖ hath been filled with punishment for guilt, from the Holy One of Israel.

6 Flee out of the midst of Babylon,
And deliver ye every man his own life,[a]
Be not cut off in her punishment,[b]—
For it is Yahweh's ‖time of avenging‖,
<A recompense> is he' repaying unto her.

7 <A cup of gold> was Babylon, in the hand of Yahweh,
Making drunk all the earth,[c]—
<Of her wine> have the nations drunk,
|For this cause| have the nations been acting as men who are mad.

8 ‖Suddenly‖ hath Babylon fallen, and been broken,— Howl ye over her,
Fetch balsam for her pain,[d]
|Peradventure| she shall be healed!

9 We would have healed Babylon, but she is not healed,
Leave her, and let us go every one to his own land,—
For her judgment |reacheth unto the heavens|,
And mounteth as far as the skies.[e]

10 Yahweh hath brought forth our righteousnesses,—
Come and let us relate in Zion, the work of Yahweh our God.

11 Polish the arrows,
Lay hold of[f] the shields,—
Yahweh hath roused the spirit of the kings of the Medes,
For <against Babylon> his purpose is, to destroy her,—
For it is ‖The avenging of Yahweh‖,
‖The avenging of his temple‖.[g]
12 <Against the walls of Babylon>
Lift ye up a standard,
Strengthen ye the watch,
Station the watchmen,
Make ready the ambuscades,—
For Yahweh hath both planned' and also performed' that which he had spoken against the inhabitants of Babylon.

13 O thou who dwellest upon many waters,[h]
Who aboundest in treasures,—
Come' hath thine end!
The measure of thine unrighteous gain!
14 Yahweh of hosts |hath sworn|, by his own soul:
Surely I have filled thee with men, as with locusts,
And they have answered against thee, |with a shout|.[i]

15 <He that Made the earth in his might,
Established the world in his wisdom,—
And <in his understanding> stretched out the heavens>
16 <By the voice that he uttered> there was a tumult of waters in the heavens,
And he caused vapours to ascend from the end of the earth,— <Lightnings for the rain> made he,[a]
And brought forth wind out of his treasures.
17 Every son of earth had become too brutish to know,—
Every goldsmith |hath been put to shame| by a graven image,—
For  is his molten image,
Seeing there is no breath in them:
18 <Vanity> they are',
A handiwork of mockeries,—
<In the time of their visitation> shall they perish.

19 <Not like these> is the portion of Jacob,
For <the fashioner of all things> is he![b]
And the portion[c] of his inheritance,—
‖Yahweh of hosts‖ is his name.

20 <A war-club> art thou' for me,
Weapons of war;
Therefore will I
Beat down with thee—nations, and Destroy with thee—kingdoms; [21] and Beat down with thee—the horse and his rider,— and Beat down with thee—the chariot and its rider; [22] and Beat down with thee—man and woman, and Beat down with thee—elder and youth, and Beat down with thee—young man and virgin; [23] and Beat down with thee—the shepherd and his flock, and Beat down with thee—the plowman and his yoke;— and Beat down with thee — governors and deputies:
24 So will I recompense to Babylon,
And to all the inhabitants of Chaldea,
All their wickedness which they have committed against Zion, before your eyes,—
Declareth Yahweh.

25 Behold me! against thee, O destroying mountain, Declareth Yahweh,
That destroyest all the earth,—
Therefore will I stretch out my hand over thee,
And roll thee down from the crags,
And make of thee a burning' mountain:
26 So shall they not fetch from thee,
A stone for a corner, nor
A stone for a foundation,—
For <desolations age-abiding> shalt thou become, Declareth Yahweh.

27 Set ye up an ensign in the earth,
Blow ye a horn among the nations,
Hallow against her—nations,
Summon against her the kingdoms of Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz,[a]—
Set in charge against her a marshal,
Bring up cavalry like hairy locusts:
28 Hallow against her—nations,
With the kings of Media,
With[b] her governors and all her deputies,—
And with all the land of his dominion:
29 Then did the land tremble, and was in pain,—
For the plans of Yahweh |had been established against Babylon|,
To make the land of Babylon an astonishment, without inhabitant.

30 The heroes of Babylon have ceased' to fight,
They have remained in the strongholds,
Parched' is their might,
They have become women,—
They have set fire to her habitations,
Broken' are her bars!
31 <Runner to meet runner> shall they run,
And teller to meet teller,—
To tell the king of Babylon,
That captured' is his city at the end!
32 and
‖The fords‖ have been seized, and
<The reeds> have they burned with fire; and ‖The men of war‖ are dismayed!

33 For ‖thus‖ saith Yahweh of hosts,
God of Israel,
‖The daughter of Babylon‖ is like a threshing-floor, at the time of treading her:
<Yet a little> and the time of harvest shall overtake her.

34 Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon—
Hath devoured me,[c]
Hath vexed me,[c]
Hath set me down as an empty vessel,
He hath swallowed me[c] like a sea-monster,
He hath filled his belly with my dainties,—
He hath driven me[c] away!
35 ‖The violence done to me and to my flesh‖[d] be upon Babylon!
Shall the inhabitress of Zion say',—
Yea ‖my blood‖ be upon[e] the inhabitant of Chaldea!
Shall Jerusalem say'.

36 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Behold me! pleading thy cause,
So then I will execute the avenging of thee;
And will dry up her sea,
And make dry her spring:
37 Thus shall Babylon become—
Heaps,
A habitation of jackals,
An astonishment, and
A hissing,
Without inhabitant.
38 ‖Together‖ <like wild lions> shall they roar,—
They have growled like lions' whelps.
39 <When they are heated> I will spread their banquets,
And let them drink that they may become uproarious,
So shall they sleep an age-abiding sleep and not wake,— Declareth Yahweh.
40 I will bring them down
As fat lambs to slaughter,—
As rams, with he-goats.

41 How' hath Sheshach[a] |been captured|!
How' hath the praise of all the earth |been seized|!
How' hath Babylon |become an astonishment among the nations|!
42 The sea |hath gone up over Babylon|,—
<With the multitude of its rolling waves> is she covered.
43 |Her cities| have become |an astonishment|,
A land parched up, and a waste plain,—
A land wherein shall no man dwell',
Nor |pass through them| a son of the earth-born!
44 So will I bring punishment upon Bel[b] in Babylon,
And will bring forth what he hath swallowed' out of his mouth,
And the nations |shall stream[c] unto him no more|,—
‖Even the wall of Babylon‖ hath fallen!

45 Come ye forth out of her midst, O my people,[d]
And deliver ye every man his own life,[e]—
Because of the glow of the anger of Yahweh.
46 And let not your heart be timid', nor be ye afraid,
Because of the report that is reported in the earth[f]
When there shall come <in one year> the report,
And <after that, in another year> the report,
With violence in the earth, and ruler upon[g] ruler.

47 |Therefore| lo! |days coming| when I will bring punishment upon the images[a] of Babylon,
And ‖all her land‖ shall turn pale,—
Yea ‖all her wounded‖ shall fall in her midst.
48 Then shall shout over Babylon—heavens[b] and earth, and all who are therein,—
For <out of the North> shall come to her the spoilers, Declareth Yahweh.
49 Not only' hath ‖Babylon‖ caused the fall of the slain of Israel,—
<By Babylon> also' have fallen the slain of |all the earth|.[c]
50 Ye that have escaped the sword, depart, do not stand still,— Remember, from afar, Yahweh,
Let ‖Jerusalem‖ come up on your heart:[d]—
51 We have turned pale, for we have heard a reproach,
|Confusion| hath covered' |our faces|,—
For aliens have entered upon the hallowed places of the house of Yahweh!

52 |Therefore| lo! |days are coming|,
Declareth Yahweh,
When I will bring punishment upon her images;[e]
And <throughout all her land> shall the pierced' one |groan|.
53 <Though Babylon should mount' the heavens,[f]
And though she should fortify her strong high-place>
<From me> should come spoilers unto her,
Declareth Yahweh.

54 A voice of outcry from Babylon!
And a great crash from the land of the Chaldeans!
55 For |Yahweh| is spoiling' |Babylon|
And will destroy out of her the loud voice,—
Though their waves have roared like many[g] waters,
Been uttered the loud boast of their voice.
56 For there hath come upon her—upon Babylon—a spoiler,
And captured' are their heroes,
And broken' are their bows,—
For  is Yahweh,
He will ‖surely repay‖.
57 Then will I make drunk—
Her princes and her wise men,
Her governors, and her deputies, and her heroes,
And they shall sleep an age-abiding sleep, and not wake,— Declareth the King,
<Yahweh of hosts> is his name.

§ 50. Seraiah commissioned to take a Scroll, containing all the Prophecies of Jeremiah against Babylon, and on his Arrival in that City to attach a Stone and cast it into the Euphrates, as a Symbol of Babylon's Fate.

59 The word which Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraiah[b] son of Neriah son of Mahseiah, when he went with Zedekiah king of Judah into Babylon, in the fourth year of his reign,—now ‖Seraiah‖ was travelling-marshal. 60 So Jeremiah wrote' all the calamity which was to come unto Babylon, in one scroll; even all these words which have been written against Babylon. 61 Then said Jeremiah unto Seraiah,—
<When thou comest into Babylon> then shalt thou look out and read' all these words; 62 and thou shalt say—
O Yahweh! ‖thou thyself‖ hast spoken against this place, to cut it off,
That there be in it no inhabitant,
Neither man nor beast,—
But <desolations age-abiding> shall it become!

63 And it shall be <when thou hast made an end of reading this scroll> that thou shalt bind thereunto a stone, and cast it in the midst of the Euphrates. 64 Then shalt thou say,—
<In like manner> shall Babylon sink and not rise,
Because of the calamity which I' am about to bring thereupon:
So shall they perish.[c]

<Thus far> are |the words of Jeremiah|.

§ 51. A supplementary Account of Zedekiah's Reign, of the Siege of Jerusalem, of the Precious Vessels and Leading Men carried away, of the several successive Deportations to Babylon, and of the changed lot of Jehoiachin in Babylon. (Cp. chap. xxxix., 2 K. xxv.)

52 1 <Twenty-one years old> was Zedekiah when he began to reign, and <eleven years> reigned he, in Jerusalem,—and ‖his mother's name‖ was Hamutal,[d] daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. 2 And he did that which was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that |Johoiakim| had done. 3 For it was <because ‖the anger of Yahweh‖ had come against Jerusalem and Judah, until he had cast them' out from his presence> that Zedekiah rebelled' against the king of Babylon.

4 And it came to pass <in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month> that Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came, ‖he and all his force‖ against Jerusalem, and encamped against it,—and he built against it a siege-wall |round about|. 5 And the city |came into| the siege,—until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. 6 <In the fourth month, on the ninth of the month, when the famine had become severe' in the city,—and there had come to be no bread for the people of the land> 7 then was the city |broken up|, and ‖all the men of war‖ beginning to flee, went forth out of the city by night, by way of the gate between the two walls which was by the garden of the king (the Chaldeans being near the city round about),—and they went the way towards the Waste Plain. 8 And the force of the Chaldeans pursued' the king, and overtook Zedekiah, in the Waste Plains of Jericho,—and ‖all his force‖ was scattered from him.
9 So they seized the king, and brought him up unto the king of Babylon at Riblah, in the land of Hamath,—and he pronounced upon him sentences of judgment. 10 And the king of Babylon slew' the sons of Zedekiah, before his eyes,—moreover also <all the princes of Judah> slew he in Riblah; 11 and <the eyes of Zedekiah> put he out,—and bound him with fetters of bronze, and the king of Babylon took' him to Babylon, and put him in prison—until the day of his death.
12 And <in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month, ‖the same‖ was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon> came Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners,—who stood before the king of Babylon, into Jerusalem; 13 and he burned the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—yea <all the houses of Jerusalem, even every great man's house> burned he with fire; 14 and <all the walls of Jerusalem, round about> did all the force of the Chaldeans who were with the chief of the royal executioners, |break down|. 15 And <some of the poor of the people, and the residue of the people who were left in the city, and the disheartened who had fallen away unto the king of Babylon, and the residue of the multitude> did Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners, |carry away captive|. 16 But <others of the poor of the land> did Nebuzaradan chief of the royal executioners, leave', for vinedressers and for husbandmen.
17 And <the pillars of bronze that pertained to the house of Yahweh, and the stands, and the sea of bronze which was in the house of Yahweh> did the Chaldeans |break in pieces|,—and they carried away all the bronze of them, to Babylon: 18 and <the caldrons

and the shovels and the snuffers and the dashing bowls, and the spoons, even all the utensils of bronze wherewith ministration used to be made > did they take away; [19] and <the basins and the censers and the dashing bowls and the caldrons and the lamps and the spoons and the cups, which were of gold, in' gold, and which were of silver, in' silver> did the chief of the royal executioners |take away|. [20] < As for the two pillars, the one sea, and the twelve oxen of bronze which were under the stands' which King Solomon had made for the house of Yahweh > ‖without weight‖ was the bronze of all these things. [21] Now <as for the pillars> ‖eighteen cubits‖ was the height' of each' pillar, and ‖a line of twelve cubits‖ compassed it about,—and ‖the thickness thereof‖ was four fingers' breadth—hollow; [22] and there was | a capital| upon it |of bronze|, and ‖the height of each' capital‖ was five cubits, with lattice-work and pomegranates upon the capital round about—‖the whole‖ was of bronze,—and <like these> were the second pillar and the pomegranates. [23] And the pomegranates were ninety-six on a side,—‖all the pomegranates‖ were a hundred, upon the lattice-work, round about.

[24] And the chief of the royal executioners |took away| Seraiah, the first' priest, and Zephaniah, the second' priest,—and the three keepers of the entrance-hall; [25] and <out of the city> took he one eunuch who was in charge over the men of war, and seven men of them who used to watch the face of the king, who were found in the city, and the scribe of the prince of the host, who used to muster the people of the land,—and sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the midst of the city. [26] And <when Nebuzaradan, chief the royal executioners, had taken' them, and brought them unto the king of Babylon, at Riblah> [27] then did the king of Babylon smite' them and put them to death at Riblah, in the land of Hamath,—thus carried he Judah captive, away from off their own soil.

[28] ‖This‖ is the people, whom Nebuchadrezzar |carried away captive|,— <In the seventh year—of them of Judah> three thousand and twenty-three; [29] <In the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar—out of Jerusalem> eight hundred and thirty-two souls; [30] <In the three-and-twentieth year of Nebuchadrezzar> Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, took away captive, |of them of Judah| seven hundred and forty-five souls: ‖All‖ the souls‖ were four thousand and six hundred.

[31] And it came to pass <in the thirty-seventh year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth of the month> that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year he began to reign, |lifted up| the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, and brought him forth out of prison; [32] and spake with him comfortable words,—and set his throne above the throne of the kings who were with him in Babylon; [33] so he changed his prison garments,—and used to eat bread before his face continually, all the days of his life. [34] And ‖his allowance‖ was a continual' allowance, given him from the king of Babylon, the portion of the day upon its own day, until the day of his death,—all the days of his life.

THE LAMENTATIONS.

א 1 [1] How' is seated alone, the city that abounded with people,
Hath become as a widow,—
She who abounded among the nations,
Was a princess among provinces,
Hath come under tribute.[a]

ב [2] She ‖weepeth sore‖ in the night, and ‖her tear‖ is on her cheek,
She hath none to comfort her, of all her lovers,—
‖All her friends‖ have betrayed her,
Have become her' foes.

ג [3] Carried away captive' is Judah—
Because of oppression; and Because of great servitude,
‖She‖ hath remained among the nations,
Hath found no place of rest,—
‖All her pursuers‖ have overtaken her, between straits.

ד [4] ‖The ways to Zion‖ are mourning,
Because none come to her appointed feasts,
‖All her gates‖ are desolate,
‖Her priests‖ are sighing,—
‖Her virgins‖ are grieved,
And <she> it is bitter for her'.

[a] Chapters i.—iv. alphabetical: p. 607, ante.

ה 5 Her adversaries' have become chief',
‖Her foes‖ are at ease,
For ‖Yahweh‖ hath grieved her, because of the multitude of her transgressions,— ‖Her children‖ have gone into captivity, before the adversary.

ו 6 Thus hath gone forth from the daughter of Zion,
All that adorned her,—
Her princes' have become like harts' that have found no pasture,
And have gone strengthless before the pursuer.

ז 7 Jerusalem hath remembered'
In the days of her humiliation and her fleeings—
All her precious things, which have existed from the days of old,—
<Now that her people have been falling into the hand of the adversary, with none' to help her>
The adversaries have seen' her, have mocked over her sabbath-keepings.

ח 8 Jerusalem ‖hath grievously sinned‖,
‖For this cause‖ <unto exile> hath she been delivered,—
‖All who used to honour her‖ have despised her, for they have descried her unseemliness, Yea ‖she herself‖ hath sighed, and turned back.

ט 9 ‖Her impurity‖ is in her skirts,
She hath not remembered her hereafter,
Therefore hath she come down wonderfully,
None to comfort her,—
Behold, O Yahweh, my humiliation,
That the foe' |hath made himself great|.

י 10 <His hand> hath the adversary spread out, over all her precious things,—
For she saw that ‖the nations‖ entered her sanctuary,
As to whom thou didst command' they should not enter—in the convocation—unto thee!

כ 11 ‖All her people‖ are sighing, seeking bread,
They have given their precious things for food, to bring back life,[a]— Behold, O Yahweh, and discern, that I have become worthless.

ל 12 Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by?
Look around and see, whether there is' pain like my pain, which is severely dealt out to me,—
In that Yahweh |hath caused grief|, in the day of the glow of his anger?[b]

מ 13 <From on high> sent he fire, among my bones, and laid them prostrate,—
He spread out a net for my feet, he made me turn back,
He made me desolate, <all the day> faint.

[a] "Bring back soul (i.e., revive)"—O.G. 661[a], 6, g.
[b] Cp. ver. 18.

נ 14 The yoke of my transgressions |hath been bound| by his hand—
They have intertwined themselves, have come up on my neck, it hath paralysed my strength,—
My Lord |hath delivered me| into the hands of those against whom I cannot rise up.

ס 15 My Lord |hath flouted at all my magnates| in my midst,
He hath called against me a host,[a] to crush my young men,—
<A winepress> hath My Lord trodden, to[b] the virgin, the daughter of Judah.

ע 16 <For these things> am ‖I‖ weeping,
‖Mine eye, mine eye[c]‖ is running down with waters,
For <far from me> is any who could comfort, could bring back my life,—
My sons are amazed, for strong' is the foe.

פ 17 Zion |hath spread forth| her hands, there is none' to comfort her,
Yahweh |hath given command|, respecting Jacob, unto them who surround him—his adversaries,—
Jerusalem hath become as a removed woman, in their midst.

צ 18 Righteous' is Yahweh, for <against his bidding> had I rebelled,— Hear, I pray you, all ye peoples, and see my pain,[d]
‖My virgins and my young men‖ have gone into exile.

ק 19 I called to my lovers, ‖they‖ deceived me,
‖My priests and mine elders‖ |in the city| have breathed their last,—
For they sought them food, that they might bring back their life.

ר 20 See, O Yahweh, that I am in distress,
‖Mine inward parts‖ are[e] in ferment,
My heart is turned within me,
For I have ‖obstinately rebelled‖,—
<Without> bereaveth the sword,
<Within> is like death!

ש 21 They have heard—that |sighing am| I', [and am saying]—
There is none to comfort me,
‖All my foes‖—having heard of my calamity—have rejoiced,
Because ‖thou‖ hast done it,—
Thou hast brought in the day thou didst proclaim,
So let them become like me.

ת 22 Let all their wickedness |come in| before thee,
And deal thou severely with them',
According as thou hast dealt severely with me',[f] for all my transgressions;
For many' are my sighs, and ‖my heart‖ is sick.

2 א

1 How' could My Lord, in his anger, |enshroud in gloom|
The daughter of Zion?
Have cast from the heavens to the earth,
The beauty of Israel?
And not have remembered his footstool,[a]
In the day of his anger?

ב

2 My Lord hath swallowed up—without pity—
All the pastures of Jacob,
Hath laid waste—in his indignation—
The strongholds of the daughter of Judah,
Hath brought them down to the ground,—
Hath profaned the kingdom, and the princes thereof.

ג

3 He hath broken off—in the glow of his anger—
The whole horn of Israel,
Hath turned back his right hand, from the face of the foe,—
And hath kindled against Jacob, a very fire of flame, Devouring round about.

ד

4 He hath trodden his bow like a foe,
His right hand erect' as an adversary,
And hath slain all them who delighted the eye,—
<In the home[b] of the daughter of Zion> hath he poured out, as fire, his indignation.

ה

5 My Lord' hath become like a foe',
Hath swallowed up Israel,
Hath swallowed up all her[c] castles, ruined his strongholds,— and
Hath caused to abound, in the daughter of Judah, lamentation and mourning.

ו

6 Thus hath he destroyed, like a garden,[d] his pavilion,
Hath laid waste his place of assembly,—
Yahweh |hath caused to be forgotten|, in Zion,
The appointed assembly and the sabbath,
And hath spurned, in the indignation of his anger,
The king and the priest.

ז

7 My Lord hath rejected' his altar,
Hath abhorred his sanctuary,
Hath delivered, into the hand of the foe, the walls of her castles,—
<A voice> have they uttered in the house of Yahweh,
As on the day of an appointed assembly.

ח

8 Yahweh hath devised' to lay in ruins,
The wall of the daughter of Zion,
He hath stretched out a line,
He hath not turned back his hand
From swallowing up,—
Thus hath he caused to mourn—rampart[e] and wall,
Together' have they languished!

ט

9 Her gates |have sunk in the earth|,
He hath destroyed and broken in pieces, her bars,—
‖Her king and her princes‖ are among the nations,
There is no instruction,
‖Even her prophets‖ have found no vision, from Yahweh.

י

10 Seated on the ground, in silence,
Are the elders of the daughter of Zion,
They have lifted up dust on their head,
Have girded themselves with sackcloth,—
Bowed down to the ground is the head,
Of the virgins of Jerusalem.[a]

כ

11 Blinded with tears' are mine eyes,
In ferment' is my body,[b]
Poured out to the earth' is my grief,[c]
For the sore hurt of the daughter of my people,—
When child and suckling are swooning,
In the broadways of the city.

ל

12 <To their mothers> they keep saying,
Where are corn and wine?
Swooning off, like one thrust through,
In the broadways of the city,
Pouring out their life[d]
Into the bosom of their mothers.

מ

13 How shall I solemnly admonish thee?
What shall I liken to thee,
Thou daughter of Jerusalem?
What shall I compare with thee, that I may comfort thee,
Thou virgin, daughter of Zion?
For <great as the sea> is thy grievous injury,
Who can heal thee?

נ

14 ‖Thy prophets‖ have had visions for thee,
False and foolish,
And have not unveiled thine iniquity,
To turn back thy captivity,—
Yea they have had visions for thee,
Oracles of falsehood, and enticements!

ס

15 All passing by, |have clapped, over thee, their hands|,
Have hissed and wagged their head
Over the daughter of Jerusalem,—[saying]
Is ‖this‖ the city, of which men used to say—
The perfection of beauty!
A joy to the whole earth!

פ

16 All thy foes |have opened wide, over thee, their mouth|,
They have hissed, and gnashed their teeth,
They have said—
We have swallowed [her] up!
Surely ‖this‖ is the day for which we have waited,
We have found! We have seen!

ע 17 Yahweh hath done' what he thought'
Hath carried out his word, wherewith he gave charge in the days of old,
Hath thrown down, and not spared,—
Thus hath he let the enemy rejoice over thee,
Hath raised high the horn of thine adversaries.[a]

צ 18 Their heart |hath made outcry| unto My Lord,—
O wall of the daughter[b] of Zion—
Let tears run down as a torrent day and night,
Do not give thyself relief,[c]
Let not the weeping[d] of thine eye cease!

ק 19 Arise, cry out in the night,
<At the beginning of the watches> pour out, like waters, thy heart,
Right before the face of My Lord,[e]—
Lift up, above thee,[f] the palms of thy hands,
For the life[g] of thy children,
Who are swooning for hunger, at the top of all the streets!

ר 20 See, O Yahweh, and do consider, to whom' thou hast acted thus severely,—
Will women' |devour| their own fruit' — the children they have dandled?
Shall priest' and prophet' |be slain in the sanctuary of My Lord|?

ש 21 Youth and elder |have lain down on the ground in the streets|,
‖My virgins and my young men‖ have fallen by the sword,—
Thou hast slain, in the day of thine anger,
Thou hast slaughtered, hast not spared!

ת 22 Wilt thou proclaim, like the day of an appointed meeting—
My terrors round about?[h]
When there was not—in the day of the anger of Yahweh—fugitive or survivor,— <Those whom I dandled and reared> ‖my foe‖ hath destroyed.

3 א 1 ‖I‖ am the man, that hath seen affliction,[i]
By the rod of his indignation;

א 2 <Me> hath he driven out and brought into darkness,
And not light;

א 3 Surely <against me> doth he again and again turn his hand
All the day.

ב 4 He hath worn out my flesh and my skin,
Hath broken my bones;

ב 5 He hath built up against me, and carried round me,
Fortifications and a trench;[a]

ב 6 <In dark places> hath he made me sit,
Like the dead of age-past times.[b]

ג 7 He hath walled up around me, that I cannot get out,
Hath weighted my fetter;[c]

ג 8 Yea' <when I make outcry and implore>
He hath shut out my prayer;

ג 9 He hath walled in my ways with hewn stone,
<My paths> hath he caused to wind back.[d]

ד 10 <A bear lying in wait> he is' to me,
A lion, in secret places;

ד 11 <My ways> hath he turned aside, and hath torn me in pieces,
Hath made me desolate;

ד 12 He hath trodden his bow, and set me up,
As a mark for the arrow.

ה 13 He hath caused to enter my reins
The sons of his quiver[e]

ה 14 I have become a derision to all my people,[f]
Their song[g] all the day;

ה 15 He hath sated me with bitter things,
Hath drenched me with wormwood.

ו 16 And he hath crushed, with gravel-stones, my teeth,
Hath made me cower in ashes;

ו 17 And thou hast thrust away from welfare, my soul,
I have forgotten prosperity;

ו 18 And I said, Vanished' is mine endurance,
Even mine expectation, from Yahweh.[h]

ז 19 Remember my humiliation and my fleeings,
The wormwood and poison;

ז 20 Thou wilt ‖indeed remember‖
That |bowed down concerning myself| is my soul;

ז 21 <This> will I bring back to my heart,[i]
<Therefore> will I hope.[k]

ח 22 <The lovingkindnesses of Yahweh> verily' they are not exhausted,[l]
Verily! |not at an end| are his compassions:

ח 23 New things for the mornings!
Abundant is thy faithfulness:

ח 24 <My portion> is Yahweh, saith my soul,
‖For this cause‖ will I wait for him.

6 <To Egypt> have we stretched out our hand,
<To Assyria> to be satisfied with bread.
7 ‖Our fathers‖ sinned, and[d] are' not,
And[d] ‖we‖ <their iniquities> have borne.[e]
8 ‖Slaves‖ have ruled over us,
There is none' to set free from their hand.
9 <At the risk of our life>[f] do we bring in our bread,
Because of the sword of the desert.
10 ‖Our skin‖[g] <as with a furnace> is scorched,
Because of the hot winds of famine.
11 ‖Women—in Zion‖ were ravished,
‖Virgins‖ in the cities of Judah!
12 ‖Princes‖ <by their hand> have been hanged,
‖The faces of elders‖ not honoured.
13 ‖Young men‖ [a] have lifted,
And ‖youths‖ <under wood> have staggered.
14 ‖Elders‖ <from the gates> have ceased,
‖Young men‖ from their music.
15 Ceased' hath the joy of our hearts,
<Changed to mourning> our dance.
16 Fallen' is the crown of our head.
Surely woe to us, for we have sinned.
17 <For this cause> faint' is our heart,[b]
<For these things> dimmed' are our eyes';
18 Because of Mount Zion, which is desolate,
‖Jackals‖ have gone prowling therein.
19 ‖Thou, O Yahweh‖ <unto times age-abiding> dost remain,
‖Thy throne‖ from generation to generation:
20 Wherefore' shouldst thou perpetually forget us?
Forsake us, to length of days?
21 Bring us back, O Yahweh, unto thyself,
And we will come' back!
Renew our days, as of old;
22 For though thou hast not ‖utterly rejected‖ us,
Thou art wroth with us—exceedingly!

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET
EZEKIEL.

§1. A Lightning Throne seen by the River Chebar.

1 1 And it came to pass <in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, I' being in the midst of them of the captivity, by the river Chebar> that the heavens |were opened|, and I saw visions of God. 2 <On the fifth of the month, ‖that‖ was the fifth year of the captivity of King Jehoiachin> 3 ‖in very deed‖ came the word of Yahweh, unto Ezekiel son of Buzi, the priest, in the land of the Chaldeans, by the river Chebar,—yea the hand of Yahweh |came on him there|.

4 So then I beheld, and lo! a tempestuous wind coming out of the North, a great cloud, and a fire catching hold of itself,[a] and it had a brightness round about,—and <out of the midst thereof> as burnished copper[b] to look upon, out of the midst of the fire; 5 and <out of the midst thereof> a likeness of four living ones,—and ‖this‖ was their appearance, <the likeness of a man> had they; 6 and <four faces each, and four wings each> had they; 7 and ‖their feet‖ were straight feet,—and ‖the sole of their feet‖ was like the sole of the foot of a calf, but sparkling, as shining bronze to look upon; 8 and ‖the hands[c] of a man‖ were under their wings, on their four' sides,—and ‖their faces and their wings‖ belonged to the four of them: 9 <joined to each other> were their wings,—they turned not when they went, <each one straight before him> did they go; 10 and ‖the likeness of their faces‖ was the face of a man, with the face of a lion to the right of the four of them, and <the face of an ox, on the left> of the four of them,—<the face of an eagle> also had they four; 11 and ‖their wings‖[a] were spread[b] |above|,—‖two of each‖ joined one another, and ‖two‖ covered their bodies; 12 and <each one, straight before him> did they go,—<whithersoever the spirit was minded to go> they went, they turned not when they went. 13 <As for the likeness of the living ones> ‖their[c] appearance‖ was like live coals of fire, burning up like the appearance of torches, ‖the same‖ went to and fro between the living ones,—and the fire had ‖brightness‖, and <out of the fire> went forth[d] lightning. 14 And ‖the living ones‖ ran and returned,[e]—like the appearance of a flash of lightning.

15 And I looked at the living ones,—and lo! ‖one wheel upon the earth beside the living ones‖ for each of his four faces. 16 ‖The[f] appearance of the wheels and of their structure‖ was like a Tarshish-stone[g] to look upon, and they four had |one likeness|, — and ‖their appearance and their structure‖ were just as would be |a wheel in the midst of a wheel|. 17 <Upon their four sides, when they went> ‖so‖ did they go,—they turned not when they went. 18 <As for their rings> they were so high, that they were terrible,—and <their rings full of eyes round about> had they four. 19 And <when the living ones went> the wheels went |beside them|,—and <when the living ones were lifted up from the earth> the wheels were lifted up: 20 <whithersoever the spirit was minded to go> they went—‖thither‖ was the spirit minded to go,—and ‖the wheels‖ would be lifted up along with them, for ‖the spirit of the living one‖[h] was in the wheels: 21 <when they went> these' went, and <when they stood> these' stood,—and <when they were lifted up from off the earth> the wheels were lifted up |along with them|, for ‖the spirit of the living one‖ was in the wheels.

22 And there was a likeness, over the heads of the living one—an expanse,[i] like terrible crystal to look upon,—stretched forth[k] over their heads |above|.[i] 23 And <under the expanse> ‖their wings‖ were straight', one towards another,—‖each one‖ had two, covering <on this side> and ‖each one‖ had two, covering <on that side> |their bodies|,

24 And I heard the sound of their wings, as the sound of many waters, as the sound of the Almighty, |when they went|, the sound of a storm, as the sound of a host,—<when they stood> they let down their wings. 25 And there was a voice above the expanse that was over their head,—<when they stood> they let down their wings.

26 And <above the expanse that was over their heads, as the appearance of a sapphire-stone> was the likeness of a throne,—and <upon the likeness of a throne> was a likeness, as the appearance of a man, upon it |above|. 27 And I saw, <as burnished copper[a] to look upon> as the appearance of fire within it round about, <from the appearance of his loins and upwards', and from the appearance of his loins and downwards'> saw I, as the appearance of fire, and he had brightness round about: 28 <as the appearance of the bow which is in a cloud, on a day of rain> ‖so‖ was the appearance of the brightness round about, ‖that‖ was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of Yahweh,— and <when I saw> I fell upon my face, and heard a voice of one speaking.

§2. One who Speaks sends Ezekiel to Them of the Captivity.

2 1 And he said unto me,—
Son of man,
Stand upon thy feet, that I may speak with thee.
2 Then the Spirit entered into me, as soon as he spake unto me, and it caused me to stand upon my feet,—and I heard one speaking unto me. 3 And he said unto me—
Son of man,
I' am sending thee' unto the sons of Israel, unto rebellious' nations, which have rebelled against me,—‖they, and their fathers‖ have transgressed against me, until this very day; 4 and it is <unto such' sons—of shameless face, and emboldened heart> that I' am sending thee,—therefore shalt thou say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh.[b]
5 And ‖they‖ <whether they will hear or whether they will forbear, for ‖a perverse[c] house‖ they are> shall then know that ‖a prophet‖ hath been in their midst.
6 But ‖thou, son of man‖
Be not afraid of them,
Nor <of their words> be afraid,
<Though ‖thorns and thistles‖ are about thee,
And <amongst prickly plants> thou dost dwell>
<Of their words> be not afraid, nor
<At their faces> be thou dismayed,
For  they are!

[k] Or: "spread out."
[l] Or: "upwards."
[a] Or: "as electrum."
[b] Or as two proper names: "Adonay, Yahweh."
[c] Or: "bitter."

7 Thou shalt therefore speak my words unto them, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear,
For <perverse>[a] they are!
8 ‖Thou, therefore, son of man‖, hear what I' am speaking unto thee, become not perverse, like the perverse house,—open thy mouth, and eat that which I' am giving unto
thee.
9 So I looked, and lo! a hand' put forth unto me,—and lo! therein, a scroll; 10 and he spread it out before me, and ‖it‖ was written, on the front and the back,—and there were written thereon, lamentation[b] and sighing, and 3 wailing. 1 Then said he unto me,
Son of man,
<What thou findest> eat,—eat this roll, and go speak unto the house[c] of Israel.
2 So I opened my mouth,—and he caused me to eat this roll. 3 Then said he unto me,
Son of man,
<Thy belly> cause thou to eat, and <thy bowels> fill thou with this roll, which
I' am giving unto thee.
So I did eat, and it became <in my mouth> as honey for sweetness. 4 Then said he unto me,—
Son of man,
Go get thee unto the house of Israel, and thou shalt speak with my words, unto them. 5 For <not unto a people deep of lip and heavy of tongue> art ‖thou‖ sent — [but] unto the house of Israel: 6 ‖not unto many peoples, deep of lip and heavy of tongue, whose words thou couldst not understand‖,—surely <if |unto them| I had sent thee> ‖they‖ would have hearkened unto thee. 7 But ‖the house of Israel‖ will not be willing to hearken |unto thee|, for they are not willing to hearken |unto me|,—for ‖all the house of Israel‖ are |bold of forehead and hard of heart|. 8 Lo! I have made thy' face bold, like as their' faces,— and thy' forehead bold, like as their forehead. 9 <As an adamant, harder than flint> have I made thy forehead,—thou shalt not fear them, neither shalt thou be dismayed at their faces,
For  they are!
10 Then said he unto me,—
Son of man,
<All my words which I shall speak unto thee> receive thou into thy heart, and <in thine ears> hear thou: 11 then go get thee unto them of the captivity, unto the sons of thy people, and thou shalt speak unto them, and say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,— whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear.

12 Then the Spirit |lifted me up|, and I heard behind me the sound of a great rushing,— Blessed be the glory of Yahweh,
From his place![a]
13 Yea the sound of the wings of the living ones, gently touching each other, and the sound of the wheels, along with them, ‖even the sound of a great rushing‖.
14 So ‖the Spirit‖ lifted me up, and took me away,—and I went bitterly, in the rage of my spirit, but ‖the hand of Yahweh upon me‖ was
|strong|.

§ 3. Ezekiel commences his Mission at Tel-abib—First "Watchman" Illustration. (Comp. chaps. xviii., xxxiii.)

15 Thus came I unto them of the captivity, at Tel-abib, who were dwelling towards the river
Chebar, and I dwelt where[b] ‖they‖ were dwelling; |yea I dwelt there seven days|, ‖stunned in their midst‖. 16 And it came to pass <at the end of seven days> that the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
17 Son of man,
<A watchman> have I appointed thee, to the house of Israel,—and thou shalt hear, at my mouth, a message, and shalt warn them' |from me|. 18 <When I say to the lawless man—
Thou shalt ‖surely die‖,
and thou hast not given him warning, neither hast spoken to warn the lawless man from his lawless' way, to save himself alive> ‖the same lawless man‖ |in his iniquity| shall die, but <his blood> |at thy hand| will I require. 19 Whereas <when ‖thou‖ hast warned a lawless man, and he hath not turned from his lawlessness, and from his lawless way>
‖he‖ |in his iniquity| shall die, but ‖thou‖
hast delivered |thine own soul|.
20 And <when a righteous man hath turned' from his righteousness, and committed per-versity, and I have suffered a stumbling-block to be laid before him> ‖he‖ shall die,
—<though thou hast not warned him> |in his sin| shall he die, neither shall be remembered his righteous deeds[c] which he hath done, but <his blood> |at thy hand| will
I require; 21 whereas <when ‖thou‖ hast warned a righteous man,
That a righteous man |must not sin|,
and ‖he‖ hath not sinned> he shall ‖surely live‖ in that he took warning, and ‖thou‖
hast delivered |thine own soul|.

22 Then came upon me there the hand of Yahweh,—and he said unto me,
Arise, go forth into the valley, and <there> will I speak with thee.
23 So I arose, and went forth into the valley, and lo! there the glory of Yahweh standing, like the glory which I saw by the river Chebar,— and I fell upon my face. 24 Then the Spirit |entered into me|, and caused me to stand upon my feet,—and he spake with me and said unto
me,
Go in, shut thyself up in the midst of thine own house. 25 And <thou—O son of man> lo! they have put upon thee bands, and they will bind thee therewith,—so that thou go not forth in their midst; 26 <thy tongue also> will I cause to cleave unto the roof of thy mouth, so shall thou be dumb and not be to them a reprover,[a]—
For  they are!
27 But <when I speak with thee> I will open thy mouth,[b] and thou shalt say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord Yahweh,—
<He that is minded to hear> let him hear,
And <he that is minded to forbear> let him forbear!
For  they are!

§ 4. A Miniature Symbol of the Siege of Jerusalem.

4 1 ‖Thou‖ therefore, O son of man,
Take thee a tile, and lay it before thee,—and pourtray thereon a city, even Jerusalem.
2 Then shalt thou lay siege against it,
And build up against it a siege-wall,
And cast up against it a mound,—
And set against it camps,
And place against it battering-rams round about.
3 ‖Thou‖ therefore, take thee a pan of iron, and set it for a wall of iron, between thee and the city,—then shalt thou direct thy face against it, and it shall come into siege, and thou shalt lay siege to it,  shall it be' to the house of Israel.
4 ‖Thou‖ therefore, lie thou on thy left side, and lay the iniquity of the house of Israel'
upon it,— <during the number of the days which thou shalt lie thereon> shalt thou bear their punishment.
5 ‖I‖ therefore, have appointed thee the years of their punishment, by the number of days, a hundred[c] and ninety days,—so shalt thou bear the iniquity of the house of Israel.
6 And <when thou hast ended these> then shalt thou lie, on thy right side, a second' time, and shalt bear the iniquity of the house of Judah,— <forty days, one day for each year> have I appointed thee.
7 Thus then <unto the siege of Jerusalem shalt thou direct thy face, with thine arm made bare,—so shalt thou prophesy against it. 8 And lo! I have laid upon thee bands,—and thou shalt not turn thee from thy one side to thine other, until thou have ended the days of thy siege.
9 ‖Thou‖ therefore, take thee wheat and barley and peas and lentils and millet and spelt, and put them in one' vessel, and make them ready for thee as bread,— <during the number of days which thou' art lying on thy side, a hundred[a] and ninety days shalt thou eat it; 10 and ‖thy food which thou shalt eat‖ shall be by weight, twenty shekels a day,— <from time to time> shalt thou eat it; 11 and <water by measure, shalt thou drink, the sixth part of a hin,— from time to time shalt thou drink; 12 and <as a barley cake> shalt thou eat it,—and <the same with dung proceeding from man> shalt thou bake, before their eyes.
13 Then said Yahweh,
<In like manner> shall the sons of Israel eat their bread defiled,—among the nations whither I will drive them.
14 Then said I,
Ah! My Lord Yahweh, lo! ‖my person hath not been defiled: <neither of what hath died of itself, nor of what hath been torn in pieces> have I eaten, from my youthful days even until now, neither hath come into my mouth' the flesh of a foul thing.
15 So then he said unto me,
See, I have granted thee cow's dung for man's dung,—and thou shalt prepare thy bread thereupon.
16 And he said unto me,
Son of man,
Behold me! breaking the staff of bread in Jerusalem,
So shall they eat bread by weight, and with anxious care,
And <water by measure, and in astonishment> shall they drink:
17 that they may lack bread and water and be astonished one with another, and pine away in their punishment.[c]

§ 5. The Prophet's own Hair, shorn, divided, chopped up and burned, a Symbol of the Dispersion of the People.

5 1 ‖Thou‖ therefore, son of man,
Take thee a sharp cutting instrument,  shalt thou take to thee, and shalt cause it to pass upon thy head and upon thy chin,—and shalt take to thee balances for weighing, and shalt divide the hair.[a]

2 |A third part| <in the fire> shalt thou burn, in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege |are fulfilled|,—and thou shalt take a third part, thou shalt smite it with the cutting instrument, round about it, and  shalt thou scatter to the wind, and  will I[b] make bare after them; 3 and thou shalt take from thence, a few in number,—and shalt bind them in thy skirts; 4 and <of them> again' take, and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in the fire,—<therefrom> shall go forth a fire, unto all the house of Israel.

5 ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
||This|| is Jerusalem,
<In the midst of the nations> I placed her,—and of the countries round about her;
6 But she hath changed my regulations[c] into lawlessness, more than the nations,
And my statutes, more than the countries which are round about her,
For <my regulations>[c] have they rejected,
And <in my statutes> have they not walked.

7 |Therefore|
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because ye have become more rebellious than the nations who are round about you,
<In my statutes> have not walked,
And <my regulations>[c] have not done,
And <according to the regulations[c] of the nations which are round about you> have not[d] done>:
8 |Therefore|
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Lo! I am against thee, ||even I||
Therefore will I execute in thy midst, judgments, in the eyes of the nations;
9 Yea I will execute upon thee that which I have not executed,
And like unto which I will not execute again,—
Because of all thine abominations.
10 ||Therefore|| |fathers| will eat ||sons|| in thy midst,
And |sons| will eat ||fathers||,—
And I will execute upon thee judgments,
And will scatter the whole remnant of thee, to every wind.

11 ||Therefore|| <as I' live>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,—
Surely <because <my sanctuary> thou hast defiled, with all thy detestable things, and with all thine abominations>
||Even I also|| will cut off,[e] and mine eye |shall not spare|,
||Yea even I|| will not pity.

12 ||The third part of thee|| <by pestilence> shall die, and <by famine> be consumed in thy midst,
And ||the third part|| <by the sword> shall fall round about thee,—
And ||the third part|| <to every wind> will I scatter, and  will I make bare after them.
13 So shall mine anger |have an end|,
And I will cause mine indignation |to find rest| upon[a] them, and will console myself,—
And they shall know' that ||I, Yahweh|| have spoken in my jealousy, when mine indignation |hath come to an end| upon them.
14 And I will deliver thee up to desolation and reproach, among the nations that are round about thee,—in the eyes of every passer-by.
15 So shall it become a reproach and an insult, a warning and an astonishment, to[b] the nations that are round about thee,—in that I have executed upon thee judgments, in anger and in indignation, and in rebukes of indignation,
||I, Yahweh|| have spoken:
16 In that I have sent the malignant arrows of famine among them, which[c] were for destruction, which I will send to destroy you,—and <famine> will I increase upon you, and will break for you the staff of bread. 17 So will I send upon you famine and mischievous beast, and they shall bereave thee,—and ||pestilence and blood|| shall pass through thee,—and  will I bring in upon thee,
||I, Yahweh|| have spoken.

§ 6. Against the Mountains of Israel.

6 1 Then came the word of Yahweh, unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
Set thy face against the mountains of Israel,—and prophesy unto them; 3 and say,
Ye mountains of Israel, hear ye the word of My Lord, Yahweh,[d]—
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh—[d]
To the mountains and to the hills, to the hollows and to the valleys,— Behold me!
I' am bringing upon you a sword,
And I will destroy your high places;
4 And your altars |shall be laid waste|,
And your sun-pillars |shall be broken in pieces|,—
And I will cause your slain |to fall| before your manufactured gods;

[a] Mi.: "divide them."

[e] So one school of Massorites; the other writes: "will withdraw"; but reads: "will cut off." In some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.): "cut off" is both written and read—G.n., G. Intro. 225.

[b] Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Sep., Vul.): "in" or "among"—G.n.
[c] Or: "who."
[d] Or as two proper names: "Adonây, Yahweh."

5 And I will lay the carcases of the sons of Israel, before their[a] manufactured gods,—
And will scatter your bones, round about your altars.
6 <In all your dwelling-places>
‖The cities‖ shall be laid waste, and
‖The high places‖ shall be made desolate,—
To the end your altars |may be laid waste
and become desolate|,
And your manufactured gods |be broken
in pieces and cease|,
And your sun-pillars |be cut down|,
And your handiworks |be abolished|.
7 And the slain |shall fall| in your midst,—
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

8 Yet will I leave a remnant,
In that ye shall have such as are escaped of the sword throughout the nations,— when ye are scattered throughout the lands.
9 Then shall they who have escaped of you remember' |me|, among the nations
whither they have been carried captive,
In that I have broken[b] their adulterous heart, which hath turned aside from
me,
And their eyes which have adulterously gone after their manufactured gods,—
So shall they become loathsome in their own sight, for the wicked things which they have done in all their abominations.
10 Then shall they know' that ‖I, Yahweh‖,— <not in vain> had threatened to bring upon them this calamity.
11 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh, Smite with thy hand, and stamp with thy foot, and say, Alas! regarding all the wicked abominations of the house of Israel,—in that <by sword, by famine, and by pestilence> shall they fall:
12 ‖He that is far off‖ <by pestilence> shall die, and ‖He that is near‖ <by the sword> shall fall, and ‖He that is left and is besieged‖ <by the famine> shall die;
Thus will I make an end of mine indignation against them.
13 So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
In that their slain are in the midst of their manufactured gods, on every side of their altars,—
Upon every high hill,
In all the tops of the mountains, and Under every green tree, and Under every tangled oak,
The place where they offered a satisfying'
odour to all their manufactured gods.
14 Thus will I stretch out my hand upon them, and make the land a greater waste and devastation than the desert toward Diblah,[a] throughout all their dwelling-places,—
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

7 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me,
saying:
2 ‖Thou‖ therefore, O son of man,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<To the soil of Israel> there is an end,—
The end |hath come| upon the four skirts of the land.
3 ‖Now‖ is the end upon thee,
Therefore will I send mine anger against
thee,
And judge thee according to thy ways,—
And lay upon thee all thine abominations;
4 And mine eye |shall not shield thee|,
Neither will I pity,—
For <thy ways—upon thee> will I lay,[b]
And ‖thine abominations‖ <in thy midst>
shall be found,
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

5 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh:
<A calamity, a sole calamity>[c] lo! it hath come.
6 ‖An end‖ hath come,
Come hath the end,
It hath roused itself up against thee,—
Lo! it hath come.
7 The circle |hath come round| unto thee, O inhabitant of the land,—
The time |hath come|,
The day of consternation |hath drawn near|,
And not the joyful shout of the mountains.
8 ‖Now shortly‖ will I pour out mine indignation upon thee,
And will bring to an end mine anger against
thee,
And will judge thee according to thy ways,—
And will lay upon thee all thine abominations.
9 And mine eye shall not shield thee,
Neither will I have pity,—
<According to thy ways> |unto thee| will I render,
And ‖thine abominations‖ |in thy midst|
shall be found,
So shall ye know' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ am smiting.

10 Lo! the day,
Lo! it hath come,—
The circle |hath gone forth|,
The sceptre |hath blossomed|,
Insolence |hath sprouted| :
11 ‖Violence‖ hath risen up as a sceptre of lawlessness,—
There are none of them,
And none of their multitude,
And none of their throngs,
And no lamentation over them.[a]
12 The time |hath come|,
The day |hath arrived|,
<The buyer> let him not rejoice, and
<The seller> let him not mourn,—
For ‖indignation‖ is against all her multitude.
13 For ‖the seller‖ <unto that which is to be sold> shall not return, though <yet, among the living> were their life,—for ‖the vision‖[b] is against all her multitude.
He shall not return,
And ‖no man‖ <by his punishment>[c] shall strengthen ‖his life‖.
14 They have blown[d] the trumpet, even to make All ready,
Yet is there none going to the battle;
For ‖mine indignation‖ is against all her multitude.
15 ‖The sword‖ without, and ‖Pestilence and famine‖ within,—
‖He that is in the field‖ <by the sword> shall die, and
‖He that is in the city‖ |famine or pestilence| shall devour him;
16 While they who escape of them |shall escape|, and become, on the mountains, as the doves of the valleys, ‖all of them‖ cooing,—each one in his punishment.[e]
17 ‖All hands‖ shall be unnerved; and
‖All knees‖ shall be weak as water.[e]
18 Therefore shall they gird themselves with sackcloth,
And shuddering shall cover them,—
And <in all faces> shall be paleness,
And <in all their heads> baldness.
19 ‖Their silver‖ <into the streets> shall they cast, and ‖Their gold‖ <for throwing away> shall serve,
‖Their silver and their gold‖ shall not be able to deliver them, in the day of the wrath of Yahweh,
<Their craving>[f] shall they not satisfy, and
<Their belly> shall they not fill,—
For  hath their iniquity become.
20 <When ‖the beauty of his own ornament‖ he had |in majesty| placed>
Then <the images> of their abominations,
Their[a] detestable things>
Made they therein,—
‖For this cause‖ have I delivered it up to them for removal;
21 Yea I will deliver it
Into the hand of foreigners' for a prey,
And to the lawless ones of the earth' for a spoil,
And they will profane it;
22 And I will turn away my face from them,
And they will profane my cherished place,—
Yea there will enter it violent men,
Who will profane it.
23 Prepare thou a chain,—
For ‖the land‖ is full of the crime of bloodshed,
And ‖the city‖ is full of violence.
24 So then I will bring in the wicked ones of the nations,
And they shall take possession of their houses,—
And I will cause to cease the pomp of the strong ones,
And their holy places |shall be profaned|.
25 ‖Destruction‖[b] hath entered,—
And they shall seek welfare, and there be' none.
26 ‖Disaster upon disaster‖ shall come,
And ‖report after[c] report‖ shall arise,—
Therefore shall they seek a vision from a prophet,
And ‖law‖[d] shall perish from priest,
And counsel' from elders.
27 ‖The king‖ shall mourn, and
‖The chief‖ shall clothe himself with astonishment, and
‖The hands of the people of the land‖ shall be wrung in anguish,— <After their own way> will I deal with them, and
<With their own sentences>[e] will I sentence them,
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

§ 7. The Prophet is carried to Jerusalem in the Visions of God (chaps. viii.—xi.).

8 1 And it came to pass <in the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth[f] of the month, I' being seated in my house, and the elders of Judah being seated before me> then fell upon me there' |the hand of My Lord, Yahweh|. 2 So I looked, and lo! a likeness as the appearance of a man,[g] from the appearance of his loins and downward' fire, and from his loins and upwards' as an appearance of shining, as the look of amber. 3 Then put he forth the similitude of a hand, and took me by the forelock of my head,—and the Spirit |lifted me up| between the earth and the heavens, and brought me to Jerusalem in the visions of God, into the opening of the inner gate that looketh toward the north, where was the seat of the Statue of Jealousy, that provoketh to jealousy; 4 and lo! <there> the glory of the God of Israel, like the appearance which I had seen in the valley. 5 Then said he unto me,

Son of man,
Lift up, I pray thee, thine eyes, the way toward the north.

So I lifted up mine eyes the way toward the north, and lo! <on the north, by the gate of the altar> this Statue of Jealousy, in the entrance. 6 Then said he unto me,

Son of man,
Canst thou' see what they' are doing,—the great abominations which |the house of Israel| are committing here, that I[a] should go far away from my sanctuary? Howbeit <yet again> shalt thou see great abominations.

7 So he brought me into the opening of the court,—and I looked, and lo! a single[b] hole, in the wall. 8 Then said he unto me,

Son of man,
Break, I pray thee, through the wall.

So I broke through the wall, and lo! a single opening. 9 Then said he unto me,—

Go in, and see the wicked abominations, which they' are committing here.

10 So I went in, and looked, and lo! every similitude of creeping thing, and detestable beast, and all the manufactured gods of the house of Israel, — pourtrayed upon the wall, round about on every side; 11 and ‖seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel, with Jaazaniah son of Shaphan, who stood in their midst‖ were standing before them, even every man with his censer in his hand, — and the fragrance of the cloud of incense, ascending. 12 Then said he unto me,

Hast thou seen, Son of man, what ‖the elders of the house of Israel‖ are doing in the dark, every man in his image-chambers? for they are saying—
Yahweh doth not' see us![c]
Yahweh hath forsaken' the land![d]

13 Then said he unto me,—

<Yet again> shalt thou see great abominations, which they' are committing.

14 So he brought me into the opening of the gate of the house of Yahweh, which was toward the north,—and lo! <there> women' sitting, weeping for Tammuz.[a] 15 Then said he unto me,

Hast thou seen, O son of man?
<Yet again> shalt thou see greater abominations than these.

16 So he brought me into the inner court of the house of Yahweh, and lo! <at the opening of the temple of Yahweh, between the porch and the altar> about twenty-five men, — ‖their backs‖ towards the temple of Yahweh, and ‖their faces‖ eastward, and they' were bowing down eastward, unto the Sun. 17 Then said he unto me,

Hast thou seen, O son of man?
Is it too small a thing for the house of Judah, to be committing the[b] abominations which they have committed here,—that they have filled the land with violence, and have again' provoked me to anger, and there they are! putting the branch to my[c] nose.

18 Therefore ‖even I‖ will act with indignation,
Mine eye |shall not shield|,
Neither will I pity,—
<Though they have cried in mine ears, with a loud voice> yet will I not hear them.

9 1 Then cried he in mine ears, with a loud voice, saying,

Draw near, ye that have charge of the city,—even every man with his weapon[d] of destruction in his hand.

2 And lo! |six men| coming in out of the way of the upper gate, which looketh toward the north, even every man with his destructive[e] weapon[f] in his hand, and one man in their midst clothed with linen, having a scribe's inkholder by his side,—so they came in and stood, beside the altar of bronze. 3 And ‖the glory of the God of Israel‖ lifted itself up from off the cherub[g] whereon it had been, unto the threshold of the house,—and he called unto the man clothed with linen, who had the scribe's inkholder by his side. 4 Then said Yahweh unto him,

Pass along through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem,—and set thou a mark[h] upon the foreheads of the men who are sighing and crying over all the abominations' that are being done in her midst.

5 But <unto these> said he in mine ears,

Pass along through the city after him, and smite,—let not[i] your eye[k] |shield|, neither have ye pity: 6 <elder, young man and virgin, and little ones and women> shall ye slay utterly, but <unto any man who hath upon him the mark> do not ye come near, and <at my sanctuary> shall ye begin.[a]

So they began with the elder men, who were before the house. 7 And he said unto them,

Defile ye the house, and fill the courts with the slain,—go ye forth!

So they went forth, and smote in the city. 8 And it came to pass <while they were smiting them—I' being left remaining> that I fell upon my face and made outcry, and said,

Alas! My Lord, Yahweh! art thou' |about to destroy| all the remnant of Israel, in that thou art pouring out of thine indignation upon Jerusalem?

9 And he said unto me,

‖The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah‖ is ‖exceeding‖ great, and the land is filled' with shed blood,[b] and ‖the city‖ is full of over-reaching,[c]—for they have said,

Yahweh hath forsaken' the land,[d]— and, Yahweh doth not' see.[e]

10 Therefore <as for even me>
Mine eye |shall not shield|,
Neither will I pity,—
<Their way upon their own head> have I rendered.

11 And lo! |the man clothed in linen, having the inkholder by his side|, bringing back word, saying,—

I have done, according to all which[f] thou didst command me.

10 1 Then looked I, and lo! <in the expanse[g] which was over the head of the cherubim, as a sapphire stone> ‖as the appearance of the likeness of a throne‖ appeared over them. 2 Then said he unto the man clothed in linen—then said he,

Go in between the whirling wheels, even under the cherub, and fill both thy hands with live coals of fire from between the cherubim, and throw[h] over the city.

So he went in before mine eyes. 3 Now ‖the cherubim‖ were standing on the right side of the house, when the man went in,—and ‖the[i] cloud‖ filled the inner court. 4 Then arose the glory of Yahweh from off the cherub, unto the threshold of the house,—and the house was filled' with the cloud, and ‖the court‖ was filled with the brightness of the glory of Yahweh. 5 And ‖the sound of the wings of the cherubim‖ was heard, as far as the outer court,—like the voice of the Almighty God[a] when he speaketh. 6 So then it came to pass—<when he commanded the man clothed with linen, saying,

Take fire from between the whirling wheels, from between the cherubim>

then went he in and stood beside the wheel. 7 And the cherub put forth his hand from between the cherubim, unto the fire that was between the cherubim, and took up [thereof] and gave into the hands of him who was clothed with linen,—who took [it] and went forth. 8 Now the cherubim appeared to have, the likeness of the hand of a man, under their wings.

9 Then looked I, and lo! four wheels' by the cherubim—one wheel by one cherub, and another wheel by another cherub,—and |the appearance of the wheels| was to look upon like a Tarshish stone;[b] 10 and <as for their appearance> ‖one likeness‖ had they four,—as might be a wheel in the midst of a wheel. 11 <When they went> ‖upon their four sides‖ they went, they turned not when they went,—for <to the place whithersoever the head[c] turned> ‖after it‖ they went, they turned not when they went. 12 And ‖all their flesh, and their back, and their hands, and their wings,—and the wheels‖ were full of eyes round about, ‖even their wheels which they four had‖[d] 13 <To the wheels—to them> was made the cry—

in mine ears. 14 And ‖four faces‖ had each one,—‖the first face‖ was the face of a cherub, and ‖the second face‖ was the face of a man, and ‖the third‖ was the face of a lion, and ‖the fourth‖ was the face of an eagle. 15 Then arose the cherubim,[f]—‖the same‖ was the living one,[g] which I had seen by the river Chebar. 16 <When the cherubim went> then went the wheels beside them,—and <when the cherubim lifted up their wings, to arise from off the earth> ‖the wheels themselves‖ turned not from beside them; 17 <when they' stood> these' stood, and <when they' arose> these' arose with them,—for ‖the spirit of the living one‖ was in them.

18 And <when the glory of Yahweh went forth from off the threshold of the house,—and stood over the cherubim> 19 then the cherubim uplifted' their wings and arose from the earth, before mine eyes, as they went forth, the wheels also in unison with them,—and it stood at the opening of the gate of the house of Yahweh that was toward the east, with the glory of the God of Israel over them, |above|. 20 ‖The same‖ was the living one,[h] which I saw under the God of Israel,

11 1 And the Spirit[a] lifted me up, and brought me into the east gate of the house of Yahweh, which looketh eastward, and lo! <in the opening of the gate> twenty-five men,—and I saw, in their midst, Jaazaniah son of Azzur and Pelatiah[b] son of Benaiah, princes of the people. 2 Then said he unto me,—

Son of man,

‖These‖ are the men who are devising iniquity, and who are counselling wicked counsel, in this city; 3 who are saying,

Not near! let us build houses,—

‖It‖ is the caldron, and ‖we‖ are the flesh!

4 |Therefore| prophesy against them, — prophesy, Son of man.

5 Then fell upon me the Spirit of Yahweh, and he said unto me,

Say—

‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,

‖Thus‖ have ye said, O house of Israel,—

Yea <the things that come up on your spirit> ‖I‖ know, every one.

6 Ye have multiplied your slain in this city,—

And have filled her streets, with slain.

7 |Therefore|

‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,

<Your slain, whom ye have laid in her midst>

‖They‖ are the flesh, and

‖She‖[c] is the caldron,—when ‖ye‖ are taken[d] out of her midst.

8 <A sword> have ye feared,—

And  will I bring in upon you,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

9 So will I take you forth out of her midst, and will deliver you into the hand of foreigners, —and will execute upon you judgments.[e]

10 <By the sword> shall ye fall,

<Upon the boundary of Israel> will I judge you,—

So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

11 ‖This city‖[f] shall not serve you for a caldron,

Neither shall ‖ye‖ serve in the midst thereof, for flesh,—

<Near the boundary of Israel> will I judge you.

12 So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,

<In whose statutes> ye have not walked,

And <whose appointments> ye have not executed,—

But <according to the appointments of the nations that are round about you> have ye done.

13 And it came to pass <as I prophesied> that ‖Pelatiah son of Benaiah‖ died,—so then I fell down upon my face, and made outcry with a loud voice, and said—

Alas! My Lord, Yahweh!

<A full end> art thou' making of the remnant of Israel?[a]

14 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

15 Son of man,

‖Thine own brethren, thine own brethren,[b] the men of thy kindred,[c] even all the house of Israel, all of it‖[b] are they to whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said,

Get you far away from Yahweh,

<To us> it is' that the land |hath been given|, for a possession!

16 |Therefore| say,

‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,

<Although I have removed them far away among the nations,

And although I have dispersed them throughout the lands>

Yet have I become to them a sanctuary for a little while, in the lands which they have entered.

17 |Therefore| say,

‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,

Therefore will I assemble you' from among the peoples,

And gather you' out of the lands wherein ye have been dispersed,—

And will give you the soil of Israel.

18 So shall they come in thither, — and take away all her detestable things, and all her abominations, out of her;

19 And I will give them another[d] heart,

And  will I put within you,—[e]

And will take away the heart of stone out of their[f] flesh, and give them a heart of flesh:

20 To the end that <in my statutes> they may walk,

And <mine appointments> they may keep, and do them,—

So shall they become my' people,

And ‖I‖ will become their' God.

21 But <as for them who, having a heart for their detestable things, and for their abominations, <after their own heart> do walk>

<Their way upon their own heads> will I render,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

22 Then did the cherubim |lift up| their wings, the wheels also going in unison with them,—

§ 8. By a Series of Symbolic Acts the Prophet emphasises Predictions of immediately impending Exile.

12 1 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

2 Son of man,
<In the midst of a perverse house> dost thou' dwell,—
Who have eyes' to see—and have not seen,
Ears' have they to hear—and have not heard,
For  they are'.

3 ‖Thou‖ therefore, Son of man,
Prepare thee baggage for exile, and exile thyself, by day, before their eyes,—so shalt thou exile thyself out of thy place unto another place, before their eyes, |peradventure| they will consider,[a] though  they are'.

4 Therefore shalt thou take forth thy baggage, as baggage for exile, by day before their eyes,—and ‖thou thyself‖ shalt go forth in the evening, before their eyes, like them who go forth to exile.

5 <Before their eyes> break thou forth by thyself through the wall,—and carry forth through it.

6 <Before their eyes>
<Upon the shoulder> shalt thou lift it,
<In thick darkness> take it forth,
<Thy face> shalt thou cover, so that thou see not the land;
For  have I appointed thee to the house of Israel.

7 And I did so, just as I was commanded, <My baggage> took I forth as baggage for exile, by day, and <in the evening> I brake forth by myself through the wall, by force: <in the twilight> I took it forth—<on to my shoulder> I lifted it, before their eyes. 8 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, in the morning, saying:

9 Son of man,
Have not the house of Israel, the perverse house, |said unto thee|,—
What art thou' doing?

10 Say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
<[For] the Bearer>[b] is this burden, in Jerusalem,[a] and [for] all the house of Israel, such as are in their midst.

11 Say,
‖I‖ am your sign:
<As I have done> ‖so‖ shall it be done to them,
<Into exile—into captivity> shall they go.

12 Yea ‖the Bearer[b] who is in their midst‖
<Upon his shoulder> shall lift it.
<In thick darkness> shall he go forth,
<Through the wall> shall they break, to bear forth through it,—
<His face> shall he cover, to the end that |his own eye| may not see the land.

13 Then will I spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my snare;
And I will take him to Babylon, in the land of the Chaldeans,
<The which> indeed, he shall not see,
And yet <there> shall he die![c]

14 And <all who are round about him to help him, and all his troops> will I scatter to every wind,—and  will I make bare after them.

15 So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,—
By my dispersing them among the nations,
And scattering them throughout the lands.

16 Yet will I leave remaining of them, men easily counted, from the sword, from[d] the famine and from the pestilence,—that they may recount all their abominations among the nations whither they have come,
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

17 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

18 Son of man,
<Thy bread, with trembling> shalt thou eat,—
And <thy water, in agitation and in fear> shalt thou drink.

19 Then shalt thou say unto the people of the land,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem, upon the soil of Israel,
<Their bread, with anxious care> shall they eat,
And <their water, in astonishment> shall they drink,—
That her[e] land |may be deserted| of her fulness, because of the violence of all them who dwell therein:

20 Yea ‖the cities that are inhabited‖ shall be laid waste,
And ‖the land‖ shall become |an astonishment|,—
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

21 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
22 Son of man,
What is this proverb ye have, concerning the soil of Israel, saying,—
The days |are prolonged|,
Therefore shall every vision |come to nought|?
23 |Therefore| say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
I will cause this proverb |to cease|,
And they shall use it as a proverb no more, in Israel,—
But speak unto them,
The days |are drawn near|,
And the substance[a] of every vision.
24 For there shall no more be—
Any vision of falsehood,
Or divination of deceit,
In the midst of the house[b] of Israel.
25 For ‖I, Yahweh‖[c] will speak whatsoever word I please to speak,[d]
And it shall be done,
It shall not be delayed any more,—[e]
For <in your own days> O perverse house, will I speak a word, and perform it,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

26 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
27 Son of man,
Lo! ‖the house of Israel‖ are saying,
‖The vision which he' seeth‖ is for many days,
Yea <for times far away> hath ‖he‖ prophesied.
28 |Therefore| say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
None of my words |shall be delayed any more|,—[e]
<Whatsoever word I speak> then' shall it be performed,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 9. Against the Prophets of Israel.

13 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
Prophesy against[f] the prophets of Israel, who are prophesying,—and say unto them who prophesy out of their own heart, Hear ye the word of Yahweh:
3 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Alas for the base prophets,—who follow their own spirit, and have seen ‖nothing‖.
4 <As jackals,[a] among ruins> ‖thy prophets, O Israel‖ have been.
5 Ye have not gone up into the breaches,
Nor built a wall about the house of Israel,— to stand in the battle, in the day of Yahweh.
6 They have had Visions of falsehood, and Divinations of lies,
Who say, Declareth Yahweh, when ‖Yahweh‖ hath not sent them,—
Yet have they waited for a fulfilling of the word.
7 Is it not
 ye have seen, and
 ye have spoken,
Since ye are saying, Declareth Yahweh! when ‖I‖ have not spoken?
8 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because ye have spoken falsehood,
And have had visions of lies>
|Therefore| behold me! against you,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
9 So then my hand shall be against the prophets who have Visions of falsehood, and who divine Divinations of lies,— <In the council of my people> shall they not be found,
And <in the register[b] of the house of Israel> shall they not be written,
And <upon the soil of Israel> shall they not enter,—
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am The Lord, Yahweh,[c]
10 <Because, yea |even because|[d] they have led astray my people, saying, Prosperity! when there was no' prosperity,—and ‖one man‖[e] was building a partition wall,[f] when, there they were! coating it with whitewash>
11 Say thou, unto them who are coating with whitewash,
It shall fall,—
There hath come an overflowing rain,
And I will make[g] hail-stones fall,
And ‖a tempestuous wind‖ shall break it down.
12 Lo! <when the wall hath fallen> shall it not be said unto you,
Where' is the coating, wherewith ye coated it?
13 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
So will I break down with a tempestuous wind, in mine indignation,—
And <an overflowing rain in mine anger> shall there be,
With hailstones, in wrath, to make an end;

[g] So it shd be (w. Sep. and Vul.)—G.n.

14 And I will pull down the wall which ye have coated with whitewash,
And will bring it unto the ground,
So shall be discovered' its foundation,—
Yea it shall fall,
And ye shall come to an end in the midst thereof,
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.
15 Thus will I bring to an end mine indignation against the wall, and against them who were coating it with whitewash,
And will say to you,
No more' is the wall,
And no more' are they who were coating it: 16 [to wit] the prophets of Israel, who are prophesying unto Jerusalem, and are seeing, on her behalf, visions of prosperity,— when there is no' prosperity,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 10. Against the Oracle Women.

17 And ‖thou‖, Son of man,
Set thy face against the daughters of thy people,
Those who are prophesying out of their own heart,—
And prophesy thou against them; 18 and say,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Alas! for the women
Who sew oracle-cases on all elbows,
And prepare wraps upon the head of every stature to hunt souls,—
‖The souls ye hunt‖ are those of my people,
Whereas <your own [souls]> ye keep alive.
19 Thus have ye profaned me unto my people, for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread, Putting to death the souls that should not die, and Keeping alive the souls that should not live,—
By your lying to my people, |who hearken to lies|.
20 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! against your oracle-cases wherewith ye' are hunting the souls, to make them fly,
And I will tear them off your arms,—
And let go the souls of them whose souls ye' are hunting as birds;
21 And will tear off your wraps,
And deliver my people out of your hand,
And they shall be no longer in your hand, to be hunted;—
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.
22 <Because of the paining of the heart of the righteous man with falsehood, whom ‖I‖ have not pained,—
And strengthening the hands of the lawless man, that he should not turn from his wicked way, by letting him live>
23 |Therefore|— <of falsehood> shall ye have no vision,
And  shall ye not divine any more,—
So will I deliver my people out of your hand,
And ye shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

§ 11. Rebuke of Idolatrous Inquirers, and of the Prophets who aid their Double Dealings.

14 1 Then came there unto me, men, of the elders of Israel,—and sat before me. 2 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
3 Son of man,
‖These men‖ have brought up their manufactured gods, upon their heart,[a]
And <their stumbling-block of iniquity> have they set straight before their face,—
Shall I be ‖at all enquired of‖ by[b] them?
4 |Therefore| speak unto them and say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Any man whatsoever of the house of Israel,
Who shall bring up his manufactured gods upon his heart,
And set ‖his stumbling-block of iniquity‖ straight before his face,
And then come in unto the prophet>
‖I, Yahweh‖ have myself answered him |thereby|.[c]
‖By the multitude of his manufactured gods‖:
5 To the end the house of Israel may be taken by their own hearts,—in that they have estranged themselves from me, through their manufactured gods—|all of them|!
6 |Therefore| say thou unto the house of Israel,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Turn ye—and make good your return—from your manufactured gods;
And <from all your abominations> make good the turning away of your faces.
7 For <what man soever of the house of Israel Or of the sojourners who sojourn in Israel,
Who shall estrange himself from following me,
And who shall bring up his manufactured gods, on his heart,
And <whose stumbling-block of iniquity> he shall set straight before his face,—
And then come in unto the prophet, to enquire by him of me>
‖I, Yahweh‖ will myself answer him |on my own account|;

[a] Plainly = "brought to mind."
[b] Or: "for."
[c] So written; but read: "he hath come with the multitude," etc. Gt.: "have myself answered him on my own account," as in ver. 7—G.n.

8 And will set my face against that man,
And will make of him a sign and a proverb,[a]
And will cut him off out of the midst of my people:
So shall ye know that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

9 <Yea ‖the prophet himself‖ when he suffereth himself to be deceived, and speaketh a word,
‖I, Yahweh‖ have suffered that prophet to be deceived>
Then will I stretch forth my hand against him, and destroy him out of the midst of my people, Israel:
10 So shall they bear their punishment,
<As' the punishment of him that enquireth>
So' shall |the punishment of the prophet| be:
11 That the house of Israel |may no more go astray| from following me,
And no more defile themselves by any of their transgressions,—
But may become my' people,
And |I| may become their' God,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 12. For a Treacherous Land, not even Noah, Daniel and Job could be heard.

12 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
13 Son of man,
<When ‖a land‖ shall sin against me by committing treachery, and I shall stretch out my hand against it,
And break for it the staff of bread,
And send thereon famine,
And cut off therefrom man and beast>
14 Then <should these three men be in the midst thereof, Noah, Daniel, and Job>
‖They‖ |by their righteousness| should deliver their own lives—[b]
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
15 <If  I suffer to pass through the land, and that beast bereave' it, so that it become too desolate for any man to pass through, by reason of the wild beast>
16 [Were] these three men in the midst thereof>
‖As I live‖
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely <neither sons nor daughters> should they deliver,
‖They alone‖ should be delivered,
But ‖the land‖ should become a desolation.
17 <Or  I should bring upon that land, and should say, O sword! thou shalt go through the land, and so I should cut off therefrom man and beast>
18 <Were these three men in the midst thereof>
‖As I live‖ Saith My Lord, Yahweh,
They should deliver neither sons nor daughters,—
For ‖they alone| should be delivered.
19 <Or <pestilence> I should send into that land,—and should pour out mine indignation thereon in blood, to cut off therefrom man and beast>
20 <Were Noah, Daniel and Job in the midst thereof>
‖As I live‖
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely neither <son nor daughter> should they deliver,
‖They‖, |by their righteousness‖ should deliver [only] their own lives.

21 For ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
How much less [should they avail] when <my four calamitous judgments, sword and famine and mischievous wild beast and pestilence>
I have sent against Jerusalem,—to cut off therefrom man and beast?
22 Yet lo! there hath been left therein, a remnant of fugitives to be brought forth —sons and daughters,—
There they are! coming forth unto you,
And so ye shall see their way, and their doings, and be consoled, over the calamity which I have brought in upon Jerusalem, even all that I have brought in upon her,
23 Yea they shall console you, when ye see their way and their doings,—
So shall ye know that <not without cause> have I done anything that I have done with her,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 13. Parable of the Vine—Useless for Secondary Work.

15 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
What can the vine-tree be more than any other tree,—any ‖branch‖ which hath been found among the trees of the forest?
3 Shall there be taken from it wood, to be made into any work?
Or will men take therefrom a peg, to hang thereon any vessel?
4 Lo! <into the fire> it is given up for fuel,—
<The two ends thereof> doth the fire devour,
And ‖the middle thereof‖ is charred,
Is it fit for any work?

[a] So in many MSS. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.); but in some cod. (w. 8 ear. pr. edns.): "will make him desolate for a sign and a proverb." Cp. chap. xx. 26—G.n.
[b] Or: "souls."

5 Lo! <while it was yet whole> it could not be made into any work,—
How much less, when ‖the fire‖ hath devoured it, and it is charred, can it still be made into any work?
6 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<As a vine-tree among the trees of the forest, which I have given up to the fire for fuel> ‖so‖ have I given up the inhabitants of Jerusalem.
7 Therefore will I set my face against them,
<Out of one fire> have they come forth,
But <another fire> shall devour them,—
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh, by my setting my face against them;
8 I will therefore give up the land as a desolation, — because they have committed treachery, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 14. Jerusalem's Infidelity, under the figure of an Adulteress, is graphically portrayed.

16 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me,
saying:
2 Son of man,
Let Jerusalem know her abominations,
3 Therefore shalt thou say—
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
To Jerusalem,
‖Thine origin and thy birth‖ were of the land of the Canaanite,— ‖Thy father‖ was the Amorite,
And ‖thy mother‖ a Hittite,
4 And ‖as for thy birth‖ <in the day thou wast born>
Thy navel-cord was not cut,
And <in water> wast thou not bathed, to cleanse thee,—
And <as for being salted>[a] thou wast not salted,[a]
And <as for being bandaged> thou wast not bandaged.
5 No eye |threw a shield over thee|, by doing for thee one of these things, taking pity on
thee,—
But thou wast cast out, on the face of the field,
Because thy person[b] |was abhorred|, in the day thou wast born.

6 And I passed by thee, and looked upon thee,
thrusting about thee in thy blood,
And said to thee—
<Despite[c] thy blood> live!
Yea I said to thee—
<Despite[c] thy blood> live!
7 <Into myriads—like the bud of the field>
made I thee,
And thou didst increase, and become well-grown, and didst attain to most excellent adornments,—
‖Thy breasts‖ were well-formed,[d]
And ‖thy hair‖ was grown,
But ‖thou thyself‖ wast utterly naked.

8 And I passed by thee, and looked upon thee, and lo! ‖thy time‖ was the time for endear-
ments,
So I spread my skirt over thee, and covered thy shame,—
And took an oath to thee,
And entered into covenant with thee,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
And thou didst become mine.
9 And I bathed thee in water, and rinsed thy blood from off thee,
And anointed thee with oil;
10 And clothed thee with an embroidered dress,
And sandalled thee in red leather,—
And wrapped thee about with fine linen,
And put over thee a mantle of silk.

11 Then decked I thee with ornaments,—
And put bracelets upon thy hands,
And a neckchain upon thy throat;
12 And put a nose-jewel upon thy nose,
And earrings in[a] thine ears,—
And a crown of adorning upon thy head.
13 Thus wast thou adorned with gold and silver,
And ‖thy raiment‖ was of fine linen and silk,
and embroidered work,
<Fine flour and honey and oil> didst thou
eat,—
And so thou becamest exceedingly' beautiful,
And didst attain unto royalty.

14 Then went forth thy fame[b] among the nations, for thy beauty,—
For <perfect> it was'—in my splendour which I had put upon thee,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

15 Then didst thou trust in thy beauty,
And become unchaste, because of thy fame,—
And didst pour out thine unchastity upon every passer-by, his' it was!
16 Yea thou didst take of thy raiment and madest thee high places of hangings,
And didst commit unchastity thereon,—
Which ought not to have befallen,
And not to have come to pass.
17 But thou didst take thine adorning' jewels,
Of my gold and of my silver, which I had
given thee,
And didst make thee, images of the male,—[c]
And didst act unchastely with them;
18 And thou didst take thine embroidered raiment, and cover them,—
And <mine oil and mine incense> didst thou set before them;
19 And my food' which I had given thee,
Fine flour and oil and honey wherewith I fed thee,
And didst set it before them for a satisfying' odour,
Yea so it was,—
Saith My Lord, Yahweh.

20 And thou didst take thy sons and thy daughters,
Whom thou hadst borne unto me,
And didst sacrifice them unto them, to be devoured,—
Is this, of thine unchastity, |a light thing|?

21 Yea thou didst slay my children,—
And didst deliver them up, that they should be caused to pass through [the fire] unto them.

22 And <in all thine abominations, and thine unchaste ways> thou rememberedst not the days of thy youth,—
When thou wast utterly naked,
When thou wast |thrusting about thee in thy blood|!

23 And it came to pass <after all thy wickedness>
Woe! Woe! to thee,
Exclaimeth My Lord, Yahweh;
24 That thou didst build thee a brothel,[a]—
And didst make thee a height, in every broadway:
25 <At the head of every road> didst thou build thy height,
And bring thy beauty into disgust,
And open thy feet to every passer-by,—
So didst thou make thine unchaste ways to abound.

26 Then didst thou extend thine unchaste acts unto the sons of Egypt—thy neighbours, great of flesh,—
And caused thine unchaste ways to abound, provoking me to anger.

27 Lo! therefore, I have stretched out my hand against[b] thee,
And diminished thine allotted portion,—
And have delivered thee up unto the desire[c] of them who hate thee,
The daughters of the Philistines, who are ashamed of thy lewd way.

28 Thou didst also extend thine unchastity unto the sons of Assyria, because thou wast insatiable.

Yet <though thou didst behave unchastely with them> yet ||even so|| couldst thou not be satisfied,
29 Thou didst therefore cause thine unchaste ways to abound unto the land of Canaan, as towards Chaldea.

Yet <even herewith> wast thou not satisfied. 30 How weak was thy heart!
Exclaimeth My Lord, Yahweh,—
That thou couldst have done all these things,
The doing of a lewd woman,[d] without shame:[e]

31 That thou couldst have built thy brothel[a] at the head of every road,
And <thy height> couldst have made in every broadway,—
Yet becamest not as a harlot, to lay claim to a harlot's hire.

32 ||A wife who committeth adultery|| instead of her husband' accepteth strangers'.

33 <To all harlots> they give a present,—
But ||thou|| didst give thy' presents to all thy lovers,
And didst bribe them' to come in unto thee from every side, |in thine unchastity|!

34 And so there came about <in thee> the reverse of women, in thine unchastity,
In that they' did not follow thee' for purposes of lewdness,—
And in that thou' gavest a present, while ||no present|| was given to thee',
So didst thou become |the reverse|.

35 |Therefore| O harlot, hear thou the word of Yahweh;
36 ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
<Because thy money[b] |was poured out|, and thy shame |was uncovered|, in thine unchastity, unto thy lovers,—and unto all thine abominable manufactured gods, even as[c] the blood of thy children, whom thou didst deliver up unto them>
37 |Therefore| behold me! gathering together all thy lovers, unto whom thou didst make thyself pleasant,
Even all whom thou lovedst,
With all whom thou hatedst,—
Yea I will gather them' together unto thee from every side,
And will uncover thy shame unto them,
And they shall see all thy shame.
38 So will I judge thee, with the judgments meted out to adulteresses and shedders of blood,—
And will repay thee with the blood of indignation and jealousy;
39 And will deliver thee' into their hand,
And they shall pull down thy brothel,[d]
And break in pieces thy heights,
And strip thee of thy raiment,
And take away thine adorning' jewels,—
And leave thee utterly naked.
40 Then will they bring up against thee a gathered host,[e]
And they will stone thee with stones,—
And cut thee to pieces with their swords;
41 And burn up thy houses with fire,
And execute upon thee judgments, before the eyes of many women,—

So will I cause thee to cease from acting unchastely,
Moreover also  shalt thou not 42 give any more.
So will I let mine indignation find rest in thee,
And my jealousy shall depart' from thee,—
And I will be quiet, and not be provoked any 43 more.
<Because thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth,
But hast enraged me[a] with all these things>
Therefore also' behold! ‖I‖ <thy way, upon thine own head> will place.
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
And thou shalt not commit a[b] crime above all thine abominations!
44
Lo! ‖every one who useth proverbs‖ <against 45 thee> shall use a proverb, saying,—
<Like the mother> [so] her daughter!
<The daughter of thy mother> thou art!
One abhorring her own husband, and her own children,—
Yea <the sister of thy sisters> thou art,
Who abhorred their own husbands, and their own children,
‖Your mother‖ was a Hittite,
And ‖your father‖ an Amorite.
And ‖thine elder sister‖ was Samaria, she and her daughters, dwelling on thy left hand,—
And ‖thy sister younger than thou, dwelling on thy right hand‖ was Sodom, and her daughters.
Yet <not in their ways> didst thou walk, nor <according to their abominations> didst thou do,—
<As though that were quite too little> thou didst corrupt thyself beyond them' in all thy ways.
<As I live>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Verily! Sodom thy sister had not done, |neither she nor her daughters|,—as ‖thou and thy daughters‖ have done.
Lo! ‖this‖ became the iniquity of Sodom thy sister,— ‖Pride, fulness of bread, and careless security‖ came to her and to her daughters,
And <the hand of the oppressed and the needy> she strengthened not.
So then they became haughty, and committed abomination before me,—
And I took them away, when I saw [it],[c]
Nor did ‖Samaria‖ commit |one-half thy sins|,—
But thou didst multiply thine abominations more than they,
And didst cause thy sisters[d] to appear righteous |by all the abominations which thou didst commit|.

52 ‖Thou also‖ bear thine own reproach, which thou didst adjudge to thy sisters, <by thy sins, in which thou wast more abominable than they> thou didst make them appear more righteous than thou,— ‖Thou also‖ therefore, turn thou pale, and bear thine own reproach, for making thy sisters appear righteous!
53 <When therefore I bring back their captivity,
The captivity of Sodom and her daughters,
And the captivity of Samaria and her daughters>
Then will I bring back[a] thy captivities in their midst:
54 That thou mayest bear thine own reproach,
And take to thyself reproach, because of all that thou didst in comforting them.
55 <When thy sisters, Sodom and her daughters, shall return to their former estate,
And Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former estate>
Then ‖thou and thy daughters‖ shall return to your former estate.
56 And Sodom thy sister was never heard in thy mouth,—
57 In the day of thy pride:
Before thy wickedness was discovered,[b]
As ‖now‖[e] [thou art] the reproach of the daughters of Syria,[d] and all round about her, the daughters of the Philistines, —who are despising thee' on every side.
58 <As for thy crime, and thine abominations> ‖thou thyself‖ dost bear them,— Declareth Yahweh.[e]
59 For ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Therefore will I deal with thee', just as thou hast dealt,—
In that thou didst despise an oath, by breaking a covenant.
60 Therefore will ‖I‖ remember my covenant with thee, in the days of thy youth,—
And will establish for thee, a covenant age-abiding.
61 Thou shalt therefore remember thy ways, and take to thyself reproach, by receiving thy sisters.
The older than thou,
And the younger than thou,—
And I will give them unto thee for daughters.
Though not by thine own covenant.

§ 15. Parable of the Two Eagles.

17 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me,
saying:
2 Son of man,
Put thou forth a riddle,
And speak thou a parable,—
Unto the house of Israel:
3 So then thou shalt say,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
‖A great eagle, with large wings of long pinion, full of plumage, which had divers colours‖ came unto Lebanon, and took the highest branch of the cedar:
4 <The crown of its young twigs> plucked he off, and brought it into a land of traffic,
<in a city of merchants> he set it.
5 So he took of the seed of the land, and planted it in a field for seed,—
He took it near mighty waters,
<Like a willow-tree> he set it.
6 And it shot forth, and became a spreading vine of lowly stature,
Its branches turning towards him,
And ‖its roots‖ |under him| spread,—
So it became a vine,
And brought forth shoots,
And sent forth boughs.
7 And it came to pass, that there was another great eagle, with large wings, and abundant plumage,—
And lo! ‖this vine‖ stretched its roots
hungrily towards him,
And <its branches> sent it forth unto
him,
That he might cause it to drink, out of the beds where it was planted:
8 <In a goodly field, by mighty waters> was it' planted,—
That it might bring forth boughs, and bear fruit,
That it might become |a splendid' vine|.
9 Say thou,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Shall it thrive?
<Its roots> will he not tear up?
<Its fruit> will he not cut off, that it wither?
‖All the fresh leaves it hath caused to spring forth‖ shall wither, without a strong arm, or many people, to pull it up by its roots.
10 Lo! therefore <though [it remain] planted>
shall it thrive?
<As soon as an east wind toucheth' it> will it not ‖utterly wither‖?
<On the beds where it sprang up>, will it not wither?
11 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me,
saying:
12 Say, I pray thee, unto the perverse house,
Know ye not what these things are?
Say thou,
Lo! the King of Babylon entered' Jerusalem,
And took her king and her princes,
And brought them unto him in Babylon;
13 Yea took of the seed royal,
And solemnised with him a covenant,—
And brought him into an oath,
Also <the mighty ones of the land> did he take.
14 That |the kingdom| might be |abased|,
so as not to lift itself up,— <By the keeping of his covenant> might be made to stand.
15 But he hath rebelled against him, by sending his messengers to Egypt, that there should be given to him horses, and much people.
Shall he thrive?
Shall he escape that doeth these things?
Shall he break a covenant' and escape?
16 <As I live>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Verily! <in the place where dwelleth the king that made him' king,
Whose oath he hath despised,
And whose covenant he hath broken> <With him, in the midst of Babylon> shall he die.
17 Neither shall Pharaoh <with a great force, or with a large gathered host>[a] |work with him| in the war, by casting up an earthwork, and by building a siege-wall,
—to the cutting off of many lives.
18 <Seeing he hath despised an oath, by breaking a covenant,—yea lo! hath given his hand, and |all these things| hath done> he shall not escape.
19 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<As I live>
|Surely it is mine oath| which he hath despised,
And |my covenant| which he hath broken,
Therefore will I bring it upon his own head:
20 And I will spread over him my net,
And he shall be taken in my snare,
And I will bring him into Babylon and will enter into judgment with him there, as to his treachery wherewith he hath been treacherous against me;

[a] Cp. chap. xvi. 40, etc. Heb.: בְּקָהָל.

21 And ‖all his fugitives, throughout all his bands‖ <by the sword> shall fall,
And ‖they who are left‖ <to every wind> shall be scattered,—
So shall ye know' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ have spoken!

22 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Therefore will ‖I, myself‖ take, of the highest branch of the lofty cedar, and set it,—
<Of the crown of its young twigs>  will I pluck off, and ‖I, myself‖ will plant it upon a mountain high and terraced, 23 <In the mountain of the height of Israel> will I plant it,
And it shall put forth boughs,
And bear fruit,
And become a majestic' cedar,—
And every bird of every wing shall dwell under it,
<In the shade of its branches> shall they dwell.
24 So shall all the trees of the field know' that ‖I, Yahweh‖
Have laid low the high' tree,
Have exalted the low' tree,
Have dried up the moist' tree,
And have caused to flourish the tree |that was dry|,—
‖I, Yahweh‖ have spoken, and performed.

§ 16. The Ultimate Divine Dealing with Individuals. (Cp. chaps. iii., xxxiii.)

18 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
2 What occasion have ‖ye‖ to be using this proverb, concerning[a] the soil of Israel, saying,— ‖Fathers‖ eat sour grapes,
And ‖the children's[b] teeth‖ are blunted?
3 <As I live>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely ye shall have occasion no longer to use this proverb, in Israel.[c]
4 Lo! <as for all persons>[d] |mine| they are,
<As' the person[e] of the father> so' also the person[e] of the son, |mine| they are,—
<The person[e] that sinneth> ‖the same‖ shall die.
5 But <when ‖any man‖ shall be righteous,—
and do justice and righteousness:
6 <Upon the mountains> hath not eaten,
And <his eyes> hath not lifted up unto the manufactured gods of the house of Israel,
And <the wife of his neighbour> hath not defiled,
And <unto a woman during her removal> hath not approached;
7 And <no man> hath treated with violence,
But <his debt-pledge> hath restored.
<Plunder> hath not seized,—
<His bread—to the famished> hath given,
And <the naked> hath covered with clothing;
8 <Upon interest> hath not put out [his money],
And <increase> hath not accepted,
<From dishonesty> hath turned back his hand,—
<Justice, in truth> hath done, between man and man;
9 <In my statutes> hath walked,
And <my regulations> hath observed, to do them in truth> <Righteous> he is
He shall ‖surely live‖,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

10 But he hath begotten a son
<Who is a violent man,
A shedder of blood,—
Who doeth the like of[a] any of these things;
11 Whereas ‖he‖ <none of those other things> doeth,
For indeed' <upon the mountains> he hath eaten,
And <the wife of his neighbour> hath defiled;
12 <The oppressed and the needy> hath treated with violence,
Hath ruthlessly plundered,
<The pledge> hath not restored,
But <unto the manufactured gods> hath lifted up his eyes,
<Abomination> hath wrought;
13 <Upon interest> hath put out,
And <increase> hath accepted,—>
And shall he |live|?
He shall not live,
<All these abominations> he hath done,
He shall ‖surely be put to death‖,
‖His blood‖ <upon himself> shall be.

14 But lo! he hath begotten a son,
<Who hath considered all the sins of his father, which he hath done,— Yea he hath considered, and not done like them:
15 <Upon the mountains> hath not eaten,
And <his eyes> hath not lifted up unto the manufactured gods of the house of Israel,
<The wife[b] of his neighbour> hath not defiled;

Hath ‖by no means withholden the pledge‖,
And <plunder> hath not seized,—

17 <From dishonesty>[a] hath turned back his hand,
<Neither interest nor increase> hath accepted,
<My regulations> hath executed,
<In my statutes> hath walked,—>
‖He‖ shall not die for the iniquity of his father,
He shall ‖surely live‖!

18 ‖His father‖
<Because he exacted unjust gain,
Seized plunder of a brother,
And <that which was not good> had done in the midst of his people>[b]
Therefore lo! he died, in his iniquity.

19 Will ye then say,
Why' hath not the son' borne a part of the iniquity of the father'?

But ‖the son‖ hath done |justice and righteousness|
<All my statutes> hath observed and done them,
He shall ‖surely live‖.
20 <The person[c] that sinneth> ‖the same‖ shall die,—
A ‖son‖ shall not bear a part of the iniquity of |the father|,
Neither shall ‖a father‖ bear a part of the iniquity of the son,
‖The righteousness of the righteous‖ <upon himself> shall be,
And ‖the lawlessness of a lawless man‖[d] <upon himself> shall be.

21 But ‖as for the lawless man‖—
<When he shall turn back from all his sins[e] which he hath committed,
And observe all my statutes,
And do justice and righteousness>
He shall ‖surely live‖,
He shall not[f] die:
22 ‖None of his transgressions which he hath committed‖ shall be remembered against him,—
<In his righteousness which he hath done> he shall live.

23 Could I take ‖delight‖ in the death of the lawless? Demandeth My Lord, Yahweh.
Must it not be in his turning from his ways[a] [in which case] he shall live?

24 But <when a righteous man |shall turn away| from his righteousness and do that which is perverse,
Shall do ‖according to all the abominations which the lawless man hath done‖>
Shall he |live|?
‖None of his righteous acts[b] which he hath done‖ shall be remembered,
<In his treachery wherein he hath been treacherous,
And in his sin wherein he hath sinned>
<In them> shall he |die|.

25 Can ye then say—
The way of My Lord' |will not be equal|?[c]
Hear, I pray you, O house of Israel,
Will ‖my way‖ not be equal?
Will not ‖your ways‖ be unequal?

26 <When a righteous man |shall turn away| from his righteousness and do that which is perverse, and die because of those things>
<In his own perversity which he hath done> shall he die.

27 But <when a lawless man |turneth away| from his lawlessness which he hath done, And hath done justice and righteousness>
‖He‖ shall save |his own soul| alive:
28 <When he considered> then he turned away from all his transgressions, which he had committed,
He shall ‖surely live‖,
He shall not' die.

29 Can the house of Israel then say'—
The way of My Lord |will not be equal|?
Will ‖my ways‖ not be equal, O house of Israel?
Will not ‖your ways‖ be unequal?

30 |Therefore|
<Every man according to his own ways> will I judge you, O house of Israel,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Return ye—and make good your return—from all your transgressions,
That they become not unto you a stumbling-block of iniquity.
31 Cast off from you, all your transgressions which ye have committed against me,[d]
And make you a new heart,
And a new spirit,—
For why' should ye die, O house of Israel?

§ 17. A Dirge for the Princes of David's House.

19 1 ||Thou||, therefore, take up a dirge, for the prince[a] of Israel; 2 and thou shalt say—

How was |thy mother| a lioness!
<Between lions> she lay down,—
<In the midst of young lions>
She nourished her whelps;
3 And she reared up one of her whelps—
<A young lion> he became,
And he learned to rend prey,
<Men> he devoured.
4 Then nations |heard of him|,
<In their pit> was he caught,—
So they brought him with hooks,
Into the land of Egypt.

5 And she saw she had waited,
Lost' was her hope,
Then took she another of her whelps,
<A young lion> she made him.
6 Yea he went to and fro amidst lions,
<A young lion> he became,—
And he learned to rend prey,
<Men> he devoured;
7 And he injured[b] his widows,
And <their cities> laid waste,—
And deserted' was the land, and its fulness,
At the noise of his roaring.

8 Then |set upon him| the nations round
about,
From the provinces,—
And spread over him their net,
<In their pit> was he caught;
9 And they put him in a cage with hooks,
And brought him to Babylon's king,[c]—
They brought him into strong-holds,
That his noise might be heard no more,
Among the mountains of Israel.

10 ||Thy mother|| [was] like a vine of thy vineyard,[d]
<By waters> was planted,—
<Fruitful and full of branches> she became,
By reason of waters abundant;
11 And they served her as staves of power,
For the sceptres of rulers,
And high' became the stature thereof,
With its interwoven foliage,—
And it was seen by its height,
By its multitude of branches.
12 Then was she uprooted in indignation,
<To the ground> was she cast,
And ||an[e] east wind|| dried up her fruit,—
|Broken off and withered| were her staves of power,
<A fire> devoured them.

13 ||Now|| therefore, is she planted in a desert,—
In a land parched and dry;
14 And there hath gone forth a fire out of her staves of rods,
<Her fruit> hath it devoured,
And there is in her no staff of power,
As a sceptre to bear rule.

<A dirge> it is, and hath been made |a
dirge|.

§ 18. The Prophet recounts Israel's past Treacheries, and protests that she shall not be suffered to become like other Nations.

20 1 And it came to pass <in the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month> that there came in men of the elders of Israel to enquire of Yahweh,—and they sat before me. 2 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:—
3 Son of man,
Speak thou with[a] the elders of Israel, and
say unto them,
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<To enquire of me'> are ye' coming in?
<As I live> verily I will not be enquired of by you,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
4 Wilt thou judge them, wilt thou judge,[b] O son of man?
<The abominations of their fathers> let them
know:
5 So then thou shalt say unto them,
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<In the day when I made choice of Israel> then lifted I up my hand, to the seed of the house of Jacob, and made myself known to them, in the land of Egypt,—
Yea I lifted up my hand to them, saying,
||I, Yahweh|| am your God.
6 <In that day> lifted I up my hand to them, to bring them forth out of the land of Egypt,—into a land that I had looked out[c] for them, flowing with milk and honey,
<The beauty>[d] it was, of all lands.
7 And I said unto them,
||Every one|| <the abomination of his eyes>
cast ye away,
And <with the manufactured gods of Egypt> let it not be that ye defile yourselves:
||I, Yahweh|| am your God.
8 But they rebelled against me,
And were not willing to hearken unto me,
||Every man|| <the abominations of their eyes> they cast not away,
And <the manufactured gods of Egypt> forsook they not;

[c] Or: "spied out."

Therefore spake I of pouring out mine indignation upon them, to bring mine anger to an end against them, ‖in the midst of the land of Egypt‖.

9 Howbeit I wrought with effect, for the sake of mine own Name, that it might not be profaned—before the eyes of the nations, in whose midst they were,—before whose eyes I made myself known unto them, by bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt.

10 Therefore brought I them forth out of the land of Egypt,—and caused them to come into the desert.

11 Then gave I unto them my statutes,
And <my regulations> caused I them to know,—
By the which the man |that doeth them| shall live.

12 Moreover also' <my sabbaths> gave I unto them, to become a sign betwixt me and them,—that it might be known' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ was hallowing them.

13 But the house of Israel |rebelled against me| in the desert,
<In my statutes> walked they not,
<And my regulations> they rejected,
By the which the man |that doeth them| shall live,
<My sabbaths also> they profaned exceedingly.
Therefore spake I of pouring out mine indignation upon them in the desert, to make an end of them.

14 Howbeit I wrought with effect, for the sake of mine own Name,—that it should not be profaned in the eyes of the nations, in whose eyes I had brought them forth.

15 Yet' ‖even I‖ lifted up my hand to them, in the desert,— That I would not bring them into the land which I had given to them,[a] flowing with milk and honey,
<The beauty> it was, of all lands:

16 Because <my regulations> they had rejected,
And <as for my statutes> they had not walked therein,
<My sabbaths also> had they profaned;
For <after their manufactured gods> |their heart| had been going.

17 Nevertheless mine eye |threw a shield| over them, that they should not be destroyed;
So I made not of them a full end, in the desert.

18 But I said unto their children, in the desert,
<In the statutes of your fathers> let it not be that ye walk,
<And their regulations> let it not be that ye observe,—
<And with their manufactured gods> let it not be that ye defile yourselves.

19 ‖I, Yahweh‖ am your God,
<In my statutes> walk ye,—
<And my regulations> observe ye and do them;

20 <My sabbaths also> hallow ye,—
And they shall become a sign betwixt me and you,
That it may be known' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ am your God.

21 Notwithstanding, the children rebelled against me,
<In my statutes> walked they not,
<And my regulations> observed they not, to do them,
Wherein the man |who shall do them| shall live,
<My sabbaths>[a] they profaned.
Therefore spake I of pouring out mine indignation upon them, to bring mine anger to an end against them, ‖in the desert‖.

22 Howbeit I withdrew my hand, and wrought with effect, for the sake of mine own Name, —that it should not be profaned before the eyes of the nations, before whose eyes I had brought them forth:

23 Even ‖I‖[b] lifted up my hand to them, in the desert,—
That I would disperse them throughout the nations,
And scatter them throughout the lands;

24 Because <my regulations> had they not done,
And <my statutes> they had rejected,
<My sabbaths also> they had profaned,—
And <after the manufactured gods of their fathers> were their eyes [turned].

25 ‖I myself‖ indeed, suffered[c] them [to walk in] statutes which were |not good|,—
And regulations, in which they could not live.[d]

26 Yea I let them defile themselves with their gifts, when they caused every firstborn to pass through [the fire],—that I might make them desolate.

To the end they might know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

27 |Therefore| speak thou unto the house of Israel, Son of man, and say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
<Yet further in this> did your fathers |insult me|, by the treachery wherewith they dealt treacherously against me;

28 <When I brought them into the land, as to which I had lifted up mine hand to give hill and every tangled tree,

And offered, there, their sacrifices,
And presented there their provoking gift,
And placed, there, their satisfying odour,
And poured out, there, their drink-offerings.
Therefore said I unto them,
What! ‖a high-place‖, whereinto ye are entering?
And so the name thereof hath been called
High-place, until this day.

Therefore say thou unto the house of Israel,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Is it <in the way of your fathers> ye are defiling yourselves,—
And <after their abominations> that ye are committing lewdness?
Yea <when ye lift up your gifts,
When ye cause your children[a] to pass through the fire>
Ye are defiling yourselves unto all your manufactured gods, until this day,
And shall ‖I‖ be enquired of by you, O house of Israel?
<As I live>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely I will not be enquired of by you.

And <as for that which is rising up on your spirit> it shall ‖not at all come to pass‖,
In that ye are saying
Let us be like the nations,
Like the families of the lands,
By ministering unto Wood and Stone!
<As I live>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely <with a strong hand, and
With an outstretched arm, and
With outpoured indignation>
Will I be[b] king over you;
And I will bring you forth from among the peoples,
And gather you together, out of the lands, throughout which ye have been dispersed,
With a strong hand, and
With an outstretched arm, and
With outpoured indignation;
And I will bring you into the desert of the peoples,—and will contend with you there,
|face to face|,
<Just as I contended with your fathers' in the desert of the land of Egypt>
‖So‖ will I contend with you',
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh;
And I will cause you to pass under the rod,[c]
And will bring you into the bond[d] of the covenant;

38 And will sever from you, those who are rebelling and those who are transgressing against me,
<Out of the land of their sojournings> will I bring them forth,
Yet <upon the soil of Israel> shall they not enter,
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

39 But <as for you> O house of Israel,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Go, serve ‖every man' his own manufactured
gods‖,
Yet <afterwards> surely
Ye shall be ready to hearken unto me,—
And <my holy name> shall ye profane no
more,
With your gifts, and
With your manufactured gods.
40 For <in my holy' mountain,
In the mountain of the height of Israel>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
‖There‖ shall all the house of Israel |serve
me|, ‖all of it‖, in the land,
‖There‖ will I accept them, and ‖There‖ will I seek your heave-offerings, and the firstfruits of your gifts,[a] in all your holy things:
41 <As a satisfying odour> will I accept |you|,
Through my bringing you forth from among the peoples,
And gathering you, out of the lands,
throughout which ye have been dispersed;
Thus will I hallow myself in you, before the eyes of the nations.
42 So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
Through my bringing you in unto the soil of Israel,
Unto the land, as to which I lifted up my hand, to give it unto your fathers.
43 Then shall ye call to mind, there, your own ways, and all your own doings, wherewith ye had defiled yourselves,—
And ye shall become loathsome in your own sight, for all your wickednesses, which ye have done.
44 So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
Through my dealing effectively with you, for the sake of mine own Name,—
Not according to your own wicked ways,
Nor according to your corrupted doings,
O house of Israel,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

45 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me,
saying:
46 Son of man,
Set thy face the way towards Teman,
And drop [thy word] against the land of the sun,
And prophesy unto the forest of the field of the South;[b]

Hear the word of Yahweh,—
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh—
Behold me! kindling in thee a fire,
And it shall devour in thee every moist tree and every dry tree,
The spreading flame |shall not be quenched|,
Then |shall be scorched thereby| all faces, from south to north;
48 And all flesh shall see' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ have kindled it,—
It shall not be quenched.

49 Then said I,
Ah! My Lord, Yahweh:
They' are saying of me,
Is' not he a |putter forth of parables|?

§ 19. Against Jerusalem. A Sword! Nebuchadnezzar's Approach depicted.

21 1 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
Set thy face against Jerusalem,
And drop [thy word] against the holy places;
And prophesy against the soil of Israel.
3 Thou shalt say then to the soil of Israel,
‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,[a]
Behold me against thee,
Therefore will I bring forth my sword out of its sheath,—and will cut off from thee, the righteous[b] and the lawless.[b]
4 <Because I have cut off from thee, the righteous and the lawless>
|Therefore| shall my sword go forth out of its sheath against all flesh, from south to north:
5 So shall all flesh know' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ have brought forth my sword, out of its sheath,— it shall not return any more.

6 ‖Thou‖ therefore, O son of man, sigh,—
<In the sharp pain of thy loins and in bitterness> shalt thou sigh, before their eyes.
7 And it shall come to pass <when they shall say unto thee, Wherefore' art thou' sighing?> that thou shalt say,
For the report, because it cometh,
When every heart |shall melt|,
And all hands |be unnerved|,
And every spirit |shall become faint|,
And ‖all knees‖ shall be weak as water,[c]
Lo! it cometh, and shall be brought to pass,
Saith My Lord, Yahweh.

8 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
9 Son of man,
Prophesy' and thou shalt say,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord,[a]—
Say, A sword! a sword!
Sharpened, moreover also furbished:
10 <To make a slaughter> is it sharpened,
<That it may flash as lightning> is it furbished.
Or shall we flourish the royal rod[b] of my son, which despiseth every tree?
11 It hath, however, been given to be furbished, that it may be grasped by the hand:
‖The same‖ is a sword |sharpened|,
Yea ‖the same‖ is furbished,
Ready to be given into the hand of the slayer.

12 Make an outcry and howl, son of man,
For ‖the same‖ hath come against my people,
‖The same‖ is against all the princes[c] of Israel,—
Who are |thrown to the sword| with my people,
|Therefore| smite thou upon thy thigh.
13 For trial hath been made,
What then, <even though the royal rod despiseth>[d] shall it not be?
Demandeth My Lord, Yahweh.
14 ‖Thou‖ therefore, son of man,
Prophesy, and smite thy hands together,
And let the sword smite twice, thrice, ‖the sword of the slain‖,
‖The same‖ is the great sword of the slain, that which hemmeth them[e] in.
15 <That the heart |may melt|,
And the overthrown[f] be multiplied' at all their gates>
I have recompensed a slaying by the sword:
Surely[g] it hath been made ready to flash like lightning, ‖keen[h] for slaughter‖.
16 One firm stroke[i] to the right,
Turn[k] to the left,— Whithersoever thine edge is directed,[l]
17 Yea ‖even I myself‖ will smite my hands together,
And will cause mine indignation to find rest,— ‖I, Yahweh‖ have spoken.

18 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me saying:
19 ‖Thou‖ therefore, son of man,
Appoint thee two ways,
For the sword of the king of Babylon to enter|,
Out of one land shall those two [ways] come,—

And  engrave thou,
<At the head of the way to the city>
engrave it.
20 <A way> shalt thou appoint, for the sword
|to enter|,
Even to Rabbah of the sons of Ammon,—
And to Judah, against Jerusalem, the defenced,
21 For the king of Babylon |hath come to a stand|
At the parting of the way,
At the head of the two ways,
To divine a divination:
He hath shaken with arrows,
He hath asked of the household gods,[a]
He hath inspected the liver.
22 <On his right hand> hath come the divination—Jerusalem!
To plant battering-rams,
To open a hole by breach,
To lift up the voice, with a war-shout,—
To plant battering-rams against the gates,
To cast up an earth-work,
To build[b] a siege-wall.

23 <Though it will become to them a veritably false' divination in their eyes, even when bound by oaths to them>[c]
Yet ‖he‖ <calling to mind iniquity>[d] [will determine] that it shall be captured.

24 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because ye have brought to mind your iniquity, by revealing your transgressions, causing your sins to appear, in all your doings,— Because ye have brought yourselves to mind>
‖By force‖ shall ye be captured.

25 ‖Thou‖ therefore, O profane, lawless one, prince of Israel,—
Whose day |hath come|, in a time of final iniquity:[e]
26 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Remove the turban,
And lift off the crown,—
This' not that',
<The abased> exalt,
And <the exalted> abase.
27 <An overthrow, overthrow, overthrow>[f] will I make it,—
‖Even this‖ hath not befallen until the coming of One to whom belongeth the right,
Then will I bestow it.

28 ‖Thou‖ therefore, son of man,
Prophesy and say,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
As to the sons of Ammon, and as to their reproach,
Yea thou shalt say,
A sword! a sword!
Drawn' for slaughter,
Furbished, that when it beginneth,[a] it may flash like lightning;
29 <Since they see for thee, false' visions,
Since they divine for thee, lies>
To stretch thee upon the necks of them who are the most profaned of lawless ones,
Whose day |hath come|, in a time of final iniquity.[b]
30 Put it back into its sheath!
<In the place where thou wast created,
In the land of thy nativity> will I judge |thee|.
31 Then will I pour out upon thee mine indignation,
<With the fire of mine outburst> will I blow upon thee; and will deliver thee up into the hand of brutish men, skilled to destroy.
32 <For the fire> shalt thou serve as fuel,
‖Thy blood‖ shall be in the midst of the land,—
Thou shalt not be remembered,
For ‖I, Yahweh‖ have spoken.

§ 20. The Sins of Jerusalem enumerated, and charged home upon Princes, Priests, Rulers, Prophets, and People.

22 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
2 ‖Thou‖ therefore, son of man,
Wilt thou judge, wilt thou judge, the city of bloodshed; and cause her to know all her abominations?
3 Thou shalt say then,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
A city shedding blood in her own midst
That her time |might come|,
Therefore hath she been making manufactured gods for herself, to be defiled.

4 <Because of the blood which thou hast shed> hast thou become guilty,
And <with the manufactured gods which thou hast made> hast thou defiled thyself,
Thus hast thou brought near thy days,
And hast come unto[c] thy years,—
<For this cause> have I delivered thee
As a reproach, to the nations,
And as a derision, to all the lands.
5 ‖They who are near, and they who are far off from thee‖ shall shew themselves derisive over thee,—
O thou of impure name, abounding in confusion!

6 Lo! the ‖princes[a] of Israel‖ <every man for his own arm> have they been in thee,
For the sake of shedding blood.
7 <Father and mother> have they despised in
thee,
<To the sojourner> have they dealt with oppression, in the midst of thee,— <The fatherless and the widow> have they maltreated in thee:
8 <My holy things> hast thou despised,—
And <my sabbaths> hast thou profaned:
9 <Slanderers> have arisen in thee,
For the sake of shedding blood,—
And <unto[b] the mountains> have they eaten
in thee,
<Lewdness> have they practised in the midst of thee:
10 ‖A father's shame‖ hath been uncovered in
thee,
<Her that was unclean in her removal> have they humbled in thee;
11 And ‖one man‖ <with the wife of his neighbour> hath wrought abomination,
And ‖another‖ hath defiled |his daughter-in-law| by shameful deed,—
And ‖another‖ <his own sister, daughter of his own father> hath humbled in thee:
12 <Bribes> have they accepted in thee,
For the sake of shedding blood,—
<Interest and increase> hast thou accepted,
And thou hast overreached thy neighbour by oppression,
And <me> hast thou forgotten,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
13 Lo! therefore, I have smitten my hand,
At thine unjust gain which thou hast
made,—
And over thy bloodshed, which they have caused in thy midst.
14 Can thy heart endure' or can thy hands be strong' in the days when I' am dealing with
thee?
‖I, Yahweh‖ have spoken, and will perform.
15 Therefore will I disperse thee among the
nations,
And scatter thee throughout the lands,—
And will cause to cease thine impurity out
of thee;
16 So shalt thou be profaned in thyself,[c] before the eyes of nations,[d]
Thus shalt thou know' that ‖I am Yahweh.

17 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me,
saying:
18 Son of man,
The house of Israel |hath become to me|,
dross,—
‖They all‖ are copper[e] and tin and iron and lead, in the midst of a furnace,
<The dross of silver> have they become.

19 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because ye all are become dross>
|Therefore| behold me! gathering you' into the midst of Jerusalem:
20 <As they gather[a] silver and copper[b] and iron and lead and tin, into the midst of a furnace, to blow upon it the fire, to melt
it>
‖So‖ will I gather, in mine anger and in mine indignation, and will let be,[c] and will melt you';
21 Yea I will gather you' together, and blow upon you, with the fire of my wrath,—
And ye shall be melted in the midst
thereof:
22 <As silver is melted' in the midst of a furnace>
‖So‖ shall ye be melted in the midst thereof,—
Then shall ye know' that ‖I Yahweh‖ have poured out mine indignation upon you.

23 And the word of Yahweh came unto me,
saying:
24 Son of man, say to her,
‖Thou‖ art a land, that is |not to be rained upon|,[d] nor to receive fruitful showers, in the day of indignation.

25 Because ‖her princes in her midst‖[d] are like a roaring lion, rending prey,—
<Life> have they devoured, <Wealth and precious things> have they been wont to take,
<Her widows> have they multiplied in her midst.

26 ‖Her priests‖ have done violence to my law,
And have profaned my holy things,
<Between the hallowed and the common> have they put no difference,
And <between the unclean and clean> have they not taught men to discern,—
And <from my sabbaths> have they hid their eyes,
So that I have been profaned in their
midst.

27 ‖Her rulers within her‖ have been like wolves, rending prey,—
In shedding blood,
In destroying lives,[e]
For the sake of getting dishonest gain.

28 And ‖her prophets‖ have coated it for them with whitewash,
Seeing visions of falsehood,
And divining for them lies,— Saying, ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh, when ‖Yahweh‖ hath not spoken.

29 ‖The people of the land‖ have exacted oppression, and seized plunder,—
Even <the afflicted and the needy> have they maltreated,
And <the sojourner> have they oppressed, |without justice|.

30 Then sought I from among them, a man
Who could build up a wall,
And stand in the breach' before me in behalf of the land,
So that I might not destroy her,—
But I found none.[a]

31 Therefore have I poured out upon them mine indignation,
<In the fire of mine outburst> have I consumed them,—
<Their way, upon upon their own head> have I placed,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 21. The Unchaste Sisters Oholah and Oholibah.

23 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
<Two women', daughters of one mother> there were;
3 And they became unchaste in Egypt,
<In their youth> became they unchaste,
<There> were handled their breasts,
And <there> were pressed their virgin' bosoms.
4 And their names were Oholah[b]—the elder,
And Oholibah[c]—her sister,
And they became mine, and bare sons and daughters,—
<And as for their names>
‖Samaria‖ was Oholah,
And ‖Jerusalem‖ was Oholibah.
5 Then became Oholah unchaste ‖after she had become mine‖,[d]—
And lusted after her lovers,
For Assyrians, so warlike,
6 Clothed in blue,
Governors and deputies,
Attractive young men, all' of them,—
Horsemen, riding on horses.
7 So she bestowed her unchastities upon them,
The choicest men of Assyria, all' of them,—
And <with whomsoever she lusted after—with all their manufactured gods> she defiled herself.
8 And <her unchaste doings from the time she was in Egypt> had she not forsaken,
For <with her> had they lain in her youth,
Yea ‖they‖ had pressed her virgin' bosoms,—and had poured out their unchastity upon her.
9 |Therefore| did I deliver her into the hand of her lovers,—
Into the hand of the sons of Assyria, after whom she lusted:
10 ‖They‖ disclosed her shame,
<Her sons and her daughters> took they away,
And <herself—with the sword> they slew,—
Thus became she a by-word among women, when <judgments> they had executed upon her.

11 And <though her sister Oholibah[a] saw'> Yet became she more corrupt in her lust than the other,—
And ‖her unchaste doings‖ exceeded the unchaste doings of her sister.
12 <After the sons of Assyria> she lusted,
Governors and deputies so warlike,
Clothed in splendid array,
Horsemen, riding on horses,—
Attractive young men, all' of them.
13 So I saw, that she defiled herself,—
<One way> had they both.
14 Yet did she add, unto her unchaste doings,—when she saw men portrayed upon the wall, likenesses of Chaldeans,
Portrayed with vermilion:
15 Girded with waistcloths upon their loins,
With overhanging high turbans upon their heads,
<In appearance> knights, all' of them,—
The likeness of the sons of Babylon of Chaldea, the land of their birth.
16 Then lusted she after them, as soon as her eyes beheld them,—
And she sent messengers unto them, to Chaldea.
17 Then |came in unto her| the sons of Babylon into the bed of endearments, and defiled her with their unchaste doings,—
And she' defiled herself with them',
And then was her soul torn from them.
18 Thus disclosed she her unchaste desires,
And disclosed' her shame,—
So my soul was torn from her,
Just as my soul had been torn from her sister.
19 Yea she multiplied her unchaste desires,—calling to mind the days of her youth, when she was unchaste in[b] the land of Egypt;
20 So she lusted after their courtiers,— Whose flesh was ‖the flesh of asses‖, and Whose issue was ‖the issue of horses‖.
21 Yea thou didst look about for the lewdness of thy youth,—
When were pressed, by the Egyptians, thy bosoms,
When they handled[d] thy youthful breasts.

[a] Cp. chap. xiii. 5; Jer. v. 1.
[b] Prob.="her own tent"; but O.G.: "tent-woman, i.e., worshipper at tent-shrine."
[c] Prob.="my tent in her"; but O.G.: "= in meaning to Oholah."

[c] Gt.: "when the E. pressed"—G.n.
[d] So it shd be (w. Aram. and Syr.). Cp. ver. 3—G.n.

22 |Therefore| O Oholibah,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! rousing up thy lovers against thee,
Even them from whom thy soul hath been torn,—
And I will bring them against thee from every side;
23 The sons of Babylon and all Chaldeans,
Pekod and Shoa and Koa,[a]
All the sons of Assyria, with them,—
Attractive young men,
Governors and deputies, all' of them.
Knights and men of renown,
Riders on horses, all' of them;
24 And they shall come upon thee—
With battle-axe,[b] chariot and wheel,
And with a gathered host[c] of peoples,
<Shield and buckler and helmet> will they array against thee, on every side,—
And I will put before them, judgment,
And they shall judge thee with their judgments;
25 <When I set forth my jealousy against thee>
Then will they deal with thee in indignation, <Thy nose and thine ears> will they remove,
And ‖that which is left of thee‖ <by the sword> shall fall,—
‖They‖ will take away ‖thy sons and thy daughters‖,
And ‖that which is left of thee‖ shall be devoured by the fire;
26 And they shall strip off thy raiment,—
And take away thine adorning' jewels!
27 Thus will I cause thy lewdness to cease', from thee,
Even thine unchastity [brought] from the land of Egypt,—
So that thou shalt not lift up thine eyes unto them,
And <Egypt> shalt thou not call to mind any more.

28 For ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! delivering thee up, into the hand of them whom thou hatest,—
Into the hand of them from whom thy soul hath been torn;
29 And they shall deal with thee in hatred,
And take away all thy labour,
And leave thee utterly naked,—
And thine unchaste' shame |shall be disclosed|, with thy lewdness and unchastities,
30 These things shall be done' to thee,—
In that thou hast gone unchastely after the nations,
Because thou hast defiled thyself with their manufactured gods.

31 <In the way of thy sister> hast thou walked,
Therefore will I put her cup into thy hand.
32 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<The cup of thy sister> shalt thou drink,
The [cup] deep and large,
Thou shalt become a laughingstock and derision,
‖Much‖ doth it contain!
33 <With drunkenness[a] and grief> shalt thou be filled,—
The cup of astonishment and desolation,
The cup of thy sister Samaria;
34 Yea thou shalt drink it and drain it out,
<And the sherds thereof> shalt thou gnaw,[b]
And <thy breasts> shalt thou tear out,
For ‖I‖ have spoken,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
35 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because thou hast forgotten me', and cast me' behind thy back>
‖Thou also thyself‖, bear thou thy lewdness and thine unchaste doings.

36 And Yahweh said unto me,
Son of man,
Wilt thou judge Oholah, and Oholibah?
Then declare thou unto them, their abominations.
37 For they have committed adultery,
And ‖blood‖ is on[c] their hands,
Yea <with their manufactured gods> have they committed adultery,
And <even their own children whom they bare unto me> have they set apart for them,[d] to be devoured.
38 |Yet more| ‖this‖ have they done to me,—
They have defiled my sanctuary, |in the same day|,
And <my sabbaths> have they profaned.
39 Yea <when they had slaughtered their children, to their manufactured gods> then entered they into my sanctuary |on the same day|, to profane it,—
And lo! ‖thus‖ have they done, in the midst of mine own house.
40 ‖Yea verily‖ that ye must needs send for men, ready to come in, from afar,— in that ‖a messenger‖ was sent unto them, and lo! they came,
For whom thou didst bathe thyself,
Paint thine eyes,
And deck thyself with ornaments.
41 Then satest thou upon a glorious couch,
With a table prepared, before it,—
And <mine incense and mine oil> didst thou set thereon.

42 ‖The noise of a careless throng also‖ was with her,[a]
And <besides men out of the mass of mankind> there were brought in drunkards,[b] out of the desert;
And they put bracelets upon the hands of both women,
And crowns of adorning upon their heads.

43 Then said I, of her that was worn out with adulteries,
Will they |now| join in her unchaste doings, ‖even hers‖?[c]

44 Yet came they[d] in unto her, as men go in unto a woman that is a harlot,— ‖So‖ came they in unto Oholah, and unto Oholibah—the lewd' women!

45 But <righteous men> ‖they‖ shall judge them,
With the judgment of adulteresses, and
With the judgment of women that shed blood,— Because <adulteresses> they are'
And ‖blood‖ is on their hands.

46 For ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
There shall be brought up against them a gathered host,[e]
Then shall they be delivered up, for a terror and for a prey,

47 Yea a gathered host[e] |shall stone them with stones|, and despatch them with their swords,
<Their sons and their daughters> shall they slay,
And <their houses—in the fire> shall they consume.

48 So will I make an end of lewdness, out of the land,—
And all women |shall be disciplined|, and shall not do according to your lewdness.

49 Yea the judges[f] shall set your lewdness upon you,
And <your sins with manufactured gods> shall ye bear;
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am The Lord, Yahweh.[g]

§ 22. Jerusalem likened to a Filthy Caldron.

24 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, in the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month, saying:

2 Son of man,
Write thee the name of the day, this selfsame day,—the king of Babylon cast' himself against Jerusalem, on this selfsame day.

3 Put thou forth, therefore, against the perverse house, a parable, and say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh:
Set on the caldron, set it on,
Moreover also' pour into it water:

4 Gather the pieces thereof into it,
Every good piece, thigh and shoulder,—
<With the choice of the bones> fill it:

5 Take ‖of the choice of the flock‖
Moreover also' a pile of bones[a] [place] under it,—
Boil the pieces thereof,
Yea' let the bones of it seethe' in the midst thereof.

6 |Wherefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Woe! city of bloodshed.
The caldron whose scum is in it, and ‖whose scum‖ hath not gone out of it:
<Piece by piece> bring it out,
There hath fallen thereon no lot.

7 For ‖her own blood‖ hath come to be |in her midst|,
<Upon the smooth face of the cliff> hath she set it,—
She hath not poured it out on the earth, that she might cover it with dust.

8 <To bring up indignation, to execute an avenging> have I set her blood upon the smooth face of the cliff,—that it may not be covered.

9 |Wherefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Woe! city of bloodshed,—
‖Even I myself‖ will make large the pile.

10 Heap on the wood,
Kindle the fire,
Consume the flesh,—
Yea season with spice,
And let the bones be scorched.

11 Then set it upon the live coals thereof, empty,—that the copper[b] of it |may be scorched and burn|,
So that the impurity thereof |may be annihilated within it|,
The scum thereof |be consumed|.

12 <With toils> hath she wearied herself,—
<Since her abundant scum will not go out of her> |into the fire| with[c] her scum!

13 <In thine uncleanness> is lewdness; <because I purified thee, and thou wast not purified> <from thine uncleanness> thou shalt not be purified any more, until I have let mine indignation rest upon thee.

14 ‖I, Yahweh‖ have spoken,
It cometh, and I will perform,
I will not let alone,
Neither will I shield,
Nor will I repent,—
<According to thy ways and according to thy doings> have they judged thee,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 23. The Prophet, bereft of his Wife, becomes a Pathetic Object-Lesson to Israel.

15 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
16 Son of man,
Behold me! taking away from thee the delight of thine eyes with a stroke,[a]—
But thou shall not lament,
Neither shalt thou weep,
Neither shall come—thy tears:
17 <To groan> forbear,
<Over the dead—no mourning> shalt thou make,
<Thy chaplet> bind thou on thee,
And <thy sandals> put thou on thy feet,
And thou shalt not cover thy beard,
And <the bread of [other] men>[b] shalt thou not eat.
18 So I spake unto the people, in the morning, and my wife died' in the evening,—and I did, in the morning, as I had been commanded.
19 Then said the people unto me:
Wilt thou not tell us what these things are to us, that thou shouldst be acting [thus]?
20 So I said unto them:
‖The word of Yahweh‖ hath come unto me, saying: 21 Say to the house of Israel,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! profaning my sanctuary,
The pride of your strength,
The delight of your eyes,
And the object of the tender regard of your soul,—
And ‖your sons and your daughters whom ye have left behind‖ <by the sword> shall fall.
22 Then shall ye do, as I have done.—
<The beard> shall ye not cover,
And <the bread of [other] men> shall ye not eat;
23 And ‖your chaplets‖ shall be on your heads,
And ‖your sandals‖ on your feet,
Ye shall neither[c] lament, nor weep,—
Yet shall ye pine away in your iniquities, and shall groan, one to another.
24 So shall ‖Ezekiel‖ become |to you| a wonder,
<According to all that he hath done> shall ye do:
<When it cometh> then shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am The Lord, Yahweh.[d]
25 ‖Thou‖ therefore, Son of man,
Shall it not be—
<In the day when I take away from them Their strength,
The joy of their adorning,—
The delight of their eyes,
And the desire[e] of their soul,
Their sons and their daughters>
26 That <in that day> one that hath escaped shall come in unto thee,—to cause thee to hear it with thine own ears?
27 That <in that day> thy mouth shall be opened' unto him that hath escaped,
And thou shalt speak, and not be dumb any longer?
So shalt thou become to them a wonder,
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

§ 24. Against the Sons of Ammon.

25 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
Set thy face against the sons of Ammon,—and prophesy against them.
3 So then thou shalt say to the sons of Ammon,
Hear ye the word of My Lord, Yahweh:[a]
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh:[a]
<Because thou saidst Aha!
Against my sanctuary when it was profaned,
And against the soil of Israel when it was laid waste,
And against the house of Judah, when they went into exile>
4 |Therefore| behold me! delivering thee up to the Sons of the East for a possession,
And they shall set their encampments in thee,
And place in thee their habitations,
‖They‖ shall eat thy fruits,
And ‖they‖ shall drink thy milk;
5 And I will make of Rabbah a home for camels,
And the sons of Ammon a couching-place for flocks,
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.
6 For ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because thou didst clap thy hands, and stamp with thy foot,—and didst rejoice with all thy contempt, in thy soul, against the soil of Israel>
7 |Therefore| behold me!
I have stretched out my hand over[b] thee,
And will deliver thee for a prey to the nations,
And will cut thee off from among the peoples,
And will cause thee to perish from among the lands,—
I will destroy thee,
So shalt thou know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

§ 25. Against Moab and Seïr (Edom).

8 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh:
<Because Moab and Seïr say,
Lo! <like all the nations> is the house of Judah[c]>

[a] Or: "by a plague."
[b] I.e.: "the sustenance which men bring to the house of mourners." Cp. Jer. xvi. 7.
[c] Some cod.: "yet shall ye neither"—G.n.
[d] Or transfer both divine names: "Adonây, Yahweh."
[e] Ml.: "the uplifting."

[a] Or as two proper names: "Adonây, Yahweh."
[b] Sp.v.r. (seviv): "against"—G.n.
[c] So one school of Massorites; another: "Israel"—G.n.

| Therefore| behold me! laying open the side of Moab out of the cities,
Out of his cities, on his frontiers,
The beauty of the land of Beth-jeshimoth,
Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim:
To the Sons of the East [when they come] against the sons of Ammon, and I will deliver it up for a possession,—to the end the sons of Ammon |may not be remembered| among
the nations:
Also <upon Moab> will I execute judgments,—
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because of what Edom hath done', in taking vengeance on the house of Judah,— so that they have become guilty again and again, and have taken vengeance upon them>
| Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
I will therefore stretch forth my hand over Edom, and will cut off therefrom man and beast,
And will deliver it up as a desolation, from Teman,
And ‖they of Dedan‖ <by the sword> shall fall,
And I will put forth mine avenging against Edom, by the hand of my people Israel,
And they shall deal with Edom, according to mine anger and according to mine indignation,—
So shall they know mine avenging,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,

§ 26. Against the Philistines.

‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because of what the Philistines have done'
by way of vengeance,—
In that they have taken vengeance, with contempt, in the soul, to destroy, with the enmity of age-past times>
|Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! stretching forth my hand over the Philistines,
And I will cut off the Cherethim,—
And will cause to perish, the remnant of the coast of the sea;
And I will execute upon them great vengeance, with rebukes of indignation:
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
when I put forth mine avenging against
them.

§ 27. Against Tyre (chaps. xxvi., xxvii.).

26 1 And it came to pass <in the eleventh year, on the first of the month> that the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

2 Son of man,
<Because Tyre hath said' concerning Jerusalem,
Aha!
She is broken' that was the doors of the peoples,
She is turned unto me,—
I shall be filled,
She is laid waste>
3 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! against thee, O Tyre,— So then I will bring up against thee many
nations,
As the sea bringeth up its rolling waves;
4 And they shall destroy the walls of Tyre,
And break down her towers,
And I will scrape clean her dust from off
her,—
And make of her the glaring face of a cliff:
5 <A place for the spreading of nets> shall she become, in the midst of the sea,
For ‖I‖ have spoken,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,—
And she shall become a prey to the nations.
6 And ‖her daughters that are in the field‖[a]
|with the sword| shall be slain:
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

7 For ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! bringing against Tyre, Nebu-chadrezzar king of Babylon out of the North, a king of kings,—with horses and with chariots and with horsemen, and a gathered host[b] and much people.
8 <Thy daughters in the field—with the sword> shall he slay,—
And shall set against thee a siege-wall,
And cast up against thee an earthwork,
And set up against thee a large shield;
9 And <the stroke of his attacking-engine> will he direct against thy walls,—
And <thy towers> will he break down, with his axes.[c]
10 <By reason of the multitude of his horses> their dust shall cover' thee,— <At the noise of horseman and wheel and chariot> shall thy walls tremble', when he entereth into thy gates,
Just as they' do who enter a city broken open.
11 <With the hoofs of his horses> shall he tread down all thy streets,— <Thy people—with the sword> shall he slay,
And ‖thy pillars of strength‖ <to the earth> shall go down.
12 And they shall spoil thy wealth,
And make a prey of thy merchandise,
And break down thy walls,
And <thy pleasant' houses> shall they lay in ruins;

[a] I.e.: "her villages inland."
[b] Heb.: kâhâl'. Cp. chap. xvi. 40, etc.
[c] "But poss. swords as implement ready to hand" —O.G. 353.

And <thy stones and thy timber and thy dust—in the midst of the waters> shall they lay.
13 And I will cause to cease the hum of thy songs;
And <the sound of thy lyres> shall not be heard any more.
14 And I will make of thee the glaring face of a cliff.
<A place for the spreading of nets> shalt thou become,
Thou shalt not be built any more,—
For ‖I, Yahweh‖ have[a] spoken it,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
15 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
to Tyre:
Shall it not be, that,
<At the sound of thy fall,
With the groan of thy pierced one,
With the slaughter made in thy midst>
The Coastlands |shall tremble|?
16 Then shall come down from off their thrones, all the princes of the sea,
And shall lay aside their robes,
And <their embroidered' garments> shall strip off,—
<With tremblings> shall they clothe themselves,
<Upon the ground> shall they sit,
And shall tremble every moment, and be astonished over thee.
17 Then shall they take up[b] over thee, a dirge,
And say to thee,—
How' hast thou perished,
And ceased[c] from the seas,—
The city renowned, which was strong in the sea,
She and they who dwelt in her,
Who imparted their terror
To all who dwelt in her!
18 ‖Now‖ shall tremble' the Coastlands,
In the day of thy fall,—
And shall shudder' the isles that are in the sea,
At thine exit![d]
19 For ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<When I make thee a desolate city,
Like cities which cannot be dwelt in,—
When I bring up over thee the roaring deep,
And the mighty waters cover thee>
20 Then will I bring thee down with them that go down into the pit,
Unto the people of age-past times,
And cause thee to dwell in the earth below,
Among the desolations from age-past times,
With them that go down into the pit,
That thou mayest not be dwelt in,—
Nor yet present thyself[e] in the land of the living.
21 <A terror> will I make thee,
And thou shalt not be':
<Though thou be sought for>
Thou shalt not be found any more,
To times age-abiding,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

[redacted]weh.

[redacted]to me, 27

1 And the word of Yahweh came unto [redacted]
saying:
2 ‖Thou‖ therefore, son of man,
Take up over Tyre, a dirge;
3 And thou shalt say unto Tyre,
O thou that dwellest by the entrances of [redacted] of the sea,
Thou merchant of the peoples, unto ma[redacted] many shores,—
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
O Tyre, ‖thou‖ saidst,
‖I‖ am the perfection of beauty!
4 <In the heart of the seas> were [redacted]re thy bounds,— ‖Thy builders‖[b] perfected thy beauty:
5 <With fir-trees from Senir> built they [redacted]hey for thee, all the two-decked vessels,— <Cedar from Lebanon> fetched they [redacted]ney, to make masts for thee:
6 <With oaks from Bashan> made they [redacted]e they thine oars,— <Thy benches> made they of ivory, in[redacted] inlaid with boxwood,[b]
From the shores of the West:
7 <Of fine linen with embroidered work [redacted]k from Egypt> was thy sail,
To serve thee for ensign,—
‖Blue and purple from the shore[redacted]es of Æolis‖
Became thine awning:
8 ‖The inhabitants of Zidon and Arvad‖ [redacted]
Became rowers for thee,—
‖Thine own skilled men‖ O Tyre, [redacted] were within thee,
‖They‖ were thy sailors:
9 ‖The elders of Byblus and the skille[redacted]l men thereof‖ were within thee,
Thy calkers,—
‖All the ships of the sea and their mar[redacted]iners were within thee,
‖To carry on thy traffic‖
10 ‖They of Persia and Lûd and Phût[redacted] were in thine army, Thy men of war,— within <Shield and helmet> hung they up [redacted]
thee,
‖They‖ set forth thy splendour:
11 ‖The sons of Arvad‖ <with thine [redacted] army were upon thy walls, round about
And ‖valorous‖ |in thy towers|, [redacted]
<Their shields> hung they up [redacted] on walls, round about,
‖They‖ perfected thy beauty:

‖Tarshish‖ was a trader of thine,
For the abundance of all wealth,—
<With silver, iron, tin and lead>
Took they part in thy traffic:
<Javan, Tubal and Meshech>
‖They‖ were merchants of thine,—
<With the persons of men, and vessels of bronze>
Shared they in thy barter:
‖Some of the house of Togarmah‖ <with horses and horsemen and mules>
Took part in thy traffic:
‖The sons of Dedan‖ were merchants of thine,
‖Many isles‖ took the merchandise of thy hand,—
<Horns of ivory and ebony> gave they back to thee, in exchange:
‖Syria‖ was a trader of thine,
For the abundance of thy manufactures,—
<With carbuncle and purple and embroidery and fine linen and coral and rubies>
Took they part in thy traffic:
<Judah and the land of Israel>
‖They‖ were merchants of thine,—
<With the wheat of Minnith and the sweets of pannag and honey and oil and balsam>
Shared they in thy barter:
‖Damascus‖ was a trader of thine,
For the multitude of thy manufactures,
For the multitude of all wealth,—
With the wine of Helbon and white wool:
‖Wedan and Javan‖ <from Uzal>[a]
Brought into thy traffic,—
‖Steel, cassia and calamus‖
Were |in thy merchandise|:
‖Dedan‖ was a merchant of thine,—
With spreading wraps, for riding:
<Arabia and all the princes of Kedar>
‖They‖ were traders at thy service,—
<With lambs and rams and he-goats>
‖With these‖ were they traders of thine:
<The merchants of Sheba and Raamah>
‖They‖ were merchants of thine,—
<With the chief of all spices, and with every kind of precious stone, and gold>
Took they part in thy traffic:
‖Haran and Canneh and Eden, the merchants of Sheba,—Asshur, Chilmad‖
Were merchants of thine:
‖Those‖ were thy merchants, for gorgeous garments, for wrappings of blue and embroidery, and for treasure-chests of variegated cloth,—for cords, twisted and strong, in thy market:
‖The ships of Tarshish‖ were thy masts,
Carrying on thy barter,—
So wast thou filled, and becamest very glorious,
In the heart of the seas.

26 <Into mighty waters> have they brought thee,
‖The rowers‖—|even thee|,—
‖The east wind‖ hath broken thee,
In the heart of the seas:
27 ‖Thy wealth and thy wares, thy merchandise, thy mariners, and thy sailors,—thy calkers and the barterers of thy merchandise, and all thy men of war who are in thee, and in[a] all thy gathered host[b] which is in thy midst‖
Shall fall into the heart of the seas,
In the day of thy fall.
28 <At the sound of the outcry of thy pilots> the coasts |shall quake|:
29 Then shall come down from their ships, all that handle the oar, mariners, all the sailors of the sea,—
<Upon the land> shall they take up their station;
30 And make loud [lament] over thee, with their voice,
And make bitter outcry,—
And shall lift up dust on their heads,
<In ashes> shall roll themselves;
31 And shall make bald for thee a baldness,
And gird them with sackcloth,—
And shall weep for thee in bitterness of soul,
A bitter lamentation;
32 And shall take up for thee, in their wailing,[c] a dirge,
And shall chant over thee,—

Who is like Tyre?
Like the Silent One in the midst of the sea?

33 <By the going forth of thy commodities out of the seas>
Thou didst satisfy many peoples,
<By the multitude of thy wares and of thy merchandise>
Thou didst enrich the kings of the earth.
34 ‖Now‖[d] thou art wrecked out of the seas,
In the depths of waters,—
‖Thy merchandise and all thy gathered host‖[b]
<In thy midst> have fallen.
35 ‖All the dwellers in the coastlands‖
Are astounded over thee,—
And ‖their kings‖ have been made to shudder a shuddering,
To be troubled in countenance.
36 ‖The traders among the peoples‖ have hissed over thee:
<A terror> hast thou become,
And |art not|,
Unto times age-abiding.

§ 28. Against the Prince of Tyre.

28 1 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
Say to the Prince[a] of Tyre,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh—
<Because <lofty> is thy heart, and thou hast said,
<A God>[b] am I,
<In the seat of God>[c] have I taken my seat,
In the heart of the seas;
Whereas ‖thou‖ art a man, and not a God,[b]
But hast set thy heart as the heart of God:[c]
3 Lo! <wiser> ‖thou‖ than Daniel,—
<No secret> have they hidden from thee:
4 <In thy wisdom and in thine understanding> hast thou gotten thee wealth,—
And hast gotten gold and silver into thy treasuries:
5 <By the greatness of thy wisdom and by thy traffic> hast thou multiplied thy riches,—
And thy heart |hath become lofty| in thy riches>
6 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
<Because thou hast set thy heart as the heart of God>[c]
7 |Therefore| behold me! bringing upon thee aliens,[d]
The terrible ones of the nations,—
And they shall unsheathe their swords over the beauty of thy wisdom,
And profane[e] thy splendour:
8 <To the pit> shall they take thee down,—
And thou shalt die the deaths of one thrust through,[f]
In the heart of the seas.
9 Wilt thou ‖really say‖, <God>[c] am I, before him who is slaying[g] thee;
When ‖thou‖ art a man and not a God,[b] in the hand of them who are piercing[h] thee?
10 The <deaths of the uncircumcised> shalt thou die, by the hand of aliens,—
For ‖I‖ have spoken,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 29. Against the King of Tyre.

11 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:
12 Son of man
Take thou up a dirge over the king of Tyre,—
And thou shalt say to him,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
‖Thou‖ wast of finished proportions,
Full of wisdom, and
Perfect in beauty:
13 <In Eden, the garden of God> thou wast,
<Of every precious stone> was thy covering—
Sardius, topaz, and diamond,
Chrysolite, beryl, and jasper,
Sapphire, carbuncle, and emerald,—
And <of gold> was the work of thy timbrels and thy flutes, within thee,
<In the day thou wast created> were they prepared:
14 ‖Thou‖ wast the anointed cherub that covered,—
<When I appointed thee> <in the holy mount of God> thou wast, <Amid stones of fire> thou didst walk to and fro:
15 <Complete> wast thou' in thy ways, from the day thou wast created,— Until perversity was found' in thee.
16 <By the abundance of thy traffic> they filled thy midst with violence,
And thou didst sin,—
So I cast thee as profane[a] out of the mountain of God,
And destroyed thee, O covering cherub, from amid the stones of fire:
17 <Lofty> was thy heart, in thy beauty,
Thou didst corrupt thy wisdom, because of thy splendour,—
<Upon the earth> did I cast thee,
<Before kings> did I set thee,
That they might look at thee:
18 <Owing to the abounding of thine iniquities,
In the perversity of thy traffic>
Thou didst profane thy sanctuaries,[c]—
Therefore brought I forth fire out of thy midst,
‖The same‖ devoured thee,
And I turned thee to ashes on the ground,[d]
Before the eyes of all beholding thee:
19 ‖All that had known thee among the peoples were astounded over thee,—
<A terror> hast thou become,
And |art not|
Unto times age-abiding.

§ 30. Against Zidon.

20 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:
21 Son of man,
Set thy face towards Zidon,—
And prophesy over it; 22 and thou shalt say—
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! against thee, O Zidon,
Therefore will I get myself glory in thy midst,—
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
When I have executed against her judgments,
And hallowed myself in her.

[a] Or: "leader" (negîdh).
[b] Heb.: 'êl.

23 So then I will send against her, pestilence and blood in her streets,
And the wounded[a] shall fall' in her midst, by the sword upon her from every side,—
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

24 And the house of Israel |shall no more have| a stinging prickle, or a wounding thorn, of any round about them, who used to despise them,—
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am The Lord,
Yahweh.[b]

25 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<When I gather together the house of Israel, from the midst of the peoples among whom[c] they have been scattered, and shall hallow myself in them before the eyes of the nations>
Then shall they dwell upon their own soil, which I gave to my servant—to Jacob:

26 Yea they shall dwell thereupon, |securely|,
Yea shall build houses, and plant vineyards,
and dwell |securely|,—
When I have executed judgments on all that despised them on every side of them,
So shall they know' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ am their God.[d]

§ 31. Against Pharaoh King of Egypt, and against his Land (Chaps. xxix.-xxxii.).

29 1 <In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth of the month> came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

2 Son of man,
Set thy face against Pharaoh, king of Egypt,—
And prophesy against him, and against Egypt
|all of it|:

3 Speak, and thou shalt say—
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! against thee, O Pharaoh, king of Egypt,
The great Crocodile that lieth along in the midst of his rivers:
Who saith—
My river is ‖mine own‖,
Since ‖I myself‖ made it me!

4 Therefore will I put hooks in thy jaws,
And cause the fish of thy rivers to stick fast in thy scales,—
And will bring thee up out of the midst of thy rivers,
And ‖all the fish of thy rivers‖ |to thy scales|
shall stick fast;

5 And I will stretch thee out towards the desert,
‖Thee, and all the fish of thy rivers‖,
<On the face of the field> shalt thou lie,
Thou shalt not be carried away, nor shalt thou be gathered,
<To the wild beast of the earth, and to the bird of the heavens> have I given thee for food.

6 So shall all the inhabitants of Egypt know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,—
Because they were a staff of reed to the house
of Israel:

7 <Whensoever they took hold of thee by the[a] hand> thou didst run through, and tear open for them every hand,[b]—
And <whensoever they leaned upon thee> thou didst break, and caused all their loins |to halt|.[c]

8 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! bringing upon thee a sword,—
And I will cut off out of thee, man and beast;

9 And the land of Egypt shall become an astonishment and a desolation,
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,—
Because he said—
‖The river‖ is mine own,
Since ‖I myself‖ made it![d]

10 |Therefore| behold me! against thee, and against thy rivers,—
And I will make the land of Egypt, to be most desolate, an astounding desolation, From Migdol to Syene, even up to the boundary of Ethiopia:

11 The foot of man |shall not pass through it|,
Nor shall ‖the foot of beast‖ pass through it,
Neither shall it be inhabited, forty years:

12 So will I make the land of Egypt a desolation in the midst of lands made desolate,
And <her cities—in the midst of cities that have been laid waste> shall become a desolation, forty years,—
And I will disperse the Egyptians among the
nations,
And scatter them throughout the lands.

13 For ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
<At the end of forty years> will I gather the Egyptians from among the peoples whither I had dispersed them;

14 And I will turn the captivity of the Egyptians,[e]
And will cause them to return
To the land of Pathros,
Upon[f] the land of their nativity,—
And they shall become, there, a kingdom
abased:

15 <More than [any of] the kingdoms> shall she be abased,
And shall lift herself up no more over the
nations,—
Yea I will make them too small, to rule over the nations.

[a] Or: "a wounded one"; or, "a profane one."
[b] Or transfer both divine names: "Adonây, Yahweh."
[c] Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep.): "where" [instead of "amongst whom"]—G.n.
[d] The accents vary; in many MSS. they = "I am Y. their G."; in others (w. 7 ear. pr. edns.) they = "I Y. am their G."
[a] Written: "thy hand"; read: "the hand." In some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.) both written and read: "the hand"—G.n.
[b] Or: "the whole hand." So it shd be ["hand" not "shoulder"] (w. Sep.). Cp. 2 K. xviii. 21—G.n.
[c] Or: "come to a stand." Gt.: "shake." Cp. Ps. lxix. 23—G.n.
[d] Ml.: "made [it]." Gt.: "it" shd be expressed in Heb.—G.n.
[e] Or: "bring back the Egyptian captives."
[f] Some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edns.): "Unto"—G.n.

16 So shall it become no more, unto the house of Israel, a security,
Calling to mind iniquity, by their turning to follow them,—
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am The Lord,
Yahweh.[a]

17 And it came to pass <in the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first of the month> that the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:
18 Son of man,
‖Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon‖ hath made his army undergo a long service against Tyre,
‖Every head‖ hath been made bald, and ‖Every shoulder‖ worn bare,— But <pay> hath he had none, nor hath his army, out of Tyre, for the service wherewith he hath served against it.

19 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! giving <to Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon> the land of Egypt,—
And he shall carry off her multitude,
And capture her spoil,
And seize her prey,
So shall she become pay for his army.
20 <As a reward for his labour wherewith he hath served> have I given to him the land of Egypt,—in that they wrought for me,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

21 <In that day> will I cause to bud a horn for the house of Israel,
And <to thee> will I give an opening of mouth, in their midst,[b]
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

30 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me,
saying:
2 Son of man,
Prophesy, and thou shalt say,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
Howl ye, Alas for the day!
3 For <near> is a day,
Yea <near> is a day pertaining to Yahweh,
A day of cloud,
<A time of nations> shall it be!
4 Then shall come a sword into Egypt,
And there shall be a pang in Ethiopia,
When the deadly wounded one falleth in Egypt,—
And they take away her multitude, and |her foundations| are broken down.
5 Ethiopia and Libya and Lydia, and all the mixed multitude[c] and Cub, and the sons of the land of the covenant <with them—by the sword> shall they fall.

6 ‖Thus‖ saith Yahweh,
Then shall fall' the supporters of Egypt,
Then shall come down' the pride of her strength,—
<From Migdol to Seweneh> |by the sword| shall they fall therein,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
7 So shall they be made desolate in the midst of lands that are desolate,—
And <his cities—in the midst of cities that are laid waste> shall be found.
8 So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,—
By my setting a fire in Egypt,
When all her helpers |shall be broken|.
9 <In that day> shall messengers go forth from before me, making haste,[a] to cause dread unto Ethiopia so confident,—
And a pang shall be upon them, in[b] the day
of Egypt,
For lo! it cometh.

10 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
Therefore will I cause to cease' the multitude of Egypt, by the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon.
11 ‖He, and his people with him, the terrible ones of the nations‖ are about to be brought in to destroy the land,—
Therefore shall they unsheathe their swords against Egypt, and fill the land with the slain;
12 And I will make the rivers dry,[c] and will sell the land into the hand of wicked ones,—and make the land desolate, with the fulness thereof, by the hand of foreigners,
‖I, Yahweh‖ have spoken.

13 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Therefore will I destroy the manufactured gods, and Cause to cease the worthless gods, out of Noph,
<And prince out of the land of Egypt> shall none arise any more,—
And I will cause fear in the land of Egypt.
14 Then will I bring desolation upon Pathros,
and
Set a fire in Zoan, and Execute judgments upon No: and 15 Pour out mine indignation upon Sin, the stronghold of Egypt, and Will cut off the multitude of No.[d]
16 So will I set a fire in Egypt,
‖Sore anguish‖ shall take Sin,
And ‖No‖ shall be for rending asunder,
And ‖Nôph‖ be in straits every day.

17 ‖The young men of Aven and Pi-beseth‖[a]
|by the sword| shall fall;
And lo! <into captivity> shall they themselves wend their way.
18 And <in Tehaphnehes> hath the day become dark,
Because I have broken, there, the yoke-bars of Egypt,
And there shall be made to cease therein the pride of her strength,—
<She> ‖a cloud‖ shall cover her!
And ‖her daughters‖ |into captivity| shall wend their way.
19 Thus will I execute judgments on Egypt;
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

20 And it came to pass <in the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh of the month> that the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:
21 Son of man,
<The arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt> have I broken,—
And lo! it hath not been bound up—
To apply healing remedies,
To put on a bandage for binding it up,
To make it strong to grasp the sword.

22 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh—
Behold me! against Pharaoh king of Egypt,
Therefore will I break his arms,
That which is strong, and
That which is broken,—
So will I cause the sword to fall out of his hand.
23 And I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations,—
And scatter them throughout the lands;
24 And will uphold the arms of the king of Babylon,
And put my sword into his hand,—
And will break the arms of Pharaoh,
And he shall utter the groans of one thrust through, before him.
25 Yea I will uphold the arms of the king of Babylon,
But ‖the arms of Pharaoh‖ shall fall,—
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
By my putting my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon,
And he shall stretch it out against the land of Egypt.
26 So will I disperse the Egyptians among the nations,
And scatter them throughout the lands,—
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

31 1 And it came to pass <in the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first of the month> that the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
Say unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and unto his multitude,— Whom' art thou like in thy greatness?
3 Lo! ‖Assyria‖ was a cedar[a] in Lebanon,
Beautiful in bough and Dense in foliage, and Lofty in stature,— and <Among the clouds> came to be his top:
4 ‖The waters‖ made him great,
‖The roaring deep‖ made him high,—with its currents going round about the place where it was planted,
<Its channels also> it sent forth unto all the trees of the field.
5 ‖For this cause‖ <higher> was his stature, than any of the trees of the field,—
And multiplied' were his boughs,
And lengthened' were his branches,[b]
By reason of the mighty waters, when he shot forth shoots.
6 <Among his branches> all the birds of the heavens |made their nests|,
And <under his boughs> all the wild beasts of the field |brought forth|,—
And <in his shade> dwelt all the mighty nations.
7 Thus became he beautiful in his greatness,
In the length of his waving branches,—
Because his root had gone' towards mighty waters.
8 ‖Cedars‖ hid him not, in the garden of God,
‖Fir-trees‖ were not like unto his boughs,
Nor ‖plane-trees‖ like his branches,—
‖No tree in the garden of God‖ was like unto him, in his beauty.
9 <Beautiful> I made him in the abundance of his waving branches,— Therefore was he envied by all the trees of Eden, which were in the garden of God.

10 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because thou hast become lofty in stature,
And he hath stretched his top among the clouds,
And his heart is exalted' in his loftiness>
11 Let me then deliver him into the hand of the chief of the nations,—
He shall ‖effectually deal‖ with him!
<According to[c] his lawlessness> have I driven him out:
12 Therefore have foreigners, the terrible of the nations, |cut him down|,
And abandoned him,—
<Upon the mountains, and in all valleys> have fallen his waving branches,
And broken' have been his boughs in all the river-beds of the land,

And all the peoples of the earth |have come down out of his shade|,
And abandoned him:
13 <Upon his trunk> shall settle down all the birds of the heavens,—
And <among his boughs> are to be found all the wild beasts of the field:—
14 To the end that none of the trees of the waters—
May exalt themselves in their stature,
Or stretch their top among the clouds,
Nor their mighty ones take their stand in their height — any that drink of the waters,—
Because ‖they all‖ are delivered to death,
Unto the earth below,
In the midst of the sons of Adam,
Amongst them who descend into the pit.

15 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<In the day when he descended into hades>
I caused a mourning,
I covered over him the roaring deep,
And restrained the currents thereof,
And stayed' were the mighty waters,—
So caused I gloom over him unto Lebanon,
And ‖all the trees of the field‖ |for him| were covered with a shroud.
16 <At the sound of his fall> I made nations tremble,
When I caused[a] him to descend into hades, with them who descend into the pit,—
Then were grieved, in the earth below—
All the trees of Eden,
The choicest and best of Lebanon,
All who had drunk the waters.
17 ‖Even they‖ |with him| descended into hades,
Among them who were thrust through with the sword,—
Even his seed[b] who dwelt in his shade, in the midst of the nations.

18 Unto whom' couldst thou be likened ‖thus‖, in glory and in greatness, among the trees of Eden?
Yet shalt thou be caused to descend, with the trees of Eden, into the earth below,
<In the midst of the uncircumcised> shalt thou lie down,
With them who were thrust through by the sword.

‖The same‖ is Pharaoh' and all his multitude,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

32 1 And it came to pass <in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first of the month> that the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
Take up a dirge, over Pharaoh king of Egypt, and thou shalt say unto him,
<The young lion of the nations> thou didst deem thyself,— Whereas ‖thou‖ wast like the crocodile in the seas,[a]
And didst cause thy streams to burst forth,
And didst trouble the waters with thy feet,
And foul their rivers.

3 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Therefore will I spread over thee my net,
With a gathered host[b] of many[c] peoples,—
And they shall bring thee up in my net;
4 And I will stretch thee out on the land,
<Over the face of the field> will I fling thee,—
And |will cause to settle upon thee| all the birds of the heavens,
And will satiate, with thee, the wild beasts of all the earth;
5 And I will lay thy flesh on the mountains,—
And fill the valleys with thy blood;
6 And will soak the earth with thy blood[d] amongst the mountains,—
And ‖the channels‖ shall be filled with thee.

7 And <when I quench thee>
I will cover the heavens,
And obscure their stars,—
<The sun—with a cloud> will I cover,
And ‖the moon‖ shall not shed her light;
8 <As for all the light-bearers in the heavens>
I will obscure them over thee,—
And will stretch out darkness over thy land,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

9 And I will aggrieve the heart of many peoples, — when I bring them who are broken off from thee, among the nations, unto lands which thou hast not known.
10 Yea I will cause amazement, over thee, unto many peoples,
And the hair ‖of their kings‖ shall stand on end over thee, when I brandish my sword over their faces,—
And they shall tremble every moment, every man for his own life,
In the day of thy fall.

11 For ‖thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh:—
‖The sword of the king of Babylon‖ shall reach thee.
12 <With the swords of mighty men> will I cause thy multitude to fall,
‖Terrible ones of the nations, all' of them‖,—
And they shall spoil the pride of Egypt,
And all her multitude |shall be destroyed|,
13 And I will cause to perish all her beasts, from beside the many waters,—
And the foot of man |shall not trouble them| any more,
Nor shall ‖hoof of beast‖ trouble them.

[a] Or: "by my causing."

14 ‖Then‖ will I make their waters |subside|,
And <their streams—like oil> will I cause to flow,— Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

15 < When I make the land of Egypt an astonishment,
A land laid bare of its fulness,
When I cut off all that dwell therein >
Then shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

16 <A dirge> it is',
And they shall chant it,[a]
‖The daughters of the nations‖
Shall chant[b] it:
<Over Egypt and over all her multitude>
Shall they chant[b] it,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

17 And it came to pass <in the twelfth year, on the fifteenth of the month> that the word of Yahweh came' unto me saying:

18 Son of man,
Wail thou over the multitude of Egypt, and cause it to descend—‖her and the daughters of the famous nations‖—into the earth below, with them who descend into the pit.

19 <Than whom> art thou more precious?
Descend and be laid low with the uncircumcised:

20 <Into the midst of them who were thrust through by the sword> let them fall,—
<To the sword> hath she been delivered up,
Lay ye hold of her, and all her multitudes.

21 The chiefs of the mighty |shall speak to him| out of the midst of hades, with his helpers,—
They have descended, They have lain down,
The uncircumcised!
Thrust through by the sword!

22 <There> is Assyria, with all her gathered host,[c]
<Round about him> are his graves,
‖All of them‖ thrust through,
The fallen by the sword:

23 Whose graves |have been set|
In the recesses of the pit,
And so her gathered host[c] is round about her grave,
All of them thrust through,
Fallen by the sword,
Who caused terror in the land of the living.

24 <There> is Persia, with all her multitude, round about her grave,—
‖All of them‖ thrust through,
The fallen by the sword,
Who have descended, uncircumcised, into the earth below,
Who made themselves a terror in the land of the living,
And so they have borne their confusion, with them who descend into the pit:

25 <In the midst of them who were thrust through> have they have placed a couch for her, with all her multitude,
<Round about it> are her graves,—
‖All of them‖ uncircumcised,
Thrust through with the sword,
For that their terror was caused in the land of the living,
And so they have borne their confusion, with them who descend into the pit,
<In the midst of them who were thrust through> hath it[a] been placed.

26 <There> are Meshech-Tubal and all her multitude,
<Round about it> are her graves,—
‖All of them‖ uncircumcised,
Who were thrust through with the sword,
For that they made themselves a terror in the land of the living;

27 Therefore shall they not lie with the mighty men,
The fallen ones from age-past times,[b]—
Who descended into hades with their weapons of war,
And their swords were placed under their heads,
But their iniquities have come upon their bones,
Because of the terror of the mighty, in the land of the living.

28 ‖Thou‖ therefore <in the midst of the uncircumcised> shalt be overthrown,[c]
And shalt lie low with them who were thrust through by the sword.

29 <There> are Edom, her kings and all her princes,
Who have been delivered up in their might,
With them who were thrust through by the sword,—
‖They‖ <with the uncircumcised> shall lie low,
Even with them who descend into the pit.

30 <There> are the princes of the North, |all of them|, and all the Zidonians,
Who have descended with them who were thrust through,
<By reason of the terror they caused> <of their might> are they ashamed,
So they have lain down uncircumcised,
With them who were thrust through by the sword,
And they have borne their confusion, with them who descend into the pit.

31 <Them> shall Pharaoh |see|, and be grieved over all his multitude,— <Thrust through with the sword> shall be Pharaoh and all his army!
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

[a] Ml.: "And they shall dirge it."
[b] Ml.: "dirge."
[c] Heb.: ḥâlâl. Cp. chap. xvi. 40, etc.

32 For I have suffered[a] his[b] terror to be in the land of the living,
Therefore |shall be laid low|
<In the midst of the uncircumcised,
With them who were thrust through by the sword>
‖Pharaoh and all his multitude‖!
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 32. Divine Dealing with Individuals
(cp. chaps. iii., xviii.).

33 1 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me,
saying:
2 Son of man,
Speak unto the sons of thy people, and thou shalt say unto them,

<‖A land‖—when I bring upon it a sword,—
And the people of the land shall take' one man out of their whole number, and appoint him for them, as watchman;
3 And he shall see the sword coming upon the land,—and shall blow with the horn, and warn the people>
4 Then <as for him who ‖really heard‖ the sound of the horn, and took not warning>
The sword indeed |hath come| and taken him away,—
‖His blood‖ |upon his own head| shall remain:—
5 <The sound of the horn> he heard, but took not warning,
‖His blood‖ |upon himself| shall remain,—
Whereas <had |he| taken warning> <his own soul> he should have delivered.

6 But as for the watchman—
When he seeth the sword coming,
And hath not blown with the horn,
And ‖the people‖ have not been warned,
And the sword |hath come| and taken away from among them any person>
‖He‖ |for[c] his iniquity| hath been taken away,
But ‖his blood‖ |at the hand of the watchman| will I require.

7 ‖Thou‖ therefore, Son of man,
<A watchman> have I appointed thee, to
the house of Israel,
So then thou shalt hear, at my mouth, a message, and shalt warn them' from me.
8 <When I say to the lawless man,
O lawless man, thou shalt ‖surely die‖,
And thou have not spoken to warn the lawless man from his way>
‖He, the lawless man‖ |for[c] his iniquity|
shall die,
But <his blood — at thy hand> will I demand.

9 But <as for ‖thyself‖,
When thou hast warned a lawless man from his way, to turn therefrom,
And he hath not turned from his way>
‖He‖ |for[a] his own iniquity| shall die,
But ‖thou‖ hast delivered ‖thine own life‖.[b]

10 ‖Thou‖ therefore, Son of man,
Say unto the house of Israel,
‖Thus‖ have ye spoken, saying:
<When ‖our transgressions and our sins‖ are upon us,—and <for[a] them> we' are melting away>
How', then, can we live?

11 Say unto them,
<As I live>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely, I can take no pleasure in the death of
the lawless man,
But that the lawless man turn' from his way,
and live,—
Turn ye, turn ye, from your wicked ways,
For wherefore' should ye die, O house of Israel?

12 ‖Thou‖ therefore, Son of man
Say unto the sons of thy people—
‖The righteousness of the righteous man‖ shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression,
And <as for the lawlessness of the lawless
man>
He shall not stumble thereby,[c] in the day of his return from his lawlessness,— Nor shall ‖the righteous man‖ be able to live thereby[c] in the day of his sin.
13 <When I say of the righteous man, He shall ‖surely live‖ but ‖he‖ hath trusted in his righteousness and committed perversity>
‖None of his righteous deeds‖[d] shall be mentioned,
But <by[a] his perversity which he hath committed—thereby>[c] shall he die.
14 And <when I say to the lawless man, Thou shalt ‖surely die‖ but he shall turn from his sin, and do justice and righteousness:
15 <The debt-pledge> the lawless man shall restore,
<Plunder> shall pay back,
<In the statutes of life> hath walked, so as not to commit perversity>
He shall ‖surely live‖, he shall not[c] die:—
16 ‖None of his sins[f] which he hath committed‖ shall be called to mind against him,— <Justice and righteousness> hath he done,
He shall ‖surely live‖.

17 And can the sons of thy people |say|,
The way of The Lord[a] will not be equal?
Nay! but <as for them> ‖their way‖ will not be equal!

18 <When the righteous man shall turn' from his righteousness, and commit perversity>
Then shall he die for[b] them;

19 But <when the lawless man shall turn' from his lawlessness, and do justice and righteousness>
<Upon them> shall he' live.

20 And can ye then say,
The way of The Lord[a] will not be equal?
<Every man—according to his own ways>
[so] will I judge you, O house of Israel!

21 And it came to pass <in the twelfth[c] year, in the tenth month, on the fifth of the month, of our exile> that there came unto me one that had escaped out of Jerusalem, saying,
Smitten' is the city!

22 Now ‖the hand of Yahweh‖ had come unto me, in the evening, before the coming of him who had escaped, and he had opened my mouth, by the time that he came to me in the morning, —so my mouth |was opened|,[d] and I was dumb no longer. 23 Then came the word of Yahweh unto me, saying:

24 Son of man,
‖These inhabitants of waste places, on the soil of Israel‖ are saying thus,
<One> was Abraham,
Yet he inherited the land,—
But ‖we‖ are many',
<To us> is the land' given as an inheritance.

25 |Wherefore| say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh.
<With the blood> ye do eat,
And <your eyes>[e] ye do lift up unto your manufactured gods,
And <blood> ye do shed;
And <the land> shall ye inherit?

26 Ye men[f] have taken your stand by your sword,
Ye women[g] have wrought abomination,
And <every man—with the wife of his neighbour> have ye defiled yourselves;
And <the land> shall ye inherit?

27 ‖Thus‖ shalt thou say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
‖As I live‖ surely ‖they who are in the waste places‖ <by the sword> shall fall,
And ‖him who is on the face of the field‖ <to the wild beast> have I given to be devoured,[h]—
And ‖they who are in the mountain holds and in the pits‖ <by pestilence> shall die;

28 And I will make the land a desolation and an astonishment,
|So shall be made to cease| the pride of her strength,—
And the mountains of Israel shall be too desolate for any' to pass through.

29 So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,—
When I make[a] the land a desolation and an astonishment, because of all their abominations which they have committed.

30 ‖Thou‖ therefore, Son of man,
‖The sons of thy people who are talking against thee‖
<Near the walls and in the entrances of the houses> are speaking one with another, every man with his brother, saying,
Come in, we pray you, and hear, what is the word that is coming forth from Yahweh;

31 That they may come unto thee as people do' come,
And may sit before thee, [as] my people,
And they will hear thy words,
But <the words themselves> will they not do,— though <fond with their mouths> ‖they‖ seem to be,
<After their unjust gain> |their heart| is going.

32 And lo! thou art to them—
As a bewitching song,[b]
Of one with a beautiful voice,
And skilfully touching the strings,—
So will they hear thy words,
And yet be going to do none' of them.

33 But <when it cometh Lo! it is coming!>
Then shall they know' that ‖a prophet‖ hath been in their midst.

§ 33. Against the Shepherds of Israel. The True Shepherd judges both betwixt Classes and Individuals.

34 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying:

2 Son of man,
Prophesy against the shepherds of Israel,—
Prophesy, and thou shalt say unto them, even to the shepherds—
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh—
Alas! for the shepherds of Israel who have been tending |themselves|!
Is it not ‖the flock‖ that the shepherds should tend?

<The well-fed> ye do sacrifice,[a]
<The flock> ye do not tend:
4 <The weak> have ye not strengthened,
And <the sick> have ye not healed,
And <the torn> have ye not bound up,
And <that which was driven out> have ye not brought back,
And <that which was straying> have ye not sought out;
But <with force> have ye ruled them, and with rigour.
5 And they were scattered, because there was no shepherd;
And they became food for every wild beast of the field,
So were they scattered.
6 My sheep did wander' through all the mountains,
And over every high hill,—
And <over all the face of the land> were my sheep scattered,
And there was none' to inquire,
And none' to seek out.
7 |Wherefore| ye shepherds, hear ye the word of Yahweh:
8 <As I live>—
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely <because my flock became a prey,
And my flock became food for every wild beast of the field, through having no' shepherd,
Neither did my shepherds inquire after the flock,—
But |the shepherds| tended |themselves|,
And <my flock> they tended not>
9 ||Therefore| ye shepherds, hear ye the word of Yahweh:
10 ||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! against the shepherds,
So then I will require my flock at their hand,
And will cause them to cease tending the flock,
Neither shall |the shepherds| any longer' tend' |themselves|,
But I will deliver my flock out of their mouth, that they may not be their' food.
11 For
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
Here am ||I myself||
Therefore will I inquire after my flock, and seek them out:
12 <As a shepherd seeketh out his flock in the day he is in the midst of his sheep that are scattered>
||So|| will I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of all the places where they were scattered in the day of cloud and thick darkness;
13 And I will bring them out from among the peoples,
And will gather them out of the lands,
And will bring them upon their own soil,—
And will tend them Upon the mountains of Israel, In the ravines,[a] And in all the habitable places of the land:
14 <In good pastures> will I feed them,
And <on the mountains of the height of Israel> shall be their fold,—
<There> shall they lie down, in a fold that is good,
And <on pasture that is fat> shall they feed, among the mountains of Israel.
15 ||I myself|| will tend my flock,
And ||I myself|| will cause them to lie down,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh:
16 <That which is straying> will I seek out,
And <that which hath been driven away> will I bring back,
And <that which is torn> will I bind up,
And <the weak> will I strengthen,—
But <the fat and the strong> will I watch,[b] I will feed them with justice.
17 And <as for you, O my flock>
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh:
Behold me! judging between one kind of small cattle and another, as well the rams as the he-goats.
18 Is it too small a thing for you that <on the good pasture> ye feed,
But <the remainder of your pastures> ye must needs trample down with your feet?
Or that <of the pure waters> ye drink,
But <the waters left remaining—with your feet> ye must needs foul?
19 And ||my flock||
<On what hath been trampled down by your feet> may feed,
And <of what hath been fouled by your feet> may drink?
20 |Therefore|
||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh, unto them:
Here am ||I myself||,
Therefore, will I judge between fat' sheep and lean' sheep,
21 <Because <with the side and with the shoulder> ye do thrust,
And <with your horns> ye do push all the sick,—
Until ye have scattered them abroad>
22 Therefore will I bring salvation[c] to my flock, and they shall be no longer a prey,—but I will judge' between one sheep and another,
23 And I will raise up over them one shepherd
And he shall tend them,
Even my servant David,—
||He|| will tend them,
And ||he|| will become to them a shepherd;
24 And ||I, Yahweh|| will become to them a God, ||my servant David|| being a prince[d] in their midst,—
||I, Yahweh|| have spoken;
25 And I will solemnise for[e] them a covenant of prosperity,
And will cause to cease the mischievous wild-beast out of the land,

[a] That is, for eating. Cp. O.G. 257; also Lu. xv. 23, 30.

[a] Or: "channels."
[b] So it shd be (w. Sep., Syr. and Vul.)—G.n. [a for d!]
[c] Or: "deliverance."
[d] Or: "leader."
[e] Or: "with."

And they shall dwell in the wilderness, securely,
And shall sleep in the forests;
26 And I will make them' and the places round about my hill' a blessing,—
And I will cause the abundant rain to come down in its season <abundant rains of blessing> shall they be;
27 And the tree of the field shall yield his fruit,
And ‖the land‖ shall yield her increase,
And they shall remain on their own soil, in security,—
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
When I have broken[a] the bars of their yoke,
And shall deliver them out of the hand of them who have been using them as slaves.
28 And they shall be no longer a prey for the nations,
Nor shall ‖the wild beast of the earth‖ devour them,—
But they shall dwell securely, with none' to put them in terror.
29 And I will raise up unto them a plantation for fame,[b]—
And there shall be no longer the destroyed of hunger in the land,
Neither shall they bear any longer the reproach of the nations.
30 So shall they[c] know' that ‖I Yahweh their God‖ am with them,—
And that ‖they‖ are my people, the house of Israel, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
31 ‖Ye‖ therefore, ‖my flock, the flock of my pasture‖ are |men|,—
‖I‖ am your God,[d]
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 34. Against Mount Seir (Edom). (Cp. § 25.)

35 1 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:
2 Son of man,
Set thy face against Mount Seir,—and prophesy against it; 3 and thou shalt say to it,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me! against thee, O Mount Seir,—
Therefore will I stretch out my hand against thee,
And I will make thee a desolation and an astonishment:
4 <Thy cities> will I lay waste',
And <thou—a desolation> shalt become,—
So shalt thou know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.
5 <Because thou hast had an age-abiding enmity,
And hast delivered up the sons of Israel unto the hands of the sword,—
In the time of their misfortune,
In the time of the final punishment for iniquity>
6 |Therefore| <as I live>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely <regarding blood> will I deal with thee,
‖Blood‖ therefore, shall pursue thee,—
<Since ‖blood‖ thou hast not hated>[a]
Therefore ‖blood‖ shall pursue thee,
7 So then I will deliver up Mount Seir, to desolation after desolation,—
And will cut off therefrom, him that passeth by and him that returneth,
8 And I will fill his mountains with his slain,—
<As for thy hills and thy hollows and all thy channels> ‖they who are thrust through by the sword‖ shall fall therein:
9 <Desolations age-abiding> will I make thee,
And ‖thy cities‖ shall not be inhabited,[b]—
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.
10 <Because thou hast said,
‖The two nations, and the two lands‖ |mine| shall become, that we may possess it>
Whereas ‖Yahweh‖ had been |there|>
11 |Therefore|, <as I live>
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
I will even deal according to[c] thine anger, and according to[d] thine envy, wherewith thou hast dealt, out of thy hatred, with them,—
So will I make myself known among them, as soon as I shall judge thee!
12 And thou shalt know' that ‖I Yahweh‖ have heard all thy revilings, which thou hast uttered against the mountains of Israel saying,
They have become desolate,—
<To us> have they been given for food;
13 And so ye have magnified yourselves against me' with your mouth,
And have caused to abound against me' your words,—
‖I‖ have heard!
14 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
<When all the earth is rejoicing> ‖a desolation‖ will I make thee:
15 <As thou didst rejoice over the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it had become a desolation> ‖so‖ will I do unto thee,—
<A desolation> shalt thou become, O Mount Seir,
And all Edom, ‖all of it‖,
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

§ 35. The Mountains of Israel are addressed, and Promises are made.

36 1 ‖Thou‖ therefore, Son of man,
Prophesy unto the mountains of Israel,—and thou shalt say,
Ye mountains of Israel,
Hear ye the word of Yahweh.

[a] Or: "by my breaking."
[b] Ml.: "for a name." Perh. = "a famous place for planting them."
[c] Some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edns.): "So shall the nations know"—G.n.
[d] Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): "Yahweh your God"—G.n.

[a] Gt.: "Since of blood thou hast become guilty." Cp. chap. xxii. 4—G.n.
[b] So written; but read: "shall not return" or "be restored"—G.n.
[c] Some cod. (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.): "in (with)"—G.n.
[d] Some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edns.: "in (with)"—G.n.

2 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because the enemy hath said concerning you,
Aha! ‖Even the high places of age-past times‖ |for a possession| have become ours>
3 |Therefore| prophesy, and thou shalt say,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
<Because, even because, they have desolated and panted for you, on every side,
That ye should become a possession to the rest of the nations,
And ye have come up into the talk of the tongue and the slander of the people>
4 |Therefore| ye mountains of Israel, hear ye the word of My Lord, Yahweh,—
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,[a]
To the mountains and to the hills, to the channels and to the valleys, and to the desolate waste places, and to the cities that are forsaken, which have become a prey and a derision, to the rest of the nations, which are on every side:
5 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Surely <in the fire of my jealousy> have I spoken against the rest of the nations, and against Edom |all of it|,—
Who have given my land to themselves for a possession,
In the rejoicing of all the heart,
In contempt of soul,
To make of its produce a prey.
6 |Therefore| prophesy, concerning the soil of Israel,—and say to the mountains and to the hills, to the channels and to the valleys,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Behold me!
<In my jealousy and in mine indignation> have I spoken,
Because <the insult of the nations> ye have borne;
7 |Therefore|
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
‖I myself‖ have lifted my hand,—
Surely ‖the nations which are yours[b] round about‖ ‖they‖ <their own shame> shall bear:
8 But ‖ye, O mountains of Israel‖
<Your boughs> shall ye shoot forth,
And <your fruit> shall ye bear, For my people Israel,
For they have drawn near to enter.
9 For lo! I am towards you,
Therefore will I turn towards you,
And ye shall be tilled, and sown;
10 And I will multiply, upon you—men, All the house of Israel, All of it,
Then shall the cities |be inhabited|,
And ‖the waste places‖ shall be built,
11 And I will multiply upon you—man and beast,
And they shall multiply and be fruitful,—
And I will cause you to be inhabited as in your former estates,
And will do you more good than at your beginnings,
So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh;
12 And I will bring upon you—men, even my people Israel,
That they may possess thee,
So shalt thou be theirs, as an inheritance,—
And thou shalt no more again' make them childless.
13 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Because they are saying to you,
<A devourer of men> thou art',
And <one that didst make childless thy nations> hast thou been>
14 |Therefore| <men> shalt thou not devour any more,—
And <thy nations> shalt thou make childless[a] no more,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh;
15 And I will not suffer to be heard against thee, any more, the insult of the nations,
And <the reproach of the peoples> shalt thou not bear any more,—
And <thy nations> shalt thou not cause to stumble any more,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 36. The Evil Effects of Israel's Dispersion are to be removed by her Restoration and Abundant Blessing.

16 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:
17 Son of man,
|The house of Israel| were dwelling upon their own soil,
But they defiled it, by their way, and by their doings.
<Like the defilement of her that is removed> became their way before me.
18 So I poured out mine indignation upon them,
Because of the blood which they had shed upon the land,—
Yea <with their manufactured gods> had they defiled it.
19 So I dispersed them among the nations,
And they were scattered throughout the lands,—
<According to their way and according to their doings> I judged them.
20 But <when they[b] entered among the nations where they did enter> then profaned they my holy' Name,—in that it was said of them,
<The people of Yahweh> these!
Yet <from his land> have they come forth!

[a] Or as two proper names: "Adonáy Yahweh."
[b] This would seem the most natural rendering of the Hebrew, and the result may prove of value elsewhere.

[a] Written: "cause to fall"; but read: "made childless." Some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edns., Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.) both write and read: "make childless"—G.n.

[b] [Lit. in M.C.T.: "he" (or "it"]. "They" in sp. v.r. (sevir); and in some cod., both written and read (w. Aram., Sep., Syr. and Vul.)—G.n.

21 So then I had tender regard for my holy′ Name,—
Which the house of Israel |had profaned|, among the nations, where they had entered.

22 |Therefore| say thou to the house of Israel,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Not for your sakes> am I′ working, O house of Israel,
But for my holy′ Name, which ye have profaned, among the nations where ye have entered;

23 Therefore will I hallow my great′ Name, that hath been profaned among the nations, which ye have profaned in their midst,—
So shall the nations know′ that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
When I have hallowed myself in you,[a] before their[b] eyes.

24 Therefore will I take you from among the nations,
And gather you out of all the lands,—
And will bring you upon your own soil;

25 And I will throw[c] upon you clean water, and ye shall be clean,—
<From all your uncleannesses and from all your manufactured gods> will I cleanse you;

26 And I will give you a new heart,
And  will I put within you,—
And I will take away the heart of stone, out of your flesh,
And will give you a heart of flesh;

27 And <my spirit>[d] will I put within you,—
And will cause
That <in my statutes> ye shall walk,
And <my regulations> ye shall observe, and do;

28 And ye shall dwell in the land which I gave to your fathers,—
And ye shall become my′ people,[e]
And ‖I‖ will become your′ God;[f]

29 And I will save you, out of all your uncleannesses,—
And will call for the corn, and will increase it,
And will not lay upon you, famine;

30 And I will multiply
The fruit of the tree, and
The increase of the field,—
To the end that ye may not receive any more, the reproach of famine, among the nations.

31 Then shall ye call to mind
Your ways that were wicked, and
Your doings that were not good,—
And shall become loathsome in your own sight,
For your iniquities, and
For your abominations.

32 Not <for your sakes> am I′ working,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
be it known to you,—
Turn ye pale and then blush for your ways, O house of Israel.

33 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<In the day when I cleanse you, from all your iniquities>
Then will I cause the cities to be inhabited,
And the waste places |shall be built|;

34 And ‖the land that was made desolate‖ shall be tilled,— Whereas it was a desolation, before the eyes of every passer-by;

35 And they shall say,
‖This land that was made desolate‖ hath become like the garden of Eden,—
And ‖the cities that were waste and deserted and thrown down‖ <now fenced> are inhabited;

36 So shall the nations that may be left remaining round about you know′ that ‖I Yahweh‖—
Have built that which was thrown down, and
Have planted that which was made desolate,—
‖I, Yahweh‖ have spoken, and performed.

37 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
<Even yet—for this> will I be prevailed upon by the house of Israel, to work for them,—
I will multiply them—
Like a flock—with men:

38 <Like a flock of holy offerings,
Like the flock of Jerusalem, in her appointed feasts>
‖So‖ shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of men,—
And they shall know′ that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

§ 37. The Prophetic Vision of the Dry Bones.

37 1 <The hand of Yahweh |being upon me|> he carried me forth in the spirit of Yahweh, and set me down in the midst of a plain,—and ‖the same‖ was full of bones; 2 and he caused me to pass near them, round about on every side,—and lo! they were very many on the face of the plain, and lo! they were very dry. 3 Then said he unto me,
Son of man,
Can these bones |live|?
And I said,
My Lord, Yahweh, ‖thou‖ knowest!
4 Then said he unto me,
Prophesy, over these bones,—and thou shalt say unto them,
Ye bones so dry! hear ye the word of Yahweh!
5 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Unto these bones,—
Lo! I am about to bring into you—spirit, and ye shall live;

[a] So in the Babylonian cod.; but in Cod. Hillel (w. some MSS. and 3 ear. pr. edns): "in them"—G.n., and G. Intro. 441.
[b] In the Babylonian cod. and in Cod. Hillel (w. some MSS. and 9 ear. pr. edns. [‡ Rabb.]): "your"—G.n., and G. Intro. 441.
[c] Cp. Lev. i. 5, n.
[d] Or: "my Spirit" (with a capital S).
[e] Or: "to me a people."
[f] Or: "to you a God."

6 Yea I will lay upon you—sinews,
And bring up over you—flesh,
And cover over you—skin,
And put in you—spirit,
And ye shall live,
Then shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

7 And <when I prophesied, as I was commanded> then was there a noise, as I prophesied, and lo! a rattling, and the bones |came near|, each bone unto its own bone. 8 And <when I looked> then lo! upon them were sinews, and ‖flesh‖ had come up, and there had spread' over them skin, above,—but <spirit> was there none' within them. 9 Then said he unto me,
Prophesy unto the spirit,—
Prophesy, Son of man, and thou shalt say unto the spirit,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh—
<From the four winds>[a] come thou, O spirit,[b]
And breathe into these slain,
That they may live.

10 And <when I prophesied, as he commanded me> then came into them the spirit, and they lived, and stood upon their feet, an exceeding' great army. 11 Then said he unto me,
Son of man,
‖These bones‖ are |all the house of Israel|,—
Lo! they are saying,
Dried' are our bones, and lost' is our hope,
We are quite[c] cut off!
12 |Therefore| prophesy and thou shalt say unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Lo! ‖I myself‖ am going to open your graves,
And will cause you to come up out of your graves, O my people,—
And will bring you upon the soil of Israel.
13 So shall ye know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,—
When I open[d] your graves,
And cause[e] you to come up out of your graves, O my people,
14 And I will put my spirit within you, and ye shall live,
And I will settle you upon your own soil,—
So shall ye know' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ have spoken and have performed,
Declareth Yahweh.

§ 38. The Reunion of Judah and Joseph (Israel) foretold under the Symbol of Two Sticks becoming One.

15 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me, saying:

16 ‖Thou‖ therefore, Son of man,
Take thee one stick, and write upon it,
For Judah, and for the sons of Israel his companions,[a]—
Then take thou another stick, and write upon it,
For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and all the house of Israel, his companions.
17 Then bring them near—the one to the other—for thee, into one stick,—
And they shall become united in thy hand.[b]
18 And <when the sons of thy people |speak unto thee|, saying,— Wilt thou not tell us, what' these things are' to thee?>
19 speak unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Lo! ‖I myself‖ am going to take the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel, his companions,[a]—
And I will place them upon it, even upon the stick of Judah,
And will make of them one' stick,
And they shall become one, in my hand.
20 And the sticks whereon thou shalt write shall remain in thy hand, before their eyes.
21 Therefore speak thou unto them,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Lo! ‖I myself‖ am going to take the sons of Israel, from among the nations, whither they have gone,—
And I will gather them from every side,
And will bring them in upon their own soil;
22 And will make of them one' nation in the land, among the mountains[c] of Israel,
And <one king> shall they all' have, for king,—
And they shall remain no longer' two nations,
Nor shall they be divided into two kingdoms ‖any more‖.
23 Neither shall they defile themselves any more
With their manufactured gods, or
With their detestable things, or
With any of their transgressions,—
But I will save them out of all their dwelling-places,[d] wherein[e] they have sinned,
And I will cleanse them,
And they shall become my' people,[f]
And ‖I‖ will become their' God.[g]
24 And ‖my servant David‖ shall be king over them,
And <one shepherd> shall they all' have,—
And <in my regulations> shall they walk,
And <my statutes> shall they observe, and do them.

[a] Or: "spirits."
[b] Or: "wind"; but it is a "breathing," "life-giving" wind; and it is the same word that is rendered "spirit" in ver. 14. The English reader may well regret that he has, in his mother-tongue, no single word which with equal aptness means either "wind" or "spirit." That is the inimitable felicity of the Hebrew of this passage.
[c] So O.G. p. 516a.
[d] Or: "by my opening."
[e] Or: "by my causing."

[a] Written: "companion"; but read: "companions" (pl.). In some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn.) both written and read: "companions"—G.n.

[e] Or: "whereby."
[f] Or: "to me a people."
[g] Or: "to them a God."

25 And they shall dwell upon the land, which I gave to my servant — to
Jacob, Wherein your fathers |dwelt|,—
Yea they shall dwell thereupon, ‖They, and their children, and their children's children‖
Unto times age-abiding,
And ‖David my servant‖ shall be prince[a] unto them,
Unto times age-abiding.
26 And I will solemnise to them a covenant of prosperity,[b]
<A covenant age-abiding> shall it be with
them,—
And I will place them,
And multiply them,
And set my sanctuary in the midst of them,
Unto times age-abiding.
27 And my habitation shall be over[c] them,
And I will become their' God,[d]—
And ‖they‖ shall become my' people.[e] 28 So shall the nations know that ‖I, Yahweh‖ am hallowing Israel,—
When[f] my sanctuary is in the midst of them,
Unto times age-abiding.

§ 39. Against Gog (chaps. xxxviii., xxxix.).

38 1 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me,
saying:
2 Son of man,
Set thy face against
Gog, of the land of the Magog,
Prince[a] of Rosh, Meshech and Tubal,—
And prophesy concerning him, 3 and thou shalt say,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
Behold me! against thee, O Gog,
Prince[a] of Rosh, Meshech and Tubal;
4 Therefore I will turn thee about, and will put hooks in thy jaws,—and bring thee forth, and all thine army,
Horses and horsemen, Clothed with gorgeous attire, |all of them|,
A mighty gathered host,[g] With shield and
buckler, handling swords, |all of them|:
5 Persia, Ethiopia and Libya, with them,
‖All of them‖ with shield and helmet;
6 Gomer, and all her hordes,
The house of Togarmah, the remote men of the North, and all his hordes,
Many peoples with thee.
7 Be ready, and show thyself ready,
‖Thou and all thy gathered host,[h] who have gathered themselves unto thee‖,—
And become thou for me,[i] a guard.
8 <After many days> shalt thou muster thy forces,
<In the afterpart of the years> shalt thou
enter
Into the land of the remnant brought back from the sword,
Gathered from among many peoples,
Upon the mountains of Israel, which have been waste continually,—
But ‖the same‖ <from among the peoples> hath been brought forth,
And they shall dwell in security, all of
them.
9 Then shalt thou come up,
<Like a storm> shalt thou enter,
<Like a cloud covering the land> shalt thou be,— ‖Thou, and all thy hordes, and many peoples with thee‖.
10 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,—
So shall it be in that day, that thoughts[a] will come up on thy heart,—
And thou wilt devise a wicked device; 11 and wilt say—
I will go up over a land of hamlets,
I will enter among them who are at rest, dwelling securely,—
‖All of them‖ dwelling without' a wall,
Who <bars and doors> have none';
12 To capture spoil,
And take prey,—
To bring back thy hand over desolate places
at length inhabited,
And against[b] a people gathered from among
the nations,
Getting herds and substance,
Dwelling upon the navel of the earth.[c]
13 ‖Sheba and Dedan and the traders of Tarshish and all her young lions‖ will say to thee,
<To capture spoil> art thou' coming?
And <to take prey> hast thou called together thy gathered host?[d]
To carry off silver and gold,
To take away herds and substance,—
To capture great spoil?
14 |Therefore| prophesy, Son of man, and thou shalt say to Gog,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh:
Shall it not be <in that day, because my people
Israel are dwelling securely> that thou wilt rouse thyself?[e]
15 Therefore wilt thou come out of thy place,
Out of the remote parts of the North,
‖Thou, and many peoples with thee‖,— Riding on horses, all of them, A mighty gathered host,[d] Yea a great army;
16 Therefore wilt thou come up, against my people Israel, like a cloud covering the land,—

<In the afterpart of the days> shall it be, that I will suffer thee to enter upon my land,
To the end the nations |may know me|, when I hallow myself[a] in thee before their eyes, O Gog!

17 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Art ‖thou‖ he' of whom I spake in days aforetime, by the hand of my servants the prophets of Israel, who kept on prophesying in those days, for years,—
That thou shouldest be suffered to come against them?

So then shall it come to pass in that day,
<In the day when Gog entereth' upon the soil of Israel,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh>
That mine indignation |shall come up| into my nostrils;

19 Yea, <in my jealousy, in the fire of mine outburst> have I spoken,— Surely <in that day> shall there be a great trembling upon the soil of Israel:

20 Then shall tremble before me
* The fishes of the sea, and
The bird of the heavens, and
The wild beast of the field, and Every creeping thing that creepeth on the ground, and
All the men, who are on the face of the ground,— and
The mountains |shall be torn asunder|, and
The steep places |shall sink down|, and ‖Every wall‖ <to the earth> shall be thrown.

21 Then will I call against him, every terror,[b]
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
‖The sword of every man‖ <against his brother> shall be;

22 Then will I contend with him, by pestilence and by blood,—
And <an overflowing downpour and hail-stones, fire and brimstone> will I rain Upon him, and Upon his hordes, and
Upon the many peoples who are with him.

23 So will I
Magnify myself, and Hallow myself, and
Make myself known,
Before the eyes of many nations,—
And they shall know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

39 1 ‖Thou‖ therefore, son of man,
Prophesy against Gog, and thou shalt say,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh:
Behold me! against thee, O Gog,
Prince[c] of Rosh, Meshech and Tubal.

2 Therefore will I turn thee about, and lead on, and cause thee to come up out of remote parts of the North,—
And will bring thee in upon the mount of Israel;

3 And I will smite thy bow, out of thy hand,—
And <thine arrows — out of thy hand> will I cause to fall.

4 <Upon the mountains of Israel> shalt fall,
‖Thou and all thy hordes, and the peo who are with thee‖,—
<To birds of prey of every wing, and the beast of the field> will I give thee food:

5 <Upon the face of the field> shalt fall,—
For ‖I‖ have spoken,
Declareth My Lord, Yahw eh.

6 And I will send a fire into Magog,
And among them who are dwelling i n the Coastlands, securely,—
So shall they know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh.

7 And <my holy' Name> will I make k nown in the midst of my people Israel,
And will not suffer my holy' Name to be profaned any more,—
So shall the nations know' that ‖I‖ am Yahweh,
Holy in Israel.

8 Lo! it is coming, and shall be brought t pass,
Declareth My Lord, Yahw h,—
‖The same‖ is the day whereof I had spoken.

9 Then shall go forth the dwellers of th cities of Israel, and shall make fires of the weapons and burn them,
Both buckler and shield, bow and arrows, and handstaff and spear,—
And shall make fires of them, seven years;

10 And they shall not take wood out of the field
Neither shall they cut down out of the forests,—
For <of the armour> shall they make fires,—
So shall they spoil those who spoiled them',
And prey on those who preyed on them',
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

11 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will give to Gog a place of memorial[b] for burial in Israel, even the valley of them that pass through east of the sea,
And it shall be enough to keep back them who would pass through,— and they shall bury there, Gog and all his multitude, and shall call it, Ge-hamon-gog.
[That is "The valley of the multitude of Gog."]

12 So shall the house of Israel bury them (that they may cleanse the land),—seven months;

[a] Or: "By my hallowing myself." [b] Or: "leader." [c] Some cod. (w. Aram. MS. and Syr.): "the many peoples." Cp. chap. xxxviii. 22—G.n. [b] So it shd be (w. Sep. and Vul.)—G.n.

13 Yea all the people of the land |shall bury|, and it shall become to them a memorial,—the day that I get myself glory,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
14 And <men to keep at it constantly[a]> shall they tell off, Men to pass throughout the land, who, with the passers-by, |shall continue burying| them who have been left on the face of the land, to cleanse it,— <At the end of seven months> shall they make search.
15 And <when any of the passers-by, in going through the land, shall see a human bone> then shall he set up near it a sign,—until the buriers |have buried it|, in Ge-hamon-Gog.
16 Moreover ‖the name of a city‖ shall be Hamonah ["To the multitude"], so shall they cleanse the land.

17 ‖Thou‖ therefore, son of man,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
Say to the bird of every wing,
And to every wild beast of the field,
Assemble yourselves and come,
Gather yourselves from every side, unto my sacrifice which I' am sacrificing for you, A great sacrifice, on the mountains of Israel,—
And ye shall eat flesh, and drink blood:
18 <The flesh of mighty men> shall ye eat,
And <the blood of the princes[b] of the earth> shall ye drink.—
Rams, well-fed lambs and he-goats, bullocks, Fatlings of Bashan, all
of them;
19 And ye shall eat fat till ye are sated,
And drink blood till ye are drunken,
Of my sacrifice which I have sacrificed
for you;
20 So shall ye be sated at my table, with horse and chariot team, mighty man, and every man of war,—
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

21 Thus will I set my glory among the nations,—
And all the nations |shall see|
My judgment, which I have executed,—and
My hand, which I have laid upon them.
22 So shall the house of Israel know' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ am their God,—from that day
and forward;
23 And the nations shall know'
That <in[c] their iniquity> were the house of Israel exiled' because they had committed treachery against me, And so I hid my face from them,— And gave them into the hand of their adversaries, And they fell by the sword, |all of
them|.
24 <According to their uncleanness and according to their transgressions> dealt I with them,— And so I hid my face from
them.

25 |Therefore|—
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
‖Now‖ will I bring back them of the captivity of Jacob,
And have compassion upon all the house of Israel,—
And will be jealous for my holy' Name;
26 And they shall bear their confusion, and the punishment of all their treachery,[a] wherewith they have committed treachery
against me,—
When they dwell upon their own soil securely, with none' to make them afraid;
27 When I have brought them back from among the peoples,
And gathered them out of the lands of their enemies,—
So will I hallow myself in them, before the eyes of the many nations;
28 And they shall know' that ‖I, Yahweh‖ am their God, When I have carried[b] them into exile among the nations, And shall then gather them upon their own soil,—
And shall no more leave any of them there.
29 Neither will I any more hide my face from them,— In that I have poured out my spirit[c] upon the house of Israel,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

§ 40. An Extraordinary Vision (chaps. xl.—xlviii.) of Restored Land, Tribal Portions, Temple, Priests, and Sacrifices, as to which the Conditioning Force of chap. xliii. 7—11 should not be overlooked.

40 1 <In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth of the month, in the fourteenth year, after the city |was smitten|> <on this selfsame day> came upon me the hand of Yahweh, and he brought me thither: 2 <In the visions of God> he brought me into the land of Israel,—and set me down upon an exceeding high mountain, and <thereupon> was, as it were, the structure of a city, on the south. 3 And <when he brought me thither> then lo! a man, whose appearance was like the appearance of bronze, with a flax-cord in his hand, and a measuring reed,—and he' was standing in the gate. 4 And the man |spake unto me| [saying],
Son of man,
See with thine eyes,
And <with thine ears> hear thou,
And apply thy heart' to whatsoever I' am about to show thee,
For <to the intent it might be shown thee> hast thou been brought hither,— Declare all that thou' seest unto the house of Israel.
5 And lo! a wall on the outside of the house, round about on every side,—and <in the hand of the man> was the measuring reed, six cubits by the cubit, and a handbreadth, so he measured the breadth of the enclosing-wall, one reed, and the height, one reed.

6 Then came he unto the gate that looked toward the east, and went up by the steps thereof,—and measured the threshold of the gate, one reed broad, and the other threshold, one reed broad. 7 And ‖the lodge‖ was one reed long, and one reed broad, and <between the lodges> was a space of five cubits,—and ‖the threshold of the gate from beside the porch of the gate inwards‖ was one reed. 8 Then measured he the porch of the gate inwards, one reed.[a] 9 Then measured he the porch of the gate, eight cubits, and the projections[b] thereof, two cubits,—and ‖the porch of the gate‖ was within. 10 And ‖the lodges of the gate that was towards the east‖ were, three on this side, and three on that side, <one measure> had they three',—and <one measure> had the projections, on this side and on that side. 11 Then measured he the breadth of the entrance of the gate, ten cubits—‖the length[c] of the gate‖, thirteen cubits. 12 And ‖the space before the lodges‖ was one cubit, and <one cubit> the space on that side; and ‖the lodge itself‖ was six cubits on this' side, and six cubits on that' side. 13 Then measured he the gate, from the roof of this lodge to the roof of that, a breadth of twenty-five cubits,—entrance over against entrance. 14 ‖Then measured[d] he the porch,[e] twenty[e] cubits,—even unto the projection of the court, the lodges[g] of the gate round about on every side; 15 and <from[f] the face of the gate outwards, unto the face of the porch of the inner gate> was fifty cubits. 16 And ‖latticed windows‖ had the lodges, even towards their projections within the gate, round about on every side, and ‖so‖ had the recesses, —and windows round about on every side inwards, and <against each projection> palm-trees.

17 Then he brought me into the outer court, and lo! chambers and a tesselated pavement, made to the court round about on every side,—thirty chambers against the pavement, 18 And ‖the pavement‖ was against the side of the gates, answering to the length of the gates,—the lower pavement. 19 Then measured he the breadth, from the front of the lower gate, to the front of the inner court on the outside, one hundred cubits,—to the east and the north. 20 And <as for the gate which looked towards the north, pertaining to the outer court> he measured the length thereof, and the breadth thereof. 21 And ‖the lodges[g] thereof‖ were three on this side, and three on that side, and ‖the projections[b] thereof and the recesses[h] thereof‖ were, according to the measure of the first gate, ‖fifty cubits‖ the length thereof, and ‖the breadth‖ twenty-five, by the cubit. 22 And ‖the windows[a] thereof and the recesses[b] thereof and the palm-trees[c] thereof‖ were according to the measure of the gate that looked toward the east,—and <by seven steps> they ascend it, and ‖their recesses‖[b] were within.[d] 23 And ‖the gate to the inner court‖ was over against the gate, to the north and to the east,—so he measured from gate to gate, one hundred cubits.

24 Then he took me toward the south, and lo! ‖a gate‖ toward the south,—and he measured the projections[e] thereof, and the recesses[b] thereof, according to these measures. 25 And ‖windows‖ were there to it, and the recesses[b] thereof round about on all sides, like these windows,—‖fifty cubits‖ in length, and <in breadth> five-and-twenty cubits. 26 And ‖seven steps‖ the ascents thereof, with its recesses[b] within,[d]—and it had ‖palm trees‖ one on this side and one on that side, against[f] the projections[e] thereof. 27 And ‖a gate‖ had the inner court, towards the south,—so he measured from gate to gate, toward the south, a hundred cubits. 28 Yea <when he brought me to the inner court through the south gate> then measured he the south gate, according to these measures; 29 and ‖the lodges[g] thereof, and the projections[e] thereof, and the recesses[b] thereof‖ were according to these measures, and ‖windows‖ were there to it, and to the recesses thereof, round about on every side,—‖fifty cubits‖ in length, and <in breadth> twenty and five cubits; 30 and [there were] recesses, round about on every side,—‖in length‖ five and twenty cubits, and ‖in breadth‖ five cubits;[h] 31 and ‖the recesses[b] thereof‖ [reached] unto the outer court, with ‖palm-trees‖ against[f] the projections[e] thereof, and ‖eight steps‖ were the ascents[i] thereof.

32 And <when he brought me unto the inner court toward the east> then measured he the gate, according to these measures; 33 and the lodges[g] thereof, and the projections[e] thereof, and the recesses[b] thereof, according to these measures, and ‖windows‖ were there to it and to the recesses[b] thereof, round about on every side,—‖in length‖ fifty cubits, and ‖in breadth‖ five and twenty cubits; 34 and ‖the recesses[b] thereof‖ [reached] to the outer court, with ‖palm-trees‖ against the projections[e] thereof, on this side and on that side,—and ‖eight steps‖ were the ascents[i] thereof.

35 And <when he brought me to the north gate> then measured he according to these measures: 36 the lodges[g] thereof, the projections[a] thereof, and the recesses[b] thereof, with ‖windows‖ to it round about on every side,—‖in length‖ fifty cubits, and ‖in breadth‖ five and twenty cubits; [37] and ‖the recesses[c] thereof‖ [reached] unto the outer court, with ‖palm-trees‖ against the projections thereof, on this side and on that side,—and ‖eight steps‖ were the ascents[d] thereof. [38] And there was a chamber with its entrance, within the projections[e] at the gates,— <there> shall they rinse the ascending-sacrifice. [39] And <in the porch of the gate> were two tables, on this side, and two tables, on that side,—to slay thereon, the ascending-sacrifice, and the sin-bearer, and the guilt-bearer. [40] And <at the side without, in ascending to the entrance of the north gate> were two tables,—and <at the other side which pertaineth to the porch of the gate> were two tables. [41] ‖Four tables‖ on this side and ‖four tables‖ on that side, by the side of the gate,—‖eight tables‖ whereupon they shall slay. [42] And ‖the four tables for the ascending-offering‖ were of hewn stone, <in length> one cubit and a half, and <in breadth> one cubit and a half, and <in height> one cubit,—that <thereon> they may lay the instruments wherewith they shall slay the ascending-offering and the sacrifice. [43] And there were ‖hooks of one hand-breadth‖ fastened within, round about on every side,—and <upon the tables> the flesh of the offering. [44] And <on the outside of the inner gate> were the chambers[f] of the singers, in the inner court, which[g] was at the side of the north gate, and ‖their front‖[h] was toward the south,—‖one‖ at the side of the south[i] gate, fronting[h] toward the north. [45] Then spake he unto me [saying],

‖This chamber, whose front is toward the south‖, is for the priests' keeping the charge of the house; [46] and ‖the chamber whose front is towards the north‖ is for the priests keeping the charge of the altar,—‖the same‖ are the sons of Zadok,[k]—who draw near, from among the sons of Levi, unto Yahweh, to wait upon him.

[47] Then measured he the court, ‖the length‖ a hundred cubits, and ‖the breadth‖ a hundred cubits, foursquare,—with the altar before the house.

[48] And <when he brought me unto the porch of the house> then measured he the projection of the porch, ‖five cubits‖ on this' side, and ‖five cubits‖ on that' side,—and ‖the breadth of the gate‖[l] was three cubits on this' side, and three cubits on that' side: [49] ‖the length of the porch‖ was twenty cubits, and ‖the breadth‖ twelve[l] cubits, and by ten steps[a] they ascend into it,—and there were pillars against the projections, ‖one‖ on this' side, and ‖one‖ on that' side.

41 [1] Then he took me unto the temple,—and measured the projection,[b] six cubits broad on this side and six cubits broad on that side, the breadth of the tent. [2] And ‖the breadth of the entrance‖ was ten cubits, and ‖the sides of the entrance‖ were five cubits on this' side, and five cubits on that' side —and he measured the length thereof, forty cubits, and the breadth, twenty cubits.

[3] Then went he inwards, and measured the projection of the entrance, two cubits,—and ‖the entrance itself‖ was six cubits, and ‖the sides[c] of the entrance‖ seven cubits: [4] so he measured the length thereof twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits, at the front of the temple.

[5] Then said he unto me,

‖This‖ is the holy of holies.

Then measured he the wall of the house six cubits,—and the breadth of the side-chamber, four cubits round about on every side of the house, round about. [6] And ‖the side-chambers, one over another‖ were three, and that thirty times, and they entered into the wall which pertained to the house for the side-chambers round about on every side, that they might have support,—and yet not have support in the wall of the house itself. [7] And there was a broadening and a winding about higher and higher to the side-chambers, for ‖the circuit of the house‖ was higher and higher round about on every side of the house, ‖for this cause‖ was there a broadening of the house upwards,—and <from[d] the lower> one ascended to the higher, by that which was in the middle. [8] Then saw I that the house had a height round about on every side,—the foundations of the side-chambers, a full reed, six cubits, to the joining. [9] ‖The breadth of the wall which pertained to the side-chamber on the outside‖ was five cubits,—and that which was left vacant between[d] the side-chambers which pertained to the house. [10] And <between the chambers> was a breadth of twenty cubits round about the house, ‖round about on every side‖. [11] And the entrance of the side-chamber‖ was at the vacant space, ‖one entrance‖ toward the north, and ‖another entrance‖ toward the south,—and ‖the breadth of the place left vacant‖ was five cubits round about on every side. [12] And ‖the building which was toward the front of the secluded place on the side toward the west‖ was [in breadth] seventy cubits, and ‖the wall of the building‖ was five cubits in breadth round about on every side,—and ‖the length thereof‖ ninety cubits. [13] And he measured ‖the house‖, <in length> a hundred cubits,—and ‖the secluded place and the structure and the walls thereof‖,

<in length> a hundred cubits. 14 And ‖the breadth of the front of the house and the secluded place toward the east‖, a hundred cubits. 15 And he measured the length of the building against the front of the secluded place which was over the hinder part thereof and the galleries thereof on this side and on that side, a hundred cubits,—with the inner[a] temple and the porches of the court: 16 the entrance spaces and the latticed windows and the galleries round about their three stories, over against the entrance spaces wainscoted with wood, round about on every side,—and from[b] the ground up to the windows, and ‖the windows‖ were covered; 17 <unto the space above the entrance even unto the inner house and without and against all the wall round about on every side within and without> were the measures. 18 And it was made with cherubim and palm-trees,—with ‖a palm-tree‖ between cherub and cherub, and ‖two faces‖ had each cherub; 19 and ‖the face of a man‖ was toward the palm-tree on this' side, and ‖the face of a young lion‖ was toward the palm-tree on that side,—[thus was it] made unto all the house, round about on every side. 20 <From the ground as far as the space above the entrance>[c] were ‖the cherubim and the palm-trees‖ made.[d] 21 <As for the wall of the temple>[d] ‖the door-posts‖ were squared,—and <as for the face of the holy place> ‖the appearance‖ was like the appearance [of the temple].

22 ‖The altar‖ was of wood, three cubits in height, and ‖the length thereof‖ two cubits, and ‖the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls thereof‖ were of wood,—then spake he unto me [saying],

‖This‖ is the table, which is before Yahweh.

23 And there were <two doors> to the temple, and to the holy place; 24 and two leaves[e] to the doors,—two folding leaves, ‖two‖ to the one' door, and ‖two‖ to the other' door. 25 And there had been made' unto them, unto the doors of the temple, cherubim and palm-trees, like as had been made to the walls,—and thick beams of wood unto the front of the porch without. 26 And there were ‖latticed windows and palm-trees‖ on this' side and on that' side, unto the sides of the porch,—and [unto] the side-chambers of the house and the thick beams.

42 1 Then he took me forth unto the outer court, the way toward the north,—and brought me unto the chamber which was over against the secluded place and which was over against the enclosing-wall, towards the north. 2 <Facing the length of the hundred cubits> was the entrance of the north,—and ‖the breadth‖ was fifty cubits: 3 <over against the twenty which pertained to the inner court, and over against the pavement which pertained to the outer court> was gallery facing gallery, by the thirties; 4 and <before the chambers> was a walk ten cubits in breadth inward, a way of one cubit,—and ‖their entrances‖ were to the north.

5 Now ‖the highest chambers‖ were shortened,—because the galleries took away therefrom, more than from the lowest or from the middle, in structure. 6 For <three stories> they were'; and had not' pillars like the pillars of the courts; <for this cause> it differed from the lowest and from the middle, from the ground.

7 And <as for the wall that was without, answering to the chambers, toward the outer court, facing the chambers> ‖the length thereof‖ was fifty cubits. 8 For ‖the length of the chambers which pertained to the outer court ‖was fifty cubits,—and lo! in front of the temple, a hundred cubits. 9 And <from under these chambers> was the entry from[a] the east when one goeth in by them' from the outer court. 10 <In the thickness of the wall of the court toward the east facing the secluded place and facing the enclosing wall> were chambers.

11 And ‖the way before them‖ was like the appearance of the chambers which were toward the north, <as was their length> ‖so‖ was their breadth,—and ‖all their exits‖ were both according to their regulations, and according to their entrances. 12 And <according to the entrances of the chambers which were toward the south> was the entrance at the head of the way—the way in the face of the covered wall, the way toward the east in entering them.

13 Then said he unto me,

<The chambers of the north, the chambers of the south, which face the secluded place> ‖they‖ are the holy chambers,[b] where the priests who draw near to Yahweh shall eat' the most holy things; <there> shall they lay the most holy things, and the meal-offering and the sin-bearer and the guilt-bearer, for ‖the place‖ is |holy|.

14 <When the priests enter' them> then shall they not go forth out of the holy place into the outer court, but <there> shall they lay their garments wherein they minister, for ‖holy‖ they are', and shall put on other garments, and so draw near unto that which pertaineth to the people.

15 And <when he had ended the measurings of the inner house> then he brought me forth by way of the gate which looked toward the east,—and measured it, round about on every side.

16 He measured the east side with the measuring reed,—five hundred reeds by the measuring reed, round about. 17 He measured the north side,—five hundred reeds, by the measuring reed, round about. 18 <The south side> measured he,—five hundred reeds, by the measuring reed. 19 He turned about to the west side,—he measured five hundred reeds, by the measuring reed. 20 <Toward the four winds>[c] measured he it,  had it round about on every side, ‖in length‖ five hundred, and ‖in breadth‖ five hundred,—to make a separation, between the holy and the common.

43 1 Then he took me unto the gate,—even the gate that looked toward the east; 2 when lo! ‖the glory of the God of Israel‖ coming from the way of the east,—and ‖the sound of him‖ was as the sound of many waters, and ‖the earth‖ shone with his glory. 3 And it was like the appearance of the vision which I had seen, like the vision which I saw—when I came in to destroy the city, also ‖the visions‖ were like the vision which I saw by the river Chebar,—so I fell upon my face. 4 And ‖the glory of Yahweh‖ entered into the house,—by way of the gate which looked toward the east. 5 So then the spirit |lifted me up|, and brought me into the inner court,—and lo! the glory of Yahweh filled' the house. 6 Then heard I one speaking unto me, out of the house,—and ‖a man‖ there was, standing beside me. 7 Then said he unto me,

Son of man,

[This is] the place of my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, where I would dwell in the midst of the sons of Israel, to times age-abiding,—

But the house of Israel |must no more defile| my holy' Name, ‖They, nor their kings‖ by their unchastity, and by the carcases of their kings, in their high places.[a]

8 <When they placed—

Their' threshold by my' threshold, and their' door-post beside my' door-post,

With only ‖the wall‖ between me and them>

then defiled they my holy' Name by their abominations which they committed,

Wherefore I devoured them, in mine anger.

9 ‖Now‖ let them remove their unchastity, and the carcases of their kings, far from me,—

So will I make my habitation in the midst of them, to times age-abiding.

10 ‖Thou‖[b] son of man,

Declare the house |unto the house of Israel|,

That they may be put to the blush for their iniquities,—

Then let them measure the pattern.

11 And <when they have blushed for all that they have done> then—

<The form of the house,

And the arrangement thereof,

And the exits thereof,

And the entrances thereof,

And all the forms[c] thereof, and all the statutes thereof,

And all the forms[c] thereof, and all the laws[d] thereof> make thou known unto them,

And write[e] [it] before their eyes;

That they may keep—

All the forms thereof,

And all the statutes thereof,

And do them.

12 ‖This‖ shall be the law of the house,—

<Upon the top of the mountain> ‖all the boundary thereof round about on every side‖ [shall be] most holy,

Lo! ‖this‖ shall be the law of the house.

13 And ‖these‖ shall be the measures of the altar, in cubits, ‖a cubit‖ being a cubit and a handbreadth; and ‖the hollow‖ shall be a cubit, and ‖a cubit‖ the breadth, and ‖the boundary thereof unto the edge thereof round about‖ shall be a single span.

And ‖this‖ shall be the upper part[a] of the altar. 14 And <from the hollow of the ground unto the lower ledge> [shall be] two cubits, and ‖the breadth‖ one cubit,—and <from the smaller ledge unto the larger ledge> [shall be] four cubits, and ‖the breadth‖ a cubit. 15 And ‖the hearth‖ [shall be] four cubits,—and <from the hearth and upward> ‖the horns‖ [shall be] four. 16 And ‖the hearth‖ shall be twelve cubits in length, by ‖twelve‖ in breadth,—square in the four sides thereof.

17 And ‖the ledge‖ shall be fourteen in length, by fourteen in breadth, unto the four sides thereof,—and ‖the boundary round about it‖ shall be half a cubit, and ‖the hollow thereto‖ a cubit, round about, with ‖the steps thereof‖ looking toward the east.

18 Then said he unto me,

Son of man,

‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,

‖These‖ shall be the statutes of the altar, in the day when it is made,—for offering up thereon—an ascending-sacrifice, and for dashing[b] thereon—blood. 19 So then thou[c] shalt give unto the priests the Levites, those' who are of the seed of Zadok, who approach unto me,

Declareth My Lord Yahweh,

to wait upon me.—a young bullock, as a sin-bearer. 20 Then shalt thou take of the blood thereof, and place upon the four horns thereof, and on the four corners of the ledge, and on the boundary, round about,—and shalt cleanse it from sin, and put a propitiatory-covering over it. 21 Then shalt thou take the bullock bearing sin,[d]—and shalt burn it in the appointed place of the house, outside the sanctuary. 22 And <on the second day> shalt thou bring near a kid of the goats without defect, as a sin-bearer,—and they shall cleanse the altar from sin,[e] just as they cleansed it from sin with the bullock. 23 <When thou hast made an end of cleansing from sin> thou shalt bring near a young bullock without defect, and a ram out of the flock,

24 without defect; and shalt bring them near before Yahweh,—and the priests |shall cast over them| salt, so shall they cause them to go up as an ascending-sacrifice to Yahweh.
25 <Seven days> shalt thou offer a sin-bearing goat, for each day,—and  shall they offer.
26 <Seven days> shall they put a propitiatory-covering over the altar, and shall purify it,—and shall consecrate it.[a]
27 <When the days shall be accomplished> then shall it be, <on the eighth day and forward> that the priests shall offer upon the altar your ascending-sacrifices, and your peace-offerings.
And I will accept you,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

44 1 Then he brought me back, toward the outer' gate of the sanctuary, which looked toward the east,—but ‖it‖ was shut.
2 Then said Yahweh unto me,
‖This gate‖ <shut> shall remain,
It shall not be opened,
And ‖no man‖ shall enter thereby,
Because ‖Yahweh, God of Israel‖ doth enter thereby,— Therefore shall it remain—shut.
3 The prince! <as prince> ‖he‖ shall sit therein,
To eat food, before Yahweh,—
<By way of the porch of the gate> shall he go in, and
<By way thereof> shall he[b] come out.

4 Then he brought me in by way of the north' gate, unto the front of the house, and I looked, and lo! |the glory of Yahweh| filled' |the house of Yahweh|,— so I fell upon my face.
5 And Yahweh |said unto me|,
Son of man,
Apply thy heart,
And see with thine eyes,
And <with thine ears> hear thou,
All that I' am speaking with thee,
As to all the statutes of the house of Yahweh, and
As to all the laws[c] thereof,—
And thou shalt apply thy heart
To the entering in of the house,
With all the exits of the sanctuary.
6 So then thou shalt say unto the perverse [house], unto the house of Israel,
‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh:
Let it more than suffice you,
Out of all your abominations, O house of Israel:
7 That[a] ye brought in the sons of the foreigner,
Uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh,[b]
To be in my sanctuary, So that he profaned my house,—
That ye brought near as my food, the fat and the blood, And so they[c] brake my covenant—Among[d] all your abominations;
8 Neither kept ye the charge of my holy things,—
But ye did set [men] to be keepers of my charge in my sanctuary, for your own pleasure.[e]

9 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
No son of a foreigner,
Uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh,[b]
shall enter into my sanctuary,—of any son of a foreigner, who is in the midst of the sons of Israel.

10 But <as for the Levites,
Who went far from me, when Israel went astray,
Who went astray from me, after their manufactured gods>
Therefore shall they bear their iniquity.[f]
11 Yet shall they remain in my sanctuary
As attendants in charge at the gates of the house,—
And attending upon the house,—
‖They‖ shall slay the ascending-offering, and the sacrifice of the people,
And ‖they‖ shall stand before them, to wait upon them.
12 <Because they used to wait upon them, before their manufactured gods, and became to the house of Israel a stumbling-block of iniquity>
‖For this cause‖ have I lifted up my hand concerning them,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh,
and they shall bear their iniquity;
13 So then they shall not come near unto me,
To minister as priests unto me,
Nor come near unto any of my holy things,
As regardeth things most holy,[g]—
But they shall bear their rebuke, and their abominations[h] which they have committed;
14 Yet will I make them keepers of the charge of the house,—
As to all the labour thereof, and
As to all which shall be done therein.

Who kept the charge of my sanctuary—

when the sons of Israel went astray from me>
‖They‖ shall draw near unto me, to wait upon me,—
And shall stand before me, to bring near unto me the fat and the blood,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh:
16 ‖They‖ shall enter into my sanctuary, and ‖They‖ shall draw near unto my table, to wait upon me,—
So shall they keep my charge.
17 And it shall be <when they shall enter into the gates of the inner court> ‖Garments of linen‖ shall they put on,— Yea there shall come upon them no wool, when they minister in the gates of the inner court, and within:
18 ‖Chaplets of linen‖ shall be upon their head, and ‖Breeches of linen‖ shall be upon their loins,—
They[a] shall not gird themselves, so as to perspire.[b]
19 And <when they go forth into the outer court, into the outer court unto the people>
They shall put off their garments, wherein they' do minister, and lay them in the chambers of the holy place,—
And shall[c] put on other garments, That they may not hallow the people by their garments.
20 And <their heads> shall they not shave, Nor let ‖the hair‖ grow long,— They shall ‖only poll‖ their heads.
21 And <wine> shall no priest drink,—when they enter into the inner court.
22 <Neither widow nor divorced woman> shall they take to them to wife,—
But <virgins of the seed of the house
of Israel,
Or a widow who shall be the widow of a priest> shall they take.
23 And <my people> shall they instruct, between the holy and the common,—
And <between the unclean and the clean> shall they cause them to distinguish.
24 And <in a controversy>[d]
‖They‖ shall stand up for justice,[e]
<With my judgments> shall they judge it,—
And <my laws and my statutes in all mine appointed assemblies> shall they observe,
And <my sabbaths> shall they hallow.
25 And <unto no dead person>[f] shall they go in, to defile themselves,— Save that <for father or for mother or for son or for daughter, for[a] brother, or for sister who hath belonged to no husband> they may defile themselves.
26 Yet <after he is cleansed> ‖seven days‖ shall they count to him.
27 And <in the day when he entereth into the sanctuary, into the inner court to minister in the sanctuary> He shall bring near his sin-bearer,
Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.
28 So shall it become to them an inheritance, ‖I‖ am their inheritance,—
And <possession> shall ye not give them in Israel, ‖I‖ am their possession.
29 <As for the meal-offering and the sin-bearer and the guilt-bearer> ‖they‖ shall eat
them,—
And ‖everything devoted in Israel‖ <to them> shall belong.
30 And ‖the first of all the firstfruits of everything, and every heave-offering of everything, from among all your heave-offerings‖ <to the priests> shall it[c] belong,—
<The first of your meal> shall ye give to the priest, To cause a blessing to rest upon thy house.
31 ‖Nothing that died of itself or was torn in pieces, of bird or of beast‖ shall be eaten' by the priests.[d]

45 1 And <when ye shall by lot divide the land as an inheritance> ye shall offer up as a heave-offering to Yahweh a holy portion out of the land, <in length> five and twenty thousand long, and <in breadth> twenty[e] thousand, —‖holy‖ shall it be throughout all the territory thereof round about. 2 There shall be, <out of this, for the holy place> five hundred by five hundred, four-square round about, —and fifty cubits, as an open space to it, round about. 3 And <out of this measure> shalt thou measure, a length of five and twenty thousand, and a breadth of ten thousand,—and <therein> shall be the sanctuary, the holy of holies: 4  it is, <for the priests who wait in the sanctuary> shall it be, who draw near to wait upon Yahweh, —so shall it be theirs, as a place for houses, and a sanctuary, for the sanctuary. 5 And <five and twenty thousand> in length, and <ten thousand> in breadth,—and it shall be for the Levites who wait upon the house, theirs as a possession of cities to dwell in.[f] 6 And <the possession of the city> shall ye give, <five thousand> in breadth, and <in length> five and twenty thousand, answering to the heave-offering of the holy portion,—<for all the house of Israel> shall it be. 7 And <to the prince—on this side and on that> shall belong [a portion] of the heave-offering of the holy portion and of the possession of the city, facing the heave-offering of the holy portion and facing the possession of the city, on the west side westward, and on the east side eastward, — and <in length> answering to one of the portions, from the west boundary to the east boundary. 8 <Of the land> it shall be his for a possession in Israel,—and so my princes shall no more oppress my people, but <the land itself> shall they give to the house of Israel, by their tribes.

9 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord Yahweh,
Let it more than suffice you, O princes of Israel,
<Violence and spoil> remove ye,
And[a] <justice and righteousness> execute,—
Lift off your acts of expulsion[b] from upon my people, Urgeth My Lord Yahweh.

10 <Balances of righteousness, and
An ephah of righteousness, and
A bath of righteousness> have ye:[c]

11 ‖The ephah and the bath‖ <of one fixed measure> shall be, <to contain the tenth of a homer> the bath',—and <the tenth of a homer> the ephah', <unto the homer> shall be the proportion thereof; 12 and ‖the shekel‖ shall be twenty gerahs,—<twenty shekels, five and twenty shekels, and fifteen shekels> ‖the weight‖ shall be to you.

13 ‖This‖ is the heave-offering which ye shall offer up,—
‖The sixth of an ephah‖ out of a homer of wheat, and
‖The sixth[d] of an ephah‖, out of a homer of barley;

14 And ‖the statutory portion of oil‖ shall be—per bath for oil—a tenth part of a bath, out of a cor,[e] which is ten baths, even a homer; for ‖ten baths‖ are a homer.

15 And one lamb out of the flock, out of two hundred, out of the watered pastures of Israel, for a gift, and for an ascending-sacrifice, and for peace-offerings,— To put a propitiatory-covering over them, Declareth My Lord Yahweh.

16 ‖All the people of the land‖ shall give to this heave-offering,—for the prince in Israel.

17 But <on the prince himself> shall rest the ascending-sacrifices, and the meal-offering, and the drink-offering, on the festivals, and on the new moons, and on the sabbaths, in[a] all the appointed meetings of the house of Israel,—‖he‖ shall offer the sin-bearer, and the meal-offering, and the ascending-sacrifice, and the peace-offerings, To put a propitiatory-covering about the house of Israel.

18 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord Yahweh,
<In the first month, on the first day of the month> shalt thou take a young bullock, without defect,—and shalt cleanse the sanctuary from sin; 19 then shall the priest take' of the blood of the sin-bearer, and put upon the door-posts of the house, and upon the four corners of the ledge of the altar, and upon the door-posts of the gate of the inner court. 20 And ‖so‖ shalt thou do in the seventh of the month,[b] for any man that wavereth or is of feeble mind,—so shall ye cleanse the house by propitiation.

21 <In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month> shall ye have the passover, —a festival of seven days,[c] ‖unleavened cakes‖ shall be eaten; 22 therefore shall the prince offer', on that day, for himself, and for all the people of the land,—a bullock as a sin-bearer; 23 and <the seven days of the festival> shall he offer as an ascending-sacrifice to Yahweh, seven bullocks and seven rams without defect, daily, for the seven days,—and <as a sin-bearer> a young goat, daily; 24 and  shall be offer, — and <of oil> a hin to an ephah. 25 <In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month, throughout the festival> he shall offer like these, seven days,—like the sin-bearer, like the ascending-sacrifice, and like the meal-offering, and like the oil.

46 1 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord Yahweh,
‖The gate of the inner court which looketh toward the east‖ shall be shut, the six days of work,—but <on the sabbath-day> shall it be opened, and <on the day of the new moon> shall it be opened. 2 The prince therefore shall enter by way of the porch of the gate without, and shall stand by the post of the gate, and the priests shall offer his ascending-sacrifice, and his peace-offerings, and he shall bow down upon the threshold of the gate, and then go forth,—but ‖the gate‖ shall not be shut until the evening; 3 and the people of the land [shall bow down] at the entrance of that gate on the sabbaths, and at the new moons,—before Yahweh.

4 And ‖the ascending-sacrifice which the prince

8 And <when the prince shall enter'> <by way of the porch of the gate> shall he go in, and <by way thereof> shall he[a] go out. 9 But <when the people of the land shall enter' before Yahweh on the appointed feasts> ‖he that entereth by way of the north' gate to bow down‖ shall go forth by way of the south' gate, and ‖he that entereth by way of the south gate‖ shall go forth by way of the north' gate,—he shall not return by way of the gate by which he entered, but <straight-forward> shall he[b] go forth. 10 But ‖as for the prince‖ <in their midst when they' enter> shall he enter, and <when they' go forth> shall he[c] go forth. 11 And <in the festivals and in the appointed feasts> ‖the meal-offering‖ shall be an ephah to a bullock, and an ephah to a ram, but <to the he-lambs> as one is able to give,—and <of oil> a hin to an ephah.

12 And <when the prince would offer, as a free-will offering, an ascending-sacrifice or peace-offerings,[d] as a free-will offering to Yahweh> then shall be opened to him, the gate that looketh to the east, and he shall offer his ascending-sacrifice and his peace-offerings,[d] just as he would offer on the sabbath' day,—and <when he shall go forth> then shall one shut the gate, after he hath gone forth.

13 And  shalt thou offer as an ascending-sacrifice daily, unto Yahweh,— <morning by morning shalt thou offer it. 14 And  shalt thou offer thereupon,[e] morning by morning, of the sixth of an ephah, and <of oil> the third part of an hin, to moisten the fine meal,—a meal-offering to Yahweh, age-abiding statutes continually. 15 Thus[f] shall they offer the he-lamb and the meal-offering and the oil, morning by morning,—a continual ascending-sacrifice.

16 ‖Thus‖ saith My Lord, Yahweh,
‖When the prince would bestow' a gift upon any one of his sons‖ <his own inheritance> shall it be, <for his sons> shall it remain,—<their possession> shall it be, by way of inheritance. 17 But <when he would bestow a gift out of his inheritance, on any one of his servants>, it shall remain his' until the year of liberation, then shall it return to the prince,—surely it is the inheritance of his sons[a] ‖theirs‖ shall it remain. 18 So then the prince |shall not take| of the inheritance of the people, to oppress them out of their possession, <out of his own possession> shall he give an inheritance to his sons,—to the end that my people be not scattered, any one out of his possession.

19 Then he brought me in through the entrance which was by the side of the gate, into the chambers of the holy place for the priests, those facing the north,—and lo! there' a place, in the hinder parts westwards. 20 Then said he unto me,—
‖This‖ is the place where the priests |shall boil| the guilt-bearer, and the sin-bearer,—where they shall bake the meal-offering, that one may not carry them forth into the outer court, to hallow the people.[b]
21 So he caused me to go out into the outer court, and then made me pass through into the four corners of the court,—and lo! ‖a court‖ in each corner of the court: 22 <in the four corners of the court> were courts covered over, forty long and thirty broad: <of one measure> were those four.[c] 23 And there was an enclosure round about in them, round about to those four,—and ‖boiling places‖ had been made under the enclosures, round about. 24 And he said unto me,—
‖These‖ are the places of them who boil, where they who wait upon the house, shall boil' the sacrifice of the people.

47 1 Then he brought me back unto the entrance of the house, and lo! ‖waters‖ coming forth from under the threshold of the house, eastward, because ‖the front of the house‖ was to the east,—and ‖the waters‖ were coming down from beneath, from the right side of the house, on the south of the altar. 2 Then he brought me out by way of the north gate, and took me round by an outer way, unto an outer gate, that which looketh eastward,—and lo! ‖waters‖ trickling forth out of the right side. 3 <When the man went forth with a
